7 And David will take the shields of gold which were upon the servants of Hadadezer, and he will bring them to Jerusalem.

9 And Toi, king of Hamath will hear that David smote all the strength of Hadadezer;

10 And Toi will send Joram his son to king David to ask him for peace and to bless him, because he fought with Hadadezer and struck him; (for Hadadezer was a man of war with Toi.) And in his hand were vessels of silver and vessels of gold and vessels of brass:

11 Also king David consecrated them to Jehovah with the silver and the gold, which he consecrated from all the nations which he subdued:

12 From Aram, and from Moab, and from the sons of Ammon, and from the rovers, and from Amalek, and from the spoil of Hadadezer, son of Rehob, king of Zobah.

13 And David will make a name in his turning back from his smiting Aram in the valley of salt, eighteen thousand.

14 And he will put garrisons in Edom; in all Edom he put garrisons, and all Edom will be servants to David. And Jehovah will save David in all which he went 15 And David will reign over all Israel; and David will be doing judgment and justice to all his people.

16 And Joab, son of Zeruiah, over the army; and Jehoshaphat, son of Ahilud, remembering.

17 And Zadok, son of Ahitub, and Ahimelech, son of Abiathar, the priests; and Seraiah, scribe.

18 And Benaiah, son of Jehoiada, and the Cherethites and the Pelethites: and the sons of David were priests.

2 SAMUEL CHAPTER 9

1 And David will say, Is there yet any which was left to the house of Saul? and I will do with him mercy for sake of Jonathan.

2 And to the house of Saul a servant and his name Ziba. And they will call for him to David, and the king will say to him, Thou Ziba? and he will say, Thy servant

3 And the king will say, Is there not yet a man to the house of Saul? and I will do with him the mercy of God. And Ziba will say to the king, Yet a son to Jonathan, smitten of the feet

4 And the king will say to him, Where is he? And Ziba will say to the king, Behold him in the house of Machir, son of Ammiel, from Lo-De-bar.

5 And king David will send and take him from the house of Machir, son of Ammiel, from Lo-Debar.

6 And Mephibosheth, son of Jonathan, son of Saul, will come to David and fall upon his face and worship him. And David will say, Mephibosheth. And he will say, Behold thy servant.

7 And David will say to him, Thou shalt not fear, for doing, I will do with thee mercy for sake of Jonathan thy father; and I turned back to thee all the field of Saul thy father; and thou shalt eat bread upon my table always.

8 And he will worship him and say, What is thy servant that thou didst look to a dead dog which is like me?

9 And the king will call for Ziba the boy of Saul, and say to him, All which was to Saul and to all his house I gave to the son of thy lord.

10 And work for him the land, thou and thy sons, and thy servants, and bring in and it being bread for the son of thy lord, and they shall eat: and Mephibosheth, son of thy lord, shall eat always bread upon my table. And to Ziba, fifteen sons and twenty servants.

11 And Ziba will say to the king, According to all which my lord the king will command, so will thy servant do. And Mephibosheth ate at my table as one of the sons of the king.

12 And to Mephibosheth a little son, and his name Micha And all dwelling in the house of Ziba, servants to Mephibosheth.

13 And Mephibosheth dwelt in Jerusalem; for at the king's table be always ate; and he was lame in his two feet.

2 SAMUEL CHAPTER 10

1 And it will be after this, and the king of the sons of Ammon will die, and Hanun his son will reign in his stead.

2 And David will say, I will do mercy with Hanun son of Nahash, as his father did mercy with me. And David will send to comfort him by the hand of his servants for his father. And David's servants will come to the land of the sons of Ammon.

3 And the chiefs of the sons of Ammon will say to Hanun their lord, Is David honoring thy father in thine eyes, that he sent comforters to thee? is it not for the sake of searching out the city, and to spy it out, and to overthrow it, David sent his servants to thee?

4 And Hanun will take David's servants, and shave half their beard, and cut off their garments in the half, even to their buttocks, and he will send them away.

5 And they will announce to David, and he will send to meet them, for the men were greatly shamed. And the king will say, Sit down in Jericho till your beards spring up, and turn back

6 And the sons of Ammon will see that they became loathsome before David, and the sons of Ammon will send and hire Aram of the house of Rehob, and Aram of Zobah, twenty thousand footmen, and king Maacah a thousand men, and Ish-Tob two thousand men.

7 And David will bear, and he will send Joab and all the army of the strong.

8 And the sons of Ammon will go forth and they will arrange the battle at the opening of the gate: and Aram of Zobah and Rehob and Ish-Tob, and Maacah by themselves in the field.

9 And Joab will see that the face of the battle was against him from before and from behind, and he will choose from all the chosen in Israel and will arrange for the meeting of Aram:

10 And the remainder of the people he gave into the hand of Abishai his brother, and he will arrange to meet the sons of Ammon.

11 And he will say, If Aram shall be strong above me, and be thou to me for deliverance: and if the sons of Ammon shall be strong above thee, and I came for deliverance to thee.

12 Be strong, and we will be strong for our people, and for the cities of our God: and Jehovah shall do the good in his eyes.

13 And Joab will draw near, and the people which were with him, to battle against Aram: and they will flee from his face.

14 And the sons of Ammon saw that Aram fled and they will flee from the face of Abishai, and come into the city. And Joab will turn back from the sons of Ammon and come to Jerusalem.

15 And Aram will see that he was smitten before Israel, and they will be gathered together.

16 And Hadadezer will send and will bring forth Aram that was beyond the river: and they will come to Helam and Shobach, chief of the army of Hadadezer, before them.

17 And it will be announced to David, and he will gather together all Israel, and he will pass over Jordan and will come to Helam. And Aram will arrange to meet David, and they will war with him.

18 And Aram will flee from the face of Israel; and David will kill from Aram seven hundred chariots and forty thousand horsemen, and Shobach chief of his army he struck, and he will die there.

19 And all the kings, servants of Hadadezer, will see that they were smitten before Israel, and they will be at peace with Israel, and serve them. And Aram will be afraid yet to save the sons of Ammon.

2 SAMUEL CHAPTER 11

1 And it will be at the return of the year, at the time of the going forth of kings, and David will send Joab, and his servants with him, and all Israel; and they will destroy the sons of Ammon, and they will watch closely against Rabbah And David will dwell in Jerusalem.

2 And it will be at the time of the evening, and David will rise from off his bed, and will go upon the roof of the king's house: and he will see from the roof a woman washing herself; and the woman good of aspect exceedingly.

3 And David will send and seek for the woman, and say, Is not this Bath-Sheba, daughter of Eliam, the wife of Uriah the Hittite?

4 And David will send messengers and take her: and she will come in to him, and he will lie with her; (and she being consecrated from her uncleanness:) and she will turn back to her house.

5 And the woman will conceive, and send and announce to David, and say, I am pregnant

6 And David will send to Joab, Send to me Uriah the Hittite. And Joab will send Uriah to David.

7 And Uriah will come to him, and David will ask for peace of Joab, and for the peace of the people, and for the peace of the host

8 And David will say to Uriah, Go down to thy house and wash thy feet And Uriah will go forth from the house of the king and a loan of the king will go forth after him.

9 And Uriah will lie at the door of the house of the king with all the servants of his lord, and will not go down to his house.

10 And they will announce to David, saying Uriah went not down to his house; and David will say to Uriah, Camest thou not from the way? wherefore wentest thou not down to thy house?

11 And Uriah will say to David, The ark, and Israel, and Judah, dwell in tents; and my lord Joab and the servants of my lord are encamping upon the face of the field; and shall I come into my house to eat and to drink and to lie with my wife? Thee living and thy soul living, if I shall do this word.

12 And David will say to Uriah, Dwell here also this day, and to-morrow I will send thee away. And Uriah dwelt in Jerusalem in that day and from the morrow.

13 And David will call for him, and he will eat before him and drink; and he will make him drunk: and he will go forth in the evening to lie upon his bed with the servants of his lord; and he will not go down to his house.

14 And it will be in the morning, and David will write a letter to Joab, and send by the hand of Uriah.

15 And he will write in the letter: saying, Bring in Uriah to the front of the face of the strong battle, and turn ye back from after him, and he shall be smitten and die.

16 And it will be in Joab's watching the city, and he will give Uriah to the place where he knew that strong men were there.

17 And the men of the city will go forth and fight with Joab: and there will fall of the people from the servants of David; and Uriah the Hittite also will die.

18 And Joab will send and announce to David all the words of the war;

19 And be will command the messenger, saying, When thou finishest all the words of the war to speak to the king,

20 And it being if the wrath of the king shall go up, and he say to thee, Wherefore drew ye near to the city to fight? did ye not know that they cast from above the wall?

21 Who struck Abimelech, son of Jerubbesheth? Did not a woman cast upon him a piece of the upper millstone from above the wall, and he will die in Thebez? Wherefore drew ye near to the wall? And say thou, Also thy servant, Uriah the Hittite died.

22 And the messenger will go, and come and announce to David all that for which Joab sent him.

23 And the messenger will say to David, That the men were strengthened upon us, and they came out to us to the field, and they were upon them, even to the door of the gate.

24 And they beholding, aimed at thy servants from above the wall: and from the servants of the king will die, and also thy servant, Uriah the Hittite died.

25 And David will say to the messenger, Thus shalt thou say to Joab, This same word shall not be evil in thine eyes, as this, and as this, the sword shall consume: strengthen thy battle against the city and pull it down: and strengthen yourselves.

26 And Uriah's wife will hear that Uriah her husband died, and she will mourn for her lord.

27 And the mourning will pass over, and David will send and take her to his house, and she will be to him for wife, and bear to him a son. And the word which David did will be evil in the eyes of Jehovah.

2 SAMUEL CHAPTER 12

1 And Jehovah will send Nathan to David. And he will come in to him and say to him, Two men were in one city.; one rich and one poor.

2 To the rich was sheep and oxen exceeding many:

3 And to the poor, not anything except one little ewe lamb which he found, and he will save it alive: and it will grow with him and with his sons together; it will eat from his morsel and will drink from his cup, and will lie in his bosom, and be to him as a daughter.

4 And a traveler will come to the rich man, and he will spare to take from his sheep and from his oxen to do for the wayfarer coming to him; and he will take the poor man's ewe lamb and do for the man coming to him.

5 And David's anger will kindle against the man greatly, and he will say to Nathan, Jehovah lives, for the man doing this is the son of death.

6 And the ewe lamb he shall requite four-fold, because he did this word, and because he spared not

7 And Nathan will say to David, Thou the man. Thus said Jehovah the God of Israel, I anointed thee for king over Israel, and I delivered thee from the hand of Saul;

8 And I will give thee the house of thy lord and thy lord's wives into thy bosom, and I will give to thee the house of Israel and Judah; and if little, I will add to thee according to these and according to these.

9 Wherefore didst thou despise the word of Jehovah to do evil in his eyes? Uriah the Hittite thou didst strike with the sword, and his wife thou tookest to thee for a wife, and thou didst kill him with the sword of the sons of Ammon.

10 And now the sword shall not depart from thy house even to forever; because that thou didst despise me, and thou wilt take the wife of Uriah the Hittite to be to thee for wife.

11 Thus said Jehovah, Behold me raising up evil against thee from thy house, and I took thy wives before thine eyes and gave to thy neighbor, and he lay with thy wives before the eyes of this sun.

12 For thou didst in secret: and I will do this word before all Israel, and before the sun.

13 And David will say to Nathan, I sinned against Jehovah. And Nathan will say to David, Jehovah also passed over thy sin; thou shalt not die.

14 Only that despising, thou didst cause the enemies of Jehovah to despise by this thing, also the son born to thee, dying, shall die.

15 And Nathan will go to his house. And Jehovah will strike the child which Uriah's wife bare to David and he will be sick.

16 And David will seek God for the boy, and fast a fast; and he came and passed the night and lay upon the earth.

17 And the old men of his house will rise to him to lift him up from the earth; and he would not, and he ate not bread with them.

18 And it will be in the seventh day, and the child will die. And David's servants feared to announce to him that the child died: for they said, Behold, in the child being living we spake to him and he heard not to our voice, and how shall we say to him the child died, and do evil?

19 And David will see that his servants are whispering, and David will perceive that the child died: and David will say to his servants, Did the child die? and they will say, He died.

20 And David will rise from the earth and wash, and be anointed, and he will change his garments, and will go into the house of Jehovah and worship, and go to his house; and he will ask and they will set bread to him, and he will eat.

21 And his servants will say to him, What this word which thou didst? for sake of the child living thou didst fast and weep, and when the child died thou didst rise and thou wilt eat bread.

22 And he will say, The child yet living, and I fasted and wept; for I said, ho will know Jehovah will compassionate me, and the child live?

23 And now he died, wherefore thus do I fast? shall I be able to yet turn him back? I go to him, and he will not turn back to me.

24 And David will comfort Bath-Sheba his wife, and will go in to her and lie with her, and she will bear a son, and he will call his name Solomon: and Jehovah loved him.

25 And he will send by the hand of Nathan the prophet; and he will call his name Jedidiah, for sake of Jehovah.

26 And Joab will fight against Rabbah of the sons of Ammon, and he will take the city of the kingdom.

27 And Joab will send messengers to David, and say, I fought against Rabbah, also I took the city of waters.

28 And now gather together the rest of the people and encamp against the city, and take it, lest I shall take the city, and my name was called upon it

29 And David will gather all the people together and go to Rabbah, and war against it and take it

30 And he will take the crown of their king from his head; and its weight a talent of gold and a precious stone; and it will be upon David's head. And he brought forth the spoil of the city exceeding much.

31 And the people which were in it he brought forth, and he will put at the saw and at the threshing-sledge of iron, and at axes of iron, and caused them to pass over through the brick-kiln: and thus he will do to all the cities of the sons of Ammon. And David will turn back, and all the people, to Jerusalem.

1 And it will be after this, and to Absalom son of David a fair sister, and her name Tamar; and Amnon, son of David, loved her.

2 And Amnon will be pressed to be sick for sake of Tamar his sister, for she was a virgin; and it will be hard in the eyes of Amnon to do anything to her.

3 And to Amnon a friend, and his name Jonadab, son of Shimeah, David's brother: and Jonadab a man exceeding wise.

4 And he will say to him, Wherefore thou so weak, son of the king, in morning by morning? wilt thou not announce to me? and Amnon will say to him, I love Tamar, my brother Absalom's sister.

5 And Jonadab will say to him, Lie upon thy bed and be sick, and thy father coming to see thee, and say to him, Now my sister Tamar shall come and give me to eat bread and make the food before mine eyes, so that I shall see and eat from her hand.

6 And Amnon will lie down and be sick: and the king will come to see him, and Amnon will say to the king, Will Tamar my sister come now, and she shall make before mine eyes two cakes, and I will eat from her hand.

7 And David will send to Tamar, saying, Go now to the house of Amnon thy brother, and make food for him.

8 And Tamar will go to the house of Amnon her brother, and he lay down. And she will take dough and knead, and make cakes before his eyes, and bake the cakes.

9 And she will take a frying-pan and pour out before him; and he will refuse to eat. And Amnon will say, Bring out every man from me. And they brought forth every man from him.

10 And Amnon will say to Tamar, Bring the cakes into the chamber, and I will eat from thine hand And Tamar will take the cakes which she made and bring to Amnon her brother into the chamber.

11 And she will bring near to him to eat, and he will lay hold upon her and say, Come lie with me, my sister.

12 And she will say to him, No, my brother, thou shalt not humble me; for so it shall not be done in Israel: thou shalt not do this folly.

13 And I, whither shall I cause my reproach to go? and thou wilt be as one of the foolish in Israel. And now, speak now, to the king, and he will not withhold me from thee.

14 And he would not hear to her voice; and he will be strong above her, and he will humble her and lie with her.

15 And Amnon will hate her with great hatred, greatly; for great the hatred which he hated her above the love which he loved her. And Amnon will say to her, Arise, go.

16 And she will say to him, No reasons: this evil great above the other which thou didst with me, to send me away. And he would not hear to her.

17 And he will call his boy serving him, and say, Send away now this from me without, and fasten the door after her.

18 And upon her a tunic reaching to the soles of the feet; for thus will the king's daughters, the virgins, be clothed with upper garments. And his attendant will bring her forth without, and he fastened the door after 19 And Tamar will take ashes upon her head, and she rent the tunic reaching to the feet which was upon her, and she will put her hand upon her head and will go, going and crying.

20 And Absalom her brother will say to her Was Amnon thy brother with thee? and now my sister be silent, he is thy brother; thou shalt not set thy heart to this word. And Tamar will remain, and she was desolate in the house of Absalom her brother.

21 And king David heard all the words and it will kindle to him greatly.

22 And Absalom spake not with Amnon, from evil and even to good: for Absalom hated Amnon for the word that he humbled Tamar his sister.

23 And it will be for two years of days, and shearers will be to Absalom in Baal-Hazor, which is with Ephraim: and Absalom will call for all the king's sons.

24 And Absalom will come to the king and say, Behold now, shearers to thy servant: now will the king go, and his servants, with thy servant?

25 And the king will say to Absalom, No, my son, not now will we all go, and we will not be heavy upon thee. And he will press upon him, and he would not go, and he will bless him.

26 And Absalom will say, And shall not Amnon my brother now go with us? And the king will say to him, Wherefore shall he go with thee?

27 And Absalom will press upon him, and he will send with him Amnon and all the king's sons.

28 And Absalom will command his boys, saying, See now, when the heart of Amnon is good with wine, and I said to you, Strike Amnon; and kill him; ye shall not be afraid, for I commanded you: be strong and be for sons of strength.

29 And Absalom's boys will do to Amnon as Absalom commanded. And all the king's sons will rise up and ride each upon his mule and flee.

30 And it will be they in the way, and the report came to David saying, Absalom struck all the king's sons and not one remaining of them.

31 And the king will rise and rend his garments, and will lie down upon the earth; and all his servants standing by with their garments rent.

32 And Jonadab, son of Shimeah, David's brother, will answer and say, My lord shall not say, All the boys, the king's sons, were slain; for Amnon alone died; for by the mouth of Absalom it was set from the day he humbled Tamar his sister.

33 And now my lord the king shall not set to his heart the word, saying, All the king's sons died; for only Amnon alone died.

34 And Absalom will flee. And the boy watching will lift up his eyes and see, and behold, much people coming from the way behind him from the side of the mountain.

35 And Jonadab will say to the king, Behold, the king's sons came; as thy servant spake, so it was.

36 And it will be as he finished to speak, and behold, the king's sons came, and they will lift up their voice and weep: and the king and all his servants wept a very great weeping.

37 And Absalom fled and went to Talmai, son of Ammihud, king of Geshur. And he will mourn for his son all the days.

38 And Absalom fled and went to Geshur, and he will be there three years.

39 And David the king was fixed to go forth to Absalom: for he was comforted for Amnon, for he died.

2 SAMUEL CHAPTER 14

1 And Joab son of Zeruiah, knew that the king's heart was for Absalom.

2 And Joab will send to Tekoah and take from thence a wise woman, and he will say to her, Thou shalt mourn, and put on now garments of mourning, and thou shalt not be anointed with oil, and be thou as a woman this many days mourning for the dead:

3 And come to the king and speak to him according to this word. And Joab will put words in her mouth.

4 And the woman, the Tekoite, will speak to the king and fall upon her face to the earth, and worship him, and say, Save, O king!

5 And the king will say to her, What to thee? And she will say, Truly I a widow woman, and my husband will die.

6 And to thy servant two sons, and they two will strive in the field, and none delivering between them; and the one will smite the one and kill him.

7 And behold, all the family rose up against thy servant, and they will say, Give him striking his brother and we will kill him for the soul of his brother whom he slew; and they destroyed also the heir, and quenched my coal which was left, so that name was not set to my husband and remainder upon the face of the earth.

8 And the king will say to the woman, Go to thy house and I will command concerning thee.

9 And the woman, the Tekoite, will say to the king, Upon me, my lord the king, the iniquity, and upon my father's house: and the king and his throne innocent

10 And the king will say, Who speaking to thee and bring him to me and he shall not add to touch upon thee.

11 And she will say, The king will remember now, Jehovah thy God, the nearest relation of blood being multiplied to destroy, and they shall not destroy my son. And he will say, Jehovah living, if there shall fall from the hair of thy son to the earth.

12 And the woman will say, Shall thy servant speak now a word to my lord the king? And the king will say, Speak.

13 And the woman will say, And wherefore didst thou reckon according to this concerning the people of God? for the king speaks this word as transgressing for the king not to turn back his fugitive.

14 For dying, we shall die, and as waters poured out on the earth, which will not be gathered; and God will not lift up the soul: and reckoning, he reckons that the fugitive shall not be driven out from him.

15 And now that I came to speak to the king my lord, this word, for the people will see me, and thy servant will say, I will speak now to the king, perhaps the king will do the word of his servant

16 For the king will hear to deliver his servant from the band of the man destroying me and my son together out of the inheritance of God.

17 And thy servant will say, Now will the word of my lord the king be for a sacrifice, for as a messenger of God, so my lord the king to hear the good and the evil: and Jehovah thy God will be with thee.

18 And the king will answer and say to the woman, Now thou shalt not hide from me the word which I ask thee. And the woman will say, Now will my lord the king speak?

19 And the king will say, The hand of Joab with thee in all this? And the woman will answer and say, Thy soul living, my lord the king, if there is to the right or to the left from all which my lord the king spake: for thy servant Joab he commanded me, and he put in the mouth of thy servant all these words.

20 For the sake of turning about the face of the word, thy servant Joab did this word: and my lord was wise according to the wisdom of a messenger of God, to know all which is upon the earth.

21 And the king will say to Joab, Behold now, I did this word: and go and turn back the boy Absalom.

22 And Joab will fall upon his face to the earth, and worship him, and bless the king: and Joab will say, This day thy servant knew that I found grace in thine eyes, my lord, O king, for that the king did the word of his servant

23 And Joab will rise and go to Geshur and bring Absalom to Jerusalem

24 And the king will say, He shall turn about to his house and not see my face. And Absalom will turn to his house and not see the face of the king.

25 And as Absalom there was not a fair man in all Israel to praise greatly: from the sole of his foot and even to his crown, there was not a blemish in him

26 And in his shaving his head (and it was from the end of days to days that he will shave, for it was heavy upon him;) and he shaved and weighed the hair of his head, two hundred shekels by the stone of the king.

27 And there will be born to Absalom three sons and one daughter, and her name Tamar: she was a woman of fair aspect

28 And Absalom dwelt in Jerusalem two years of days, and saw not the king's face.

29 And Absalom will send to Joab to send him to the king, and he would not come to him: and he will send yet the second time, and he would not come.

30 And he will say to his servants, See, Joab's portion to my hand, and barley to him there; go and set it on fire. And Absalom's servants set the portion on fire.

31 And Joab will rise and come to Absalom to the house, and say to him, Wherefore did thy servants set on fire the portion which is to me?

32 And Absalom will say to Joab, Behold, I sent to thee, saying, Come hither, and I will send thee to the king, saying, Wherefore came I from Geshur? Good to me even I was there: and now I will see the king's face; and if there is iniquity in me, and kill me.

33 And Joab will come to the king and announce to him: and he will call for Absalom, and he will come to the king and worship to him upon his face to the earth before the king: and the king will kiss Absalom.

2 SAMUEL CHAPTER 15

1 And it will be from after this, and Absalom will make to him. chariots and horses, and fifty men running before him.

2 And Absalom rose early and stood by the hand of the way of the gate: and it will be every man which shall be to him strife coming to the king for judgment, and Absalom will call to him and say, Where, from what city thou? And he will say, of one of the tribes of Israel is thy servant

3 And Absalom will say to him, See, thy words good and straight, and none to hear to thee from the king.

4 And Absalom will say, Who will set me judge in the land? and to me shall every man come which shall be to him strife and judgment, and I did him justice.

5 And it was in a man's coming near to worship to him, and he stretched forth his hand and laid hold of him, and kissed him.

6 And Absalom will do according to this word to all Israel who will come for judgment to the king: and Absalom will steal the heart of the men of Israel.

7 And it will be from the end of forty years, and Absalom will say to the king, I will go now and complete my vow which I vowed to Jehovah in Hebron.

8 For thy servant vowed a vow in my dwelling in Geshur in Aram, saying, If turning back, Jehovah shall turn me back to Jerusalem, and I served Jehovah.

9 And the king will say to him, Go in peace. And he will rise and go to Hebron.

10 And Absalom will send spies in all the tribes of Israel, saying, When ye heard the voice of the trumpet, and ye said, Absalom the king in Hebron.

11 And with Absalom went two hundred men from Jerusalem, being called; going uprightly, and they knew not any word.

12 And Absalom will send for Ahithophel the Gilonite, David's counsellor, from his city, from Giloh, in his sacrificing sacrifices. And the conspiracy will be strong; and the people went and a multitude with Absalom.

13 And he announcing, will come to David, saying, The heart of the man Israel was after Absalom.

14 And David will say to all his servants which are with him in Jerusalem, Arise, and we will flee, for escape will not be to us from the face of Absalom: hasten to go lest he shall hasten to hedge us in, and thrust evil upon us, and smite the city with the mouth of the sword.

15 And the king's servants will say to the king, According to all which my lord the king shall choose, behold thy servants.

16 And the king will go forth, and all his house at his feet. And the king will leave ten women, concubines, to watch the house.

17 And the king will go forth, and all the people at his feet, and they will stand in a house far off.

18 And all his servants passing by upon his hand; and all the Cherethites and all the Pelethites, and all the Gittites, six hundred men which came at his foot from Gath, passing by at the face of the king.

19 And the king will say to Ittai the Gittite, Wherefore wilt thou go, also thou, with us? turn back and dwell with the king, for thou a stranger and thou an exile to thy place.

20 Yesterday thy coming, and this day shall I cause thee to wander about to go with us? and I go where I go, turn back, and turn back thy brethren with thee mercy and truth.

21 And Ittai will answer the king, and say, Jehovah lives, and my lord the king lives, for surely in the place where my lord the king shall be, there whether for death, whether for life, for there will thy servant be.

22 And David will say to Ittai, Go and pass over. And Ittai the Gittite will pass over, and all his men, and all the little ones that are with him.

23 And all the land weeping with a great voice, and all the people passing over: and the king passed over upon the torrent Kidron, and all the people passing over upon the face of the way to the desert

24 And behold, also Zadok, and all the Levites with him, lifting up the ark of the covenant of God; and they placed the ark of God: and Abiathar will go up till all the people finished passing over from the city.

25 And the king will say to Zadok, Turn back the ark of God to the city: if I shall find grace in the eyes of Jehovah, and he turned me back, and caused me to see it and its rest

26 And if he say thus, I delighted not in thee; behold me, he will do to me as is good in his eyes.

27 And the king will say to Zadok the priest., Thou seest: turn back to the city in peace, and Ahimaaz thy son, and Jonathan son of Abiathar, your two sons with you.

28 See me lingering in Araboth of the desert till word come from you to announce to me.

29 And Zadok and Abiathar will turn back the ark of God to Jerusalem: and they will sit there.

30 And David went up in the ascent of the olive trees, going up and weeping, and the head to him covered, and he went barefoot: and all the people which were with him covered each his head, and they went up, going up and weeping.

31 And it was announced to David, saying, Ahithophel among those conspiring with Absalom. And David will say, Now make foolish the counsel of Ahithophel, O Jehovah.

32 And it will be David came even to the head where he will worship there to God, and behold, to his meeting, Hushai the Archite, his tunic rent and earth upon his head.

33 And David will say to him, If thou didst pass over with me thou wert for a burden to me.

34 And if to the city, thou shalt turn back and say to Absalom, I will be thy servant, O king; thy father's servant from then, and now thy servant: and thou didst frustrate for me the counsel of Ahithophel.

35 And is not with thee there Zadok and Abiathar the priests? and it being all the word which thou shalt hear from the king's house, thou shalt announce to Zadok and to Abiathar the priests

36 Behold there with them their two sons, Ahimaaz to Zadok, and Jonathan to Abiathar; and send by their hand to me every word which ye shall hear.

37 And Hushai, David's friend, will come to the city, and Absalom will come to Jerusalem.

2 SAMUEL CHAPTER 16

1 And David passed over a little from the head, and behold, Ziba, Mephibosheth's boy, to his meeting, and a pair of asses saddled, and upon them two hundred of bread and a hundred bunches of dried grapes, and a hundred of fruits, and a flask of wine.

2 And the king will say to Ziba, What are these to thee? and Ziba will say, The asses for the house of the king to ride; and the bread and the fruits for the food of the boys, and the wine for the drinking of the faint in the desert.

3 And the king will say, And where the son of thy lord? And Ziba will say to the king: Behold, he will dwell in Jerusalem: for he said, This day the house of Israel will turn back to me the kingdom of my father.

4 And the king will say to Ziba, Behold, to thee all which was to Mephibosheth. And Ziba will say, I worshiped; shall I find grace in the eyes of my lord the king?

5 And king David went to Bahurim, and behold, from thence a man will come forth from the family of the house of Saul, and his name Shimei, son of Gera: he came forth, coming forth and cursing.

6 And he will stone David with stones, and all the servants of king David: and all the people and all the mighty, from his right hand and from his left

7 And thus said Shimei in his cursing, Come forth, come forth, thou man of bloods and man of 8 Jehovah turned back upon thee Belial all the bloods of the house of Saul of whom thou didst reign in his stead; and Jehovah will give the kingdom into the hand of Absalom thy son; and behold thee in thine evil, for a man of bloods art thou.

9 And Abishai son of Zeruiah will say to the king, Wherefore shall this dead dog curse my lord the king? I will pass over now and take away his head.

10 And the king will say, What to me and you ye sons of Zeruiah? for he shall curse, and because Jehovah said to him, Curse David: and who shall say, Wherefore didst thou thus?

11 And David will say to Abishai and to all his servants, Behold my son who came forth from my bowels seeks my soul: and how much more now the son of the Jaminite? Leave to him and he shall curse, for Jehovah said to him.

12 Perhaps Jehovah will look upon my wrong, and Jehovah turn back to me good for his cursing this day.

13 And David went, and his men, in the way; and Shimei went by the side of the mountain near to him going, and he will curse and stone with stones near to him, and dusting with dust

14 And the king will come, and all the people which are with him, weary, and he will be refreshed there.

15 And Absalom and all the people, the man Israel, came to Jerusalem, and Ahithophel with him.

16 And it will be, as Hushai the Archite, David's friend, came to Absalom, and Hushai will say to Absalom, The king shall live, the king shall live.

17 And Absalom will say to Hushai, This thy mercy with thy friend? wherefore wentest thou not with thy friend?

18 And Hushai will say to Absalom, Nay; for whom Jehovah chose and this people, and every man of Israel, shall I not be and dwell with him?

19 And the second time, to whom shall I serve if not before the son? as I served before thy father so will I be before thee.

20 And Absalom will say to Ahithophel, Bring counsel to yourselves what we shall do.

21 And Ahithophel will say to Absalom, Come in to thy father's concubines which he left to watch the house; and all Israel hearing that thou madest thy father loathsome, and the hands of all that are with thee were strengthened.

22 And they will stretch out a tent for Absalom upon the roof, and Absalom will go in to his father's concubines before the eyes of all Israel.

23 And the counsel of Ahithophel which he counseled in those days, according as it will be asked in the word of God: thus all the counsel of Ahithophel also to David also to Absalom.

2 SAMUEL CHAPTER 17

1 And Ahithophel will say to Absalom, I will now choose twelve thousand men. and I will rise and pursue after David this night:

2 And I shall come upon him and he being weary and relaxed in hands, and I made him afraid: and all the people which are with him, fleeing; and I struck the king alone,

3 And I will turn back all the people to thee: as the turning back of all, the man whom thou seekest; and to all the people shall be peace.

4 And the word will be straight in the eyes of Absalom and in the eyes of all the old men of Israel.

5 And Absalom will say, Call now also for Hushai the Archite, and we will hear also, what is in his mouth.

6 And Hushai will come to Absalom, and Absalom will say to him, saying, According to this word spake Ahithophel: shall we do his word? if not, speak thou.

7 And Hushai will say to Absalom, The counsel which Ahithophel counseled is not good in this time.

8 And Hushai will say, Thou knewest thy father and his men that they are mighty, and they bitter of soul as a bear bereaved of offspring in the field: and thy father a man of war, and he will not lodge with the people.

9 Behold now, he hid in one of the pits, or in one of the places: and it being when there fell among them in the beginning, and he hearing heard and said, was a slaughter among the people which are after Absalom.

10 And he also the son of strength whose heart according to the heart of the lion, melting, will melt away: for all Israel knew that thy father is mighty, and the sons of strength which are with him.

11 For I counseled being gathered, all Israel shall be gathered to thee from Dan and even to the Well of the Oath, as the sand which is upon the sea for multitude; and thy face going in the midst of them.

12 And we came upon him in one of the places which we shall find there, and we upon him as the dew will fall upon the earth: and we will not leave of him and of all the men which are with him, even one.

13 And if he shall be gathered into the city, and all Israel shall lift up ropes to that city, and we dragged it even to the torrent, till we shall not find there even a stone.

14 And Absalom will say, and every man of Israel, The counsel of Hushai the Archite is good above the counsel of Ahithophel. And Jehovah commanded to frustrate the good counsel of Ahithophel so that Jehovah brought evil upon Absalom.

15 And Hushai will say to Zadok and to Abiathar the priests, According to this, and according to this, Ahithophel counseled Absalom and the old men of Israel; and according to this and according to this, I counseled.

16 And now send quickly and announce to David, saying, Thou wilt not lodge this night in Araboth of the desert, and also passing over, thou shalt pass over, lest he shall swallow up to the king and to all the people which are with him.

17 And Jonathan and Ahimaaz standing by the fountain of Rogel; and a maid-servant went and announced to them, and they will go, and announce to king David, for they will not be able to be seen to come to the city.

18 And a boy will see them and be will announce to Absalom; and they two will go quickly and will come to the house of a man in Bahurim, and to him a well In his enclosure; and they will go down there,

19 And the woman will take and spread the covering upon the mouth of the well and she will spread the medicine upon it; and the word will not be known.

20 And Absalom's servants will come to the woman to her house, and they will say, Where are Ahimaaz and Jonathan? and the woman will say to them, They passed over the brook of waters. And they will seek and not find; and they will turn back to Jerusalem.

21 And it will be after their going, and they will come up out of the well and will go and announce to king David, and they will say to David, Arise ye, and pass quickly over the waters, for thus counseled Ahithophel against you.

22 And David will rise, and all the people which are with him, and they will pass over Jordan: till the light of the morning till not one was lacking which passed not over Jordan.

23 And Ahithophel saw that his counsel was not done, and he will saddle the ass and rise and go to his house to his city, and command his house, and he will strangle himself and die. And he will be buried in the grave of his father.

24 And David came to the camp. And Absalom passed over Jordan, he and all the men of Israel with him.

25 And Absalom set Amasa instead of Joab over the army: and Amasa a man's son, and his name Ithra, the Israelite, who went in to Abigail, daughter of Nahash, sister of Zeruiah, mother of Joab.

26 And Israel and Absalom will encamp in the land of Gilead.

27 And it will be as David went to Mahanaim, and Shobi, son of Nahash of Rabbah of the sons of Ammon, and Machir son of Ammiel of Lo-Debar, and Barzillai the Gileadite of Rogelim,

28 Beds and basins and vessels of earth, and wheat, and barley, and flour, and parched grain, and the bean and lentiles, and parched grain,

29 And honey and curdled milk, and sheep, and cheeses of kine, they brought near for David and for the people which Are with him, to eat; for they said the people are hungry and faint and thirsty in the desert.

2 SAMUEL CHAPTER 18

1 And David will review the people which are with him, and he will put over them captains of thousands, and captains of hundreds.

2 And David will send the people a third into the hand of Joab, and a third into the hand of Abishai, son of Zeruiah, brother of Joab, and a third into the hand of Ittai the Gittite. And the king will say to the people, Going forth, I will go forth, also I, with you.

3 And the people will say, Thou shalt not go forth, for if fleeing, we shall flee, they will not set the heart to us; and if half of us shall die they will not set the heart to us: but now like us ten thousand: and now it is good that thou shalt be to us from the city for help.

4 And the king will say to them, What will be good in your eyes I will do. And the king will stand at the hand of the gate, and all the people will go forth, by hundreds and by thousands.

5 And the king will command Joab and Abishai and Ittai, saying, Gently for me to the boy, to Absalom. And all the people heard in the king's commanding all the chiefs for the word of Absalom.

6 And the people will go forth to the field to the meeting of Israel: and the war will be in the forest of Ephraim;

7 And there the people of Israel will be struck before David's servants, and a great slaughter will be in that day of twenty thousand.

8 And there the battle will be scattered upon the face of all the earth: and the forest will multiply to consume of the people above what the sword will consume in that day.

9 And Absalom will meet before the servants of David, and Absalom rode upon the mule, and the mule will go under the thicket of the great oak, and his head will lay hold upon the oak, and he will be given between the heavens and between the earth; and the mule which was under him passed by.

10 And one man will see and announce to Joab, and say, Behold, I saw Absalom suspended in an oak

11 And Joab will say to the man announcing to him, And behold, thou sawest, and wherefore didst thou not strike him there to the earth? and for me to give to thee ten of silver and one girdle.

12 And the man will say to Joab, And not I weighing upon my hand a thousand of silver, I will not stretch forth my hand against the king's son. for in our ears, the king commanded thee and Abishai and Ittai, saying, Watch for me over the boy, over Absalom.

13 Or I did falsehood upon his soul; and any word will not be hid from the king, and thou wilt stand opposite.

14 And Joab will say, I will not delay before thee. And he will take three spears in his hand, and thrust them into the heart of Absalom, he yet living in the heart of the oak.

15 And ten boys lifting up Joab's arms will surround and strike Absalom, and kill him.

16 And Joab will strike upon the trumpet, and the people will turn back from pursuing after Israel: for Joab restrained the people.

17 And they will take Absalom and cast him in the forest into a great pit, and they will set upon him a very great heap of stones: and all Israel fled each to his tent.

18 And Absalom took and set up for him in his living, a pillar in the valley of the king; for he said, Not to me a son to call my name to mind: and he will call the pillar by his name, and he will call it The Hand of Absalom, even to this day.

19 And Ahimaaz, Zadok's son, said, I will run now and bring good news to the king that Jehovah judged him out of the hand of his enemies.

20 And Joab will say to him, Not thou a man of glad tidings this day, and another day thou shalt announce good news: and this day thou shalt not announce good news, because the king's son died.

21 And Joab will say to Cushi, Go, announce to the king what thou sawest. And Cushi will worship to Joab, and run.

22 And Ahimaaz, son of Zadok will yet add, and say to Joab, What will be, I will run now, also I, after Cushi. And Joab will say, Wherefore this run-nest thou my son, and goest, not finding good tidings?

23 And what will be, I will run. And he will say to him, Run. And Ahimaaz will run the way of the circuit, and pass by Cushi.

24 And David will sit between the two gates: and he watching will go to the roof of the gate to the wall, and he lift up his eyes and see, and behold, a man running by himself.

25 And the watcher will call and announce to the king. And the king will say, If alone, good news in his month. And he will go, going, and draw near.

26 And he watching will see another man running, and the watcher will call at the gate and say, Behold, a man running alone. And the king will say, This also announces good tidings.

27 And the watcher will say, I saw the running of the first as the running of Ahimaaz, Zadok's son. And the king will say, A good man this, and he will come for good news.

28 And Ahimaaz will call and say to the king, Peace. And he will worship to the king upon the face to the earth, and he will say, Blessed Jehovah thy God who shut up the men who lifted up their hand against my lord the king.

29 And the king will say, Peace to the boy, to Absalom? And Ahimaaz will say, I saw the great multitude at Joab's sending the King's servant, and thy servant; and I knew not what

30 And the king will say, Turn, stand here. And he will turn and stand.

31 And behold, Cushi came; and Cushi will say, Good news will be announced, my lord the king, for Jehovah judged thee this day from the hand of all rising up against thee.

32 And the king will say to Cushi, Is peace to the boy, to Absalom? And Cushi will say, As the boy, shall all the enemies of my lord the king be, and all who rose up against thee for evil

33 And the king will be moved, and he will go up into the upper chamber of the gate and weep: and thus he said in his going, My son Absalom! my son, my son Absalom I who will give my death, me for thee, Absalom my son, my son!

2 SAMUEL CHAPTER 19

1 And it will be announced to Joab, Behold, the king weeping, and he will mourn for Absalom.

2 And the salvation in that day will be turned to mourning to all the people: for the people heard in that day, saying the king was grieved for his son.

3 And the people will steal away in that day to go to the city, as people will steal away being ashamed in fleeing in battle.

4 And the king covered his face, and the king will cry out with a great voice, My son Absalom! Absalom, my son, my son!

5 And Joab will come to the king, to the house, and say, Thou shamedst this day the faces of all thy servants saving thy soul this day, and the soul of thy sons and thy daughters, and the soul of thy wives, and the soul of thy concubines;

6 To love those hating thee, and hating those loving thee, for thou announcedst this day that not to the chiefs and servants: for I knew this day that if Absalom lived and all we this day died, that then it was straight in thine eyes.

7 And now arise, go forth, and speak to the heart of thy servants: for in Jehovah I swore if thou wilt not go forth, if a man shall lodge with thee this night: and this evil to thee above all the evil which came upon thee from thy youth till now

8 And the king will rise and sit in the gate. And to all the people they announced, saying, Behold, the king sitting in the gate. And all the people will come before the king: and Israel fled a man to his tent

9 And all the people will be judging in all the tribes of Israel, saying, The king delivered us out of the hand of our enemies, and he saved us from the hand of the rovers and now he fled from the land from Absalom.

10 And Absalom whom we anointed over us died in war. And now, wherefore are ye silent to turn back the king?

11 And king David sent to Zadok and to Abiathar the priests, saying, Speak ye to the old men of Judah, saying, Wherefore will ye be the last to turn back the king to his house? And the word of all Israel came to the king to his house.

12 Ye my brethren; my bone and flesh are ye: and wherefore will ye be last to turn back the king?

13 And to Amass. ye shall say, Art thou not my bone and my flesh? thus will God do to me and thus will he add, if thou shalt not be chief of the army before me all the days, instead of Joab.

14 And he will incline the heart of all the men of Judah as one man; and they will send to the king, Turn back thou, and all thy servants.

15 And the king will turn back and come to Jordan. And Judah came to Gilgal, to go to meet the king, to cause the king to pass over Jordan.

16 And Shimei son of Gera, a Benjamite, who was from Bahurim, will hasten and come down with the man Judah to meet king David.

17 And a thousand men with him from Benjamin, and Ziba the boy of the house of Saul, and his fifteen sons and his twenty servants with him; and they went over Jordan before the king.

18 The passing over passed over to cause the house of the king to pass over, and to do the good in his eyes. And Shimei son of Gera, fell before the king in his passing over Jordan.

19 And he will say to the king, My lord will not reckon iniquity to me, and he will not remember what thy servant did perversely in the day which my lord the king came forth from Jerusalem, for the king to set to his heart

20 For thy servant knew that I sinned: and behold, I came this day the first for all the house of Joseph to come down to meet my lord the 21 And Abishai son of Zeruiah, will say, For this shall not Shimei be put to death? for he cursed Jehovah's Messiah.

22 And David will say, What to me, and to you, ye sons of Zeruiah, that ye shall be to me for an adversary? Shall there this day be a man put to death in Israel? Did I not know that this day I am king over Israel?

23 And the king will say to Shimei, Thou shalt not die: and the king will swear to him.

24 And Mephibosheth son of Saul, came down to the meeting of the king, and he did not his feet, and he did not his beard, and his garments he washed not from the day the king went till the day in which he came in peace.

25 And it will be when he came to Jerusalem to the meeting of the king, and the king will say to him, Wherefore wentest thou not with me, Mephibosheth?

26 And he will say, My lord the king, my servant deceived me: for thy servant said, I will saddle for me the ass, and I will ride upon it, and I will go to the king; for thy servant is lame.

27 And he will slander against thy servant to my lord the king; and my lord the king as a messenger of God: and do thou the good in thine eyes.

28 For was not all my father's house but men of death before my lord the king? and thou wilt set thy servant among those eating at thy table. And what is there to me yet of right and to cry yet to the king?

29 And the king will say to him, Wherefore wilt thou speak yet thy words? I said, Thou and Ziba shall divide the field.

30 And Mephibosheth will say to the king, Also he shall take all, after that my lord the king came in peace to his house.

31 And Barzillai the Gileadite will come down from Rogelim, and he will pass with the king over Jordan to send him upon Jordan.

32 And Barzillai a very old man, the son of eighty years: and he nourished the king in his dwelling in the two camps, for he was an exceeding great man.

33 And the king will say to Barzillai, Pass thou over with me, and I will nourish thee with me in Jerusalem.

34 And Barzillai will say to the king, According to what the days of the years of my life, that I shall go up with the king to Jerusalem?

35 The son of eighty years am I this day; shall I know between good to evil? if thy servant shall taste what I shall eat, and what I shall drink? if I shall yet hear to the voice of men singing or of women singing? and wherefore shall thy servant be yet for a burden to my lord the king?

37 Turn back now thy servant and I will die in my city, by the grave of my father and my mother: and behold, thy servant Chimham shall pass over with my lord the king; and do to him what is good in thine eyes.

38 And the king will say, With me shall Chimham pass over, and I will do to him the good in thine eyes; and all which thou shalt choose of me I will do to thee.

39 And all the people will pass over Jordan. And the king passed over, and the king will kiss to Barzillai, and bless him: and he will turn back to his place.

40 And the king will pass over to Gilgal, and Chimham passed over with him: and all the people of Judah will pass over with the king, and also half the people of Israel.

41 And behold, every man of Israel coming to the king, and they will say to the king, Wherefore did our brethren the men of Judah steal thee away, and they will cause the king to pass, and his house, over Jordan, and all David's men with him?

42 And every man of Judah will answer to the man Israel, Because the king being near to me: and wherefore does this kindle to thee on account of this word? did we eat food from the king? or lifting up, did he lift up to us?

43 And the man Israel will answer the man Judah, and say, Ten hands to me in the king, and also in David I above thee: and wherefore didst thou make light of me? and was not my word first to me to turn back my king? And the word of the man Judah will will be hard above the word of the man Israel.

2 SAMUEL CHAPTER 20

1 And a man of Belial was met with there, and his name Sheba, son of Bichri, a man, a Jaminite: and he will strike upon the trumpet and say, No portion to us in David, and no inheritance to us in the son of Jesse: a man to his tent to Israel.

2 And every man of Israel will go up from after David, after Sheba, son of Bichri: and the men of Judah were joined to the king, from Jordan and even to Jerusalem.

3 And David will come to his house to Jerusalem; and the king will take the ten women, the concubines which he left to watch the house, and he will give them to the house of watch, and he will nourish them, and he went not in to them. And they will be bound together till the day of their death to live widows.

4 And the king will say to Amasa, Call together to me the men of Judah in three days, and stand thou here.

5 And Amasa will go to call Judah together: and he will delay from the appointment which he appointed him.

6 And David will say to Abishai, Now Sheba son of Bichri will do evil to us above Absalom: take thou thy lord's servants and go down after him, lest finding to himself fortified cities and he shadow our eyes.

7 And Joab's men went forth after him, and the Cherethites and the Pelethites; and all the mighty went forth from Jerusalem to pursue after Sheba son of Bichri.

8 They by the great stone which is in the hill, and Amasa went before them. And Joab girded his garment being put upon him, and upon it he girded the sword being bound upon his loins in its sheath; and he going forth and it will fall.

9 And Joab will say to Amasa, Thou my brother in peace? and Joab's right hand will take hold of Amasa by the beard to kiss him.

10 And Amasa watched not upon the sword which was in Joab's hand: and he will strike him with it into the belly, and his bowels will be poured forth to the earth; and he repeated not to him; and he will die. And Joab and Abishai his brother pursued after Sheba son of Bichri.

11 And a man from Joab's boys stood by him, and he will say, Who delighted in Joab, and who that is for David, after Joab.

12 And Amasa rolling in blood in the midst of the highway. And the man will see that all the people stood, and he will turn Amasa from the highway to the field, and he will cast upon him a garment when he saw all coming by him and standing.

14 And he will pass through in all the tribes of Israel to Abel, and to the house of oppression, and all the Berites: and they will be called together, and they will go also after him.

15 And they will come and besiege against him in Abel of the house of oppression, and they will pour out a mound against the city, and it will stand in the fortification: and all the people which were with Joab laying waste to throw down the wall.

16 And a wise woman will call out of the city, Hear ye, hear ye; say now to Joab, Come near hither and I will speak to you.

17 And he will draw near to her, and the woman will say, Art thou Joab? and he will say, I. And she will say to him, Hear the words of thy servant And he will say, I hear.

18 And she will say, saying, They will speak the word in the beginning, saying, They will ask an asking in Abel: and thus they finished.

19 I peaceful of the faithful of Israel: thou seeking to kill a city and a mother in Israel: wherefore wilt thou swallow up the inheritance of Jehovah?

20 And Joab will say, Far be it, far be it to me, if I shall swallow up and if I shall destroy.

21 Not thus the word; for a man from mount Ephraim, Sheba the son of Bichri, his name, lifted up his hand against the king, against David: ye shall give him only, and I will go from the city. And the woman will say to Joab, Behold, his head being cast to thee behind the wall.

22 And the woman will go to all the people in her wisdom: and they will cut off the head of Sheba the son of Bichri and cast to Joab. And he will strike upon the trumpet, and they will disperse from the city, a man to his tent. And Joab turned back to Jerusalem to the king.

23 And Joab over all the army of Israel: and Benaiah, son of Jehoida, over the Cherethites, and over the Pelethites.

24 And Adoniram over the tribute: and Jehoshaphat, son of Ahilud, calling to mind:

25 And Sheva the scribe: and Zadok and Abiathar the priests.

26 And also Ira the Jairite was priest to David.

2 SAMUEL CHAPTER 21

1 And there will be a famine in the days of David three years, year after year; and David will seek the face of Jehovah. And Jehovah will say, For Saul and for the house of bloods, because he killed the Gibeonites.

2 And the king will call for the Gibeonites, and say to them; (and the Gibeonites not of the sons of Israel, but they from the remainder of the Amorites; and the sons of Israel sware to them: and Saul will seek to strike them in his jealousy for the sons of Israel and Judah.)

3 And David will say to the Gibeonites, What shall I do for you? and with what shall I expiate and bless ye the inheritance of Jehovah?

4 And the Gibeonites will say to him, Not to me silver and gold with Saul and with his house; and not for us to put a man to death in Israel. And he will say, What ye say, I will do for you.

5 And they will say to the king, The man who finished us, and who made an end of us, destroying us from standing in all the bound of Israel,

6 Seven men of his sons shall be given to us and we will hang them up before Jehovah in the hill of Saul, the chosen of Jehovah. And the king will say, I will give.

7 And the king will spare upon Mephibosheth, son of Jonathan, son of Saul, on account of the oath of Jehovah which was between them, betwen David and between Jonathan, son of Saul.

8 And the king will take the two sons of Rizpah, daughter of Aiah. which she bare to Saul, Armoni and Mephibosheth, and the five sons of Michal, Saul's daughter, which she bare to Adriel, son of Barzillai the Meholathite:

9 And he will give them into the hand of the Gibeonites, and they will hang them in the mountain before Jehovah: and the seven will fall together, and they were put to death in the days of harvest in the first of the beginning of the harvest of barley.

10 And Rizpah the daughter of Aiah will take sackcloth and spread it for her upon the rock, from the beginning of harvest till water was given upon them from the heavens, and she gave not the birds of the heavens to rest upon them in the day and the beast of the field at night

11 And it will be announced to David what Rizpah the daugher of Aiah, concubine of Saul did.

12 And David will go and take the bones of Saul and the bones of Jonathan, his son, from the lords of JabeshGilead, who stole them from the street of the House of Shan, where the rovers hung them there in the day the rovers struck Saul in Gilboa:

13 And he will bring up from thence the bones of Saul, and the bones of Jonathan his son: and they will gather the bones of those being hung.

14 And they will bury the bones of Saul, and Jonathan his son, in the land of Benjamin in Zelzah in the grave of Kish his father: and they will do all which the king commanded. And God will hear for the land after this.

15 And yet there will be war to the rovers with Israel; and David will go down, and his servants with him, and they will fight with the rovers: and David will be faint

16 And Ishbi-Benob who was from the children of Rephaim, and the weight of his spear three hundred weight of brass, and he being girded with a new one, and he will say to strike David.

17 And Abishai son of Zeruiah will help for him. and he will strike the rover and kill him. Then David's men sware to him, saying, Thou shalt no more go forth with us to war, and thou shalt not quench the light of Israel.

18 And it will be after this, and there will be war yet in Gob with the rovers: then Sibbechai the Hushathite struck Saph who was of the children of Rephaim.

19 And there will be yet war in Gob with the rovers, and Elhanan, son of Jaare-Oregim of the House of Bread, will strike Goliah the Gathite, and the wood of his spear as the beam of those weaving.

20 And there will be yet war in Gath, and there will be a man of Midian, and the fingers of his hands and the toes of his feet, six and six; twenty and four of number: and also he child to Rephah

21 And he will reproach Israel, and Jonathan, son of Shimeab, David's brother, will strike him.

22 Those four were born to Rephah in Oath, and they will fall by the hand of David, and by the hand of his servants.

2 SAMUEL CHAPTER 22

1 And David will speak to Jehovah the words of this song in the day Jehovah delivered him from the hand of all his enemies, and from the hand of Saul:

2 And he will say, Jehovah my rock and my fastness and my deliverer;

3 The God of my rock; I will trust in him: My shield and the horn of my salvation, my height and my refuge; My saviour; thou wilt save me from violence.

4 Praising, I will call Jehovah and shall be saved from mine enemies.

5 For the breakers of death surrounded me The torrents of Beilal will terrify me;

6 The pangs of hades surrounded me; The snares of death anticipated me;

7 In straits to me I will call Jehovah, And to God will I call, And he will hear my voice from his temple, And my cry in his ears.

8 And the earth will shake and tremble, The foundation of the heavens will be disturbed, And they will shake, for it kindled to him.

9 Smoke went up in his anger, And fire from his mouth shall consume: Coals were kindled from it

10 He will incline the heavens and come down; And darkness under his feet

11 And he will ride upon a cherub and fly: And he will be seen upon the wings of the wind.

12 And he will set darkness round about him for booths, The gatherings of waters the darkness of clouds.

13 From the shining before him were coals of fire kindled:

14 Jehovah will thunder from the heavens, And the Most High will give his voice.

15 He will send arrows and scatter them lightning, and put them in commotion.

16 The torrents of the sea will be seen, The foundations of the habitable globe will be uncovered, In the rebuke of Jehovah, from the breath of the spirit of his anger.

17 He will send from height, he will take me; He will draw me out of many waters:

18 He will deliver me from my strong enemy, From them hating me, for they were strong above me.

19 They will anticipate me in the day of misfortune, And Jehovah will be a support to me:

20 And he will bring me forth to a wide place; He will deliver me for he delighted in me.

21 Jehovah will recompense me according to my justice: According to the cleanness of my hands he turned back to me.

22 For I have watched the ways of Jehovah, And I acted not wickedly away from my God.

23 For all his judgments before me, And his laws I will not depart from them.

24 And I will be blameless to him, and I shall be washed from mine iniquity.

25 Jehovah will turn back to me according to my justice: According to my cleanness before his eyes.

26 With the merciful thou wilt be merciful, With the perfect man thou wilt be perfect

27 With the chosen thou wilt be chosen, And with the perverse thou wilt be unseasoned.

28 And the people of affliction thou wilt save: And thine eyes upon the lifted-up, thou wilt humble.

29 For thou my light, O Jehovah: And Jehovah will enlighten my darkness.

30 For in thee will I run, being pressed In my God will I leap over a wall.

31 The Strong One, blameless his way The saying of Jehovah purified, A shield to all trusting in him.

32 For who God besides Jehovah? And who a rock besides our God?

33 The Strong One strengthening me with strength: And he will leave his way blameless.

34 Setting my feet as the hinds: And upon the heights will he cause me to stand.

35 Teaching my hands to the war, And bringing down the brazen bow by mine arm.

36 And thou wilt give to me the shield of thy salvation, and thine answer will multiply me.

37 Thou wilt enlarge my steps under me, And my joints were not unsteady.

38 I will pursue mine enemies and destroy them I will not turn back even to finishing them.

39 And I will consume them and crush them, and they shall not be raised up.

40 Thou wilt fasten me together with strength for the war, Thou wilt subdue under me him rising up against me.

41 And the neck of mine enemies wilt thou give to me Those hating me, and I will cut them oft

42 They will look, and no saviour To Jehovah, and he answered them not

43 And I will rub them as the dust of the earth: As the mire of the streets I will stamp them, I will beat them:

44 And thou wilt save me from the strifes of my people, Thou wilt watch me for the head of nations: The people I have not known shall serve me.

45 The sons of the stranger will lie to me: For the hearing of the ear they will hear to me.

47 Jehovah living; and praised my rock: And God shall be lifted up, the rock of my salvation.

48 The Strong One giving vengeance to me, And bringing down peoples under me.

49 And bringing me out from mine enemies lifting me up from them rising up against me: From the man of violence thou wilt deliver me.

50 For this will I praise thee, O Jehovah, in the nations, to thy name will I play on the harp.

51 Magnifying the salvation of his king: And he has done mercy to his Messiah To David and to his seed even to forever

2 SAMUEL CHAPTER 23

1 And these the last words of David. The declaration of David, son of Jesse, and the declaration of the man raised up for the Messiah of the God of Jacob, and the sweet songs of Israel.

2 The spirit of Jehovah spake in me, and his word upon my tongue.

3 The God of Israel said to me, the Rock of Israel spake a parable upon the just man: a parable to fear God.

4 And as the light of the morning the sun will rise: the morning not dense; from the shining of the rain bringing forth herbage from the earth.

5 For not thus my house with the Strong One, for he set to me an eternal covenant, prepared in all, and watched: for all my salvation and delight will he not bring forth.

6 And Belial as the thorn thrusting out are all they, for they will not be taken by the hand.

7 And the man laboring in them shall be filled with iron and the wood of a spear; and in fire burning they shall burn in the dwelling.

8 These the names of the mighty, which were to David: the Tachmonite dwelling in the dwelling, head of the third; he Adino the Eznite: against eight hundred wounded at one time.

9 And after him Eleazar son of Dodo, son of Ahohi, among the three mighty with David in their upbraiding the rovers; they were gathered together there to war, and the men of Israel will go up.

10 He arose, and he will strike against the rovers till that his hand will be weary, and his hand will cleave to the sword: and Jehovah will do a great salvation in that day; and they sat down behind him only to strip off.

11 And after him, Shammah, son of Aga the Hararite. And the rovers will be gathered together to live; and there will be there a portion of the field full of lentiles: and the people fled from the face of the rovers.

12 And he will stand in the midst of the portion, and he will take it away, and he will strike the rovers: and Jehovah will do a great salvation.

13 And three of the thirty heads will go down and come to the harvest, to David, to the cave of Adullam: and the wild beasts, the rovers, encamped in the valley of Rephaim.

14 And David then in the fortress, and the station of the rovers then in the House of Bread.

15 And David will desire and say, Who will give me to drink waters from the well of the House of Bread, which is in the gate?

16 And the three mighty will break forth through the camp of the rovers, and draw waters from the well of the House of Bread, which is in the gate, and they will lift up and bring to David: and he would not drink them, and he will pour them out to Jehovah.

17 And he will say, Far be it to me, O Jehovah, my doing this the blood. of the men going with their souls: and he would not drink them. These did the three mighty.

18 And Abishai Joab's brother, son of Zeruiah, he the head of the three. And he raised up his spear against three hundred wounded, and to him a name among the three.

19 Above the three was he not honored? and he will be to them for chief: and he came not even to the three.

20 And Benaiah son of Jehoida, son of a living man great of works, from Kabzeel, he struck two lions of god of Moab: and he went down and struck a lion in the midst of a well in the day of snow.

21 And he struck a man, an Egyptian, who was seeing; and in the hand of the Egyptian a spear; and he went down to him with a rod, and he will pluck the spear out of the Egyptian's hand and kill him with his spear.

22 These did Benaiah son of Jehoida, and to him a name among the three mighty.

23 He was honored above the thirty, and to the three he came not. And David will set him to his audience.

24 Asahel, brother of Joab, among the thirty; Elhanan, son of Dodo of the House of Bread.

25 Shammah the Harodite, Elika the Harodite,

26 Helez the Paltite, Ira, son of Ikkesh the Tekoite,

27 Abiezer the Anethothite, Mebunnai the Hushathite,

28 Zalmon the Ahohite, Maharai the Netophathite,

29 Heleb, son of Banah the Netophathite, Ittai, son of Ribai, from the hill of the sons of Benjamin,

30 Benaiah the Pirathonite, Hiddai of the torrents of Gaash,

31 Abialbon the Arbathite, Azmaveth the Barhumite,

32 Eliahba the Shaalbonite; of the sons of Jashen, Jonathan,

33 Shammah the Hararite, Ahiam son of Sharar the Hararite,

34 Eliphalet, son of Ahasbai, son of the Maacathite, Eliam son of Ahithophel the Gilonite,

35 Hezri the Carmelite, Paarai the Arbite,

36 Igal son of Nathan of Zobah, sons of the Gadite,

37 Zelek the Ammonite, Naharai the Beerothite, lifting up the arms of Joab, son of Zeruiah,
38 Ira the Ithrite, Gareb the Ithrite,
39 Uriah the Hittite: all, thirty and seven.

2 SAMUEL CHAPTER 24

1 And the anger of Jehovah will add to kindle against Israel, and he stimulated David against them, saying, Go, number Israel and Judah.
2 And the king will say to Joab, chief of the army which was with him, Go now, up and down through all the tribes of Israel, from Dan and even to the Well of the Oath, and review ye the people, and I shall know the number of the people.
3 And Joab will say to the king, Jehovah thy God will add to the people as they and as they a hundred times, and the eyes of my lord the king seeing: and my lord the king, wherefore delights he in this word?
4 And the king's word will be strong to Joab and to the chiefs of his army. And Joab went forth and the chiefs of his army before the king to review the people Israel.
5 And they will pass over Jordan, and they will encamp in Aroer, the right hand of the city which is in the midst of the torrent of Gad, and towards Jazer:
6 And they will come to Gilead and to the land of Tahtim-Hodshi; and they will come to Dan-Jaan, and round about to Zidon.
7 And they will come to the fortress of Tyre, and all the cities of the Hivites and of the Canaanites; and they will go forth to the south of Judah to the Well of the Oath.
8 And they will turn aside through all the land, and they will come from the end of nine months and twenty days to Jerusalem.
9 And Joab will give the number of the reviewing of the people to the king: and there will be of Israel eight hundred thousand men of strength drawing sword; and the men of Judah, five hundred thousand men.
10 And the heart of David will strike him after he thus reviewed the people. And David will say to Jehovah, I sinned greatly in what I did: and now, O Jehovah, now pass by the iniquity of thy servant, for I was very foolish.
11 And David will rise in the morning, and the word of Jehovah was to Gad the prophet, seer of David, saying,
12 Go and speak to David, Thus said Jehovah, Three I lay upon thee: choose to thee one from them, and I will do to thee.
13 And Gad will come to David and announce to him, and say to him, Shall seven years of famine come to thee in thy land? and if three mouths to flee before thine adversaries, they pursuing thee? and if death to be three days in thy land? now know, and see what word I shall turn back to him sending me.
14 And David will say to Gad, Straits to me exceedingly: now we will fall into the hand of Jehovah, for many his compassions; and into the hand of man I will not fall.
15 And Jehovah will give death in Israel from the morning and even to the time of the appointment; and from the people will die from Dan and even to the Well of the Oath, seventy thousand men.
16 And the messenger will stretch forth his hand to destroy Jerusalem, and Jehovah will lament for the evil, and he will say to the messenger destroying among the people, Much now: let go thy hand. And the messenger of Jehovah was near the threshing-floor of Araunah the Jebusite.
17 And David will say to Jehovah, in his seeing the messenger smiting the people, and he will say, Behold, I sinned and acted perversely; and these sheep, what did they? Now shall thy hand be upon me and upon my father's house.
18 And Gad will come to David in that day and say to him, Go up, raise up an altar to Jehovah in the threshing-floor of Araunah the Jebusite.
19 And David will go up, according to the word of Gad, as Jehovah commanded.
20 And Araunah will look forth and see the king and his servants passing over to him: and Araunah will go forth and worship to the king, his face to the earth.
21 And Araunah will say, Wherefore came my lord the king to his servant? and David will say, To buy from thee the threshing-floor to build an altar to Jehovah, and the slaughter shall be withheld from above the people.
22 And Araunah will say to David, My lord the king shall take and bring up the good in his eyes: see, the oxen for the burnt-offering, and the threshing-rollers, and the instruments of the oxen for wood.
23 And Araunah gave all to the king for the king. And Araunah will say to the king, Jehovah thy God will take pleasure in thee.
24 And the king will say to Araunah, Nay, but buying, I will buy of thee at a price; and I will not bring up to Jehovah my God a burnt-offering gratuitously. And David will buy the threshing-floor and the oxen for the silver of fifty shekels.
25 And David will build there an altar to Jehovah, and he will bring up burnt-offerings and peace. And Jehovah will be entreated for the land, and the slaughter will be withheld from Israel.

THE FIRST BOOK OF KINGS

Hebrew Title: Melakhim
(also called The Third Book of Kings or 3 Reigns;
the previous two Books of Samuel bear then the names
The First and the Second Book of Kings)
Estimated Range of Dating: c. 7th–6th century B.C

(The Book of Kings is the ninth book of the Hebrew Bible or the eleventh and twelfth books of the Christian Old Testament. It concludes the Deuteronomistic history, a history of Israel also comprising the books of Joshua and Judges and the Book of Samuel, which biblical commentators believe was written to provide a theological explanation for the destruction of the Kingdom of Judah by Babylon in c. 586 BC and a foundation for a return from exile. The two books of Kings present a history of ancient Israel and Judah from the death of King David to the release of Jehoiachin from imprisonment in Babylon, a period of some 400 years (c. 960 – c. 560 BC). After a long description of Solomon's rule, 1 and 2 Kings writes of how the kingdom of Israel was divided and then shows how the Kingdom of Israel and the Kingdom of Judah developed. 1 and 2 Kings, like 1 and 2 Samuel and 1 and 2 Books of Chronicles are actually one book. It was simply called "Kings." However, it was divided into two books by the translators of the Septuagint (the Greek translation of the Hebrew Bible made in the 3rd and 2nd centuries BC), and so it was written as 1 and 2 Kings by the Latin translation and many other versions.

Author and Sources: It is not known for sure who is the author (writer) of 1,2 Kings. Jewish tradition says that Jeremiah wrote 1 and 2 Kings, but people do not usually think so today. Whoever the author was, he knew the book of Deuteronomy, like many of Israel's prophets. He also used lots of sources, like "the books of the annals of Solomon" (11:41, NIV), "the book of the annals of the kings of Israel" (14:19 NIV), and "the book of the annals of the kings of Judah" (14:29 NIV)". Probably other sources were used, like those inside Chronicles).

Chronology: 1 and 2 Kings give lots of chronological information. The length of time each king rules is given, and often other information is given, such as the age of the ruler at the time of becoming king and whether they were a good ruler. By putting in Biblical data with those given from Assyrian chronological records, the year 853 B.C. is probable as the year of Ahab's death, and the year 841 as the year Jehu began to reign. So, it can be known that the division of the kingdom happened in 930 B.C., and that Samaria was defeated by the Assyrians in 722 BC, and that Jerusalem fell to the Babylonians in 586 BC.

The information about the connection between the reigns of the kings of Israel and Judah have some problems, which have, for a long time, been wondered about. Recently, though, most of these problems have been solved by recognizing things like possibilities of reigns that overlap, sons ruling with their fathers, differences in the time of the year in which the rule of a king officially began, and differences in the way a king's first year was seen.

Kings and Covenants: 1 and 2 Kings do not exactly say its purpose or theme, but it is most probable that the author wanted to write his material as a sequel, the next book after the books of Samuel: a history about the kings by covenant.

The writer was not trying to show a social, or political, or economical history of Israel's kings like most histories today. He writes about Omri, who was a very powerful king and an important political person, in only six verses (16:23-28), simply saying that he "did evil in the eyes of the Lord" (16:25, NIV). Also, Jeroboam the second, who was king over northern Israel when it was most powerful, is written about very shortly (2 Kings 14:23-29). He also writes nothing about the first years of Josiah king of Judah, but says a long description of how they begin again to keep the covenant in his 18th year as king (2 Kings 22:3-23:28).

The kings who are most written about in the books of Kings are the kings who either kept the covenant well, broke it very badly, or had an important encounter with one of God's prophets. Ahab son of Omri and Manasseh broke the covenant so that it was dangerous to Israel, so the author wrote a lot about them both; Hezekiah (2 Kings 18:1-20:21) and Josiah (2 Kings 22:1 - 23:29) are written a lot about because they tried to remind the people of their covenant promises. They are the only two kings who the writer is really happy with for their loyalty to the Lord.

Another important part of 1 and 2 Kings is that the writer shows the relationship between prophecy and how it comes true in history. At least 11 prophecies are written to be true. The writer also shows the importance of the prophets as messengers from God to tell the kings and people of Israel to come back to God. Usually, nobody listened to their warnings (for example, Ahijah, Shemaiah, Micaiah, Jonah, Isaiah, Huldah), but the writer writes very much about the prophets Elijah and Elisha. A well known story is that of Elijah on Mount Carmel, when he calls upon God and a miracle occurs, thereby showing that the God of Israel to be the one true God. Shortly before the miracle another tribe had called upon their false gods, which leads to no miracle occurring..)

1 And king David was old, going in days; and they will cover him with garments, and he will not be warm.

2 And his servants will say to him, They shall seek for my lord the king a girl, a virgin, and she standing before the king, and she shall be to him an associate, and lying in thy bosom, and it shall be warm to my lord the king.

3 And they will seek a fair girl in all the bound of Israel, and they will find Abishag the Shunamite, and they will bring her to the king.

4 And the girl fair, even exceedingly, and she will be to the king an associate, and she will serve him: and the king knew her not

5 And Adonijah, son of Haggith being lifted up, saying, I will reign; and he will make to himself chariots and horsemen, and fifty men to run before him.

6 And his father grieved him not from his days, saying, Wherefore didst thou thus? and he good of form, exceedingly; and she bare him after Absalom.

7 And his words will be with Joab, son of Zeruiah, and with Abiathar the priest; and they will help after Adonijah.

8 And Zadok the priest (Zadik, "the Righteous"), and Benaiah, son of Jehoida, and Nathan the prophet, and Shimei, and Rei, and the mighty which were to David, were not with Adonijah.

9 And Adonijah will sacrifice sheep and oxen and the fatling, by the stone of Zoheleth, which is next the fountain of the fuller, and he will call all his brethren the king's sons, and for all the men of Judah the king's servants:

10 And Nathan the prophet, and Benaiah, and the mighty, and Solomon his brother, he called not

11 And Nathan will say to Bathsheba, saying, Didst thou not hear that Adonijah son of Haggith reigned, and David our lord knew not?

12 Come now, advising, I will now advise thee, and save thou thy soul and the soul of thy son Solomon.

13 Come, go in to king David, and say to him, My lord the king, didst thou not swear to thy servant, saying, That Solomon thy son shall reign after me, and he shall sit upon my throne? and wherefore did Adonijah reign?

14 Behold thee yet speaking with the king, and I will come in after thee and complete thy words.

15 And Bath-sheba will go in to the king to the chamber: and the king was very old; and Abishag the Shunamite serving the king.

16 And Bath-sheba will bow and worship to the king, and the king will say, What to thee?

17 And she will say to him, My lord, thou didst swear by Jehovah thy God to thy servant that Solomon thy son shall reign after me, and he shall sit upon my throne.

18 And now, behold, Adonijah reigning; and now my lord the king knew not:

19 And he will sacrifice oxen and the fatling, and sheep for multitude, and he will call to all the sons of the king, and for Abiathar the priest, and for Joab, chief of the army: and Solomon thy servant he called not

20 And thou, my lord the king, the eyes of all Israel are upon thee to announce to them who shall sit upon the throne of my lord the king after him.

21 And being when my lord the king lies down with his fathers, I and my son Solomon being the sinful.

22 And behold her yet speaking with the king, and Nathan the prophet came in.

23 And they will announce to the king, saying, Behold, Nathan the prophet. And he will come in before the king, and he will worship to the king upon his face to the earth.

24 And Nathan will say, My lord the king, saidst thou Adonijah shall reign after me and he shall sit upon my throne?

25 For he went down this day, and he will sacrifice oxen and the fatling, and sheep for multitude, and he will call to all the king's sons, and for the chief of the army, and for Abiathar the priest, and behold them eating and drinking before him, and they will say, King Adonijah shall live.

26 And for me, me thy servant, and for Zadok the priest., and for Benaiah son of Jehoida, and for Solomon thy servant, he called not

27 If from my lord the king was this word, and thou madest not known to thy servant who shall sit upon the throne of my lord the king after him?

28 And king David will answer and say, Call to me for Bath-sheba. And she will come in before the king and stand before the king.

29 And the king will swear, and say, Jehovah lives who redeemed my soul from all straits.

30 For us I swear to thee by Jehovah the God of Israel, saying that Solomon thy son shall reign after me and he shall sit upon my throne instead of me; for so I will do this day.

31 And Bath-sheba will bow the face to the earth and worship to the king, and say, My lord king David shall live forever,

32 And king David will say, Call to me for Zadok the priest, and for Nathan the prophet, and for Benaiah the son of Jehoida. And they will come in before the king.

33 And the king will say to them, Take with you the servants of your lord and cause Solomon my son to ride upon the mule which is to me, and bring down to Gihon:

34 And Zadok the priest anointed him there, and Nathan the prophet, for king over Israel: and strike ye upon the trumpet and say, King Solomon shall live.

35 And come up after him, and he coming, and he shall sit upon my throne, and he shall reign instead of me: and I commanded him to be ruler over Israel and over Judah.

36 And Benaiah, son of Jehoida, will answer the king and say, Verily: so will Jehovah say, the God of my lord the king.

37 As Jehovah was with my lord the king, so will he be with Solomon, and he will magnify his throne above the throne of my lord, king David.

38 And Zadok the priest will go down, and Nathan the prophet, and Benaiah son of Jehoida, and the Cherethites and the Pelethites, and they will cause Solomon to ride upon king David's mule, and they will cause him to go to Gihon.

39 And Zadok the priest will take a horn of oil from the tent and will anoint Solomon; and they will strike upon the trumpet, and all the people will say, King Solomon shall live.

40 And all the people will go up after him, and the people piping with pipes and rejoicing with great joy, and the earth will break forth with their voice.

41 And Adonijah will hear, and all being called with him, and they finished eating. And Joab will hear the voice of the trumpet, and say, Wherefore the voice of the city put in motion?

42 He yet speaking, and behold, Jonathan son of Abiathar the priest came in; and Adonijah will say, Come in, for thou a man of strength, and thou wilt announce good news.

43 And Jonathan will answer and say to Adonijah, Truly our lord king David made Solomon king.

44 And the king will send with him Zadok the priest, and Nathan the prophet, and Benaiah son of Jehoida, and the Cherethites and the Pelethites, and they will cause him to ride upon the kings mule:

45 And Zadok the priest and Nathan the prophet will anoint him for king in Gihon: and they will go up from thence rejoicing, and the city will be put in motion: this the voice which ye heard.

46 And also Solomon will sit upon the throne of the kingdom.

47 And also the king's servants came to bless our lord king David, saying. Thy God will do good to the name of Solomon above thy name, and he will magnify his throne above thy throne. And the king will worship upon the bed.

48 And also thus will the king say, Blessed Jehovah the God of Israel who gave this day him sitting upon my throne, and mine eyes seeing.

49 And all the called that were to Adonijah will tremble, and will rise and go, a man to his way.

50 And Adonijah will, be afraid of the face of Solomon, and he will rise and go, and lay hold upon the horns of the altar.

51 And it will be announced to Solomon, saving, Behold, Adonijah was afraid of king Solomon, and behold, he seized upon the horns of the altar, saying, Will king Solomon swear to me according to the day if he will kill his servant with the sword?

52 And Solomon will say, If he will be for a son of strength there shall not fall of his hairs to the earth: and if evil shall be found in him and he shall die.

53 And king Solomon will send and they will bring him down from the altar. And he will come and worship to king Solomon: and Solomon will say to him, Go to thy house.

1 KINGS CHAPTER 2

1 And the days of David will draw near to die; and he will command Solomon his son, saying,

2 I go in the way of all the earth: and be thou strong, and be for a man;

3 And watch the watches of Jehovah thy God, to go in his ways, to watch his laws, his commands and his judgments, and his testimonies, as written in the law of Moses, so that thou shalt consider all that thou shalt do and all Where thou shalt turn there:

4 So that Jehovah shall raise up his word which he spake concerning me, saying, If thy sons shall watch their way to go before me in truth, with all their heart, and with all their soul, saying, There shall not be cut off to thee a man from the throne of Israel.

5 And also thou knewest what Joab on of Zeruiah did to me, what he did to the two chiefs of the armies of Israel, to Abner son of Ner, and to Amasa son of Jether; and he will kill them and put the bloods of war in peace, and give the bloods of war upon his girdle which was upon his loins, and in his shoe upon his feet

6 And do according to thy wisdom, and thou wilt not bring down his gray hairs in peace to hades

7 And to the sons of Barzillai the Gileadite thou shalt do mercy, and they shall be of those eating at thy table: for so they came near to me in my fleeing from the face of Absalom thy brother.

8 And behold, with thee Shimei, son of Gera, a Benjamite, of Bahurim; and he cursed me a strong curse in the day I went to the two camps and he came down to my meeting at Jordan, and I will swear to him by Jehovah, saying, If I shall kill thee with the sword.

9 And now thou shalt not let him go unpunished; for thou a wise man, and thou knowest what thou wilt do to him; and bring down his gray hairs with blood to hades

10 And David will lie down with his fathers, and be buried in the city of David.

11 And the days that David reigned over Israel, forty years: in Hebron he reigned seven years, and in Jerusalem he reigned thirty and three years.

12 And Solomon will sit upon the throne of David his father; and his kingdom will be protected greatly.

13 And Adonijah son of Haggith, will come to Bath-sheba, Solomon's mother: and she will say, Thy coming peace? And he will say, Peace.

14 And he will say, A word to me for thee. And she will say, Speak.

15 And he will say, Thou knewest that to me was the kingdom, and upon me all Israel set their faces for king: and the kingdom will turn about and be for my brother, for from Jehovah it was to him.

16 And now I ask one asking from thee, thou wilt not turn away my face. And she will say to him, Speak

17 And he will say, Speak now to Solomon the king, for he will not turn away thy face, and he will give to me Abishag the Shunamite for wife.

18 And Bathsheba will say, Well I will speak for thee to the king.

19 And Bathsheba will go to king Solomon to speak to him for Adonijah. And the king will rise up to her meeting, and worship to her, and he sat upon his throne, and a throne will be set for the king's mother; and she will sit at his right hand.

20 And she will say, One small asking I ask from thee; thou wilt not turn away my face. And the king will say to her, Ask, my mother, for I will not turn away thy face.

21 And she will say, Give Abishag the Shunamite to Adonijah thy brother for wife.

22 And king Solomon will answer, and say to his mother, And wherefore didst thou ask Abishag the Shunamite for Adonijah? And ask for him the kingdom, for he my brother,

23 And king Solomon will swear by Jehovah, saying, Thus will God do to me, and thus will he add, for Adonijah spoke this word against his soul.

24 And now Jehovah lives who prepared me, and he will set me upon the throne of David my father, and who made for me a house as he spake, for this day Adonijah shall die.

25 And king Solomon will send by the hand of Benaiah, son of Jehoida, and he will strike upon him and he will die.

26 And to Abiathar the priest the king said, Go to Anathoth upon thy field: for thou a man of death: and in this day will not kill thee, for thou didst lift up the ark of the Lord Jehovah before David my father, and because thou wert afflicted in all which my father was afflicted.

27 And Solomon will drive out Abiathar from being priest to Jehovah, to complete the word of Jehovah which he spake concerning the house of Eli in Shiloh.

28 And the report came even to Joab: (for Joab turned after Adonijah, and after Absalom he turned not;) and Joab will flee to the tent of Jehovah and will lay hold upon the horns of the altar.

29 And it will be announced to king Solomon that Joab fled to the tent of Jehovah; and behold, by the altar. And Solomon will send Benaiah son of Jehoida, saying, Go strike upon him.

30 And Benaiah will go to the tent of Jehovah, and say to him, Thus said the king, Come forth. And he will say, Nay; for here will I die. And Benaiah will turn back the king word, saying, Thus said Joab, and thus he answered me.

31 And the king will say to him, Do as he said, and strike upon him, and bury him; and take away the bloods which Joab shed gratuitously, from me and from my father's house.

32 And Jehovah turned back his blood upon his head, who struck upon two just men and good above him, and he will kill them with the sword, and my father David knew not, Abner son of Ner, chief of the army of Israel, and Amasa, son of Jether, chief of the army of Judah.

33 And their bloods shall turn back upon the head of Joab and upon the head of his seed forever: and to David and to his seed and to his house and to his throne shall be peace even forever, from Jehovah.

34 And Benaiah son of Jehoida will go up, and will strike upon him and will kill him: and he will be buried in his house in the desert

35 And the king will give Benaiah son of Jehoida instead of him over the army: and Zadok the priest, the king gave instead of Abiathar.

36 And the king will send and call for Shimei, and say to him, Build for thee a house in Jerusalem, and dwell there, and thou shalt not go forth from thence, whither and whither.

37 For being in the day of thy going forth, and thou didst pass the torrent Kidron, knowing, thou shalt know that dying, thou shalt die: thy blood shall be upon thy head.

38 And Shimei will say, Good the word: according to what my lord the king spake, thus will thy servant do. And Shimei dwelt in Jerusalem many days.

39 And it will be from the end of three years, and two servants to Shimei, will flee to Achish, son of Maachah, king of Gath: and they will announce to Shimci, saying, Behold, thy servants in Gath.

40 And Shimei will rise and saddle his ass, and go to Gath to Achish to seek his servants: and Shimei will go and bring his servants from Gath.

41 And it will be announced to Solomon that Shimei went from Jerusalem to Gath, and he will turn back

42 And the king will send and call for Shimei, and say to him, Did not I cause thee to swear by Jehovah, and attest to thee, saying, In the day of thy going forth, and thou wentest whither and whither, knowing, thou shalt know that dying, thou shalt die? and thou wilt say to me, Good the word I heard.

43 And wherefore didst thou not watch the oath of Jehovah, and the command which I commanded upon thee?

44 And the king will say to Shimei, Thou knewest all the evil which thy heart knew, which thou didst to David my father: and Jehovah turned back thy evil upon thy head.

45 And blessed be kind Solomon, and the throne of David shall be prepared before Jehovah, even forever.

46 And the king will command Benaiah son of Jehoida, and he will go forth and will strike upon him, and he will die. And the kingdom was prepared in the hand of Solomon.

1 KINGS CHAPTER 3

1 And Solomon will contract marriage with Pharaoh king of Egypt, and he will take Pharaoh's daughter and bring her to the city of David till he finished building his house, and the house of Jehovah and the wall of Jerusalem round about

2 Only the people sacrificing in heights, for there was not a house, built to the name of Jehovah even to these days.

3 And Solomon will love Jehovah, going in the laws of David. his father: only he was sacrificing and burning incense upon the heights.

4 And the king will go to the hill to sacrifice there; for it was the great height: a thousand burnt-offerings will Solomon bring up upon that altar.

5 In the hill Jehovah was seen to Solomon in a dream at night: and God will say, Ask what I shall give to thee.

6 And Solomon will say, Thou didst with thy servant David, my father, great mercy, according as he went before thee in the truth and in justice and in uprightness of heart with thee; and thou wilt watch for him this great mercy, and thou wilt give to him a son sitting upon his throne as this day.

7 And now, Jehovah my God, thou madest thy servant king instead of David my father and I a little boy, shall not know to go out and come in.

8 And thy servant in the midst of thy people which thou didst choose, many people which shall not be numbered and counted for multitude.

9 And give to thy servant a heart to hear to judge thy people to discern between good to evil: for who shall be able to judge this thy weighty people?

10 And the word will be good in the eyes of God that Solomon asked this word.

11 And God will say to him, Because thou didst ask this word, and didst not ask for thyself many days; and didst not ask for thyself riches, and didst not ask the soul of thine enemies: and didst ask for thyself to have understanding to hear judgment;

12 Behold, I did according to thy word, I gave to thee a wise and understanding heart; that there was not as thou before thee, and after thee there shall not arise like thee.

13 And also that thou askedst not I gave to thee, also riches, also honor, that there was not a man like thee among kings all thy days.

14 And if thou wilt go in my way to watch my law and my commands, as David thy father went, I prolonged thy days.

15 And Solomon will awake; and behold, a dream. And he will go to Jerusalem and stand before the ark of the covenant of Jehovah, and bring up burnt-offerings, and he will do peace, and make a drinking to all his servants.

16 Then will come two women, harlots, to the king, and they will stand before him.

17 And the one woman will say, With leave, my lord, I and this woman are dwelling in one house; and I shall bring forth with her in the house.

18 And it will be in the third day after I brought forth, and also this woman will bring forth: and we together, and no stranger with us in the house besides we two in the house.

19 And the son of this woman will die in the night when she lay upon him.

20 And she will rise in the middle of the night and take my son from beside me, and thy servant sleeping; and she will lay him in her bosom and her dead son she laid in my bosom.

21 And I shall rise in the morning to suckle my son, and behold, he was dead: and I shall attend to him in the morning, and behold, it was not my son that I brought forth.

22 And the other woman will say, Nay; for my son the living, and thy son the dead. And this said, No; for thy son the dead, and my son the living. And they spake before the king.

23 And the king will say, This says, My son the living, and thy son the dead; and this says, Nay; for thy son the dead, and my son the living.

24 And the king will say, Take to me a sword. And they will bring the sword before the king.

25 And the king will say, Divide the living child in two, and ye shall give the half to the one, and the half to the other.

26 And the woman to whom the living son, will say to the king, for her bowels were warm upon her son, and she will say, With leave, my lord, ye shall give to her the living child, and slaying, ye shall not slay him. And this said, It shall not be even to me, even to thee; divide it

27 And the king will answer and say, Ye shall give to her the living child, and slaying, ye shall not slay it: she is his mother.

28 And all Israel will hear the judgment which the king judged, and they will be afraid of the face of the king, for they saw that the wisdom of Jehovah was in the midst of him to do judgment

1 KINGS CHAPTER 4

1 And Solomon will be reigning, king over all Israel.

2 And these the chiefs which were to him: Azariah, son of Zadok the priest;

3 Elihoreph and Ahiah, sons of Shisha, scribes; Jehoshaphat son of Ahilud, remembering.

4 And Benaiah, son of Jehoida, over the army: and Zadok and Abiathar, priests:

5 And Azariah son of Nathan, over the stations: and Zabud, son of Nathan the priest, the king's friend:

6 And Ahishar over the house: and Adoniram son of Abda over the tribute.

7 And to Solomon, twelve, set over all Israel, and they furnished the king and his house: a month in the year will be for one to furnish.

8 And these their names: the son of Hur in mount Ephraim:

9 The son of Dekar, in Makaz, and in Shaalbim, and the House of the Sun, and the oak of the House of Mercy.:

10 The son of Hesed in Araboth; to him Sochoh, and all the land of Hepher:

11 The son of Abinadab, all the height of Dor: Taphath the daughter of Solomon was to him for wife.

12 Baana son of Ahilud; Taanach and Megiddo, and all the House of Rest, which is by Zartanah from beneath Jezreel, from the House of Rest even to the Meadow of Dancing, even to the other side of Jokneam.

13 The son of Geber in Ramoth-Gilead; to him Havoth-Jair son of Manasseh, which was in Gilead; to him a portion of Ergab which is in Bashan, sixty great cities, with a wall and bars of brass.

14 Ahinadab, son of Iddo, the two camps.

16 Baana, son of Hushai in Asher and in Aloth:

17 Jehoshaphat son of Paruah in Issachar:

18 Shimei, son of Elah, in Benjamin.

19 Geber, son of Uri, in the land of Gilead, the land of Sihon, king of the Amorites, and Og, king of Bashan; and one king set which was in the land.

20 Judah and Israel many as the sand which is by the sea for multitude, eating and drinking and rejoicing.

21 And Solomon was ruling over all kingdoms from the river to the land of the rovers, and even to the bound of Egypt: they were bringing a gift and serving Solomon all the days of his life.

22 And the bread of Solomon for one day will be thirty cors of fine flour, and sixty cors of meal,

23 Ten fatted oxen, and twenty oxen of the shepherd, and a hundred sheep, besides from the stag and the roe and the fallow deer, and fowls fattened.

24 For he ruled over all beyond the river, from Tiphsah and even to Azzah, over all the kings beyond the river: and there was peace to him from all his servants from round about 25 And Judah dwelt, and Israel, with confidence, a man under his vine and under his fig tree, from Dan and even to the Well of the Oath, all the days of Solomon.

26 And there will be to Solomon forty thousand stalls of horses for his chariots, and twelve thousand horsemen.

27 And these being set, furnished king Solomon, and all coming near king Solomon's table, each his month: a word will not be wanting.

28 And the barley and the straw for horses, and for coursers, they will bring to the place where a man will be there according to his judgment

29 And God will give wisdom to Solomon, and understanding exceeding much, and breadth of heart as the sand which is upon the lip of the sea.

30 And the wisdom of Solomon will be multiplied above the wisdom of all the sons of the east, and above all the wisdom of Egypt

31 And he will be wise above all men; above Ethan the Ezrahite, and Heman and Chalcol and Darda, sons of Mahol: and his name will be in all the nations round about 32 And he will speak three thousand parables: and his songs will be five and a thousand.

33 And he will speak concerning the woods, from the cedar which is in Lebanon, even to the hyssop which went forth on the wall: and he will speak upon the cattle, and upon the birds, and upon the creeping things, and upon the fishes.

34 And there will come from all peoples to hear the wisdom of Solomon, from all the kings of the earth who heard his wisdom.

1 KINGS CHAPTER 5

1 And Hiram king of Tyre will send his servants to Solomon for he heard that they anointed him for king instead of his father: for Hiram was loving to David all the days.

2 And Solomon will send to Hiram, saying,

3 Thou knewest David my father, that he was not able to build a house for the name of Jehovah his God from the face of wars which surrounded him, until Jehovah will give them under the soles of his feet

4 And now Jehovah my God caused rest to me from round about; not an adversary and not an evil event

5 And behold me saying to build a house for the name of Jehovah my God, as Jehovah spake to David my father, saying, Thy son which I will give upon thy throne instead of thee, he shall build the house to my name.

6 And now command and they shall cut for me cedars from Lebanon; and my servants shall be with thy servants: and the hire of thy servants will I give to thee according to all which thou shalt say: for thou knewest that not among us a man knowing to cut wood as the Sidonians.

7 And it will be when Hiram heard the words of Solomon, and he will rejoice greatly, and say, Blessed Jehovah this day who gave to David a wise son over this great people.

8 And Hiram will send to Solomon, saying, I heard what thou sentest to me: I will do all thy pleasure in woods of cedars and in woods of cypress.

9 My servants shall bring from Lebanon to the sea, and I will put them on rafts upon the sea, even to the place where thou wilt send to me; and I dispersed them there, and thou shalt lift up and thou shalt do my pleasure to give bread to my house.

10 And Hiram will be giving to Solomon woods of cedar and woods of cypress, all his desire.

11 And Solomon gave to Hiram twenty thousand cons of wheat food for his house, and twenty cors of beaten oil: thus Solomon will give to Hiram year by year.

12 And Jehovah gave wisdom to Solomon, as he spake to him: and peace will be between Hiram and between Solomon; and they two will cut out a covenant

13 And king Solomon will bring up a tribute from all Israel; and the tribute will be thirty thousand men.

14 And he will send them to Lebanon, ten thousand by the month; being changed, a month they shall be in Lebanon and two months in his house. And Adoniram over the tribute.

15 And there will be to Solomon seventy thousand lifting up a burden, and eighty thousand hewing in the mountain.

16 Besides from the chiefs set to Solomon which were over the work, three thousand and three hundred ruling over the people doing in the work.

17 The king will command and they will remove great stones, precious stones; to set the house, cut stones.

18 And Solomon's builders and Hiram's builders, and those setting, will cut: and they will prepare the woods and stones to build the house.

1 KINGS CHAPTER 6

1 And it will be in the eightieth year and four hundredth year after the going out of the sons of Israel from the land of Egypt, in the fourth year, in the month of brightness, it the second month to king Solomon over Israel, and he will build the house to Jehovah.

2 And the house which king Solomon built to Jehovah, sixty cubits its length, and twenty its breadth, and thirty cubits its height

3 And the porch upon the face of the temple of the house, twenty cubits its length, upon the face of the breadth of the house; ten by the cubit its breadth upon the face of the house.

4 And he will make for the house windows of closed bars.

5 And he will build upon the wall of the house a floor round about the walls of the house round about for the temple, for the oracle: and he will make ribs round about

6 The floor the lower part, five by the cubit its breadth, and the middle, six by the cubit its breadth, and the third, seven by the cubit its breadth: for he gave offsets to the house round about without, so that it laid not hold upon the walls of the house.

7 And the house in its building was built of stone completed from the quarry: and hammers and the axe, every instrument of iron was not heard in the house in its building.

8 The door of the middle rib to the right shoulder of the house: and they will go up with windings upon the middle, and from the middle to the third.

9 And he will build the house, and he will finish it; and cover the house with arches and rows with cedars.

10 He will build the floor upon all the house, five cubits its height: and it will hold to the house with woods of cedars.

11 And the word of Jehovah will be to Solomon, saying,

12 This house which thou didst build, if thou shalt go in my laws, and my judgment thou wilt do, and watch all my commands to go in them; and I lifted up my word with thee which I spake to David thy father.

13 And I dwelt in the midst of the sons of Israel, and I will not forsake my people Israel

14 And Solomon will build the house and finish it

15 And he will build the walls of the house from within it with ribs of cedars; from the bottom of the house even to the walls of the covering he overlaid with wood from within, and he will overlay the bottom of the house with ribs of cypresses.

16 And he will build twenty cubits from the thighs of the house with ribs of cedars, from the bottom even to the walls: and he will build for it from within for the oracle to the holy of holies.

17 And forty by the cubit was the house; it the temple before.

18 And cedar to the house within carved work with ornaments and opening flower-buds; all cedar: no stone was seen.

19 And the oracle in the midst of the house from within he prepared to give there the ark of the covenant of Jehovah.

20 And to the face of the oracle twenty cubits the length, and twenty cubits the breadth, and twenty cubits its height: and he will overlay it with gold shut up, and he will overlay the altar with cedar.

21 And Solomon will overlay the house from the inside with gold shut up: and he will close up with chains of gold to the face of the oracle; and he will overlay it with gold.

22 And all the house he overlaid with gold even till he completed all the house: and all the altar which was to the oracle he overlaid with gold.

23 And he will make in the oracle two cherubims of woods of oil, ten cubits its height

24 And five cubits the one wing of the cherub, and five cubits the second wing of the cherub: ten cubits from the extremities of its wings and even to the extremities of its wings.

25 And ten by the cubit of the second cherub: one measure and one form to the two cherubs.

26 The height of the one cherub ten by the cubit, and this to the second cherub.

27 And he will give the cherubims in the midst of the house within: and the cherubims will expand the wings, and the wing of the one will touch upon the wall, and the wing of the second cherub touched upon the second wall; and their wings touched wing to wing to the middle of the house.

28 And he will overlay the cherabims with gold.

29 And all the walls of the house round about he carved with engravings of cherubims and palm trees and opening flower-buds from within and to without

30 And the bottom of the house he overlaid with gold from within and to without

31 And the openings of the oracle he made doors of the woods of oil: the projection of door-posts the fifth.

32 And two doors of woods of oil; and he carved upon them carvings of cherubims, and palm-trees, and opening flower-buds, and he overlaid with gold, and he brought down gold upon the cherubims and upon the palm-trees.

33 And thus be made for the door of the temple, door-posts of woods of oil from the fourth.

34 And two doors of the woods of cypresses: two ribs of the one door rolling, and two ribs of the second door rolling.

35 And he carved cherubims,and palm-trees, and opening flower-buds; and he overlaid with gold made even upon the carving.

36 And he will build the enclosure of the insides three rows of cuttings, and a row of cuttings of cedars.

37 In the fourth year was the house of Jehovah founded, in the month of brightness.

38 And in the eleventh year in the month of rain (this the eighth month) was the house finished to all its words and according to all its judgment And he will build it seven years.

1 KINGS CHAPTER 7

1 And Solomon built his house thirteen years, and he will finish his house.

2 And he will build the house of the forest of Lebanon; a hundred cubits its length, and fifty cubits its breadth, and and thirty cubits its height, upon four rows of pillars of cedars, and cuttings of cedars upon the pillars.

3 And it was covered with cedar from above upon the ribs which were upon the forty and five pillars, fifteen to the row.

4 And bars, three rows, and window against window, three steps.

5 And all the doors and door-posts, quadrated with the bar: and the front of the window against the window, three steps.

6 And he made a porch of pillars, fifty cubits its length, and thirty cubits its breadth: and the porch upon the face of them: and the pillars and the threshold upon the face of them.

7 And a porch of the throne upon which he will judge there, a porch of judgment he made: and it was covered with cedar from the bottom even to the bottom.

8 And his house where he dwelt there, another enclosure, from the house to the porch was according to this work And he will make a house for Pharaoh's daughter which Solomon took, according to this porch.

9 All these precious stones according to the measures of cuttings, sawings with a saw, from within and from without, and from the foundation even to the expansions, and from without even to the great enclosure.

10 And the foundation precious stones, great stones; stones of ten cubits and stones of eight cubits.

11 And from above precious stones according to the measure of the cuttings and the cedars.

12 And the great enclosure round about, three rows of cuttings, and a row of cuttings of cedars, and for the enclosure of the house of Jehovah within, and for the porch of the house.

14 Son of a widow woman from the tribe of Naphtali, and his father a Tyrian man, an artificer of brass; and he will be filled with wisdom and understanding, and knowledge to do all the work in brass. And he will come to king Solomon and do all his works.

15 And he formed two pillars of brass, eighteen cubits the height of the one pillar: and a thread of twelve cubits will surround the two pillars.

16 And he made two crowns upon the heads of the pillars, of molten brass: five cubits the height of the one crown, and five cubits the height of the second crown.

17 Lattices of net work, festoons of chain work for the crown which was upon the head of the pillars; seven for the one crown and seven for the second crown.

18 And he will make the pillars, and two rows round about upon the one net for covering the crowns which were upon the head, with pomegranates: and thus he made for the second crown.

19 And the crowns which were upon the head of the, pillars of lily-work in the porch, four cubits.

20 And the crowns upon the two pillars also from above from over against the belly which was beyond the net: the pomegranates two hundred in rows round about upon the second crown.

21 And he will raise up the pillars for the porch of the temple: and he will raise up the right pillar and call its name Jachin: and he will raise up the left pillar and call its name Boaz.

22 And upon the head of the pillars the work of the lily: and the work of the pillars will be completed.

23 And he will make the sea molten, ten by the cubit, from its lip even to its lip, round, round about; and five by the cubit its height; and a rope thirty by the cubit will surround it round about 24 And ornaments from beneath to its lip round about surrounding it, ten by the cubit, folding round the sea round about: two rows of ornaments being cast in its casting.

25 It stood upon twelve oxen, three looking to the north, and three looking to the sea, and three looking to the south, and three looking to the sunrising: and the sea upon them from above, and all their behinds inside:

26 And its thickness a hand breadth, and its lip as the work of the lip of a cup the flower of the lily: it will hold two thousand baths.

27 And he will make ten bases of brass, four by the cubit the length of the one base, and four by the cubit its breadth, and three by the cubit its height

28 And this the work of the base: borders to them, and borders between the joinings:

29 And upon the borders which were between the joinings, lions, oxen, and cherubs: and upon the joinings thus from above: and from beneath to the lions and to the oxen, wreaths, a work of descent

30 And four wheels of brass to the one base, and axles of brass: and its four steps, shoulders to them: from under to the wash basin the shoulders molten from beyond each of the wreaths.

31 And its mouth from within to the crown and from above, by the cubit: and the mouth, round; the work thus a cubit and half a cubit: and also upon the mouth engravings and their borders, quadrated, not round.

32 And four wheels beneath to the borders; and hands of the wheels in the base: and the height of the one wheel a cubit and half of the cubit

33 And the work of the wheels as the work of a wheel of the chariot: their hands and their backs and their joinings and their gatherings all cast

35 And in the head of the base its height, half a cubit rounded round about: and upon the head of the base its hands and its borders from out of it

36 And he will open, upon the cheeks of its hands and upon its borders, cherubs, lions, and palm-trees, according to the nakedness of each, and wreaths round about

37 According to this he made the ten bases, one casting, one measure, one form to all of them.

38 And he will make ten wash-basins of brass: the one wash-basin will hold forty baths, four by the cubit the one wash-basin, the one wash-basin upon the one base to the ten bases

39 And he will give five bases upon the shoulder of the house from the right, and five upon the shoulder of the house from its left: and he gave the sea from the shoulder of the house to the right to the east over against the south.

40 And Hiram will make the washbasins and the shovels and the vases: and Hiram will finish doing all the work which he made for king Solomon in the house of Jehovah.

41 The two pillars and the globes of the crowns which were upon the head of the two pillars and the two nets to cover the two globes of the crowns which were upon the head of the pillars;

42 And four hundred pomegranates to the two nets, two rows of pomegranates to the one net, to cover the two globes of the crowns which were upon the face of the pillars;

43 And the ten ases and the ten wash-basins upon the bases;

44 And the one sea and the twelve oxen under the sea;

45 And the pots and the shovels and the vases: and all these vessels which Hiram made for king Solomon of the house of Jehovah, of polished brass.

46 In the circuit of Jordan the king cast them, in the density of the earth between Succoth and between Zarthan.

47 And Solomon will leave all the vessels, an exceeding great multitude: and the weight of the brass was not searched out

48 And Solomon will make all the vessels which are for the house of Jehovah: the altar of gold, and the table which was upon it the bread of the face, of gold.

49 And the chandeliers, five from the right, and five from the left, before the oracle, of gold shut up; and the flower, and the lamps, and the tongs of gold.

50 And the thresholds, and the snuffers, and the vases, and the pans, and the fire-pans, of gold shut up; and the openings to the doors of the house within to the holy of holies, to the doors of the house to the temple, of gold.

51 And all the work will be completed which king Solomon made for the house of Jehovah. And Solomon will bring in the holy things of David his father: the silver and the gold and the vessels he gave into the treasures of the house of Jehovah.

1 KINGS CHAPTER 8

1 Then Solomon will convoke together the old men of Israel and all the heads of the tribes, chiefs of the fathers to the sons of Israel, to king Solomon at Jerusalem, to bring up the ark of the covenant of Jehovah from the city of David: this is Zion.

2 And every man of Israel will be convoked to king Solomon in the month Ethanim in the festival: this the seventh month.

3 And all the old men of Israel will come, and the priests will lift up the ark

4 And they will bring up the ark of Jehovah, and the tent of appointment, and all the holy vessels which were in the tent, and the priests and the Levites will bring them up.

5 And king Solomon and all the assembly of Israel assembled together to him, with him before the ark sacrificing sheep and oxen which shall not be counted and shall not be numbered for multitude.

6 And the priests will bring up the ark of the covenant of Jehovah to its place to the oracle of the house to the holy of holies, to beneath the wings of the cherubims.

7 For the cherubims spreading out their wings to the place of the ark, and the cherubims will cover over the ark and over the parts from above.

8 And they will prolong the bars and the heads of the bars will be seen from the holies upon the face of the oracle, and they will not be seen without; and they will be there till this day.

9 Nothing in the ark only the two tables of stones that Moses set down there in Horeb which Jehovah cut out with the sons of Israel in their coming out of the land of Egypt

10 And it will be in the priests' coming out of the holy place, and the cloud filled the house of Jehovah.

11 And the priests will not be able to stand to serve from the face of the cloud for the glory of Jehovah filled the house of Jehovah.

12 Then said Solomon, Jehovah spake to dwell in thick clouds.

13 Building, I built a house for thee to dwell, a place for thy resting forever.

14 And thy king will turn his face round and bless all the convocation of Israel; and all the convocation of Israel stood;

15 And he will say, Blessed Jehovah the God of Israel, who spake by his mouth to David my father, and by his hand filled up, saying,

16 From the day which I brought forth my people Israel out of Egypt I chose not a city from all the tribes of Israel to build a house for my name to be there; and I will choose upon David to be over my people Israel

17 And it will be with the heart of David my father to build a house for name of Jehovah the God of Israel

18 And Jehovah will say to David my father, Because it was with thy heart to build a house for my name, it was good it was with thy heart

19 But thou shalt not build a house, but thy son coming forth from thy loins, he shall build the house for my name.

20 And Jehovah will raise up his word which he spake; and I shall rise instead of David my father, and sit upon the throne of Israel, as Jehovah spake; and I will build the house for the name of Jehovah the God of Israel

21 And I will set there a place for the ark, where is there the covenant of Jehovah which he cut out with our fathers in his bringing them out of the land of Egypt

22 And Solomon will stand at the face of the altar of Jehovah before all the convocation of Israel, and he will spread forth his hands to the heavens:

23 And he will say, Jehovah the God of Israel, none like thee, the God in the heavens from above and upon the earth from beneath, watching the covenant and the mercy to thy servants going before thee with all their heart:

24 Which thou didst watch to thy servant David my father what thou spakest to him: and thou wilt speak with thy mouth, and with thy hand thou didst complete as this day.

25 And now Jehovah God of Israel watch to thy servant David my father what thou spakest to him, saying, There shall not be cut off to thee a man from my face sitting upon the throne of Israel; only if thy sons shall watch their way to go before me as thou didst go before me.

26 And now, O God of Israel, thy word now shall be firm which thou spakest to thy servant David my father.

27 For truly shall God dwell upon the earth? Behold the heavens and the heavens of the heavens shall not contain thee; much less this house which I built

28 And look to the supplication of thy servant, and to his prayer, O Jehovah my God, to hear to the cry and to the supplication which thy servant prays before thee this day:

29 For thine eye to be opened to this house night and day, to the place of which thou saidst, My name shall be there; to hear to the supplication which thy servant shall pray to this place.

30 And wilt thou hear to the prayer of thy servant and of thy people Israel which they shall pray to this place? and wilt thou hear to the place of thy dwelling to the heavens? and hear and forgive?

31 Whatever man shall sin against his neighbor, and an oath lifted up upon him to cause him to swear, and the oath come before thine altar in this house,

32 And thou wilt hear in the heavens, and do, and judge thy servants to condemn the unjust, to give his way upon his head, and to acquit the just, to give to him according to his justice.

33 In thy people Israel being struck before the enemy because they will sin against thee, and they turned back to thee, and they confessed thy name and prayed, and made supplication to thee in this house.

34 And wilt thou hear in the heavens and forgive to the sin of thy people Israel, and turn them back to the land which thou gavest to their fathers?

35 In the heavens being shut up and there will be no rain when they shall sin against thee; and they pray to this place and profess thy name, and they turn back from their sin when thou shalt humble them:

36 And wilt thou hear in the heavens and forgive to the sin of thy servants and of thy people Israel? for thou wilt teach them the good way which they shall go in it, and give rain upon thy land which thou gavest to thy people for an inheritance.

37 If famine shall be in the land, if there shall be death, blasting, yellowness, the locust devouring; if his enemy shall press upon him in the land of his gates, every blow, every sickness;

38 Every prayer, every supplication which shall be to every man to all thy people Israel which shall know a man the blow to his heart and spread forth his hands to this house:

39 Wilt thou hear in the heavens thy prepared dwelling, and forgive and do, and give to a man according to all his ways? for thou wilt know his heart; for thou wilt know alone the heart of all the sons of men:

40 So that they will fear thee all the days which they live upon the face of the earth which thou gavest to our fathers.

41 And also for the strangers which are not of thy people Israel, he shall come from a land afar off for sake of thy name;

42 (For they will hear of thy great name and thy strong hand, and thy stretched out arm;) and coming and praying to this house;

43 Wilt thou hear in the heavens thy prepared dwelling, and do according to all the stranger shall call upon thee? so that all the people of the earth shall know thy name to fear thee as thy people Israel; and to know that thy name was called upon this house which I built.

44 If thy people shall go forth to war against his enemy in the way which thou shalt send them, and pray to Jehovah the way of the city which thou didst choose in it, and the house which I built for thy name:

45 And hear thou in the heavens their supplication and their prayer, and do their judgment

46 For they will sin against thee (for no man which will not sin) and thou wert angry with them and gave them before the enemy, and they carried them away their captives to the land of the enemy, far off or near;

47 And they turned back to their heart in the land which they were carried captive there, and they turned back and supplicated to thee in the land of their captivity, saying, We sinned and acted perversely, and did evil;

48 And they turned back to thee with all their heart and with all their soul in the land of their enemies who carried them captive, and prayed to thee the way of their land which thou gavest to their fathers, the city which thou didst choose, and the house which I built to thy name:

49 And hear in the heavens thy prepared dwelling, their supplication and their prayer, and do their judgment,

50 And forgive to thy people who sinned against thee, and all their transgressions which they transgressed against thee, and give them for compassion before those carrying them captive, and they compassionated them:

51 For they thy people and thine inheritance which thou broughtest forth out of Egypt from the midst of the furnace of iron:

52 For thine eyes to be opened to the prayer of thy servant and to the prayer of thy people Israel, to hear to them in all their calling to thee.

53 For thou didst separate them to thyself for an inheritance from all the people of the earth as thou spakest by the hand of Moses thy servant, in thy bringing our fathers out of the land of Egypt, O Lord Jehovah.

54 And it will be as Solomon finished praying to Jehovah all this supplication and prayer, he rose from the face of the altar of Jehovah, from bending upon his knees and his hands spread forth to the heavens.

55 And he will stand and bless all the convocation of Israel with a great voice, saying,

56 Blessed Jehovah who gave rest to his people Israel, according to all which he spake: there fell not one word from all his good word which he spake by the hand of Moses his servant

57 Jehovah our God will be with us as he was with our fathers: he will not forsake us, and he will not cast us off.

58 To incline our heart to him, to go in all his ways, and to watch his commands and his laws and his judgments which he commanded our fathers.

59 And these words which I supplicated before Jehovah shall be drawing near to Jehovah our God day and night, to do the judgment of his servant and the judgment of his people Israel, the word of a day in its day.

60 For all the people of the earth to know that Jehovah he is God, none besides.

61 And your hearts be perfect with Jehovah our God to go in his laws, and to watch his commands as this day.

62 And the king and all Israel with him sacrificed a sacrifice before Jehovah.

63 And Solomon will sacrifice a sacrifice of peace which he sacrificed to Jehovah, twenty and two thousand oxen, and a hundred and twenty thousand sheep. And the king and all the sons of Israel will consecrate the house of Jehovah.

64 In that day the king consecrated the middle of the enclosure which was before the house of Jehovah: for he did there the burnt-offering and the gifts and the fat of the peace: for the altar of brass which was before Jehovah was little for containing the burnt-offering and the gifts and the fat of the peace

65 And Solomon will make the festival in that day, and all Israel with him, a great convocation from the going in of Hamath even to the torrent of Egypt, before Jehovah our God seven days and seven days, fourteen days.

66 In the eighth day he sent away the people, and they will bless the king and go to their tents rejoicing and good of heart for all the good which Jehovah did for David his servant and for Israel his people.

1 KINGS CHAPTER 9

1 And it will be when Solomon finished building the house of Jehovah, and the house of the king, and all the pleasure of Solomon which he desired to do,

2 And Jehovah will be seen to Solomon the second time as he was seen to him in the hill.

3 And Jehovah will say to him, I heard thy supplication and thy prayer which thou didst supplicate before me: I consecrated this house which thou didst build to put my name there even to forever; and mine eyes and my heart were there all the days.

4 And thou, if thou shalt go before me as David thy father went with integrity of heart and in uprightness to do according to all that I commanded thee, my law and my judgment thou shalt watch:

5 And I raised up the throne of thv kingdom over Israel forever, as spake to David thy father, saying, There shall not be cut off to thee a man from the throne of Israel.

6 If turning back, ye shall turn back, ye and your sons from after me, and shall not watch my commands, my laws which I gave before you, and ye went and served other gods and worshiped to them:

7 And I cut off Israel from the face of the earth which I gave to them and the house which I consecrated to my name I will cast out from my face; and Israel was for a parable and for a derision among all peoples.

8 And this house shall be high, every one passing by it shall be astonished, and shall hiss: and they said, For what did Jehovah thus to this land and to this house?

9 And they said, Because they forsook Jehovah their God who brought forth their fathers out of the land of Egypt, and they will lay hold upon other gods and worship to them, and serve them: for this, Jehovah brought, upon them all this evil.

10 And it will be from the end of twenty years, when Solomon built the two houses, the house of Jehovah and the house of the king,

11 (Hiram, king of Tyre, aided Solomon in woods of cedars and in woods of cypresses, and in gold to all his desire) then king Solomon will give Hiram twenty cities in the land of Galilee.

12 And Hiram came out from Tyre to see the cities which Solomon gave to him, and they were not right in his eyes.

13 And he will say, What these cities which thou gavest to me, my brother? And he will call them the land Cabul even to this day.

14 And Hiram will send to the king a hundred and twenty talents of gold.

15 And this the word of tribute which king Solomon brought up to build the house of Jehovah, and his house, and the fortress, and the walls of Jerusalem, and the enclosure, and Megiddo, and Gezer.

16 Pharaoh king of Egypt came up, and he will take Gezer and burn it in fire, and he killed the Canaanite dwelling in the city, and he will give it a sending to his daughter, Solomon's

18 And Baalath and Tadmor in the desert, in the land.

19 And all the cities of stores which were to Solomon, and the cities of chariots, and the cities of horsemen, and the pleasure of Solomon which he pleased to build in Jerusalem, and in Lebanon; and in all the land of his ruling.

20 All the people remaining of the Amorites, the Hittites, the Perizzites, the Hivites and the Jebusites, which were not of the sons of Israel;

21 Their sons which were left after them in the land, which the sons of Israel will not be able to destroy them, and Solomon will bring them up for tribute of work even to this day.

22 And of the sons of Israel, Solomon gave not to serve, for they were men of war, and his servants and his chiefs, and his warriors, and chiefs of chariots, and his horsemen.

23 These the chiefs being stationed which were over the work to Solomon, fifty and five hundred going down among the people working in the work

24 But Pharaoh's daughter went up from the city of David to her house which he built for her: then he built the fortress.

25 And Solomon brought up three times in a year burnt-offerings and peace upon the altar which he built to Jehovah, and he burnt incense upon it that was before Jehovah: and he completed the house.

26 And Solomon made a ship in Ezion-Geber, which is with Eloth, upon the lip of the sea of sedge in the land of Edom.

27 And Hiram will send in the ships his servants, men of ships, knowing the sea with Solomon's servants.

28 And they will come to Ophir, and take gold, four hundred and twenty talents, and bring to king Solomon.

1 KINGS CHAPTER 10

1 And queen Sheba heard the report of Solomon for the name of Jehovah, and she will come to try him in enigmas.

2 And she will come to Jerusalem with very weighty strength, camels lifting up spices, and exceeding much gold and precious stone: and she will come to Solomon and will speak to him all which was in her heart

3 And Solomon will announce to her all her words: there was not a word hid from the king which he announced not to her.

4 And queen Sheba will see all Solomon's wisdom, and the house which he built,

5 And the food of his table, and the seats of his servants, and the standing of his attendants, and their vestments, and his cup-bearers, and his burnt-offerings which he will bring up to the house of Jehovah; and no more spirit was in her.

6 And she will say to the king, The word was truth which I heard in my land concerning thy words, and concerning thy wisdom.

7 And I believed not the words until I came, and mine eyes will see it: and behold, the half was not announced to me: thou didst add wisdom and good to the report which I heard.

9 Jehovah thy God will be blessed, who delighted in thee to give thee upon the throne of Israel: in Jehovah's loving Israel forever, and he will set thee up for king to do judgment and justice.

10 And she will give to the king a hundred and twenty talents of gold, and spices very many, and precious stone; there came no more as this spice for multitude which queen Sheba gave to king Solomon.

11 And also the ship of Hiram which lifted up gold from Ophir, brought from Ophir woods of almugs very many, and precious stone.

12 And the king will make of the almug trees a support for the house of Jehovah, and for the king's house, harps and lyres for songs; there came not such woods of almugs, and were not seen even to this day.

13 And king Solomon gave to queen Sheba all her desire which she asked, besides what he gave to her according to the hand of king Solomon. And she will turn and go to her land, she and her servants

14 And the weight of gold which came to Solomon in one year will be six hundred sixty and six talents of gold,

15 Besides from the men travelling about and from the traffic of the merchants, and all the kings of Arabia and all the prefects of the earth.

16 And king Solomon will make two hundred shields of beaten gold; six hundred of gold will come up upon the one shield.

17 And three hundred shields of beaten gold; three parts of gold will come up upon the one shield: and the king will give them to the house of the forest of Lebanon.

18 And the king will make a great ivory throne, and overlaid it with pure gold.

19 Six steps to the throne, and the head rounded to the throne from its back parts: and hands hence and thence upon the place of the seat, and two lions standing beside the hands.

20 And twelve lions standing there upon the six steps, hence and thence: there was not made thus to all the kingdoms.

21 And all the drinking vessels of king Solomon, gold, and every vessel of the house of the forest of Lebanon, gold shut up; nothing silver: it was not reckoned in the days of Solomon for any thing.

22 for a ship of Tharshish to the king in the sea with the ship of Hiram: one for three years will come, a ship of Tharshish lifting up gold and silver and ivory and apes and peacocks.

23 And king Solomon will be magnified above all the kings of the earth for riches and for wisdom.

24 And all the earth are seeking the face of Solomon to hear his wisdom which God gave in his heart

25 And they were bringing each his gifts, vessels of silver and vessels of gold, and garments and weapons and spices, horses, and mules, the word of a year in a year.

26 And Solomon will gather together chariots and horsemen: and there will be to him a thousand and four hundred chariots, and twelve thousand horsemen; and he will set them down in the cities of chariots and with the king in Jerusalem.

27 And the king will give silver in Jerusalem, as stones, and cedars he gave as sycamores which are in the plain for multitude.

28 And a going forth of horses out of Egypt to Solomon, and a caravan of the king's merchants will take the caravan at a price.

29 And a chariot will go up and come forth out of Egypt with six hundred of silver, and a horse at fifty and a hundred: and thus for all the kings of the Hittites and for the kings of Aram, by their hand they will bring forth.

1 KINGS CHAPTER 11

1 And king Solomon loved many strange women, and the daughter of Pharaoh, Moabites, Ammonites, Edomites, Zidonians, Hittites;

2 From the nations which Jehovah said to the sons of Israel, Ye shall not go in to them, and they shall not come in to you: surely they will turn your heart after their gods: to these Solomon joined to love.

3 And there will be to him seven hundred chief wives, and three hundred concubines: and his wives will turn his heart

4 And it will be at the time of the old age of Solomon his wives turned away his heart after other gods: and his heart was not perfect with Jehovah his God as the heart of David his father.

5 And Solomon will go after Ashtaroth the god of the Zidonians, and after Milcom the abomination of the Ammonites.

6 And Solomon will do evil in the eyes of Jehovah, and he will not fill up after Jehovah as David his father.

7 Then Solomon will build a height for Chemosh, the abomination of Moab, in the mountain which is upon the face of Jerusalem, and for the king, the abomination of the sons of Ammon.

8 And thus he did for all his strange wives, they burning incense and sacrificing to their gods.

9 And Jehovah will be angry with Solomon, for his heart was turned from Jehovah the God of Israel, being seen to him twice.

10 And he commanded him concerning this word not to go after other gods: and he watched not what Jehovah commanded.

11 And Jehovah will say to Solomon, Because this was with thee, and thou didst not watch my covenant and my laws which I commanded upon thee, rending, I will rend the kingdom from thee and give it to thy servant

12 But in thy days I will not do it for sake of David thy father; out of the hand of thy son will I rend it

13 But I will not rend all the kingdom; one tribe I will give to thy son for sake of David my servant, and for sake of Jerusalem which I chose.

14 And Jehovah will raise up an adversary to Solomon, Hadad the Edomite: he from the king's seed in Edom.

15 And it will be in David's being in Edom, and in Joab the chief of the army going up, he came to bury the slain, and he will strike every male in Edom;

16 (For six months Joab dwelt there and all Israel, till he cut off every male in Edom.)

17 And Hahad will flee, he and the men, Edomites, his father's servants, with him to go to Egypt; and Hadad a small boy.

18 And they will rise from Midian and come to Paran: and they will take men with them from Paran, and they will go to Egypt to Pharaoh king of Egypt; and he will give to him a house and spake bread for him, and gave to him land.

19 And Hadad will find favor in the eyes of Pharaoh greatly, and he will give to him a wife, sister of his wife, sister of Tahpenes the mistress.

20 And the sister of Tahpenes will bare to him Genubath his son, and Tahpenes will wean him in the midst of Pharaoh's house: and Genubath will be in Pharaoh's house in the midst of Pharaoh's sons.

21 And Hadad heard in Egypt that David lay down with his fathers, and that Joab chief of the army died, and Hadad will say to Pharaoh, Send me away, and I will go to my land.

22 And Pharaoh will say to him, For what lackest thou with me, and behold thee seeking to go to thy land? and he will say, Naught: but sending, thou shalt send me away.

23 And God will raise up to him an adversary, Rezon, son of Eliadah, who lied from Hadadezer king of Zobah his lord.

24 And he will gather to himself men, and he will be chief of a troop in David's killing them; and they will go to Damascus and dwell in it and reign in Damascus.

25 And he will be an adversary to Israel all the days of Solomon, and the evil which Hadad did: and he will abhor against Israel and he will reign over Aram.

26 And Jeroboam son of Nebat, an Ephrathite of Zereda, and his mother's name Zeruah, a widow woman, servant to Solomon, and he will lift up the hand against the king.

27 And this the word for which he lifted up the hand against the king: Solomon built the fortress and shut up the breaches of the city of David his father.

28 And the man Jeroboam mighty of strength: and Solomon will see the boy that he did work, and he will appoint him for the burden of the house of Joseph.

29 And it will be in that time, and Jeroboam went forth from Jerusalem, and Ahijah the Shilonite will find him going in the way; and he being covered with a new garment; and they two alone in the field.

30 And Ahijah will lay hold upon the new garment which was upon him and will rend it in twelve rents:

31 And he will say to Jeroboam, Take to thee ten rents: for thus said Jehovah God of Israel, Behold me rending the kingdom out of the hand of Solomon, and I gave to thee ten tribes:

32 (And the one tribe shall be to him, for sake of my servant David, and for sake of Jerusalem the city which I chose in it from all the tribes of Israel:)

33 Because they forsook me and worshiped to Ashtaroth the god of Zidon, and to Chemosh, god of Moab, and to Milcom, god of the sons of Ammon, and they went not in my way to do the straight in mine eyes, and my laws and my judgments as David his father.

34 And I will not take all the kingdom from his hand, for I will set him chief all the days of his life for sake of David my servant whom I chose him. because he watched my commands and my laws.

35 And I took the kingdom from the hand of his son and gave it to thee, the ten tribes.

36 And to his son I will give one tribe on account of there being a light to David my servant all the days before me in Jerusalem the city which I chose to me to put my name there.

37 And I will take thee, and thou shalt reign according to all which thy soul shall desire, and be king over Israel.

38 And being if thou shalt hear all that I shall command thee, and go in my way and do the straight in mine eyes to watch my laws and my commands as David my servant did, and I was with thee and built to thee a faithful house as I built to David, and I gave Israel to thee.

39 And I will humble the seed of David for this, but not all the days.

40 And Solomon will seek to kill Jeroboam, and Jeroboam will rise and flee to Egypt to Shishak, king of Egypt, and he will be in Egypt till the death of Solomon.

41 And the remainder of the words of Solomon and all that he did, and his wisdom, are they not written upon the book of the words of Solomon?

42 And the days which Solomon reigned in Jerusalem over all Israel were forty years.

43 And Solomon will lie down with his fathers and be buried in the city of David his father: and Rehoboam his son will reign instead of him.

1 KINGS CHAPTER 12

1 And Rehoboam will go to Shechem, for to Shechem came all Israel to make him king.

2 And it will be when Jeroboam son of Nebat heard and he yet in Egypt where he fled from the face of Solomon the king, and Jeroboam dwelt in Egypt;

3 And they will send and call for him: and Jeroboam and all the convocation of Israel will come and speak to Rehoboam, saying,

4 Thy father made our yoke hard and now do thou lighten from the hard service of thy father, and from the heavy yoke which he gave upon us, and we will serve thee.

5 And he will say to them, Go ye, until three days, and turn back to me. And the people will go.

6 And king Rehoboam will consult the old men which were standing before Solomon his father in his being alive saying, How advise ye to turn back this people word?

7 And they will speak to him, saying, If this day thou wilt be a servant to this people and serve them, and answer them, and speak to them good words, and they were servants to thee all the days.

8 And he will forsake the counsel of the old men which they counseled him, and he will consult with the children which grew up with him which were standing before him.

9 And he will say to them, What do ye advise? and we will turn back word to this people who spake to me, saying, Lighten from the yoke which thy father gave upon us.

10 And the children which grew up with him will speak to him, saying, Thus shalt thou say to this people who spake to thee, saying, Thy father made our yoke heavy, do thou lighten from upon us; thus shalt thou speak to them, My littleness thick above my father's loins.

11 And now my father loaded upon you a heavy yoke, and I will add upon your yoke: my father chastised you with whips and I will chastise you with scorpions.

12 And Jeroboam and all the people will come to Rehoboam in the third day, as the king spake, saying, Turn back to me in the third day.

13 And the king will answer the people hard, and he will forsake the counsel of the old men which they counseled him;

14 And he will speak to them according to the counsel of the children, saying, My father made your yoke heavy, and I will add upon your yoke: my father chastised you with whips and I will chastise you with scorpions.

15 And the king heard not to the people, for the turn was from Jehovah for sake of lifting up his word which he spake by the hand of Ahijah the Shilonite to Jeroboam son of Nebat.

16 And all Israel will see that the king heard not to them, and the people will turn back the king word, saying, What part to us in David? and no inheritance in the son of Jesse: to thy tents, O Israel: now see to thy house, David. And Israel will go to their tents.

17 And the sons of Israel dwelling in the cities of Judah, Rehoboam will reign over them.

18 And king Rehoboam will send Adoram who was over the tribute, and all Israel will stone upon him with stone, and he will die. And king Rehoboam strengthened himself to go up into the chariot to flee to Jerusalem.

20 And it will be when all Israel heard that Jeroboam turned back, and they will send and call him to the assembly, and they will make him king over all Israel, and there was none after the house of David except the tribe of Judah alone.

21 And Rehoboam will come to Jerusalem, and he will convoke together all the house of Judah and the tribe of Benjamin, a hundred and eighty thousand chosen to make war to fight with the house of Israel to turn back the kingdom to Rehoboam son of Solomon.

22 And the word of God will be to Shemaiah, a man of God, saying,

23 Say to Rehoboam son of Solomon king of Judah, and to all the house of Judah and Benjamin, and the remainder of the people, saying,

24 Thus said Jehovah, Ye shall not go up and ye shall not fight with your brethren, sons of Israel: turn back each to his house, for this word was from me. And they will hear the word of Jehovah and turn back to go according to the word of Jehovah.

25 And Jeroboam will build Shechem in mount Ephraim, and dwell in it; and he will go forth from there and build Penuel.

26 And Jeroboam will say in his heart, Now will the kingdom turn back to the house of David.

27 If this people shall go up to .do sacrifices in the house of Jehovah in Jerusalem, and the heart of this people turned back to their lord, to Rehoboam king of Judah, and killing me, and they turned back to Rehoboam king of Judah.

28 And the king will consult and make two calves of gold, and he will say to them, Much for you going up to Jerusalem: behold thy gods, Israel, which brought thee up out of the land of Egypt

29 And he will set up the one in the house of God, and the one he gave in Dan.

30 And this word will be for sin: and the people will go before the one, even to Dan.

31 And he will make a house of heights, and be will make priests from the ends of the people who were not of the sons of Levi.

32 And Jeroboam will make a festival in the eighth month, in the fifteenth day of the month, according to the festival that is in Judah, and he will go up upon the altar. Thus he did in the house of God to sacrifice to the calves which he made: and he placed in the house of God priests of the heights which he made.

33 And he brought up upon the altar which he made m the house of God, in the fifteenth day, in the eighth month, in the month which he devised of himself; and he will make a festival to the sons of Israel: and he will go up upon the altar to burn incense.

1 And behold a man of God came out of Judah in the word of Jehovah to the house of God; and Jeroboam stood by the altar to burn incense.

2 And be will call upon the altar in the word of Jehovah, and he will say, O altar, altar! thus said Jehovah, Behold, a son was born to the house of David, Josiah his name; and he sacrificed upon thee, the priests of the heights burning incense upon thee, and men's bones shall be burnt upon thee.

3 And, he will give in that day a sign, saying, This the sign which Jehovah spake: Behold, the altar rent and the fat which was upon it, poured out

4 And it will be when the king heard the word of the man of God which he called upon the altar in the house of God; and Jeroboam will stretch forth his hand from above the altar, saving, Seize him. And his hand which he stretched forth upon him will be dried up, and he will not be able to turn it back to him.

5 And the altar was rent, and the fat will be poured out from the altar according to the sign that the man of God gave by the word of Jehovah.

6 And the king will answer and say to the man of God, Supplicate the face of Jehovah thy God, and pray for me, and my hand shall be turned back to me And the man of God will supplicate the face of Jehovah, and the king's hand will turn back to him and be as in the beginning.

7 And the king will speak to the man of God, Come with me to the house, and be strengthened, and I will give to thee a gift

8 And the man of God will say to the king, If thou wilt give to me half thy house I will not go with thee, and I will not eat bread and I will not drink water in this place:

9 For thus it was commanded me by the word of Jehovah, saying, Thou shalt not eat bread, and thou shalt not drink water, and thou shalt not turn back in the way which thou camest.

10 And he will go in another way, and he turned not back in the way which he came in it to the house of God.

11 And one prophet, an old man, dwelt in the house of God; and his sons will come and relate to him all the work which the man of God did that day in the house of God: the words which he spake to the king, and they will relate them to their father.

12 And their father will speak to them, What way went he? and his sons will see the way that the man of God went who came from Judah.

13 And he will say to his sons, Saddle for me the ass: and they will saddle for him the ass and he will ride upon it

14 And he will go after the man of God, and he will find him sitting under an oak: and he will say to him, Thou the man of God who came from Judah? And he will say, I.

15 And he will say to him, Go with me to the house and eat bread.

16 And he will say, I shall not be able to turn back with thee and to go with thee: and I will not eat bread and I will not drink water with thee in this place:

17 For it was spoken to me by the word of Jehovah, Thou shalt not eat bread and thou shalt not drink water there, thou shalt not turn back to go in the way which thou wentest in it

18 And he will say to him, I also a prophet as thou; and a messenger spake to me in the word of Jehovah, saying, Turn him back with thee to thy house; and he shall eat bread and drink water. Lying to him.

19 And he will turn back with him and eat bread in his house, and drink water.

20 And it will be, they sitting at the table, and the word of Jehovah will be to the prophet who turned him back:

21 And he will call to the man of God who came from Judah, saying, Thus said Jehovah, Because thou didst imbitter the mouth of Jehovah and didst not watch the command, which Jehovah thy God commanded thee,

22 And thou wilt turn back and eat bread and drink water in the place which he spake to thee, Thou shalt not eat bread and thou shalt not drink water; thy corpse shall not come to the grave of thy fathers.

23 And it will be after his eating bread and after his drinking, and he will saddle for him the ass for the prophet which he turned back.

24 And he will go, and a lion will find him in the way and kill him: and his corpse will be cast in the way, and the ass standing by it., and the lion standing by the corpse.

25 And behold, men passing by, and they will see the corpse cast in the way, and the lion standing by the corpse: and they will come and speak in he city where the prophet, the old man, dwelt in it

26 And the prophet that brought him back from the way will hear, and say, It is the man of God who resisted the mouth of Jehovah, and Jehovah will give him to the lion, and he will break him, and he will kill him according to the word of Jehovah which he spake to him.

27 And he will speak to his sons, saying, Saddle for me the ass. And they will saddle him.

28 And he will go and find his corpse cast in the way, and the ass and the lion standing by the corpse: the lion ate not the carcass and brake not the ass.

29 And the prophet will lift up the corpse of the man of God and place it upon the ass, and he will turn him back: and the prophet, the old man, came to the city, and he will mourn and he will bury him.

30 And he will lay it down in his grave, and they will mourn over him, Alas, my brother!.

31 And it will be after they buried him, he will say to his sons, saying, In my dying and ye shall bury me in the grave which the man of God was buried in it; by his bones place my bones.

32 For being, the word shall be which he cried by the word of Jehovah upon the altar which is in the house of God, and upon all the houses of the heights which are in the cities of Shomeron.

33 After this word Jeroboam turned not back from his evil way, and he will turn back and make from the ends of the people, priests of the heights: him desiring he will fill his hand, and he will be priest of the heights.

34 And in this word it will be for sin to the house of Jeroboam, and to cut off and to destroy from the face of the earth.

1 KINGS CHAPTER 14

1 In that time Abijah son of Jeroboam was sick.

2 And Jeroboam will say to his wife, Arise, now, and change thyself, and they will not know that thou art the wife of Jeroboam; and go to Shiloh: behold there Ahijah the prophet; he spake concerning me for king over this people.

3 And take in thy hand ten of bread and crumb cakes, and a bottle of honey, and go to him: he will announce to thee what will be to the boy.

4 And Jeroboam's wife will do so, and she will rise and go to Shiloh, and she will come into the house of Ahijah. And Ahijah will not be able to see; for his eyes stood from his old age.

5 And Jehovah said to Ahijah, Behold, the wife of Jeroboam coming to seek word from thee for her son, for he was sick: according this and according to this shalt thou speak to her: and it will be as she comes, and she dissembles.

6 And it will be when Ahijah heard the voice of her feet coming into the door, and he will say, Come in, thou wife of Jeroboam; wherefore this thou dissemblest? and I send to thee hard things.

7 Go say to Jeroboam, Thus said Jehovah God of Israel, Because I raised thee up from the midst of the people, and I will give thee chief over my people Israel,

8 And I will rend the kingdom from the house of David, and I will give it to thee: and thou wert not as my servant David who watched my commands and who went after me with all his heart to do only the straight in mine eyes;

9 And thou wilt be evil doing above all who were before thee: and thou wilt go and make to thee other gods, and molten things to irritate me, and didst cast me behind thy back.

10 For this, behold me bringing evil to the house of Jeroboam, and I cut off to Jeroboam him pissing against the wall, the shut up and the forsaken in Israel, and I took away after the house of Jeroboam as dung shall be taken away till its finishing.

11 Him dying to Jeroboam in the city shall the dogs eat; and him dying in the field shall the birds of the heavens eat: for Jehovah spake.

12 And arise, thou, go to thy house: in the coming of thy feet to the city and the child died.

13 And all Israel mourned for him, and they buried him: for this alone to Jeroboam shall come to the grave, because there was found in him a good word to Jehovah God of Israel in the house of Jeroboam.

14 And Jehovah raised up to him a king over Israel who will cut off the house of Jeroboam that day: and what? also now

15 And Jehovah smote Israel as a reed will be shaken in the water, and he plucked up Israel from this good land which he gave to their fathers, and he scattered them from beyond the river, because they made their images, irritating Jehovah.

16 And he will give up Israel on account of the sins of Jeroboam who sinned, and who caused Israel to sin.

17 And Jeroboam's wife will arise and go, and come to Tirzah: she came upon the threshold of the house, and the boy died.

18 And they will bury him; and all Israel will mourn for him according to the word of Jehovah which he spake by the hand of his servant Ahijah the prophet

19 And the remainder of the words of Jeroboam, how he warred, and how he reigned, behold them written upon the book of the words of the days to the kings of Israel.

20 And the days which Jeroboam reigned, twenty and two years, and he will lie down with his fathers; and Nadab his son will reign in his stead.

21 And Rehoboam son of Solomon reigned in Judah. The son of forty and one years was Rehoboam in his reigning; and seventeen years he reigned in Jerusalem, the city that Jehovah chose to put his name there from all the tribes of Israel: and the name of his mother Naamah, the Ammonitess.

22 And Judah will do evil in the eyes of Jehovah, and they will provoke him to jealousy above all which their fathers did in the sins which they sinned.

23 And they will also build to them heights and statues, and pillars, upon every high hill, and, under every green tree.

24 And also there was a holy place in the land; and they did according to all the abominations of the nations that Jehovah dispossessed from the face of the sons of Israel.

25 And it will be in the fifth year to king Rehoboam, Shishak, king of Egypt, came up against Jerusalem.

26 And he will take the treasures of the house of Jehovah and the treasures of the king's house; and he took all: and he took all the shields of gold. which Solomon made.

27 And king Rehoboam will make in their stead shields of brass, and appointed upon the hand of the chief of the runners watching the door of the house of the king.

28 And it will be whenever the king went to the house of Jehovah, the runners will lift them up and they turned them back to the runner's chamber.

29 And the remainder of the words of Rehoboam, and all which he did, are they not written upon the book of the words of the days to the kings of Judah?

30 And war was between Rehoboam and Jeroboam all the days.

31 And Rehoboam will lie down with his fathers and be buried with his fathers in the city of David. And the name of his mother, Naamah, the Ammonitess. And Abijam will reign in his stead.

1 KINGS CHAPTER 15

1 And in the eighteenth year to Jeroboam son of Nebat, Abijam reigned over Judah.

2 Three years he reigned in Jerusalem. And the name of his mother Maachah, daughter of Abishalom.

3 And he went in all the sins of his father which he did before him: and his heart was not perfect with Jehovah as the heart of David his father.

4 For on account of David, Jehovah his God gave to him a light in Jerusalem, to raise up a son after him, to cause Jerusalem to stand:

5 Because David did the right in the eyes of Jehovah, and turned not aside from all which he commanded all the days of his life, only in the word of Uriah the Hittite.

6 And war was between Rehoboam and between Jeroboam all the days of his life.

7 And the remainder of the words of Abijam, and all which he did, are they not written upon the book of the words of the days to the kings of Judah? and war was between Abijam and Jeroboam.

8 And Abijam will lie down with his fathers; and they will bury him in the city of David; and Asa his son will reign in his stead.

9 And in the twentieth year to Jeroboam king of Israel, Asa reigned over Judah.

10 Forty and one years he reigned in Jerusalem. And his mother's name Maachah, daughter of Abishalom.

11 And Asa will do the straight in the eyes of Jehovah, as David his father.

12 And he will take away the holy places from the land, and he will turn aside all the blocks which his fathers made.

13 And also Maachah, his mother, he will turn aside from being mistress, because she made terror to a statue; and Asa will cut off her terror, and burn by the torrent Kidron.

14 And the heights were not turned aside: but Asa's heart was perfect with Jehovah all his days.

15 And he will bring in the holy things of his fathers, and his holy things to the house of Jehovah, silver and gold and vessels.

16 And war was between Asa and between Baasha, king of Israel, all their days.

17 And Baasha, king of Israel, will come up against Judah, and he will build Ramah, so that he will not give to go out or to come in to Asa king of Judah.

18 And Asa will take all the silver and the gold being left in the treasures of the house of Jehovah, and the treasures of the king's house, and he will give them into the hand of his servants: and king Asa will send them to the son of Hadad, son of Tabrimon, son of Hezion, king of Aram, dwelling in Damascus, saying,

19 A covenant between me and between thee, between my father and between thy father: behold, I sent to thee a gift of silver and gold; go break thy covenant with Baasha king of Israel, and he will go up from me.

20 And the son of Hadad will hear to king Asa, and he will send the chiefs of the forces which were to him against the cities of Israel, and he will strike Ijon and Dan, and the meadow of the House of Oppression, and all Cinneroth with all the land of Naphtali.

21 And it will be when Baasha heard, and he will leave off building Ramah, and he will dwell in Tirzah.

22 And king Asa caused all Judah to hear; none free: and they will lift up the stones of Ramah and its woods which Baasha built, and king Asa will build with them Geba of Benjamin, and Mizpeh.

23 And the remainder of all the words of Asa and all his power and all which he did, and the cities which he built, are they not written upon the book of the words of the days to the kings of Judah? only at the time of his old age, he hurt his feet

24 And Asa will lie down with his fathers, and be buried with his fathers, in the city of David his father: and Jehoshaphat his son will reign in his stead.

25 And Nadab son of Jeroboam reigned over Israel in the second year to Asa king of Judah; and he will reign over Israel two years.

26 And he will do evil in the eyes of Jehovah, and he will go in the way of his father, and in his sins which he caused Israel to sin.

27 And Baasha son of Ahijah, to the house of Issachar, will conspire against him; and Baasha will strike him in Gibbethon, which is to the rovers; for Nadab and all Israel pressed upon Gibbethon.

28 And Baasha will kill him in the third year to Asa king of Judah, and he will reign in his stead.

29 And it will be when he reigned, he struck all the house of Jeroboam; he left not any breathing to Jeroboam, till he destroyed him according to the word of Jehovah which he spake by the hand of his servant Ahijah the Shilonite:

30 For the sins of Jeroboam which he sinned, and which he caused Israel to sin, in his irritation which he irritated Jehovah the God of Israel.

31 And the remainder of the words of Nadab and all which he did, are they not written upon the book of the words of the days to the kings of Israel?

32 And war was between Asa and between Baasha king of Israel, all their days

33 In the third year to Asa king of Judah, reigned Baasha son of Ahijah, over all Israel in Tirzah twenty and four years.

34 And he will do evil in the eyes of Jehovah, and he will go in the way of Jeroboam, and in his sins which he caused Israel to sin.

1 KINGS CHAPTER 16

1 And the word of Jehovah will be to Jehu, son of Hanani, against Baasha, saying,

2 Because I raised thee up from the dust, and I will give thee chief over my people Israel, and thou wilt go in the way of Jeroboam, and cause my people Israel to sin, to irritate me in their sins.

3 Behold me taking away after Baasha, and after his house; and I gave thy house as the house of Jeroboam son of Nebat

4 Him dying to Baasha in the city shall the dogs eat; and him dying to him in the field, shall the birds of the heavens eat

5 And the rest of the words of Baasha, and what he did, and his strength, are they not written upon the book of the words of the days to the kings of Israel?

6 And Baasha will lie down with his fathers, and will be buried in Tirzah and his son Elah will reign in his stead.

7 And also by the hand of Jehu son of Hanani the prophet, the word of Jehovah was against Baasha and against his house, and for all the evil which he did in the eyes of Jehovah to irritate him in the work of his hands to be as the house of Jeroboam, and because he smote him.

8 In the twentieth and sixth year, the year to Asa king of Judah, Elah, son of Baasha reigned over Israel in Tirzah, two years.

9 And Zimri, captain of half his chariots will conspire against him, and he in Tirzah drinking strong drink in the house of Arza, who was over his house in Tirzah.

10 And Zimri will come in and strike him and will kill him in the twentieth and seventh year to Asa king of Judah, and he will reign in his stead.

11 And it will be in his reigning, in his sitting upon the throne, he struck all the house of Baasha; he left not to him, him pissing against the wall, and his near relatives and his friends.

12 And Zimri will destroy all the house of Baasha, according to the word of Jehovah which he spake against Baasha by the hand of Jehu the prophet.

13 For all the sins of Baasha, and the sins of Elah his son, which they sinned, and which they caused Israel to sin, to irritate Jehovah the God of Israel by their vanities.

14 And the rest of the words of Elah and what he did, are they not written upon the book of the words of the days to the kings of Israel?

15 In the twenty and seventh year, the year to Asa king of Judah, Zimri reigned seven days in Tirzah. And the people encamping in Gibbethon, which was to the rovers.

16 And the people encamping will hear, saying, Zimri conspired and also struck the king; and all Israel will make Omri chief of the army, king over Israel in that day in the camp.

17 And Omri will go up, and all Israel with him, from Gibbethon, and they will press upon Tirzah.

18 And it will be when Zimri saw that the city was taken, and he will come to the fortress of the king's house, and he will burn over him the king's house with fire, and he will die,

19 For his sins which he sinned to do evil in the eyes of Jehovah, to go in the way of Jeroboam, and in his sins which he did to cause Israel to sin.

20 And the rest of the words of Zimri and his conspiracy which he conspired, are they not written upon the book of the words of the days to the kings of Israel?

21 Then the people of Israel will be divided to half: half of the people were after Tibni, son of Ginath, to make him king; and half, after Omri.

22 And the people will be strengthened which were after Omri over the people which were after Tibni son of Ginath: and Tibni will die, and Omri will reign.

23 In the thirty and one year, the year to Asa king of Judah, Omri reigned over Israel, twelve years; in Tirzah he reigned six years.

24 And he will buy the mountain Shomeron of Shomer with two talents of silver, and he will build the mountain, and call the name of the city which he built after the name of Shomer, lord of the mountain Shomeron.

25 And Omri will do evil in the eyes of Jehovah, and he will be evil above all who were before him.

26 And he will go in all the way of Jeroboam son of Nebat, and in his sins which he caused Israel to sin, to irritate Jehovah the God of Israel with their vanities.

27 And the rest of the words of Omri which he did, and his strength which he did, are they not written upon the book of the words of the days to the kings of Israel?

28 And Omri will lie down with his fathers, and will be buried in Shomeron, and Ahab his son will reign in his stead.

29 And Ahab son of Omri, reigned over Israel in the year the thirty and eighth year to Asa king of Judah: and Ahab son of Omri will reign over Israel in Shomeron twenty and two years.

30 And Ahab son of Omri will do evil in the eyes of Jehovah above all which were before him.

31 And it will be light for him to go in the sins of Jeroboam son of Nebat, and he will take a wife, Jezebel, daughter of Ethbaal, king of the Zidonians, and he will go and serve Baal and worship to him.

32 And he will raise up an altar to Baal in the house of Baal which he built in Shomeron.

33 And Ahab will make a statue; and Ahab will add to do to irritate Jehovah the God of Israel above all the kings of Israel which were before him.

34 In his days Hiel of the house of God, built Jericho: in Abiram his first born he will found it, and in Segub his younger he set up its gates, according to the word of Jehovah which he spake by the hand of Joshua son of Nun.

1 KINGS CHAPTER 17

1 And Elijah the Tishbite from the Tishbites of Gilead, will say to Ahab, Jehovah the God of Israel lives whom I stood before him if there shall be dew and rain but according to the mouth of my word.

2 And the word of Jehovah will be to him, saying,

3 Go from hence and turn to thyself east, and hide by the torrent Cherith which is before Jordan.

4 And being thou shalt drink from the torrent; and I commanded the ravens to nourish thee there.

5 And he will go and do according to the word of Jehovah: and he will go and dwell by the torrent Cherith which is upon the face of Jordan.

6 And the ravens bringing to him bread and flesh in the morning, and bread and flesh in the evening; and he will drink from the torrent.

7 And it will be from the end of days, and the torrent will dry up, for there was no rain upon the earth.

8 And the word of Jehovah will be to him, saying,

9 Arise, go to Zarephath which is to Zidon, and dwell there: behold, I commanded a widow woman to nourish thee there.

10 And he will rise and go to Zarephath, and will come to the entrance of the city, and behold there a widow woman gathering wood: and he will call to her, and say, Take now to me a little water in a vessel, and I will drink.

11 And she will go to take, and he will call to her and say, Take now to me a bit of bread in thy hand.

12 And she will say, Jehovah thy God lives, if there is to me a cake, but a handful of flour in a bucket, and a little oil in a cruse: and behold me gathering two woods, and I went to do it for me and for my son, and we shall eat and die.

13 And Elijah will say to her, Thou shalt not fear; go and do according to thy word: but make to me from thence a little cake at first, and bring forth to me, and for thee and for thy son thou shalt make at last 14 For thus said Jehovah the God of Israel, The bucket of flour shall not be spent, and the cruse of oil shall not fail until the day Jehovah shall give rain upon the face of the earth.

15 And she will go and do according to the word of Elijah: and she will eat, she and he, and her house, days.

16 The bucket of flour was not spent, and the cruse of oil failed no; according to the word of Jehovah which he spake by the hand of Elijah.

17 And it will be after these words, the son of the woman, the lady of the house, was sick, and his sickness was very strong till that breath was not left in him.

18 And she will say to Elijah, What to me and to thee, thou man of God? camest thou to me to bring to remembrance mine iniquity, and to kill my son?

19 And he will say to her, Give to me thy son. And he will take him from her bosom and bring him up into an upper chamber where he sat there, and he will lay him upon his bed.

20 And he will call to Jehovah, and say, Jehovah my God, didst thou also do evil upon the widow which I dwelt with her to kill her son?

21 And he will measure upon the child three times, and he will call to Jehovah, and say, Jehovah my God wilt thou turn back now the soul of this child within his inner part?

22 And Jehovah will hear to the voice of Elijah, and he will turn back the soul of the child within his inner part, and he will live.

23 And Elijah will take the child and bring him down from the upper chamber of the house, and give him to his mother: and Elijah will say, See, thy son lives

24 And the woman will say to Elijah, Now this I know that thou a man of God, and the word of Jehovah in thy mouth, truth.

1 KINGS CHAPTER 18

1 And it will be many days, and the word of Jehovah was to Elijah in the third year, saying. Go, be seen to Ahab; and I will give rain upon the face of the earth.

2 And Elijah will go to be seen to Ahab. And the famine strong in Shomeron.

3 And Ahab will call for Obadiaha who was over the house. (And Obadiaha was fearing Jehovah greatly:

4 And it will be in Jezebel's cutting off the prophets of Jehovah, and Obadiaha will take a hundred prophets, and hide fifty men in a cave, and he nourished them with bread and water.)

5 And Ahab will say to Obadiaha, Go into the land to all the fountains of waters, and to all the torrents; perhaps we shall find grass and preserve alive the horse and the mule, and we shall not be cut off from the cattle.

6 And they will divide the land to them to pass over in it: Ahab went in one way by himself, and Obadiaha went went in one way by himself.

7 And Obadiaha will be in the way, and behold, Elijah to his meeting: and he will behold him and fall upon his face, and say, Art thou this my lord Elijah?

8 And he will say to him, I. go say to thy lord, Behold, Elijah.

9 And he will say, What did I sin that thou gavest thy servant into the hand of Ahab to kill me?

10 Jehovah thy god lives if there is a nation and kingdom where my lord did not send there to seek thee: and they said, No; and he caused the kingdom and nation to swear that they shall not find.

12 And being I shall go from thee and the spirit of Jehovah will lift thee up where I shall not know; and I went to announce to Ahab, and he will not find thee, and he will kill me: and thy servant feared Jehovah from my youth.

13 Was it not announced to my lord what I did in Jezebel's killing the prophets of Jehovah, and I shall hide of the prophets of Jehovah a hundred men, fifty, fifty men in a cave, and I shall nourish them with bread and water?

14 And now thou sayest., Go, say to thy lord, Behold, Elijah; and he will kill me.

15 And Elijah will say to him, Jehovah of armies lives whom I stand before him that this day, I will be seen to him.

16 And Obadiaha will go to meet Ahab, and he will announce to him: and Ahab will go to meet Elijah.

17 And it will be when Ahab saw Elijah, and Ahab will say to him, This thou, troubling Israel?

18 And he will say, I troubled not Israel? but thou and thy father's house in your forsaking the commands of Jehovah, and thou wilt go after the Baals.

19 And now send, gather to me all Israel to mount Carmel, and the prophets of Baal four hundred and fifty, and the prophets of the pillar, four hundred, eating at the table of Jezebel.

20 And Ahab will send to all the sons of Israel and gather the prophets to mount Carmel.

21 And Elijah will draw near to all the people and say, How long halt ye upon two opinions? if Jehovah is God, go ye after him: and if Baal, go ye after him. And the people answered him not a word.

22 And Elijah will say to the people, I was left alone a prophet to Jehovah; and the prophets of Baal four hundred and fifty men.

23 And they shall give to us two bullocks; and they shall choose for themselves the one bullock, and cut it in pieces and put upon woods, and put no fire: and I will do the other bullock and give upon woods, and put no fire:

24 And call ye upon the name of your god, and I will call upon the name of Jehovah, and the God who shall answer by fire, he shall be God. And all the people will answer and say, Good the word.

25 And Elijah will say to the prophets of Baal, Choose for yourselves the one bullock, and do first, for ye are many; and call upon the name of your god, and ye shall not put fire.

26 And they will take the bullock which was given to them, and do, and they will call upon the name of Baal, from morning even to noon, saying, O Baal, answer us. And no voice, and none answered. And they will leap upon the altar which was made.

27 And it will be at noon, and Elijah will deride upon them, and he will say, Call with a great voice, for he a god: for he is talking, and because a withdrawing to him, and because a way to him, perhaps he is sleeping, and he will awake.

28 And they will call with a great voice, and they will cut themselves according to their judgment, with swords and with spears, even to the pouring out of blood upon them.

29 And it will be as the noon passed by, and they will prophesy even to the going up of the gift, and no voice, and none answered, and no attention.

30 And Elijah will say to all the people, Draw near to me. And all the people will draw near to him. And he will repair the altar of Jehovah, having been torn down.

31 And Elijah will take twelve stones according to the number of the tribes of the sons of Jacob, whom was the word of Jehovah to him, saying, Israel shall be thy name:

32 And he will build with the stones an altar in the name of Jehovah: and he will make a channel, rolling up two measures of seed, round about the altar.

33 And he will put in order the woods, and he will cut the bullock in pieces and put upon the woods,

34 And he will say, Fill four buckets of water and pour upon the burnt-offering and upon the woods. And he will say, Do a second time. And they will do a second time. And he will say, Do a third time. And they will do a third time.

35 And the waters will go round about the altar; and he also filled the channel with water.

36 And it will be in the going up of the gift, and Elijah the prophet will draw near and say, Jehovah God of Abraham, Isaak, and Israel, this day it shall be known that thou art God in Israel, and I thy servant, and by thy words I did all these words.

37 Answer me, O Jehovah, answer me, and this people shall know that thou art Jehovah God, and thou didst turn their heart backwards.

38 And the fire of Jehovah will fall and will consume the burnt-offering and the woods, and the stones, and the dust, and it licked up the waters which were in the channel.

39 And all the people will see and fall upon their face, and say, Jehovah, he is God; Jehovah he is God.

40 And Elijah will say to them, Seize the prophets of Baal; a man shall not escape from them. And they will seize them, and Elijah will bring them down to the torrent Kishon, and they will slaughter them there.

42 And Ahab will go up to eat and to drink. And Elijah will go up to the head of Cannel and prostrate himself upon the earth, and put his face between his knees.

43 And he will say to his boy, Go up now, look the way of the sea. And he will go up and look, and say, Not any thing. And he will say, Turn back seven times.

44 And it will be in the seventh, and he will say, Behold, a little cloud as the hand of a man, coming up from the sea. And he will say, Go up; say to Ahab, Harness; go down, and the rain shall not hinder thee.

45 And it will be even thus and even thus, and the heavens were darkened with clouds and wind, and there will be a great rain. And Ahab will ride and go to Jezrecl.

46 And the hand of Jehovah was to Elijah; and he will bind up his loins, and he will run before Ahab, even to thy Coming to Jezreel.

1 KINGS CHAPTER 19

1 And Ahab will announce to Jezebel all that Elijah did, and all how he killed all the prophets with the sword.

2 And Jezebel will send a messenger to Elijah, saying, Thus will God do and thus will he add that according to the time to-morrow I will set thy soul as the soul of one of them.

3 And he will see and arise, and go for his soul, and he will come to the Well of the Oath which was to Judah, and he will leave his boy there.

4 And he went into the desert the way of a day, and he will come and sit under one broom-tree: and he will ask for his soul to die: and he will say, Much now, O Jehovah, Take my soul, for I am not good above my fathers.

5 And he will lie down and sleep udder one broom-tree, and behold, then a messenger touched upon him, and he will say to him, Arise, eat

6 And he will look, and behold, from his head cakes baked on hot stones, and a cruse of water: and he will eat and drink, and turn back and lie down.

7 And the messenger of Jehovah will turn back the second time, and he will touch upon him, and say, Arise, eat, for much for thee the way.

8 And he will rise and eat and drink, and go in the strength of that food forty days and forty nights, even to the mountain of God, Horeb.

9 And he will go there into a cave and lodge there; and behold, the word of Jehovah to him, and he will say to him, What to thee here Elijah?

10 And he will say, Being zealous I was zealous for Jehovah the God of armies: for the sons of Israel forsook thy covenant; they tore down thine altars, and thy prophets they killed with the sword, and I alone shall be left; and they will seek my soul to take it

11 And he will say, Go forth and stand upon the mountain before Jehovah And behold, Jehovah passed by, and a great and strong wind weakening the mountains, and breaking the rocks before Jehovah; Jehovah not in the wind: and after the wind, a shaking; Jehovah not in the shaking:

12 And after the shaking, a fire; Jehovah not in the fire: and after the fire, a voice of light stillness.

13 And it will be when Elijah heard, he will cover his face in his large cloak, and he will go forth and stand at the opening of the cave; and behold, to him a voice, and it will say, What to thee here, Elijah?

14 And he will say, Being zealous, I was zealous for Jehovah the God of armies, for the sons of Israel forsook thy covenant; thine altars they tore down, and thy prophets they killed with the sword, and I alone shall be left; and they will seek my soul to take it

15 And Jehovah will say to him, Go, turn back to thy way of the desert of Damascus: and come and anoint Hazael for king over Aram:

16 And Jehu, son of Nimshi, shalt thou anoint for king over Israel: and Elisha son of Shaphat, from Abel-Me-holah, It thou anoint for prophet in thy stead.

17 And it was him escaping from the sword of Hazael shall Jelu kill: and him escaping from the sword of Jehu, shall Elisha

18 And I left in Israel seven thousand, all the knees which bowed not to Baal, and every mouth which kissed him not

19 And he will go from thence and find Elisha son of Shaphat, and he ploughed with twelve yoke before him, and he with the twelve: and Elijah will pass away by him, and he will cast his wide cloak to him.

20 And he will forsake the oxen and run after Elijah, and say, I will kiss now to my father and to my mother, and I will go after thee. And he will say to him, Go, turn back; for what did I to thee?

21 And he will turn back from after him and take a yoke of oxen and sacrifice them, and with the instruments of the oxen he boiled them the flesh, and he will give to the people, and they will eat. And he will rise and go after Elijah and serve him.

1 KINGS CHAPTER 20

1 And the son of Hadad, king of Aram, gathered all his strength; and thirty and two kings with him, and horses and chariots: and he will go up and press upon Shomeron and war against her.

2 And he will send messengers to Ahab, king of Israel, to the city,

3 And he will say to him, Thus said the son of Hadad, Thy silver and thy gold it is to me; and thy wives and thy sons, the good, they are to me.

4 And the king of Israel will answer and say, According to thy word, my lord the king, to thee am I and all which is to me.

5 And the messengers will turn back and say, Thus said Ben-hadad, saying, That I sent to thee, saying, Thy silver and thy gold and thy wives and thy sons thou shalt give to me,

6 But about the time to-morrow I will send my servants to thee, and they searched thy house, and the houses of thy servants; and it was all the delight of thine eyes they shall put in their hand and take.

7 And the king of Israel will call for all the old men of the land, and he will say, Know now, and see that this seeks evil, for he sent to me for my wives and for my sons, and for my silver, and for my gold, and I withheld not from him.

8 And all the old men and all the people will say to him, Thou shalt not hear, and thou shalt not be willing.

9 And he will say to the messengers of Ben-hadad, Say to my lord the king, All which thou sentest to thy servant at first, I will do: and this word I shall not be able to do. And the messengers will go and turn back word.

10 And Ben-hadad will send to him and say, Thus will the gods do to me, and thus will they add, if the dust of Shomeron shall suffice for handfuls for all the people which are at my feet

11 And the king of Israel will answer and say, Speak ye. He binding shall not boast as he loosening.

12 And it will be when he heard this word he was drinking, and the kings in the booths; and he will say to his servants, Set ye. And they will set against the city.

13 And behold, one prophet drew near to Ahab king of Israel, and he will say, Thus said Jehovah, Sawest thou all this great multitude? Behold me giving it into thy hand this day and thou knewest that I am Jehovah.

14 And Ahab will say, By whom? And he will say, Thus said Jehovah, By the boys of the chiefs of the provinces. And he will say, Who shall bind the war? And he will say, Thou.

15 And he will review the boys of the chiefs of the provinces, and they will be two hundred and thirty: and after them he reviewed all the people, all the sons of Israel, seven thousand.

16 And they will go forth at noon. And Ben-hadad was drinking strong drink in the booths, he and the kings, the thirty and two kings helping him.

17 And the boys of the chiefs of the provinces will go forth at the first; and Ben-hadad will send and they will announce to him, saying, Men came forth from Shomeron.

18 And he will say, If for peace they came forth, seize them living; and if for war they came forth, seize them living.

19 And these came forth from the city, the boys of the chiefs of the provinces, and the strength which was after them.

20 And they will strike a man his man: and Aram will flee, and Israel will pursue them: and Ben-hadad king of Aram, will escape upon a horse, and the horsemen.

21 And the king of Israel will go forth and strike the horse and the chariot, and he struck upon Aram a great blow.

22 And the prophet will draw near to the king of Israel, and say to him, Go, be strengthened, and know, and see what thou wilt do: for at the return of the year the king of Aram will come up against thee.

23 And the servants of the king of Aram said to him, A god of the mountains is their God; for this they were strong above us; and on the contrary, we will war with them in a plain; surely, shall we not be strong above them?

25 And thou shalt divide out to thee an army, as the army having fallen from thee, and horse for horse, and chariot for chariot: and we will war with them in the plain; surely, shall we not be strong above them? And he will hear to their voice and do so.

26 And it will be at the return of the year, and Ben-hadad will review Aram, and he will go up to Aphek to the war with the king of Israel.

27 And the sons of Israel were reviewed, and were nourished, and they will go up to their meeting: and the sons of Israel will encamp over against them as two flocks of she goats; and Aram filled the land.

28 And a man of God will come near and say to the king of Israel, and he will say, Thus said Jehovah, Because Aram said, A God of the mountains is Jehovah, and he is not the God of the valleys, and I gave all this great multitude into thy hand; and know ye that I am Jehovah.

29 And these will encamp over against those seven days. And it will be in the seventh day, and the battle will draw near: and the sons of Israel will strike Aram a hundred thousand footmen in one day.

30 And the rest will flee to Aphek, to the city; and the wall will fall upon twenty and seven thousand men being left And Ben-hadad fled, and he will come to the city, to a chamber in a chamber.

31 And his servants will say to him, Behold now, we heard that the kings of the house of Israel that they are kings of mercy; we will now put sackcloth upon our loins and ropes upon our heads, and we will go forth to the king of Israel; perhaps he will save alive thy soul.

32 And they will bind sackcloth upon their loins, and ropes upon their heads, and they will come to the king of Israel, and say, Thy servant Ben-hadad said, Now wilt thou save alive my soul? And he will say, Is he yet living? he is my brother.

33 And the men will prognosticate, and hasten, and urge whether it was from him, and they will say, Thy brother Benhadad. And he will say, Go take him. And Benhadad will come forth to him, and he will bring him up upon his chariot

34 And he will say to him, The cities which my father took from thy father, I will turn back; and thou shalt set streets for thee in Damascus, according as my father set in Shomeron. And I will send thee away with a covenant. And he will cut out to him a covenant and send him away.

35 And a man, one of the sons of the prophets, said to his neighbor in the word of Jehovah, Strike me now. And the man refused to strike him.

36 And he will say to him, Because thou heardst not to the voice of Jehovah, behold thee going from me, and the lion striking thee. And he will go from beside him, and the lion will find him and strike him.

37 And he will find another man, and he will say, Strike me now. And the man will strike him, striking and wounding.

38 And the prophet will go and stand by the king by the way; and he will be disguised with a bandage over his eyes.

39 And it will be the king passing by, and he cried to the king, and he will say, Thy servant went forth into the midst of the battle; and behold, a man turned aside, and he will bring a man to me, and say, Watch this man: if missing, he shall be missed, and thy soul being instead of his soul, or thou shalt weigh a talent of silver.

40 And it will be thy servant doing here and there, and he was not. And the king of Israel will say to him, Thus thy judgment; thou didst decide.

41 And he will hasten and remove the bandage from his eyes; and the king of Israel will know him that he is from the prophets.

42 And he will say to him, Thus said Jehovah, Because thou sentest away a man I devoted to destruction from thy hand, and thy soul being instead of his soul, and thy people instead of his people.

43 And the king of Israel will go to his house, rebellious and angry; and he will come to Shomeron.

1 KINGS CHAPTER 21

1 And it will be after these words, and a vineyard was to Naboth the Jezreelite which was in Jezreel, by the palace of Ahab king of Shomeron.

2 And Ahab will speak to Naboth, saying, Wilt thou give to me thy vineyard? and it shall be to me for a garden of herbs, for it is near by my house: and I will give to thee in its stead a vineyard good above it; if good in thine eyes I will give thee silver the price of this.

3 And Naboth will say to Ahab, Far be it to me from Jehovah, my giving the inheritance of my fathers to thee.

4 And Ahab will come to his house rebellious and angry for the word that Naboth the Jezreelite spake to him: and he will say, I will not give to thee the inheritance of my fathers. And he will lie down upon his bed and turn away his face, and not eat bread.

5 And Jezebel his wife will come to him, and she will speak to him, What this thy spirit rebellious, and thou not eating bread?

6 And he will speak to her, Because I shall speak to Naboth the Jezreelite and say to him, Thou shalt give to me thy vineyard for silver; or if thou art willing, I will give to thee a vineyard in its stead. And he will say, I will not give to thee my vineyard.

7 And Jezebel his wife will say to him, Thou now wilt do the kingdom over Israel: arise, eat bread, and do thy heart good: I will give to thee the vineyard of Naboth the Jezreelite.

8 And she will write letters in the name of Ahab, and seal with his seal; and she will send the letters to the old men, and to the nobles who were in his city dwelling with Naboth.

9 And she will write in the letters, Saying, Call a fast; set Naboth in the head of the people:

10 And set two men, sons of Belial, over against him, and they shall bear witness, saying, Thou didst praise God and the king. And they shall bring him forth and stone him, and he shall die.

11 And the men of his city, the old men and the nobles, who were dwelling in his city, will do as Jezebel sent to them, according to what was written in the letters which she sent to them.

12 They called a fast; they will set Naboth upon the head of the people.

13 And two men will come, sons of Belial, and they will set before him: and the men of Belial will testify against Naboth before the people, saying, Naboth praised Jehovah and the king. And they will bring him without the city, and stone him with stones, and he will die.

14 And they will send to Jezebel, saying, Naboth was stoned, and he will die.

15 And it will be when Jezebel heard that Naboth was stoned and he will die, and Jezebel will say to Ahab, Arise, inherit the vineyard of Naboth the Jezreelite, which he refused to give to thee for silver: for Naboth is not living, but dead.

16 And it will be when Ahab heard,that Naboth was dead, and Ahab will rise to go down to the vineyard of Naboth the Jezreelite, and to possess it

17 And the word of Jehovah will be to Elijah the Tishbite, saying,

18 Arise, go down to meet Ahab king of Israel, which is in Shomeron: behold, in the vineyard of Naboth where he went down there to possess it

19 And speak to him, saying, Thus said Jehovah, Didst thou kill and also possess? And speak to him, saying, said Jehovah, In the place which the dogs licked the blood of Naboth, dogs shall lick thy blood, also thine.

20 And Ahab will say to Elijah, Didst thou find me, O mine enemy? And he will say I found: because thou didst sell thyself to do evil in the eyes of Jehovah,

21 Behold me bringing evil to thee, and I took away after thee, and I cut off to Ahab him pissing against a wall and him shut up and left in Israel;

22 And I gave thy house as the house of Jeroboam son of Nebat, and as the house of Baasha, son of Ahijah, for the irritation which thou didst irritate, and thou wilt cause Israel to sin.

23 And also to Jezebel spake Jehovah, saying, Dogs shall eat Jezebel in the fortification of Jezebel.

24 Him dying to Ahab in the city shall dogs eat; and him dying in the field shall the birds of the heavens eat

25 Only there was not as Ahab who was sold to do evil in the eves of Jehovah, whom Jezebel stimulated him.

26 And he will cause abhorrence exceeding to go after blocks, according to all which the Amorites did whom Jehovah dispossessed from the face of the sons of Israel.

27 And it will be when Ahab heard these words, and he will rend his garments, and put sackcloth upon his flesh, and he will fast and lie down in sackcloth, and go softly.

28 And the word of Jehovah will be to Elijah the Tishbite, saying,

29 Thou sawest that Ahab humbled himself from before me. Because that he humbled. himself from before me, I will not bring the evil in his days: in the days of his sons I will bring the evil upon his house.

1 KINGS CHAPTER 22

1 And they will dwell three years, no war between Aram and between Israel.

2 And it will be in the third year, and Jehoshaphat king of Judah went down to the king of Israel.

3 And the king of Israel will say to his servants, Ye knew that to us Ramoth-Gilead, and we being inactive taking it from the hand of the king ofAram.

4 And he will say to Jehoshaphat, Go with me to battle to Ramoth-Gilead. And Jehoshaphat will say to the king of Israel, As me, as thee; as my people, as thy people; as my horses, as thy horses.

5 And Jehoshaphat will say to the king of Israel, Seek now, according to the day, the word of Jehovah.

6 And the king of Israel will gather together the prophets, about four hundred men, and he will say to them. Shall I go to Ramoth-Gilead to war, or shall I desist? and they will say, Go up; and Jehovah will give into the hand of the king.

7 And Jehoshaphat will say, Is there not here yet a prophet to Jehovah, and we will seek from him?

8 And the king of Israel will say to Jehoshaphat, Yet one man to seek Jehovah from him, and I hated him, for he will not prophesy good concerning me, but evil, Micaiah, son of Imlah And Jehoshaphat will say, The king shall not say thus.

9 And the king of Israel will call for one eunuch, and say, Hasten, Micaiah, son of Imlah.

10 And the king of Israel, and Jehoshaphat king of Judah, sitting each upon his throne, putting on their garments in the area of the opening of the gate of Shomeron; and all the prophets prophesying before them.

11 And Zedekiah, son of Chenaanah, will make to him horns of iron: and he will say, Thus said Jehovah, With these shalt thou push Aram till thou finished them. .

12 And all the prophets prophesying thus, saying, Go up to Ramath-Gilead and prosper: and Jehovah gave into the hand of the king.

13 And the messenger who went to call Micaiah, spake to him, saying, Behold now, the words of the prophets of one mouth good to the king: will thy words now be according to the word of one of them, and speak thou good?

14 And Micaiah will say, Jehovah lives, for what Jehovah shall say to me I will speak it.

15 And he will come to the king, and the king will say to him, Micaiah, shall we go to Ramoth-Gilead to war, or shall we desist? And he will say to him, Go up, and prosper: and Jehovah gave into the hand of the king.

16 And the king will say to him, Till how many times do I cause thee to swear that thou wilt not speak to me only truth in the name of Jehovah?

17 And he will say, I saw all Israel scattered to the mountains as sheep which not to them a shepherd: and Jehovah will say, No lords to these; they shall turn back a man to his house in peace.

18 And the king of Israel will say to Jehoshaphat, Did I not say to thee he will not prophesy good concerning me, but evil?

19 And he will say, For this, hear the word of Jehovah: I saw Jehovah sitting upon his throne, and all the army of the heavens standing by him from his right hand and from his left

20 And Jehovah will say, Who will deceive Ahab, and he shall go up and fall in Ramoth-Gilead? and this will say according to this, and this said according to this.

21 And the spirit will go forth and stand before Jehovah, and he will say, I will deceive him. And Jehovah will say, By what?

22 And he will say, I will go forth and be to him a lying spirit in the mouth of all his prophets. And he will say, Thou shalt deceive, and thou shalt be able: go forth and do thus.

23 And now behold, Jehovah gave a lying spirit in the mouth of all these thy prophets, and Jehovah spake evil concerning thee.

24 And Zedekiah the son of Chenaanah will come near, and strike Micaiah upon the cheek, saying, Where passed the spirit of Jehovah from me to speak to thee?

25 And Micaiah will say, Behold thee seeing in that day when thou shalt go into a chamber, in a chamber to hide thyself.

26 And the king of Israel will say, Take Micaiah and turn him back to Amon, chief of the city, and to Joash son of the king.

27 And say, Thus said the king, Put this in the house of shutting up, and cause him to eat the bread of oppression and the waters of oppression till my coming in peace.

28 And Micaiah will say, If turning back, thou shalt turn back in peace, Jehovah spake not in me. And he will say, Hear, ye peoples, all of them.

29 And the king of Israel will go up, and Jehoshaphat king of Judah, to Bamoth-Gilead.

30 And the king of Israel will say to Jehoshaphat, Disguising myself and going into the war; and thou put on thy garments. And the king of Israel will se himself, and will go into the war.

31 And the king of Aram commanded the chiefs of the chariots which were to him, thirty and two, saying, Ye shall not fight with little and with great, but with the king of Israel alone

32 And it will be when the chiefs of the chariots saw Jehoshaphat, and they said, Surely he is the king of Israel. And they will turn aside to fight against him: and Jehoshaphat will cry out

33 And it will be when the chiefs of the chariots saw that it was not the king of Israel, and they will turn back from after him.

34 And a man drew with a bow in his simplicity, and he will strike the king of Israel between the joinings and between the coat of mail; and he will say to his driver, Turn thy hand, and bring me forth from the war, for I was wounded.

35 And the battle will go up in that day: and the king was fixed in the chariot over against Aram, and he will die in the evening: and the blood of the wound will flow into the bosom of the chariot

36 And a shout of joy will pass through in the camp as the sun went down, saying, A man to his city, and a man to his land.

37 And the king will die, and he will be brought to Shomeron; and they will bury the king in Shomeron.

38 And one will inundate the chariot in the pool of Shomeron; and the dogs will lick his blood; and the harlots washed, according to the word of Jehovah which he spake.

39 And the rest of the words of Ahab, and all that he did, and the ivory house, which he built, and all the cities which he built, are they not written upon the book of the words of the days to the kings of Israel?

40 And Ahab will lie down with his fathers; and Ahaziah his son will reign in his stead.

41 And Jehoshaphat son of Asa, reigned over Judah in the fourth year to Ahab king of Israel.

42 Jehoshaphat the son of thirty and five years in his reigning; and twenty and five years he reigned in Jerusalem. And his mother's name Azubah, daughter of Shilhi.

43 And he went in all the way of Asa his father; he turned not aside from it to do the straight in the eyes of Jehovah: But the heights were not removed; the people yet sacrificing and burning incense upon the heights.

44 And Jehoshaphat will make peace with the king of Israel.

45 And the rest of the words of Jehoshaphat, and his strength that he did, and how he warred, are they not written upon the book of the words of the days to the kings of Judah?

46 And the remainder of the holy place which was left in the days of Asa his father, he took away from the land.

48 Jehoshaphat built ships of Thar-shish to go to Ophrah for gold: and it went not, for the ships were broken in Ezion-Geber.

49 Then said Ahaziah son of Ahab, to Jehoshaphat, My servants shall go with thy servants in the ships. And Jehoshaphat would not

50 And Jehoshaphat will lie down with his fathers, and be buried with his fathers in the city of David his father: and Jehoram his son will reign in his stead.

51 And Ahaziah son of Ahab reigned over Israel in Shomeron in the seventeenth year to Jehoshaphat king of Judah; and he will reign over Israel two years

52 And he will do evil in the eyes of Jehovah and go in the way of his father, and in the way of his mother, and in the way of Jeroboam, son of Nebat, who caused Israel to sin:

53 For he will serve Baal and worship to him, and he will irritate Jehovah the God of Israel according to all which his father did.

2 KINGS CHAPTER 1

1 And Moab broke with Israel after Ahab died.

2 And Ahaziah will fall through the lattice in his upper chamber which was in Shomeron, and he will be sick: and he will send messengers, and say to them, Go seek in Baal the fly god of Ekron, if I shall live from this disease.

3 And the messenger of Jehovah spake to Elijah the Tishbite, Arise, go up to the meeting of the messengers of the king of Shomeron, and speak to them, Is it because there is no God in Israel ye go to seek in Baal the fly god of Ekron?

4 And for this, thus said Jehovah, The bed where thou wentest up there, thou shalt not come down from it, but dying, thou shalt die, and Elijah will go

5 And the messengers will turn back to him, and he will say to them, Why this ye turned back?

6 And they will say to him, A man came up to our meeting, and he will say to us, Go, turn back to the king who sent you, and speak to him, Thus said Jehovah, Is it because there is no God in Israel thou sentest to seek in Baal the fly god of Ekron? for this the bed where thou wentest up there, thou shalt not come down from it, for dying, thou shalt die.

7 And he will speak to them, What the judgment of the man who came up to your meeting, and he will speak to you these words?

8 And they will say to him, A man possessing hair, girded with a girdle of skin upon his loins. And he will say, It is Elijah the Tishbite.

9 And he will send to him a chief of of fifty and his fifty. And he will go Up to him; and behold, he sat upon the head of the mountain. And he will speak to him,. Thou man of God, the king spake, Come down.

10 And Elijah will answer and speak to the captain of fifty, If I a man of God, fire shall come down out of the heavens and consume thee and thy fifty. And fire will come down from the heavens and consume him and his fifty.

11 And he will turn back and send to him another captain of fifty and his fifty. And he will answer and speak to him, O man of God, thus said the king, Come down quickly.

12 And Elijah will answer and speak to them, If I a man of God, fire shall come down from the heavens and con,sume thee and thy fifty. And the fire of God will come down from the heavens and consume him and his fifty.

13 And he will turn back and send a captain of the third fifty and his fifty. And the captain of the third fifty will go up and come and bend upon his knees before Elijah, and make supplication to him, and speak to him, O man of God, shall my soul now be precious, and the soul of these fifty, thy servants, in thine eyes?

14 Behold, fire will come down from heaven and consume the two first captains and their fifties: and now shall my soul be precious in thine eyes?

15 And the messenger of Jehovah will speak to Elijah, Go down with him: thou shalt not be afraid of his face. And he will rise and go down with him to the king.

16 And he will speak to him, Thus said Jehovah, Because thou didst send messengers to seek in Baal the fly god of Ekron, Is it because there is no God. in Israel to seek in his word? for this, the bed where thou wentest up there, thou shalt not come down from it, for dying, thou shalt die.

17 And he will die according to the word of Jehovah which Elijah spoke. And Jehoram will reign in his stead in the second year to Jehoram son of Jehoshaphat, king of Judah; for there was no son to him.

18 And the rest of the words of Ahaziah which he did, are they not written upon the book of the words of the days to the kings of Israel?

2 KINGS CHAPTER 2

1 And it will be in Jehovah bringing up Elijah in a tempest to the heavens, and Elijah went up, and Elisha, from Gilgal.

2 And Elijah will say to Elisha, Sit now, here; for Jehovah sent me even to the house of God. And Elisha will say to him, Jehovah lives, and thy soul lives, if I shall forsake thee. And they will go down to the house of God.

3 And the sons of the prophets that were in the house of God will come forth to Elisha and say to him, Knewest thou that this day Jehovah takes thy lord from above thy head? And he will say, I also knew; be silent

4 And Elijah will say to him, Elisha, sit now here; for Jehovah sent me to Jericho. And he will say, Jehovah lives, and thy soul lives, if I shall forsake thee. And they will come to Jericho.

5 And the sons of the prophets which were in Jericho will come near to Elisha and say to him, Knewest thou that this day Jehovah takes thy lord from above thy head? And he will say, I also knew; be silent

6 And Elijah will say to him, Sit now, here; for Jehovah sent me to Jordan. And he will say, Jehovah lives and thy soul lives if I shall forsake thee. And they two will go.

7 And fifty men from the sons of the prophets went, and they will stand from opposite from afar off: and they two stood by Jordan.

8 And Elijah will take his wide cloak and roll together, and strike the waters, and they will be divided hence and thence, and they two will pass through into the desert

9 And it will be as they passed through and Elijah said to Elisha, Ask what I shall do for thee before I shall be taken from thee. And Elisha will say, Now shall the mouth of two in thy spirit be to me.

10 And he will say, Thou wert hard to ask: if thou shalt see me taken from thee, it shall be thus to thee; and if not, it shall not be.

11 And it will be they went, going speaking, and behold, a chariot of fire and horses of fire, and they will separate between them two; and Elijah will up in a tempest to the heavens.

12 And Elisha saw, and he crying, My father, my father!, the chariot of Israel and his horsemen! and he saw him no more: and he will lay hold upon his garments and rend them into two rents.

13 And he will lift, up the wide cloak of Elijah which fell from above him, and he will turn back and stand by the lip of Jordan.

14 And he will take the wide cloak of Elijah which fell from off him and strike the waters, and say, Where is Jehovah the God of Elijah, even he? And he will strike the waters and they will divide hence and thence, and Elisha will pass through.

15 And the sons of the prophets who were opposite in Jericho will see, and they will say, The spirit of Elijah rested upon Elisha. And they will come to meet him, and they will worship to him to the earth.

16 And they will say to him, Behold now, there is with thy servants fifty men, sons of strength: they shall go now and seek thy lord, lest the spirit of Jehovah lifted him up, and it will cast him upon one of the mountains or into one of the valleys. And he will say, Ye shall not send.

17 And they will press upon him till he was ashamed, and he will say, Send. And they will send fifty men; and they will seek three days, and they found not

18 And they will turn back to him, and he sitting in Jericho; and he will say to them, Did I not say to you, Ye shall not send?

19 And the men of the city will say to Elisha, Behold the situation of the city good, as my lord sees: and the waters evil and the land barren.

20 And he will say, Take to me a new dish, and put salt there. And they will take to him.

21 And he will go forth to the going forth of the waters, and he will cast salt there, and be will say, Thus said Jehovah, I healed these waters; there shall be no more from thence death and barren.

22 And the waters will be healed even to this day, wording to the word of Elisha which he spake.

23 And he will go up from thence to the house of God: and he going up in the way, and little boys will come forth from the city, and will scoff at him, and say to him, Go up, thou bald head; go up, thou bald head.

24 And he will turn behind him and see them, and he will curse them in the name of Jehovah. And, two she-bears will come forth from the forest and will rend of them forty and two children.

25 And he will go from thence to mount Cannel, and from thence he turned back to Shomeron.

2 KINGS CHAPTER 3

1 And Jehoram son of Ahab reigned over Israel in Shomeron in the eighteenth year to Jehoshaphat king of Judah, and he will reign twelve years

2 And he will do evil in the eyes of Jehovah, but not as his father and; as his mother; and he will remove the statue of Baal which his father made.

3 But in the sins of Jeroboam the son of Nebat, who caused Israel to sin, he adhered; he departed not from them

4 And misha king of Moab was a shepherd, and he turned back to the king of Israel a hundred; thousand lambs and a hundred thousand rams, with the fleece.

5 And it wilt be as Ahab died; and the king of Moab will break with the king of Israel

6 And king Jehoram will go forth in that day out of Shomeron, and he will review all Israel.

7 And he will go and send to Jehoshaphat king of Judah, saying, The king of Moab broke with me; go with me against Moab to war. And he will say, I will go: as me, as thee; as my people as thy people; as my horses as thy horses

8 And he will say, Where the way we shall go up? And he will say, The way of the desert of Edom.

9 And the king of Israel will go and the king of Judah, and the king of Edom and they will encompass a way seven days; and there was no water for the camp, and for tire cattle which:were at their feet

10 And the king of Israel will say, Alas, that Jehovah called for thine three kings to give them into the hand of Moab!

11 And Jehoshaphat will say, Is there not here a prophet to Jehovah, and we will seek Jehovah from him? And one of the servants of the king of Israel will answer and say, Here is Elisha, son of Shaphat, who poured water upon, the hands of Elijah.

12 And Jehoshaphat will say the word of Jehovah is with him, and the king of Israel, and Jehoshaphat, and the king of Edom will come down to him

13 And Elisha will say to the king of Israel, What to me; and to thee go to the prophets of thy father and to the prophets of thy mother. And the king of Israel will say to him, Nay for Jehovah called these three kings to give them into the hand of Moab.

14 And Elisha will say, Jehovah of armies lives whom I stand before him, for unless I accept the face of Jehoshaphat king of Judah, if I will look to thee and if I will, see thee.

15 And now take to me a player on an instrument And it was when the player played, and the hand of Jehovah will be upon him.

16 And he will say, Thus said Jehovah, Make this torrent, pits, pits.

17 For thus said Jehovah, Ye shall not see wind, and ye shall not see rain; and that torrent shall be full of water, and ye drunk, and your possessions, and your cattle.

18 And: this was light in the eyes of Jehovah, and he gave Moab into your hand.

19 And strike ye every fortified city and every chosen city, and every good tree ye shall cause it to fall, and all the fountains of water ye shall shut up, and every good part ye shall mar with stones.

20 And it will be in the morning when the gift went up, and behold, water coming from the way of Edom, and the earth will be filled with waters

21 And all Moab heard that the kings came up to war against them, and they will be gathered together from all girding on a girdle, and above, and they will stand upon the bound.

22 And they will rise early in the morning, and the sun rose upon the waters and Moab will see from opposite the waters red as blood:

23 And they will say, This the blood of the sword; the kings were destroyed, and they will strike a man his neighbor: and now to the spoil, Moab.

24 And they will go to the camp of Israel, and Israel will rise and strike. Moab and they will flee from their face: and they will come upon it and smiting Moab.

25 And they will tear down the cities, and on all the good portion of Moab they will cast a man his stone, and they filled it; and they will shut up all the fountains of water, and they will cause every good tree to fall: till he left its stones in the city of potsherds, and the slingers will encompass and strike it.

26 And the king of Moab will see that the battle was strong above him, and he will take him seven hundred men drawing sword to break through to the king of Edom, and they will not be able.

27 And he will take his son, the firstborn, which shall reign in his stead, and bring him up a burnt-offering upon the wall: and there will be great anger against Israel, and they will remove from him and turn back to the land.

2 KINGS CHAPTER 4

1 And one woman from the wives of the sons of the prophets cried to Elisha, saying, Thy servant my husband died, and thou knewest that thy servant was fearing Jehovah: and the creditor came to take my two children for servants.

2 And Elisha will say to her, What shall I do for thee? announce to me what is to thee in the house. And she will say, Not anything to thy servant in the house but a flask of oil.

3 And he will say, Go ask for thyself vessels from without from all thine dwelling near; empty vessels; thou shalt not be little.

4 And come in and shut the door after thee and after thy sons, and thou shalt pour into all these vessels, and the full thou shalt remove.

5 And she will go from him and shut the door after her and after her sons, they bringing near to her, and she pouring out

6 And it will be as the vessels being full, and she will say to her son, Bring to me yet a vessel. And he will say. Not a vessel more. And, the oil will stand.

7 And she will go and announce to the man of God, and he will say, Go sell the oil and requite thy creditor, and thou shalt live with thy sons by the rest

8 And it will be the day, and Elisha will pass through to Shunem, and a great woman there; and she will lay hold on him to eat bread. And it will be as often as he passed by, he will turn aside there to eat bread.

9 And she will say to her husband, Behold now, I knew that he is a holy man of God, passing by us continually.

10 Now we will make a little wall chamber and put for him there a bed and a table, and a throne and a candlestick; and being in his coming to us he will turn aside there.

11 And the day will be and he will come there, and he will turn aside into the chamber, and lie there.

12 And he will say to Gehazi his boy, Call for this Shunamitess. And he will call for her, and she will stand before him.

13 And he will say to him, Say now to her, Behold, thou didst hasten for us all this concern; what to be done for thee? is it to speak for thee to the king, or to the chief of the army? And she will say, In the midst of my people I dwell.

14 And he will say, And what to be done for her? And Gehazi will say. Truly, not a son to her, and her husband an old man.

15 And he will say, Call to her. And he will call to her, and she will stand in the door.

16 And he will say, At this appointment about the time thou living to embrace a son. And she will say, My lord, thou man of God, do not deceive With thy servant

17 And the woman will conceive and bear a son at this appointment about the time of living which Elisha spake to her.

18 And the child will grow; and the day will be and he will go forth to his father to those reaping.

19 And he will say to his father, My head, my head. And he will say to the boy, Lift him up to his mother.

20 And he will lift him up and bring him to his mother, and he will lift him up and bring him to his mother, and he will sit upon her knees till noon, and he will die.

21 And she will go up and lay him down upon the bed of the man of God, and she will shut up after her and go forth.

22 And she will call to her husband and say, Send now to me one of the boys, and one of the she asses, and I will run even to the man of God, and I will turn back

23 And he will say, Wherefore goest thou to him this day? not new moon, and not Sabbath. And she will say, Peace.

24 And she will saddle the ass, and say to her boy, Lead on, and go; thou shalt not hold back for me to ride except I said to thee.

25 And she will go and come to the man of God to mount Carmel. And it will be when the man of God saw her from opposite, and he will say to Gehazi his boy, Behold this Shunamitess.

26 Now run now to her meeting, and say to her, Is peace to thee? and to thy husband? and peace to the child And she will say, Peace.

27 And she will come to the man of God to the mountain, and she will lay hold upon his feet; and Gehazi will come near to push her away; and the man of God will say, Let go to her, for her soul is bitter to her: and Jehovah hid from me and announced not to me.

28 And she will say, Did I ask a son from my lord? said I not, Thou shalt not deceive me?

29 And he will say to Gehazi, Gird up thy loins and take my prop in thy hand, and go: If thou shalt find a man, thou shalt not praise him; and if a man shall praise thee, thou shalt not answer him: and put my prop upon the face of the boy.

30 And the mother of the boy will say, Jehovah lives and thy soul lives, I will not leave thee. And he will rise and go after her.

31 And Gehazi passed over before them, and he will put the prop upon the face of the boy, and no voice and no attention. And he will turn back to meet him; and he will announce to him, saying, The boy awaked not 32 And Elisha will go into the house, and behold, the boy dead, lying upon his bed.

33 And he will go in and shut the door after them two, and he will pray to Jehovah.

34 And he will come up and lie down upon the child, and put his mouth upon his mouth, and his eyes upon his eyes, and his hands upon his hand; and he will bow himself upon him, and the flesh of the child will be warm.

35 And he will turn back and go into the house, once hence, and once thence; and he will go up, and he will bow himself upon him: and the boy will sneeze, even to seven times; and the boy will open his eyes.

36 And he will call to Gehazi and say, Call to this Shunamitess. And he will call her, and she will come to him, and he will say, Lift up thy son.

37 And she will go in and fall at his feet, and worship him to the earth; and she will lift up her son and go forth.

38 And Elisha turned back to Gilgal. And the famine in the land; and the sons of the prophets sitting before him: and he will say to his boy, Place the great pot, and boil pottage for the sons of the prophets.

39 And one will go forth to the field to gather green herbs, and he will find a vine of the field, and he will gather from it wild cucumbers of the field his garment full, and he will come and cut up into the pot of pottage: for he knew it not.

40 And they will pour out for the men to eat., and it will be as they were eating from the pottage, and they cried out, and they will say, Death in the pot O man of God. And they could not eat.

41 And he will say, Take flour. And he will cast into the pot and say, Pour out for the people, and they shall eat And there was not a word of evil in the pot.

42 And a man came from the lord of three, and he will bring to the man of God bread of the first-fruits, twenty of bread of barley, and garden fruits in his sack; and he will say, Give to the people, and they shall eat

43 And he serving will say, What I shall I give this before a hundred men? and he will say, Give to the people, and they shall eat; for thus said Jehovah, Eating, and they leave.

44 And he will give before them, and they will eat and leave, according. to the word of Jehovah.

2 KINGS CHAPTER 5

1 And Naaman chief of the army of the king of Aram was a man before his lord, and he was rifted up in the face, for by him Jehovah gave salvation to Aram: and the man was mighty of strength; being leprous.

2 And Aram will go forth by troops, and take captive from the land of Israel a little girl; and she will be before Naaman's wife.

3 And she will say to her mistress, O that my lord was before the prophet that is in Shomeron! then he will gather him from his leprosy.

4 And one will go and announce to his lord, saying, According to this, and according to this, spake the girl which was from the land of Israel.

5 And the king of Aram will say, Go; come, I will send a letter to the king of Israel. And he will go and take in his hand ten talents of silver and six thousand of gold, and ten changes of garments.

6 And he will bring the letter to the king of Israel, saying, Now when: this letter comes to thee, behold, I sent Naaman my servant, and do thou gather him from his leprosy.

7 And it will be when the king of Israel read the letter, and he will rend his garments and say, Am I God to kill and to make alive, that this one sent to me to gather a man from his leprosy? for surely know ye now, and see that he seeks occasion against me.

8 And it will be when Elisha the man of God heard that, the king of, Israel rent his garments, and he will send to the king, saying, Wherefore rentest thou thy garments? He shall come now to me and know that there is a prophet in Israel.

9 And Naaman will come with his horse and with his chariot, and he will stand at the door of the House to Elisha.

10 And Elisha will send a messenger to him, saying, Go and wash seven times in Jordan and, thy flesh shall: turn back to thee and be clean.

11 And Naaman will be angry, and go, and say, Behold, I said coming forth, he will come forth to me, and stand and call in the name of Jehovah his God and wave his hand up and down to the place, and he will gather him being leprous.

12 Is not Abana and Pharpar, rivers of Damascus, good above all the waters of Israel? and shall I not wash in them And be cleansed? And he will turn and go in wrath.

13 And his servants will come near and speak to him, and say, My father, spake the prophet a great word to thee, wilt thou not do? and much more he said to thee, Wash and be cleansed,

14 And he will go down and dip in Jordan seven times, according to the word of the man of God, and his flesh will turn: back as, the flesh of a small boy, and he will be cleansed.

15 And he will turn back to the man of God, he and all his camp; and he will come and stand before him, and say, Behold now, I knew that there is no God in all the earth but in Israel: and now take now a blessing from thy servant

16 And he will say, Jehovah lives whom I stood before him if I will take. And he will press upon him to take, and he will refuse.

17 And Naaman will say, And shall there not now be given to thy servant a pair of Mules lifting up earth? for thy servant will no more do a burnt-offering and a sacrifice to other gods but to Jehovah.

18 For this word will Jehovah forgive to thy servant in the going of my lord to the house of Rimmon to worship there, and he leaning upon my hand, and I worshiped in the house of Rimmon: in my worshiping in the house of Rimmon now will Jehovah forgive to thy servant in this word?

19 And he will say to him, Go for peace. And he will go from him a measure of land,

20 And Gehazi the boy of Elisha, the man of God, will say, Behold, my lord spared Naaman this Aramite from taking from his hand what he brought: Jehovah lives, for if I ran after him land book from him something.

21 And Gehazi will pursue after Naaman, and Naaman will see he ran after him, and will descend from his chariot to meet him, and he will say, Is it peace?

22 And he will say, Peace. My lord sent me, saying, Behold, now there came here to me two boys from mount Ephraim from the sons of the prophets: wilt thou give to them a talent of silver and two changes of garments?

23 And Naaman will say, Be content, take two talents And he will press upon him, and he Will bind two talents of silver in two bags, and two changes of garments, and he will give to his two boys, and they will lift up before him.

24 And he will come to the hill and; take from their hand and deposit in the house: and he will send away the men, said they will go.

25 And he came in, and he will stand by his lord: and Elisha will say to him, From whence, Gehazi? And he will say, Thy servant wait not hence and thence.

26 And he will say to him, Went not my heart when the man turned again from his chariot to meet thee? Is it a time to take silver, and to take garments, and olive trees, and vineyards, and sheep and oxen, and servants and maids?

27 And the leprosy of Naaman shall cleave upon thee and upon thy seed forever. And he will go forth from his face being leprous as snow.

2 KINGS CHAPTER 6

1 And the sons of the prophets will say to Elisha, Behold now, the place where we dwell there before thee is narrow for us.

2 We will go now even to Jordan and take from thence each, one beam, and we will make for us a place to dwell there. And he will say, Go.

3 And one will say, Be content, now, and go with thy servants And he will say, I will go.

4 And he will go with them; and they will come to Jordan, and they will cut woods.

5 And one will be felling the beam, and the iron fell into the water: and he will cry out and say, Alas, my lord! and it was borrowed.

6 And the man of God will say, Where fell it? And he will cause him to see the place. And he will cut down wood and cast there; and the iron will overflow.

7 And he will say, Lift up to thee. And he will stretch forth his hand and take it

8 And the king of Aram was warring against Israel, and he counseled with his servants, saying, To such a certain place my encampments

9 And the man of God will send to the king of Israel, saying, Watch from passing through this place, for there Aram encamps.

10 And the king of Israel will send to the place which the man of God said to him and warned of it, and he watched himself there, not once, and not twice.

11 And the heart of the king of Aram will be agitated for this word; and he will call to his servants and say to them, Will ye not announce to me who is leading us astray to the king of Israel?

12 And one of his servants will say, No, my lord the king; but Elisha the prophet, who is in Israel, will announce to the king of Israel the words which thou wilt speak in thy bed-chamber.

13 And he will say, Go, and see where he is, and I will send and take him. And it will be announced to him, saying, Behold, in Dothan.

14 And he will send there horses and chariots, and weighty strength: and they will come by night, and they will surround upon the city.

15 And he serving the man of God will rise early to stand up, and he went forth, and behold, strength surrounding the city, and horse and chariot And his boy will say to him, Alas, my lord! how shall we do?

16 And he will say, Thou shalt not fear: for the many which are with us are more than with them.

17 And Elisha will pray, and say, Jehovah open now his eyes, and he shall see. And Jehovah will open the boy's eyes, and he will see: and behold, the mountain full of horses and chariots of fire round about Elisha.

18 And they will come down to him, and Elisha will pray to Jehovah, and say, Strike now, this nation with blindness. And he will strike them with blindness, according to the word of Elisha.

19 And Elisha will say to them, This not the way, and this not the city: go ye after me, and I will take you to the man whom ye will seek. And he will cause them to go to Shomeron.

20 And it will be when they came to Shomeron, and Elisha will say to Jehovah, Open the eyes of these, and they shall see. And Jehovah will open their eyes, and they will see; and behold, in the midst of Shomeron.

21 And the king of Israel will say to Elisha when he saw them, Shall I strike? shall I strike, my father?

22 And he will say, Thou shalt not strike: whom thou tookest captive with thy sword and with thy bow; strikest thou? set bread and water before them, and they shall eat and drink and go to their lord.

23 And he will purchase for them a great purchase: and they will eat and drink, and he will send them, and they will go to their lord. And the troops of Aram will add no more to come into the land of Israel.

24 And it will be after this, and Benhadad king of Aram will gather all his camp and come up and press upon Shomeron.

25 And a great famine will be in Shomeron: and behold them pressing upon it till the head of an ass was for eighty of silver, and the fourth of a cup of doves dung, for five of silver.

26 And the king of Israel will be passing by upon the wall, and a woman cried out to him, saying, Save, O lord the king.

27 And he will say, Wilt not Jehovah save thee, from whence shall I save thee from the threshing-floor or from the wine-press?

28 And the king will say to her, What to thee? and she will say, This woman said to me, Thou shalt give thy son, and we will eat him this day, and my son we will eat to-morrow.

29 And we shall boil my son, and eat him: and saying to her on the day after, Thou shalt give thy son, and we will eat him: and she will hide her son

30 And it will be when the king heard the woman's words, and he will rend his garments; and he passed by upon the wall, and the people will see, and behold, sackcloth upon his flesh, from within.

31 And he will say, Thus will God do to me, and thus will he add, if the head of Elisha son of Shaphat, shall stand upon him this day.

32 And Elisha sitting in his house, and the old men sitting with him; and he will send a man from before him: before the messenger will come to him, and he said to the old men, See ye that this son of a murderer sent to take away my head? see, when the messenger comes, shut the door and press him in the door: is not the voice of the feet of his lord behind him?

33 While yet speaking with them, behold, the messenger will come down to him: and he will say, Behold, this evil from Jehovah; what more shall I wait for Jehovah?

2 KINGS CHAPTER 7

1 And Elisha will say, Hear the word of Jehovah, thus said Jehovah, About the time to-motrow a measure of fine flour for a shekel, and two measures of barley for a shekel, in the gate of Shomeron.

2 And the third, which was to the king leaning upon his hand, will answer the man of God, and say, Behold, Jehovah making lattices in the heavens, will this word be? and he will say, Behold thee seeing with thine eyes, and from thence thou shalt not eat

3 And there were four men being leprous at the entrance of the gate, and they will say a man to his neighbor, What, shall we sit here till our death?

4 If we said, We will go into the city, and the famine in. the city, and our death there: and if we sat here, and we died. And now come, and we will fall to the camp of Aram: if they will save us alive we shall live; and if they will kill us, and we died.

5 And they will rise in darkness to go to the camp of Aram: and they will come even to the end of the camp of Aram, and behold, not a man there.

6 And Jehovah caused the camp of Aram to hear a voice of chariot and a voice of horse, a voice of great strength: and they will say a man to his brother, Behold, the king of Israel hired the kings of the Hittites and the kings of Egypt to come upon us.

7 And they will rise and flee in darkness, and leave their tents, and their horses and their asses, the camp as it was, and flee for their soul.

8 And these leprous will come even to the end of the camp, and go to one tent, and eat and drink and lift up from thence silver and gold, and garments,. and they will go and hide and turn back, and come to another tent, and lift up from thence, and go and hide.

9 And they will say a man to his neighbor, Not thus do we: this day, it is a day of glad tidings, and we being silent: and waiting till morning light and sin will find us: an now come and we will go and announce to the king's house.

10 And they will go and call to the gate of the city and announce to them, saying, We came to the camp of Aram, and behold, not a man there, and voice of man, but the horse made fast, and the ass made fast, and the tents as they are 11 And it will be called out at the gates, and they will announce to the king's house within.

12 And the king will rise by night and say to his servants, I will now announce to you what Aram did to us. They knew that we are hungry, and they went forth from the camp to hide in the field, saying, When they shall come forth from the city and we will seize them living, and we will go info the city.

13 And one of his servants will answer and say, They shall take five of the horses remaining which were left in it, (behold them as all the multitude of Israel which were left in it: behold them as all the multitude of Israel which were finished:) and we will send and see.

14 And they will take two chariot horses, and the king will send after the camp of Aram, saying, Go and see.

15 And they will go after them even to Jordan; and behold, all the way full of garments and vessels which Aram cast away in their being terrified. And the messengers will turn back and announce to the king.

16 And the people will go out and plunder the camp of Aram. And a measure of fine flour will be for a shekel, and two measures of barley for a shekel, according to the word of Jehovah

17 And the king appointed the third who leaned upon his hand over the gate: and the people will tread upon him in the gate: and he will die according to the word of the man of God who spake in the king's coming down to him.

18 And it will be as the man of God spake to the king, saying, Two measures of barley for a shekel, and a meas are of fine flour for a shekel will be about the time tomorrow in the gate of homeron.

19 And the third will answer the man of God and say, Behold, Jehovah making lattices in the heavens, will it be according to this word? and he will say, Behold thee seeing with thine eyes, and thou shalt not eat from thence.

20 And thus it will be to him:and the people will tread upon him in the gate, and he will die.

2 KINGS CHAPTER 8

1 And Elisha spake to the woman whom he restored to life her son, saying, Arise, and go thou, and thy house, and sojourn where thou wilt sojourn; for Jehovah called for a famine; and also coming to the land seven

2 And the woman will rise and will do according to the word of the man of God: and will go, she and her house, and she will sojourn in the land of the rovers seven years.

3 And it will be from the end of seven years, and the woman will turn back from the land of the rovers, and come to cry to the king for her house and for her field.

4 And the king Speaking to Gehazi the boy of the man of God, saying, Relate now to me all the great things which Elisha did.

5 And it will be, he relating to the king how he restored the dead to life, and behold, the woman whom he restored to life her son, cried to the king for her louse and for her field. And Gehazi:will say, O lord the king, this the woman and this her son whom Elisha restored to life.

6 And the king will ask the woman, and she will relate to him: and the king will give to her one eunuch, saying, Turn back all which was to her and all the fruits of the field from the day she left the land and even till now.

7 And Elisha will come to Damascus: and the son of Hadad king of Aram was sick: and it will be announced to him, saying, The man of God came even here.

8 And the king will say to Hamel, Take in:thy hand a gift, and go to the meeting of the man of God, and seek Jehovah from him, saying, Shall I live from this sickness?

9 And Hazael will go to meet him, and he will take a gift in his hand, and every good of Damascus, the lifting up of forty camels, and he will go and stand before him, and say, Thy son the son of Hadad king of Aram sent me to thee, saying, Shall I live from this sickness?

10 And Elisha will say, Go, say, Living, shalt thou not live? and Jehovah caused me to eee that dying, he shall die.

11 And he will set his face, and he will set even till he was ashamed: and the man of God will weep.

12 And Hamel will say, Wherefore weeps my lord? and he will say, Because I knew that thou wilt do to the sons of Israel evil: their fortifications thou wilt send forth into fire, and their chosen thou wilt kill with the sword, and thou wilt dash in pieces their children, and the pregnant thou wilt cleave asunder.

13 And Hamel will say, For what! thy servant, the dog, that he will do this great word? and Elisha will say, Jehovah caused me to see thee king over Aram.

14 And he will go from Elisha and come to his lord; and he will say to him, What said Elisha to thee? and he will say, He said to me, Living, thou shalt live.

15 And it will be on the morrow, and he will take a coarse cloth and dip in water and spread over his face, and he will die: and Hassel will reign in his stead.

16 And the fifth year to Jerson son of Ahab king of Israel, and Jehoshaphat king of Judah, Jehoram son of Jehoshaphat king of Judah, reigned.

17 The son of thirty and two years was he in his reigning; and eight years reigned be in Jerusalem.

18 And he will go in the way of the kings of Israel, as did the house of Ahab: for the daughter of Ahab was to him for wife: and he will do evil in the eyes of Jehovah.

19 And Jehovah Would net destroy Judah on account of David his servant, as he said to give to him a light for his sons all the days.

20 In his days Edom broke from under the hand of Judah, and they will make a king over them

21 And Joram will pass over to Zair, and all the chariots with him: and he will be rising by night, and he will strike Edom surrounding upon him, and the captains of his chariots: and the people will flee to his tents.

22 And Edom will break from under Judah even to this day. Then Libnab will break in that time.

23 And the rest of the words of Joram, and all that he did, are they not written upon the book of the words of the days to the kings of Judah?

24 And Joram will lie down with his fathers, and he will be buried with his fathers in the city of David; and Ahaziah his son will reign in his stead.

25 In the year, the twelfth year to, Joram, son of Ahab king of Israel, reigned Ahaziah son of Jehoram king of Judah.

26 The son of twenty and two years was Ahaziah in his reigning.; and he reigned one year in Jerusalem. And his mother's name Athaliah, daughter of Omri, king of Israel

27 And he will go in the way of the house of Ahab, and he will do evil in the eyes of Jehovah, as the house of Ahab, for he was son-in-law of the house of Ahab.

28 And he will go with Jehoram son of Ahab, to war with Hassel king of Aram, in Ramoth-Gilead,; and the Aramites will strike Jehoram.

29 And king Jehoram will turn back to be healed in Jezreel from the blows which the Aramites will strike him in Ramah in his fighting with Hazael king of Aram. And Ahaziah son of Jehoram king of Judah, went down to see Joram son of Ahab, in Jezeel, for he was sick.

2 KINGS CHAPTER 9

1 And Elisha the prophet called to one of the sons of the prophets, and he will say to him, Gird thy loins, and take this flask of oil in thy hand, and go to Ramoth-Gilead.

2 And go there and see there Jehuson of Jehoshaphat, son of Nimshi, and go and cause him to rise from the midst of his brethren, and bring him to a chamber in a chamber;

3 And take the flask of oil and pour upon his head, and say, Thus said Jehovah I anointed thee for king to Israel And open the door and flee, and thou shalt not wait.

4 And the boy will go, the boy the prophet, to Ramoth-Gilead.

5 And he will go in, and behold, the captains of the army sitting; and he will say, A word to me for thee the chief. And Jehu will say, To which of all of us? And he will say, To thee the chief.

6 And he will rise and go into the house, and he will pour the oil upon his head, and say to him, Thus said Jehovah the God of Israel, I anointed thee for king to the people, of Jehovah to Israel

7 And smite thou the house of Ahab thy lord, and I avenged the bloods of my servants the prophets, and the bloods of all the servants of Jehovah from the hand of Jezebel

8 And all the house of Ahab shall perish: and I out off to Ahab him pissing against the wall, and him shut up and left in Israel.

9 And I gave the house of Ahab as the house of Jeroboam son of Nebat, and as the house of Bassha son of Ahijah

10 And Jezebel shall the dogs eat in a part of Jezreel, and none to bury. And he will open the door and flee.

11 And Jelin will go forth to the servants of his lord: and it will be said to him, Peace? wherefore came this raving to thee? And he will say, to them, Ye knew the man and his speech.

12 And they will say, A falsehood; announce to us now And he will say, According to this, and according to this he said to me, saying, Thus said Jehovah, I anointed thee for king to Israel

13 And they will hasten and take a man his garment, and will put under him to the body of the steps, and they will strike upon the trumpet and say, Jehu reigned.

14 And Jehu son of Jehoshaphat son of Nimshi will conspire against Joram. (And Joram watched in Ramoth-Gilead, he and all Israel, from the face of Hazael king of Aram.

15 And Jehoram the king turned back to be healed in Jezreel from the blows which the Aramites struck him in his warring with Hazael king of Aram.) And Jehu will say, If it is your soul, none escaping, shall go forth from the city to go to announce in Jezreel.

16 And Jehu will ride and go to Jezreel; for Joram lay there. And Ahaziah king of Judah went down to see Joram.

17 And he watching stood. upon the tower in Jezreel, and he will see the multitude of Jehu in his coming, and he will say, I see a multitude. And Jehoram will say, Take a horseman and send to meet them, and he shall say, Is it peace?

18 And a horseman of the horse will go to meet him, and he will say, Thus said the king, Is it peace? And Jehu will say, What to thee and to peace? turn behind me. And he watching will announce, saying, The messenger went even to them and turned not back.

19 And he will send a second horseman of horse, and he will go to them and say, Thus said the king, Is it peace? and Jehu will say, What to thee and to peace? turn behind me.

20 And he watching will announce, saying, He came even to them and turned not back: and the driving as the driving of Jehu son of Nimshi, for he will drive in madness.

21 And Jehoram will say, Harness. And he will harness his chariot And Jehoram king of Israel will go forth, and Ahaziah king of Judah, a man in his chariot; and they will go forth to meet Jehu, and they will find him in the portion of Naboth the Jezreelite

22 And it will be when Jehoram saw Jehu, and he will say, Is it peace? and Jehu will say, What the peace, while the fornication of Jezebel thy mother and her sorceries are many?

23 And Jehoram will turn his hands and flee, and say to Ahaziah, Fraud, O Ahaziah.

24 And Jehu filled his hand with a bow, and he will strike Jehoram between his arms, and the arrow will go forth from his heart, and he will bow down in his chariot

25 And he will say to Bidkar the third, Lift up, cast him in the portion of the field of Naboth the Jezreelite; for I remember I and thou riding in pairs after Ahab his father, and Jehovah lifted up upon him this lifting up.

26 But the bloods of Naboth and the bloods of his sons did I not see yester-night, said Jehovah; and I requited to thee in this portion, said Jehovah. And now lift up, and cast him into the portion according to the word of Jehovah.

27 And Ahaziah king of Judah saw, and he will flee the way of the house of the garden. And Jehu will pursue after him, and he will say, Strike him also to the chariot in the ascent of Gur, which is with Ibleam. And he will flee to Megiddo, and die there.

28 And his servants will cause him to ride to Jerusalem, and they will bury him in his grave with his fathers in the city of David.

29 And in the year, the eleventh year to Joram, son of Ahab, Ahaziah reigned over Judah.

30 And Jehu will come to Jezreel, and Jezebel heard, and she will put her eyes in paint, and do her head good, and she will look through the window.

31 And Jehu came into the gate, and she will say, Was peace to Zimri, killing his lord?

32 And he will lift up his face to the window, and say, Who with me? who? and there will look towards him two, three eunuchs.

33 And he will say, Throw her down. And they will throw her down, and there will be sprinkled of her blood upon the wall and upon the horses: and he will tread her under foot

34 And he will go in and eat and drink, and he will say, Review now this curse, and bury her, for she the daughter of a king.

35 And they will go to bury her: and they found not of her but the skull and the feet, and the palms of the hands

36 And they will turn back and announce to him, and he will say, This the word of Jehovah which he spake by the hand of his servant Elijah the Tishbite, saying, In the portion of Jezreel, dogs shall eat the flesh of Jezebel.

37 And the carcass of Jezebel was as dung upon the face of the field in the portion of Jezreel; that they shall not say this is Jezebel

2 KINGS CHAPTER 10

1 And to Ahab seventy sons in Shomeron. And Jehu will write letters and send to Shomeron to the chiefs of Jezreel, the old men, and to Ahab's nourishers, saying,

2 And now when this letter comes to you, and with you your lord's sons, and with you chariots and horses, and a fortified city, and weapons;

3 And see the good and the straight of your lord's sons, and set upon the throne of his father, and war for the house of your lord.

4 And they will fear greatly, greatly, and say, Behold, two kings stood not before him, and how shall we stand.

5 And he over the house will send, and he over the city, and the old men, and the nourishers, to Jehu saying, We thy servants, and all which thou shalt say to us we will do; we will not make a man king: do thou the good in thine eyes.

6 And he will write to them a second letter, saying, If ye are for me and ye hear to my voice, take the heads of the men your lord's sons, and come to me according to the time to-morrow, to Jezreel. (And the king's sons seventy men with the great of the city growing up with them.)

7 And it will be when the letter came to them, and they will take the sons of the king and slaughter seventy men, and put their heads in baskets, and send to him to Jezreel.

8 And a messenger will come and announce to him, saying, They brought the heads of the king's sons. And he will say, Put them two heaps at the door of the gate till the morning.

9 And it will be in the morning, and he will go forth and stand and say to all the people, Ye are just: behold, I conspired against my lord, and I will kill him: and who struck all these?

10 Know now that nothing shall fall from the word of Jehovah to the earth which Jehovah spake concerning the house of Ahab: for Jehovah did what he spake by the hand of his servant Elijah

12 And he will rise and come, and go to Shomeron. He in the house of binding of the shepherds in the way.

13 And Jehu found the brethren of Ahaziah king of Judah, and he will say, Who are ye? and they will say, We the brethren of Ahaziah; and we shall go down for the peace of the sons of the king and the sons of power.

14 And he will say, Seize them living. And they will seize them living, and they will slaughter them at the pit of the house of binding, forty and two men; and he left not a man of them.

15 And he will go from thence and find Jehonadab son of Rechab at his meeting: and he will bless him, and say to him, Is thy heart straight, as my heart with thy heart? and Jehonadab will say. It is. And it is, give me thy hand. And he will give his hand; and he will bring him up to him in the chariot

16 And he will say, Come with me, and see in my being zealous to Jehovah. And they caused him to ride with him in his chariot

17 And he will come to Shomeron, and he will strike all those remaining to Ahab in Shomeron till the destroying him according to the word of Jehovah which he spake to Elijah.

18 And Jehu will gather together all the people, and say to them, Ahab served Baal a little; Jehu will serve him much.

19 And now all the prophets of Baal, all his servants and all his priests, call ye to me: a man shall not be missing: for a great sacrifice to me for Baal; every one who shall be missing shall not live. And Jehu did in fraud, in order to destroy the servants of Baal.

20 And Jehu will say, Consecrate an assembly to Baal, and they will call.

21 And Jehu will send in all Israel: and all the servants of Baal will come, and there was not a man left who came not. And they will come to the house of Baal, and the house of Baal will be filled, mouth to mouth.

22 And he will say to him over the vestry, Bring forth garments for all the servants of Baal. And he will bring forth to them garments.

23 And Jehu will come, and Jehonadab son of Rechab, to the house of Baal, and he Will say to the servants of Baal, Search and see, lest there is here with you of the servants of Jehovah, but the servants of Baal only.

24 And they will go in to do sacrifices and burnt-offerings, and Jehu set to him without, eighty men; and he will say, The man who shall escape from these men which I bring upon your hands, his soul instead of his soul.

25 And it will be when they finished doing the burnt-offering, and Jehu will say to the runners and to the third rulers, Go in; strike them; a man shall not go forth. And they will strike them with the mouth of the sword and the runners and the thirds will cast out, and they will go even to the city of the house of Baal.

26 And they will bring forth the pillars of the house of Baal, and they will burn them.

27 And they will lay waste the images of Baal, and they will lay waste the house of Baal, and they will set it for a sink even to this day.

28 And Jehu will destroy Baal out of Israel.

29 But the sins of Jeroboam son of Nebat, who caused Israel to sin, Johu turned not away from after them, the calves of gold which were in the house of God and which were in Dan.

30 And Jehovah will say to Johu, Because thou didst good to do the straight in mine eyes, according to all which was in my heart thou didst to the house of Ahab, thy son of the descendants of the fourth generation shall sit to thee upon the throne of Israel.

31 And Jehu watched not to go in the law of Jehovah God of Israel with all his heart: he turned not away from the sins of Jeroboam who caused Israel to sin.

32 In those days Jehovah began to out off in Israel, and Hazael will strike them in all the bound of Israel;

33 From Jordan from the rising of the sun, all the land of Gilead, the Gadites, and the Reubenites, and the Manassites, from Aroer which upon the torrent Arnon, and Gilead and shan.

34 And the remainder of the words of Jehu, and all which he did, and all his strength, are they not written upon the book of the words of the days to the kings of Israel?

35 And Jehu will lie down with his fathers, and they will bury him in Shomeron. And Jehoahaz his son will reign in his stead.

36 And the days which Jehu reigned over Israel twenty and eight years, in Shomeron.

2 KINGS CHAPTER 11

1 And Athaliah mother of Ahaziah, and she saw that her son dead; and she will rise and destroy all the seed of the kingdom.

2 And Jehosheba daughter of king Joram, sister of Ahaziah, will take Joash son of Ahaziah, and steal him from the midst of the king's sons being slain, him and his nurse in the bed-chamber, and they will hide him from the face of Athaliah, and he was not killed.

3 And he will be with her in the house of Jehovah being hid six years. And Athaliah reigned over the land.

4 And in the seventh year Jehoida will send and take the captains of hundreds for executioners, and for runners, and he will bring them to him to the house of Jehovah, and he will cut out to them a covenant, and he will cause them to swear in the house of Jehovah, and he will cause them to see the king's son.

5 And he will command them saying, This the word which ye shall do: The third of you coming in the Sabbath and watching the: watches of the king's house;

6 And the third in the gate of Sur; and a third in the gate behind the runners: and watch the watches of the house from being swept away.

7 And two hands among you. all going forth the Sabbath, and watch ye the watches of the house of Jehovah for the king.

8 And surround upon the king round about, a man and his weapon in, his hand: and he coming into the ranks shall be slain. And be ye with, the king in his going forth and in his coming

9 And the captains of hundreds will do according to all that Jehoida the priest commanded: and they will take each his men going in the Sabbath, with those going forth the Sabbath, and they will come to Jehoida the priest

10 And the priest will give to the captains of hundreds the spears: and shields: which were to king David, Which were in the house of Jehovah.

11 And the runners will stand, a man his weapon in his hand, from the right shoulder of the house even to the left shoulder of the house, to the altar and to the house by the king round about

12 And he will bring forth the king's son, and he will give upon him the diadem and the testimonies; and they will make him king, and: anoint him and they will strike the hand and say, The king shall live.

13 And Athaliah will hear the voice of the runners of the people; and she will go in to the: people to the house of Jehovah.

14 And she will see and behold, the king standing by the pillar according to judgment, and the captains and the trumpets to the king; and all the people of the land rejoicing, and striking with the trumpets. And Athaliah will rend her garments and call out, A conspiracy! a conspiracy!

15 And Jehoida the priest will command the captains of hundreds: overseeing the army, and he will say to them Bring her forth to within the ranks, be going after her being killed with the sword, For the priest said, She shall not be: killed in the house of Jehovah

16 And they will put their hands upon her; and she will go the way of the entrance of the, horses of the king's house: and she will die there.

17 And Jehoida will cut out the covenant between Jehovah and between the king, and between the people, to be for a: people to Jehovah; and between the king and between the people.

18 And all the people of the land will go into the house of Baal, and lay it waste; his altars and his images they brake in pieces diligently, and Mattan, priest of Baal, they slew before the altars. And the priest will set overseers over the house of Jehovah.

19 And he will take,the captains of hundreds, and the executioners, and the runners, and all the people of the land; and they will bring down the king from the house of Jehovah, and they will come the way of the gate of the runners of the king's house. And he will sit upon the throne of the kings.

20 And: all the people of the land will rejoice, and the city rested: and they killed Athaliah with the sword in the house of the king.

21 The son of seven years, Jehoash in his reigning.

2 KINGS CHAPTER 12

1 In the seventh year to Jehu, Jehoash reigned; and forty years he reigned in Jerusalem And his mother's name Zibiah, from the Well of the Oath.

2 And Jehoash will do the straight in the eyes of Jehovah all his days which Jehoida the priest taught him.

3 Only the heights were not removed; the people yet sacrificing and burning incense upon the heights.

4 And Jehoash will say to the priests, All the silver of the holies which shall come to the house of Jehovah, the silver of a man passing by, the silver of the souls of his estimation, all the silver which shall come up upon the heart of a man to bring in to the house of Jehovah,

5 The priests shall take to themselves a man from his selling; and they shall make firm the breach of the house to all which a breach shall be found there.

6 And it will be in the year the twenty and third year to king Jehoash, and the priests strengthened not the breach of the house.

7 And king Jehoash will call for Jehoida the priest, and for the priests, and he will say to them, Wherefore are ye not strengthening the breach of the house? now ye shall not take silver from the selling, for ye shall give it for the breach of the house.

8 And the priests will consent not to take silver from the people, and not to strengthen the breach of the house.

9 And Jehoida the priest will take one ark and bore a hole in its door, and he will give it by the altar on the right in a man's coming to the house of Jehovah: and the priests watching the threshold will give there all the silver being brought to the house of Jehovah.

10 And it will be when they saw much silver was in the ark, and the king's scribe will come up, and the great priest, and they will bind together, and number the silver found in the house of Jehovah.

11 And they gave the silver being prepared into the hand of those doing the work of those overseeing the house of Jehovah: and they will bring forth to the artificers of wood, and to the builders doing the house of Jehovah,

12 And to those building the wall, and to the cutters of stone, and to buy woods and stones being cut to strengthen the breach of the house of Jehovah, and for all which went forth upon the house to strengthen.

13 But there shall not be made for the house of Jehovah silver dishes, snuffers, vases, trumpets, any vessels of gold and vessels of silver from the silver being brought to the house of Jehovah:

14 For they shall give to those doing the work, and they strengthened with it the house of Jehovah.

15 And they will not reckon with the men which they will give the silver into their hand to give to those doing the work, for they do in faith.

16 The silver of trespass and the silver of sins shall not come into the house of Jehovah: it shall be to the priests.

17 Then Hazael king of Aram will go up and war against Gath, and he will take it: and Hazael will set his face to go up to Jerusalem.

18 And Jehoash king of Judah will take all the holy things which Jehoshaphat, and Jehoram, and Ahaziah his fathers, kings of Judah, consecrated, and his holy things, and all the gold found in the treasures of the house of Jehovah, and the king's house, and he will send to Hazael king of Aram: and he will go up from Jerusalem.

19 And the rest of the words of Joash, and all which he did, are they not written upon the book of the words of the days to the kings of Judah?

20 And his servants will arise and conspire a conspiracy, and strike Joash in the house of the fortress going down to Silla

21 And Jozachar son of Shimeath, and Jehozabad son of Shomer, his servants, will smite him, and he will die; and they will bury him with his fathers in the city of David: and Amaziah his son will reign in his stead.

2 KINGS CHAPTER 13

1 In the twentieth year and third year to Joash son of Ahaziah king of Judah, Jehoahaz son of Jehu, reigned over Israel in Shomeron seventeen years

2 And he will do evil in the eyes of Jehovah, and go after the sins of Jeroboam son of Nebat, who caused Israel to sin; he turned not away from them.

3 And the anger of Jehovah will kindle against Israel, and he will give them into the hand of Hazael king of Aram, and into the hand of Ben-hadad son of Hazael, all the days.

4 And Jehoahaz will supplicate the face of Jehovah, and Jehovah will hear to him, for he saw the oppression of Israel, for the king of Aram oppressed them.

5 (And Jehovah will give to Israel a saviour, and they will go forth from under the hand of Aram: and the sons of Israel will dwell in their tents as yesterday the third day.

6 But they turned not away from the sins of the house of Jeroboam who caused Israel to sin; he went in it: and also a statue stood in Shomeron.)

7 For he left not to Jehoahaz of the people but fifty horsemen and ten chariots and ten thousand footmen; for the king of Aram destroyed them, and he will set them as dust to trample upon.

8 And the rest of the words of Jehoahaz, and all which he did, and his strength, are they not written upon the book of the words of the days to the kings of Israel?

9 And Jehoahaz will lie down with his fathers; and they will bury him in Shomeron: and Joash his son will reign in his stead.

10 And in the thirtieth year and seventh year to Joash king of Judah, Jehoash son of Jehoahaz will reign over Israel in Shomeron sixteen years.

11 And he will do evil in the eyes of Jehovah he turned not away from all the sins of Jeroboam son of Nebat, who caused Israel to sin; he went in it

12 And the rest of the words of Joash, and all which he did, and his powers with which he warred with Amaziah king of Judah, are they not written upon the book of the words of the days to the kings of Israel?

13 And Joash will lie down with his fathers, and Jeroboam will sit upon his throne, and Joash will be buried in Shomeron with the kings of Israel.

14 And Elisha was sick with his sickness which he will die in it. And Joash king of Israel will come down to him and weep over his face, and say, My father! my father the chariot of Israel and its horsemen

15 And Elisha will say to him, Take a bow and arrows. And he will take to him a bow and arrows.

16 And he will say to the king of Israel, Cause thine hand to ride upon the bow. And he will cause his hand to ride: and Elisha will put his hands upon the king's hands.

17 And he will say, Open the window eastward. And he will open. And Elisha will say, Shoot. And he will shoot And he will say, The arrow of salvation to Jehovah; and the arrow of salvation against Aram; and strike thou Aram in Aphek, till finishing.

18 And he will say, Take the arrows. And he will take. And he will say to the king of Israel, Strike the earth. And he will strike three times, and stand.

19 And the man of God will be angry against him, and he will say, To strike five or six times, then thou hadst struck Aram till the finishing: and now three times thou wilt strike Aram.

20 And Elisha will die, and they will bury him. And the troops of Moab will come against the land, the year came in.

21 And it will be they were burying a man, and behold, they saw a troop; and they will cast the man into the tomb of Elisha: and the man will go and touch upon the bones of Elisha, and he will live and rise upon his feet

23 And Jehovah will compassionate them, and he will pity them, and he will turn to them on account of his covenant with Abraham, Isaak, and Jacob; and he would not destroy them, and he cast them not from his face even till now.

24 And Hazael king of Aram will die; and Benhadad his son will reign in his stead.

25 And Jehoash son of Jehoahaz will turn back and take the cities out of the hand of Benhadad, son of Hazael, which he took out of the hand of Jehoahaz his father, in war. Three times Joash struck him, and he will turn back the cities of Israel.

2 KINGS CHAPTER 14

1 In the second year to Joash son of Jehoahaz king of Israel, Amaziah son of Joash king of Judah reigned.

2 The son of twenty and five years was he in his reigning, and twenty and nine years he reigned in Jerusalem. And his mother's name Jehoaddan, from Jerusalem.

3 And he will do the straight in the eyes of Jehovah, but not according to David his father: he did according to all which his father Joash: did.

4 But the heights were not turned away: the people yet sacrificing and burning incense in the heights.

5 And it will be when the kingdom was strengthened in his hand, and he will smite his servants striking the king his father.

6 The sons of those striking he put not to death: according as it was written in the book of the Laws of Moses which Jehovah commanded, saying, Fathers shall not be put to death for sons, and sons shall not be put to death for fathers; but a man shall be put to death in his sin.

7 He struck Edom in the valley of salt, ten thousand; and he seized the rock in war, and he will call its name Joktheel, even to this day.

8 Then Amaziah sent messengers to Jehoash, son of Jehoahaz, son of Jehu king of Israel, saying, Come, we will see faces.

9 And Jehoash king of Israel will send to Amaziah king of Judah, saying, The thorn-bush which was in Lebanon sent to the cedar which was in Lebanon, saying, Thou shalt give thy daughter to my son for a wife: and a beast of the field which was in Lebanon will pass by and will tread down the thornbush.

10 Striking, thou struckest Edom, and thy heart lifted thee up: be honored, and sit in thy house: and wherefore wilt thou contend with evil, and fall, thou and Judah with thee?

11 And Amaziah heard not And Jehoash king of Israel will come up, and they will see faces, he and Amaziah king of Judah, in the house of the sun, which was to Judah.

12 And Judah will be smitten before Israel; and they will flee a man to his tent

13 And Jehoash king of Israel seized Amaziah king of Judah, son of Jehoash son of Ahaziah, in the house of the sun; and he will come to Jerusalem, and he will break in the wall of Jerusalem in the gate of Ephraim, even to the gate of the corner, four hundred cubits

14 And he took all the gold and the silver and all the vessels being found in the house of Jehovah, and in the treasures of the king's house, and the sons of suretyship, and he will turn back to Shomeron.

15 And the rest of the words or Johoash which he did, and his power and how he warred with Amaziah king of Judah, are they not written upon the book of the words of the days to the kings of Israel?

16 And Jehoash will lie down with his fathers, and he will be buried in Shomeron with the kings of Israel; and Jeroboam his son will reign in his stead.

17 And Amaziah son of Joash king of Judah, will live after the death of Jehoash son of Jehoahaz king of Israel, fifteen years.

18 And the rest of the words of Amaziah, are they not written in the book of the words of the days to the kings of Judah

19 And they will conspire against him a conspiracy in Jerusalem, and he will flee to Lachish; and they will send after him to Lachish, and kill him there.

20 And they will lift him up upon horses; and he will be buried in Jerusalem with his fathers in the city of David.

21 And all the people of Judah will take Azariah, and he the son of sixteen years, and they will make him king instead of his father Amaziah.

22 He built Elath, and he will turn it back to Judah; afterwards the king will lie down with his fathers.

23 In the year the fifteenth year to Amaziah, son of Joash king of Judah; Jeroboam son of Joash king or Israel reigned in Shomeron forty and one years.

24 And he will do evil in the eyes of Jehovah he turned not away from all the sins of Jeroboam son or Nebat, who caused Israel to sin.

25 He turned back the bound of Is reel from the entrance of Hamath, even to the sea of the sterile region, according to the word of Jehovah the God of Israel which he spake by the hand of his servant Jonah, the son of Amittai the prophet, which was of the winepress of the pit.

27 And Jehovah spake not to wipe away the name of Israel from under the heavens: and he will save them by the hand of Jeroboam son of Joash.

28 And the rest of the words of Jeroboam, and all which he did, and his powers, how he warred, and how he turned back Damascus and Hamath to Judah in Israel, are they not written upon the book of the words of the days to the kings of Israel?

29 And Jeroboam will lie down with his fathers, with the kings of Israel; and Zechariah his son will reign in his stead.

2 KINGS CHAPTER 15

1 In the twentieth year and seventh year to Jeroboam king of Israel, reigned Azariah son of Amaziah king of Judah.

2 The son of sixteen years was he in his reigning, and fifty and two years he reigned in Jerusalem. And his mother's name Jecholiah, from Jerusalem.

3 And he will do the straight in the eyes of Jehovah, according to all which Amaziah his father did.

4 But the heights were not turned away: the people yet sacrificing and burning incense upon the heights.

5 And Jehovah will strike the king, and he will be leprous until the day of his death, and he will dwell in a house of infirmity. And Jotham the king's son over the house, judging the people of the land.

6 And the rest of the words of Azariah, and all that he did, are they not written upon the book of the words of the days to the kings of Judah?

7 And Azariah will lie down with his fathers and they will bury him with his fathers in the city of David; and Jothem his son will reign in his stead.

8 And in the thirtieth year and eighth year to Azariah king of Judah, reigned Zechariah son of Jeroboam over Israel in Shomeron six months.

9 And he will do evil in the eyes of Jehovah, as did his fathers: he turned not away from the sins of Jeroboam son of Nebat, who caused Israel to sin.

10 And Shallum son of Jabesh will conspire against him, and strike him before the people, and kill him, and reign in his stead.

11 And the rest of the words of Zechariah, behold them written upon the book of the words of the days to the kings of Israel.

12 This the word of Jehovah which he spake to Jehu, saying, The fourth sons shall sit to thee upon the throne of Israel, and it will be so.

13 Shallum son of Jabesh reigned in the thirtieth year and ninth year to Uzziah king of Judah; and he will reign a month of days in Jerusalem.

14 And Menahem son of Gadi from Tirzah, will go up, and will come to Shomeron and strike Shallum son of Jabesh, in Shomeron, and kill him, and reign in his stead.

15 And the rest of the words of Shallum, and his conspiracy which he conspired, behold them written upon the book of the words of the days to the kings of Israel.

16 Then Menahem will strike Tiphsah and all which was in her, and her bounds from Tirzah: for it was not opened, and he will strike; all those being pregnant in it he clave asunder.

17 In the thirtieth year and ninth year to Azariah king of Judah, reigned Menahem son of Gadi, over Israel, ten years in Shomeron.

18 And he will do evil in the eyes of Jehovah: he turned not away from the sins of Jeroboam son of Nebat, who caused Israel to sin, all his days.

19 Pul, king of Assyria came upon the land; and Menahem will give to Pul a thousand talents of silver, for his hands to be with him to strengthen the kingdom in his hand.

20 And Menahem will bring forth the silver upon Israel, upon all the mighty of strength, to give to the king of Assyria fifty shekels of silver to one man. And the king of Assyria turned back and stood not there in the land.

21 And the rest of the words of Menahem and all which he did, are they not written upon the book of the words of the days to the kings of Israel?

22 And Menahern will lie down with his fathers; and Pekahiah his son will reign in his stead.

23 In the year the fiftieth year to Azariah king of Judah, reigned Pekahiah son of Menahem over Israel in Shomeron, two years.

24 And he will do evil in the eyes of Jehovah: he turned not away from the sins of Jeroboam son of Nebat who caused Israel to sin.

25 And Pekah son of Remaliah, his third, will conspire against him, and will strike him in Shomeron, in the fortress of the king's house, with Argob and Arieh, and with him fifty men from the sons of the Gileadites: and he will kill him, and reign in his stead.

26 And the rest of the words of Pekahiah and all which he did, behold them written upon the book of the words of the days to the kings of Israel.

27 In the fiftieth year and second year to Azariah king of Judah, reigned Pekah son of Remaliah over Israel in Shomeron, twenty years.

28 And he will do evil in the eyes of Jehovah: he turned not away from the sins of Jeroboam son of Nebat who caused Israel to sin.

29 In the days of Pekah king of Israel, came Tiglath-Pileser, king of Assyria, and he will take Ijon, and Abel of the house of oppression, and Janoah, and Kadesh and Hazer, and Gilead, and Galilee, all the land of Naphtali, and he will carry them captive to Assyria.

30 And Hoshea son of Elah will conspire a conspiracy against Pekah son of Remaliah, and he will smite him and kill kim, and reign in his stead, in the twentieth year to Jotham son of Uzziah.

31 And the rest of the words of Pekah and all that he did, behold them written upon the book of the words of the days to the kings of Israel.

32 In the second year to Pekah son of Remaliah, king of Israel, reigned Jotham son of Uzziah king of Judah.

33 The son of twenty and five years was he in his reigning, and sixteen years he reigned in Jerusalem. And his mothers name Jerusha, daughter of Za-dok.

34 And he will do the straight in the eyes of Jehovah: he did according to all which Ahaziah his father did.

35 But the heights were not removed: the people yet sacrificing and burning incense upon the heights. He built the gate of the house of Jehovah the Most High.

36 And the rest of the words of Jo-tham and all which he did, are they not written upon the book of the words of the days to the kings of Judah?

37 In those days Jehovah began to send against Judah, Rezin, king of Aram, and Pekah son of Remaliah.

38 And Jotham will lie down with his fathers, and he will be buried with his fathers in the city of David his father: and Ahaz his son will reign in his stead.

2 KINGS CHAPTER 16

1 In the year the seventeenth to Pekah son of Remaliah, reigned Ahaz son of Jotham king of Judah.

2 The son of twenty years was Ahaz in his reigning, and sixteen years he reigned in Jerusalem; and he did not the straight in the eyes of Jehovah his God as David his father.

3 And he went in the way of the kings of Israel, and also he caused his son to pass through in fire, according to the abominations of the nations which Jehovah dispossessed them from the face of the sons of Israel.

4 And he will sacrifice and burn incense in the heights, and upon the hills, and under every green tree.

5 Then Rezin king of Aram will go up, and Pekah son of Remaliah, king of Israel, to Jerusalem to war: and they will press upon Ahaz, and they will not be able to fight

6 In that time Rezin king of Aram turned back Elath to Aram, and he will cast out the Jews from Elath, and the Aramites came to Elath and dwelt there even to this day.

7 And Ahaz will send messengers to lath-Pileser, king of Assur, saying, I thy servant and thy son: come up and save me out of the hand of the king of Aram, and out of the hand of the king of Israel rising up against me.

8 And Ahaz will take the silver and the gold found in the house of Jehovah, and in the treasures of the king's house, and send a gift to the king of Assur.

9 And the king of Assur will hear to him and the king of Assur will come up to Damascus and seize it, and carry the city into exile; and he killed Rezin.

10 And king Ahaz will go up to the meeting of Tiglath-Pileser king of As-sur to Damascus, and he will see an altar which was in Damascus: and king Ahaz will send to Urijah the priest a likeness of the altar and its structure, for all its work.

11 And Urijah the priest will build an altar according to all which king Ahaz sent from Damascus: thus did Urijah the priest till the coming of king Ahaz from Damascus.

12 And the king will come from Damascus, and the king will see the altar: and the king will come near upon the altar, and he will bring up upon it.

13 And he will burn his burnt-offering and his gift, and will pour out his libation, and sprinkle the blood of the peace, which were to him, upon the altar.

14 And the altar of brass which was before Jehovah, and he will bring from the face of the house from between the altar and from between the house of Jehovah, and he will give it upon the thigh of the altar to the north.

15 And king Ahaz will command him, Urijah the priest, saying, Upon the great altar burn the burnt-offering of the morning, and the gift of the evening, and the king's burnt-offering and his gift, and the burnt-offering of all the people of the land, and their gifts and their libations, and all the blood of the burnt-offering and all the blood of the sacrifice: thou shalt sprinkle upon it and the altar of brass shall be to me for the morning.

17 And king Ahaz will cut off all the enclosings of the bases, and he will remove from off them the wash-basin; and he will take down the sea from off the oxen of brass which was under it, and he will give it upon a pavement of stones.

18 And the shelter of the Sabbath which they built in the house, and the entrance of the king without, he turned from the house of Jehovah from the face of the king of Assur.

19 And the rest of the words of Ahaz which he did, are they not written upon the book of the words of the days to the kings of Judah?

20 And Ahaz will lie down with his fathers, and be buried with his fathers in the city of David: and Hezekiah his son will reign in his stead.

2 KINGS CHAPTER 17

1 In the twelfth year to Ahaz king of Judah, reigned Hoshea son of Elah, in Shomeron over Israel nine years.

2 And he will do evil in the eyes of Jehovah, but not as the kings of Israel which were before him.

3 Against him came up Shalmaneser king of Amur; and Hoshea will be to him a servant, and he will turn back to him a gift.

4 And the king of Assur will find conspiracy in Hoshea, because he sent messengers to So, king of Egypt, and he brought up no gift to the king of Assur, as year by year; and the king of Assur will surround him and bind him in the house of shutting-up.

5 And the king of Assur will come up upon all the land, and he will comp up to Shomeron, and press upon her three years.

6 In the ninth year to Hoshea the king of Assur took Shomeron, and he will carry Israel into exile to Assur, and set them in Halah and in Habor, the river of Gozan, and the cities of the Medes.

7 And it will be that the sons of Israel sinned against Jehovah their God, having brought them up out of the land of Egypt, from under the hand of Pharaoh king of Egypt, and they will fear,other gods.

8 And they will go in the laws of the nations which Jehovah dispossessed from the face of the sons of Israel, and the kings of Israel which they made.

9 And the sons of Israel will cover the words not thus concerning Jehovah their God, and they will build to them heights in all their cities from the tower of those watching even to the fortified city.

10 And they will set to them statues and images upon every high hill, and under every green tree.

11 And they will burn incense there in all the heights as the nations which Jehovah carried into exile from their face; and they will do evil words to irritate Jehovah:

12 And they will serve blocks which Jehovah said to them, Ye shall not do this word.

13 And Jehovah will testify in Israel and in Judah by the hand of all his prophets, all seeing, saying, Turn back from your evil ways and watch my commands, my laws according to all my instruction which I commanded your fathers, and which I Sent to you by the hand of my servants the prophets.

14 And they heard not, and they will harden their neck as the neck Of their fathers who did not believe in Jehovah their God.

15 And they will reject his laws and his covenant which he cut out with their fathers, and his testimonies which he testified in them; and they will go after vanity, and they will be vain, and after the nations which were round about them which Jehovah commanded them not to do as they.

16 And they will forsake all the commands of Jehovah their God, and make to them a molten thing, two Calves; and they will make images, and they will worship to all the army of the heavens, and serve Baal.

17 And they will cause their sons and their daughters to pass through in fire, and divine divinations and enchantments, and they will be sold to do evil in the eyes of Jehovah to Irritate him.

18 And Jehovah will be greatly angry against Israel, and he will remove them from his face: not to leave only the tribe of Judah alone.

19 Also Judah watched not the commands of Jehovah their God, and they will go in the laws of Israel which they made.

20 And Jehovah will reject in all the seed of Israel, and will afflict them, and he will give them into the hand of plunderers, till he cast them from his face.

21 For he rent Israel from above the house of David; and they will make Jeroboam son of Nebat, king; and Jeroboam will thrust out Israel king after Jehovah, and he caused them to sin a great sin.

22 And the sons of Israel will go in all the sins of Jeroboam which he did; they turned not away from them;

23 Till Jehovah removed Israel from his face, as he spake by the hand of all his servants the prophets. And he will carry Israel into exile from his land to Assur, even to this day.

24 And the king of Assur will come from Babel and from Cuthah, and from Ava, and from Hamath, and sepharvaim, and he will set in the cities of Shomeron instead of the sons of Israel: and they will possess Shomeron and dwell in her cities.

25 And it will be in the beginning of their dwelling there, they will not fear Jehovah; and Jehovah will send against them lions, and they will be killing among them.

26 And they will say to the king of Assur, saying, The nations which thou carriedst into exile, and thou wilt set in the cities of Shomeron, knew not the judgment of the God of the land, and he will send among them lions, and behold them slaying them because they knew not the judgment of the God of the land.

27 And the king of Assur will command, saying, Carry there one of the priests which ye brought from thence; and they shall go and dwell there, and he shall teach them the judgment of the God of the land.

28 And one of the priests which they carried into exile from Shomeron will come and dwell in the house of God, and he will be teaching them how they shall fear Jehovah.

29 And the nation, nation, will be making his gods, and will put in the house of the heights which the Samaritans made, nation, nation, in their cities which they dwell there.

30 And the men of Babel made Succoth-Benoth, and the men of Cuth made Nergal, and the men of Hamath, made Ashima.

31 And the Avites made Nibhaz and Tartak, and the Sepharvites were burning their sons in fire to Adrammelech and Anammelech, the gods of Sepharvaim.

32 And they will be fearing Jehovah, and make to them priests of their ends upon the heights, and they will be doing to them in the houses of the heights.

33 They were fearing Jehovah, and were serving their gods according to the judgment of the nations who carried them into exile from thence,

34 Even to this day they are doing according to the former judgments: they not fearing Jehovah, and not doing according to their laws and according to their judgments and according to the instruction and according to the command which Jehovah commanded the sons of Jacob, whom he set his name Israel.

35 And Jehovah cut out a covenant with them, and he commanded them, saying, Ye shall not fear other gods, and ye shall not worship to them, and ye shall not serve them, and ye shall not sacrifice to them.

36 But Jehovah who brought you up out of the land of Egypt with great power and with an extended arm, him shall ye fear, and to him shall ye worship, and to him shall ye sacrifice.

37 And the laws and the judgments, and the instruction and command which he wrote for you, ye shall watch to do all the days; and ye shall not fear other gods

38 And the covenant which I cut out with you ye shall not forget; and ye shall not fear other gods

39 But Jehovah your God ye shall fear, and he shall deliver you from the hand of all your enemies.

40 And they did not hearken, but! they were doing according to their former judgments.

41 And these nations were fearing Jehovah and were serving their carved images, also their sons and their sons sons; as their fathers did, they are doing even to this day.

2 KINGS CHAPTER 18

1 And it will be in the third year to Hoshea son of Elah, king of Is rael, reigned Hezekiah son of Ahaz, king of Judah.

2 The son of twenty and five years, was he in his reigning; and twenty and, nine years reigned he in Jerusalem 2Kings and his mothers name Abi, the daughter of Zachariah.

3 And he will do the straight in the eyes of Jehovah, according to all which, David his father did.

4 He removed the heights, and he brake in pieces the statues, and he cut off the image, and he beat down the serpent of brass which Moses made: for till those days the sons of Israel were burning incense to it and they called it brass.

5 And he trusted in Jehovah the God of Israel; and after him was not like him among all the kings of Judah, and who were before him.

6 And he will cleave upon Jehovah he turned not away from after him, and he will watch his commands which Jehovah commanded Moses.

7 And Jehovah was with him: in all which he will go forth he will prosper; and he will rebel against the king of Assur, and not serve him

8 He struck the rovers even to Azzah, and her bounds from the tower of those watching to the fortified city.

9 And it will be in the fourth year to king Hezekiah, this the seventh year to Hoshea son of Elah, king of Isreel, Shalmaneser, king of Assur, came up against Shomeron and pressed, upon it.

10 And he will take it from the end of three years: in the sixth year to Hezekiah, this the ninth year to Hoshea, king of Israel, Shomeron was taken.

11 And the king of Assur will carry Israel into exile to Assur, and put them in Halah and Habor, the river of Gihon, and the cities of the Medes:

12 Because they heard not to the voice of Jehovah their God, and they will pass by his covenant, all which Moses commanded, the servant of Jehovah, and they heard not and did not

13 And in the fourteenth year to Hezekiah, Senherib, king of Assur, came up against all the fortified cities of Judah, and he will seize them.

14 And Hezekiah king of Judah will send to the king of Assur to Lachish, saying, I sinned; turn back from me: what thou givest upon me I will bear. And the king of Assur will put upon Hezekiah three hundred talents of silver, and thirty talents of gold.

15 And Hezekiah will give all the silver found in the house of Jehovah, and in the treasures of the king's house.

16 In that time Hezekiah broke off the doors of the temple of Jehovah, and the supporters which Hezekiah king of Judah overlaid, and he will give them to the king of Assur.

17 And the king of Assur will send Tartan, Rab-Saris, and Rabshakeh from Lachish to king Hezekiah, with weighty strength to Jeruslaem; and they will go up and come to Jerusalem: and they will go up and come and stand by the aqueduct of the highest pool in the highway of the field of the fuller.

18 And they will call for the king, and there will go forth to them Eliakim, son of Hilkiah, who was over the house, and Shebna the scribe, and Joah son of Asaph reminding.

19 And Rabshakeh will say to them, Say now to Hezekiah, Thus said the great king, the king of Assur, What this confidence in which thou trustedst?

20 Thou saidst (but a word of the lips) Counsel and strength for war Now upon whom didst thou trust that thou rebelledst against me?

21 Now behold, thou trustedst to thyself, upon the stay of this broken reed, upon Egypt, which a man shall lean upon it and it will go into his hand and bore it; thus Pharaoh king of Egypt to all trusting upon him.

22 And if ye shall say to me, We trusted to Jehovah our God: is it not he of whom Hezekiah turned away his heights and his altars, and he will say to Judah and to Jerusalem, Ye shall worship before this altar in Jerusalem?

23 And now become surety to my lord the king of Assur, and I will give to thee two thousand horses if thou shalt be able to give to thyself riders upon them.

24 And how wilt thou turn back the face of one prefect of my lord's servants of the least, and wilt thou trust to thyself upon Egypt for chariots and for horsemen?

25 Now came I up without Jehovah upon this place to destroy it? Jehovah said to me, Go up against this land and destroy it

26 And Eliakim son of Hilkiah, will say, and Shebna, and Joah, to Rabshakeh, Speak now to thy servants in Syriac; for we hear: and thou shalt not speak with us in Judaic in the ears of the people who are upon the wall

27 And Rabshakeh will say to them, To thy lord and to thee did my lord send me to speak these words? is it not to the men sitting upon the wall to eat their dung and to drink their piss with you?

28 And Rabshakeh will stand and call with a great voice in Judaic, and speak and say, Hear ye the words of the great king, the king of Assur:

29 Thus said the king, Hezekiah shall not be lifted up to you: for he shall not be able to deliver you from my hand:

30 And Hezekiah shall cause you to trust to Jehovah, saying, Delivering, Jehovah will deliver us, and this same city shall not be given into the hand of the king of Assur.

31 Ye shall not hear to Hezekiah: for thus said the king of Assur, Make me a gift, and come forth to me, and eat ye a man his vine and a man his fig tree, and drink ye a man water of his well,

32 Till my coming and I took you to a land as your land, a land of grain and new wine, a land of bread and vineyards, a land of olive-oil and honey; and live ye, and ye shall not die: and ye shall not hear to Hezekiah, for he will seduce you, saying, Jehovah will deliver us.

33 Delivering, did the gods of the nations deliver each his hand out of the hand of the king of Assur?

34 Where the gods of Hamath and Arpad? where the gods of Sepharvaim, Hena, and Ivah? for did they deliver Shomemn out of my hand?

35 Who of all the gods of the lands who delivered their land out of my hand, that Jehovah shall deliver Jerusalem out of my hand?

36 And the people were silent and answered him not a word: for it was the command of the king, saying, Ye shall not answer.

37 And there came Eliakim, son of Hilkiah, who was over the house, and Shebna the scribe, and Joah son of Asaph reminding, to Hezekiah, their garments rent; and they will announce to him the words of Rabshakeh.

2 KINGS CHAPTER 19

1 And it will be when king Hezekiah heard and he will rend his garments and cover himself with sackcloth, and go into the house of Jehovah.

2 And he will send Eliakim who was over the house, and Shebna the scribe, and the old men of the priests, covered with sackcloth, to Isaiah the prophet, the son of Amos

3 And they will say to him, Thus said Hezekiah, A day of straits and chastisement and reproach this day: for the sons came to the breaking forth, and no strength to her bringing forth.

4 Perhaps Jehovah thy God will hear all the words of Rabshakeh which the king of Assur his lord sent him to reproach the living God; and he will decide upon the words which Jehovah thy God beard: and lift thou up a prayer for the remnant being found.

5 And the servants of the king Hezekiah will come to Isaiah.

6 And Isaiah will say to them, Thus shall ye say to your lord, Thus said Jehovah, Thou shalt not be afraid from before the words which thou heardest with which the boys of the king of Assur reviled me.

7 Behold me giving upon him a spirit, and he heard a hearing, and he turned back to his land; and I caused him to fall by the sword in his land.

8 And Rabshakeh will turn back and find the king of Assur warring against Libnah: for he heard that he removed from Lachish.

9 And he will hear Tirhakah king of Cush, saying, Behold, he came forth to war with thee: and he will turn back and send messengers to Hezekiah, saying,

10 Thus shall ye say to Hezekiah king of Judah, saying, Thy God will not lift thee up whom thou trustest in him, saying, Jerusalem shall not be given into the hand of the king of Assur.

11 Behold, thou heardest what the kings of Assur did to all lands to destroy them: and shalt thou be delivred?

12 Did the gods of the nations deliver them which my fathers destroyed Gozan and Haran and Rezeph and the sons of Eden who were in Thelasar?

13 Where the king of Hamath, and the king of Arpad, and the king to the city of Sepharvaim, Hena and Ivah?

14 And Hezekiah will receive the letters from the hand of the messengers, and read them: and he will go up to the house of Jehovah, and Hezekiah will spread it out before Jehovah.

15 And Hezekiah will pray before Jehovah, and say, O Jehovah God of Israel, dwelling upon the cherubim; thou God himself alone to all the kingdoms of the earth; thou madest the heavens and the earth.

16 O Jehovah, incline thine ear and hear; O Jehovah open thine eyes and see: and hear the words of Senherib, which sent him to reproach the living God.

18 And they gave their gods into fire, for they were not gods, but the work of the hands of man, wood and stone: and they will destroy them.

19 And now, O Jehovah our God, save us now out of his hand, and all the kingdoms of the earth shall know that thou Jehovah art God alone.

20 And Isaiah son of Amos will send to Hezekiah, saying, Thus said Jehovah God of Israel, What thou hast prayed to me against Senherib king of Assur, I heard.

21 This the word which Jehovah spake concerning him: The virgin daughter of Zion despised, she derided thee; after thee the daughter of Jerusalem shook her head.

22 Whom didst thou reproach and revile? and against whom didst thou lift up the voice, and thou wilt lift up thine eyes on high against the holy one of Israel?

23 By the hand of thy messengers thou didst reproach Jehovah, and thou wilt say, With the chariot of my horseman I came up upon the height of the mountains of the sides of Lebanon, and I said, I will cut off the height of the cedars and the chosen of its cypresses: and I will go in to the lodging-place of the extremity of the forest of its Carmel.

24 I dug and drank the waters of strangers, and I will dry up with the sole of my foot all the rivers of the fortress.

25 Didst thou not hear from remoteness I made it from days before and I formed it? and now I brought it in, and thou wilt be to set fortified cities for desolate ruins.

26 And the inhabitants were short of hand, they were terrified and they were ashamed; they were the grass of the field and the green herbage, and the grass of the roofs, and blasted before it rose up.

27 And thy sitting and thy going out and thy coming in I knew, and thy wrath against me.

28 Because thy wrath against me, and thine arrogance came up into mine ears, and I put my hook in thy nose and my bit into thy lips, and I turned thee back in the way which thou camest in it

29 And this the sign to thee, to eat this year things growing spontaneously, and in the second year, things springing up, and the third year, sow ye and reap, and plant vineyards and eat their fruits.

32 Therefore, thus said Jehovah to the king of Assur, He shall not come into this city, and he shall not shoot an arrow there, and a shield shall not come before it, and he shall not cast a mound against it

33 In the way in which be shall come in it he shall turn back, and to this city he shall not come in, says Jehovah.

34 And I protected this city, to save it for my sake and for sake of David my servant

35 And it will be in that night the messenger of Jehovah will strike in the camp of Assur, a hundred eighty and five thousand; and they will rise early in the morning, and behold, all of them dead corpses.

36 And Senherib king of Assur will turn away and go and turn back and dwell in Nineveh.

37 And he will be worshiping in the house of Nisroch his god, and Adrammelech and Sharezer struck him with the sword: and they escaped to the land of Ararat: and Esarhaddon his son will reign in his stead.

2 KINGS CHAPTER 20

1 In those days Hezekiah was sick to death; and Isaiah son of Amos the prophet will come in to him, and he will say to him, Thus said Jehovah, Command to thy house, for thou art dying, and thou shalt not live.

2 And he will turn his face to the wall and pray, saying,

3 O Jehovah, remember now how I went before thee in truth and with a perfect heart, and I did the good in thine eyes. And Hezekiah will weep a great weeping.

4 And it will be Isaiah went not forth to the city of the middle, and the word of Jehovah was to him, saying,

5 Turn back and say to Hezekiah the leader of my people, Thus said Jehovah, God of David thy father, I heard thy prayer, I saw thy tears: behold me healing thee: in the third day thou shalt go up to the house of Jehovah.

6 And I added to thy days fifteen years; and from the hand of the king of Assur I will deliver thee and this city; and I protected this city for my sake, and for sake of David my servant

7 And Isaiah will say, Take a round mass of figs. And they will take and put upon the burning sore, and he will live.

8 And Hezekiah will say to Isaiah, What the sign that Jehovah will heal me, and I went up in the third day to the house of Jehovah?

9 And Isaiah will say, This the sign to thee from Jehovah, that Jehovah will do the word which he spake: the shadow going ten steps, or shall it turn back ten steps?

10 And Hezekiah will say, A light thing to the shadow to bow ten steps: nay, for the shadow shall turn back-wards ten steps.

11 And Isaiah the prophet will call to Jehovah, and he will turn back the shadow in the steps which went down, in the steps of Ahaz, backwards ten degrees

12 In that time Berodach-Baladan son of Baladan, king of Babel, sent letters and a gift to Hezekiah, for he heard that Hezekiah was sick.

13 And Hezekiah will hear to them, and caused them to see all the house of his spices, the silver and the gold, and the spices and the good oil, and all the house of his vessels, and all which was found in his treasures: and there was not a word which Hezekiah caused them not to see in his house, and in all his dominion.

14 And Isaiah the prophet will come to king Hezekiah and say to him, What said these men? and from whence will they come to thee? and Hezekiah will say to him, From a land far off came they, from Babel.

15 And he will say, What saw they in thy house? And Hezekiah will say, All which is in the house they saw; there was not a word which I caused them not to see in my treasures.

17 Behold, the days coming, and there was lifted up all which was in thy house, and what thy fathers treasured up, even to this day, to Babel: not a word shall be left, said Jehovah.

18 And from thy sons which shall go forth from thee, which thou shalt beget, shall be taken; and they were eunuchs in the temple of the king of Babel.

19 And Hezekiah will say to Isaiah, Good the word of Jehovah which thou spakest And he will say, Shall not peace and truth be in my days?

20 And the rest of the words of Hezekiah, and all his powers, and how he made the pool and the aqueduct, and he will bring waters to the city, are they not written upon the book of the words of the days to the kings of Judah?

21 And Hezekiah will lie down with his fathers, and Manasseh his son will reign in his stead.

2 KINGS CHAPTER 21

1 Manasseh the son of twelve years in his reigning, and fifty and five years he reigned in Jerusalem. And his mother's name Hephzibah.

2 And he will do evil in the eyes of Jehovah, according to the abominations of the nations which Jehovah dispossessed from the face of the sons of Israel.

3 And he will turn back and build the heights which Hezekiah his father destroyed; and he will raise up altars to Baal, and make a statue as did Ahab king of Israel; and he will worship to all the army of the heavens, and serve' them.

4 And he built altars in the house of Jehovah where Jehovah said, In Jerusalem I will put my name.

5 And he will build altars to all the army of the heavens in the two enclosures of the house of Jehovah.

6 And he caused his sons to pass through in fire, and he practiced magic, and took auguries, and made necromancy and a wizard spirit: he multiplied to do evil in the eyes of Jehovah to irritate.

7 And he will set up a carved thing of the image which he made in the house, of which Jehovah said to David and to Solomon his son, In this house and in Jerusalem which I chose from all the tribes of Israel, I will set my name forever:

8 And I will not add to move the foot of Israel from the land which I gave to their fathers; only if they will watch to do according to all I commanded them, and for all the instructions which Moses my servant commanded them.

9 But they heard not, and Manasseh will cause them to go astray to do evil more than the nations which Jehovah destroyed from the face of the sons of Israel.

10 And Jehovah will speak by the hand of his servants the prophets, saying,

11 Because Manasseh king of Judah did these abominations, doing evil above all which the Amorites did that were before him, and he will also cause Judah to sin with his blocks:

12 For this, thus said Jehovah the God of Israel, Behold me bringing evil upon Jerusalem and Judah, which all hearing it, his two ears shall tingle.

13 And I stretched over Jerusalem the cord of Shomeron, and the weight of the house of Ahab: and I wiped off Jerusalem as one will wipe dishes, wiping, and turning upon its face.

14 And I thrust out the remainder of my inheritance, and I gave them into the hand of their enemies; and they were for plunder and for a prey to all their enemies.

15 Because they did evil in mine eyes, and they will be irritating me from the day which their fathers came forth out of Egypt, and even to this day.

16 And also Manasseh poured out innocent blood exceeding much, till he filled Jerusalem mouth to mouth; besides his sins which he caused Judah to sin to do evil in the eyes of Jehovah.

17 And the rest of the words of Manasseh, and all that he did, and his sins which he sinned, are they not written upon the book of the words of the days to the kings of Judah?

18 And Manasseh will lie down with his fathers, and will be buried in the garden of his house, in the garden of Uzzah: and Amon his son will reign in his stead.

19 The son of twenty and two years was Amon in his reigning, and two years he reigned in Jerusalem. And his mother's name Meshullemeth, daughter of Haruz of Jotbah.

20 And he will do evil in the eyes of Jehovah as did Manasseh his father.

21 And he will go in all the ways which his father went, and he will serve the blocks which his father served, and he will worship to them.

22 And he will forsake Jehovah the God of his fathers, and he went not in the way of Jehovah.

23 And the servants of Amon will conspire against him, and they will kill the king in his house.

24 And the people of the land will strike all those conspiring against king Amon; and the people of the land will make Josiah his son king in his stead.

25 And the rest of the words of Amon which he did, are they not written upon the book of the words of the days to the kings of Judah?

26 And he will be buried in his tomb in the garden of Uzzah; and Josiah his son will reign in his stead.

2 KINGS CHAPTER 22

1 The son of eight years was Josiah in his reigning, and thirty and one years reigned he in Jerusalem. And his mother's name Jedidah, daughter of Adaiah of Boscath.

2 And he will do the straight in the eyes of Jehovah, and go in all the way of David his father, and he turned not aside to the right or the left

3 And it will be in the eighteenth year to king Josiah, the king sent Shaphen son of Azaliah, son of Meshullam, the scribe of the house of Jehovah, saying,

4 Go up to Hilkiah the great priest, and he shall complete the silver being brought to the house of Jehovah, which the watchers of the threshold gathered from the people.

5 And they shall give it into the hand of those appointed in the house of Jehovah: and they shall give it to those doing the work which is in the house of Jehovah to strengthen the breach of the house.

6 To the artificers, and to the builders and the wall builders, and to buy woods and stones hewn to strengthen the house.

7 But the silver given into their hand will not be reckoned with them, for they do in faith.

8 And Hilkiah the great priest will say to Shaphan the scribe, I found the book of the law in the house of Jehovah, and Hilkiah will give the book to Shaphan and he will read it

9 And Shaphan the scribe will come to the king, and he will turn the king back word, and he will say, Thy servants melted the silver found in the house, and they will give it into the hand of those doing the work being appointed in the house of Jehovah.

10 And Shaphan the scribe will announce to the king, saying, Hilkiah the priest gave to me a book, and Shapban will read it before the king.

11 And it will be when the king heard the words of the book of the law, and he will rend his garments.

12 And the king will command Hilkiah the priest and Ahikam son of Shaphan, and Achbor, son of Michaiah, and Shaphan the scribe, and Asahiah the king's servant, saying,

13 Go ye, seek Jehovah for me, and for the people, and for all Judah. concerning the words of this book being found: for great the anger of Jehovah burning upon us because that our fathers heard not to the words of this book to do according to all written concerning us.

14 And Hilkiah the priest went, and Ahikam and Achbor, and Shaphan, and Asahiah, to Huldah the prophetess wife of Shallum, son of Tikvah, son of Harhas, watching the garments; (and she dwelt in Jerusalem in the second rank;) and they will speak to her.

15 And she will say to them, Thus said Jehovah God of Israel, Say ye to the man who sent you to me,.

16 Thus said Jehovah, Behold me bringing evil to this place, and upon its inhabitants all the words of the book which the king of Judah read.

17 Because they forsook me, and they will burn incense to other gods to irritate me in all the work of their hands; and my wrath burnt upon this place and it shall not be quenched.

18 To the king of Judah sending you to seek Jehovah, thus shalt thou say to him, Thus said Jehovah, God of Israel, The words which thou heardest;

19 Because thy heart was tender and thou wilt be humble from before Jehovah in thy hearing what I spake against this place, and against its inhabitants to be for desolation, and for a curse, and thou wilt rend thy garments and weep before me; and I also heard, says Jehovah.

20 For this, behold me gathering thee to thy fathers, and thou wert gathered to thy tomb in peace; and thine eyes shall not look upon all the evil which I bring upon this place. And they will turn back the king word.

2 KINGS CHAPTER 23

1 And the king will send and gather to him all the old men of Judah and Jerusalem.

2 And the king will go up to the house of Jehovah and all the men of Judah, and all the inhabitants of Jerusalem with him, and the priests and the prophets, and all the people to the small, and even to the great: and he will read in their ears all the words of the book of the covenant found in the house of Jehovah.

3 And the king will stand by the pillar, and he will cut out a covenant before Jehovah to go after Jehovah, and to watch his commands and his testimonies and his laws, with all the heart and with all the soul, and to raise up the words of this covenant written upon this book. And all the people will stand in the covenant

4 And the king will command Hilkiah the great priest and the priests of the second rank, and the watchers of the threshold to bring forth out of the temple of Jehovah all the vessels being made for Baal and for the image, and for all the army of the heavens: and they will burn them without Jerusalem in the fields of Kidron, and he lifted up their dust to the house of God.

5 And he caused the obscurations to cease which the kings of Judah gave, and he will burn incense in the heights in the cities of Judah, and those being round about Jerusalem, and those burning incense to Baal, to the sun and to the moon and to the constellations and to all the army of the heavens.

6 And he will bring forth the image from the house of Jehovah from without Jerusalem to the torrent Kidron, and he will burn it by the torrent Kidron, and he will beat small to dust and cast the dust upon the grave of the sons of the people.

7 And he will break down the houses of the holy places, which were in the house of Jehovah, where the women wove there houses for the image.

8 And he will bring all the priests out of the cities of Judah and defile the heights where the priests burnt incense there from the hill even to the Well of the Oath, and he brake down the heights of the gates which were at the door of the gate of Joshua chief of the city which were at the left of a man in the gate of the city.

9 But the priests of the heights will not come up to the altar of Jehovah in Jerusalem, but they ate the unleavened in the midst of their brethren.

10 And he defiled Topheth in the valley of the sons of Hinnom, for a man not to cause his son and his daughter to pass through in fire to the king.

11 And he will take away the horses which the kings of Judah gave to the sun at the going in of the house of Jehovah into the chamber the king gave the eunuch which was in the open portico, and he burnt the chariots of the sun in fire.

12 And the altars which were upon the roof of the upper chamber of Ahaz which the kings of Judah made, and the altars which Manasseh made in the two enclosures of the house of Jehovah, the king broke down, and he will break in pieces from thence, and cast their dust into the torrent Kidron.

13 And the heights which were before Jerusalem which were from the right to the mount of destruction which Solomon king of Israel built to Ashtaroth the abomination of the Sidonians, and to Chemosh the abomination of Moab, and to Milcom the abomination of the sons of Ammon the king defiled.

14 He brake in pieces the statues and he will cut off the images, and fill their places with bones of man.

15 And also the altar which was in the house of God, the height which Jeroboam son of Nebat who caused Israel to sin, made, also that altar and height he broke down and he will burn the height, and he beat small to dust, and he burnt the image.

16 And Josiah will turn and see the tombs which were there in the mount, and he will send and take the bones from the tombs and burn upon the altar, and he will defile it according to the word of Jehovah which the man of God called who called these words.

17 And he will say, What this pillar which I see? And the man of the city will say to him, The tomb of the man of God who came from Judah, and he will call these words which thou didst upon the altar of the house of God.

18 And he will say, Give rest to him; a man shall not move his bones; and they will let escape his bones and the bones of the prophet who came from Shomeron.

19 And also all the houses of the heights which were in the cities of Shomeron which the kings of Israel made to irritate, Josiah turned away, and he will do to them according to all the doings which he did in the house of God.

20 And he will sacrifice all the priests of the heights which were there upon the altars, and he will burn the bones of man upon them, and he will turn back to Jerusalem.

21 And the king will command all the people, saying, Do the passover to Jehovah your God, according to the writing upon the book of this covenant

22 For there was not done according to this passover from the days of the judges who judged Israel and all the days of the kings of Israel, and the kings of Judah.

23 But in the eighteenth year to king Josiah was done this passover to Jehovah in Jerusalem.

24 And also the necromancers, and the wizards and the family gods, and the blocks, and all the abominations that were seen in the land of Judah and in Jerusalem, Josiah took away in order to set up the words of the law written upon the book which Hilkiah the priest found in the house of Jehovah.

25 And like him was there not a king before him who turned back to Jehovah with all his heart and with all his soul and with all his might, according to all the law of Moses; and after him there arose not like him.

26 But Jehovah turned not back from the burning of his great anger, his anger which kindled against Judah because of all the provocations with which Manasseh irritated him.

27 And Jehovah will say, I will also turn away Judah from my face, as I turned away Israel, and I rejected this city which I chose, Jerusalem, and the house of which I said, My name shall be there

28 And the rest of the words of Josiah, and all which he did, are they not written upon the book of the words of the days to the kings of Judah?

29 In his days Pharaoh-Necho, king of Egypt, came up against the king of Assur, upon the river Phrath, and king Josiah will go up to his meeting, and he will kill him at Megiddo when he saw him.

30 And his servants will cause him to ride dead from Megiddo, and bring him to Jerusalem and bury him in his tomb. And the people of the land will take Jehoahaz son of Josiah, and they will anoint him and make him king instead of his father.

31 The son of twenty and three years was Jehoahaz in his reigning; and three months he reigned in Jerusalem. And his mother's name Hamutal, daughter of Jeremiah from Libnah.

32 And he will do evil in the eyes of Jehovah according to all which his fathers did.

33 And Pharaoh-Necho will bind him in Riblah in the land of Hamath, in reigning in Jerusalem; and he will give a fine upon the land, a hundred talents of silver and a talent of gold.

34 And Pharaoh-Necho will make Eliakim son of Josiah, king, instead of Josiah his father, and he will turn his name to Jehoiakim, and he took Jehoahaz: and he will come to Egypt and die there.

35 And the silver and the gold Jehoiakim gave to Pharaoh; but he estiated the land to give the silver at the mouth of Pharaoh; a man according to his estimation, he exacted the silver and the gold with the people of the land to give to Pharaoh-Necho.

36 The son of twenty and five years was Jehoiakim in his reigning, and eleven years he reigned in Jerusalem. And his mother's name Zebudah, daughter of Pedaiah of Ramah.

37 And he will do evil in the eyes of Jehovah according to all which his fathers did.

2 KINGS CHAPTER 24

1 In his days came up Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babel, and Jehoiakim will be to him a servant three years: and he will turn back and rebel against him.

2 And Jehovah will send against him troops of Chaldeans and troops of Aram, and troops of Moab, and troops of the sons of Ammon, and he will send them against Judah to destroy it, according to the word of Jehovah which he spake by the hand of his servants the prophets.

3 But at the mouth of Jehovah it was upon Judah to turn away from his face through the sins of Manasseh, according to all which he did.

4 And also the innocent blood which he poured forth, (and he will fill Jerusalem with innocent blood) and Jehovah would not pardon.

5 And the rest of the words of Jehoiakim, and all that he did, are they not written upon the book of the words of the days to the kings of Judah?

6 And Jehoiakim will lie down with his fathers, and Jehoiachin his son will reign in his stead.

7 And the king of Egypt added no more to come forth from his land, for the king of Babel took from the torrent of Egypt, even to the river Phrath, all which was to the king of Eygpt

8 The son of eighteen years was Jehoiachin in his reigning, and three months he reigned in Jerusalem. And his mother's name Nehushta, daughter of Elnathan of Jerusalem.

9 And he will do evil in the eyes of Jehovah according to all which his father did.

10 In that time the servants of Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babel, came up to Jerusalem, and the city will come into siege.

11 And Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babel, will come against the city and his servants were pressing upon it

12 And Jehoiachin king of Judah will go forth upon the king of Babel, he and his mother, and his servants, and his chiefs, and his eunuchs: and the king of Babel will take him in the eighth year to his reigning.

13 And he will bring forth from thence all the treasures of the house of Jehovah, and the treasures of the king's house, and he will cut off all the vessels of gold which Solomon king of Israel made in the temple of Jehovah, according to the word of Jehovah.

14 And he carried into exile all Jerusalem, and all the chiefs, and all the mighty of strength, ten thousand exiles, and all the artificers, and the smiths: there was not left except the powerless of the people of the land.

15 And he will carry Jehoiachin into exile into Babel, and the king's mother, and the king's wives and his eunuchs and the powerful of the land, he brought away exiles from Jerusalem into Babel.

16 And all the men of strength, seven thousand and the artificers, and the smiths, a thousand, all strong, making war; and the king of Babel will bring them into exile into Babel.

17 And the king of Babel will make Mattaniah his uncle, king in his stead; and he will turn his name to Zedekiah.

18 The son of twenty and one years was Zedekiah in his reigning, and eleven years he reigned in Jerusalem. And his mothers name Hamutal, daughter of Jeremiah of Libnah.

19 And he will do evil in the eyes of Jehovah according to all which Jehoiakim did.

20 For upon the wrath of Jehovah it was in Jerusalem and in Judah, till he cast them from his face, and Zedekiah will rebel against the king of Babel.

2 KINGS CHAPTER 25

1 And it will be in the ninth year to his reigning, in the tenth month, in the tenth to the month, Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babel came, he, and all his strength, against Jerusalem, and he will encamp against it, and build a watch tower against her round about.

2 And the city will go into siege till the eleventh year to king Zedekiah.

3 In the ninth to the month and the famine will be strong in the city, and there was not bread for the people of the land.

4 And the city will be broken up, and all the men of war by night the way of the gate between the walls by the king's garden: (and the Chaldees against the city round about;) and he will go the way of the sterile region.

5 And the strength of the Chaldees will pursue after the king, and they will overtake him in the sterile region of Jericho: and all his strength was scattered from him.

6 And they will seize the king and bring him up to the king of Babel to Riblah; and they will speak judgment with him.

7 And they slaughtered the sons of Zedekiah before his eyes, and he blinded the eyes of Zedekiah, and he will bind him with fetters, and bring him to Babel.

8 And in the fifth month, in the seventh to the month. (this year the nineteenth year to king Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babel,) came Nebuzaradan, chief of the cooks, servant of the king of Babel, to Jerusalem.

9 And he will burn the house of Jehovah, and the king's house, and all the houses of Jerusalem, and every great house he burnt in fire.

10 And the walls of Jerusalem round about, all the strength of the Chaldees which were with the chief of the cooks brake down.

11 And the rest of the people being left in the city, and those falling away which fell to the king of Babel, and the rest of the multitude, Nebuzaradan chief of the cooks carried into exile.

13 And the pillars of brass which were in the house of Jehovah, and the bases, and the sea of brass, which were in the house of Jehovah, the Chaldees brake in pieces, and they will lift up their brass into Babel.

14 And the pots and the shovels and the snuffers and the dishes, and all the vessels of brass which they served in them, they took.

15 And the fire pans and the vases which were of gold, gold, and which were of silver, silver, the chief of the cooks took 16 The two pillars, the one sea, and the bases which Solomon made for the house of Jehovah; there was no weight to the brass of these vessels.

17 Eighteen cubits the height of the one pillar, and the capital upon it of brass: and the height of the capital, three cubits; and the net and the pomegranates upon the capital round about, all of brass; and according to these for the second pillar upon the net

18 And the chief of the cooks will take Seraiah the head priest, and Zephaniah the second priest, and the three watchers of the threshold:

19 And out of the city he took one eunuch, he who was appointed over the men of war, and five men seeing the face of the king, who were found in the city, and the scribe of the chief of the army mustering the people of the land, and sixty men from the people of the land being found in the city:

20 And Nebuzaradan, chief of the cooks, will take them and bring them to the king of Babel to Riblah:

21 And the king of Babel will strike them and kill them in Riblah in the land of Hamath; and Judah will be carried into exile from their land.

22 And the people being left in the land of Judah which Nebuchadnezzar king of Babel left, and he will appoint over them Gedaliah, son of Ahikam, son of Shaphan.

23 And all the chiefs of the armies, they and their men, will hear that the king of Babel appointed Gedaliah and there will come to Gedaliah to Mizpeh, and Ishmael, son of Nethaniah, and Johanan, son of Kareah, and Seraiah, son of Tanhumeth the Netophathite, and Jaazaniah son of a Maachathite, they and their men.

24 And Gedalian will swear to them and to their men, and say to them, Ye shall not fear serving the Chaldees: dwell in the land and serve the king of Babel, and it shall be well to you.

25 And it will be in the seventh month, Ishmael, son of Nethaniah, son of Elishama of the seed of the kingdom, came, and ten men with him, and he will strike Gedaliah, and he will die, and the Jews and the Chaldees who were with him in Mizpeh.

26 And all the people will rise from small and even to great, and the chiefs of the armies, and they will go to Egypt, for they were afraid from the face of the Chaldees.

27 And it will be in the thirty and seventh year to the exile of Jehoiachin, king of Judah, in the twelfth month, in the twenty and seventh of the month, Evil-Merodach king of Babel in the year of his reigning lifted up the head of Jehoiachin king of Judah from the house of shutting up.

28 And he will speak with him good things, and he will give his throne above the throne of the kings which were with him in Babel.

29 And he changed the garments of his shutting up: and he ate bread continually before him all the days of his life.

30 And his ration a ration continually, given to him from the king, the word of a day in its day all the days of his life.

THE BOOK OF THE PROPHET ISAIAH

Hebrew title: Sefer Yeshayahu
Author: Yeshayahu ben Amoz (Isaiah Son of Amoz)

(The Book of Isaiah is the first of the Latter Prophets in the Hebrew Bible and the first of the Major Prophets or Teachers in the Christian Old Testament. It is identified by a superscription as the words of the 8th-century BC teacher Isaiah ben Amoz, but there is extensive evidence that much of it was composed during the Babylonian captivity and later. Isaiah, the son of Amoz lived in the Kingdom of Judah during the time of four kings from the mid to late 8th-century BC. During this time, Assyria was growing to the west from Mesopotamia (Iraq) towards the Mediterranean, destroying first Aram [modern Syria] in 734–732 BC, then the Kingdom of Israel in 722–721, and Judah in 701.

The Book of Isaiah is one of the major prophetical writings of the Old Testament. The superscription identifies Isaiah as the son of Amoz and his book as "the vision of Isaiah . . . concerning Judah and Jerusalem in the days of Uzziah, Jotham, Ahaz, and Hezekiah, kings of Judah." According to 6:1, Isaiah received his call "in the year that King Uzziah died" (742 BC), and his latest recorded activity is dated in 701 BC.

The work is a compilation of 3 distinct parts: Chapters 1–39 can be assigned to Isaiahs lifetime. Chapters 40–55 are much later in origin and therefore known as Deutero-Isaiah (Second Isaiah). And even more distant in time are the chapters 56–66 and Trito-Isaiah (Third Isaiah).

Chapters 1–39 consist of numerous sayings and reports of Isaiah along with several narratives about the prophet that are attributed to his disciples. The growth of the book (1–39) was a gradual process, its final form dating from perhaps as late as the 5th century BC, a date suggested by the arrangement of the materials and the late additions. In spite of the lengthy and complicated literary history of the book, however, Isaiah's message is clearly discernible. He was much influenced by the cult in Jerusalem, and the exalted view of Yahweh in the Zion traditions is reflected in his message. He was convinced that only an unshakable trust in Yahweh, rather than in political or military alliances, could protect Judah and Jerusalem from the advances of their enemies—specifically, in this period, the Assyrians. He called for a recognition of the sovereignty of Yahweh and passionately denounced anything that worked against or obscured Yahweh's purposes—from social injustices to meaningless cultic observances. Although Isaiah pronounced Yahweh's judgement upon Judah and Jerusalem for their unfaithfulness, he also announced a new future for those who relied on Yahweh.

Deutero-Isaiah (40–55), consisting of a collection of oracles, songs, and discourses, dates from the Babylonian Exile (6th century BC). The anonymous prophet is in exile and looks forward to the deliverance of his people. The destruction of Babylon is prophesied and the return of the exiles to their homeland is promised. The servant-of-Yahweh songs in Deutero-Isaiah (42:1–4; 49:1–6; 50:4–9; 52:13–53:12) have generated animated discussions among scholars, but the ideas reflected in the songs suggest that they were written under the influence of the ideology of the king—the anointed one who, through his righteous rule, had the power to effect his people's deliverance.

Trito-Isaiah (56–66), coming from a still later period, reflects a Palestinian point of view, with the latter chapters in particular addressed to the cultic concerns of the restored community. The diversity of materials in these chapters suggests multiple authorship. How the three "Isaiahs" came together is not known.

The Isaiah Scroll, designated 1QIsaa and also known as the Great Isaiah Scroll, is one of the seven Dead Sea Scrolls that were first discovered in 1947 from Qumran Cave 1. The scroll is written in Hebrew and contains the entire Book of Isaiah from beginning to end, apart from a few small damaged portions. It is the oldest complete copy of the Book of Isaiah, being approximately 1,000 years older than the oldest Hebrew manuscripts known before the scrolls' discovery. 1QIsaa is also notable in being the only scroll from the Qumran Caves to be preserved almost in its entirety.

The scroll is written on 17 sheets of parchment. It is particularly large, being about 734 cm (24 feet) long and ranges from 25.3 to 27 cm high (10 to 10.6 inches) with 54 columns of text. The exact authors of 1QIsa are unknown, as is the exact date of writing. Pieces of the scroll have been dated using both radiocarbon dating and palaeographic / scribal dating. These methods resulted in calibrated date ranges between 356 and 103 BC. The text of the Great Isaiah Scroll is generally consistent with the Masoretic version and preserves all sixty-six chapters of the Hebrew version in the same sequence.

It seems likely that Isaiah was the teacher of Hezekiah. King Hezekiah [reigned c. 715 and 686 BC.] was, according to the Bible, the son of Ahaz and the 13th king of Judah. He is considered a very righteous king in the Books of Kings. Hezekiah is most important to Jewish history because it was him who enacted sweeping religious reforms, including a strict mandate for the sole worship of Yahweh and a prohibition on venerating other deities within the Temple of Jerusalem. So, the is no surprise that Isaiah 44:6 contains the first clear statement of monotheism: "I am the first and I am the last; beside me there is no God". In Isaiah 44:09–20, this is developed into a satire [a genre of literture which we also find in the gospels] on the making and worship of idols, mocking the foolishness of the carpenter who worships the idol that he himself has carved. While Yahweh had shown his superiority to other gods before, in Second Isaiah, he becomes the sole God of the world. This model of monotheism became later the basis for Christianity and Islam.

The defeat of Jerusalem by Babylon and the exile of its ruling elite in 586 BC followed. Chapters 40 to 55 are given to the Jews in exile, telling them about the hope of return. This was the time of king Kurush II (Cyrus the Great). In 559 BC he became ruler of a small kingdom in what is today Iran. By 540 he ruled a big empire from the Mediterranean to Central Asia, and in 539 he conquered Babylon. Isaiah's "predictions" of the fall of Babylon and his talk about the glory of Cyrus as one who would help Israel mean these prophecies are about the period of 550–539 BC. [* It is better called 'report' because this passage was most likely written after the fall of Babylon. This is a literary tool which was used in the gospels too. There it talks about the "predictions" of Jerusalem's encirclement and fall.]*

The Persians ended the exile of Jewish teachers and leaders, and by 515 BC some of the exiles had returned to Jerusalem and rebuilt the Temple. This is what the final chapters of Isaiah are about. The Cyrus Cylinder, a Cunei script document, states that Cyrus was responsible for sending all captives home from Babylonia although it does not mention the Jews by name. Cyrus was a master of religious propaganda and presented himself as liberator rather than conqueror. It appears to have been effective with Jews as well. In the lengthy prophetic book attributed to the prophet Isaiah, the author explicitly states that Cyrus is God's anointed: "Thus says the Lord to his Anointed [Messiah], to Cyrus whom I took by his right hand" (Isa 45:1). The overwhelming majority of scholars believe that the Chapters 40—55 of Isaiah were written around the time of the return from exile and the years that followed.

Speculations florish as to the reasoning for Cyrus' release of the Jews from Babylon. The strongest argument is that Cyrus was a follower of Zoroaster [Zarathustra] the monotheistic prophet. His Zoroastrianism played a dominant religious role in Persia throughout its history until the Islamic conquest. As such, Cyrus would have felt a kindred spirit with the monotheistic Jews.)

ISAIAH CHAPTER 1

1 The vision of Isaiah son of Amos which he saw concerning Judah and Jerusalem in the days of Uzziah, Jotham, Ahaz, Hezekiah, kings of Judah.

2 Hear, ye heavens, and give ear thou earth, for Jehovah spake: for I caused to grow and lifted up sons, and they rebelled against me.

3 The ox knew his possessor, and the ass his lord's stall: Israel knew not; my people understood not

4 Wo! sinful nation, a people heavy with sin, a seed doing evil, sons acting wickedly; they forsook Jehovah; they despised the holy one of Israel; they separated themselves backward.

5 For what shall ye be yet struck? will ye add apostasy? every head for sickness, and every heart sick

6 From the sole of the foot and even to the head, no wholeness in it; a wound and bruise, and a fresh blow: they were not pressed out, and they were not bound up, and they were not softened with oil.

7 Your land made desolate, your cities burnt with fire, your land before your strangers eating it up, and made desolate, as the overthrow of strangers.

8 And the daughter of Zion was left as a booth in a vineyard, as a lodge in a field of cucumbers, as a city besieged.

9 Unless Jehovah of armies left to us an escaping so small, we were as Sodom and we were made like to Gomorrah.

10 Hear the word of Jehovah, ye leaders of Sodom: give ear to the law of our God, ye people of Gomorrah.

11 For what to me the multitude of your sacrifices? Jehovah will say: I was filled with the burnt-offerings of rams and the fat of fatlings; and I delighted not in the blood of bullocks, and of he lambs and of he goats.

12 When ye shall come to be seen before me who sought this from your hand to tread my enclosure.

13 Ye shall not add to bring gifts of iniquity; incense, this an abomination to me; the new moon and the Sabbath, the calling of the assembly; I shall not be able to bear vanity and restraining.

14 Your new moons and your appointments my soul hated; they were for a burden upon me; I was wearied to lift up.

15 And in the spreading forth of your hands I will hide mine eyes from you.; also when ye shall multiply prayer I hear not: your hands were full of blood.

18 Come now we will confute together Jehovah will say: if your sins shall be as deep scarlet, they shall be white as snow; if they shall be red as crimson, they shall be as wool.

19 If ye shall be willing and hear, ye shall eat the good of the land.

20 And if ye shall refuse and rebel, ye shall be eaten by the sword: for the mouth of Jehovah spake.

21 How was the faithful city for a harlot! I filled with judgment; justice will lodge in her; and now they are killing

23 Thy chiefs turning away, and associates of thieves: every one loving a gift and following recompenses: the orphan they will not judge, and the cause of the widow will not come to them.

24 For this says the lord Jehovah of armies, the mighty one of Israel, Wo! I will take vengeance of mine adversaries, and I will avenge myself of mine enemies:

25 And I will turn back my hand upon thee, end I will straiten thy dross according to pureness, and I will remove all thine alloy:

26 And I will turn back thy judges as in the beginning, and thy counsellors as in the beginning: after this he shall call to thee, The city of justice, the faithful city.

28 Breaking the transgressing and the sinning together, and they forsaking Jehovah shall be finished.

29 For they shall be ashamed of their mighty ones which ye desired, and ye shall blush for the gardens which ye chose.

30 For ye shall be as an oak the leaf withering, and as a garden which there no water to it.

31 And the strong was for tow, and his work for a spark, and they two were burnt together, and none quenching.

ISAIAH CHAPTER 2

1 The word which Isaiah son of Amos saw concerning Judah and Jerusalem.

2 And it was in the last days, the mountain of the house of Jehovah shall be prepared upon the head of the mountains, and lifted up above the hills; and all nations flowed to it

3 And many people went and said, Come, and we will go up to the mountain of Jehovah, to the house of the God of Jacob, and he will teach us from his ways, and we will go in his paths: for out of Zion shall go forth the law, and the word of Jehovah from Jerusalem.

4 And he judged between the nations, and he will decide for many peoples: and they shall beat down their swords to plough-shares and their spears to pruning-hooks: nation shall not lift up sword against nation, and they shall no more learn war.

5 O house of Jacob, come ye, and we will go in the light of Jehovah.

6 For thou didst cast out thy people the house of Jacob, for they were filled from the east, and practicing magic as the rovers, and they will strike hands with the children of strangers.

7 And their land shall be full of silver and gold, and no end to their treasures; and their land shall be full of horses, and no end to their chariots.

8 And their land will be full of nothings; they will worship to the work of their hand, to what their fingers made:

9 And man will bow down, and a man will humble himself, and thou shalt not lift up to them.

10 Go into the rock, and hide in the dust from the face of the fear of Jehovah, and from the splendor of his majesty.

11 The lofty eyes of man were humbled, and the height of men bowed down, and Jehovah alone was exalted in that day.

12 For the day to Jehovah of armies is upon all the haughty and the high, and upon all lifted up; and he was humbled:

13 And upon all the cedars of Lebanon being high and lifted up, and upon all the oaks of Bashan,

14 And upon all the high mountains, and upon all the hills being lifted up,

15 And upon every lofty tower, and upon every fortified wall,

16 And upon all the ships of Tarshish, and upon all the flags of desire.

17 And the haughtiness of man was bowed down, and the height of man was humbled: and Jehovah alone was exalted in that day.

18 And the nothings he shall cause to wholly pass away.

19 And they shall go into the caves of the rocks, and into the caverns of the dust, from the face of the fear of Jehovah, and from the splendor of his majesty in his rising to terrify the earth.

20 In that day man shall cast the nothings of his silver and the nothings of his gold which they made for him to worship, to the digging of moles and to bats.

21 To go into the clefts of the rocks, and into the fissures of the rocks from the face of the fear of Jehovah, and from the splendor of his majesty in his rising to terrify the earth.

22 Cease to you from man of whom the breath is in his nose: for in what was he reckoned?

ISAIAH CHAPTER 3

1 For behold, the Lord Jehovah of armies taking away from Jerusalem and from Judah the stay, and the stay, all the stay of bread, and all the stay of water.

2 The strong one and the man of war, the judge and the prophet, and the divines, and the old man,

3 The captain of fifty and the elevated of face, and the counselor, and the wise of the artificers, and the intelligent one enchanting.

4 And I gave boys their chiefs, and the petulant shall rule over them.

5 And the people were pressed, man by man, and a man by his neighbor: the boy shall enlarge himself against the old man and the despised against the honorable.

6 For a man shall seize upon his brother of the house of his father, A garment to thee, thou shalt be chief to us, this ruin under thy hand:

7 He shall lift up in that day, saying, I will not be binding up; and in my house no bread and no garment: thou shalt not set me a chief of the people.

8 For Jerusalem was weak, and Judah fell: for their tongues and their doings are against Jehovah to embitter the eyes of his glory.

9 The withdrawing of their face answered against them; and they announced their sins as Sodom, and they covered not. Wo to their soul! for they rewarded evil to themselves.

10 Say to the just, that it is good that they shall eat the fruit of their doings.

11 Wo to the unjust! evil! for the reward of his hands shall be done to him.

12 My people, their tyrants from children, and women ruled over them. My people, they calling thee happy, causing to err; they destroyed the way of thy paths.

13 Jehovah stood up to contend and he stood to judge the peoples.

14 Jehovah will go into judgment with the old men of his people and his chiefs: and ye burnt up the vineyard; the spoil of the poor is in your houses.

15 Why will ye crush my people and grind the faces of the poor? says the Lord Jehovah of armies.

16 And Jehovah will say, Because the daughters of Zion were lifted up, and they will go extending the neck and ogling their eyes, going and tripping their going, and binding back their feet:

17 And Jehovah made bald the crown of the daughters of Zion, and Jehovah opened the redundance.

18 In that day Jehovah will turn away the ornament of the ankle bands, and the inter-weavings, and the crescents,

19 The drops, and the chains, and the veils,

20 The head-dresses and the step chains, and the girdles, and the houses of the soul, and the amulets.

21 The signet rings and the rings of the nose.

22 The costly garments and the cloaks, and the mantles, and the caskets.

23 The mirrors and the shirts and the turbans and the veils.

24 And it was instead of a sweet smell there shall be rottenness, and instead of a girdle, a rope, and instead of turned work, baldness, and instead of a variegated garment, a girding of sackcloth a brand instead of beauty.

26 And her entrances sighed and mourned; and being clean, she shall sit upon the earth.

ISAIAH CHAPTER 4

1 And seven women shall lay hold upon one man in that day, saying, We will eat our bread, and we will be clothed with our garments: only thy name shall be called upon us to take away our reproach.

2 In that day shall the springing up of Jehovah be for beauty and for glory, and the fruit of the earth for majesty and for ornament, for the escaping of Israel.

3 And it was he being left in Zion and he remaining in Jerusalem, he shall say to him holy, all being written for their life in Jerusalem.

4 When Jehovah washed out the excrements of the daughters of Zion, and he shall cleanse the blood of Jerusalem from her midst with the spirit of judgment, and with the spirit of burning.

5 And Jehovah created upon all the foundation of mount Zion and upon all her convocation, a cloud by day, and smoke, and the shining of afire of flame by night: and upon all the glory a covering.

6 And a booth shall be for a shadow by day from heat, and for a refuge, and for a hiding place from the storm, and from rain.

ISAIAH CHAPTER 5

1 I will sing now to my beloved a song of my love for his vineyard. There was a vineyard to my beloved in the horn of the son of oil:

2 And he will dig it up, and he will free it from stones, and he will plant it with a vine of purple grapes, and build a tower in its midst, and he will also hew out a wine-vat in it: and he will wait for grapes to be made, and it will make wild grapes. 3 And now, ye inhabitants of Jerusalem, and men of Judah, judge ye now, between me and between my vineyard

4 What to do more to my vineyard, and did I not in it? wherefore I waited for grapes to be made, and it will make wild grapes.

5 And now I will make known to you now what I do to my vineyard, taking away its hedge, and it was for consuming, breaking down its wall, and it was for a treading down.

6 And I will make it a desolation; it shall not be pruned and it shall not be dressed, and there came up sharp points and thorns: and upon the clouds I will command from raining rain upon it

7 For the vineyard of Jehovah of armies is the house of Israel, and the men of Judah the plant of his pleasures: and he will wait for judgment, and behold bloodshed; for justice, and behold a cry.

8 Wo to those touching house upon house, they will bring near field upon field, till no more place, and ye dwelt yourselves alone in the midst of the earth.

9 In the ears of Jehovah of armies, If not many houses shall be for desolation, great and good from none dwelling.

10 For ten measures of a vineyard shall make one bath, and the seed of an omer shall make an ephah.

11 Wo to those rising early in the morning, they will follow strong drink; remaining in the evening, wine will inflame them.

12 And there was the harp and the lyre, the drum and the pipe, and the wine of their drinking's: but the work of Jehovah they will not look at, and the work of his hands they saw not

13 For this my people were carried into exile from not knowing; and their honor, men of famine, and their multitude dry with thirst

14 For this, hades enlarged her soul, and opened wide her mouth without bound: and her honor shall go down, and her multitude, and her tumult, and he rejoicing, into her.

15 And man shall bow down, and man shall be humbled, and the eyes of the haughty shall be humbled.

16 And Jehovah of armies shall be exalted in judgment, and the holy God consecrated in justice.

17 And the lambs feed according to their word, and the deserts of the fat ones shall strangers eat

18 Wo to those drawing iniquity with cords of evil, and sin as the cords of a wagon:

19 Saying, He shall hasten, he shall urge on his work, so that we shall see: and the counsel of the holy one of Israel shall draw near and come and we shall know.

20 Wo to those saying, to evil, good, and to the good, evil; putting darkness for light, and light for darkness; putting bitter for sweet, and sweet for bitten

23 Justifying the unjust on account of a gift, and they will take away the justice of the just from him.

24 For this as the tongue of fire consumes the straw, and the dry grass of flame will collapse: their root shall be as rottenness, and their flower shall go up as dust: for they rejected the law of Jehovah of armies, and the saying of the Holy One of Israel they despised.

25 For this the anger of Jehovah was kindled against his people, and he will stretch forth his hand against them and strike them: and the mountains will be moved and their carcasses shall be as dung in the midst of the streets. In all this his anger was not turned back, and his hand was yet stretched out.

26 And he lifted up a signal to the nations from far off, and he hissed to them from the extremity of the earth; and behold, they shall come swift from haste.

27 None fainted, and none were weak among them; none shall slumber and none shall sleep; and the girdle of their loins was not loosed, and the thong of their shoes was not broken:

28 Whose arrows were sharpened, and all their bows bent, the hoofs of their horses were reckoned as the rock, and their wheels as the whirlwind.

29 The roaring to him as the lion, and he roared as the young lions: and they shall groan and shall lay hold of the prey, and it shall escape, and none delivering.

30 And they shall groan against them in that day as the groaning of the sea: and they looked to the land and, behold, straitened darkness, and the light darkened in its clouds.

ISAIAH CHAPTER 6

1 In the year king Uzziah died, and I shall see Jehovah sitting upon his throne, high and lifted up, and his train filling the temple.

2 And seraphs standing from above to it; six wings, six wings to one; with two he will cover his face, and with two he will cover his feet, and with two he will fly.

3 And this called to this, and said, Holy, holy, holy, Jehovah of armies: all the earth full of his glory.

4 The foundations of the thresholds will tremble from the voice calling, and the house will be filled with smoke.

5 And saying, Wo to me! for I was cut off; because I a man of unclean lips, and in the midst of a people of unclean lips I dwell: for mine eyes saw the king, Jehovah of armies.

6 And one from the seraphs will fly to me, and in his hand a hot stone, he took with the tongs from off the altar:

7 And he will touch upon my mouth, and say, Behold, this touched upon thy lips; and took away thine iniquity, and thy sin shall be covered.

8 And I shall hear the voice of Jehovah, saying, Whom shall I send, and who shall go for us? and behold me saying, Send me.

9 And he will say, Go, and say to this people, Hearing, hear ye, and ye shall not understand; and seeing, see ye, and ye shall not know.

10 Make the heart of this people fat and their ears heavy, and blind their eyes, lest they shall see with their eyes and hear with their ears, and their heart shall understand and turn back and be healed to them.

11 And saying, How long, O Lord? And he will say, Till when the cities were laid waste from not being inhabited, and the houses from not a man, and the land shall be laid waste with desolation.

12 And Jehovah put man far away, and much forsaking in the midst of the land.

13 And yet in it a tenth, and it turned back, and it was for consuming, as the terebinth and as the oak which in casting the trunk in them the holy seed its pillar.

ISAIAH CHAPTER 7

1 And it will be in the days of Ahaz son of Jotham son of Uzziah, king of Judah, Rezin, king of Aram came up, and Pekah, son of Remaliah, king of Israel, to Jerusalem, to war against her, and he was not able to fight against her.

2 And it will be announced to the house of David, saying, Aram rested upon Ephraim; and his heart will move to and fro and the heart of his people, as the woods of the forest moved from the face of the wind.

3 And Jehovah will say to Isaiah, Go forth now to meet Ahaz, thou and Shear-Jashub thy son, at the extremity of the channel of the highest pool of the highway, of the fuller's field;

4 And say to him, Watch and rest; thou shalt not fear, and thy heart shall not be tender from the two tails of these smoking fire-brands, upon the heat of anger of Rezin and Aram, and the son of Remaliah.

5 Because Aram, Ephraim, and the son of Remaliah, will counsel evil against thee, saying,

6 We will go up against Judah and terrify her and subdue her for us, and we will make a king in the midst of her, the son of Tabeal:

7 Thus said the Lord Jehovah, It shall not stand, and it shall not be.

8 For the head of Aram, Damascus, and the head of Damascus, Rezin, and in yet sixty and five years Ephraim shall be broken from a people.

9 And the head of Ephraim, Shomeron, and the head of Shomeron, the son of Remaliah. If ye will not believe, because ye will not believe.

10 And Jehovah will add to speak to Ahaz, saying,

11 Ask for thee a sign from Jehovah thy God; make deep the asking, or make high upwards.

12 And Ahaz will say, I will not ask and I will not tempt Jehovah.

13 And he will say, Hear ye now, house of David; is it small for you to weary men, but will ye weary God also 14 For this, Jehovah he will give to you a sign Behold, the virgin conceiving, and she will bare a son, and call his name Immanuel.

15 Curdled milk and honey he shall eat, for his knowing to reject in evil, and to choose in good.

16 For before the boy shall know to reject in evil and to choose in good the land which thou abhorrest shall be forsaken from the face of its two kings.

17 Jehovah shall bring upon thee and upon thy people, and upon thy father's house, days which came not, from the day Ephraim turned away from Judah; the king of Assur.

18 And it was in that day Jehovah shall hiss for the fly which is in the extremity of the rivers of Egypt, and for the bee which is in the land of Assur.

19 And they shall come and rest all of them in the valleys, and in the clefts of the rocks, and in all the thorn hedges, and in all pastures.

20 In that day shall Jehovah shave with a hired razor by those beyond the river, by the king of Assur, the head and the hair of the feet: and it also shall scrape off the beard.

21 And it was in, that day a man shall preserve alive a heifer of the herd, and two sheep.

22 And it was from the abundance of making milk he shall eat curdled milk; for curdled milk and honey shall eat all they being left in the midst of the land.

23 And it was in that day every place shall be where shall be there a thousand vines for a thousand of silver, for sharp points and thorns shall it be.

24 With arrows and with bows shall he come there: for sharp points and thorns shall be all the land.

25 And all the mountains which shall be dressed with the hoe, the fear of sharp points and thorns shall not come there: and it was for the sending forth of the ox and for the treading of sheep.

ISAIAH CHAPTER 8

1 And Jehovah will say to me, Take to thee a great tablet, and write upon it with a man's graving tool to hasten the spoil, urging on the plunder.

2 I will take to witness to me faithful witnesses, Uriah the priest, and Zechariah son of Jeberechiah.

3 And I shall draw near to the prophetess; and she will conceive and bear a son, and Jehovah will say to me, Call his name, Hastening the spoil, urging on the plunder.

4 For before the boy shall know to call, My father and my mother, he shall lift up the strength of Damascus and the spoil of Shomeron before the king of Assur.

5 And Jehovah will add yet to speak to me, saying,

6 Because this people rejected the water of Shiloh, going softly and rejoicing in Rezin and the son of Remaliah;

7 And for this, behold Jehovah bringing up upon them the water of the river, strong and many, the king of Assur and his glory: and he came up over all his channels and he went over all his banks.

8 And he went in Judah; and he overflowed and passed through; he will reach even to the neck; and the expansion of his wings was the fulness of the land, God with us.

9 Make friendship, ye peoples, and be broken in pieces; and give ear, every land from afar; be girded and be broken in pieces; be girded and be broken in pieces.

10 Counsel ye, counsel, and it shall be dispersed; speak the word and it shall not stand: for God is with us.

11 For thus said Jehovah to me with strength of the hand, and he will turn me away from going in the way of this people, saying,

12 Ye shall not say, A conspiracy to all whom this people shall say a conspiracy; and ye shall not fear their fear, and ye shall not be afraid.

13 Jehovah of armies, him shall ye consecrate; and he your fear, and he your terror.

14 And he was for a holy place and for a stone of striking, and for a rock of falling to the two houses of Israel; for a trap net and for a snare to the inhabitants of Jerusalem.

15 And many fainted among them and fell, and were broken, and snared, and taken.

17 And I waited for Jehovah in his hiding his face from the house of Jacob, and I trusted to him.

18 Behold me and the children which Jehovah gave to me for signs and for wonders in Israel from Jehovah of armies dwelling in mount Zion.

19 And when they shall say to you, Seek ye to necromancers and to wizards peeping and panting: shall not a people seek their God among the living for the dead?

20 To the law and to the testimony if they will not speak according to this word, because no morning is in them.

21 And passing through it, harshly oppressed and hungry; and it was when he shall be hungry, and they brake forth and cursed against their king and their God, and looked upwards.

22 And they shall look to the earth, and behold, straits and darkness and fainting of distress; and to darkness being removed.

ISAIAH CHAPTER 9

1 For the fainting not to what the straits to her according to the time of the first he made light the land of Zebulon and the land of Naphtali; and afterward he made heavy the way of the sea beyond Jordan of Galilee of the nations.

2 The people going in darkness saw a great light: they dwelling in the land of the shadow of death, light shone upon them.

3 Thou didst multiply the nation, thou didst not increase the joy: they rejoiced before thee according to the joy in harvest as they will exalt in their dividing the spoil.

4 For the yoke of his burden and the rod of his shoulder, and the rod of him oppressing with it thou didst break in pieces the day of Midian.

5 For every shoe of the shod with trembling, and a garment being rolled in bloods; and it was for burning the food of fire.

6 For a child was born to us, a son was given to us, and the dominion shall be upon his shoulder, and his name shall be called, Wonderful, Counsellor, Mighty God, everlasting Father, Captain of Peace.

7 To the increase of his dominion and to peace no end, upon the throne of David and upon his kingdom to prepare it and to support it in judgment and in justice from now and even to forever: the zeal of Jehovah of armies will do this.

8 Jehovah sent a word into Jacob, and it fell upon Israel.

9 And the people shall know, all they of Ephraim and the inhabitants of Shomeron, in pride and in greatness of heart, saying,

10 The bncks fell, and we will build with hewn stone: the sycamores were cut down, and the cedars we will renew.

11 And Jehovah will set on high the adversaries of Rezin against him, and he will arouse his enemies:

12 Aram from the east, and the rovers from behind; and they will eat up Israel with all the mouth. In all this his anger was not turned back, and yet his hand stretched out

13 And the people turned not back even to him smiting them, and Jehovah of armies they sought not

14 And Jehovah will cut off from Israel head and tail, palm branch and reed in one day.

15 The old man and they lifting up faces, he the head; and the prophet teaching falsehood, be the tail.

16 And there will be those leading this people causing them to wander; and those being led being swallowed up.

17 For this upon their young men Jehovah shall not rejoice, and their orphans and their widows he will not compassionate; for they all are polluted and doing evil, and every mouth speaking folly. In all this his anger turned not back, and yet his hand stretched out

18 For wickedness burnt as fire; the sharp point and the thorn it shall consume, and shall burn in the thickets of the forest, and they shall roll up in the mounting up of smoke.

19 In the outpourings of Jehovah of armies the land was consumed, and the people will be as the food of fire: and they shall not pity a man to his brother.

20 And he shall cut upon the right hand, and hungering; and he shall eat upon the left, and they were not satisfied: they shall eat a man the flesh of his arm.

21 Manasseh, Ephraim; and Ephraim, Manasseh: they being united against Judah. In all this his anger turned not back, and yet his hand stretched out

ISAIAH CHAPTER 10

1 Wo to those decreeing not decrees, and they wrote writings of labor;

2 To turn away the judgment of the powerless, and to strip off judgment of the distressed of my people, for widows to be their plunder, and they will plunder orphans.

3 And what will ye do for the day of reviewing, and for the tempest coming from far off? upon whom will ye flee for help? and where will ye leave your glory?

4 Not to bow under the bound, and they shall fell under the slain; in all this his anger turned not back, and yet his hand stretched out

5 Wo to Assur the rod of mine anger, and that rod in their hand, my wrath.

6 Against a polluted nation will I send him, and upon a people of my outpouring will I command him to spoil a spoil and to plunder a plunder, and to set them a treading down as the clay of the streets.

7 And he will not thus purpose, and his heart will not reckon thus; for in his heart to destroy and to cut off nations not few.

8 For he will say, Are not my chiefs united together kings?

9 Is not as Carchemish, Calno? if not as Arpad, Hamath? if not as Damascus, Shomeron?

10 As my hand found for the kingdoms of nothing, and their carved images from Jerusalem and from Shomeron;

11 Is it not according to what I did to Shomeron and to her nothings, thus will I do to Jerusalem and to her images?

12 And it was when the Lord will complete all his work upon mount Zion and upon Jerusalem, I will review upon the fruit of the great heart of the king of Assur and upon the glory of his eyes lifted up.

13 For he said, By strength of my hand I did, and by my wisdom, for I was discreet: and I will remove the bounds of the people, and their things prepared I plundered, and I will bring down as a strong one the inhabitants.

14 And my hand will find as a nest for the strength of the peoples: and as he gathering eggs left, I gathered all the land; and there was not moving the wing, and opening wide the mouth, and peeping.

15 Shall the axe vaunt itself against him hewing with it? shall the saw magnify itself against him moving it up and down? as the rod moving up and down with those lifting it up; as the lifting up of the rod not wood.

16 For this shall Jehovah, the Lord of armies send among his fatnesses leanness; and under his glory he shall burn a burning as the burning of fire.

17 And the light of Israel was for a fire, and his Holy for a flame: and he burnt and consumed his thorns, and his sharp points in one day:

18 And the glory of his forest and his Carmel, from the soul and even to the flesh, he shall finish, and it was as he fainting pined away.

19 And the remainder of the wood of his forest shall be of number, and a boy shall write them.

20 And it was in that day the remainder of Israel shall no more add, and the escaping of the house of Jacob, to lean upon him smiting them; and were leaning upon Jehovah the holy of Israel in truth.

21 The remainder shall turn back the remainder of Jacob to the mighty God.

22 For if my people Israel shall be as the sand of the sea, the remnant shall turn back among them: a consumption decided overflowing justice.

23 For the Lord Jehovah of armies made a completion, and decided it in the midst of all the land.

24 For this, thus said the Lord Jehovah of armies, Thou my people dwelling in Zion shalt not fear from Assur: with the rod he shall strike thee and he will lift up his rod upon thee, in the way of Egypt.

25 For yet a very little and wrath finished, and mine anger, in their destruction.

26 And Jehovah of armies roused up for him a scourge according to the blow of Midian at the rock Oreb: and his rod upon the sea, and he lifted it up in the way of Egypt

27 And it was in that day, his burden shall remove from off thy shoulder, and his yoke from off thy neck, and the yoke was lightened from the face of the anointing.

28 He came upon Aioth, he passed through into Migron; at Michmash he will deposit his vessels.

29 They passed through the passage the hill a lodging to us; Ramesh trembled; the hill of Saul fled.

32 Yet the day to stand in Nob: his hand will shake the mountain of the daughter of Zion, the hill of Jerusalem.

33 Behold the Lord Jehovah of armies dividing the bough with sudden violence: and the high of stature hewn down, and the lofty shall be humbled.

34 And he cut down the thickets of the forest with iron, and Lebanon shall fall with a lofty one.

ISAIAH CHAPTER 11

1 And a rod shall come forth from the stock of Jesse, and a sprout shall blossom from his roots:

2 And the spirit of Jehovah resting upon him, the spirit of wisdom and understanding, the spirit of counsel and strength, the spirit of knowledge and the fear of Jehovah:

3 His sweet odor in the fear of Jehovah: and not according to the seeing of his eyes shall he judge, and not according to the hearing of his ears shall he decide.

4 And he judged the powerless with justice, and he decided in straightness for the humble of the earth: and he struck the earth with the rod of his mouth, and by the spirit of his lips he will slay the unjust.

5 And justice was the girding of his loins, and truth the girding of his loins.

6 The wolf dwelt with the lamb; and the panther will lie down with the kid; and the calf and the young lion and the falling together, and a little boy leading with them.

7 And the heifer and the bear shall feed together, and their young shall lie down; and the lion shall eat straw as the ox.

8 And the suckling was delighted upon the hole of the asp, and upon the viper's deu the weaned directed his hand.

9 They shall not do evil, and they shall not destroy in all my holy mountain, for the earth full of the knowledge of Jehovah as the waters covering to the sea.

10 And there was in that day a root of Jesse which stood for a signal of the peoples; to him shall the nations seek, and his rest was glory.

11 And it was in that day Jehovah shall add the second time his hand to gain the remnant of his people which shall be left from Assur and from Egypt, and from Pathros, and from Cush, and from Elam, and from Shinar, and from Hamath, and from the islands of the sea.,

12 And he lifted up a signal to the nations, and he gathered the outcasts of Israel, and he will collect the dispersed of Judah from the four wings of the earth.

13 And the jealousy of Ephraim was removed, and the adversaries of Judah shall be cut off: Ephraim shall not envy Judah, and Judah shall not press upon Ephraim.

14 And they flew upon the shoulder of the rovers to the sea; together shall they plunder the sons of the east: Edom and Moab the sending forth of their hand, and the sons of Ammon their audience.

15 And Jehovah exterminated the tongue of the sea of Egpyt, and he moved to and fro his hand over the river with the strength of his wind, and he struck it to the seven torrents, and he caused them to tread in shoes.

16 And there was a highway for the remnant of his people which shall be left from Assur, as it was to Israel in the day of his coming up from the land of Egypt.

ISAIAH CHAPTER 12

1 And thou saidst in that day, I will praise thee, O Jehovah: for thou wert angry with me, thine anger will turn back and thou wilt comfort me,

2 Behold God my salvation; I will trust and not be afraid: for my strength and song is Jah Jehovah, and he will be to me for salvation.

3 Ye drew water with gladness from the fountains of salvation.

4 And ye said in that day, Praise ye to Jehovah, call upon his name; make known his deeds among the peoples; keep ye in remembrance that his name was exalted.

5 Strike the chords to Jehovah, for he did a lifting up: this being known in all the earth.

ISAIAH CHAPTER 13

1 The burden of Babel which Isaiah son of Amos saw.

2 Lift ye up a signal upon the bare mountain, lift up the voice to them; move the hand to and fro and they shall come in to the entrances of the noble minded.

3 I commanded to the consecrated, also I called the strong ones for mine anger, those exulting in my lifting up.

4 The voice of a mulitude in the mountain; the likeness of much people; the voice of the uproar of kingdoms, nations being gathered: Jehovah of armies reviewing the army of battle.

5 Coming from a land from afar, from the extremity of the heavens, Jehovah and the vessels of his wrath to overthrow all the earth.

6 Pipe ye, for the day of Jehovah draws near; as desolation shall it come from the Almighty.

7 For this all hands shall be relaxed, and every heart of man shall melt.

8 And they trembled; pains and writhings will lay hold of them; as she bringing forth they will be in pain: they shall wonder a man at his neighbor; their faces the face of flames.

9 Behold, the day of Jehovah coming fierce and overflowing, and burning anger to set the earth for desolation: and he will destroy the sinner out of it.

10 For the stars of the heavens and the giants of the sky shall not shine their light: the sun was darkened in his going forth, and the moon shall not cause her light to shine.

11 And I appointed evil over the habitable globe, and upon the unjust their iniquity; and I caused to cease the pride of the arrogant, and I will humble the pride of the terrible.

13 For this I will provoke the heavens to anger, and the earth shall tremble from her place, in the wrath of Jehovah of armies, and in the day of his burning anger.

14 And it was as the roe being thrust down and as a sheep and not a man gathering: to his people shall they turn, and they shall flee a man to his land.

15 All being found shall be thrust through; and every one scraped together shall fall by the sword.

17 Behold me rousing up the Modes against them, who shall not reckon silver; and gold they shall not delight in it

18 And the bows of the boys shall be dashed in pieces, and the fruit of the womb they shall not pity; and upon their sons their eye shall not have compassion.

19 And Babel the glory of kingdoms, the beauty of the Chaldees' grandeur was as God overthrowing Sodom and Gomorrah.

20 It shall not be inhabited forever, and it shall not be dwelt in even to generation and generation: and the Arabian shall not go on there, and the shepherds shall not recline there.

21 And inhabitants of the desert reclined there, and their houses were filled with howlings, and the daughters of the ostrich dwelt there, and he goats shall leap there.

22 And howlers cried out in its palaces, and great serpents in the temples of delight: and her time draws near to come, and her days shall not be protracted.

ISAIAH CHAPTER 14

1 For Jehovah will pity Jacob, and he yet chose in Israel, and he gave them rest upon their land: and the stranger was joined to them, and they joined themseves to the house of Jacob.

2 And peoples took them and brought them to their place, and the house of Israel inherited them upon the land of Jehovah for servants and for maids: and they were captives to those having been made captives, and they came down upon those pressing them.

3 And it was in that day Jehovah gave rest to thee from thy toil and from thy trouble, and from the hard service which was served upon thee.

4 And thou tookest up this parable against the king of Babel, and thou saidst, How did he oppressing, cease! oppression ceased.

6 Striking the peoples in wrath a blow not removed, bringing down the nations in anger; pursuing, not sparing.

7 All the earth rested, having quiet: they broke forth a rejoicing.

8 Also the cypresses rejoiced at thee, the cedars of Lebanon: From that time thou wert laid down, he cutting off will not come up against us.

9 Hades from beneath was moved for thee to meet thy coming: it roused the shades for thee, all the leaders of the earth: it raised up from their thrones all the kings of the nations.

10 All they will answer and say to thee, Also thou wert weak as we; thou wert made like to us.

11 Thy grandeur was brought down to hades, the sound of thy harps: the worm was spread under thee, and worms covering thee.

12 How thou fallest from the heavens, brilliant star, son of the morning! thou wert cut off to the earth, overthrowing upon the nations!

13 And thou saidst in thy heart, I will go up to the heavens; from above to the stars of God I will lift up my throne, and I will sit upon the mountain of appointment in the thighs of the north.

14 I will go up upon the heights of the cloud: I will become like the Most High.

15 But to hades shalt thou come down, to the thighs of the pit

16 They seeing thee shall look upon thee, they shall attend to thee. This the man moving the earth, shaking kingdoms:

17 Setting the habitable globe as a desert, and destroying its cities: for his bound opening not the house.

18 All the kings of the nations, all of them, lay down in honor, a man in his house.

19 And thou wert east out of thy grave as a sprout abhorred, a garment of the slain thrust through with the sword, and going down to the stones of the pit as a corpse trodden down.

20 Thou shalt not be united with them in the grave, for thou destroyedst thy land, and didst slay thy people: the seed of those doing evil shall not be called forever.

22 And I rose against them, said Jehovah of armies, and I cut off to Babel the name and remainder, offspring and progeny, says Jehovah.

23 And I set it for the possession of the hedge-hog, and pools of water: and I swept her with the broom of desolation, says Jehovah of armies.

24 Jehovah of armies sware, saying, If not as I purposed thus it was, and as I counseled, this shall stand:

25 To break Assur in my land, and upon my mountain I will tread him down: and his yoke was removed from off them, and his burden shall remove from off their shoulder.

26 This the counsel being counseled upon all the land: and this the hand stretched out upon all the nations.

27 For Jehovah of armies counseled and who shall bring to nought? and his hand was stretched out, and who shall turn it back?

28 In the year king Ahaz died was this burden.

29 Thou shalt not rejoice Philistia, all of thee, because the rod of him striking thee was broken: for from the root of the serpent shall come forth a viper, and his fruit burning flying.

30 And the first born of the poor were fed, and the needy shall lie down confidently: and I killed thy root with famine, and thy residue he shall slay.

31 Wail, thou gate; cry out, thou city; all thou Philistia, melting away, for from the north a smoke coming, and none being alone in his appointments.

32 And what shall the messengers of the nations answer? for Jehovah founded Zion, and the humble of his people shall trust in her.

ISAIAH CHAPTER 15

1 The burden of Moab. For in the night the city of Moab was destroyed, perishing; for in the night the wall of Moab was destroyed, perishing.

2 He went up to the house and to Dibon, the heights, to weep: over Nebo and Medeba shall Moab wail: upon all their heads baldness; every beard cut off.

3 And in their places without they girded themselves with sackcloth: upon her roofs and in her streets every one shall wail, going down into weeping.

4 And Heshbon shall cry and Elealah; even to Jahaz their voice was heard: for this the loins of Moab shall make a loud noise his soul shall be evil to him.

5 My heart shall cry out for Moab; passing through even to Zoar, a heifer of three years: for going up to Luhith with weeping shall they go up into it: for the way of Horonaim they shall rouse up a cry of breaking.

6 For the waters of Nimrim shall be desolation; for the grass dried up, the herbage failed; there was no green.

7 For this the abundance made and their wealth upon the torrent of the Arabians shall they lift them up.

8 For the cry surrounded the bound of Moab, its wailing even to Eglaim, and its wailing to the well of Elim.

9 For the waters of Dimon were filled with blood: I will put additions upon Dimon, to the escaping of Moab, lions, and to the rest of the land.

ISAIAH CHAPTER 16

1 Send ye a lamb to the ruler to the land, from the rock of the desert to the mountain of the daughter of Zion.

2 And it shall be as the bird fleeing, the nest cast out, the daughters of Moab shall be from the passages to Arnon.

3 Bring ye counsel, do judgment; place as the night thy shadow in the midst of noon; hide the driven out; thou shalt not betray the fugitive.

4 The outcast shall dwell with thee, Moab; be thou a covering to them from the face of him laying waste: for the oppressor ceased, violence was finished, the treaders-down were consumed out of the land.

5 And the throne was set up in mercy: and he sat upon it in truth in the tent of David, judging and seeking judgment, and hastening justice.

6 We heard the pride of Moab; he was greatly elated; his haughtiness and his pride and his wrath; not so his empty talk

7 For this shall Moab wail for Moab, every one shall wail: for the foundations of the wall of Haresheth shall ye sigh; surely they were smitten.

8 For the fields of Heshbon languished, the vine of Sibmah: the lords of the nations struck its vine of purple grapes, they reached even to Jazer, they wandered to the desert: her sprouts were thrust out, they passed over the sea.

9 For this I will weep with the weeping of Jazer the vine of Sibmah; I will water thee with my tears, O Heshbon and Elealah: for upon thy fruit harvest and upon thy harvest the vintage shout fell.

10 And joy and gladness was taken away from Carmel, and in the vineyards there shall be no shout for joy, there shall be no cry with a loud voice: and he treading shall not tread out wine in the wine-vat: I caused the vintage shout to cease.

11 For this my bowels shall sound as a harp for Moab, and my inner parts for the wall of Haresh.

12 And it was when it was seen that Moab was weary upon the height, and Isaiah coming to his holy place to pray and he shall not be able.

14 And now Jehovah spake, saying, In three years as the years of a hireling and the honor of Moab despised with with all the great multitude; and the remnant being small, not great

ISAIAH CHAPTER 17

1 The burden of Damascus. Behold, Damascus being taken away from a city, and it was a falling heap of rubbish.

2 The cities of Aroer were forsaken : they shall be for flocks, and they lay down, and none terrifying.

3 And the fortress ceased from Ephraim, and the kingdom from Damascus, and the remnant of Aram: they shall be as the glory of the sons of Israel, says Jehovah of armies.

4 And it was in that day the glory of Jacob shall be feeble, and the fatness of his flesh shall waste away.

5 And it was as he gathered the harvest of standing grain, and he shall reap the ears with his arm; and it was as he gathering ears in the valley of Rephaim.

6 And he left in it gleaning, as the beating of the olive tree, two, three berries upon the head of the summit, four, five in the branches of its fruit, says Jehovah, God of Israel.

7 In that day shall the man look upon him making him, and his eyes shall look to the Holy One of Israel

8 And he shall not look to the altars, the work of his hands, and what his fingers made he shall not see, and the statues and the images.

9 In that day shall his strong cities be as the forsaken thicket, and the summit which they forsook from the face of the sons of Israel: and it was a desolation.

10 For thou didst forget the God of thy salvation, and didst not remember the rock of thy fortress, for this, thou shalt plant pleasant plants, and thou shalt sow it with vine shoots of the stranger.

11 In the day of thy planting thou shalt hedge in, and in the morning thou shalt make thy seed fruitful: the harvest a heap in the day of thy possession and incurable pain.

12 Wo to the multitude of many peoples; they will sound as the sound of the seas; and the tumult to the nations shall rage as the tumult of great waters.

13 To the nations as the tumult of many waters they shall rage, and he rebuked him and he fled from far off and was pursued as the chief of the mountains before the wind and as stubble before the whirlwind.

14 For the time of evening, behold, terror; before morning he is not This the portion of those plundering us, and the lot of those spoiling us.

ISAIAH CHAPTER 18

1 Wo to the land of the whizzing of wings, which is from beyond the rivers of Cush:

2 Sending messengers upon the sea, and in vessels of the bulrush upon the face of the waters, Go, ye swift messengers, to a nation drawn out and sharpened, to a people to be feared from this, and farther off; a nation of might, of might, and of treading down, of which the rivers divided up its land.

3 All ye inhabiting the habitable globe, and dwelling in the earth, when lifting up a signal on the mountains, ye shall see; and when striking the trumpet, ye shall hear.

4 For thus said Jehovah to me, I will cause rest, and I will behold in my dwelling place as the serene heat upon the light, and as a cloud of dew in the heat of harvest

5 For before the harvest, when the flower was completed, and the sour grape shall be ripening in the flower, and he cut off the shoots with pruning-hooks, and cutting off he took away the tendrils.

6 They shall be left together to the ravenous bird of the mountains, and to the beasts of the earth: and the ravenous bird summered upon them, and all the beasts of the earth shall winter upon them.

7 In that time shall a gift be brought to Jehovah of armies of a people drawn out, and sharpened, and from a people to be feared from this, and farther off; a nation of might, of might, and of treading down, of which the rivers divided up its lands, to the place of the name of Jehovah of armies, mount Zion.

ISAIAH CHAPTER 19

1 The burden of Egypt Behold, Jehovah riding upon a swift cloud and coming to Egypt: and the vanities of Egypt moved to and fro from his face, and the heart of Egypt will melt in its midst

2 And I aroused Egypt against Egypt, and they warred a man against his brother, and a man against his neighbor; city against city, and kingdom against kingdom.

3 And the spirit of Egypt was emptied in its midst, and its counsel I will destroy: and they sought to the vanities and to the mutterers, and to the necromancers, and to the wizards.

4 And I shut up Egypt into the hand of hard lords, and a strong king shall rule over them, says the Lord Jehovah of armies.

5 And the water failed from the sea, and the river will waste and dry up.

6 They cast away the rivers; the rivers of Egypt languished and dried up; the reed and the sedge pined away.

7 The naked places by the river upon the mouth of the river, and everything being sown by the river was dried up, driven away, and nothing of it

8 And the fishermen groaned, and all casting the hook into the river mourned, and they spreading nets upon the face of the water, languished.

9 And they working hatcheled flax and they weaving white linens were ashamed.

10 And her pillars were broken in pieces, and all making wages, sorrowful in soul.

11 Also the chiefs of Zoan are foolish, the wise counseling Pharaoh the counsel became brutish: how shall ye say to Pharaoh, I the son of the wise, the son of kings of old?

12 Where are they? where thy wise? and they shall announce to thee now, and they shall make known what Jehovah shall counsel upon Egypt

13 The chiefs of Zoan were foolish, the chiefs of Noph were deceived; and they caused Egypt to wander, the pinnacles of its tribes.

14 Jehovah mingled in the midst of her a spirit of perversities) and they caused Egypt to wander in all its works as the intoxicated wanders in his vomit

15 And there shall not be to Egypt a work which shall make head and tail, branch and reed.

16 In that day Egypt shall be as women; and it trembled and was afraid from the face of the shaking of the hand of Jehovah of armies which he shook over it

17 And the land of Judah was to Egypt for consternation, all which shall have it in remembrance shall be afraid to himself from the face of the counsel of Jehovah of armies which he shall counsel against it

18 In that day there shall be five cities in the land of Egypt speaking the lip of Canaan, and they sware to Jehovah of armies; and to one it shall be said, The city of the sun.

19 In that day there shall be an altar to Jehovah in the midst of the land of Egypt, and a pillar near its bound to Jehovah.

20 And it was for a sign and for a witness to Jehovah of armies in the land of Egypt, for they shall cry to Jehovah from the face of those pressing them, and he shall send to them him saving, and great, and he delivered them.

21 And Jehovah shall be known to Egypt, and the Egyptians shall know Jehovah in that day, and they made a sacrifice and gift, and they vowed a vow to Jehovah, and they completed.

22 And Jehovah smote Egypt, and he smote and healed: and they turned back even to Jehovah, and he was entreated by them, and he healed them.

23 In that day shall be a highway from Egypt to Assur, and Assur came into Egypt, and Egypt into Assur, and the Egyptians served with Assur.

24 In that day Israel shall be the third to Egypt and to Assur, and a blessing in the midst of the land:

25 Whom Jehovah of armies blest him, saying, Blessed my people of Egypt, and the work of my hand, Assur, and my inheritance Israel.

ISAIAH CHAPTER 20

1 In the year Tartan came to Ashdod, (in Sargon's sending him, king of Assur) and he will fight with Ashdod and take it:

2 In that time spake Jehovah by the hand of Isaiah, son of Amos, saying, Go loose the sackcloth from off thy loins, and thou shalt draw off the shoe from thy foot And he will do so, going naked and barefoot

3 And Jehovah will say, As my servant Isaiah went naked and barefoot three years, a sign and miracle upon Egypt and upon Cush:

4 Thus shall the king of Assur lead the captivity of Egypt, and the exile of Cush, boys and old men naked and barefoot, and buttocks uncovered, the nakedness of Egypt

5 And they were dismayed and ashamed of Cush their expectation, and of Egypt their glory.

6 And he inhabiting this island said in that day, Behold, thus our expectation, where we fled there for help to be delivered from the face of the king of Assur: and how shall we escape?

ISAIAH CHAPTER 21

1 The burden of the desert of the sea. As whirlwinds in the south for passing through, from the desert it came, from a fearful land.

2 A hard vision was announced to me: The spoiler spoiled, and he laying waste, laid waste. Go up, O Elam: press, O Media; all her sighing I caused to cease.

3 For this, my loins were filled with pain: distress took hold of me as the pains of her bringing forth: I was shaken from hearing; I trembled from seeing

4 My heart wandered; trembling made me afraid: the evening twilight of my desire he put to me for fear.

6 For thus said Jehovah to me, Go set up a watchman, he shall announce what he shall see.

7 He will see a chariot, a pair of horse men, the rider of an ass, the rider of a camel; and listening, he listened with much attention.

8 And he will call, A lion: on the watch-tower my lord, I stand continually in the day, and upon my watch I stand all the night

9 And behold, here came a chariot, a man, a pair of horsemen. And he will answer and say, She fell, Babel fell; and the carved images of her god he brake in pieces to the earth.

10 O my threshing, and the son of my threshing-floor, what I heard from Jehovah of armies the God of Israel, I announced to you.

11 The burden of Dumah. He called to me from Seir, Watch, what of the night? watch, what of the night?

12 The watch said, I will mark out morning, and also night; if ye will seek, seek ye: turn back, come.

13 The burden of Arabia. In the forest in Arabia shall ye lodge, ye wayfarers of Dedanim.

14 To meet the thirsty, bring ye water, O inhabitants of the land of Tema: anticipate ye him wandering, with bread.

15 For they fled from the face of the swords, the sword drawn out, and from the face of the bent bow, and from the face of the heaviness of war.

16 For thus said the Lord to me, Within yet a year; as the years of a hireling, and all the glory of Kedar was finished.

17 And the rest of the bows of the strong sons of Kedar shall be few: for Jehovah God of Israel spake.

ISAIAH CHAPTER 22

1 The burden of the valley of vision. What to thee now, that thou wentest up all of thee, to the roofs?

2 The city put in commotion was filled with noise, the exulting city: thy wounded not wounded of the sword, and not the dead of war.

3 All thy chiefs fled together, they were bound of the bow: all they finding thee were bound together; they fled from from far off.

4 For this I said, Look ye away from me; I will be bitter in my weeping, ye shall not hasten to comfort me upon the desolation of the daughter of my people.

5 For a day of consternation, and of treading down, and perplexity by the Lord Jehovah of armies of the valley of vision, of undermining the wall, and of a cry for help to the mountains.

6 And Elam lifted up the quiver with the chariot of men, horsemen; and Kir made naked the shield.

7 And it shall be the chosen of thy valleys was filled with chariots, and the horsemen placed a seat at the gate.

8 And he will uncover the covering of Judah, and thou wilt look in that day to the weapons of the house of the forest

9 The clefts of the city of David ye saw, that they were many: and ye shall gather the water of the lowest pool.

10 The houses of Jerusalem ye numbered, and ye will break down the houses to fortify the wall.

11 And ye made a gathering place between the two walls for the water of the old pool; and ye looked not to him making it, and ye saw not him forming it from far off.

12 And the Lord Jehovah of armies in that day will call to weeping and to wailing, and to baldness and to girding with sackcloth:

13 And behold, gladness and joy, killing cattle and slaughtering sheep, eating flesh, and drinking wine: eat and drink, for to-morrow we shall die.

14 And it was uncovered in the ears of Jehovah of armies, If this iniquity shall be expiated to you till ye shall die, said the Lord Jehovah of armies.

15 Thus said the Lord Jehovah of armies, Go, come in to this associate to Shebna who is over the house, 16 What to thee here, and who to thee here, that thou hewedst to thee here a tomb, he hewing from on high his tomb and cutting in a dwelling in a rock to himself?

17 Behold, Jehovah casting thee down, the casting down of a man, and covering, he covered thee.

18 Rolling, he will roll thee a roll as a ball into a land broad of hands: there shalt thou die, and there the chariots of thy glory the dishonor of thy lord's house.

19 And I thrust thee from thy station, and from thy standing place he will pull thee down.

20 And it was in that day I called for my servant, for Eliakim, son of Hilkiah:

21 And I will clothe him with thy tunic, and I will strengthen him with thy girdle, and I will give thy dominion into his hand, and he was for a father to the inhabitants of Jerusalem and to the house of Judah.

22 And I gave the key of the house of David upon his shoulder, and he opened and none shut, and he shut and none opened.

23 And I fastened him a peg in a faithful place; and he. was for a throne of glory to his father's house.

24 And they hung upon him all the glory of his father's house, the offspring and the sprouts, all the vessels of smallness, from the vessels of lavers and even to all the vessels of flasks.

25 In that day, says Jehovah of armies, shall the peg fastened in a faithful place give way, and it was cut down, and it fell; and the lifting up which was upon it was cut off: for Jehovah spake.

ISAIAH CHAPTER 23

1 The burden of Tyre. Wail, ye ships of Tarshish, for it was laid waste from a house from going in: from the land of Chittim it was uncovered to them.

2 Be ye silent, O inhabitants of the isle; the merchants of Zidon passing over the sea filled thee.

3 On many waters the seed of Sihor, the harvest of the river her produce; and she shall be the emporium of nations.

4 Be thou ashamed, O Zidon: for the sea said, the strength of the sea, saying, I was not pained, I brought not forth, and I caused not youths to grow, and I raised not up virgins.

5 As the hearing to Egypt; they shall be pained as the hearing of Tyre.

8 Who will counsel this against Tyre, encircled with a crown, whom her merchants, chiefs; her merchants the honored of the earth.

9 Jehovah of armies purposed it to profane the pride of all glory, to make light all the honored of the earth.

10 Pass through thy land as a river, thou daughter of Tarshish: no more girding.

11 He stretched forth his hand over the sea, he disquieted kingdoms: Jehovah commanded to Canaan to destroy her fortress.

12 And he will say, Thou shalt no more add to exalt, thou violated virgin, daughter of Zidon: arise, pass over to Chittim; also there it shall not be rest to thee.

13 Behold the land of the Chaldees; this people was not; Assur founded it for the inhabitants of the desert: they set up its watch-towers, they raised up its fortresses, he set it for ruins.

14 Wail, ye ships of Tarshish: your strength was laid waste.

15 And it was in that day, and Tyre was forgotten seventy years, according to the days of one king: from the end of seventy years it shall be to Tyre as the song of a harlot.

16 Take a harp, go about the city, O harlot having been forgotten; be cheerful, playing on the instrument; increase the song so that thou shalt be remembered.

17 And it was from the end of seventy years, Jehovah will review Tyre, and she turned back to her gift, and she committed fornication with all the kingdoms of the land upon the face of the earth.

18 And her traffic and her gift holy to Jehovah: it shall not be treasured up, and it shall not be laid up; for to those dwelling before Jehovah her traffic shall be for eating to be satisfied, and for a splendid covering.

ISAIAH CHAPTER 24

1 Behold, Jehovah emptying the earth and making it waste, and subverting its face, and scattering its inhabitants.

2 And it was as the people, so the priest; as the servant, so his lord; as the maid, so the mistress; as the buyer, so he selling; as he lending, so the borrower; as be lending on interest, so he exacting interest to him.

3 Being emptied, the land shall be emptied: and being plundered, it shall be plundered: for Jehovah spake this word.

4 The earth mourning, fell away: the habitable globe languishing, fell away: the heights of the people of the land languished,

5 And the earth was polluted under its inhabitants, for they passed by the instructions, they changed the law, they broke the eternal covenant

6 For this, the curse consumed the earth, and they dwelling in it, will transgress: for this, they dwelling upon the earth were burned, and those remaining, men of fewness.

7 The new wine mourned, the vine languished, all they joyful of heart, sighed

9 They shall not drink wine with a song; strong drink shall be bitter to those drinking it

10 The city of desolation was broken down: every house was shut up from coining in.

11 An outcry for wine in the streets; all joy grew dark, the exulting of the earth was carried into exile.

13 For thus it shall be in the midst of the land in the midst of the peoples, as the beating of the olive, as the gleanings if the vintage was finished.

14 They shall lift up their voice, they shall shout for joy in the majesty of Jehovah they cried aloud from the sea.

15 For this, with lights they honored Jehovah in the isles of the sea, the name of Jehovah the God of Israel.

16 From the wing of the earth we heard songs, glory to the just one. And saying, Destruction to me, destruction to me, wo to me! they acting deceitfully, acted deceitfully; and spoiling, they acting deceitfully, acted deceitfully.

17 Fear, and the pit, and the snare, upon thee, thou inhabiters of the earth.

18 And it was he fleeing from the voice of the fear shall fall into the pit; and he coming up out of the midst of the pit, shall be taken in the snare: for the windows from the height were opened, and the foundations of the earth, will tremble.

19 And being broken, the earth was broken to pieces, and the earth being abolished, it was abolished; the earth being shaken, shook.

20 The earth moving to and fro, shall move to and fro as the intoxicated, and it was removed as a lodge; and its transgression was heavy upon it and it fell, and it shall not add to rise.

21 And it was in that day Jehovah shall review upon the army of the height upon the height, and upon the kings of the earth upon the earth.

22 And they gathered a collection of the bound into the dungeon. and they were shut up into a shutting up, and after many days they shall be reviewed.

23 And the moon blushed, and the sun was ashamed, for Jehovah of armies reigned in mount Zion, and in Jerusalem, and was honored before his old men.

ISAIAH CHAPTER 25

1 O Jehovah, thou my God; I will exalt thee, I will praise thy name, for thou didst a wonder; counsels from far off, stability, faithfulness.

2 For thou didst set from a city to a heap, a fortified city to ruins: a palace of strangers from a city; it shall not be built forever.

3 For this shall the strong people honor thee, the city of terrible nations shall fear thee.

4 For thou wert a fortress to the poor, a fortress to the needy in straits; to him a refuge from the inundation, a shadow from the heat when the wind of the terrible ones as the inundation of the wall.

5 As the heat in Zion the noise of strangers thou shalt bring down; the heat with the shadow of a cloud: the song of the terrible shall be humbled.

6 Jehovah of armies will make to all peoples in this mountain a drinking of fatness, a drinking of lees of wine, fatness of marrows, strained lees of wine.

7 And he will swallow up in this mountain the face of the covering covered over all peoples, and the veil covered over all nations.

8 He swallowed up death for glory, the Lord Jehovah will wipe away tears from off all faces; and the reproach of his people he will remove from off all the earth, for Jehovah spake.

9 And it was said in that day, Behold, this our God, we hoped for him, and he will save us: this Jehovah, we hoped for him, we will rejoice and be glad in his salvation.

10 For the hand of Jehovah shall rest in this mountain, and Moab was thrust down under him as straw was thrust down in the water of the dunghill.

11 And he spread forth his hands in their midst, as he swimming will spread forth to swim: and he humbled their pride with the ambuscades of their hands.

12 And the fortress of the height of thy walls shall be brought low; be humbled, be struck to the earth, even to the dust.

ISAIAH CHAPTER 26

1 In that day this song shall be sung in the land of Judah: A strong city to us; he will set salvation the wall and the fortification.

3 The mind placed upon thee thou wilt form peace, peace, because he trusted in thee.

4 Trust ye in Jehovah even to eternity, for in Jah Jehovah is the rock of ages.

5 For he bows down those dwelling in height; for the city set up on high he will bring it down; he will bring it down even to the earth; he will cause it to touch even to the dust

6 The foot shall tread it down, the feet of the humble, the steps of the poor.

7 The way to the just one is straightness: being upright, thou wilt prepare the departing of the just one.

8 Also the way of thy judgments, O Jehovah, we hoped for thee; to thy name and to thy remembrance is the desire of the soul.

9 My soul desired thee in the night; also my spirit in the midst of me I will seek thee: for when thy judgments to the earth, those dwelling in the habitable globe will learn justice.

10 Shall the unjust be shown favor? He learnt not justice; in the land of justice he will act perversely, and he will not see the majesty of Jehovah.

11 O Jehovah, high thy hand, they will not see: they shall see and be ashamed for their jealousy of the people; also the fire of thine enemies shall consume them.

12 O Jehovah, thou wilt judge peace for us: for also all our works thou didst for us.

13 O Jehovah our God, lords besides thee had dominion over us; but in thee alone will we make mention of thy name.

14 The dead shall not live; shades shall not rise; for this, thou reviewedst and thou wilt destroy them, and all remembrance to them shall perish.

15 Thou didst add to the nation, O Jehovah, thou didst add to the nation thou wert honored: thou didst put far; away all the ends of the earth.

16 O Jehovah, in straits they looked after thee; they poured out a whispering thy correction to them.

17 As she conceiving will draw near to bring forth, she will be pained and cry out in her pangs, thus were we from before thee, O Jehovah.

18 We conceived, we were pained, thus we brought forth wind; we shall not make the earth salvation, the inhabitants of the habitable globe shall not fall.

19 Thy dead shall live, with my corpse shall they rise. Awake and shout, ye dwelling in dust: for the dew of brightness is thy dew, and the land of the shades shall fall.

20 Go, my people, enter into thy apartments and shut thy doors about thee: hide thee as a little moment till the wrath shall pass by.

21 For behold, Jehovah will come forth out of his place to review the iniquity of him dwelling in the earth upon him; and the earth uncovered her bloods, and she will no more cover over her slain.

ISAIAH CHAPTER 27

1 In that day Jehovah will review with his hard and great and strong sword upon leviathan the serpent fleeing, and upon leviathan the winding serpent; and he killed the dragon which was in the sea.

2 In that day, A vineyard being red, sing to her.

3 I Jehovah watched her; for the moments I will water her; lest he will review upon her, night and day I will watch her.

4 Wrath not to me: who shall distribute to me the sharp point of the thorn in battle? I will rush upon her; I will set her on fire together.

5 Or he shall lay hold upon my strength, he shall make peace to me, he shall make peace to me.

6 Those coming of Jacob shall he cause to take root: Israel shall blossom and be fruitful, and they filled the face of the habitable globe with produce.

7 According to the blow of him striking him, he struck him; or according to the killing of those killing him, he killed.

9 Therefore by this the iniquity of Jacob shall be expiated; and this all the fruit to remove his sin; in his setting all the stones of the altar as stones of lime broken in pieces, the statues and images shall not stand up.

10 For the fortified city was separated, the habitation being cast out and forsaken as the desert: there shall the Isaiah calf feed, and there he shall lie down, and there he finished its branches.

11 In its harvest being dried up, women shall break it off in coming, illuminating it: for it is a people not understanding: for this he making them will not compassionate them, and he forming them will not have mercy upon them.

12 And it was in that day Jehovah will beat off from the stream of the river even to the torrent of Egypt, and ye shall be gathered together by one, one, ye sons of Israel.

13 And it was in that day he shall strike upon the great trumpet, and they perishing came into the land of Assui, and the outcasts into the land of Egypt, and they worshiped to Jehovah in the holy mountain in Jerusalem.

ISAIAH CHAPTER 28

1 O to the crown of pride, wo to the hirelings of Ephraim! a flower falling away is the glory of his beauty which is upon the head of the valley of fatness of those smitten with wine.

2 Behold, a strong and active one to Jehovah, as a storm of hail, a destroying tempest, as a storm of vast waters overflowing, let fall to the earth with the hand.

3 With the feet shall the crown of pride, the hirelings of Ephraim, be trodden down.

4 And the flower falling away was the glory of his beauty which is upon the head of the valley of fatness, as the first-fruits before fruit harvest which he looking at it shall see, in its continuing in his hand he will swallow it up.

5 In that day shall Jehovah of armies be for a crown of glory, and for a diadem of beauty, to the remnant of his people.

6 And for a spirit of judgment to him sitting upon the judgment, and for strength of them turning back the battle of the storm.

7 And these also went astray by wine, and by strong drink they erred; the priest and the prophet went astray by strong drink, they were swallowed up from wine, they erred from strong drink, they went astray in seeing, they wavered in judgment.

8 For all tables were full of vomit, of filth without place.

9 Whom shall he teach knowledge? whom shall he cause to understand hearing? those weaned from milk and those taken away from the breasts.

10 For precept to precept, precept to precept; line to line, line to line; a little there, a little there:

11 For with the stammerings of the lip and with another tongue he will speak to this people.

12 To whom he said to them, This the rest they caused to the weary to rest; and this the quiet: and they would not hear.

13 And the word of Jehovah was to them, precept to precept, precept to precept; line to line, line to line; a little there, a little there, so that they shall go and they stumbled backward, and were broken and snared and taken.

14 For this, hear ye the word of Jehovah, ye men of scorn, ruling this people which is in Jerusalem.

15 Because ye said, We cut out a covenant with death, and with hades we did this; when this overflowing scourge passed through it shall not come to us, for we set falsehood our refuge, and in ahewe hid ourselves.,

16 For this, thus said the Lord. Jehovah, Behold me placing for a foundation in Zion a stone, a stone of trial, a corner precious, a foundation being founded: and he believing shall not hasten.

17 And I set judgment to the line and justice to the weight: and the hail shall sweep away the refuge of falsehood, and the waters shall overflow the covering.

18 And your covenant with death was obliterated, and your league with hades shall not stand; when the overflowing scourge shall pass through and ye. were for a treading down to it

19 When passing through it shall take you: for by morning by morning it shall pass through in the day and in the night: and it was only an agitation to;understand the hearing.

21 For as mount Perazim shall Jehovah rise up, as the valley in Gibeon shall he be moved to do his work, his strange work, and to work his service, his unknown service.

22 And now ye shall not be mocker's lest your bonds shall be strong: for I heard a completion and decision from the Lord. Jehovah of armies upon all the earth.

23 Give ear and hear my voice; tend and hear my saying.

24 Shall he ploughing, plough all the day to sow? shall he open and level his earth?

25 Did he not make level its face and disperse the fennel flower, and he will scatter the cummin, and he set the wheat in order, and designated the barley, and the spilt in his bound?

26 He will instruct him, according to judgment his God will teaeh

27 For the fennel flower shall not be beaten with the threshing sledge, and the wheel of a wagon shall not be turned about upon the cummin; for the fennel flower shall be beaten out with the rod and the cummin with the rod.

28 Bread shall be beaten small; for threshing, he will not forever thresh it; and the wheel of his wagon he put in motion and his horsemen shall not beat it small.

29 Also this shall come forth from Jehovah of armies, he being wonderful of counsel and great of understanding.

ISAIAH CHAPTER 29

1 Wo to Ariel, Ariel, the city David encamped in! add ye year upon year; the festivals shall run their circle.

2 And I pressed upon Ariel, and there was sorrow and sighing, and it was to me as Ariel.

3 And I encamped as a circle upon thee, and I pressed upon thee with a garrison, and I raised intrenchments against thee.

4 And thou being brought down, thou shalt speak from the earth, and thy word shall be depressed out of the dust, and thy voice as a necromancer from the earth, and thy saying Shall peep from the dust

5 And the multitude of thy strangers was as the thin dust, and Its the chaff passing away, the multitude of the terrible ones: and it was at a moment suddenly.

6 From Jehovah of armies shalt thou be reviewed, with thunder and with shaking, and a great voice, whirlwind and storm, and the flames of consuming fire.

7 And it was as a dream of a vision of the night, the multitude of all the nations warring against Ariel and all warring against her and her fastnesses, and those pressing upon her.

8 And it was as when the hungry shall dream, and behold, he ate; and he awoke and his soul was empty: and as when the thirsty shall dream, and behold, he drank, and he awoke, and behold, he fainted, and his soul desired: thus shall be the multitude of all the nations warring against mount Zion.

9 Linger ye, and wonder; delight yourselves, and be ye blinded; they were drunken and not with wine; they reeled and not with strong drink.

10 For Jehovah poured out upon you the spirit of deep sleep, and he will close your eyes: the prophets and your heads, the seeing he covered.

11 And the vision of all will be to you as the words of the book being sealed, which they shall give to him, to him knowing writing, saying, Read now, this: and he said, I shall not be able, for it was sealed.

12 And the book was given to him not knowing writing, saying, Read now, this: and he said, I know not writing.

13 And Jehovah will say, Because that this people drew near with their month, and honored me with their lips, and their heart was far from me, and their fear towards me shall be taught from the command of men.

14 For this, behold me adding to be wonderful with this people, dealing wonderfully and being a wonder: and the wisdom of their wise perished, and the understanding of their understanding ones shall be hid.

15 Wo to those making deep to hide counsel from Jehovah, and their work was in darkness, and they will say, Who saw us? and who knew us?

16 Shall not your perverting be reckoned as the potter's clay? for shall the work say to him making it, He made me not? andhebeing formed, say to him forming, He understood not?

17 Is it not yet a very little and Lebanon turned back to Carmel, and Carmel shall be reckoned for a forest?

18 In that day the deaf heard the words of the book, and the eyes of the blind shall see out of thick darkness, and darkness.

19 And the humble shall add joy in Jehovah, and the poor of men shall rejoice in the Holy One of Israel.

20 For the terrible one ceased, the mocker was consumed, and they watching vanity were cut off:

21 Leading a man into sin by a word, and laying snares for him doing justice in the gate, and they will turn aside the just one by vanity.

22 For this, thus said Jehovah, to the house of Jacob, who redeemed Abraham, Jacob shall not now be ashamed and his face shall not now become pale.

23 For in his seeing his children, the work of my hand, in his midst, they shall consecrate my name, and consecrate the Holy One of Jacob, and they shall fear the God of Israel.

24 And they going astray shall know understanding, and they murmuring shall learn knowledge.

ISAIAH CHAPTER 30

1 Wo to sons turning aside, says Jehovah, to make counsel and not from me; and to cover a covering, and not my spirit so as to add sin upon sin:

2 Going to come down to Egypt, and my mouth they asked not; to be strengthened by the strength of Pharaoh, and to trust in the shadow of Egypt

3 And the strength of Pharaoh was to you for shame, and the refuge in the shadow of Egypt for reproach.

4 For his chiefs were in Zoan, and his messengers will reach to Hanes.

5 All acted wickedly for a people who will not profit them, not for help and not for profiting, but for shame and also for a reproach.

6 The burden of quadrupeds of the south: into the land of straits and distress, the lioness and the lion from them, the viper and the burning flying they will lift up upon the shoulder of young asses, their riches, and upon the humps of camels their treasures, for a people who shall not profit

7 And the Egyptians shall help in vain, and to no purpose; therefore I called to this their violence ceased.

8 Now go, write it to them upon a tablet, and engrave it upon a book, and it shall be for the latter day, forever even forever.

9 For this is a people of contradiction, sons of lies, sons who will not to hear the law of Jehovah.

10 Who said to the seeing, Ye shall not see, and to the perceiving, Ye shall not perceive for us right things, speak to us smooth things, perceive delusions.

11 Remove from the way, turn aside from the path, cause to cease from before us the Holy One of Israel.

12 Therefore thus said the Holy One of Israel, Because ye rejected in this word, and ye will trust in violence and perverseness, and ye will do upon it

13 For this, this iniquity shall be to you as a breach falling, gushing out in a high wall, of which the breaking will come suddenly at a moment

14 And he broke it as the breaking of a vessel of the potter's being crushed; he will not spare: and there shall not be found in its crushing a sherd to take fire from the burning, and to skim off water from the reservoir.

15 For thus said Jehovah, the Holy One of Israel, In turning back and in rest shall ye be saved; in quiet and in trust shall be your strength, and ye would not.

16 And ye will say, No; for upon horses we will flee: for this ye shall flee: and upon the swift will we ride; for this they pursuing you shall be swift.

17 One thousand from before the rebuke of one; from before the rebuke of five shall ye flee: till ye were left as a mast upon the head of the mountain, and as a signal upon the hill.

18 And for this Jehovah will wait to compassionate you, and for this he will be lifted up to pity you, for Jehovah is a God of judgment: happy all they waiting for him.

19 For the people shall dwell in Zion in Jerusalem: weeping, thou shalt not weep: pitying, he will pity thee at the voice. of thy cry; for in his hearing, he answered thee.

20 And Jehovah gave to you the bread of straits and the waters of oppression, and he will no more cover those teaching thee, and thine eyes shall be seeing those teaching thee:

22 And defile ye the thin covering of the carved images of thy silver, and the overlaying of the molten things of thy gold: thou shalt scatter them as a menstruous cloth, thou shalt say to it, Go forth.

23 And he gave the rain of thy seed which thou shalt sow the earth and bread of the increase of the earth: and it was fat and fertile, thy cattle shall feed in that day in a large meadow.

24 And the oxen and the young asses working the land shall eat salted provender which was winnowed with the fan and by the winnower.

25 And there was upon every mountain being lofty and every hill lifted up, brooks and streams of water in the day of much slaughter, in the falling of the towers.

26 And the light of the moon was as the light of the sun, and the light of the sun, shall be seven fold, as the light of seven days, in the day Jehovah bound up the breaking of his people, and he will heal the wound of his smiting.

27 Behold, the name of Jehovah coming from far off, burning his wrath, and its lifting up heavy: his lips they were full of anger, and his tongue as consuming fire:

28 And his spirit as the torrent overflowing, shall divide even to the neck, to shake the nations in the sieve of ruin: and a curb upon the cheeks of the people, causing to err.

29 The song shall be to you as by night, consecrating a festival and gladness of heart, as he going with a pipe to come into the mountain of Jehovah to the rock of Israel.

30 And Jehovah caused the swelling of his voice to be heard, and he will cause the letting down of his arm to be seen in the anger of his wrath, and the flame of a consuming fire, violent rain and tempest, and the stone of hail,

31 For from the voice of Jehovah shall Assur be broken down, he will smite with a rod.

32 And it was every one passing by the rod of foundation which Jehovah shall cause to rest upon him, with drums and with harps: and in battles of moving to and fro shall he war with with it.

33 For tophet was set in order from yesterday; also it was prepared; for the king, he made deep, he made broad, its pile fire and much wood; the breath of Jehovah as a torrent of pitch burned upon it

ISAIAH CHAPTER 31

1 Wo to those going down to Egypt for help; and they will look upon horses, and trust upon chariots, because they are many; and upon horsemen because they were strong greatly; and they looked not upon the Holy One of Israel, and sought not Jehovah.

2 And he also being wise and he will bring evil, and he removed not his words: and he rose up against the house of those doing evil, and against the help of those working vanity.

3 And the Egyptians, men and not God; and their horses, flesh and not spirit And Jehovah will stretch forth his hand, and he helping became weak, and he being helped, fell, and together shall they all be finished.

4 For thus spake Jehovah to me, As the lion shall growl, and the young lion over his prey, when a fulness of shepherds shall be called against him, from their voice shall he not be terrified, and shall not he be humbled from their noise: thus shalt Jehovah of armies come down to war from mount Zion and for its hill.

5 Its birds flying, so will Jehovah of armies cover over Jerusalem, covering and he delivered; and passing over he saved.

6 Turn ye back to him against whom the sons of Israel made a deep turning away.

7 For in that day they shall reject a man the vanities of his silver, and the vanities of his gold which your hands made for you to sin.

8 And Assur fell by the sword, not of a man, and the sword not of a man, shall consume him, and he fled for himself from the face of the sword, and his young men shall be for tribute.

9 And his rock shall pass through from fear, and his chiefs were terrified from the signal, says Jehovah whose light to him in Zion, and furnace to him in Jerusalem.

ISAIAH CHAPTER 32

1 Behold, a king shall reign for justice, and for chiefs they shall rule for judgment

2 And a man was as a hiding of the spirit, and a covering of the tempest; as brooks of water in Zion, as the shadow of a weighty rock in a weary land.

3 And the eyes of those seeing shall not be blinded, and the ears of those hearing shall attend.

4 And the heart of the hasty shall understand to know, and the tongue of those stammering shall hasten to speak plain.

5 Liberal shall no more be called to the foolish, and noble shall not be said to the deceiver.

6 For the foolish will speak folly, and his heart will do vanity to do profaneness and to speak error to Jehovah, to empty the soul of the hungry; and he will cause the drink of the thirsty to fail.

7 And the implements of the deceiver are evil: he will meditate counsels to destroy the humble with words of falsehood, and in the needy's speaking judgments.

8 And the liberal will counsel liberal things, and upon liberal things shall he stand.

9 Rise up, ye careless women; hear my voice, ye confident daughters; give ear to my word.

10 Days over a year shall ye being confident, be disturbed; for the vintage being finished, the ingathering shall not come.

11 Tremble, ye careless be disturbed, ye, confident: strip and be naked, gird upon the loins.

13 Upon the land of my people shall come up the thorn of the sharp point; so upon the houses of rejoicing of the exulting city.

14 For the fortress was left, the multitude of the city was forsaken; the hill and the watch-tower for caves even forever; the rejoicing of the wild asses a pasture of the flocks;

15 Until the spirit shall be poured upon us from on high, and the desert be for Carmel, and Carmel be reckoned for a forest.

17 And the work of justice was peace, and the service of justice, rest and confidence, even to forever.

18 And my people shall sit in a dwelling of peace, and in habitations of trust and in quiet resting places.

19 And the hail hailing upon the forest; and the city shall be made low in lowness.

20 Happy ye sowing upon all waters, sending the foot of the ox and the ass.

ISAIAH CHAPTER 33

1 Wo to thee oppressing, and thou not oppressed; and spoiling, and they spoiled not upon thee! when thou finishing to oppress, thou shalt be oppressed; when thou ceasing to spoil, they shall spoil upon thee.

2 O Jehovah, pity us: we hoped for thee: be thou their arm for the mornings, also our salvation in time of straits.

4 And your spoil was gathered the gathering of the locust: as the running about of locusts he ran to and fro upon it

5 Jehovah was exalted; for he dwells On high: he filled Zion with judgment and justice.

6 And the stability of thy times, the strength of salvation, was wisdom and knowledge: the fear of Jehovah this his treasure.

7 Behold the lions of God they cried out without: the messengers of peace shall weep bitterness.

8 The highways lay waste, the traveler passing by, ceased: he brake the covenant, he despised the cities, he reckoned them not men.

9 The earth mourning, languished: Lebanon being ashamed, pined away: Sharon was as a sterile region, and Bashan was shaken, and Carmel.

10 Now will I rise, Jehovah will say; now will I be exalted; now will I be lifted up.

11 Ye shall conceive dry grass, ye shall bring forth straw: your spirit of fire shall consume you.

12 And peoples were the burnings of lime; thorns cut down, in fire shall they be burnt

13 Hear, ye afar off, what I did and know, ye drawing near, my strength.

14 The sinners in Zion trembled; trembling seized the profane. Who to us shall sojourn with devouring fire? who to us with everlasting burning?

15 He going in justice and speaking uprightness, rejecting in the plunder of oppression; shaking his hands from holding upon a gift, shutting his ear from the hearing of bloods, and binding up his eyes from looking upon evil;

18 Thy heart shall meditate terror. Where the scribe? where the weigher? where he writing the towers?

19 Thou shalt not see a firm people, a people of a deep lip above,hearing; of a stammering tongue, of no understanding.

20 Behold Zion the city of our appointment: thine eyes shall see Jerusalem a quiet dwelling, the tent shall not remove; its pegs shall not be pulled up forever, and none of its cords shall be broken.

21 But there the mighty Jehovah to us a place of rivers, rivers broad of hands; a ship with the oar shall not go in it, and a mighty ship shall not pass over it.

22 For Jehovah is our Judge, Jehovah our law-giver, Jehovah our king; he will save us.

23 Thy cords were broken in pieces; they will not well strengthen their mast; they spread not the flag: then was the prey of a great spoil divided; the lame plundered the plunder.

24 And the inhabitant shall not say, I was sick: to the people dwelling in it, iniquity was lifted up.

ISAIAH CHAPTER 34

1 Draw near, ye nations, to hear; and ye people, attend: the earth shall hear, and its fulness; the habitable globe, and all its offspring.

2 For the wrath of Jehovah is upon all nations, And anger upon all their army: he devoted them to destruction, he gave them to slaughter.

3 And their wounded shall be cast out, and their carcasses the stench shall go up, and the mountains flowed down from their blood.

4 And all the army of the heavens melted, and the heavens shall roll together as a book, and all their army shall fall away as the leaf falling from the vine, and as a falling from the fig tree.

5 For my sword was drunk in the heavens: behold, it shall come down upon Edom, and upon the people of destruction for judgment

6 The sword of Jehovah was filled with blood, it was made fat from the fat of the blood of lambs and he goats, from the fat of kidneys of rams: for a sacrifice to Jehovah in Bozrah, and a great slaughter in the land of Edom.

7 And the buffaloes shall come down with them, and the bullocks with the strong ones; and their land was drunk from blood, and from fat shall their dust be made fat

9 And its torrents turned to pitch, and its dust to sulphur, and its land to burning pitch.

10 Night and day it shall not be quenched; its smoke shall go up forever: from generation to generation it shall be laid waste; none passing through it forever to forever.

11 And the pelican and the hedgehog shall possess it; the ibis and the raven shall dwell in it: and he stretched out upon it the line of desolation and the stones of emptiness.

12 Its nobles shall be called to the kingdom, and none there, and all its chiefs shall be no more.

13 And thorns came up in her palaces, the nettle and the thorn bush in her fortifications, and it was a dwelling of jackals, an enclosure for the daughters of the ostrich.

14 And animals of the desert lighted upon the howlers, and the he goat shall call to his neighbor; also there the night spectre rested, and found for herself a resting place.

15 There the arrow-snake nested, and she will lay eggs and hatch, and brood in her shadow: also there the falcons were collected, the female with her companion.

16 Seek ye from the book of Jehovah, and read: One of these was not wanting; a female her companion they missed not: for my mouth it commanded, and his spirit it collected them.

17 And be cast the lot for them, and his hand divided it to them by line; they shall possess it even forever, to generation and generation they shall dwell in it

ISAIAH CHAPTER 35

1 The desert and the dryness shall be glad for them; and the sterile region shall rejoice and blossom as the meadow flower.

2 Blossoming, it shall blossom and rejoice, also with joy and shouting: the glory of Lebanon was given to it, the majesty of Carmel and Sharon they shall see the glory of Jehovah, the majesty of our God.

3 Strengthen the relaxed hands and make firm the feeble knees.

4 Say to those hasty of heart, Be strong ye shall not fear; behold, your God will come with vengeance, the recompense of God; he will come and save you.

5 Then shall the eyes of the blind be opened, and the ears of the deaf shall be opened.

6 Then shall the lame one leap as the stag, and the tongue of the dumb shall give forth the voice: for waters brake forth in the desert, and torrents in the sterile region.

7 And the dry was for a pool, and the thirsty land for fountains of water: in the dwelling of jackals its lying down, an enclosure for the reed and the bulrush

8 And a highway was there, and a way, and it shall be called to it, A way of holiness; the unclean one shall not pass through it; and it is for them; he going the way, and the foolish shall not err.

9 The lion shall not be there, and the rapacious beast shall not go up upon it, it shall not be found there; and the redeemed went

10 And the ransomed of Jehovah shall turn back and come to Zion with a shout of joy and eternal joy upon their heads: and they shall attain joy and gladness, and sorrow and sighing shall flee away.

ISAIAH CHAPTER 36

1 And it will be in the fourteenth year to king Hezekiah, Senherib kind of Assur came up against all the fortified cities of Judah, and he will seize them.

2 And the king of Assur will send Rabshakeh from Lachish to Jerusalem to king Hezekiah with a weighty army. And he will stand by the channel of the higher pool in the highway of the fuller's field.

3 And Eliakim, son of Hilkiah, will come forth, who was over the house, and Shebna the scribe, and Joah Asaph's son, remembering.

4 And Rabshakeh will say to them, Say now to Hezekiah, Thus said the king, the great king of Assur, What this trust in which thou trustedst?

5 I said, (also a word of the lips) Counsel and strength for the war; now upon whom trustedst thou that thou didst rebel against me?

6 Behold, thou trustedst upon the staff of this broken reed, upon Egypt; which, shall a man rest upon it, it was into his hand and pierced it: thus Pharaoh king of Egypt to all trusting upon him.

7 And if thou shalt say to me, We trusted to Jehovah our God: is it not he whom Hezekiah turned away his heights, and his altars, and he will say to Judah and to Jerusalem, Before this altar shall ye worship?

8 And now, become surety now, to my lord the king of Assur, and I will give to thee two thousand horses if thou shalt be able to give to thee riders upon them.

9 And how wilt thou turn back the face of one prefect of the servants of my lord, the smallest of them, aid trust for thee upon Egypt for chariot and for horsemen I

10 And now came I up without Jehovah against this land to destroy it? Jehovah said to me, Go up against this land and destroy it

11 And Eliakim will say, and Shebna, and Joah, to Rabshakeh, Speak now to thy servants Aramean, for we hear; and thou shalt not speak to us Judaic in the ears of the people who are upon the wall

12 And Rabshakeh will say, Did my lord send me to thy lord and to thee to speak these words? did he not to the men sitting upon the wall to eat their excrements and to drink their urine with you?

13 And Rabshakeh will stand and call with a great voice in Judaic, and say, Hear ye the words of the king, the great king of Assur.

14 Thus said the king, Hezekiah shall not lift up to you, for he will not be able to deliver you.

15 And Hezekiah shall not cause you to trust to Jehovah, saying, Delivering, Jehovah will deliver us: this city shall not be given into the hand of the king of Assur.

16 Ye shall not hear to Hezekiah; for thus said the king of Assur, Make to me a blessing, and come forth to me: and eat a man of his vine and a man of his fig tree, and drink ye a man water of his cistern;

17 Till my coming and I took you to a land as your land, a land of grain and new wine, a land of bread and vineyards.

18 Lest Hezekiah shall stimulate you, saying, Jehovah will deliver us. Did each of the gods of the nations deliver his land from the hand of the king of Assur?

19 Where the gods of Hamath and Arpad? where the gods of Sepharvaim? and when have they delivered Shomeron from my hand?

20 Who among all the gods of these lands who delivered their land from my hand, that Jehovah will deliver Jerusalem from my hand?

21 And they will be silent and not answer him a word: for this the command of the king, saying, Ye shall not answer.

22 And Eliakim son of Hilkiah who was over the house, will go in, and Shebna the scribe, and Joah son of Asaph, remembering, to Hezekiah, their garments rent, and they will announce to him the words of Rabshakeh.

ISAIAH CHAPTER 37

1 And it will be when king Hezekiah heard, and he will rend his garments, and he will be covered with sackcloth and go in to the house of Jehovah.

2 And he will send Eliakim who was over the house, and Shebna the scribe, and the old men of the priests covered with sackcloth, to Isaiah, son of Amos, the prophet

3 And they will say to him, Thus said Hezekiah, A day of straits and chastisement and reproach, this day; for the sons came even to the breaking forth and not strength to bring forth.

4 Perhaps Jehovah thy God will hear the words of Rabshakeh whom his lord the king of Assur sent him to reproach the living God, and judge upon the words which Jehovah thy God heard; and lift thou up a prayer for the remnant being found.

5 And the servants of king Hezekiah will come to Isaiah.

6 And Isaiah will say to them, Thus shall ye say to your lord, Thus said Jehovah, Thou shalt not fear from the face of the words which thou heardest which the boys of the king of Assur reviled me.

7 Behold me giving a spirit into him and he heard a report, and he turned back to his land; and I caused him to fall by the sword in his land.

8 And Rabshakeh will turn back and find the king of Assur warring against Libnah: for he heard that he removed from Lachish.

9 And he heard concerning Tirhakah, king of Cush, saying, He came forth to war with thee. And he will hear, and send messengers to Hezekiah, saying,

10 Thus shall ye say to Hezekiah king of Judah, saying, Thy God in whom thou trustest shall not lift thee up in him, saying, Jerusalem shall not be given into the hand of the king of Assur.

11 Behold, thou heardest what the kings of Assur did to all the lands to destroy them; and shalt thou be delivered?

12 Did the gods of the nations deliver them which my fathers destroyed, Gozan and Haran and Rezeph and the sons of Eden which were in Thelassar?

13 Where the king of Hamath, and the king of Arpad, and the king to the city of Sepharvaim, Hena and Ivah?

14 And Hezekiah will take the letter from the hand of the messengers and read it: and he will go up to the house of Jehovah, and Hezekiah will spread it before Jehovah.

15 And Hezekiah will pray to Jehovah, saying,

16 Jehovah of armies, God of Israel, dwelling in the cherubim, thou thy-self God alone to all the kingdoms of the earth; thou hast made the heavens,and the earth.

17 Bend, O Jehovah, thine ear, and hear; open, O Jehovah, thine eye, and see; and hear all the words of Senherib which he sent to reproach the living God.

18 Indeed, O Jehovah, the kings of Assur laid waste all the lands, and their land;

19 And he gave their gods into fire; for they were not God but the work of man's hands, wood and stone: and they will destroy them.

20 And now, Jehovah our God, save us from his hand, and all the kingdoms of the earth shall know that thou alone art Jehovah.

21 And Isaiah son of Amos will send to Hezekiah, saying, Thus said Jehovah God of Israel, Because thou didst pray to me against Senherib the king of Assur

22 This the word that Jehovah spake concerning him: The virgin daughter of Zion despising to thee, deriding to thee; the daughter of Jerusalem shook her head after thee.

23 Whom didst thou reproach and revile, and against whom didst thou raise up the voice, and wilt thou lift up thine eyes on high to the Holy One of Israel?

24 By the hand of thy servants thou didst reproach Jehovah, and wilt thou say, By the multitude of my chariots I came up to the height of the mountains, to the thighs of Lebanon; and I will cut down the stature of his cedars, the choicest of his cypresses: and I will go into the height of his extremity, the forest of his Carmel.

25 I dug and drank water; and I will dry up with the sole of my footstep all the rivers of Egypt,

26 Didst thou not hear to remoteness I did it? from days of old and I formed it? now did I bring it and thou shalt be to lay waste fortified cities into straits.

27 And their inhabitants short of hand; they were dismayed and ashamed; they were the greet herb of the field and the verdure, and the tender grass of the enclosure of the roofs, and a blasting before it rose up.

28 And thy dwelling, and thy going out, and thy coming in, I knew; and thine anger against me.

29 Because thine anger against me and thine arrogance came up into mine ear, and I put my hook in thy nose and my curb in thy lips, and I turned thee back in the way which thou camest in it

30 And this the sign to thee: To eat this year the self-sown; and in the second year, that growing of itself: and in the third year, sow and reap, and plant vineyards and eat the fruits.

32 For from Jerusalem shall come forth a remnant, and the escaping from mount Zion: the zeal of Jehovah of armies shall do this.

33 For this, thus said Jehovah concerning the king of Assur, Thou shalt not come into this city, and thou shalt not shoot an arrow there, and thou shalt not go before it with a shield, and thou shalt not cast a mound against it.

34 In the way which he came in it he shall turn back, and to this city he shall not come in, says Jehovah.

35 And I covered over this city to Save it for my sake, and for the sake of David my servant.

36 And the messenger of Jehovah will go forth, and strike in the camp of Assur a hundred and eighty-five thousand: and they will rise early in the morning, and behold, all of them dead corpses.

37 And Senherib king of Assur will remove and go and turn back and dwell in Nineveh.

38 And it will be he worshiping in the house of Nisroch his god, and Adrammelech and Sharezer, his sons, struck him with the sword; and they escaped to the land of Ararat; and Esar-Haddon his son will reign in his stead.

ISAIAH CHAPTER 38

1 In those days Hezekiah was sick to death. And Isaiah son of Amos, the prophet, will come in to him, and say to him, Thus said Jehovah, Command to thy house, for thou diest, and shalt not live.

2 And Hezekiah will turn his face to the wall and pray to Jehovah.

3 And he will say, O Jehovah, remember now how I went before thee in truth and with a perfect heart, and I did the good in thine eyes: And Hezekiah will weep a great weeping.

4 And the word of Jehovah will be to Isaiah, saying,

5 Go and say to Hezekiah, Thus said Jehovah, the God of David thy father, I heard thy prayer; and I saw thy tears: behold, I will add to thy days fifteen years.

6 And I will deliver thee and this city from the hand of the king of Assur: and I covered over this city.

7 And this to thee the sign from Jehovah that Jehovah will do this word which he spake:

8 Behold me turning back the shadow of the steps which will go down in the steps of Ahaz in the sun, backward ten steps. And the sun will turn back ten steps in the steps which it will go down.

9 The writing to Hezekiah king of Judah in his being sick, and he will live from his sickness:

10 I said in the quiet of my days, I shall go to the gates of hades: I was missed the remainder of my years.

11 I said, I shall not see Jah Jah [Yah, Yahweh, Lord, God], in the land of the living: I shall no more behold man with the inhabitants of the place of rest.

12 Mine age removed, and was carried away from me as a shepherd's tent: I rolled together as a weaver my life: from the thread he will cut me off: from the day even to the night thou wilt finish me.

13 I set till the morning, as the lion thus will he break all my bones: from the day even to the night thou wilt finish me.

14 As the twittering swallow so shall I chirp: I shall murmur as the dove: mine eyes languished for height: O Jehovah, oppression is to me; be surety for me.

15 What shall I speak? and he said to me, and he did: I shall go slowly all my years upon the bitterness of my soul.

16 O Jehovah, upon these they shall live, and for all of these the life of my spirit: and thou wilt heal me and cause me to live.

17 Behold, for peace bitterness, to me bitterness: and thou didst cleave to my soul from the pit of destruction: and thou didst cast all my sin behind my back

18 For not hades shall praise thee, death celebrate: they going down to the pit shall not hope for thy truth.

19 The living; the living, he shall praise thee, as from me this day the father to the sons shall make known for thy truth.

20 Jehovah to save me; and striking my stringed instruments all the days of our life for the house of Jehovah.

21 And Isaiah will say, They shall lift up round cakes of figs, and rub over the burning sore, and he shall live.

22 And Hezekiah will say, What the sign that I shall go up to the house of Jehovah?

ISAIAH CHAPTER 39

1 In that time Merodach-Baladan, son of Baladan king of Babel, sent letters and a gift to Hezekiah: and he will hear that he was sick, and he will be strengthened.

2 And Hezekiah rejoiced over them, and he will cause them to see the house of the spices, the silver and the gold and the aromatics, and the good oil, and all the house of his vessels: and all which was found in his treasures, there was not a word which Hezekiah caused them not to see, in his house and in all his dominions.

3 And Isaiah the prophet will come to king Hezekiah, and say to him, What said these men? and from whence will they come to thee? And Hezekiah will say, From a land far off came they to me, from Babel.

4 And he will say, What saw they in thy house? and Hezekiah will say, All which is in my house they saw: there was not a word that I caused them not to see in my treasures.

5 And Isaiah will say to Hezekiah, Hear thou the word of Jehovah of armies:

6 Behold, the days coming and all which is in thy house and which thy fathers treasured up, even to this day, being lifted up to Babel: there shall not be left a word, said Jehovah.

7 And from thy sons that shall come forth from thee which thou shalt beget, they shall take; and they were eunuchs in the temple of the king of Babel.

8 And Hezekiah will say to Isaiah, Good the word of Jehovah which thou spakest And he will say, That there shall be peace and truth in my days.

ISAIAH CHAPTER 40

1 Comfort ye, comfort ye my people, will your God say

2 Speak ye to the heart of Jerusalem, and call to her that her war was filled up, her iniquity was paid off: that she received from the hand of Jehovah double for all her sins.

3 The voice of him calling in the desert, Prepare ye the way of Jehovah, make straight in the sterile region a highway for our God.

4 Every valley shall be lifted up, and every mountain and hill shall be made low: and the acclivity was for evenness, and the mountain ranges for a valley:

5 And the glory of Jehovah was uncovered, and all flesh saw it together: for the mouth of Jehovah spake.

6 The voice said, Call And he said, What shall I call? All flesh grass, and all its goodness as the flower of the field:

7 The grass was dried up, the flower fell away: for the spirit of Jehovah blew upon it: surely the people grass.

8 The grass was dried up, the flower fell away: and the word of our God shall stand forever.

9 Upon the high mountain come up for thee, O Zion: announcing the good news, lift up thy voice with strength, O Jerusalem; announcing the good news, lift up, thou shalt not be afraid; say to the cities, Behold your God!

10 Behold the Lord Jehovah will come in strength, and his arm ruling for him: behold, his reward with him and his work before him.

11 As a shepherd he will feed his flock: with his arm he will gather the lambs, and will lift up into his bosom, he will lead those coming up.

12 Who measured the water in his palm, and measured the heavens with a span, and held the dust of the earth in a third, and weighed the mountains in a balance and the bills in scales?

13 Who measured the spirit of Jehovah? and will a man of his counsel make him to know?

14 With whom did he consult, and will he cause him to understand and teach him in the path of judgment, and teach him knowledge, and cause him to know the way of understanding?

15 Behold, the nations as a drop from a bucket; they were reckoned as the fine dust of the scales: behold, he will cast down the isles as small dust

17 All the nations as nothing before him; they were reckoned to him from nothing, and vanity.

18 And to whom will ye liken God? what likeness will ye compare to him?

19 The artificer cast the carved image, and the founder will spread it out with gold, and he smelted chains of silver.

20 And he being poor of oblation will choose wood that will not be rotten; he will seek to him a wise artificer to prepare a carved image that will not shake.

21 Will ye not know? will ye not hear? was it not announced to you from the beginning? did ye not understand from the foundations of the earth?

22 He sitting upon the circle of the earth, and its inhabitants as locusts; he stretching out the heavens as fine cloth, and he will extend them as a tent to dwell in:

23 He gave princes to nothing; he made the judges of the earth as vanity.

24 Also they were not planted: also they were not sown: also their stock took not root in the earth: and he also blew upon them and they will be dried up, and the storm will lift them up as straw.

25 And to whom will ye liken me, and shall I be equal? will say the Holy One.

26 Lift up your eyes on high, and see who created these, bringing forth their army by number: he will call to all of them by name, from the multitude of their strength; and he is strong of power; a man was not wanting.

27 For what wilt thou say, O Jacob, and wilt thou speak, O Israel, My way was hid from Jehovah, and my judgment will pass over from my God.

28 Didst thou not know? heardest thou not the eternal God, Jehovah, creating the extremities of the earth, will not faint, and will not be weary? no searching to his understanding.

29 He gave power to the faint; and to the not strong he will increase strength.

30 And the boys shall be faint and weary, and the young men faltering, shall become feeble

31 And they waiting for Jehovah shall change power; they shall go up on the wing as eagles; they shall run and not be weary; they shall go and not faint.

ISAIAH CHAPTER 41

1 Be silent to me, ye islands; and the people shall change strength: they shall draw near; then shall they speak: together we will come near for judgment

2 Who raised up justice from the sunrising? he shall call him to his foot; he will give the nations before him; and he will bring down kings: he will give as the dust of his sword, as driven straw, his bow.

3 He will pursue them, he will pass over in peace; the path he will not come in with his feet

4 Who made and did, calling the generations from the beginning? I Jehovah, the first, and with the last; I am he.

5 The isles saw, and they will be afraid; the extremities of the earth will tremble; they drew near and they will come.

6 They will help a man his neighbor, and he will say to his brother, Be strong.

7 And the artificer will strengthen the founder, he making smooth with the hammer, he beating the anvil, saying, It is good for the welding; he will strengthen it with nails; it shall not totter.

8 And thou, Israel, my servant Jacob whom I chose thee, the seed of Abraham my beloved:

9 Whom I held thee fast from the extremities of the earth, and I called thee from its sides, and saying to thee, Thou my servant; I chose thee, and I rejected thee not

10 Thou shalt not fear, for I am with thee: thou shalt not look around for help for I thy God will strengthen thee; also I helped thee; also I held thee up with the right hand of my justice.

11 Behold, all they burning with anger against thee shall be ashamed and disgraced: they shall be as nothing; and the men of thy strife shall be destroyed.

12 Thou shalt seek them, and shalt not find them; the man of thy contention, the men of thy war, shall be as nothing and as no more.

13 For I Jehovah thy God holding thy right hand, saying to thee, Thou shalt not fear; I helped thee.

14 Thou shalt not fear, thou worm Jacob, ye men of Israel; I helped thee, says Jehovah, and thy redeemer the Holy One of Israel.

15 Behold, I set thee to a new cutting threshing sledge having mouths: thou thalt thresh the mountains, and beat small, and the hills thou shalt set as chaff.

16 Thou shalt winnow them, and the wind shall lift them up, and the storm shall scatter them: and thou shalt rejoice in Jehovah, and glory in the Holy One of Israel.

17 The poor and the needy seeking water, and none; their tongue failing in thirst, I Jehovah will answer them; the God of Israel, I will not forsake them.

18 I will open rivers upon naked hills, and fountains in the midst of the valleys: I will set the desert for a pool of water, and the dry land for goings forth of water.

19 I will give in the desert the cedar, the acacia, and the myrtle, and the tree of oil; I will set in the sterile region the the elm and the box tree together.

20 So that they shall see and know and attend, and consider together that the hand of Jehovah did this, and the Holy One of Israel created it

21 Bring near your cause, Will say Jehovah; draw near your strong defences, will the king of Jacob say:

22 They shall draw near and announce to us what shall happen: shewed they the former things, what they were, and we will set our heart, and we shall know their latter state; or did we hear things coming?

23 Announce the things coming hereafter, and we shall know that ye are God: also will ye do good or will ye do evil, and we shall look around for help and see together.

24 Behold, ye are from nothing, and your work no more: an abomination he will choose in you.

25 I roused up from the north, and he will come: from the rising of the sun he shall call upon my name: and he shall come upon prefects as clay, and as the potter will tread down the mud.

26 Who announced from the beginning, and we shall know? and before, and we shall say, He is just; also none announcing; also none hearing; also none heard your words.

27 The first to Zion, Behold, behold them: and to Jerusalem I will give him announcing good news.

28 And I shall see, and no man; and from these, and no counselor; and I shall ask them, and they will not turn back a word.

29 Behold, all of them, nothing; their works are no more: wind and emptiness are their libations.

ISAIAH CHAPTER 42

1 Behold my servant, I will hold fast in him; my chosen, my soul delighted; I gave my spirit upon him: he shall bring forth judgment to the nations.

2 He shall not cry, and be shall not lift up, and he shall not cause his voice to be heard without

3 A broken reed he shall not break, and bedimmed flax shall he not quench it: he shall bring forth judgment to truth.

4 He shall not be weak, and he shall not break, till he shall set judgment in the earth; and the isles shall wait for his law:

5 Thus said God Jehovah, creating the heavens and stretching them out; and spreading out the earth and its productions; giving breath to the people upon it, and spirit to those going upon it:

6 I Jehovah called thee in justice, and I will hold by thy hand, and I will guard thee and give thee for a covenant of the people, for the light of the nations,

7 To open the eyes of the blind, to bring forth the bound out of prison, those sitting in darkness out of the house of the prison.

8 I Jehovah, this my name: and my glory I will not give to another, and my praise to carved images.

9 The first things, behold, they came, and new things I announce: before they shall spring up I will cause you to hear.

10 Sing ye to Jehovah a new song, and his praise from the extremity of the earth, ye going down to the sea, and its fulness; the isles and their inhabitants.

11 The desert and its cities shall lift up, the enclosures shall Kedar inhabit: they inhabiting the rock shall shout for joy, from the head of the mountains they shall shout for joy.

12 They shall set glory to Jehovah, and they shall announce' his praise in the islands.

13 Jehovah as a strong one shall go forth; as a man of war he shall raise up jealousy: he shall shout, also he shall cry aloud; he shall be strong against his enemies.

14 I was silent of old; I will be still, I will restrain myself: as she bringing forth I will cry out; I will lay waste and snuff up together.

15 I will lay waste mountains and hills, and I will dry up all their green herbage; and I set the rivers for islands, and I will dry up the pools.

16 I brought the blind by a way they knew not; and I will cause them to tread in beaten paths they knew not: I will set darkness for light before them, and crooked ways into straightness; these words I did them, and I forsook them not

17 They were turned back, they will be ashamed with shame, trusting in the carved image, saying to the molten image, Thou our God.

19 Who blind but my servant? and deaf as my messenger I shall send? who blind he being perfect? and blind as the servant of Jehovah?

20 Seeing many things, and thou wilt not watch; opening the ears, and he will not bear.

21 Jehovah was pleased for sake of his justice; he will magnify the law and make glorious.

22 And this people was plundered and spoiled; snaring all of them in holes, and they were hid in houses of prisons: they were for plunder and none delivering; a treading down, and none said, Turn back

23 Who among you will give ear to this? and will attend and hear hereafter?

24 Who gave Jacob for a treading down, and Israel for spoils? did not Jehovah against whom we sinned? and they would not go in his ways and they heard not to his laws.

25 And be will pour upon him the heat of his anger, and the strength of war: and it will burn him from round about, and he will not know; and it will feed upon him and he will not lay to the heart.

ISAIAH CHAPTER 43

1 And now, thus said Jehovah creating thee, O Jacob, and forming thee, O Israel, Thou shalt not fear, for I redeemed thee; I called by thy name; thou art to me.

2 When thou shalt pass through the waters, I with thee; and through the rivers, they shall not overflow thee: when thou shalt go through fire thou shalt not be burnt, and the flame shall not consume thee.

3 For I Jehovah thy God, the Holy One of Israel, saving thee: I gave Egypt expiating thee, Cush and Seba instead of thee.

4 From that thou wert precious in mine eyes, thou wert honored, and I loved thee: and I will give man instead of thee, and peoples instead of thy soul.

5 Thou shalt not fear, for I am with thee: I will bring thy seed from the sunrisings, and from the west I will gather thee.

6 Say to the north, Thou shalt give, and to the south thou shalt not withhold: bring in my sons from far off, and my daughters from the extremities of the earth;

7 All being called by name: and I created him; for my glory I formed him; also I made him.

8 Bring forth the blind people, and there are eyes; and the deaf, and ears to them.

9 Gather all nations together, and people shall be collected: who among them shall announce this, and will they cause us to hear former things? shall they give their witnesses, and be justified? and will they hear, and say, Truth

10 Ye my witnesses, says Jehovah, and my servants whom I chose: so that ye shall know and trust to me, and understand that I am he: before me was no God formed, and after me shall be none.

11 I, I, Jehovah, and none saving besides me.

12 I announced and I saved, and I caused to hear, and no stranger among you: and ye are witnesses, says Jehovah, and I am God.

13 Also from the day I am he, and none delivering from my hand: I will do and who shall turn it back?

14 Thus said Jehovah redeeming you, the Holy One of Israel; For your sake I sent to Babel, and brought down the bars all of them, and the Chaldees shouting in their ships.

15 I Jehovah your Holy One, creating Israel your king.

16 Thus said Jehovah giving a way in the sea, and a beaten path in the strong waters;,

17 Bringing forth the chariot and the horse, the strength and the might together, they shall fall down, they shall not rise: they went out; they were quenched as tow.

18 Will ye not remember the former things? will ye not discern the things of old?

19 Behold me doing a new thing; now it shall spring forth, shall ye not know it? I will also set a way in the desert, rivers in the waste.

20 The beast of the field shall know me, the sea monster and the daughters of the ostrich: for I gave waters in the desert, rivers in the waste to give drink to my people, my chosen.

21 This people I formed for myself; they shall recount my praise.

22 And thou calledst me not, O Jacob; and thou overt weary of me, O Israel.

23 Thou broughtest not to me the sheep of thy burnt-offering, and thou honoredst me not with thy sacrifices I caused thee not to serve with a gift, and I wearied thee not with frankincense.

24 Thou broughtest not for me a buying with silver, thou didst not satiate me with the fat of thy sacrifices also thou causedst me to serve with thy sins, thou didst weary me with thine iniquities.

25 I, I am he wiping away thy transgressions for my sake, and I will not remember thy sins.

26 Cause me to remember; we will judge together; relate thou so that thou shalt be justified.

27 Thy first father slimed, thy interpreter transgressed against me.

28 And will defile the chiefs of the holy place, and will give Jacob to be devoted, and Israel for reproaches.

ISAIAH CHAPTER 44

1 Hear now, O Jacob and Israel, whom I chose:

2 Thus said Jehovah making thee, and forming thee from the belly, he will help thee; Thou shalt not be afraid, my servant Jacob, and Jeshurun whom I chose.

3 For I will pour water upon the thirsty, and flowings upon the dry: I will pour my spirit upon thy seed, and my blessing upon thine offspring.

4 And they sprung up in the midst of the enclosure as willows by streams of water.

5 This shall say, I to Jehovah; and this shall call in the name of Jacob; and this shall write his hand to Jehovah, and he shall address in the name of Israel.

6 Thus said Jehovah king of Israel, and Jehovah of armies, redeeming him, I the first and I the last; and besides me no God.

7 And who as I shall call and announce it, and set it in order for me from my placing the people of old? and the things coming and that shall come, they shall announce to them.

8 Ye shall not tremble, and ye shall not be afraid: did I not from thence cause thee to hear? and I announced, and ye my witnesses. Is there a God besides me? and no rock; I knew not

9 They forming a carved image all of them emptiness; and their delights shall not profit, and they are their witnesses; they will not see and they will not know, so that they shall be ashamed.

11 Behold, all his associates shall be ashamed: and the workmen, they from man, they shall be gathered together, all of them; they shall stand, they shall tremble, they shall be ashamed together.

12 The workman of iron with an axe also worked with coal, and he will cleave it with hammers, and will work with the arm of his strength: also he hungered and no strength: he drank not water and was wearied.

13 The workman of woods stretched out the line; he will delineate it with an awl, he will do it with chisels, and he will delineate it with a compass, and he will make it according to the image of a man, according to the beauty of man; to dwell in the house

14 To cut down for him cedars, and he will take the fir tree and the oak, and he will strengthen for himself among the trees of the forest: he planted an ash and the rain will cause to grow.

15 And it was for a man to burn: and he will take from them and he will be warmed; also he will kindle, and bake bread; also he will make a god, and he will worship; he made it a carved image, and he will fall down to them.

16 Half of it he burnt in the fire; upon half of it he will eat flesh; he will roast roast, and he will be satisfied: also he will be warm, and he will say, Aha, I was warm, I saw the light

17 And its remainder he made for a god, for his carved image: he will fall down to it, and he will worship and pray to it, and say, Deliver me, for thou my god.

18 They will not know, and they will not discern: he spread over their eyes from seeing; their heart from considering.

19 And none will set to his heart; and not knowledge, and not understanding to say, Half of it I burnt in the fire; and also I baked bread upon its coals; I will roast flesh and eat: and its remainder shall I make for an abomination? shall I fall down to a trunk of wood?

20 He fed upon ashes: a deceived heart turned him away, and he shall not deliver his soul, and he shall not say, Is there not a lie in my right hand?

21 Remember these, O Jacob and Israel; for thou art my servant: I formed thee; a servant to me: thou Israel shalt not forget me.

22 I wiped away as a cloud thy transgressions, and as a cloud thy sins: turn back to me for I redeemed thee.

23 Shout, ye heavens, for Jehovah made: make a loud noise, ye lower parts of the earth: break forth into a shout of joy, ye mountains, thou forest and every tree in it, for Jehovah redeemed Jacob, and he will be honored in Israel.

24 Thus said Jehovah redeeming thee, and forming thee from the belly, I am Jehovah making all; stretching forth the heavens alone; spreading out the earth from myself:

25 Bringing to naught the signs at vain boasters, and he will make those divining, foolish; turning back the wise backward, and he will frustrate their knowledge.

26 Setting up the word of his servant, and he will complete the cousnel of his messengers; saying to Jerusalem, Thou shalt be dwelt in; and to the cities of Judah, Ye shall be built, and will raise up her wastes:

27 Saying to the depth, Be thou dry, and I will dry up thy rivers.

28 Saying to Cyrus, My shepherd, and he shall complete all my delight: and saying to Jerusalem, Thou shalt be built; and the temple shall be founded.

ISAIAH CHAPTER 45

1 Thus said Jehovah to his Messiah, to Cyrus whom I held by his right hand to bring down nations before him; and I will loosen the loins of kings to open before him the doors; and the gates shall not be shut

2 I will go before thee, and I will make straight the circles: I will break in pieces the doors of brass, and I will cut down the bars of iron:

3 And I gave to thee the treasures of darkness, and the hidden stores of lurking places, so that thou shalt know that I Jehovah calling by, thy name am the God of Israel.

4 For sake of my servant Jacob, and Israel my chosen, and I will call to thee by thy name:.and I will address thee, and thou knewest me not

5 I am Jehovah, and none yet, no God besides me: I will gird thee and thou knewest me not:

6 So that they shall know from the rising of the sun, and from the west, that none besides me. I am Jehovah, and none yet

7 I shall form light and create darkness: making peace and creating evil: I Jehovah doing all these.

8 Drop, ye heavens, from above, and the clouds shall shake out justice: the earth shall open, and they shall bring forth salvation, and justice shall spring up together; I Jehovah created it

9 Wo to him striving with him forming him! the potsherd with the potsherds of the earth. Shall the clay say to him forming it, What wilt thou make? and thy work, No hands to it?

10 Wo to him saying to the father, What wilt thou beget? and to the woman, What wilt thou bring forth?

11 Thus said Jehovah, the Holy One of Israel, and his potter, Ask me of things coming concerning the sons, and concerning the work of my hands will ye command me?

12 I made the earth, and man upon it I created: my hand stretched forth the heavens, and all their army I commanded.

13 I mused him up in justice, and I will make straight all his ways: he shall build my city, and he shall send away my captivity, not by price and not by a gift, said Jehovah of armies.

14 This said Jehovah, The labor of Egypt and the gain of Cush, and of the Sabeans, men of measure, shall pass over upon thee, and to thee shall they be: after thee shall they come in fetters: they shall pass over and to thee shall they worship and supplicate to thee, Surely God is in thee, and none yet: no God.

16 They were ashamed and also disgraced, all of them: together they went in shame the workmen of images.

17 Israel was saved in Jehovah with an everlasting salvation: ye shall not be ashamed and ye shall not be disgraced even to forever, forever.

18 For thus said Jehovah creating the heavens, He the God forming the earth, and he made it; he prepared it, be created it not in vain, he formed it to be dwelt in: I Jehovah and none besides

19 I spake not in secret in a dark place of the earth: I said not to the seed of Jacob, Seek ye me in vain: I Jehovah speak justice, announcing straightnesses.

20 Assemble ye together and come; draw ye near together, the escaped of the nations: they knew not lifting up the wood of their carved image, and praying to God he will not save.

21 Announce ye, and bring near; also ye shall take counsel together: who caused this to be heard from of old, from then announcing it? was it not I Jehovah? and no God more beside me; a just God and Saviour; none beside me.

22 Look to me all ye ends of the earth and be saved, for I am God, and none else.

23 By myself I sware the word, justice went forth out of my mouth, and shall not turn back, That to me every knee shall bend, every tongue shall swear.

24 Surely saying, In Jehovah to me justice and strength: even to him shall he come; and all being angry against him shall be ashamed.

25 In Jehovah shall all the seed of Israel be justified, and shall glory.

ISAIAH CHAPTER 46

1 Bel bent; Nebo bowed down; their images were for the beast and for the cattle: your gifts were carried; a lifting up to the weary.

2 They bowed down, they bent together; they were not able to deliver the burden and their soul went into captivity.

3 Hear to me, ye house of Jacob, and all the remnant of the house of Israel, being carried from the belly, being lifted up from the womb:

4 find even to old age I am he; and even to grayness I will bear; I made and I will lift up, and I will bear, and I will deliver.

5 To whom will ye liken me and make equal? and compare me and we shall be like?

6 Squandering gold out of the bag and they will weigh silver in the balance, they will hire a founder, and he will make it a god: they will fall down, they will also worship

7 They will lift him up upon the shoulder, they will carry him, they will set him down in his place and he will stand; from his place he shall not depart: also he will cry out to him and he will not answer; he will not save him from his straits

8 Remember this, shew yourselves men: turn back, ye transgressing, upon the heart

9 Remember the former things from forever: for I am God and no god besides, and none like me.

10 Announcing the last part from the beginning, and from of old what was not done, saying, My counsel shall stand, and I will do all my delight:

11 Calling a ravenous beast from the sunrising, from a land afar off a man of my counsel: also I spake, also I will bring it; I formed, also I will do it.

12 Hear to me, ye strong of heart, being far from justice.

13 I brought near my justice; it shall not be far off, and my salvation shall not delay: and I gave salvation in Zion for Israel my beauty.

ISAIAH CHAPTER 47

1 Come down and sit upon the dust, thou virgin daughter of Babel, sit upon the earth: no throne, thou daughter of the Chaldeans: for thou shalt not be added for them to call thee tender and delicate.

2 Take the two mill-stones and grind flour, and uncover thy veil; strip off the train, uncover the leg, pass through the rivers.

3 Thy nakedness shall be uncovered, also thy reproach shall be seen: I will take vengeance, I will not make peace with man.

4 Jehovah of armies redeemed us, his name the Holy One of Israel

5 Sit thou silently and go into darkness, thou daughter of the Chaldeans for thou shalt no more be added for them to call thee The mistress of kingdoms

6 I was angry against my people; I defiled my inheritances, and I will give them into thine hand, and thou didst not set mercy to them; upon the old thou didst make heavy thy yoke greatly.

7 And thou wilt say, I shall be mistress forever: till thou didst not set these upon thy heart, thou didst not remember its last part

8 And now hear this, thou living delicately, dwelling securely, saying in her heart, I, and none besides me; I shall not sit a widow, and I shall not know bereavement

9 And these two shall come to thee suddenly, in one day, bereavement and widowhood: as finished they came upon thee, in the multitude of thy sorceries, and in the great numbers of thy enchantments.

10 And thou wilt trust in thy wickedness: thou saidst, None saw me. Thy wisdom and thy knowledge it caused thee to turn away; and thou wilt say in thy heart, I, and none yet besides me.

11 And evil came upon thee; thou shalt not know its dawn, and ruin shall fall upon thee; thou shalt not be able to expiate it, and desolation shall suddenly come upon thee; thou shalt not know.

12 Stand now with thine enchantments, and with the multitude of thy sorceries in which thou didst labor from thy youth; perhaps thou wilt be able to be of use, perhaps thou wilt cause fear.

13 Thou wert wearied in the multitude of thy counsels. Shall those searching out the heavens, those looking upon the stars, causing to know concerning the months, now stand and save thee from what shall come upon thee?

14 Behold, they were as straw; the fire burnt them; they shall not deliver their soul from the hand of the flame:. not a coal for warming, light to sit before it

15 Thus shall they be to thee for whom thou didst labor, thy merchants, from thy youth; they wandered a man to his other side; none saving thee.

ISAIAH CHAPTER 48

1 Hear this, ye house of Jacob, being called by the name of Israel, and from the water of Judah they came forth swearing by the name of Jehovah, and by the God of Israel they shall bring to remembrance, not in truth and not in justice.

2 For they were called of the holy city, and rested themselves upon the God of Israel; Jehovah of armies his name.

3 From then I announced the former things, and they went forth out of my Mouth, and I caused them to be heard; I did suddenly, and they shall come.

4 From my knowledge that thou wert hard, and thy neck an iron sinew, and thy forehead of brass:

5 I will announce to thee from then; before it shall come I caused thee to hear, lest thou shalt say, My image did them; and my carved image, and my Molten image commanded them.

6 Thou heardest, seeing it all; and will ye not announce? I caused thee to hear new things from now, and hidden things, and thou knewest them not

7 Now were they created and not from then; and before the day and thou heardest them not; lest thou shalt say, Behold, I knew them.

8 Also thou heardest not; also thou knewest not; also from then thine ear was not opened: for I knew, acting deceitfully, thou wilt act deceitfully, and it was called to thee transgressing from the womb.

9 For sake of my name I will delay Mine anger; I will be muzzled towards thee, not cutting thee of 10 Behold, I purified thee and not with silver; I chose thee in the furnace of affliction.

11 For my :sake, for my sake will I do: for how shall it be defiled? and I will not give my glory to another.

12 Hear to me, O Jacob and Israel, my calling; I am he, I the firsts also I the last 13 Also my hand will found the earth, and my right hand spread out the heavens: -I call to them, they shall stand together.

14 Assemble, all ye, and hear; who among them announced these things? Jehovah loved him: he will do his delight upon Babel, and his arm upon the Chaldeans

15 I, I spike; also I called him: I brought him, and his way prospered.

16 Draw ye near to me, hear this; I spake not in secret in the beginning; from the time of its being, there was I: and now the Lord Jehovah sent me, and his spirit

17 Thus said Jehovah redeeming thee, the Holy One of Israel: I Jehovah thy God teaching thee to profit, causing thee to tread in a way thou shalt go.

18 Would thou didst attend to my commands! and thy peace shall be as a river, and thy justice as the billows of the sea.

19 And thy seed shall be as the sand, and the offspring of thy bowels as its bowels; his name shall not be cut off and shall not be destroyed from before me.

20 Go ye forth from Babel; flee from the Chaldeans; with the voice of shouting, announce ye; cause this to be heard; cause it to go forth, even to the extremity o the earth; say ye, Jehovah redeemed his servant Jacob.

21 And they thirsted not causing them to go in dry places: he caused the waters to flow out of the rock for them: and he will cleave asunder the rock, and the waters will flow out

22 No peace, said Jehovah, to the unjust

ISAIAH CHAPTER 49

1 Hear to me, ye islands, and attend ye people from far off; Jehovah called me from the belly; from my mother's bowels he made mention of my name.

2 And he set my mouth as a sharp sword; in the shadow of his hand he hid me, and he will set me for a polished arrow; in his quiver he hid me.

3 And he will say to me, Thou my servant, Israel, whom I will be honored in thee.

4 And I said, I labored in vain, for emptiness; and I finish my strength vainly; surely my judgment is with Jehovah and my work with my God.

5 And now, said Jehovah, forming me from the belly for servant to him to turn back Jacob to him, And Israel shall not be gathered, and I shall be honored in the eyes of Jehovah, and God was my strength.

6 And he will say, It was light thou being to me a servant to raise up the tribes of Jacob, and to turn back the preserved of Israel: and I gave thee for a light of the nations to be my salvation even to the extremity of the earth.

7 Thus said Jehovah redeeming Israel, his Holy One, to the despised of soul, to him being abhorred of the nations, to a servant of rulers, Kings shall see and princes arose, and they shall worship him for sake of Jehovah who was faithful, the Holy One of Israel, and he shall choose thee.

8 Thus said Jehovah, In a time of acceptance I answered thee, and in the day of salvation I helped thee: and I will guard thee, and I will give thee for a covenant of the people to cause the earth to stand, to cause to inherit the inheritance of desolations,

9 To say to the bound, Go forth; to those in darkness, Uncover yourselves. They shall feed upon the ways, and in all naked hills their pastures.

10 They shall not hunger and they shall not thirst, and the heat shall not strike them, and the sun: for he pitying them shall lead them, and to fountains of water he shall conduct them.

11 And I set all the mountains for a way, and the highways shall be raised up.

12 Behold, these shall come from far off; and behold, these from the north, and from the sea; and these from the land of Sinim.

13 Shout, ye heavens, and rejoice thou earth; and the mountains shall break forth with shouting: for Jehovah comforted his people and he will pity his afflicted.

14 And Zion will say, Jehovah forsook me, and the Lord forgot me.

15 Shall a woman forget her child, from pitying the son of her womb? also these shall forget, and I shall not forget thee.

17 Thy sons hastened; they destroying thee and laying thee waste shall come forth from thee.

18 Lift up round about thine eyes and see: they all gathered themselves together, they came to thee. I live, says Jehovah, thou shalt put them all on as an ornament, and thou shalt bind them as a bride.

19 For thy wastes and thy desolations, and the land of thy destruction, for now it shall press for the inhabitants, and they swallowing thee up were far away.

20 Yet shall the sons of thy bereavement say in thine ears, The place is strait to me: draw near to me and I shall dwell.

21 And thou saidst in thy heart, Who begat these to me, and I being bereaved and barren, an exile, and departing? and who caused these to grow? Behold, I was left alone; they, where were they?

22 Thus said the Lord Jehovah, Behold, I will lift up my hand to the nations, and to the peoples I will raise up my signal: and they brought thy sons in the bosom, and thy daughters shall be lifted up upon the shoulder.

23 And kings were thy supporters, and princesses thy nurses: their faces to the earth they shall worship to thee, and the dust of thy feet shall they lick up; and thou knewest that I Jehovah, that they shall not be ashamed waiting for me.

24 Shall the prey be taken from the strong? and if the captivity of the just shalt be delivered?

25 For thus said Jehovah, Also the captivity of the strong shall be taken, and the prey of the terrible shall escape: and I will contend with him contending with thee, and thy sons I will save.

26 And I will cause those oppressing thee to eat their own flesh, and they shall drink their blood to the full as new wine: and all flesh shall know that I am Jehovah saving thee, and redeeming thee, the Mighty One of Jacob.

ISAIAH CHAPTER 50

1 Thus said Jehovah, Where this writing of cutting off of your mother which I sent her away? or which of my creditors whom I sold you to him? Behold, in your iniquities ye sold yourselves, and in your transgressions your mother was sent away.

2 Wherefore, I came, and no man? I called and none answered. Being short, was my hand shortened from redeeming? and if not power in me to deliver behold, in my rebuke I will dry up the sea; I will set the rivers a desert: their fish shall stink from no water, and they shall die with thirst.

3 I will put darkness upon the heavens, and I will put sackcloth their covering.

4 The Lord Jehovah gave to me the tongue of the expert to know to help the weary with a word: he will rouse up in the morning by morning, he will rouse up to me the ear to hear as the expert

5 The Lord Jehovah opened to me the ear and I opposed not, and I drew not back.

6 My back I gave to those smiting, and my cheeks to those tearing out the hair: and my face I hid not from shame and spittle.

7 And the Lord Jehovah will help to me: for this I was not ashamed; for this I set my face as the flint, and I shall know that I shall not be ashamed.

8 He drawing near justifying me: who shall contend with me? we will stand together: who the lord of my judgment? he shall draw near to me.

9 Behold, the Lord Jehovah will help for me; who is he that shall condemn me? behold, they all shall decay as a garment; the moth shall eat them.

10 Who among you fearing Jehovah, hearing to the voice of his servant? who goes in darkness and no light to him? he shall trust in the name of Jehovah and rest upon his God.

11 Behold, all ye kindling a fire, girding yourselves with fiery darts: go ye in the light of your fire, and in the fiery darts ye kindled. From my hand was this to you; ye shall lie down for sorrow.

ISAIAH CHAPTER 51

1 Hear to me, ye pursuing justice, seeking Jehovah: look to the rock ye hewed, and at the quarry of the pit ye dug out

2 look to Abraham your father, and to Sarah bringing you forth: for one I called him, and I will bless him, and I will increase him.

3 For Jehovah comforted Zion: he comforted all her wastes, and he will set her desert as Eden, and her sterile region as the garden of Jehovah; joy and gladness shall be found in her confession, and the voice of song.

4 Attend to me, my people, and give ear to me, my nation: for a law shall go forth from me, and I will cause my judgment to rest for the light of the peoples.

5 My justice is near; my salvation went forth, and mine arms shall judge the peoples; the islands shall wait for me, and to mine arm shall they hope.

6 Lift up your eyes to the heavens, and look to the earth from beneath: for the heavens as smoke vanished away, and the earth as a garment shall decay, and they inhabiting as thus shall die; and my salvation shall be forever, and my justice shall not be broken.

7 Hear to me, ye knowing justice, the people my law in their heart; ye shall not fear the reproach of men; and from their reviling ye shall not be dismayed.

8 For the moth shall eat them as a garment, and as wool shall the moth eat them: and my justice shall be forever, and my salvation to generation of generations.

9 Rouse up, rouse up, put on strength, thou arm of Jehovah; rouse up as the days of old, of everlasting generations. Was it not with him cutting off Rahab, wounding the sea monster?

10 Was it not with him desolating the sea, the water of the great deep? setting the depths of the sea a way for the redeemed to pass over?

11 And the redeemed of Jehovah shall turn back, and they came to Zion with shouting and eternal joy upon their head: and gladness and joy shall they attain; sorrow and sighing fled.

12 I, I am he comforting you: who thou? and shalt thou be afraid of man he shall die, and of the son of man shall be given for grass?

13 And shalt thou forget Jehovah making thee, stretching out the heavens and founding the earth? and thou wilt tremble continually all the day from the face of the anger of him pressing as being prepared to destroy: and where the wrath of him pressing?

14 He being bowed down hastened to be loosed, and he will not die in the pit, and his bread shall not fail.

15 And I am Jehovah thy God causing the sea to tremble. And its billows shall be put in motion: Jehovah of armies his name.

16 And I will put my word in thy mouth, and in the shadow of my hand I covered thee, to plant the heavens and to found the earth, and to say to Zion, Thou my people.

17 Arise, arise, stand up, O Jerusalem, who drank from the hand of Jehovah the cup of his wrath; thou didst drink the goblet cup of reeling, pressing out

18 None providing for her of all the sons she brought forth; and none holding by her hand of all the sons she caused to grow.

19 These two encountering thee; who shall be moved for thee? desolation and breaking, and famine, and the sword: by whom shall I comfort thee?

20 Thy sons fainted; they lay down upon the head of all the streets as an antelope in a net: being full of the wrath of Jehovah the rebuke of thy God.

21 For this, bear now this, thou afflicted and drunken, and not from wine:

22 Thus said thy Lord Jehovah and thy God, he will contend for his people, Behold, I took from thy hand the cup of reeling, the goblet cup of my wrath; thou shalt not add to drink it more.

23 And I put it in the hand of those afflicting thee; who said to thy soul, Bow down, and we will pass over; thou wilt set thy middle as the earth, and as the street to those passing over.

ISAIAH CHAPTER 52

1 Awake, awake, put on thy strength, O Zion; put on the garments of thy glory, O Jerusalem, the holy city: for the uncircumcised shall no more add to come into thee, and the unclean.

2 Shake thyself from dust: arise, sit down, O Jerusalem: loose thyself from the bonds of thy neck, thou captive daughter of Zion.

3 For thus said Jehovah, Ye sold yourselves gratuitously, and ye shall not be redeemed with silver.

4 Thus said the Lord Jehovah, My people at first went down to Egypt to sojourn there, and Assur oppressed them for nothing.

5 And now what to me here, says Jehovah, that my people were taken gratuitously? ruling, they will cause to give a sharp sound, says Jehovah; and continually all the day my name being despised.

6 For this, my people shall know my name: for this in that day, for I am he speaking: behold me.

7 How exalted upon the mountains the feet of him announcing good news, causing peace to be beard: announcing good news of good, causing salvation to be heard; saying to Zion, Thy God reigns!

8 They watching thee lifted up the voice; the voice together they will shout: for they shall see eye to eye in Jehovah's turning back Zion.

10 Jehovah uncovered his holy arm to the eyes of all nations, and all the ends of the earth saw the salvation of our God.

11 Turn aside, turn aside, come ye forth from thence; ye shall not touch the unclean thing; come forth from the midst of her; be separated ye lifting up the vessels of Jehovah.

12 For ye shall not come forth with haste, and in flight ye shall not go; for Jehovah goes before you, and he gathering you the God of Israel.

13 Behold, my servant shall be wise, he shall be exalted, and lifted up, and be high exceedingly.

14 As many were astonished at thee, his appearance being so spoiled from man, and his form from the sons of men.

15 So shall he cause many nations to rejoice for him; kings shall shut their mouth; for what was not recounted to them they saw; and what they heard not, they considered.

ISAIAH CHAPTER 53

1 Who believed in our report? and to whom was the arm of Jehovah uncovered?

2 He shall come up as a sucking child before him, and as a root out of a land of dryness: no form to him and no decoration; and we shall see him, and no appearance and we shall desire him.

3 He was despised and forsaken of men; a man of griefs and knowing affliction: and as hiding the faces from him; he was despised and we regarded him not

4 Surely he lifted up our afflictions, and our griefs he carried them: and we reckoned him to be smitten, struck of God, and afflicted.

5 And he being wounded for our transgressions, and crushed from our iniquities; the correction of our peace upon him, and in the marks of his stripes it was healed to us.

6 All we as sheep went astray; we turned a man to his way; and Jehovah caused the iniquity of us all to fall upon him.

7 He was pressed, and he was afflicted, and he will not open his mouth: he was brought as a sheep for the slaughter, and as a sheep before his shearers being dumb and he will not open his mouth.

8 From constraint and from judgment was he taken, and his generation who shall comprehend? for he was cut off out of the land of the living: for the transgression of my people was he struck for them.

9 And he will give with the unjust his grave, and with the rich in his deaths, for he did no violence, and no deceit in his mouth.

10 And Jehovah inclined to crash him; piercing him when his soul shall be set a sacrifice for sin, he shall see seed, he shall prolong the days, and the delight of Jehovah shall prosper in his hand.

11 And be shall see of the labor of his soul, he shall be satisfied: by his knowledge my just servant shall justify for many; and he shall bear their iniquities..

12 For this I will divide to him with many, and he shall divide the spoil with the strong; for which his soul was poured out to death, and he was numbered with transgressors; and he lifted up the sin of many, and he will supplicate for transgressors.

ISAIAH CHAPTER 54

1 Shout, thou barren, not bringing forth; break forth in shouting, cry aloud, not being pained; for more the sons of the desolate than the sons of the married, said Jehovah.

2 Enlarge the place of thy tent, stretch forth the hangings of thy dwellings; thou shalt not spare; lengthen thy cords and strengthen thy pegs.

3 For the right and the left thou shalt break forth, and thy seed shall inherit the nations, and they shall cause desolated cities to be inhabited.

4 Thou shalt not fear; for thou shalt not be ashamed: and thou shalt not be disgraced, and thou shalt not be put to shame, for thou shalt forget the shame of thy youth, and thou shalt no more remember the reproach of thy widowhood.

5 For thy Lord making thee; Jehovah of armies his name; and he redeeming thee, the Holy One of Israel; the God of the earth shall he be called.

6 As a wife forsaken and grieved of spirit Jehovah called thee, and a wife of youth; for thou shalt be rejected, said thy God.

7 In a little moment I forsook thee; and with great mercies I will gather thee.

8 In the outpouring of anger I hid a moment my face from thee; and in eternal mercy I compassionated thee, said Jehovah redeeming thee.

9 For this the water of Noah to me: as I sware to the water of Noah from again passing over the earth; thus I sware from being angry against thee and from rebuking upon thee.

10 For the mountains shall remove and the hills shall waver; and my mercy shall not remove from thee, and the covenant of my peace shall not waver, said Jehovah compassionating thee.

11 Thou afflicted, tossed about, not comforted behold me laying thy stones with paint, and I founded thee with sapphires

12 And I set thy battlements the ruby, and thy gates in stones of sparkling, and all thy bound in stones of delight

13 And all thy sons taught of Jehovah; and much the peace of thy sons.

14 In justice shalt thou be prepared: go far off from violence; for thou shalt not be afraid: and from terror, for it shall not draw near to thee.

16 Behold, I created the workman blowing the coals in the fire, and bringing forth a utensil for his work; and I created the destroyer to overthrow.

17 Every vessel formed against thee shall not prosper: and every tongue that shall rise against thee in judgment thou shalt condemn. This the inheritance of the servants of Jehovah, and their justice is from me, says Jehovah.

ISAIAH CHAPTER 55

1 Ho, every one thirsting, Come ye to the waters, and whom there is not to him silver, come ye, buy and eat; and come ye, and buy without silver and without price, wine and milk.

2 Wherefore will ye weigh silver without bread? and your labour not for fulness? hearing, hear ye to me, and eat good, and your soul shall delight in fatness.

3 Incline your ear, and come to me, and hear, and your soul shall live; and I will cut out with you an eternal covenant, the sure mercies of David.

4 Behold, I gave him a witness of the nations, a leader and commanding the nations

5 Behold, nations thou shalt not know; thou shalt call, and nations that knew thee not shall run to thee, for sake of Jehovah thy God, and for the Holy One of Israel; for he honored thee.

6 Seek ye Jehovah in his being found, and call him in his being near.

7 The unjust one shall forsake his way, and the man of vanity his purposes, and turn back to Jehovah, and he will pity him, and to our God, for he will multiply to forgive.

8 For not my purposes your purposes and not your ways my ways, says Jehovah

9 As the heavens were high above the earth, so my ways were high above your ways, and my purposes above your purposes.

10 For as the rain coming down and the snow from the heavens, and shall not turn back there, but watering the earth and causing it to bring forth and sprout, and giving seed to be sown, and bread to be eaten;

11 So shall be my word which went forth out of my mouth: it shall not turn back to me empty, but doing what I delighted in, and it shall prosper for what I send it

12 For with joy shall ye go forth, and in peace shall ye be led forth; the mountains and hills shall break forth before you into shouting, and all the trees of the field shall clap the hand.

13 Instead of the thorn-hedge shall come up the cypress; of the briar shall come up the myrtle: and it was to Jehovah for a name for an eternal sigh; it shall not be cut off.

ISAIAH CHAPTER 56

1 Thus said Jehovah, Watch ye judgment and do justice; for my salvation drew near to come, and my justice to be uncovered.

2 Happy the man that shall do this, and the son of man that shall lay hold upon it; watching the Sabbath from defiling it, and watching his hand from doing all evil.

3 And the son of the stranger joining himself to Jehovah, shall not say, saying, Jehovah separating, will separate me from his people; and the eunuch shall not say, Behold me a dry tree.

4 For thus said Jehovah to the eunuchs who shall watch my Sabbaths, and choose in what I delighted, and taking hold upon my covenant;

5 And I gave to them in my house and in my walls a hand and a name good above sons and above daughters: an eternal name will I give to him which shall not be cut off.

6 And the sons of the stranger joining themselves to Jehovah to serve him, and to love the name of Jehovah, to be to him for servants, every one watching the Sabbath from defiling it, and taking hold upon my covenant;

7 And I brought them to my holy mountain, and I made them rejoice in the house of my prayer: their burnt-offerings and their sacrifices for acceptance upon mine altar; for my house shall be called the house of prayer for all the peoples.

8 Says the Lord Jehovah gathering the outcasts of Israel, Yet will I gather to him to his gathered.

9 All ye beasts of the fields, come ye to eat; all ye beasts in the forest

10 Look about, ye blind; they all knew not, they all dumb dogs, they shall not be able to bark; dreaming, lying down, loving to slumber.

11 And dogs hard of soul, they knew not fulness; and they are evil, they know not understanding; they all looked to their way, a man to his plunder from his extremity.

12 Come ye, I will take wine, and we will drink strong drink to excess; and the morrow being as this day, the remainder great exceedingly.

ISAIAH CHAPTER 57

1 The just one perished and none put upon the heart: men of kindness being taken away, for none understanding that the just one was taken away from the face of evil

2 He shall come into peace: they shall rest upon their beds, he went in his justice.

3 And ye, come ye near here, sons of her practicing magic, seed of the adulterer and the harlot.

4 Against whom will ye deride? against whom will ye make broad the mouth, will ye thrust out the tongue? are ye not children of transgressing and a seed of falsehood?

5 Being comforted with gods under every green tree, slaughtering the children in the valleys, under the clefts of the rocks?

6 In the smoothnesses of the torrent they thy portion, they thy lot; also to them thou didst pour out a libation, thou didst bring up a gift Shall I be comforted with these?

7 Upon a mountain high and lifted up thou didst set thy bed: also there thou wentest up to sacrifice a sacrifice.

8 Behind the doors and the door-post thou didst set thy memorial: for from me thou didst migrate, and thou wilt go up; thou didst make broad thy bed, and thou wilt cut out to thee from them; thou didst love their bed; thou didst look upon the hand.

9 And thou wilt pour out for the king with oil and thou wilt increase thy perfumes, and thou wilt send thy messengers even from far off, and thou wilt be made low, even to hades.

10 In the abundance of thy way thou wert wearied; thou midst, Not to give over; thou didst find the living of thy hand; for this, thou wert not pained.

11 And whom didst thou fear? and wilt thou be afraid? for thou wilt lie, and thou didst not remember me; thou didst not put it upon thy heart; was not I being silent and from of old, and thou wilt not be afraid of me?

12 I will announce thy justice and thy works, and they shall not profit thee.

13 In thy crying out, shall thy gatherings deliver thee? and the wind shall lift them all up; a breath shall take: and he taking refuge in me shall inherit the land, and he shall inherit my holy mountain;

14 And he shall say, Lift ye up, lift ye up; clear the way, take up the stumbling block out of the way of my people.

15 For thus said the high and lifted up inhabiting eternity, and his name Holy; being lifted up, and I will dwell in the holy place, and with the broken and humble of spirit, to preserve alive the spirit of the humble, and to revive the heart of the broken.

16 For not forever will I contend, and not to everlasting will I be angry: for the spirit will faint from before me, and the lives I made.

17 For the iniquity of his plunder was I angry, and I will smite him: covering myself, and I will be angry, and he went turning away in the way of his heart.

18 I saw his ways, and I will heal him: and I will lead him and I will restore comforts to him, and to his mourners.

19 Creating the fruit of the lips; Peace, peace to him being far off, and to him being near, said Jehovah; and I healed him.

20 And the unjust as the tossed sea when it shall not be able to rest, and its waters will toss up mud and mire;

21 no peace, said God, to the unjust.

ISAIAH CHAPTER 58

1 Call with the throat; thou shalt not spare; as a trumpet lift up thy voice, and announce to my people their transgression, and to the house of Jacob their sin.

2 And day, day, they will seek me, and delight to know my way as a nation who did justice and forsook not the judgment of his God: they will ask me the judgments of justice, they will delight to draw near to Gad.

3 For what did we fast, and thou sawest not? we humbled our soul and thou wilt not know? Behold, in the day of your fasting ye will find desire, and ye will exact all your labors.

4 behold, for contention and strife ye will fast, and to strike with the fist of injustice: ye shall not fast as today to cause your voice to be heard on high.

5 Will this be the fast I shall choose? a day for a man to humble his soul? to bend his head as a bulrush, and he will place sackcloth and ashes? wilt thou call this a fast and a day of acceptance to Jehovah.

6 Is not this the fast I shall choose? to loose the bands of injustice, to shake off the bundles of the yoke, and to send away the broken free, and ye shall break every yoke?

7 Is it not to break thy bread to the hungry, and thou shalt bring the wandering poor to thy house? when thou shalt see the naked and cover him; and thou shalt not hide from thy flesh.

8 Then shall thy light break forth as the dawn, and thy healing shall spring forth quickly: and thy justice going before thee; the glory of Jehovah shall gather thee.

9 Then shalt thou call and Jehovah will answer; thou shalt cry for help, and he will say, Behold me. If thou shalt take away from the midst of thee the yoke, the extending of the finger, and the word of vanity;

10 And thou shalt give out thy soul to the hungry, and satisfy the humble soul; and thy light rising in darkness,, and thy thick darkness as the noon.

11 And Jehovah led thee continually, and he satisfied thy soul in dry places, and he will make thy bones strong: and thou wed as a watered garden, and as a spring of water which its waters shall not deceive.

12 And from thee the old wastes were built; the foundations of generation and generation thou shalt raise them up, and it was called to thee, Walling the breach, Turning back the beaten paths to dwell in.

13 If thou shalt turn back thy foot from the Sabbath, doing thy delight in my holy day; and thou calledst to the Sabbath a delight for the holy of Jehovah, being honored; and thou honoredst him from doing thy ways, from finding thy delight, and speaking the word.

14 Then shalt thou delight thyself in Jehovah, and I caused thee to ride upon the heights of the earth, and I caused thee to eat the inheritance of Jacob thy father: for the mouth of Jehovah spake.

ISAIAH CHAPTER 59

1 Behold, the hand of Jehovah was not shortened from saving, and his ear heavy from hearing:

2 But your iniquities were separating between you and between your God, and your sins caused to hide;the face from you from hearing.

3 For your hands were polluted with blood, and your fingers with iniquity; your lips spake falsehood, your tongue will mutter evil.

4 None called upon justice, and none judged in truth: trusting in vanity and speaking evil, they conceived labor and brought forth vanity.

5 They plundered vipers' eggs, and they will weave spiders webs: he eating from their eggs shall die, and being crushed, it shall break forth a viper.

6 Their webs shall not be for a garment, and they shall not be covered with their works: their works the works of vanity, and the work of violence in their hands.

7 Their feet will run to evil, and they will hasten to pour out innocent blood: their purposes, purposes of vanity; destruction and breaking in their highways.

8 The way of peace they knew not, and no judgment in their paths: they perverted their beaten paths for themselves: every one treading in it shall not know peace.

9 For this judgment was far off from us, and justice shall not overtake us: we shall wait for light, and behold, darkness; for brightness, and we shall walk in thick darkness.

10 We shall feel for the wall as the blind, and we shall feel, as no eyes: we stumbled at noon as at evening twilight; in fertile fields as the dead.

11 We shall growl as bears all of us, and murmuring we shall murmur as doves: we shall wait for judgment, and none; for salvation, it was far from us.

Copyright © 2026 by Lord Henfield, Guildford Scientific Press

12 For our transgressions were multiplied before thee, and our sins answered against us: for our transgressions are with us, and our iniquities we knew them.

13 Transgressing and lying against Jehovah, and departing from after our God, speaking violence and apostasy, they conceived and muttered from the heart words of falsehood.

14 And judgment was turned away behind, and justice shall stand from far off: for truth fainted in the street, and right will not be able to come in.

15 And truth shall be lacking; and he departing from evil being plundered: and Jehovah will see, and it will be evil in his eyes, for no judgment

16 And he will see that not a man, and he will be astonished that none was supplicating: and his arm will save for him, and his justice it upheld him.

17 And he will put on justice as a coat of mail, and a helmet of salvation upon his head; and be will put on robes of vengeance a garment, and he will clothe himself with zeal as an upper garment

18 According to the works, accordingly he will recompense, wrath to his adversaries, recompense, to his enemies; to the islands will he requite recompense.

19 And from the west they shall fear the name of Jehovah, and from the rising of the sun, his glory. When the adversary shall come in as a river, the spirit of Jehovah was lifted up against him.

20 And be redeeming came to Zion, and they turning away. transgression in Jacob, says Jehovah.

21 And I, this my covenant with them, said Jehovah: my spirit which is upon thee, and my word which I put in thy mouth shall not depart from thy mouth, and from the mouth of thy seed, from the mouth of thy seed's seed, said Jehovah, from now and even forever.

ISAIAH CHAPTER 60

1 Arise,shine, for thy light has come, and the glory of Jehovah has risen upon thee.

2 For behold, the darkness shall cover the earth, and gloom the nations: and Jehovah shall arise upon thee, and his glory shall be seen upon thee.

3 And nations shall come to thy light, and kings to the brightness of thy rising.

4 Lift up thine eyes round about, and see: they all gathered together, they came to thee: thy sons shall come from far off, and thy daughters shall be supported upon the side.

5 Then thou shalt see and flow together, and thy heart shall fear and be enlarged; for the multitude of the sea shall turn to thee, the strength of the nations shall come to thee.

6 An abundance of camels shall cover thee, the young camels of Midian and Ephah; all they from Seba shall come: they shall lift up gold and frankincense; they shall announce good news, the praises of Jehovah.

7 All the sheep of Kedar shall be gathered together to thee, the rams of Nebaioth shall serve thee: they shall go up for acceptance to mine altar and I will adorn the house of my glory.

8 Who are these? they will fly as a cloud, and as doves to their lattices.

9 For the islands shall wait for me, and the ships of Tarshish among the first to bring thy sons from far off, their silver and their gold with them, to the name of Jehovah thy God, and to the Holy One of Israel, because he honored thee.

10 And the sons Of the stranger built thy walls, and their kings shall serve thee: for in my wrath I struck thee, and in mine acceptance I compassionated thee.

11 And thy gates were opened continually; day and night they shall not be shut; to bring to thee the strength of the nations, and their kings being led on.

12 For the nation and the kingdom which will not serve thee shall perish; and the nations shall be laid waste with the sword.

13 The glory of Lebanon shall come to thee, the cypress, the plane tree, and the box tree together, to adorn my holy place; and I will honor the place of my foot

14 And sons humbling thee came bowing down to thee: and all they despising thee worshiped at the soles of thy feet; and they called thee, The city of Jehovah, Zion, the Holy One of Israel

15 Because of thy being forsaken and hated, and none passed through, and I set thee for a perpetual excellency, the joy of generation and generation.

16 And thou didst suck the milk of nations, and thou shalt suck the breast of kings: and thou knewest that I am Jehovah, saving thee and redeeming thee, the Mighty One of Jacob.

17 Instead of brass I will bring gold, and instead of iron I will bring silver, and instead of woods, brass, and instead of stones, iron: and I set thine overseers peace, and thy rulers justice.

18 Violence shall no more be heard in thy land, desolation and breaking in thy bounds: and thou calledst thy walls Salvation, and thy gates, Praise.

19 The sun shall be no more to thee for light by day, and for brightness the moon shall not shine to thee: and Jehovah was to thee for an eternal light, and thy God for thy glory.

20 Thy sun shall no more go down, and thy moon shall not withdraw, for Jehovah shall be to thee for an eternal light, and the days of thy mourning were finished.

21 And thy people all of them just: forever shall they inherit the land, watching his planting, the work of my hand for glory.

22 The little one shall be for a thousand, and the small for a strong nation: I Jehovah will hasten it in its time.

ISAIAH CHAPTER 61

1 The spirit of the Lord Jehovah is upon me; because Jehovah anointed me to announce good news to the afflicted, he sent me to bind up to the broken of heart, to call freedom to the captives, and the opening of the prison to the bound.

2 To call the year of acceptance to Jehovah, and the day of vengeance to our God; to comfort all those mourning;

3 To set to those mourning in Zion, to give to them adorning instead of ashes, the oil of joy instead of mourning, the vestment of praise for the spirit of faintness; and it shall be called to them, The mighty trees of justice of the planting of Jehovah, to be honored.

4 And they shall build the perpetual wastes; they shall raise up the former desolations, and they renewed the cities of the waste, the desolations of generation and generation.

5 And strangers stood and fed your sheep, and the sons of the stranger, your husbandmen and your vinedressers.

6 And ye shall be called the priests of Jehovah, serving our God; he shall say to you, Ye shall eat the strength of the nations, and ye shall take place in their honor.

7 For your shame the second place; and they shall rejoice in reproach, their portion: for this in their land they shall inherit the second place; eternal joy shall be to them.

8 For I Jehovah love judgment, hating robbery for burnt-offering; and I gave their works in truth, and I will cut out to them an eternal covenant

9 And their seed was known among the nations, and their offspring in the midst of the peoples: all seeing them shall recognise them, for they the seed Jehovah blessed.

10 Rejoicing, I will rejoice in Jehovah, my soul shall exult in my God, for he put upon me the garments of salvation, and he clothed me with a robe of justice, as a bridegroom will be a priest with a turban, and as a bride will be adorned with her dress.

11 For as the earth will bring forth her sprout, and as a garden will cause the things sown to sprout, so the Lord Jehovah will cause justice and praise to sprout before all nations.

ISAIAH CHAPTER 62

1 For sake of Zion I will not be silent, and for sake of Jerusalem I will not rest till its justice shall go forth as brightness, and her salvation as a flame shall burn.

2 And the nations shall see thy justice, and all kings thy glory: and a new name shall be called to thee which the mouth of Jehovah shall name it

3 And thou wert a crown of glory in the hand of Jehovah, and a tiara of royalty in the hand of thy God.

4 It shall no more be said to thee, Forsaken; and to thy land it shall no more be said, Desolation; for it shall be called to thee, My delight in her, and to thy land, Married: for Jehovah delighted in thee, and thy land shall be married.

5 As a young man will marry a virgin, thy sons shall marry thee: and the bridegroom rejoicing over the bride, thy God will rejoice over thee.

6 I appointed those watching over thy walls, O Jerusalem: all the day and all the night continually they shall not be silent: ye remembering Jehovah, no stillness to you.

7 And ye shall not give rest to him till he shall prepare, and till he shall set Jerusalem a praise in the earth.

8 Jehovah sware by his right hand, and by the arm of his strength, If I shall give more thy grain for food to thine enemies, and if the sons of the stranger shall drink thy new wine which thou didst labor for it:

9 For they gathering it shall eat it, and praise Jehovah; and they collecting it shall drink it in the enclosures of my holy place.

10 Pass through, pass through in the gates; clear ye the way of the people; lift up, lift up the highway; free it from stone; raise up a signal for the peoples.

11 Behold, Jehovah caused to be heard to the extremity of the earth, Say ye to the daughter of Zion, Behold, thy salvation coming: behold, his reward with him, and his work before his face.

12 And they called to them, The holy people, redeemed of Jehovah: and it shall be called to thee, A city sought for: not forsaken.

ISAIAH CHAPTER 63

1 Who this coming from Edom, splendid with garments from Bozra? this adorned in his attire, bowing himself in his strength? I, speaking in justice, great for salvation.

2 Wherefore red to thine attire, and thy garments as he treading in the wine press?

3 I trod the wine-press alone; and from the people not a man with me: and I will tread them down in my wrath, and I will trample them in mine anger, and their juice shall be sprinkled upon my garment, and I will stain all my vestment

4 For the day of vengeance is in my heart, and the year of my redemption came.

5 And I shall look, and none helping; and I shall be astonished and none upholding: and my arm will save for me, and my wrath it upheld me.

6 And I:will tread down peoples in mine anger; and I will make them drunk in my wrath, and I will bring down their juice to the earth.

7 I will remember the mercies of Jehovah, the praises of Jehovah according to all that Jehovah benefited us, and the abundance of good to the house of Israel which he benefited them according to his mercies and according to the multitude of his kindnesses.

8 And he will say, Surely they my people, sons that will not lie: and he will be to them for Saviour.

9 In all their straits not an adversary, and: a messenger of his face saved them: in his love and in his pity he redeemed them; and he will take them up and bear them all the days forever.

10 They embittered and grieved his holy spirit; and he will turn to them for an enemy; he fought against them.

11 And he will remember the days of old, Moses his people; Where he bringing them up from the sea with the shepherd of his sheep? where he putting his holy spirit in the midst of him?

12 Leading by the right hand of Moses, the arm of his glory dividing the waters from before them to make to him an eternal name.

13 Leading them through the depths as a horse in the desert, they shall not be weak

14 As cattle in the valley the spirit of Jehovah will come down, it will cause us to rest: so thou didst lead thy people, to make to thee a name of glory.

15 Look from the heavens, and see from thy holy dwelling and thy glory: where thy zeal and thy strength? the multitude of thy bowels and thy compassions to me restrained themselves.

16 For thou our Father, for Abraham knew us not, and Israel will not recognize us: thou Jehovah our Father redeeming us; thy name from eternity.

17 Wherefore, O Jehovah, wilt thou cause us to wander from thy ways, wilt thou harden our heart from thy fear? turn back for sake of thy servants, the tribes of thine inheritance.

18 For a little While the people of thy holy place possessed it: our adversaries trod down thy holy place.

19 We were from of old: thou didst not rule with them; thy name was not called upon them.

ISAIAH CHAPTER 64

1 Would that thou didst rend the heavens; thou camest down; the mountains flowed from before thee.

2 As the fire of meltings was kindled the fire will cause the water to boil, to cause thy name to be known to thine adversaries; from thy face shall the nations be moved.

3 In thy doing wonderful things we shall not expect, thou camest down, the mountains flowed from before thee.

4 From forever they heard not, they gave not ear, the eye saw not, O God, besides thee, he will do to him waiting for him.

5 Thou mettest him rejoicing and doing justice, they shall remember thee in thy ways: behold, thou wert angry; and we shall sin in them of old, and we shall be saved.

6 And we were all as the unclean, and all our justice as the garment of monthly courses; and we shall all fail away as the leaf; and our iniquities as the wind will take us away.

7 And none calling upon thy name, none rousing himself to take hold upon thee: for thou hiddest thy face from us, and thou wilt melt us by the hand of our iniquities.

8 And now, O Jehovah, thou our Father; we the clay and thou forming us; and we all the work of thy hand.

9 Thou wilt not be angry, O Jehovah, even greatly, and not forever wilt thou remember iniquity: behold, look now, Ye are all thy people.

10 The cities of thy holy place were desert; Zion was a desert., Jerusalem a desolation.

11 The house of our holy place and our glory where our fathers praised thee, was for a burning of fire, and all our precious things were for desolation.

12 For these wilt thou refrain thyself, O Jehovah? wilt thou be silent, and wilt thou humble us even greatly?

ISAIAH CHAPTER 65

1 I was sought by them they asked not; I was found by them not seeking me: I said, Behold me, behold me, to a nation not calling upon my name.

2 I spread forth my hands all the day to a perverse people, going the way not good, after their purposes.

3 The people irritating me to my face continually; sacrificing in gardens, and burning incense upon bricks;

4 Dwelling among the graves, and they will lodge among the watchers, eating swine's flesh, and broth of unclean things in their vessels.

5 Saying, Come near to thyself; thou shalt not touch upon me, for I was clean to thee. These a smoke in my wrath, a fire burning all the day.

6 Behold, it written before me: I will not be silent, but I requited, and I requited upon their bosom,

7 Your iniquities and the iniquities of your fathers together, said Jehovah, who burnt incense upon the mountains, and upon the hills they reproached me: and I measured their former work upon their bosom.

8 Thus said Jehovah, As the new wine will be found in the cluster, and he will say, Thou shalt not destroy it, for a blessing in it: thus will I do for sake of my servant, to not destroy them all.

9 And I brought forth a seed out of Jacob, and out of Judah he shall inherit my mountain: and my chosen shall inherit it, and my servants shall dwell their.

10 And Sharon was for a dwelling of sheep, and the valley of Achor for a resting place of the herd, for my people who sought me.

11 And ye forsaking Jehovah, forgetting my holy mountain, and preparing a table for Gad, and filling up for fate from mixed wine.

12 And I numbered you to the sword, and ye all shall bend to the slaughter, because I called, and ye answered not: I spake and ye heard not; and ye will do evil in mine eyes, and in what I delighted not, ye chose.

13 For this, thus said the Lord Jehovah, Behold, my servants shall eat and ye shall be hungry: behold, my servants shall drink and ye shall thirst: behold, my servants shall rejoice, and ye shall be ashamed.

14 Behold, my servants shall shout from good of heart, but ye shall cry from pain of heart, and wail from breaking of spirit

15 And ye set down your name for a curse to my chosen: and the Lord Jehovah slaying thee, and he will call his servants another name.

16 That he praising himself in the earth shall praise himself in the true God; and he swearing in the earth, shall swear in the true God; for the former straits were forgotten, and because they were hid from mine eyes.

17 For behold me creating new heavens and a new earth: and the former things shall not be remembered, and they shall not come upon the heart

18 But be ye glad and rejoice even forever, for what I create: for behold me creating Jerusalem a joy, and her people a rejoicing.

19 And I rejoiced in Jerusalem, and was glad in my people; and the voice of weeping shall no more be heard in her, and the voice of crying.

20 There shall be no more from thence a child of days, and an old man who shall not fill up his days: for the boy shall die the son of a hundred years and he sinning, the son of a hundred years, shall be cursed.

21 And they built houses and they dwelt in them; and they planted vineyards, and they ate the fruit

22 They shall not build and another inhabit; they shall not plant and another eat: for as the days of a tree the days of my people, and my chosen shall wear out the work of their hands.

23 They shall not labor in vain, and they shall not bring forth for terror; for they the seed of the blessed of Jehovah, and their offspring with them.

24 And it was before they shall call, I will answer; they yet speaking, and I will hear.

25 The wolf and the lamb shall feed as one, and the lion and the ox shall eat straw, and the serpent, dust his bread. They shall not do evil, and they shall not destroy in all my holy mountain, said Jehovah

ISAIAH CHAPTER 66

1 Thus said Jehovah, The heavens my throne, and the earth the footstool of my feet: where this house which ye will build to me? and where this place of my rest?

2 And all these my hand made, and all these shall be, says Jehovah: and to this will I look, to the humble. and smitten of spirit, and trembling at my word.

3 He slaughtering the ox, striking a man; he sacrificing a sheep, broke a dog's neck; he bringing up a gift, swine's blood; he making remembrance of frankincense, praising vanity; also they chose their ways, and in their abominations their soul delighted.

4 Also I will choose upon their vexations, and I will bring their fears to them; for I called, and none answered; I spake, and they heard not: and they will do evil in mine eyes, and in what I delighted not, they chose.

5 Hear the word of Jehovah, ye trembling at his word: Your brethren hating you, excluding you for sake of my name, said, Jehovah shall be honored: and he was seen to your joy, and they shall be ashamed.

7 Bringing forth before she will travail, before pain will come to her, she was delivered of a male.

8 Who heard such as this? who saw such as these things? shall the earth be made to travail in one day? if a nation shall be brought forth at once? for Zion was pained, she also brought forth her sons.

9 Shall I cause to break and not cause to bring forth? will Jehovah say: If I cause to bring forth and did I shut up? said thy God.

11 So that ye shall suck and be satisfied from the breast of her consolation; so that ye shall press out and be delighted from the brightness of her glory.

12 For thus said Jehovah, Behold me extending peace to her as a river, and as a torrent flowing to the glory of the nations: and ye sucked, ye shall be lifted upon the side, and ye shall be caressed Upon the knees.

13 As a man whom his mother shall comfort him, so will I comfort you; and in Jerusalem ye shall be comforted.

14 And ye saw, and your heart rejoiced, and your bones shall break forth as the tender grass: and the hand of Jehovah was known with his servants, and his wrath to his enemies.

15 For behold, Jehovah will come with fire, and his chariots as a whirlwind, to turn back in the wrath of his anger, and his rebuke in flames of fire.

16 For with fire and with sword Jehovah judged all flesh: and the wounded of Jehovah were many.

17 They consecrating themselves and cleansing themselves in the gardens, behind one in the midst, eating swine's flesh, and the abomination, and the mouse; together shall they perish, says Jehovah

18 And I come to gather together all nations and tongues, their works and their purposes; and they came and saw my glory.

19 And I set a sign among them and I sent those escaping of them to the nations, Tarshish, Pul, and Lud, drawing the bow, Tubal and Javan, the isles far off, that heard not my report, and saw not my glory; and they announced my glory among the nations.

20 And they brought all your brethren out of all the nations a gift to Jehovah, upon horses, and in chariots, and in litters, and upon mules, and upon swift camels, to my holy mountain Jerusalem, said Jehovah, as the sons of Israel shall bring a gift in a clean vessel to the house of Jehovah.

21 And I also will take from them for priests, for Levites, said Jehovah.

22 For as the new heavens and the new earth which I made, standing before me, says Jehovah, so shall stand your seed and your name.

23 And it was as often as the new moon in its new moon, and as often as the Sabbath in its Sabbath, all flesh shall come to worship before me, says Jehovah.

24 And they went forth and saw the carcasses of the men transgressing against me: for their worm shall not die, and their fire shall not be quenched; and they were an abhorrence to all flesh.

THE BOOK OF THE PROPHET JEREMIAH

Hebrew title: Sefer Yirmeyahu
Author: Baruch ben Neriah (Baruch Son of Neriah)

(The Book of Jeremiah (Hebrew: Sefer Yirmeyahu), is part of the Hebrew Bible and the Old Testament. Jeremiah Chapter 1, verses 1 to 3 says that the book is "the words of Jeremiah son of Hilkiah". Jeremiah is seen as a real person, talking to his scribe Baruch about his role as a servant of God who had bad news for the people. His book is a message to the Jews in exile in Babylon, saying that the disaster of exile is God's response to Israel's pagan worship.

Jeremiah began began his work in the thirteenth year of king Josiah (about 627 BC) and finished in the eleventh year of king Zedekiah (586 BC), when Jerusalem went into exile. During this period, Josiah reformed their religion, Babylon destroyed Assyria and Egypt briefly made Judah their subject. Then Babylon defeated Egypt and made Judah their subject (605 BC). Judah revolted several times and after the final time, Babylon destroyed Jerusalem and its Temple and took away its king and many of the leading people in 586 BC.

It is generally agreed that the three types of material interspersed through the book – poetic, narrative, and biographical – come from different sources or circles. Authentic oracles of Jeremiah are probably to be found in the poetic sections of chapters 1–25, but the book as a whole has been heavily edited and added to by followers (including perhaps the prophet's companion, the scribe Baruch) and later generations of Deuteronomists. The date of the final versions of the book (Greek and Hebrew) can be suggested by the fact that the Greek shows concerns typical of the early Persian period, while the Masoretic (i.e., Hebrew) shows perspectives which, although known in the Persian period, did not reach their realisation until the 2nd century BC.

Jeremiah exists in two versions, a Greek translation, called the Septuagint, dating from the last few centuries before Christ and found in the earliest Christian manuscripts, and the Masoretic Hebrew text of traditional Jewish bibles – the Greek version is shorter than the Hebrew by about one eighth, and arranges the material differently. Equivalents of both versions were found among the Dead Sea Scrolls, so that is clear that the differences mark important stages in the transmission of the text. Most scholars hold that the Hebrew text underlying the Septuagint version is older than the Masoretic text, and that the Masoretic evolved either from this or from a closely related version. The shorter version ultimately became canonical in Greek Orthodox churches, while the longer was adopted in Judaism and in Western Christian churches.)

JEREMIAH CHAPTER 1

1 The words of Jeremiah son of Hillkiah, of the priests that were in Anathoth in the land of Benjamin:

2 When the word of Jehovah was to him in the days of Josiah son of Amon, king of Judah, in the thirteenth year to his reigning.

3 And it will be in the days of Jehoiakim son of Josiah king of Judah, even to the fulness of the eleventh year to Zedekiah son of Josiah king of Judah, even to the captivity of Jerusalem in the fifth month.

4 And the word of Jehovah will be to me, saying,

5 Before I shall form thee in the belly, I knew thee; and before thou shalt go forth from the womb I consecrated thee; I gave thee a prophet to the nations.

6 And saying, Ah, Lord Jehovah, behold I knew not to speak: for I a boy.

7 And Jehovah will say to me, Thou shalt not say, I a boy; for thou shalt go to all to whom I shall send thee, and all which I shall command thee thou shalt speak

8 Thou shalt not be afraid of their faces, for I am with thee to deliver thee, says Jehovah.

9 And Jehovah will stretch forth his hand and touch upon my mouth: and Jehovah will say to me, Behold, I gave my words into thy mouth.

10 See, I appointed thee this day over the nations and over the kingdoms to pluck up and to tear down, and to destroy, and to overthrow, to build and to plant

11 And the word of Jehovah will be to me, saying, What seem thou, Jeremiah? and saying, I see the shoot of an almond tree.

12 And Jehovah will say to me, Thou didst well to see; for I watch upon my word to do it

13 And the word of Jehovah will be to me the second time, saying, What seest thou? and saying, I see a pot blown under, and its face from the face of the north.

14 And Jehovah will say to me, From the north shall evil be opened upon all the inhabitants of the earth.

15 For behold me calling to all the families of the kingdoms of the north, says Jehovah; and they came, and gave a man his throne at the opening of the gates of Jerusalem, and upon all her walls round about and upon all the cities of Judah.

16 And I spake my judgment with them concerning all their evil, who forsook me, and they will burn incense to other gods, and they will worship to the works of their hands.

17 And thou shalt gird thy loins and rise and speak to them all that I shall command thee: thou shalt not be terrified from their face lest I shall break thee before them.

18 Behold, I gave thee this day for a fortified city and for a pillar of iron and for a wall of brass upon all the land to the kings of Judah, to her chiefs, to her priests, and to the people of the land.

19 And they warred against thee; and they shall not prevail against thee, for I am with thee, says Jehovah, to deliver thee.

JEREMIAH CHAPTER 2

1 And the word of Jehovah will be to me, saying,

2 Go and call in the ears of Jerusalem, saying, Thus said Jehovah, I remembered for thee the kindness of thy youth, the love of thy completion, thy going after me in the desert in a land not, sown.

3 Israel is holy to Jehovah, the beginning of the produce: all consuming him shall transgress; evil shall come upon them, says Jehovah.

4 Hear ye the word of Jehovah, O house of Jacob, and the families of the house of Israel:

5 Thus said Jehovah, What iniquity found your fathers in me that they removed far off from me, and went after vanity, and they became vain?

6 And they said not, Where is Jehovah bringing us up out of the land of Egypt, causing us to go through the desert into a sterile land and a pit, through a land of drought and the shadow of death, through a land not a man passed through it, and not a man dwelt there?

7 And I will bring you to the land of Carmel, to eat its fruit and its goodness; and ye will come and defile my land, and ye set mine inheritance for an abomination.

8 The priests said not Where is Jehovah? and they holding the law knew me not: and the shepherds transgressed against me, and the prophets prophesied by Baal, and they went After what will not profit

9 For this I will even contend, with you, says Jehovah, and with your sons' sons will I contend.

10 For pass over the isles of Chittim, and see; and send to Kedar, and consider greatly, and see whether there was like this.

11 Did a nation change their gods, and they no gods? and my people changed their glory for what will not profit

12 Be astonished, ye heavens, at this, and shudder; be ye greatly desolate, says Jehovah.

13 For my people did two evils: they forsook me the fountain of living waters, to hew out for them wells, broken wells which will not hold water.

14 Is Israel a servant? if he was born in the house wherefore was he for plunder?

15 Upon him the young lions roared, they gave their voice, they will set his land for a desolation: his cities were burned from not being inhabited.

16 Also the sons of Noph and Tahapanes, they will feed thee upon the crown of the head.

17 Wilt thou not do this to thyself? thou didst forsake Jehovah thy God in the time of thy being led in the way.

18 And now what to thee for the way of Egypt, to drink the water of Sihor? and what to thee to the way of Amur, to drink the water of the river?

19 Thy wickedness shall correct thee, and thy turnings back shall convict thee: and know thou and see that evil and bitter thy forsaking Jehovah thy God, and that my fear was not to thee, says the Lord Jehovah of armies.

20 For from of old I broke thy yoke, I burst thy bonds; and thou wilt say, I will not serve; for upon every high hill and under every green tree thou turnest one side, committing fornication:

21 And I planted thee a vine of purple grapes, wholly a true seed: and how didst thou turn to me the removings of a strange vine?

22 For if thou shalt wash thyself with nitre, and thou shalt increase to thee cleansing, thine iniquity was graven before me, says the Lord Jehovah.

23 How wilt thou say, I was not defiled? I went not after the Baalims? See thy way in the valley, know what thou didst; a young she camel entangling her ways;

24 A wild ass accustomed to the desert in gratifying her soul, panting after the wind in her heat; who shall turn her back? all seeking her will not be wearied; in her new moon they shall find her.

25 Withhold thy foot from being barefoot, and thy throat from thirst: and thou wilt say, Despairing, no; for I loved strangers, and after them will I go.

26 As the shame of the thief when he shall be found, so was the house of Israel ashamed; they, their kings, their chiefs, and their priests, and their prophets,

27 Saying to the wood, Thou my father; and to the stone, Thou didst bring me forth: for they turned to me the back of the neck and not their face: and in the time of their evil they will say, Arise, and save us.

28 And where thy gods which thou didst make to thee? they will arise, if they shall save thee in the time of thine evil: for from the numbering of thy cities were thy gods, O Judah.

29 Wherefore will ye contend against me? all ye transgressed against me, says Jehovah.

30 In vain did I strike your sons; they received no instruction: your sword consumed the prophets as a lion destroying.

31 O generation, see ye the word of Jehovah. Was I the desert to Israel? If a land of thick darkness? wherefore said my people, We had dominion, we will come no more to thee?

32 Will a virgin forget her ornaments, or a bride her girdles? and my people forgat me days of no numbering.

33 How wilt thou make good thy way to seek love? for this also thou didst teach the evil ones thy ways.

34 Also in thy wings were found the blood of the souls of the innocent poor: not by breaking in did I find them, but upon all these.

35 And thou wilt say, Because I was innocent his anger turned back from me. Behold me judging thee for thy saying, I sinned not 36 Why wilt thou despise greatly to do the second time thy way? also thou shalt be ashamed of Egypt as thou wert ashamed of Assur.

37 Also from this thou wilt go forth and thy hands upon thy head: for Jehovah rejected thy trusts and thou shalt not give success to them.

JEREMIAH CHAPTER 3

1 Saying, If a man shall send away his wife, and she went from him and she was to another man, shall he yet turn back to her? Being defiled, shall not that land be defiled? and thou committedst fornication with many shepherds; and turn back to me, says Jehovah.

2 Lift up thine eyes upon the naked hills and see where thou wert not lain with. Upon the ways thou didst sit for them as the ravens in the desert; and thou wilt defile the land with thy fornications and with thine evil

3 And the showers will be withheld, and the latter rain was not; and the forehead of a woman a harlot was to thee, and thou refusedst to be ashamed.

4 From the time didst thou not call to me, My father, thou the friend of my youth?

5 Will he guard forever? if he will watch to the end? Behold, I spake, and wilt thou do evil, and shalt thou be able?

6 And Jehovah will say to me in the days of Josiah the king, Sawest thou what Israel turning back, did? She went up upon every high mountain and under every green tree, and she will commit fornication there.

7 And saying after she did all these, Thou shalt turn back to me. And she turned not back; and her faithless sister Judah will see it

8 And I shall see for all the causes that Israel turning away committed adultery, I sent her away and I shall give a writing of her cutting off to her; and her faithless sister Judah was not afraid, and she will go and commit fornication, she also.

9 And it was her fornication being light, and she will defile the land, and she will commit adultery with stones and with woods.

10 And also in all this her faithless sister Judah turned not back to me with all the heart, but in falsehood, says Jehovah.

11 And Jehovah will say to me, Israel turning away justified her soul above faithless Judah.

12 Go and call these words to the north, and say, Turn back, O Israel, turning away, says Jehovah; I will not cause my face to fall upon you: for I am merciful, says Jehovah, I will not guard forever.

13 Only know thine iniquity that thou didst transgress against Jehovah thy God, and thou wilt scatter thy ways to strangers under every green tree, and to my voice ye heard not, says Jehovah.

14 Turn back, ye sons having turned away, says Jehovah; for I was lord over you: and I took you one from a city and two from a family, and I brought you to Zion.

15 And I gave to you shepherds according to my heart, and they fed you with knowledge and understanding.

16 And it was that ye shall be multiplied and be fruitful in the land in those days, says Jehovah; they shall no more say, The ark of the covenant of Jehovah: and it shall not come up upon the heart, and they shall not remember upon it, and they shall not review and it shall be clone no more.

17 In that time they shall call to Jerusalem the throne of Jehovah; and all nations assembled together to her to the name of Jehovah, to Jerusalem: and they shall no more go after the stubbornness of their evil heart

18 In those days the house of Judah shall go with the house of Israel, and they shall go together out of the land of the north to a land which I caused your fathers to inherit.

19 And I said, How shall I place thee among the sons, and I will give to thee a land of desire, an inheritance of glory of the armies of nations? And saying, Ye shall call to me, My father; and ye shall rot turn back from after me.

20 Surely a wife acting faithlessly by her friend, so ye acted faithlessly against me, O house of Israel, says Jehovah.

21 A voice was heard upon the naked hills, weepings, supplications of the sons of Israel: for they perverted their way, they forgot Jehovah their God.

22 Turn back, ye sons turning away; I will heal your turnings-away. Behold, we came to thee; for thou Jehovah our God.

23 Truly in vain from the hills; the multitude of mountains; truly in Jehovah our God the salvation of Israel.

24 And shame consumed the labor of our fathers from our youth; their sheep and their herd, their sons and their daughters.

25 We shall lie down in our shame, and our reproach will cover us: for we sinned against Jehovah our God, we and our fathers, from our youth even to this day, and we heard not to the voice of Jehovah our God.

JEREMIAH CHAPTER 4

1 If thou wilt turn back, O Israel, says Jehovah; thou shalt turn back to me: and if thou wilt remove thine abominations from my face thou shalt not be moved.

2 And thou swearest, Jehovah lives in truth, in judgment, and in justice; and the nations were blessed in him, and in him shall they praise.

3 For thus said Jehovah to the men of Judah and to Jerusalem, Break up to you the fallow ground, and ye shall not sow to thorns.

4 Be circumcised to Jehovah, and remove the uncircumcision of your heart, ye men of Judah and inhabitants of Jerusalem; lest my wrath shall come forth as fire, and burn, and none quenching it from the face of the evil of your doings.

5 Announce ye in Judah, and cause to be heard in Jerusalem; and say, Strike the trumpet in the land: call, fill up, and say, Be ye gathered together and we will go to the fortified cities.

7 The lion came up from his thicket, and destroying, he broke up the nations; he went forth from his place to set thy land for a desolation; thy cities shall be laid waste from none inhabiting.

8 For this, be ye girded with sackcloth, lament and wail: for the heat of the anger of Jehovah turned not back from us.

9 And it was in that day, says Jehovah, the heart of the king shall perish, and the heart of the chiefs; and the priests were astonished, and the prophets shall wonder.

10 And saying, Ah, Lord Jehovah! surely, deceiving, thou didst deceive to this people and to Jerusalem, saying, Peace shall be to you; and the sword reached even to the soul.

11 In that time it will be said to this people and to Jerusalem, A clear wind of the naked hills in the desert the way of the daughter of my people, not for winnowing, and not for separating.

12 A spirit of fulness above these shall come to me: now will I also speak judgments to them.

13 Behold, he shall come up as clouds, and his chariots as the whirlwind: his horses were swift above eagles. Wo to us for we were laid waste.

14 O Jerusalem, wash from evil to thy heart so that thou shalt be saved. How long shall purposes of thy vanity lodge in the midst of thee?

16 Bring ye to remembrance to the nations; behold, cause to be heard against Jerusalem, watchers coming from a land afar off, and they shall give their voice against the cities of Judah.

17 As watching a field they were against her from round about; for she embittered against me, says Jehovah.

18 Thy way and thy doings did these things to thee; this thine evil, for it was bitter because it reached even to thy heart.

19 My bowels, my bowels! I shall afflict the walls of my heart; my heart made commotion to me; I shall not be silent, for the voice of the trumpet thou didst hear, O my soul, the tumult of war.

20 Breaking upon breaking was called; for all the land was laid waste: suddenly were my tents laid waste, my curtains in a moment

22 For my people are foolish, they knew me not; foolish sons are they and they not understanding; wise are they to do evil, and to do good they knew not

23 I saw the earth, and behold, emptiness and a void; and to the heavens, and no lights.

24 I saw the mountains, and behold them trembling, and all the hills were shaken.

25 I saw, and behold, no man, and all the birds of the heavens fled away.

26 I saw, and behold, Carmel a desert, and all its cities were broken down from the face of Jehovah, from the face of the heat of his anger.

27 For thus said Jehovah, All the earth shall be a desert; and I will not make a completion.

28 For this, shall the earth mourn, and the heavens became dark from above: because I spake, I purposed, I lamented not, and I will not turn back from it

29 From the voice of the horseman and the throwing of the bowman all the city fled; they went into thickets, and they went up upon rocks: every city was forsaken, and not a man dwelling in them.

30 And thou being laid waste, what wilt thou do? If thou shalt put on scarlet, if thou shalt adorn thee with ornaments of gold, if thou shalt rend thine eyes with paint, in vain shalt thou beautify thyself: the lovers despised thee; they will Seek thy soul.

31 For I heard. the voice as of her bringing forth, the anguish as of her bearing her first child; the voice of the daughter of Zion, she will sigh, she will spread forth her hands, Wo now to me for my soul fainted for those slaying.

JEREMIAH CHAPTER 5

1 Run ye to and fro in the streets of Jerusalem, and see now, and know, and seek in her broad places, if ye shall find a man, if there is he doing judgment, seeking faithfulness; and I will pardon to her.

2 And if Jehovah lives, they will say, for this they will swear to a falsehood.

3 O Jehovah, are not thine eyes upon faithfulness? thou didst smite them, and they were not pained; thou didst consume them, they refused to take instruction: they made their faces firm above the rock; they refused to turn back.

4 And I said, Surely, they are weak; they became foolish: for they knew not the way of Jehovah, the judgment of their God.

5 I will go for myself to the great ones, and I will speak to them; for they knew the way of Jehovah, the judgment of their God: surely they together broke the yoke and tore away the bonds.

6 For this, a lion from the forest struck them, a wolf of the deserts will destroy them, the panther watched over their cities: every one going forth from thence shall be torn in pieces; for their transgressions were multiplied, their turnings away were strong.

7 How shall I forgive to thee for this? thy sons forsook me, and they will swear by not God; and I will satisfy them, and they will commit adultery, and they will crowd themselves together to the house of the harlot

8 They were horses seducing to fornication: roaming about, they will neigh, a man for the wife of his neighbor.

9 For these shall I not review? says Jehovah; and shalt not my soul be avenged upon a nation such as this?

10 Go ye up upon her walls and destroy; and ye shall not make a completion: remove her twigs, for they are not to Jehovah.

11 For acting faithlessly, the house of Israel and the house of Judah acted faithlessly against me, says Jehovah.

12 They lied against Jehovah, and they will say, Not he; and evil shall not come upon us; and we shall not see the sword and famine:

13 And the prophets shall be for wind, and the word not in them: so shall it be done to them.

14 For this, thus said Jehovah, the God of armies, Because ye spake this word, behold me giving my word in thy mouth for fire, and this people wood, and it consumed them.

15 Behold me bringing upon you a nation from far off, O house of Israel, says Jehovah: it is a nation of strength, it is a nation of old, a nation thou wilt not know its tongue, and thou shalt not hear what it will speak.

16 Its quiver as a grave being opened, all they are strong.

17 And it ate thy harvest and thy bread, that thy sons and thy daughters shall eat: it shall eat thy sheep and thine oxen: it shall eat thy vine and thy fig-trees: it shall break down thy fortified cities which thou trustedst in them, with the sword.

18 And also in those days, says Jehovah, I will not make with you a completion.

19 And it was when ye shalt say, For what did Jehovah our God all these things to us? and thou saidst to them, As ye forsook me, and ye will serve a strange god in your land, so shall ye serve strangers in a land not to you.

20 Announce ye this in the house of Jacob, and cause it to be heard in Judah, saying,

21 Hear now this, O foolish people, and no heart; eyes to them and they will not see; and ears to them, and they will not hear:

22 Will ye not fear me? says Jehovah; or will ye not tremble from my face, who set the sand a bound to the sea a law forever, and it shall not pass over it: and its waves shall toss themselves and shall not prevail; and they were put in commotion and shall not pass over it

23 And to this people was a heart turning aside and perverse, and they turned aside and departed.

24 And they said not in their heart, Now will we fear Jehovah our God, giving rain, and the early and latter rain in its time: the appointed sevenths of harvest he will watch for us

25 Your iniquities turned away these things, and your sins withheld the good from you.

26 for evil ones were found among my people: he will look about as the stooping of fowlers; they set snares, they will take men.

27 As a cane full of birds, so their houses full of deceit: for this they were magnified and they will be rich.

28 They became fat, they shone: they passed over words of evil: they judged not judgment, the judgment of the orphan, and they will give success; and the judgment of the needy they judged not.

29 For these things shall I not review? says Jehovah: or shall not my soul be avenged upon a nation such as this?

30 Astonishment and horror was in the land.

31 The prophets prophesied in falsehood, and the priests will spread out with their hands; and my people loved it thus: and what will ye do to its last part

JEREMIAH CHAPTER 6

1 Be strong, ye sons of Benjamin, from the midst of Jerusalem, and in Tekoa strike the trumpet, and lift up a lifting up upon the house of the vineyard, for evil overhung from the north, and great breaking.

2 I likened the daughter of Zion to her becoming and delicate

3 To her shall come the shepherds and their flocks; they fixed the tents upon her round about; they fed each with his hand.

4 Consecrate ye war against her; arise, and we will go up at noon. Wo to us! for the day turned away, for the shadows of the evening will stretch forth.

5 Arise, and we will go up in the night, and we will destroy her fortresses.

6 For thus said Jehovah of armies, Cut off the wood, and throw up a mound against Jerusalem: this the city to be reviewed; oppression is wholly in her midst

7 As a pit, letting flow her waters, so she dug up her evil: violence and oppression will be heard in her; upon my face continually disease and smiting.

8 Be admonished, O Jerusalem, lest thy soul shall be alienated from thee; lest I shall set thee a desolation, a land not inhabited.

9 Thus said Jehovah of armies, Gleaning, they shall glean as a vine the remainder of Israel: turn back thy hand as he gathering grapes into wicker baskets.

10 To whom shall I speak and testify, and they will hear? behold, their ear being uncircumcised, and they shall not be able to hearken: behold, the word of Jehovah was to them for a reproach; they will not delight in it

11 I was filled with the wrath of Jehovah; I was weary holding up; to pour out upon the child in the street and upon the assembly of the young men together; for also the man with the woman shall be taken, the old man with the full of days.

12 And their houses were turned to others, the fields and women together; for I will stretch out my hand upon the inhabitants of the earth, says Jehovah.

13 For from their little even to their great, every one plundering, plundered; and from the prophet and even to the priest every one did falsehood.

14 And they will heal the breaking of the daughter of my people by making light, and saying, Peace, peace; and no peace.

15 Were they ashamed when they did abomination? also shaming they will not be ashamed; also they knew not feeling shame; for this they shall fall with those falling: in the time of my reviewing them they shall faint, said Jehovah.

16 Thus said Jehovah, Stand ye upon the ways, and see, and ask for the beaten paths of old, where this the good way, and go ye in it, and find rest to your soul. And they will say, We will not go.

17 And I set up watchers over you, Attend ye to the voice of the trumpet And they will say, We will not attend.

18 For this, hear ye nations, and know, O Assembly, what is among them.

19 Hear, thou earth: Behold me bringing evil to this people, the fruit of their purposes, for to my word they hearkened not, and my law they will reject it.

20 Wherefore this to me shall frankincense come from Sheba, and the good cane from a land from far off? your burnt-offerings are not for acceptance, and your sacrifices were not sweet to me.

21 For this, thus said Jehovah, Behold me giving to this people stumbling blocks, and they stumbled upon them, the fathers and sons together; the inhabitant and his neighbor shall perish

22 Thus said Jehovah, Behold, a people coming from the land of the north, and a great nation shall be raised up from the thighs of the earth.

23 They shall lay hold of bow and javelin; it is fierce and they will not pity; their voice will roar as the sea, and they will ride upon horses arranged as men for war against thee, O daughter of Zion..

24 We heard its report: our hands were relaxed; straits held us, pain as of her bringing forth

25 Thou shalt not go forth to the field, and thou shalt not go by the way; for the sword to the enemy, fear from round about.

26 O daughter of my people, gird on sackcloth, and roll thyself in ashes: make to thee the mourning of an only begotten, a wailing of bitterness; for he laying waste shall suddenly come upon us.

27 I gave thee a watch-tower among my people, a fortification, and thou shalt know and try their way.

28 They are all turning aside, degenerate shoots, going about tale-bearing: brass and iron, they are destroyers all of them.

29 The bellows were burnt from their fire, the founder melted the lead in vain, and the evil were not plucked up.

30 They called to them, Rejected silver, because Jehovah rejected them.

JEREMIAH CHAPTER 7

1 The word that was to Jeremiah from Jehovah, saying,

2 Stand in the gate of the house of Jehovah, and call there this word, and say, Hear ye the word of Jehovah, all Judah coming into these gates to worship to Jehovah

3 Thus said Jehovah of armies, God of Israel, Make good your ways and your doings, and I will cause you to dwell in this place.

4 Ye shall not trust to yourselves to words of falsehood, saving, The temple of Jehovah, the temple of Jehovah, the temple of Jehovah are they.

5 For if making good, ye shall make good your ways and your doings; if doing, ye shall do judgment between man and between his neighbor;

6 Ye shall not oppress the stranger, the orphan and the widow, and innocent blood ye shall not pour out in this place, and after other gods ye shall not go, for evil to you;

7 And I caused you to dwell in this place, in the land which I gave to your fathers from forever even to forever.

8 Behold, you trusting to yourselves upon words of falsehood not to receive profit.

9 Stealing, killing, and committing adultery, and swearing for falsehood, and burning incense to Baal, and going after other gods which ye knew not;

10 And ye came and stood before me in this house which my name was called upon it, and ye said, We were delivered to do all these abominations.

11 Was this house which my name was called upon it a cave of those breaking down in your eyes? also I, behold, I saw, says Jehovah.

12 But go now to my place which is in Shiloh, where I caused my name to dwell there at the first, and see what I did to it from the face of the evil of my people Israel.

13 And now, because ye did all these works, says Jehovah, and I will speak to you, rising early and speaking, and ye heard not; and I will call you and ye answered not;

14 And I did to the house which my name was called upon it, which ye are trusting in it, and to the place which I gave to you and to your fathers, as I did to Shiloh.

15 And I cast you out from my face, as I cast out all your brethren, all the seed of Ephraim.

16 And thou shalt not pray for this people, and thou shalt not lift up a wailing and prayer for them, and thou shalt not entreat upon me: for I hear thee not

17 Seest thou not what they are doing in the cities of Judah and in the streets of Jerusalem?

18 The sons are gathering up woods, and the fathers kindling the fire, and the women knead the dough to make cakes for the queen of the heavens, and to pour out libations to other gods, to irritate me.

19 Are they irritating me? says Jehovah. Are they not themselves to the shame of their faces?

20 For this, thus said the Lord Jehovah; Behold my anger and my wrath was poured out to this place, upon man, and upon cattle, and upon the tree of the field, and upon the fruit of the land; and it burnt and it shall not be quenched.

21 Thus said Jehovah of armies, God of Israel; Add your burnt-offerings upon your sacrifices and eat flesh.

22 for I spake not to your fathers, and I commanded them not in the day of bringing them forth out of the land of Egypt, concerning my word of burnt-offering and sacrifice:

23 But this word I commanded them, saying, Hear to my voice, and I was to you for God, and in shall be to me for a people: and go in all the ways which I shall command you, so that it shall be well to you.

24 And they heard not and inclined not their ear, and they went in the counsels in the stubbornness of their evil heart, and they shall be for behind and not before.

25 From the day that your fathers came forth out of the land of Egypt even to this day, and I will send to you all my servants the prophets, in the day rising early and sending:

26 And they heard not to me and they inclined not their ear, and they will harden their neck: they did evil above their fathers.

27 And speak thou to them all these words, and they will not hear to thee: and call to them, and they will not answer.

28 And say to them, This a nation that heard not to the voice of Jehovah its God, and they received not instruction: faithfulness perished, and was eat off from their mouth.

29 Shave thy consecration and cast away, and lift up a lamentation upon the lips; for Jehovah rejected and cast out the generation of his wrath.

30 For the sons of Judah did evil in mine eyes, says Jehovah; they set, their abominations in the house which my name was called upon it, to defile it,

31 And they built heights to Tophet which is in the valley of the son of Hinnom, to burn their sons and their daughters in fire; which I commanded not, and it came not upon my heart.

32 For this, behold, the days coming, says Jehovah, and it shall no more be said, Tophet, and The valley of the son of Hinnom, but The valley of Slaughter: and they buried in Tophet, from not being place.

33 And the carcass of this people was for food to the birds of the heavens and for the cattle of the earth; and none terrifying.

34 And I caused to cease from the cities of Judah and from the streets of Jerusalem, the voice of joy and the voice of gladness, the voice of the bridegroom and the voice of the bride: for the land shall be for a desolation.

JEREMIAH CHAPTER 8

1 In that time, says Jehovah, and they shall bring forth the bones of the kings of Judah, and the bones of his chiefs, and the bones of the priests, and the bones of the prophets, and the bones of the inhabitants of Jerusalem, out of their graves:

2 And they spread them to the sun and to the moon, and to all the army of the heavens which they loved, and which they served, and which they, went after, and which they sought and which they worshiped to them: they shall not be gathered and they shall not be buried; they shall be for dung upon the face of the earth.

3 And death was chosen above life to all the remnant of those being left from this evil family, in all the places being left where I cast them out there, says Jehovah of armies.

4 And say to them, Thus said Jehovah, Shall they fall and not rise? if he shall turn back, and not turn back?

5 Wherefore did this people of Jerusalem turn away a continual turning away? they laid hold upon deceit; they refused to turn back.

6 I hearkened and I will hear, they shall not speak thus: no man lamented for his evil, saying, What did I? Every one turned back in his race as the horse rushing into battle.

7 Also the stork in the heavens knew her appointment; and the turtle-dove, and the swallow, and the twitterer watched the time of their coming; and my people knew not the judgment of Jehovah.

8 How shall ye say, We are wise, and the law of Jehovah with us? Behold, surely for falsehood he made the style of the scribes a lie.

9 The wise were ashamed, they were confounded, and they will be taken: behold, they rejected in the word of Jehovah; and what wisdom to them?

10 For this I will give their wives to others; their fields to those inheriting them: for from small and even to great all plundering a plunder, from the prophet and even to the priest, all did falsehood.

11 And they will heal the breaking of the daughter of my people by making light of, saying, Peace, peace; and no peace.

12 Were they ashamed when they did abomination? also shaming they will not be ashamed, and they knew not to feel shame: for this they shall fall among the falling: in the time of their reviewing they shall faint, said Jehovah.

13 Destroying, I will destroy them, says Jehovah; no grapes upon the vine, and no figs upon the fig-tree, and the leaf fell away; and what I shall give to them shall pass by them.

14 For what are we sitting? gather ye together and we will go into the fortified cities, and we shall be silent there: for Jehovah our God caused us to cease, and he will give us to drink the water of poison, for we sinned against Jehovah.

16 From Dan was heard the snorting of his horses; from the voice of the neighings of his strong ones all the land trembled: and they will come and cut up the land, and its fulness; the city and those dwelling in it

17 For behold me sending serpents, vipers among you, which to them no hissing, and they bit you, says Jehovah.

18 Because I afflicted not sorrow upon myself, my heart was sick upon me.

19 Behold the voice of the cry for help of the daughter of my people from the land of those being far off: is not Jehovah in Zion? or her king not in her? wherefore did they irritate me with their carved images, with strange vanities?

20 The harvest passed by, the summer was completed, and we were not saved.

21 For the breaking of the daughter of my people was I broken; I was darkened; astonishment took hold of me.

22 Is there no balsam in Gilead, or healing there? for wherefore did not the health of the daughter of my people go up?

JEREMIAH CHAPTER 9

1 Who will give my head waters, and mine eyes a fountain of tears? and I will weep day and night for the wounded of the daughter of my people.

2 Who will give me in the desert a lodging-place of travelers? and I will leave my people and go from them, for they all commit adultery; an assembly of those acting faithlessly.

3 And they will bend their tongue, their bow, a lie: and they were not strong for faithfulness upon the land; for from evil to evil they went forth, and they knew me not, says Jehovah.

4 Watch ye each from his neighbor, and to any brother ye shall not trust, for every brother deceiving, will deceive, and every neighbor will go tale-bearing.

5 And they will mock, a man upon his neighbor, and they will not speak the truth: they taught their tongue to speak falsehood, they wearied themselves to sin.

6 Thy dwelling is in the midst of deceit; by deceit they refused to know me, says Jehovah.

7 For this, thus said Jehovah of armies, Behold me melting them, and I tried them; for how shall I do for the face of the daughter of my people?

8 Their tongue a deadly arrow, speaking deceit; in his mouth he will speak peace to his neighbor, and be will lay his wait in his midst

9 For these things, shall I not review upon them? says Jehovah; or shall not my soul be avenged upon a nation such as this?

10 For the mountains I will lift up weeping and lamentation, and for the seats of the desert, a song of mourning, for they were burnt, from not a man passing through; and they heard not the voice of cattle: from the bird of the heavens and even to the cattle, they fled away, they departed.

11 And I gave Jerusalem for heaps and a dwelling of jackals; and the cities of Judah I will give a desolation from none inhabiting.

12 Who the wise man and he will understand this? and which the mouth of Jehovah spake to him, and he will announce it, for what the land perished it was burnt as the desert, from not being passed through.

13 And Jehovah will say, For their forsaking my law which I gave before their face, and they heard not to my voice, and they went not in it.

14 And they went after the stubbornness of their heart, and after the Baalims which their fathers taught them.

15 For this, thus said Jehovah of armies, God of Israel: Behold me causing this people to eat wormwood, and I gave them to drink water of poison.

16 And I scattered them in the nations which they knew not, they and their fathers: and I sent after them the sword till I consumed them.

17 Thus said Jehovah of armies, Give heed, and call ye for the wailing women, and they shall come forth; and send ye to the wise women, and they shall come forth.

18 And they shall hasten and lift up a lamentation for us, and our eyes shall go down with tears, and our eyelashes shall shake out waters.

19 For a voice of lamentation was heard from Zion: How were we laid waste! we were greatly ashamed, for we forsook the land, and cast away our dwellings

20 For hear, ye women, the word of Jehovah, and your ear shall receive the word of his mouth, and teach ye your daughters lamentation, and a woman her neighbor, the song of mourning.

21 For death came up into our windows, it came into our palaces to cut off the child from without, the young men from the streets.

22 Speak: Thus says Jehovah, The carcasses of men fell as dung upon the face of the field, as the handful after the reaper, and none gathering.

23 Thus said Jehovah, The wise shall not boast in his wisdom, and the strong shall not boast in his strength; the rich shall not boast in his riches:

24 But he boasting shall boast in this, to understand and know me, that I am Jehovah, doing mercy, judgment and justice in the earth: for in these I delighted, says Jehovah.

25 Behold, the days coming, says Jehovah, and I reviewed over all the circumcised with the uncircumcised;

26 Over Egypt and over Judah and over Edom, and over the sons of Ammon, and over Moab, and over all cut off of the extremity dwelling in the desert: for all the nations being uncircumcised, and all the house of Israel uncircumcised of heart

1 Hear ye the word which Jehovah spake to you, O house of Israel:

2 Thus said Jehovah, Ye shall not learn according to the way of the nations, and from the signs of the heavens ye shall not be terrified; for the nations will be terrified from them.

3 For the laws of the peoples, this vanity: for they cut down a tree out of the forest, the work of the hands of the workman with the axe.

4 With gold and with silver they will beautify; with nails and with hammers they will make firm and it will not move.

5 They are of turned work, as the palm tree, and they shall not speak; being lifted up they shall be lifted up, for they shall not mount up. Ye shall not be afraid of them, for they will not do evil, and also doing good is not with them.

7 Who shall not fear thee, thou king of the nations? for to thee he shall come: for among all the wise of the nations, and among all their kings, from none like thee.

8 And in one they will become brutish, and they will be foolish: the tree itself a correction of vanities.

9 Silver beaten out shall be brought from Tarshish, and gold from Uphaz, the work of the workman, and the hands of the founder: cerulean purple and red purple their clothing: they all are the work of the wise.

10 And Jehovah the God of truth; he the living God, and king eternal: from his wrath the earth shall tremble, and the nations shall not prevail over his anger.

11 Thus shall ye say to them, The gods who made not the heavens and the earth shall perish from the earth, and from under these heavens.

12 He made the earth in his power, setting upright the habitable globe by his wisdom, and by his understanding he stretched out the heavens.

13 At the voice his giving a multitude of waters in the heavens, and he will bring the lifting up from the end of the earth; he made lightnings to the rain, and he will bring forth the wind from his treasures.

14 Every man was brutish from knowledge: every founder was ashamed from his carved image; for his molten image a falsehood, and no spirit in them.

15 They are vanity, the work of delusions: in the time of their reviewing they shall perish.

16 The portion of Jacob not as these: for he forming all things, and Israel the rod of his inheritance: Jehovah of armies his name.

18 For thus said Jehovah: Behold me slinging out those inhabiting the land at this once, and I pressed upon them so that they shall find.

19 Wo to me for my breaking! my blow was sickly; and I said, Surely this a sickness, and I will bear it.

20 My tent was laid waste, and all my cords were broken: my sons went forth from me, and they are not: none stretched forth my tent any more, and the place of my curtains.

21 For the shepherds were brutish, and they sought not Jehovah: for this they considered not, and all their flock was scattered.

22 Behold, a voice of tidings coming, and a great shaking from the land of the north, to set the cities of Judah a desolation, a dwelling of jackals.

23 I knew, O Jehovah, that not to man his way; not to man to go and set right his step.

24 Correct me, O Jehovah, but in judgment, not in thy wrath, lest thou shalt make me small.

25 Pour out thy wrath upon the nations which knew thee not, and upon the families that called not upon thy name: for they ate up Jacob and consumed him, and they will finish him, and they made desolate his dwelling.

JEREMIAH CHAPTER 11

1 The word which was to Jeremiah from Jehovah, saying,

2 Hear ye the words of this covenant, and speak to the men of Judah and to the inhabitants of Jerusalem:

3 And say to them, Thus said Jehovah, God of Israel: Cursed the man who will not hear the words of this covenant,

4 Which I commanded your fathers in the day of my bringing them forth out of the land of Egypt, from the furnace of iron, saying, Hear ye to my voice, and do them according to all that I shall command you: and be to me for a people, and I will be to you for God:

5 To establish the oath which I sware to your fathers, to give to them a land flowing milk and honey, as this day. And I shall answer and say, Verily, O Jehovah.

6 And Jehovah will say to me, Call all these words in the cities Of Judah and in the streets of Jerusalem, saying, Hear ye the words of this covenant, and do them.

7 For testifying, I testified to your fathers in the day of my bringing them up out of the land of Egypt, even to this day, rising early and testifying, saying, Hear ye to my voice.

8 And they heard not, and inclined not their ear, and they went a man in the stubbornness of their evil heart: and I will bring upon them all the words of this covenant which I commanded to do; and they did not

9 And Jehovah will say to me, A conspiracy was found in the men of Judah, and in the inhabitants of Jerusalem.

10 They turned back to the iniquities of their fathers before them who refused to hear my words; and they went after other gods to serve them: the house of Israel and the house of Judah brake my covenant which I cut out with their fathers.

11 For this, thus said Jehovah, Behold me bringing evil to them which they shall not be able to go forth from it; and they cried to me and I will not hear to them.

12 And the cities of Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem went and cried to the gods which they burnt incense to them: and saving, they will not save to them in the time of their evil

13 For from the numbering of thy cities were thy gods, O Judah; and from the numbering of the streets of Jerusalem, ye set up altars to shame, altars to burn incense to Baal.

14 And thou shalt not pray for this people, and thou shalt not lift up for them an outcry and a prayer: for I hear not in the time of their calling to me for their evil.

15 What is to my beloved in my house making mischief to many, and they shall cause the holy flesh to pass away from thee? for thou didst evil, then wilt thou exult

16 A green olive tree, fair, of fruit of figure, Jehovah called thy name; by the voice of a great noise he kindled a fire upon her, and its branches were evil.

17 And Jehovah of armies planting thee, spake evil against thee, on account of the evil of the house of Israel and the house of Judah which they did to themselves to irritate me, burning incense to Baal.

18 And Jehovah made known to me and I shall know: then thou caused me to see their doings.

19 And I as a gentle lamb being brought to the slaughter; and I knew not that against me they purposed purposes: We will destroy the tree with its food, and we will cut him off from the land of the living, and his name shall no more be remembered.

20 O Jehovah of armies, judging justice and trying the reins and the heart, I shall see thy vengeance from them, for to thee I uncovered my cause.

21 For this, thus said Jehovah, concerning the men of Anathoth seeking my soul, saying, Thou shalt not prophesy in the name of Jehovah, and thou shalt not die by our hand.

22 For this, thus said Jehovah of armies, Behold me reviewing over them: their young men shall die by the sword; their sons and their daughters shall die by famine:

23 And a remnant shall not be to them: for I will bring evil to the men of Anathoth, the year of their reviewing.

JEREMIAH CHAPTER 12

1 Just art thou, O Jehovah, for I will strive to thee: surely I will speak judgments with thee: Wherefore did the way of the evil prosper? all they acting faithlessly with treachery were secure?

2 Thou didst plant them; they took root; they went on, also they made fruit: thou being near in their mouth, and far off from their reins.

3 And thou, Jehovah, knew me: thou wilt see me, and thou didst try my heart with thee: pluck them out as sheep for the slaughter, and consecrate them to the day of slaughter.

4 How long shall the land mourn, and the herbage of every field dry up from the evil of those dwelling in it the earth perished, and the birds; for they said, He shall not see our last Part

5 If thou didst run with the footmen and they will weary thee, and how wilt thou contend with horses? and in the land of peace thou trustest, and how wilt thou do in the grandeur of Jordan

6 For also thy brethren and the house of thy father, they also acted faithlessly with thee; they also called after thee a fulness: thou shalt not believe in them for they will speak to thee good things.

7 I forsook my house, I rejected mine inheritance; I gave the beloved of my soul into the hand of her enemies.

8 My inheritance was to me as a lion in the forest; she gave upon me with her voice: for this I hated her.

9 The ravenous hyena is my inheritance to me, rushing round about upon her; go ye, gather together all the beasts of the field, set ye upon to eat her.

10 Many shepherds destroyed my vineyard, they trod down my portion, they gave the portion of my desire for a desert of desolation.

11 Setting her for a desolation, she mourned to me; all the land was set a desolation, for no man put upon his heart

12 They spoiling came upon all the hills of the desert: for the sword of Jehovah consumed from the extremity of the land even to extremity of the land: no peace to all flesh.

13 They sowed wheat and they reaped thorns: they were wearied, they shall not profit; and they were ashamed of your gains from the burning of the anger of Jehovah.

14 Thus said Jehovah concerning all my evil neighbors, those touching upon the inheritance which I caused my people Israel to inherit: behold me tearing them up from their land, and I will tear up the house of Judah from the midst of them.

15 And it was after my tearing them up I will turn back and compassionate them, and cause them to dwell a man to his inheritance, and a man to his land.

16 And it was if learning, they shall learn the ways of my people to swear in my name, Jehovah lives; as they taught my people to swear by Baal; and they were built up in the midst of my people.

17 And if they will not hear, tearing up and destroying, I tore up that nation, says Jehovah.

JEREMIAH CHAPTER 13

1 Thus said Jehovah to me, Go buy for thee a girdle of linen, and put it upon thy loins, and thou shalt not cause it to come into water.

2 And I shall buy the girdle according to the word of Jehovah, and I shall put upon my loins.

3 And the word of Jehovah will be to me the second time, saying,

4 Take the girdle that thou boughtest, which is upon thy loins, and arising, go to Euphrates and hide it there in the cleft of the rock.

5 And I shall go and hide it by Euphrates as Jehovah commanded me.

6 And it will be from the end of many days, and Jehovah will say to me, Rising, go to Euphrates, and take from thence the girdle which I commanded thee to hide it there.

7 And I shall go to Euphrates, and dig, and take the girdle from the place which I hid it there: and behold, the girdle was corrupted, it will not profit for anything.

8 And the word of Jehovah will be to me, saying,

9 Thus said Jehovah, According to this I will corrupt the pride of Judah and the great pride of Jerusalem.

10 This evil people, refusing to hear my words, going in the stubbornness of their heart, and they will go after other gods to serve them and to worship to them, and it shall be as this girdle which shall not profit for anything.

11 For as the girdle will adhere to the loins of a man, so did I cause to adhere to me all the house of Israel and all the house of Judah, says Jehovah: to be to me for a people, and for a name, and for a praise, and for glory: and they heard not

12 And say to them this word: Thus said Jehovah God of Israel, Every flask shall be filled with wine: and they said to thee, Knowing, shall it not be known that every flask shall be filled with wine?

13 And say to them, Thus said Jehovah, Behold me filling all inhabiting this land, and all the kings sitting to David upon his throne, and the priests and the prophets, and all inhabiting Jerusalem, with drunkenness.

14 And I dashed them in pieces, a man against his brother, and the fathers and the sons together, says Jehovah. I will not pity, and I will not spare, and I will not compassionate from destroying them.

16 Ye shall give glory to Jehovah your God, before he shall darken, and before your feet shall strike upon the mountains of darkness, and ye waited for light, and he set it for the shadow of death, he will place for gloom.

17 And if ye will not hear it, my soul shall weep in hiding places from the face of pride, and mine eye weeping shall weep and bring down tears, because the flock of Jehovah was taken captive.

18 Say to the king and to the mistress, Humble yourselves, sit down: for the crown of your glory was brought down from your heads.

19 The cities of the south were shut up and none opened: Judah was carried away captive, it was all carried away captive, the whole of them.

20 Lift up your eyes and see them coming from the north: where the flock given to thee, the sheep of thy glory?

21 What wilt thou say when he shall review upon thee? and thou didst teach them the chiefs for head over thee: shall not pains lay hold of thee as a woman bringing forth?

22 And if thou shalt say in thy heart, Wherefore did these things befal me? for the multitude of thine iniquities thy skirts were uncovered, thy heel treated with violence.

23 Will the Cushite change his skin and the panther his variegated spots? Ye shall also be able to do good, being taught to do evil.

24 And I will scatter them as the straw passing away by the wind of the desert.

25 This thy lot and the portion of thy measure from me, says Jehovah; because thou didst forget me and thou wilt trust in falsehood.

26 And also I uncovered thy skirts upon thy face and thy dishonor was seen.

27 Thine adulteries and thy neighings, the purpose of thy harlotry upon the hills, in the field, I saw thine abominations. Wo to thee, O Jerusalem thou wilt not be cleansed after me; how long yet?

JEREMIAH CHAPTER 14

1 The word of Jehovah which was to Jeremiah concerning the words of the drought.

2 Judah mourned and her gates languished; they were darkened to the earth, and the outcry of Jerusalem went up.

3 And their great ones sent their small ones to the waters; they came to the wells, they found no water; they turned back their vessels empty; they were ashamed and disgraced, and they covered their head.

4 For the land was broken, for there was no rain in the land; the husband-men were ashamed, they covered their head.

5 For also the hind brought forth in the field, and forsook, for there was no grass.

6 And the wild asses stood upon the naked hills, they panted after the wind as the jackals; their eyes failed because no grass.

7 If our iniquities answered against us, O Jehovah, do for sake of thy name: for our turnings back were many; we sinned against thee.

8 The hope of Israel, saving him in time of straits, wherefore wilt thou be as a sojourner in the earth, and as a traveler turning aside to lodge?

9 Wherefore shalt thou be as a man struck dumb? as a strong one he shall not be able to save? and thou in the midst of us, O Jehovah, and thy name was called upon us; thou wilt not leave us.

10 Thus said Jehovah to this people, Thus they loved to wander, they restrained not their feet, and Jehovah accepted them not; now will he remember their iniquity and he will review their sin.

11 And Jehovah will say to me, Thou shalt not pray for this people for good.

12 When they shall fast I hear not their outcry; and when they shall bring up a burnt-offering and gift, I accept them not; for with the sword and by famine and by death I consume them.

13 And saying, Ah, Lord Jehovah! behold, the prophets saying to them, Ye shall not see the sword, and famine shall not be to you; for the peace of truth will I give to you in this place.

14 And Jehovah will say to me, The prophets are prophesying a lie in my name: I sent them not, and I commanded them not, and I spake not to them: a vision of falsehood and a divination, and nought, and the deceit of their heart they are prophesying to you.

15 For this, thus said Jehovah concerning the prophets prophesying in my name, and I sent them not, and they saying, The sword and famine shall not be in this land; by the sword and by famine shall these prophets die.

16 And the people which they are prophesying to them shall be cast out in the streets of Jerusalem, from the face of the famine and the sword; and none to them burying them, their wives and their sons and their daughters; and I poured their evil upon them.

17 And say to them this word: Mine eyes shall bring down tears night and day, and they shall not rest: for the virgin daughter of my people was broken with a great breaking, a very sickly wound.

18 If I shall go forth into the field, and behold, the wounded of the sword and if I came into the city, and behold, they shall be sick with famine for also the prophet, also the priest went about to a land they knew not

19 Rejecting, didst thou reject Judah? if thy soul abhorred in Zion? wherefore didst thou smite us, and no healing to us? waiting for peace, and no good; and for a time of healing, and behold terror.

20 We knew, O Jehovah, our evil, the iniquity of our fathers: for we sinned to thee.

21 Thou wilt not despise us; for sake of thy name, thou wilt not disgrace the throne of thy glory: remember, thou wilt not break thy covenant with us.

22 Is there among the vanities of the nations those causing ruin? and if the heavens will give showers? Art not thou he, Jehovah our God? And we will wait for thee: for thou didst make all these.

JEREMIAH CHAPTER 15

1 And Jehovah will say to me, If Moses shall stand, and Samuel, before my face, my soul not to this people: casting from my face they shall go forth.

2 And it was if they shall say to thee, Whither shall we go forth? And say to them, Thus said Jehovah, Whom for death to death; and whom for the sword to the sword; and whom for famine to famine; and whom for captivity to captivity.

3 And I reviewed over them four kinds, says Jehovah: the sword to kill, and dogs to tear in pieces, and the birds of the heavens, and the beasts of the earth, to consume and destroy.

4 And I gave them for maltreatment to all the kingdoms because of Manasseh, son of Hezekiah, king of Judah, for what he did in Jerusalem.

5 For who shall have compassion upon thee, O Jerusalem? and who shall bewail for thee? and who shall turn aside to ask for thy peace?

6 Thou didst reject me, says Jehovah; thou wilt go backward; and I will stretch forth my hand against thee, and I will destroy thee; I was weary of lamenting.

7 And I will scatter them with a scatteriiig in the gates of the land; I bereaved of offspring, I destroyed my people; they turned not back from their ways.

8 Their widows were many to me above the sand of the seas: I brought to them against the mother a young man laying waste at noon: I caused to fall upon her suddenly wrath and terror.

9 She bringing forth seven, languished: she breathed out her soul; her sun went down in the midst of the day: she was ashamed and blushed: and their remainder I will give to the sword before their enemies, says Jehovah.

10 Wo to me, my mother, for thou broughtest me forth a man of strife and a man of contention to all the earth. I lent not on interest and they lent not to me on interest: they are altogether cursing me.

11 Jehovah said, If to do well to thy remnant; if not, I caused the enemy in the time of evil and in time of straits to supplicate to thee.

13 Thy strength and thy treasures I will give for a spoil not for price, and in all thy sins and in all thy bounds.

14 And I caused to pass with thine enemies into a land thou knewest not: for a fire was kindled in my wrath; it shall burn upon you.

15 Thou knewest, O Jehovah: remember me, and review me, and avenge for me from him pursuing me; not for being slow of thy wrath wilt thou take me away; know, I suffered reproach for thee.

16 Thy words were found, and eating them; and thy word will be to me for the gladness and for the joy of my heart: for thy name was called upon me, Jehovah the God of armies.

17 I sat not in the assembly of those mocking, and I will not exult; from the face of thy hand I sat alone, for thou didst fill me with anger.

18 Wherefore was my pain everlasting and my blow incurable, refusing to be healed? Being, wilt thou be to me as falsehood, the waters were not faithful?

19 For this, thus said Jehovah, If thou wilt turn back, and I will turn thee back, thou shalt stand before me: and if thou shalt bring forth the precious from the vile thou shalt be as my mouth: they shall turn back to thee and thou shalt not turn back to them.

20 And I gave thee to this people for a wall of brass, fortified: and they shall war against thee, and they shall not prevail against thee: for I am with thee to save thee and to deliver thee, says Jehovah.

21 And I delivered thee out of the hand of the evil, and I redeemed thee from the hand of the terrible.

JEREMIAH CHAPTER 16

1 And the word of Jehovah was to me, saying,

2 Thou shalt not take to thee a wife, and sons and daughters shall not be to thee in this place.

3 For thus said Jehovah concerning the sons, and concerning the daughters born in this place, and concerning their mothers bearing them, and concerning their fathers begetting them in this land:

4 Deaths of diseases shall they die; they shall not be lamented, and they shall not be buried; they shall be for dung upon the face of the earth, and by sword and by famine shall they be consumed, and their carcass was for food to the birds of the heavens and to the beasts of the earth.

5 For thus said Jehovah, Thou shalt not go in to the house of wailing, and thou shalt not go to lament and thou shalt not deplore for them, for I took away my peace from this people, says Jehovah; -kindness and mercies.

6 And the great and small died in this land: they shall not be buried, and they shall not lament for them, and none shall cut himself or make bald for them:

7 They shall not break bread in mourning to comfort him for the dead; and they shall not give them to drink the cup of consolations for his father and for his mother.

8 And to the house of drinking thou shalt not go in to sit with them to eat and to drink.

9 For thus said Jehovah of armies, God of Israel: Behold me causing to cease from this place to your eyes and in your days the voice of gladness and the voice of joy, the voice of the bridegroom and the voice of the bride.

10 And being when thou shalt announce to this people all these words, and they said to thee, For what did Jehovah speak against us all this great evil? and what our iniquities? and what our sins which we sinned to Jehovah our God?

11 And say to them, Because your fathers forsook me, says Jehovah, and went after other gods, and they will serve them and worship to them, and they forsook me, and my law they watched not;

12 And ye acted wickedly to do more than your fathers; and behold, you going a man after the stubbornness of his evil heart for not hearing to me.

13 And I cast you out from this land upon the land which ye knew not, ye and your fathers; and ye served there other gods day and night, where I will not give to you mercy.

14 For this, behold, the days coming, says Jehovah, and it shall no more be said, Jehovah lives who brought up the sons of Israel out of the land of Egypt;

15 But Jehovah lives who brought up the sons of Israel from the land of the north, and from all the lands where he thrust them away there: and I turned them back upon their land which I gave to their fathers.

16 Behold me sending for many fishers, says Jehovah, and they fished them; and after this I will send for many hunters, and they hunted them from every mountain, and from every hill, and from the clefts of the rocks.

17 For mine eyes are upon all their ways, and they were not hid from my face, and their iniquity was not concealed from before mine eyes.

18 And I requited first double their iniquity and their sin, for their defiling my land, with the carcasses of their abominable things, and their abominations they filled up mine inheritance.

19 O Jehovah, my strength and my fortress, and my refuge in days of straits, to thee shall the nations come from the ends of the earth, and they shall say, Surely our fathers inherited falsehood, vanity, and no receiving profit in them.

20 Shall man make to himself gods, and they not gods?

21 For this, behold me causing them to know in this once, I will cause them to know my hand and my strength; and they shall know that my name is Jehovah.

JEREMIAH CHAPTER 17

1 The sin of Judah was written with a style of iron, with the nail of diamond: being graved upon the table of their heart, and to the horns of your altars.

2 For their sons remember their altars and their images by the green tree upon the high hills.

3 O my mountain in the field, thy strength, all thy treasures I will, give for plunder, thy heights for sin in all thy bounds.

4 And thou wert thrust in thyself from thine inheritance which I gave to thee; and I caused thee to serve thine enemies in a land which thou knewest not: for ye kindled a fire in mine anger; it shall burn forever.

5 Thus said Jehovah: Cursed the man who shall trust in man, and set flesh his arm, and shall turn away his heart from Jehovah.

6 And he was as ruins in the sterile region, and he shall not see when good shall come; he inherited the arid places in the desert, a salt land, and it shall not be inhabited.

7 Blessed the man who shall trust in Jehovah, and his trust was Jehovah.

8 And he was as a tree planted by the waters, and it shall spread out its roots by the river, and it shall not see when heat shall come, and its leaf was green; and it shall not be afraid in the year of restraint, and it shall not withdraw from making fruit.

9 The heart is deceitful above all, and man himself, who shall know him?

10 I Jehovah searching the heart, trying the reins, to give to each according to his way, according to the fruit of his doings.

11 The partridge brooded and she brought not forth; to make riches and not in judgment, he shall leave them in the half of his days, and in his latter part he shall be foolish.

12 A throne of glory being lifted up from the first our holy place.

13 The hope of Israel, O Jehovah, all forsaking thee shall be ashamed, turning away from me they shall be written in the earth, for they forsook the fountain of the water of life, Jehovah.

14 Heal me, O Jehovah, and I shall be healed; save me, and I shall be saved: for thou my praise.

15 Behold them saying to me, Where the word of Jehovah? it shall come now.

16 And I withdrew not from following after thee; I desired not man's day, thou knewest: the going forth of my lips was straight before thee.

17 Thou wilt not be for a terror to me; thou my refuge in the evil day.

18 They pursuing me shall be ashamed, and I shall not be ashamed: they shall be dismayed, and I shall not be dismayed: bring upon them the evil day, and break them with a double breaking.

19 Thus said Jehovah to me: Go and stand in the gate of the sons of the people which the kings of Judah shall come in in it, and which they shall go forth in it, and in all the gates of Jerusalem.

20 And say to them, Hear the word of Jehovah, ye kings of Judah, and all Judah, and all inhabiting Jerusalem, coming in by these gates:

21 Thus said Jehovah: Watch ye in your souls, and ye shall not lift up a lifting up in the day of the Sabbath, and bring in by the gates of Jerusalem.

22 And ye shall not bring forth a burden from your houses in the day of the Sabbath, and all work ye shall not do, and consecrate the day of the Sabbath as I commanded your fathers.

23 And they heard not, and they inclined not their ear, and they will harden their neck not to hear, and not to receive instruction.

24 And it was, if hearing, ye shall hear to me, says Jehovah, not to bring a burden into the gates of this city in day of the Sabbath, and to consecrate the day of the Sabbath, not to do in it any work;

25 And there came into the gates of this city kings and chiefs sitting upon the throne of David, riding in chariots and upon horses, they and their chiefs, men of Judah and inhabitants of Jerusalem: and this city was inhabited forever.

26 And they came from the cities of Judah and from round about Jerusalem, and from the land of Benjamin, and from the plain, and from the mountain, and from the south, bringing a burnt-offering and sacrifice, and gift, and frankincense, and bringing praise into the house of Jehovah.

27 And if ye will not hear to me to consecrate the day of the Sabbath, not to lift up a burden, and coming into the gates of Jerusalem in the day of the Sabbath; and I kindled a fire in her gates and it consumed the palaces of Jerusalem and it shall not be quenched.

JEREMIAH CHAPTER 18

1 The word which was to Jeremiah from Jehovah, saying,

2 Arise, and go down to the potter's house, and there I will cause thee to hear my word.

3 And I shall go down to the potter's house, and behold him doing a work upon the stone.

4 And the vessel which he made was destroyed as clay in the hand of the potter: and he turned back, and he will make another vessel as was right in the eyes of the potter to make.

5 And the word of Jehovah will be to me, saying,

6 As this potter shall I not be able to do to you, O house of Israel? says Jehovah. Behold, as the clay in the hand of the potter, thus are ye in my hand, O house of Israel.

7 The moment I shall speak concerning a nation and concerning a kingdom, to pluck up and to tear down, and to destroy:

8 And that nation which I spake against it turned back from its evil, and I lamented for the evil which I proposed to do to it.

9 And the moment I shall speak concerning a nation and concerning a kingdom, to build and to plant:

10 And it did evil in mine eyes not to hear to my voice, and I lamented for the good which I said to do well to it

11 And now, say now to the men of Judah, and concerning the inhabitants of Jerusalem, saying, Thus said Jehovah: Behold, I will form evil against you, and purpose a purpose against you; turn ye back now each from his evil way, and make your ways and your doings good.

12 And they said, We shall despair; for after our purposes we will go, and we will do each the stubbornness of his evil heart

13 For this, thus said Jehovah: Ask now among the nations, who heard like as these things: the virgin of Israel did very horrible things.

14 Shall the field cut loose from the rock the snow of Lebanon? or shall the cold flowing waters of an inundation be dried up?

15 Because my people forgat me they will burn incense in vain; by their ways they will cause the paths of old to fail, to go beaten paths, a way not cast up;

16 To set their land for a desolation, eternal hissings; every one passing over it shall be astonished and shall shake with his head.

17 As the east wind I will scatter them before the face of the enemy; I will cause them to see the neck and not the face, in the day of their destruction.

18 And they will say, Come, and we will purpose purposes against Jeremiah; for law shall not perish from the priest, and counsel from the wise, and the word from the prophet Come, and we will strike him with the tongue, and we will not attend to any of his words.

19 Attend to me, O Jehovah, and hear for the voice of mine adversary.

20 Shall evil be requited for good? for they dug a pit for my soul. Remember my standing before thee to speak good for them, to turn back thy wrath from them.

21 For this, give their sons to the famine, and pour them out upon the hands of the sword; and their wives shall be bereaved of offspring, and be widows; and their men shall be slain by death; their young men struck of the sword in battle.

22 A cry shall be heard from their houses, for thou shalt bring upon them a trap suddenly, for they dug a pit to take me, and hid snares for my feet

23 And thou, O Jehovah, knewest all their counsel against me to kill: thou wilt not expiate for their iniquity, and their sin from before thee thou wilt not wipe away, and they shall be weak before thee; do with them in the time of thine anger.

JEREMIAH CHAPTER 19

1 Thus said Jehovah, Go and buy a potter's earthen bottle, and from the old men of the people and from the old men of the priests;

2 And go forth to the valley of the, son of Hinnom, which is at the opening of the gate of the pottery, and call there the words which I shall speak to thee.

3 And say, Hear the word of Jehovah, ye kings of Judah, and ye dwelling n Jerusalem; Thus said Jehovah of armies, God of Israel: Behold me bringing evil upon this place, which every one hearing. it, their ears shall tingle.

4 Because they forsook me and rejected this place, and they will burn incense in it to other gods which they knew them not, they and their fathers, and the kings of Judah; and they filled this place with the blood of the innocent ones.

5 And they built the heights of Baal to burn their sons with fire, burnt-offerings to Baal, which I commanded not, and I spake not, and it came not up upon my heart.

6 For this, behold, the days coming, says Jehovah, and it shall no more be called to this place Tophet, and The valley of the son of Hinnom, but the valley of Slaughter.

7 And I emptied out the counsel of Judah and Jerusalem in this place; and I caused them to fall by the sword before their enemies, and by the hands of them seeking their soul: and I gave their carcasses for food to the fowls of the heavens and to the beasts of the earth.

8 And I set this city for a desolation, and for hissing: every one passing over it shall be astonished and shall hiss over all her blows.

9 And I caused them to eat the flesh of their sons and the flesh of their daughters, and each the flesh of his neighbor shall they eat in the straitness and in the distress which their enemies, and they seeking their souls, shall press upon them.

10 And break the bottle before the eyes of the men going with thee,

11 And say to them, Thus said Jehovah of armies: According to this will I break this people and this city, as he will break the potter's vessel which shall not be able to be healed any more: and in Tophet shall they bury, from not a place to bury.

12 Thus will I do to this place, says Jehovah, and to its inhabitants, and to give this city as Tophet:

13 And the houses of Jerusalem and the houses of the kings of Judah were defiled as the place of Tophet to all the houses which they burnt incense upon their roofs to all the army of the heavens, and pouring out libations to other gods

14 And Jeremiah will come from Tophet where Jehovah sent him there to prophesy; and he will stand in the enclosure of the house of Jehovah and say to all the people,

15 Thus said Jehovah of armies, God of Israel, Behold me bringing to this city and upon all her cities all the evil which I spake against her, because they hardened their neck not to hear my word.

JEREMIAH CHAPTER 20

1 And Pashur, son of Immer the priest, and he appointed overseer of the house of Jehovah, will hear Jeremiah prophesying these words.

2 And Pashur will strike Jeremiah the prophet and give him upon the stocks which were in the gate of Benjamin the highest, which were in the house of Jehovah.

3 And it will be on the morrow, and Pashur will bring forth Jeremiah from the stocks. And Jeremiah will say to him, Jehovah called not thy name Pashur, but Terror from round about.

4 For thus said Jehovah, Behold me giving thee for terror to thyself and to all loving thee; and they fell by the sword of their enemies, and thine eyes seeing: and I will give all Judah into the hand of the king of Babel, and he carried them captive to Babel, and be struck them with the sword.

5 And I gave all the strength of this city, and all her labors, and everything precious of hers, and all the treasures of the kings of Judah will I give into the hand of their enemies, and they spoiled them, and took them and brought them to Babel.

6 And thou, Pashur, and all dwelling in thy house shall go into captivity: and thou shalt come to Babel, and thou shalt die there, and there shalt thou be buried, and all those loving thee to whom thou didst prophesy to them in falsehood.

7 Thou didst persuade me, O Jehovah, and I shall be persuaded: thou didst hold me fast, and thou wilt prevail: I was for a derision all the day, all mocking to me.

8 For as often as I shall speak I shall cry; violence and oppression I shall call; for the word of Jehovah was to me for a reproach and for a derision all the day.

9 And I said, I will not bring him to remembrance, and I will no more speak in his name. And it was in my heart as a burning fire shut up in my bones, and I was wearied to endure, and I shall not be able.

10 For I heard the slander of many, terror from round about Announce ye, and we will announce. Every man of my peace watching my halting: perhaps he will be persuaded, and we shall prevail against him, and we will take our vengeance of him.

11 And Jehovah is with me as a strong terrible one: for this, they pursuing shall be weak, and they shall not prevail; they were greatly ashamed, for they prospered not; perpetual shame shall not be forgotten.

12 And Jehovah of armies trying the just, seeing the reins and the heart, I shall see thy vengeance of them: for to thee I uncovered my cause.

13 Sing ye to Jehovah, praise ye Jehovah: for he delivered the soul of the needy from the hand of those doing evil.

14 Cursed the day which I was born in it; the day which my mother brought me forth shall not be blessed.

15 Cursed the man who announced to my father, Good news; saying, A son, a male was born to thee; with rejoicing, making him rejoice.

16 And that man being as the cities which Jehovah overthrew, and lamented not: and hearing the cry in the morning and the loud noise in time of noon.

17 Because he killed me not from the womb, and my mother will be to me my grave, and her womb pregnant forever.

18 Wherefore this came I forth from the womb to see labor and sorrow, and my days shall be finished with shame?

JEREMIAH CHAPTER 21

1 The word which was to Jeremiah from Jehovah in king Zedekiah's sending to him Pashur son of Melchiah, and Zephaniah son Maaseiah the priest, saying,

2 Seek now: Jehovah for us; for Nebuchadnezzar king of Babel is warring against us; perhaps Jehovah will do with us his wonders, and he shall go up from us.

3 And Jeremiah will say to them, Thus shall ye say to Zedekiah:

4 Thus said Jehovah God of Israel: Behold me turning about the weapons of war which are in your hands which ye are fighting with them with the king of Babel, and the Chaldeans (New-Babylonians, an Aramaic-speaking nation like Assyrians and Jews), pressing upon you without the wall, and I gathered you to the midst of this city.

5 And I warred with you with a hand stretched out and with an arm of strength, and in anger and in heat and in great wrath.

6 And I struck the inhabitants of this city, and man and beast: in great death they shall die.

7 And after this, says Jehovah, I will give Zedekiah king of Judah, and his servants, and the people, and those being left in this city, from death, from the sword, and from famine, into the hand of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babel, and into the hand of their enemies, and into the hand of them seeking their soul: and he smote them with the mouth of the sword; he shall not have compassion upon them, and he shall not spare, and he shall not pity.

8 And to this people thou shalt say, Thus said Jehovah, Behold me giving before your face the way of life and the way of death.

9 He dwelling in this city shall die. by the sword, and by the famine, and by death: and he going forth and falling to the Chaldeans pressing upon you, shall live, and his soul was to him for booty.

10 For I set my face against this city for evil, and not for good, says Jehovah: into the hand of the king of Babel shall it be given, and it was burnt with fire.

11 And for the house of the king of Judah, hear ye the word of Jehovah:

12 O house of David, thus said Jehovah, Judge judgment for the morning, and deliver him taken by force from the hand of him oppressing, lest my wrath shall go forth as fire, and burn, and none quenching from the face of the evil of your doings.

13 Behold me against thee, thou inhabitress of the valley, rock of the plain, says Jehovah; those saying, Who shall come down against us? and who shall come into our habitations?

14 And I reviewed over you according to the fruit of your doings, says Jehovah: and I kindled a fire in her forest, and it consumed all round about her.

JEREMIAH CHAPTER 22

1 Thus said Jehovah: Go down to the house of the king of Judah and speak there this word,

2 And say, Hear thou the word of Jehovah, O king of Judah, sitting upon the throne of David, thou and thy servants, and thy people coming in to these gates:

3 Thus said Jehovah, Do ye judgment and justice, and deliver him taken by force, from the hand of him oppressing: ye shall not be violent, ye shall not oppress the stranger, the orphan, and the widow, and ye shall not pour but innocent blood in this place.

4 For if doing, ye shall do this word, and kings came into the gates of this house, sitting to David upon his throne, riding in chariots and upon horses, he send his servants and his people.

5 And if ye will not bear these words, by myself I sware, says Jehovah, that this house shall be for a desolation.

6 For thus said Jehovah, concerning the house of the king of Judah: Thou Gilead to me, the head of Lebanon, if I shall not set thee a desert cities not inhabited.

7 And I consecrated destroyers against thee, a man and his weapons: and they cut off from the chosen of thy cedars and cast upon the fire.

8 And many nations passed through this city, and they said a man to his neighbor, For what did Jehovah thus to this great city?

9 And they said, Because they forsook the covenant of Jehovah their God, and they will worship to other gods, and serve them.

10 Ye shall not weep for the dead, and ye shall not bewail for him: weep ye, weep ye for him going away, for he shall no more turn back and see the land of his nativity.

11 For thus said Jehovah to Shallum son of Josiah, king of Judah, reigning, instead of Josiah his father, who went forth from this place: He shall no more return there:

12 For in the place where they carried him captive, there he shall die, and shall no more see this land.

13 Wo to him building his house not with justice, and his upper chambers not with judgment; by his neighbor he will work gratuitously, and he will give him not for his work;

14 Saying, I will build to me a house of extension, and airy upper chambers, and he rent to himself windows; and covered with cedar, and painted with red.

15 Shalt thou reign, for thou art kindled with cedar? did not thy father eat and drink and do judgment and justice, then it was well to him?

16 He judged the judgment of the poor and the needy; then it was well: was this not knowing me? says Jehovah.

17 For thine eyes and thy heart not but for thy plunder and for guiltless blood to pour out, and for oppression and for running, to do.

18 For this, thus said Jehovah of Jehoiakim son of Josiah, king of Judah: They shall not lament for him: Alas, my brother! and, Alas, sister! they shall not lament for him, Alas, lord! and, Alas, the majesty!

19 He shall be buried the burial of an ass, dragged and cast from beyond the gate of Jerusalem.

20 Go up to Lebanon and cry, and in Basilan thou shalt give thy voice and cry from the passages, for all they loving thee were broken.

21 I spake to thee in thy, securities, thou saidst, I will not hear. This thy way from thy youth, for thou heardest not to my voice.

22 The wind shall feed all thy shepherds, and they loving thee shall go into captivity: for then shalt thou be ashamed and disgraced for all thine evil.

23 Thou dwelling in Lebanon, building a nest in the cedars, how being compassionated in pangs coming to thee the pain as of her bringing forth.

24 I live says Jehovah, for if Coniah son of Jehoiakim, king of Judah, shall be the seal upon my right hand, I will pluck thee off from thence.

25 And I gave thee into the hand of those seeking thy soul, and into the hand of whom thou fearest their face, and into the hand of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babel, and into the hand of the Chaldeans

26 And I cast thee and thy mother who bare thee upon another land where ye were not born there, and there shall ye die.

27 And upon the land where they lift up their soul to turn back there, there they shall not turn back.

28 Is this man Coniah a despised broken earthen vessel? or a vessel no delight in it? wherefore they were cast out, he and his seed, and they were cast upon a land which they knew not

29 O earth, earth, earth, hear the word of Jehovah.

30 Thus said Jehovah, Write ye this man destitute, a man shall not prosper in his days: for not a man of his seed shall prosper, sitting upon the throne of David, and ruling yet in Judah.

JEREMIAH CHAPTER 23

1 Wo to the shepherds destroying and scattering the sheep of my pasture! says Jehovah.

2 For this, thus said Jehovah God of Israel, against the shepherds feeding my people: Ye scattered my flock and ye will thrust them away, and ye reviewed them not: behold me reviewing over you the evil of your doings, says Jehovah.

3 And I will gather the remnant of my flock from all the lands where I thrust them away there, and I turned them back to their rests, and they were fruitful and multiplied.

4 And I set up shepherds over them, and they fed them; and they shall no more fear, and they shall not be terrified, and they shall not be reviewed, says Jehovah.

5 Behold the days coming, says Jehovah, and I raised up to David a just sprout, and a king reigned and prospered, and he did judgment and justice in the earth.

6 In his days shall Judah be saved, and Israel shall dwell with confidence: and this his name which he shall be called: Jehovah Our Justice.

7 For this, behold the days coming, says Jehovah, and they shall no more say, Jehovah lives, who brought up the sons of Israel out of the land of Egypt

8 But But Jehovah lives who brought up and who caused the seed of the house of Israel to come from the land of the north, and from all the lands where I thrust them away there; and they shall dwell upon their land.

9 For the prophets my heart was broken in the midst of me, and all my bones were relaxed; I was as a man intoxicated, and as a man wine passing over him, from the face of Jehovah, and from the face of the words of his holiness.

10 For the land was filled from adulteries, for from the face of these the land mourned, the beautiful things of the desert were dried up, and their race will be evil, and their strength not right

11 For also the prophets, also the priests were polluted; also in my house I found their evil, says Jehovah.

12 For this their way shall be to them as slippery places in darkness: they shall be thrust away and they fell in it; for I will bring evil upon them, the year of their reviewing, says Jehovah.

13 And I saw folly in the prophets of Shomeron; they prophesied in Baal, and they will cause my people Israel to wander.

14 And in the prophets of Jerusalem I saw a horrible thing, committing adultery and going in falsehood: and they strengthened the hands of those doing evil, they turned not back a man from his evil: they were to me all of them as Sodom, and those dwelling in her as Gomorrah.

15 For this, thus said Jehovah of armies concerning the prophets, Behold me feeding them with wormwood, and I caused to drink the water of poison: for from the prophets of Jerusalem went forth profaneness to all the earth.

16 Thus said Jehovah of armies, Ye shall not hear to the words of the prophets prophesying to you; they making you vain: they will speak the vision of their heart, not from the mouth of Jehovah.

17 Saying to say to those despising the word of Jehovah, There shall be peace to you; and every one going in the stubbornness of his heart, they said, Evil shall not come to you.

18 For who stood in the consultation of Jehovah, and will see and hear his word who attended to his word and will hear?

19 Behold, the storm of Jehovah went forth with wrath, a piercing storm; it shall be hurled upon the head of the evil ones.

20 The anger of Jehovah shall not turn back till his doing, and till his setting up the purposes of his heart: in the last of the days ye shall understand in it with understanding.

21 I sent not the prophets, and they ran; I spake not to them, and they prophesied.

22 And if they stood in my consultation, and they will cause my people to hear my word, and turn them back from their evil way and from the evil of their doings.

23 Am I God from near, says Jehovah, and not God from far off?

24 If a man shall hide in secret places and I shall not see him, says Jehovah. Do I not fill the heavens and the earth? says Jehovah.

25 I heard what the prophets said, prophesying a falsehood in my name, saying, I dreamed, I dreamed.

26 How long is it in the heart of the prophets prophesying a lie, and prophesying the deceit of their heart?

27 Reckoning to cause my people to forget my name by their dreams which they will recount a man to his neighbor, as their fathers forgat my name in Baal.

28 The prophet whom with him a dream, he will recount a dream; and whom my word with him, he will speak my word in truth. What to the straw with the grain? says Jehovah.

29 So is not my word as fire? says Jehovah; and as a hammer, it will break the rock in pieces.

30 For this, behold me against the prophets, says Jehovah, stealing my words, a man from his neighbor.

31 Behold me against the prophets, says Jehovah, taking their tongue, and they will mutter an oracle.

32 Behold me against them prophesying dreams of falsehood, says Jehovah, and they will recount them, and will cause my people to wander by their falsehoods and by their boasting; and I sent them not, and I commanded them not; and helping, they shall be of no profit to this people, says Jehovah.

33 And when this people, or prophet, or priest, shall ask thee, saying, What the burden of Jehovah? and thou saidst to them, What burden? And I cast you off, says Jehovah.

34 And the prophet and the priest and the people which shall say, The burden of Jehovah, and I reviewed upon that man, and upon his house.

35 Thus shall ye say, a man to his neighbor, a man to his brother, What answered Jehovah? and what spake Jehovah?

36 And ye shall no more make mention of the burden of Jehovah, for the burden to a man shall be his word; and ye perverted the words of the living God, Jehovah of armies our God.

37 Thus shalt thou say to the prophet, What answered Jehovah? and what spake Jehovah?

38 And if ye shall say, The burden of Jehovah; for this, thus said Jehovah, Because ye said this word, The burden of Jehovah, and I shall send to you, saying, Ye shall not say, The burden of Jehovah:

39 Therefore behold me, and neglecting, I deserted you, and I cast you off, and the city which I gave to you and to your fathers from my face.

40 And I gave upon you an eternal reproach and perpetual shame, which shall not be forgotten.

JEREMIAH CHAPTER 24

1 Jehovah showed me, and behold, two baskets of figs set before the face of the temple of Jehovah, after Nebuchadnezzar king of Babel carried away captive Jeconiah son of Jehoiakim, king of Judah, and the chiefs of Judah and the artificers, and the smiths, from Jerusalem, and he will bring them to Babel

2 One basket of figs exceedingly good as the figs first ripe, and the one basket of figs exceedingly evil, which shall not be eaten from being evil.

3 And Jehovah will say to me, What seest thou, Jeremiah? and saying, Figs: the good figs, exceedingly good; and the evil, exceedingly evil, which shall not be eaten from being evil.

4 And the word of Jehovah will be to me, saying,

5 Thus said Jehovah, God of Israel: As these good figs, so will I know the captivity of Judah which I sent out of this place to the land of the Chaldeans for good.

6 And I set mine eyes upon them for good, and I turned them back upon this land: and I built them, and I will not pull down: and I planted them, and I will not pluck up.

7 And I gave to them a heart to know me, that I am Jehovah: and they were to me for a people, and I will be to them for God: for they shall turn back to me with all their heart

8 And as the evil figs which shall not be eaten from being evil; for thus said Jehovah, So will I give Zedekiah king of Judah, and his chiefs, and the remainder of Jerusalem, those remaining in this land, and those dwelling in the land of Egypt:

9 And I gave them for maltreatment, and for evil to all the kingdoms of the earth, for a reproach and for a parable, and for a derision, and for a curse in, all the places which I shall thrust them away there.

10 And I sent among them the sword, the famine, and the death, even to the consuming them from off the land which I gave to them and to their fathers.

JEREMIAH CHAPTER 25

1 The word which was to Jeremiah concerning all the people of Judah, in the fourth year to Jehoiakim, son of Josiah, king of Judah, this the first year to Nebuchadnezzar king of Babel

2 Which Jeremiah the prophet spake to all the people of Judah, all dwelling in Jerusalem, saying,

3 From the thirteenth year of Josiah son of Amon, king of Judah, and even to this day, this the three and twentieth year, the word of Jehovah was to me, and I will speak to you, rising early and speaking, and ye heard not

4 And Jehovah sent to you all his servants the prophets, rising early and sending; and ye heard not, and ye inclined not your ear to hear.

5 Saying, Turn back now each from his evil way, and from the evil of your doings, and dwell upon the land which Jehovah gave to you and to your fathers to from forever and even to forever.

6 And ye shall not go after other gods to serve them and to worship to them, and ye shall not irritate me in the work of your hands; and I will not do evil to you.

7 And ye heard not to me, says Jehovah; so as to irritate me in the works of your hands for evil to you.

8 For this, thus said Jehovah of armies: Because ye heard not my word,

9 Behold me sending, and I took all the families of the north, says Jehovah, to Nebuchadnezzar king of Babel, my servant, and I brought them against this land and against its inhabitants, and against all these nations round about, and I devoted them to destruction, and I set them for a desolation and for a hissing, and for perpetual wastes.

10 And I destroyed from them the voice of joy and the voice of gladness, the voice of the bridegroom and the voice of the bride, the voice of the two millstones and the light of the lamp.

11 All this land was for a waste, for a desolation, and these nations served the king of Babel seventy years.

12 And it was when seventy years were filled up, I will review over the king of Babel and upon this nation, says Jehovah, their iniquity, and upon the land of the Chaldeans, and I set it for eternal desolations

13 And I brought upon this land all the words I spake against it, all being in this book which Jeremiah prophesied against all the nations.

14 For many nations they also served upon them, and great kings: and I requited to them according to their work and according to the doings of their hands.

15 For thus said Jehovah God of Israel to me: Take the cup of wine of this wrath from my hand, and cause all the nations which I sent thee to them to drink it

16 And they drank and they staggered, and they were mad from the face of the sword which I sent in the midst of them.

17 And I shall take the cup from the hand of Jehovah, and I shall cause all the nations. which Jehovah sent me to them to drink.

18 Jerusalem and the cities of Judah and her kings, her chiefs, to give them for a waste and for a desolation, and for a hissing and for a cursing; as this day.

20 And all the intermingled, and all the kings of the land of Uz, and all the kings of the land of the rovers, and Ashkelon, and Azzah, and Ekron, and the remnant of Ashdod,

21 Edom and Moab and the sons of Ammon,

22 And all the kings of Tyre, and all the kings of Zidon, and the kings of the island which is beyond the sea,

23 Dedan and Tema, and Buz, and all the cutting off the extremity,

24 And all the kings of Arabia, and all the kings of the intermingled dwelling in the desert,

25 And all the kings of Zimri, and all the kings of Elam, and all the kings of the Medes.

26 And all the kings of the North, being near and being far off, a man to his brother, and all the kingdoms of the land which are upon the face of the earth: and the king of Sheshach shall drink after them.

27 And say to them, thus said Jehovah of armies, God of Israel, Drink ye and be drunken, and vomit and fall, and ye shall not rise from the face of the sword which I sent in the midst of you.

28 And it was if they shall refuse to take the cup from my hand to drink, and say to them, Thus said Jehovah of armies: Drink ye; ye shall drink.

29 For behold me beginning to do evil upon the city which my name was called upon it; and shall ye being acquitted be unpunished? Ye shall not be unpunished, for I call a sword upon all the inhabitants of the earth, says Jehovah of armies.

30 And thou shalt prophesy to them all these words, and say to them; Jehovah shall roar from on high, and he will give his voice from his holy habitation; roaring, he will roar from his seat; he shall cry aloud as they treading, to all the inhabitants of the earth.

31 A noise came even to the extremity of the earth; for a strife to Jehovah with the nations; he judged for all flesh; he gave them being evil, to the sword, says Jehovah.

32 Thus said Jehovah of armies, Behold, evil shall go forth from nation to nation, and a great storm shall be raised up from the thighs of the earth.

33 And the wounded of Jehovah were in that day from the extremity of the earth and even to the extremity of the earth: they shall not be lamented, and they shall not be gathered, and they shall not be buried; they shall be for dung upon the face of the earth.

34 Wail, ye shepherds, and cry; and wallow yourselves, ye chiefs of the flocks; for your days for slaughter and your dispersions were filled up, and ye fell as a vessel of desire.

37 And the dwellings of peace were destroyed from the face of the burning of the anger of Jehovah.

38 He forsook his booth as the young lion: for their land was for a desolation from the face of the burning of him oppressing, and from the face of the burning of his anger.

JEREMIAH CHAPTER 26

1 In the beginning of the reign of Jehoiakim son of Josiah king of Judah, was this word from Jehovah, saying,

2 Thus said Jehovah, Stand in the enclosure of the house of Jehovah and speak to all the cities of Judah coming to worship in the house of Jehovah, all the words which I command thee to speak to them; thou shalt not withhold a word.

3 Perhaps they will hear and turn back a man from his evil way, and I lamented for the evil which I purposed to do to them from the face of the evil of their doings.

4 And say to them, Thus said Jehovah, If ye will not hear to me to go in my law which I gave before your face,

5 To hear to the words of my servants the prophets which I sent to you, and rising early and sending, and ye heard not;

6 And I gave this house as Shiloh, and this city I will give for cursing to all the nations of the earth.

7 And the priests and the prophets and all the people will hear Jeremiah speaking these words in the house of Jehovah.

8 And it will be as Jeremiah finished to speak all which Jehovah commanded to speak to all the people, and the priests and the prophets and all the people will seize him, saying, Dying, thou shalt die.

9 Wherefore didst thou prophesy in the name of Jehovah, saying, This house shall be as Shiloh, and this city shall be laid waste from none inhabiting? And all the people will be convoked together to Jeremiah in the house of Jehovah.

10 And the chiefs of Judah will hear these words, and they will come up from the king's house to the house of Jehovah, and they will sit in the opening of the new gate of Jehovah.

11 And the priests and the prophets will say to the chiefs, and to all the people, saying, The judgment of death for this man, for he prophesied against this city, as ye heard with your ears.

12 And Jeremiah will say to all the chiefs and to all the people, saying, Jehovah sent me to prophesy against this house and against this city all the words which ye heard.

13 And now make good your ways and your doings, and hear to the voice of Jehovah your God; and Jehovah will lament for the evil which he spake against you.

14 And I, behold me in your hand do to me as the good and right in your eyes:

15 But knowing, ye shall know that if ye put me to death, that ye give innocent blood upon yourselves and upon this city, and to her inhabitants: for in truth Jehovah sent me to you to speak in your ears all these words.

16 And the chiefs will say, and all the people to the priests and to the prophets: Not for this man the judgment of death, for in the name of Jehovah his God he spake to us.

17 And men will rise up from the old men of the land, and they will say to all the convocation of the people, saying,

18 Micah the Morasthite was prophesying in the days of Hezekiah king of Judah, and he will say to all the people of Judah, saying, Thus said Jehovah of armies: Zion shall be ploughed a field, and Jerusalem shall be ruins, and the mountain of the house for the heights of a forest

19 Putting to death, did Hezekiah king of Judah put him to death, and all Judah? Did he not fear Jehovah, and wait for the face of Jehovah, and Jehovah will lament for the evil which he spake against them? And we are doing great evil against our souls.

20 And also a man was prophesying in the name of Jehovah, Urijah son of Shemaiah, from the city of the forests, and he will prophesy against this city and against this land according to all the words of Jeremiah.

21 And king Jehoiakim will hear, and all the great ones, and all the chiefs, his words, and the king will seek to kill him: and Urijah will hear and be afraid, and he will flee and go to Egypt

22 And king Jehoiakim will send men to Egypt, Elnathan, son of Achbor, and men with him to Egypt

23 And they will bring forth Urijah from Egypt and bring him to king Jehoiakim; and he will strike him with the sword, and cast his carcass into the graves of the sons of the people.

24 But the hand of Ahikam son of Shaphan was with Jeremiah not to give him into the hand of the people to kill him.

JEREMIAH CHAPTER 27

1 In the beginning of the reign of Jehoiakim son of Josiah king of Judah was this word to Jeremiah from Jehovah, saying,

2 Thus said Jehovah to me: Make to thee bonds and rods and give them upon thy neck,

3 And send them to the king of Edom, and to the king of Moab, and to the king of the sons of Ammon, and to the king of Tyre, and to the king of Zidon, by the hand of messengers coming to Jerusalem to Zedekiah king of Judah;

4 And command them to say to their lords, Thus said Jehovah of armies God of Israel: Thus shall ye say to your lords:

5 I made the earth, the man and the cattle which are upon the face of the earth, by my great power and by mine arm stretched forth, and I gave it to whom was right in mine eyes.

6 And now I gave all these lands into the hand of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babel, my servant; and also the beasts of the field gave I to him to serve him.

7 And all the nations served him, and his son, and his son's son, even till the time itself also of his land came: and many nations and great kings served upon him.

8 And it was the nation and kingdom which shall not serve him, Nebuchadnezzar king of Babel, and which shall not give his neck in the yoke of the king of Babel, with the sword and with famine and with death I will review upon that nation, says Jehovah, even to my finishing them by his hand.

9 And ye shall not hear to your prophets and to your divinations, and to your dreamers, and to those of you practicing magic, and to your sorcerers, which they are saying to you, saying, Ye shall not serve the king of Babel:

10 For they are prophesying a lie to you so as to remove you far off from your land; and I thrust you away, and ye perished.

11 And the nation which shall bring his neck into the yoke of the king of Babel and serve him, and I gave him rest upon his land, says Jehovah; and he worked it, and dwelt in it

12 And to Zedekiah king of Judah I spake according to all these words, saying, Bring your necks into the yoke of the king of Babel, and serve him and his people, and live.

13 Wherefore will ye die, thou and thy people, by the sword and by famine and by death, as Jehovah spake against the nation who will not serve the king of Babel?

14 And ye shall not bear to the words of the prophets, saying to you, saying, Ye shall not serve the king of Babel; for they are prophesying a lie to you.

15 For I sent them not, says Jehovah, and they are prophesying in my name for falsehood; for my thrusting you away, and ye perish, ye, and the prophets prophesying to you.

16 And to the priests and to all this people I spake, saying, Thus said Jehovah: Ye shall not hear to the words of your prophets prophesying to you, saying, Behold the vessels of the house of Jehovah being now turned back from Babel speedily: for they are prophesying a lie to you.

17 Ye shall not hear to them; serve ye the king of Babel, and live: wherefore shall this city be laid waste?

18 And if they be prophets, and if the word of Jehovah be with them, they shall now supplicate to Jehovah of armies for the vessels being left in the house of Jehovah, and the house of the king of Judah, in Jerusalem, not to go into Babel

19 For thus said Jehovah of armies concerning the pillars, and concerning the sea, and concerning the bases, and concerning the remainder of the vessels being left in this city.

20 Which Nebuchadnezzar king of Babel took them not in his carrying away captive Jeconiah son of Jehoiakim, king of Judah, from Jerusalem into Babel, and all the nobles of Judah and Jerusalem.

21 For thus said Jehovah of armies, God of Israel, concerning the vessels being left in the house of Jehovah, and the house of the king of Judah and Jerusalem:

22 They shall be brought to Babel, and there shall they be till the day of my reviewing them, says Jehovah; and I brought them up and turned them back to this place.

JEREMIAH CHAPTER 28

1 And it will be in this year, in the beginning of the reign of Zedekiah king of Judah, in the fourth year, in the fifth month, Hananiah son of Azur the prophet which was from the hill, said to me in the house of Jehovah, before the eyes of the priests, and all the people, saying,

2 Thus said Jehovah of armies, God of Israel, saving, I broke the yoke of the king of BabeL

3 In yet two years of days I turn back to this place all the vessels of the house of Jehovah which Nebuchadnezzar king of Babel took from this place, and brought them to BabeL

4 And Jeconiah son of Jehoiakim King of Judah, and all the captivity of Judah going to Babel, I turn back to this place, says Jehovah; for I will break the yoke of the king of Babel.

5 And Jeremiah the prophet will say to Hansaiah the prophet, before the eyes of the priests and before the eyes of all the people standing in the house of Jehovah,

6 And Jeremiah the prophet will say, Verily: so will Jehovah do: will Jehovah raise up thy words which thou didst prophesy, to turn back the vessels of the house of Jehovah, and all the captivity from Babel to this place.

7 But hear now this word which I speak in thine ears and in the ears of all the people.

8 The prophets which were before me and before thee from of old, and they will prophesy to many lands and against great kingdoms, for war and for evil and for death.

9 The prophet which will prophesy for peace in the coming of the word of the prophet, the prophet shall be known: that Jehovah sent him in truth.

10 And Hananiah the prophet will take the yoke from off the neck of Jeremiah the prophet, and break it.

11 And Hananiah will say before the eyes of all the people, saying, Thus said Jehovah, Thus will I break the yoke of Nebuchadnezzar the king of Babel in yet two years of days from off the neck of all the nations. And Jeremiah the prophet will go to his way.

12 And the word of Jehovah will be to Jeremiah after Hananiah the prophet broke the yoke from off the neck of Jeremiah the prophet, saying,

13 Go and say to Hananiah, saying, Thus said Jehovah, Thou didst break the staves of wood; but make instead of them staves of iron.

14 For thus said Jehovah of armies, God of Israel, I gave an iron yoke upon the neck of all these nations to serve Nebuchadnezzar king of Babel: and they served him: and also the beasts of the field I gave to him.

15 And Jeremiah the prophet will say to Hananiah the prophet, Hear now, Hananiah; Jehovah sent thee not; and thou didst cause this people to trust upon falsehood.

16 For this, thus said Jehovah, Behold me sending thee from off the face of the earth: this year thou diest, because thou spakest turning away against Jehovah.

17 And Hananiah the prophet will die in this year in the seventh month.

JEREMIAH CHAPTER 29

1 And these the words of the writing which Jeremiah the prophet sent from Jerusalem to the remnant of the old men of the captivity, and to the priests and to the prophets, and to all the people which Nebuchadnezzar carried away captive from Jerusalem to Babel;

2 (After the going forth of Jeconiah, the king and the mistress, and the eunuchs, the chiefs of Judah and Jerusalem, and the artificers, and the smiths, from Jerusalem;)

3 By the hand of Elasah son of Shaphan, and Gemariah, son of Hilkiah, (whom Zedekiah king of Judah sent to Nebuchadnezzar king of Babel, into Babel) saying,

4 Thus said Jehovah of armies, God of Israel, to all the captivity, which I caused to be carried away captive from Jerusalem into Babel:

6 Take ye wives, and beget sons and daughters; and take wives for your sons, and ye shall give your daughters to husbands, and they shall bring forth sons and daughters: and ye be increased there, and ye shall not be diminished.

7 And seek ye the peace of the city where I caused you to be carried away captive there, and pray for it to Jehovah; for in her peace, peace shall be to you.

8 For thus said Jehovah of armies, God of Israel, Your prophets in the midst of you shall not deceive to you, and your diviners and you shall not hear to your dreams which ye dream.

9 For they are prophesying in falsehood to you in my name: I sent them not, says Jehovah.

10 For thus said Jehovah, That according to the filling up to Babel of seventy years I will review you and lift up to you my good word to turn you back to this place.

11 For I knew the purposes which I purposed concerning you, says Jehovah; purposes of peace, and not for evil, to give to you the last part and expectation.

12 And ye called me, and went and prayed to me, and I heard to you.

13 And ye sought me and found, for ye will seek me with all your heart.

14 And I was found to you, says Jehovah: and I turned back your captivity, and I gathered you from all the nations, and from all the places where I thrust you away there says Jehovah; and I turned you back to the place where I caused you to be carried away captive from thence.

15 For ye said Jehovah raised up to us prophets in Babel

16 For thus said Jehovah to the king sitting upon the throne of David, and to all the people dwelling in this city, your brethren which went not forth with you into captivity.

17 Thus said Jehovah of armies, Behold me sending upon them the sword, the famine, and the death, and I gave them as evil figs which shall not be eaten from being evil.

18 And I pursued after them with the sword, with famine and with death, and I gave them for agitation to all the kingdoms of the earth, for a curse and for astonishment, and for hissing and for a reproach among all the nations which I thrust them away there:

19 For that they heard not to my word, says Jehovah, which I sent to them with my servants the prophets, rising early and sending; and ye heard not, says Jehovah.

20 And hear ye the word of Jehovah, all the captivity which I sent from Jerusalem into Babel.

21 Thus said Jehovah of armies, God of Israel, to Ahab son of Kolaiah, and to Zedekiah son of Maaseiah, prophesying a lie to you in my name; Behold, I gave them into the hand of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babel, and he struck them before your eyes;

22 And a curse was taken from them to all the captivity of Judah which are in Babylon, saying, Jehovah will set thee as Zedekiah, and as Ahab, whom the king of Babel roasted them in fire;

23 Because they did folly in Israel, and they will commit adultery with their neighbors' wives, and they will speak the word of a lie in my name, which I commanded them not; and I know, and a witness, says Jehovah.

24 And to Shemaiah the Nehelamite thou shalt say, saying,

25 Thus said Jehovah of armies, God of Israel, saying, Because thou didst send writings as thy name to all the people which are in Jerusalem, and to Zephaniah son of Maaseiah the priest, and to the priests, saying,

26 Jehovah gave thee priest instead of Jehoida the priest to be overseers of the house of Jehovah, and for every man raving and prophesying, and give him to the stocks and to the prison.

27 And now wherefore didst thou not reprove with Jeremiah of Anathoth prophesying to you?

28 For, for this, he sent to us in Babel, saying, This is long: build ye houses, and inhabit; plant gardens, and eat their fruit

29 And Zephaniah the priest will read this writing in the ears of Jeremiah the prophet.

30 And the word of Jehovah will be to Jeremiah, saying,

31 Send to all the captivity, saying, Thus said Jehovah to Shemaiah the Nehelamite; Because Shemaiah prophesied to you, and I sent him not, and he will cause you to trust in falsehood:

32 For this, thus said Jehovah, Behold me reviewing upon Shemaiah the Nehelamite, and upon his seed: there shall not be to him a man in the midst of this people; and he shall not look upon the good I do to ray people, says Jehovah; for he spake turning away against Jehovah.

JEREMIAH CHAPTER 30

1 The word which was to Jeremiah from Jehovah, saying,

2 Thus said Jehovah God of Israel, saying, Write for thee all the words which I spake to thee upon the writing.

3 For behold, the days coming, says Jehovah, and I turned back the captivity of my people Israel and Judah, said Jehovah: and I turned them back to the land which I gave to their fathers, and they shall inherit it

4 And these the words which Jehovah spake to Israel and to Judah.

5 For thus said Jehovah; We heard the voice of fear and of terror, and not of peace

6 Ask ye now, and see if a male brought forth? wherefore did I see every man his hands upon his loins as she bringing forth, and all faces were turned to paleness?

7 Alas! for that day is great from none being like it: and this the time of straits to Jacob and he shall be saved from it.

8 And it was in that day, says Jehovah of armies, I will break his yoke from off thy neck, and I will tear away thy bonds, and strangers shall no more serve upon him.

9 And they served Jehovah their God, and David their king whom I will raise up to them.

10 And thou my servant Jacob shall not fear, says Jehovah, and thou Israel shalt not be dismayed: for behold me saving thee from far off, and thy seed from the land of their captivity; and Jacob turned back and rested, and was quiet, and none making afraid.

11 For I am with thee, says Jehovah, to serve thee: for I will make a completion to all nations where I scattered thee there, but with thee I will not make a completion: and I corrected thee for judgment, and acquitting, I will not let thee go unpunished.

12 For thus said Jehovah, Thy breaking is incurable, and thy blow sickly.

13 None judging thy judgment for binding up: no healing will come up to thee.

14 All loving thee forgat thee; they will not seek thee; for I struck thee the blow of an enemy, the correction of the cruel one, for the multitude of thine iniquity; thy sins were strong.

15 Why wilt thou cry for thy breaking? thy pain is incurable for the multitude of thine iniquity: thy sins were strong, I did these things to thee.

16 For this, all consuming thee shall be consumed; and all thine adversaries, all of them shall go into captivity; and they spoiling thee, were for spoiling, and all plundering thee I will give to plunder.

17 For I will bring up healing to thee, and I will heal thee of thy blows, says Jehovah: for they called to thee an outcast: This is Zion, none seeking for her.

18 Thus said Jehovah, Behold me turning back the captivity of Jacob's tents, and I will compassionate his habitations; and the city was built upon her hill, and the palace sat upon its judgment

19 And thanksgiving shall go forth from them, and the voice of those playing, and I multiplied them, and they shall not be few; and I honored them, and they shall not be small.

20 And their sons were as of old, and their testimony shall be prepared before me, and I reviewed upon all pressing them,

21 And his mighty one was from himself, and his ruler shall go forth from his midst.; and I caused him to draw near, and he came near to me: for who this pledging his heart to approach to me? says Jehovah.

22 And ye were to me for a people, and I will be to you for God.

23 Behold, the storm of Jehovah went forth with wrath, a cutting storm: it shall be hurled upon the head of the wicked.

24 The burning of the anger of Jehovah shall not turn, back till his doing, and till his setting up the thoughts of his heart: in the last of the days ye shall have understanding in it

JEREMIAH CHAPTER 31

1 In that time, says Jehovah, I will be for God to all the families of Israel, and they shall be to me for a people.

2 Thus said Jehovah, The people escaped of the sword found grace in the desert; Israel going to cause him to rest

3 Jehovah was seen to me from afar off; and I loved thee an eternal love: for this I drew thee in kindness.

4 I will yet build thee, and thou wert built, O virgin of Israel: thou shalt yet be adorned with the tabret, and thou wentest forth into the dance of those playing.

5 Thou shalt yet plant vines upon the mountains of Shomeron: they planting, planted, and they made common

6 For there is a day they watching upon mount Ephraim called, Arise ye, and we will go up to Zion to Jehovah our God.

7 For thus said Jehovah, Shout gladness to Jacob, and cry aloud to the head of the nations: cause ye to be heard, praise ye and say, O Jehovah save thy people, the remnant of Israel.

8 Behold me bringing them from the land of the north, and I gathered them from the thighs of the earth, with them the blind and the lame, her being Pregnant, and her bringing forth together: a great convocation shall turn back hither.

9 In weeping will they come, and I will lead them in mercies; I will cause them to go to the streams of waters in a straight way; they shall not stumble in it: for I was to Israel for a father, and Ephraim he is my first-born.

10 Hear the word of Jehovah, ye nations, and announce in the islands from far off, and say, He scattering Israel will gather him, and watch him as the shepherd his flock.

11 For Jehovah redeemed Jacob, and ransomed him from the hand of the stronger than he.

12 And they came and shouted in the height of Zion, and they flowed together to the goodness of Jehovah, for the grain and for the new wine, and for the oil, and for the sons of the flock and the herd: and their soul was as a watered garden, and they shall not add to pine away any more.

13 Then shall the virgin rejoice in the dance, and the young men and old men together: and I turned their mourning to joy, and I comforted them and caused them to rejoice from their sorrow.

14 And I satiated the soul of the priests with fatness and my people shall be satisfied with my goodness, says Jehovah.

15 Thus said Jehovah, A voice was heard in Ramah, lamentation, weeping of bitterness; Rachel, weeping for her sons, refused to be comforted for her sons, for they are not 16 Thus said Jehovah, Restrain thy voice from weeping, and thine eyes from tears: for there is a reward to thy work, says Jehovah; and they turned back from the land of the enemy.

17 And there is hope to thy latter state, says Jehovah, and thy sons turned back to their bound.

18 Hearing, I heard Ephraim being thrust away: Thou didst correct me, and I shall be corrected as a calf not being taught: turn me back and I shall be turned back, for thou Jehovah my God.

19 For after my being turned back I was comforted; and after my knowing I struck upon the thigh: I was ashamed and also disgraced for I bore the reproach of my youth.

20 Is Ephraim a precious son to me? if a child of delights? for whenever my speaking against him, remembering, I shall remember him yet; for this the bowels were put in motion to me compassionating, I will compassionate him, says Jehovah.

21 Set up to thee thorns, set to thee bitternesses: place thy heart to the highway, the way thou wentest: turn back, O virgin of Israel, turn back to these thy cities.

22 How long wilt thou wander about, O daughter turning away? for Jehovah created a new thing in the earth: A female shall go about a male.

23 Thus said Jehovah of armies, God of Israel: Yet shall they say this word in the land of Judah and in its cities, in my turning back their captivity; Jehovah shall bless thee, thou habitation of justice, thou mountain of holiness

24 And in Judah shall dwell in it, and in all its cities together, husband-men, and they removed with the flock.

25 For I satiated the weary soul, and every soul pining away I filled.

26 Upon this I awoke, and I shall see; and my sleep sweet to me

27 Behold, the days coming, says Jehovah, and I sowed the house of Israel and the house of Judah, the seed of man and the seed of beast.

28 And it was as I watched over them to pluck up and to break down, and to destroy and to cut off, and to break in pieces; so will I watch over them to build and to plant, says Jehovah.

29 In those days they shall no more say, The fathers ate sour grapes and the sons' teeth will be blunted.

31 Behold the days coming, says Jehovah, and I cut out the house of Israel and the house of Judah a new covenant

32 Not according to the covenant which I cut out with their fathers in the day I laid hold upon their hand to bring them forth out of the land of Egypt; which they brake my covenant, and I was Lord over them, says Jehovah.

33 For this the covenant that I will cut out with the house of Israel: After those days, says Jehovah; I gave my law in the midst of them, and upon their heart will I write it; and I was to them for God, and they shall be to me for a people.

34 And they shall teach no more a man his neighbor and a man his brother, saying, Know Jehovah: for they all shall know me to their small and even to their great, says Jehovah: for I will forgive their iniquity, and to their sin I will have no more remembrance

35 Thus said Jehovah, giving the sun for light the day, the laws of the moon and the stars for a light the night., causing the sea to tremble, and its waves shall roar; Jehovah of armies his name.

36 If these laws shall depart from my face, says Jehovah, also the seed of Israel shall cease from being a nation before me all the days.

37 Thus said Jehovah: If the heavens from above shall be measured, and the foundations of the earth shall be searched out beneath, I also will reject in all the seed of Israel for all which they did, says Jehovah.

38 Behold the days, says Jehovah, and the city was built to Jehovah, from the tower of Hananeel, even to the gate of the corner.

39 And the line of measure shall yet go forth over against it upon the hill Gareb, and it went about Goath.

40 And all the valley of the carcasses and the ashes, and all the fields even to the torrent Kidron, even to the corner of the gate of horses, from the sunrising, a holy place to Jehovah; it shall not be plucked up, and it shall no more be destroyed forever.

JEREMIAH CHAPTER 32

1 The word which was to Jeremiah from Jehovah in the tenth year to Zedekiah king of Judah, this year the eighteenth year to Nebuchadnezzar.

2 And then the strength of the king of Babel pressed upon Jerusalem: and Jeremiah the prophet was shut up in the enclosure of the prison which was in the house of the king of Judah.

3 For Zedekiah king of Judah shut him up, saying, Wherefore prophesiest thou, saying, Thus said Jehovah,

Behold me giving this city into the hand of the king of Babel, and he took it

4 And Zedekiah king of Judah shall not escape from the hand of the Chaldeans, for giving, he shall be given into the hand of the king of Babel, and speaking to him, his mouth with his mouth, and his eyes shall see his eyes:

5 And he shall call Zedekiah to go to Babel, and he shall be there till my reviewing him, says Jehovah: if ye shall war with the Chaldeans, ye shall not prosper.

6 And Jeremiah will say, The word of Jehovah was to me, saying,

7 Behold, Hanameel son of Shallum thine uncle, coming to thee, saying, Buy to thee my field which is in Anathoth: for to thee the judgment of redemption to-day.

8 And Hanameel mine uncle's son will come to me according to the word of Jehovah, to the enclosure of the prison, and he will say to me, Buy now, my field, which is in Anathoth, in the land of Benjamin: for to thee judgment of possession, and to thee the redemption; buy to thee, and I shall know that this is the word of Jehovah.

9 And I shall buy the field of Hanameel son of mine uncle, which is in Anathoth; and I shall weigh to him seven shekels and ten of silver.

10 And I shall write in a book, and seal and affirm witnesses, and weigh the silver in the balances.

11 And I will take the book of the purchase, being sealed, the command and laws, and being unrolled:

12 And I shall give the writing of the purchase to Baruch, son of Neriah, son of Maaseiah, before the eyes of Hanamed mine uncle, and before the eyes of the witnesses, writing in the book of the purchase before the eves of all the Jews sitting in the enclosure of the prison.

13 And I shall command Baruch before their eyes, saying,

14 Thus said Jehovah of armies, God of Israel, take these writings, this writing of the purchase, and the sealed, and this writing unrolled, and give them into an earthern vessel, so that they shall stand many days.

15 For thus said Jehovah of armies, God of Israel, Houses and fields and vineyards shall yet be bought in this land.

16 And I shall pray to Jehovah, after my giving the writing of the purchase to Baruch son of Neriah, saying,

17 Thou Lord Jehovah! behold thou madest the heavens and the earth by thy great power and by thine arm stretched forth; any word shall not be separated from thee.

18 Doing kindness to thousands and requiting the iniquity of the fathers into the bosom of their sons after them: The Great, The Strong God, Jehovah of armies his name.

19 Great of counsel, and vast of doing: for thine eyes being opened upon all the ways of the sons of men to give to each according to his ways, and to the fruit of his doings:

20 Who set signs and wonders in the land of Egypt, even to this day, and in Israel, and in man; and thou wilt make to thee a name according to this day.

21 And thou wilt bring forth thy people Israel from the land of Egypt with signs and with wonders, and with a strong hand and with an arm stretched forth, and with great fear:

22 And thou wilt give to them this land which thou swarest to their fathers to give to them, a land flowing milk and honey.

23 And they will come in and possess it; and they heard not to thy voice, and they went not in thy law; all which thou didst command to them to do they did not, and thou wilt cause all this evil to befall them.

24 Behold the mounds, they came to the city to take it; and the city was given into the hand of the Chaldees warring against it from the face of the sword, and the famine, and the death; and it was what thou spakest; and behold thee seeing.

25 And thou saidst to me, O Lord Jehovah, Buy to thee the field for silver, and affirm witnesses; and the city was given into the hand of the Chaldeans.

26 And the word of Jehovah will be to Jeremiah, saying,

27 Behold, I am Jehovah, God of all flesh: is there any word separated from me?

28 For this, thus said Jehovah, Behold me giving this city into the hand of the Chaldeans, and into the hand of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babel, and he took it

29 And the Chaldeans warring against this city came, and they burnt this city in fire, and they burnt it and the houses which they burnt incense upon their roofs to Baal*, and they poured out libations to other gods to irritate me. (* or Bel, Lord; a deity that was worshipped in the entire Middle East until it fell out of favour; see: The Baal Cycle, The Grand Bible, pp. 2165)

30 For the sons of Israel and the sons of Judah were only doing evil in mine eyes from their youth: for the sons of Israel were only irritating me with the work of their hands, says Jehovah.

31 For this city was to me for mine anger and for my wrath, from the day which they built it and even to this day, to remove it from my face.

32 For all the evil of the sons of Israel and the sons of Judah which they did to irritate me, they, their kings, their chiefs, their priests, and their prophets, and the man Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem.

33 And they will turn to me the neck and not the face: and teaching them, and rising early and teaching, and they not hearing to receive instruction.

34 And they will set their abominations in the house which my name was called upon it, to defile it

35 And they will build the heights of Baal which are in the valley of the son of Hinnom, to cause their sons and their daughters to pass through to Molech, which I commanded them not; and it came not up upon my heart to do this abomination to cause Judah to sin.

36 And now for this, thus said Jehovah, God of Israel, to this city of which ye are saying, It was given into the hand of the king of Babel by sword and by famine, and by death.

37 Behold me gathering them from all the lands where I thrust them away there in mine anger, and in my wrath, and in great anger; and I turned them back to this place, and I caused them to dwell with confidence.

38 And they were to me for a people, and I will be to them for God.

39 And I gave to them one heart and one way, to fear me all the days, for good to them and to their sons after them.

40 And I cut out to them an eternal covenant that I will not turn back from after them, to do them good; and I will give my fear in their heart not to turn away from me.

41 And I rejoiced over them to do them good, and I planted them in this land in truth with all my heart and with all my soul

42 For thus said Jehovah, As I brought to this people all this great evil, so I bring upon them all the good which I speak concerning them.

43 And the field was purchased in in this land which ye are saying, It is a desolation without man and cattle; it was given into the hand of the Chaldeans.

44 They shall buy fields with silver, and write thou in the book, and seal and affirm witnesses in the land of Benjamin, and in round about Jerusalem, and in the cities of Judah, and in the cities of the mountain, and in the cities of the low country, and in the cities of the south: for I will turn back their captivity, says Jehovah.

JEREMIAH CHAPTER 33

1 And the word of Jehovah will be to Jeremiah the second time, and he yet shut up in the enclosure of the prison, saying,

2 Thus said Jehovah making it Jehovah forming it, to prepare it, Jehovah his name:

3 Call to me and I will answer thee, and I will announce to thee great and mighty things which thou knewest them not

4 For thus said Jehovah, God of Israel, concerning the houses of this city, and concerning the houses of the kings of Judah, being torn away to the mounds and to the sword;

5 Coming to war with the Chaldeans, and to fill them with the corpses of man whom I struck in mine anger and in my wrath, and that I hid my face from this city for all their wickedness.

6 Behold me bringing up to it health and healing, and healing them, and I uncovered to them the abundance of peace and truth.

7 And I turned back the captivity of Judah and the captivity of Israel and I built them as at the first.

8 And I cleansed them from all their iniquity which they sinned to me, and which they transgressed against me.

9 And it was to me for a name of joy, for a praise and for an honor to all the nations of the earth who shall hear all the good which I did them: and they trembled and were moved for all the good and for all the peace which I did to it

10 Thus said Jehovah: Yet shall be heard in this place which ye were saying it was laid waste without man and without cattle, in the cities of Judah and in the streets of Jerusalem, being desolate without man and without inhabitant, and without cattle,

11 The voice of joy and the voice of gladness, the voice of the bridegroom and the voice of the bride, the voice of those saying, Praise ye Jehovah of armies: for Jehovah is good, for his mercy is forever: of them bringing thanksgiving to the house of Jehovah; for I will turn back the captivity of the land as at the first, said Jehovah.

12 Thus said Jehovah of armies: Yet shall be in this place being laid waste without man and without cattle, and in all its cities, the habitation of the shepherds causing the sheep to lie down.

13 In the cities of the mountain, in the cities of the low country, and in the cities of the south, and in the land of Benjamin, and in round about Jerusalem, and in the cities of Judah, shall the sheep yet pass through upon the hand of him numbering, said Jehovah.

14 Behold, the days coming, says Jehovah, and I raised up the good word which I spake to the house of Israel and for the house of Judah.

15 In those days and in that time I will cause the sprout of justice to spring up to David; and he did judgment and justice in the land.

16 In those days shall Judah be saved, and Jerusalem shall dwell with confidence; and this is what shall be called to her: Jehovah our Justice.

17 For thus said Jehovah, I will not cut off to David a man sitting upon the throne of the house of Israel;

18 And to the priests, the Levites, I will not cut off a man from my face bringing up burnt-offerings, and burning the gift, and doing sacrifice all the days.

19 And the word of Jehovah will be to Jeremiah, saying,

20 Thus said Jehovah, If ye shall break my covenant of the day and my covenant of the night, and there was not day and night in their season;

21 Also my covenant shall be broken with David ray servant from there being to him a son reigning upon his throne; and with the Levites, the priests, from serving me.

22 As the army of the heavens shall not be numbered and the sand of the sea shall not be measured: so will I multiply the seed of David my servant, and the Levites serving me.

23 And the word of Jehovah will be to Jeremiah, saying,

24 Sawest thou not what this people spake, saying, The two families which Jehovah chose in them, and he will reject them? and they will despise my people from being yet a nation before them.

25 Thus said Jehovah, If not my covenant of the day and of the night, the laws of the heavens and the earth I set not up.

26 Also the seed of Jacob, and David my servant, will I reject from taking from his seed those ruling over the seed of Abraham, Isaak, and Jacob for I will turn back their captivity, and I compassionated them.

JEREMIAH CHAPTER 34

1 The word that was to Jeremiah from Jehovah and Nebuchadnezzar king of Babel, and all his strength, and all the kingdoms of the earth, the dominion of his hand, and all the peoples warring against Jerusalem, and against all its cities, saying

2 Thus said Jehovah, God of Israel, Go and say to Zedekiah king of Judah, and say to him, Thus said Jehovah, Behold me giving this city into the band of the king of Babel, and he burnt it with fire.

3 And thou shalt not escape from his hand, for being seized, thou shalt be seized and be given into his hand; and thine eyes shall see the eyes of the king of Babel, and his mouth shall speak to thy mouth, and thou shalt go to Babel.

4 But hear the word of Jehovah, O Zedekiah, king of Judah: Thus said Jehovah concerning thee, Thou shalt not die by the sword:

5 In peace shalt thou die; and with the burnings of thy fathers the former kings which were before thee, thus shall they burn for thee; and, Alas, Lord they shall mourn for thee; for I spake the word, says Jehovah.

6 And Jeremiah the prophet will speak to Zedekiah king of Judah all these words in Jerusalem.

7 And the strength of the king of Babel warred against Jerusalem, and against all the cities of Judah being left against Lachish, and against Azekah: for these remained of the cities of Judah, fortified cities.

8 The word which was to Jeremiah from Jehovah after king Zedekiah cut out a covenant with all the people which were in Jerusalem, to call to them liberty;

9 For a man to send away his servant, and a man his maid, the Hebrew or the Hebrewess, free; for a man not to serve with them with a Jew his brother.

10 And all the chiefs will hear, and all the people which came into the covenant, to send away a man his servant and a man his maid, free, no more to serve with them, and they will hear and will send away.

11 And they will turn back after this, and they will cause their servants and their maids to turn back whom they sent away free, and they subdued them for servants and for maids.

12 And the word of Jehovah will be to Jeremiah from Jehovah, saying,

13 Thus said Jehovah, God of Israel, I cut out a covenant with your fathers in the day of my bringing them forth out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of servants, saying,

14 From the end of seven years ye shall send away a man his brother, the Hebrew who shall be sold to thee, and serving thee six years, and send him away free from thee; and your fathers heard not to me and inclined not their ear

15 And ye will turn back to-day and do the straight in mine eyes, to call liberty a man to his neighbor; and ye will cut out a covenant before me in the house which my name was called upon it

16 And ye will turn back and pollute my name, and ye will cause to turn back a man his servant and a man his maid, whom ye sent away free to their soul, and ye will subdue them to be to you for servants and for maids

17 For this, thus said Jehovah, Ye heard not to me to call liberty, a man to his brother and a man to his neighbor behold me calling to you lliberty, says Jehovah, to the sword, to the death and to the famine; and I gave you for agitation to all the kingdoms of the earth.

18 And I gave the men passing by my covenant who raised not up the words of the covenant which they cut out before me, the calf which they cut in two, and they will pass through between its parts.

19 The chiefs of Judah, and the chiefs of Jerusalem, the eunuchs and the priests, and all the people of the land passing between the parts of the calf.

20 And I gave them into the hand of their enemies and into the hand of those seeking their soul; and their corpses were for food to the birds of the heavens and to the beasts of the earth.

21 And Zedekiah, king of Judah, and his chiefs, I will give into the hand of their enemies, and, into the hand of those seeking their soul, and into the hand of the army of the king of Babel going up from you.

22 Behold me commanding, says Jehovah; and I turned them back to this city, and they warred against it and took it, and burnt it in fire: and the cities of Judah will I give to desolation from none inhabiting.

JEREMIAH CHAPTER 35

1 The word which was to Jeremiah from Jehovah in the days of Jehoiakim, son of Josiah, king of Judah, saying,

2 Go to the house of the Rechabites and speak with them, and bring them to the house of Jehovah, to one of the chambers, and give them wine to drink

3 And I shall take Jaazaniah son of Jeremiah, son of Habazaniah and his brethren, and all his sons, and all the house of the Rechabites;

4 And I shall bring them to the house of Jehovah to the chamber of the sons of Hanan, son of Igdaliah, a man of God, which was near the chamber of the chiefs, which was from above to the chamber of Maaseiah, son of Shallum, watching the threshold.

5 And I shall give before the sons of the house of the Rechabites, pots full of wine, and cups, and saying to them, Drink ye wine.

6 And they will say, We shall not drink wine: for Jonadab, son of Rechab our father, commanded to us, saying, Ye shall not drink wine, ye and your sons even to forever.

7 And ye shall not build a house, and ye shall not sow seed, and ye shall not plant a vineyard, and it shall not be, to you: for in tents shall ye dwell all your days, so that ye shall live many days upon the face of the earth where ye are strangers there.

8 And we will hear to the voice of Jonadab son of Rechab our father, for all which he commanded us, not to drink wine all our days, we, our wives, our sons, and our daughters;

9 Not to build houses for our dwelling; and vineyard and field and seed shall not be to us.

10 And we will dwell in tents, and we will hear and we will do according to all which Jonadab our father commanded us.

11 And it will be in the coming up of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babel, to the land, and we shall say, Come, and we will go to Jerusalem from the face of the army of the Chaldean, and from the face of the army of Aram, and we will dwell in Jerusalem.

12 And the word of Jehovah will be to Jeremiah, saying,

13 Thus said Jehovah of armies, God of Israel, Go and say to the man Judah and to the inhabitants of Jerusalem, Will ye not receive instruction to hear to my word? says Jehovah.

14 The words of Jonadab son of Rechab who commanded his sons not to drink wine, were raised up; and they drank not even to this clay, for they heard the command of their father: and spake to you, rising early and speaking; and ye heard not to me.

15 And I shall send to you all my servants the prophets, rising early and sending, saying, Turn ye back now each from his evil way, and make good your doings, and ye shall not go after other gods to serve them, and turn ye back to the land which I gave to you and to your fathers: and ye inclined not your ear and ye heard not to me.

16 For the sons of Jonadab son of Rechab raised up the commands of their father which be commanded them; and this people heard not to me.

17 For this, thus said Jehovah, God of armies, God of Israel, Behold me bringing to Judah and to all the inhabitants of Jerusalem, all the evil which I spake concerning them; because I spake to them and they heard not; and I shall call to them and they answered not

18 And Jeremiah said to the house of the Reehabites, Thus said Jehovah of armies, God of Israel, Because that ye heard to the command of Jonadab your father, and ye will watch all his commands, and ye will do all which he commanded you:

19 For this, thus said Jehovah of armies, God of Israel, A man shall not be cut off to Jonadab son of Rechab, to stand before my face all the days.

JEREMIAH CHAPTER 36

1 And it will be in the fourth year of Jehoiakim, son of Josiah king of Judah, this word being to Jeremiah from Jehovah, saying,

2 Take to thee a roll of writing, and write in it all the words which I spake to thee against Israel and against Judah, and against all the nations, from the day I spake to thee from the days of Josiah and even to this day.

3 Perhaps the house of Judah will hear all the evil which I purpose to do to them; so that they will turn back each from his evil way; and I pardoned their iniquity and their sin.

4 And Jeremiah will call Baruch the son of Neriah: and Baruch will write from the mouth of Jeremiah all the words of Jehovah which he spake to him upon the roll of the book.

5 And Jeremiah will command Baruch, saying, I being shut up shall not be able to go into the house of Jehovah:

6 And go thou and read in the roll which thou wrotest from my mouth, the words of Jehovah in the ears of the people in the house of Jehovah in the day of fasting: and also in the ears of all Judah coming from their cities thou shalt read them.

7 Perhaps their mercy will fall before the face of Jehovah, and they will turn back each from his evil way: for great the anger and the wrath which Jehovah spake against this people.

8 And Baruch son of Neriah will do according to all which Jeremiah the prophet commanded him, to read in the book the words of Jehovah in the house of Jehovah.

9 And it will be in the fifth year to Jehoiakim son of Josiah king of Judah, in the ninth month, they called a fast before Jehovah to all the people in Jerusalem, and all the people coming from the cities of Judah into Jerusalem.

10 And Baruch will read in the book all the words of Jeremiah hi the house of Jehovah in the chamber of Gemariah son of Shaphan the scribe, in the enclosure the highest of the entrance of the new gate of the house of Jehovah, in the ears of all the people.

11 And Micaiah son of Gemariah son of Shaphan, will hear all the words of Jehovah from the book

12 And he will go down to the house of the king to the scribe's chamber, and behold, there all the chiefs sitting, Elishama the scribe, and Delaiah son of Shemaiah, and Elnathan son of Achbor, and Gemariah son of Shaphan, and Zedekiah son of Hananiah, and all the chiefs.

13 And Micaiah will announce to them all the words which he heard in the reading of Baruch in the book in the ears of the people.

14 And all the chiefs will send to Baruch, Jehudi, son of Nethaniah, son of Shelemiah, son of Cushi, saying, The roll in which thou readest in the ears of the people, take it in thy hand and come. And Baruch the son of Neriah will take the roll in his hand, and come to them.

15 And they will say to him, Sit down now, and read it in our ears And Baruch will read in their ears.

16 And it will be when they heard all the words, they trembled, a man with his neighbor, and they will say to Baruch, Announcing, we will announce to the king all these words.

17 And they asked Baruch, saying, Announce now to us how thou didst write all these words from his mouth?

18 And Baruch will say to them, From his mouth he will read to me all these words, and I will write upon the book with ink.

19 And the chiefs will say to Baruch, Go hide, thou, and Jeremiah; and a man not knowing where ye are.

20 And they will come in to the king to the enclosure, and they deposited the roll in the chamber of Elishama the scribe, and they will announce all the words in the ears of the king.

21 And the king will send Jehudi to take the roll: and he took it from the chamber of Elishama the scribe. And Jehudi will read in the ears of the king and in the ears of all the chiefs standing from about the king.

22 And the king will sit in the winter house in the ninth month, and a furnace burning before him.

23 And it will be as Jehudi read three columns and four, he will rend it with the knife of the scribe, and cast into the fire which was in the furnace, even till all the roll was consumed upon the fire which was upon the furnace.

24 And they trembled not, and they rent not their garments, the king and all his servants hearing all these words.

25 And also Elnathan and Delaiah and Gemariah supplicated to the king not to burn the roll: and he heard to them not

26 And the king commanded Jerahmeel, son of the king, and Seraiah, son of Azriel, and Shelemiah, son of Abdeel, to take Baruch the scribe and Jeremiah the prophet; and Jehovah will hide them..

27 And the word of Jehovah will be to Jeremiah after the king burnt the roll, and the words which Baruch wrote from the mouth of Jeremiah, saying,

28 Turn back, take to thee another roll, and write upon it all the former words which were upon the first roll which Jehoiakim king of Judah, burnt

29 And to Jehoiakim king of Judah thou shalt say, Thus said Jehovah, Thou didst burn this roll, saying, Wherefore didst thou write upon it, saying, Coining, the king of Babel shall come and destroy this land, and cause to cease from it man and cattle?

30 For this, thus said Jehovah concerning Jehoiakim, king of Judah, He sitting upon the throne of David shall not be to him, and his corpse shall be cast out to the heat in the day, and to the cold in the night

31 And I reviewed upon him, and upon his seed, and upon his servants, their iniquity; and I brought upon them and upon the inhabitants of Jerusalem, and upon the men of Judah all the evil which I spake against them, and they heard not.

32 And Jeremiah took another roll, and he will give it to Baruch son of Neriah the scribe; and he will write upon it from the mouth of Jeremiah all the words of the book which Jehoialtim king of Judah burnt in the fire: and he added. yet to them many words like them.

JEREMIAH CHAPTER 37

1 And king Zedekiah son of Josiah will reign instead of Coniah son of Jehoiakim, whom Nebuchadnezzar king of Babel made king in the land of Judah.

2 And he heard not, he and his servents, and the people of the land, to the words of Jehovah which he spake by the hand of Jeremiah the prophet.

3 And king Zedekiah will send Jehucal son of Shelemiah and Zephaniah, son of Maaseiah the priest, to Jeremiah the prophet, saying, Pray now for us to Jehovah our God.

4 And Jeremiah came and went forth in the midst of the people and they gave him not to the house of the prison.

5 And Pharaoh's army came forth out of Egypt; and the Chaldeans pressing upon Jerusalem will hear their report, and they will come up from Jerusalem

6 And the word of Jehovah, will be to Jeremiah the prophet, saying,

7 Thus said Jehovah God of Israel, Thus shall ye say to the king of Judah. sending you to me to seek me out, Behold the army of Pharaoh coming forth to you for help, turning back to its land of Egypt

8 And the Chaldeans turned back and mimed against this city, and took hand burnt it with fire.

9 Thus said Jehovah, Ye shall not lift up Your souls, saying, Departing, the Chaldeans will go from us: for they shall not go.

10 For if ye struck all the army of the Chaldeans warring with you, and men thrust through remained among them, they shall arise a man in his tent and burn this city in fire.

11 And it was in the going up of the army of the Chaldees from the face of the army of Pharaoh.

12 And Jeremiah went forth from Jerusalem to go to the land of Benjamin to distribute from thence in the midst of the people.

13 And he will be in the gate of Benjamin, and there a master of the ward and his name Irijah son of Shelemiah, son of Hananiah; and he will take Jeremiah the prophet, saying, Thou fallest to the Chaldeans.

14 And Jeremiah will say, A falsehood; I fall not to the Chaldean: And he heard not to him: and Irijah will seize upon Jeremiah and he will bring him to the chiefs.

15 And the chiefs will be angry against Jeremiah and they struck him, and gave him to the house of bonds the house of Jonathan the scribe: for they made it for a house of prison.

16 For Jeremiah came to the house of the pit, and to the vaults, and Jeremiah sat there many days.

17 And king Zedekiah will send and take him, and the king will ask him in his house in secret, and say, Is there a word from Jehovah? and Jeremiah will say, There is: and he will say, Into the hand of the king of Babel shalt thou be given.

18 And Jeremiah will say to king Zedekiah, What did I sin against thee, and against thy servants, and against this people that thou gavest me to the house of the prison?

19 And where now your prophets who prophesied to you, saying, The king of Babel shall not come against you and against this land?

20 And now, hear now my lord the king: my mercy shall fall now before thy face, and thou shalt not cause me to turn back to the house of Jonathan the scribe, and I shall not die there.

21 And king Zedekiah will command, and they will commit Jeremiah to the enclosure of the prison, and giving to him a round of bread for the day from the street of the baker's, till all the bread was consumed out of the city. And Jeremiah dwelt in the enclosure of the prison.

JEREMIAH CHAPTER 38

1 And Shephatiah son of Mattan, will hear, and Gedaliah son of Pashur, and Jucal son of Shelemiah, and Pashur son of Malchiah, the words which Jeremiah was speaking to all the people, saying,

2 Thus said Jehovah, He dwelling in this city shall die by the sword, by the famine, and by death; and he going forth to the Chaldeans shall live; and his soul was to him for booty, and he lived.

3 Thus said Jehovah, Being given, this city shall be given into the hand of the army of the king of Babel, and he took it.

4 And the chiefs will say to the king, Now shall this man be put to death: for thus he is relaxing the hands of the men of war remaining in this city, and the hands of all the people to speak to them according to these words; for this man sought not for peace to this people but for evil.

5 And king Zedekiah will say, Behold him in your hands; for the king will not be able a word with you.

6 And they will take Jeremiah and send him to the pit of Malchiah son of the king which was in the enclosure of the prison: and they will cast Jeremiah with cords, and in the pit no water but mud: and Jeremiah will sink in the mud.

7 And the king's servant, the Cushite, a man, an eunuch, will hear, and he in the house of the king, that they gave Jeremiah to the pit; and the king sitting in the gate of Benjamin.

8 And the king's servant went forth from the house of the king, and he will speak to the king, saying,

9 My lord the king, these men did evil all which they did to Jeremiah the prophet whom they cast into the pit; and he will die in his low place from the face of hunger, for no more bread in the city.

10 And the king will command the king's servant the Cushite, saying, Take in thy hand from here thirty men, and bring up Jeremiah the prophet from the pit before he shall die.

11 And the king's servant will take the men in his hand and go to the house of the king under the store-house, and he will take from thence old torn rags, and rags rubbed small, and he will cast them to Jeremiah into the pit with cords.

12 And the king's servant the Cashite will say to Jeremiah, Put now the old rags torn and rubbed small, under the joints of thy hands from under the cords; and Jeremiah will do so.

13 And they will draw up Jeremiah with the cords, and bring him up out of the pit: and Jeremiah dwelt in the enclosure of the prison.

14 And king Zedekiah will send and take Jeremiah the prophet to him to the third entrance which was in the house of Jehovah; and the king will say to Jeremiah, I ask thee a word; thou shalt not hide a word from me.

15 And Jeremiah will say to Zedekiah, If I shall announce to thee, killing, wilt thou not put me to death? and if I shall counsel thee, thou wilt not hear to me?

16 And king Zedekiah will swear to Jeremiah in secret, saying, Jehovah lives who made to us this soul, if I shall put thee to death, and if I shall give thee into the hand of these men who are seeking thy soul

17 And Jeremiah will say to Zedekiah, Thus said Jehovah, God of armies, God of Israel, If going forth, thou wilt go forth to the chiefs of the king of Babel, and thy soul lived, and this city shall not be burnt with fire; and thou livedst and thy house:

18 And if thou wilt not go forth to the chiefs of the king of Babel, and this city was given into the hand of the Chaldeans, and they burnt it with fire, and thou shalt not escape from their hand.

19 And king Zedekiah will say to Jeremiah, I fear the Jews who fell to the Chaldeans, lest they shall give me into their hand and they illtreated me.

20 And Jeremiah will say, They shall not give. Hear, now, to the voice of Jehovah for which I speak to thee: and it shall be well to thee, and thy soul shall live.

21 And if thou refuse to go forth, this the word which Jehovah caused me to see:

22 And behold, all the women which were left in the house of the king of Judah being brought forth to the chiefs of the king of Babel, and they say, The men of thy peace enticed thee, and they prevailed against thee: they sank thy foot in mire, they turned away back.

23 And all thy women and all thy sons being brought forth to the Chaldeans: and thou shalt not escape from their hand, for thou shalt be seized by the hand of the king of Babel: and thou shalt burn this city with fire.

24 And Zedekiah will say to Jeremiah, No man shall know of these words, and thou shalt not die.

25 And if the chiefs shall hear that I spake with thee, and they came to thee, and said to thee, Announce now to us what thou spakest to the king; thou shalt not hide from us, and we will not put thee to death; and what said the king to thee:

26 And say thou to them, I cause my supplication to fall before the king, not to turn me back to the house of Jonathan, to die there.

27 And all the chiefs will come to Jeremiah, and they will ask him: and he will announce to them according to all these words which the king commanded. And they will be silent from him, for the word was not heard.

28 And Jeremiah dwelt in the enclosure of the prison even to the day that Jerusalem was taken: and he was when Jerusalem was taken.

JEREMIAH CHAPTER 39

1 In the ninth year to Zedekiah king of Judah, in the tenth month, came Nebuchadnezzar king of Babel, and all his army, against Jerusalem, and they pressed upon her.

2 In the eleventh year to Zedekiah, in the fourth month, in the ninth to the month, the city was broken.

3 And all the chiefs of the king of Babel will come and sit in the middle gate, Nergal-Sarezer, Samgar-Nebo, Sarsechim, Rabsaris, Nergal-Sharezer, Rab-Mag, and all the remainder of the chiefs of the king of Babel.

4 And it will be as Zedekiah king of Judah saw them, and all the men of war, and they will flee and go forth at night from the city the way of the king's garden, in the gate between the two walls: and he will go forth the way of the desert

5 And the army of the Chaldeans will pursue after them, and they will overtake Zedekiah in the sterile region of Jericho, and they will take him and bring him up to Nebuchadnezzar king of Babel, to Riblah in the hand of Hamath, and he will speak with him judgments.

6 And the king of Babel will slaughter the sons of Zedekiah in Riblah before his eyes: and all the nobles of Judah the king of Babel slaughtered.

7 And he blinded the eyes of Zedekiah, and he will bind him with fetters of brass to bring him to Babel.

8 And the Chaldeans burnt the house of the king, and the house of the people, with fire, and they broke the walls of Jerusalem.

9 And the remainder of the people being left in the city, and those falling away which fell to him, and the remainder of the people being left, Nebuzaradan chief of the cooks, carried away captive to Babel.

10 And from the weak people which to them was nothing, Nebuzaradan chief of the cooks left in the land of Judah, and he will give to them vineyards and fields in that day.

11 And Nebuchadnezzar king of Babel will command concerning Jeremiah by the hand of Nebuzaradan chief of the cooks, saying,

12 Take him and set thine eyes upon him, and thou shalt do to him nothing evil; but as he shall speak to thee thus do to him.

13 And Nebuzaradan chief of the cooks will send, and Nebushasban, Rabsaris, Nergal-Sharezer, Rab-Mag, and all the chiefs of the king of Babel;

14 And they will send and take Jeremiah from the enclosure of the prison and they will give him to Gedaliah son of Ahikam son of Shaphan, to carry him forth to the house: and he will dwell in the midst of the people.

15 And to Jeremiah was the word of Jehovah in his being shut up in the enclosure of the prison, saying,

16 Go and say to the king's servant the Cushite, saying, Thus said Jehovah of armies, God of Israel, Behold me bringing my words to this city for evil and not for good; and they were in that day before thee.

17 And I delivered thee in that day, says Jehovah: and thou shalt not be given into the hand of the men thou wilt be afraid of their face.

18 For escaping, I will let thee escape, and thou shalt not fall by the sword, and thy soul was to thee for booty: for thou didst trust in me, says Jehovah.

JEREMIAH CHAPTER 40

1 The word which was to Jeremiah from Jehovah after Nebuzaradan chief of the cooks sent him from Ramah, in his taking him, he being bound in manacles in the midst of all the captivity of Jerusalem and Judah, being carried away captive to Babel.

2 And the chief of the cooks will take to Jeremiah and say to him, Jehovah thy God spake this evil against this place.

3 And Jehovah will bring and do as he spake: because ye sinned against Jehovah, and ye heard not to his voice, and this word was to you.

4 And now behold I loosed thee this day from the manacles which were upon thy hand. If good in thine eyes to go with me to Babel, come; and I will set mine eye upon thee: and if evil in thine eyes to go with me to Babel, desist: see all the land before thee: if good and for the straight in thine eyes to go, go.

5 And while he will not turn back, And turn back to Gedaliah, son of Ahikam, son of Shaphan, whom the king of Babel appointed over the cities of Judah, and dwell with him in the midst of the people: or to all the straight in thine eyes to go, go. And the chief of the cooks: will give to him a portion and a gift, and he will send him away.

6 And Jeremiah will go to Gedaliah son of Ahikam, to Mizpeh, and he will dwell with him in the midst of the people being left in the land.

7 And all the chiefs of the armies which were in the field, they and their men will hear, for the king of Babel appointed Gedaliah son of Ahikam over the land, and that he committed to him the men and the women and children and the poor of the land from whom they were not carried away captive to Babel.

8 And they will come to Gedaliah to Mizpeh, and Ishmael son of Nethaniah, and Johanan and Jonathan, sons of Kareah, and Seraiah, son of Tanhumeth, and the sons of Ephai the Netophathite, and Jezaniah son of the Maachathite, they and their men.

9 And Gedaliah son of Ahikam, son of Shaphan, will swear to them and to their men, saying, Ye shall not fear serving the Chaldeans: dwell in the land and serve the king of Babel, and it shall be well to you.

10 And I, behold me dwelling in Mizpeh to stand before the Chaldeans who will come to us: and ye, gather ye Wine, and the fruit harvest, and oil, and put in your vessels, and dwell in your cities which ye took 11 And also all the Jews which are in Moab, and among the sons of Ammon, and in Edom, and in the lands, heard that the king of Babel gave a remnant to Judah, and that he appointed over them Gedaliah son of Alukam, son of Shaphan.

12 And all the Jews from all the places where they were thrust out there will turn back, and they will come to the land of Judah, to Gedaliah, to Mizpeh, and they will gather wine and the fruit harvest exceeding much.

13 Johanan son of Kareah, and all the chiefs of the armies which were in the field came to Gedaliah to Mizpeh.

14 And they will say to him, Knowing, wilt thou know that Baalis, king of the sons of Ammon sent Ishmael son of Nethaniah to strike thee in soul? And Gedaliah son of Ahikam believed not in them.

15 And Johanan son of Kareah said to Gedaliah in Mizpeh, in secret, saying, I will go now and strike Ishmael son of Nethaniah, and no man shall know: wherefore shall he strike the soul, and all the Jews gathered to thee be scattered, and the remnant of Judah perish?

16 And Gedaliah son of Ahikam will say to Johanan son of Kareah, Thou shalt not do this word, for thou speakest falsehood concerning Ishmael.

JEREMIAH CHAPTER 41

1 And it will be in the seventh month, came Ishmael son of Nethaniah son of Elishama, from the seed of the kingdom, and the chiefs of the king, and ten men with him, to Gedaliah son of Ahikam, to Mizpeh, and there will they eat bread together in Mizpeh.

2 And Ishmael son of Nethaniah will rise, and the ten men which were with him, and they will strike Gedaliah son of Ahikam son of Shaphan, with the sword, and he will kill him whom the king of Babel appointed over the land.

3 And all the Jews which were with him with Gedaliah in Mizpeh, and the Chaldeans which were. found there with the men of war, Ishmael smote.

4 And it will be in the second day of killing Gedaliah, and not a man knew.

5 And men will come from Shechem, from Shiloh, and from Shomeron, eighty men, shaving the beard, and their garments rent, and cutting themselves, and a gift and frankincense in their hand, to bring to the house of Jehovah.

6 And Ishmael son of Nethaniah came forth to meet them from Mizpeh; he went going and weeping: and it will be as he fell in with them, and he will say to them, Come to Gedaliah, son of Ahikam.

7 And it will be as they came to the midst of the city, Ishmael, son of Nethaniah, will slaughter them to the midst of the pit, he and the men that were with him.

8 And ten men were found among them, and they will say to Ishmael, Thou shalt not slay us: for there is to us treasures in the field, wheat and barley and oil and honey. And he will desist and kill them not in the midst of their brethren.

9 And the pit where Ishmael cast there all the corpses of the men whom he struck by the hand of Gedaliah was that which king Asa made from the face of Baasha king of Israel: Ishmael son of Nethaniah filled it with the wounded.

10 And Ishmael will carry away captive all the remnant of the people which were in Mizpeh, the king's daughters and all the people being left in Mizpeh, which Nebuzaradan chief of the cooks committed to Gedaliah son of Ahikam: and Ishmael son of Nethaniah will carry them captive, and he will depart to pass over to the sons of Ammon.

11 And Johanan son of Kareah will hear, and all the chiefs of the armies which were with him, all the evil which Ishmael son of Nethaniah did.

12 And they will take all the men and go to fight with Ishmael son of Nethaniah, and they will find him at the many waters which are in the hill.

13 And it will be as all the people that were with Ishmael saw Johanan son of Kareah, and all the chiefs of the army which are with him, they will rejoice

14 And all the people which Ishmael carried away captive from Mizpeh will turn about and turn back and go to Johanan son of Kareah.

15 And Ishmael son of Nethaniah escaped with eight men from the face of Johanan, and he went to the sons of Ammon.

16 And Johanan son of Kareah will take, and all the captains of the armies which were with him, all the remnant whom he turned back from Ishmael son of Nethaniah from Mizpeh, after he struck Gedaliah son of Ahikam, the strong men of war, and the women and children, and the eunuchs which he turned back from the hill.

17 And they will go and dwell in the habitation of Chimham, which is near the house of bread, to go to come into Egypt,

18 From the face of the Chaldean: for they were afraid from their face, because Ishmael son of Nethaniah, struck Gedaliah son of Ahikam, whom the king of Babel appointed over the land.

JEREMIAH CHAPTER 42

1 And all the chiefs of the armies will draw near, and Johanan son of Kareah, and Jezaniah son of Hoshaiah, and all the people from the small even to the great.

2 And they will say to Jeremiah the prophet, Now shall our supplication fall before thee, and pray thou for us to Jehovah thy God, for all this remnant; for we were left few from many as thine eyes see us.

3 And Jehovah thy God will announce to us the way which we shall go in it, and the word which we shall do.

4 And Jeremiah the prophet will say to them, I heard; behold me praying to Jehovah your God according to your words; and it was all the word that Jehovah shall answer you I will announce to you; I will not withhold a word from you.

5 And they said to Jeremiah, Jehovah will be with us for a witness of truth and faithful, if not according to all the words which Jehovah thy God will send thee to us, thus will we do.

6 If good, and if evil, we will hear to the voice of Jehovah our God which we sent thee to him; so that it shall be well to us, for we will hear to the voice of Jehovah our God.

7 And it will be from the end of ten days, and the word of Jehovah will be to Jeremiah.

8 And he will call to Johanan son of Kareah, and to all the chiefs of the armies which were with him, and to all the people, from small even to great,

9 And he will say to them, Thus said Jehovah God of Israel, whom ye sent me to him for your supplication to fall before him.

10 If dwelling, ye will dwell in this land, and I built you, and I will not pull down, and I planted you, and I will not pluck up: for I grieved for the evil which I did to you.

11 Ye shall not fear from the face of the king of Babel whom ye fear; from his face ye shall not fear, says Jehovah: for I am with you to save you and to deliver you out of his hand.

12 And I will give mercies to you, and he compassionated you, and turned you back to your land.

13 And if ye say, We will not dwell in this land, not hearing to the voice of Jehovah your God,

14 Saying, No; for we will go to the land of Egppt where we shall not see war, and we shall not hear the voice of the trumpet, and for bread we shall not hunger: and there will we dwell.

15 And now for this, hear the word of Jehovah, ye remnant of Judah: Thus said Jehovah of armies, God of Israel, If setting, ye shall set your faces to go to Egypt, and ye went to sojourn there;

16 And it was the sword which ye were afraid of it, there it shall overtake you in the land of Egypt, and the famine which ye feared from it, shall cleave after you there in Egypt, and there shall ye die.

17 And it shall be all the men who set their faces to go to Egypt to sojourn there shall die with the sword, and with famine, and with death: and there shall not be to them fleeing or escaping from the face of the evil which I bring upon them.

18 For thus said Jehovah of armies, God of Israel, as mine anger was poured out, and my wrath upon the inhabitants of Jerusalem, so shall my wrath be poured out upon you in your going to Egypt: and ye were for a curse and for an astonishment and for reviling, and for reproach; and ye shall no more see this place.

19 Jehovah spake concerning you, Ye remnant of Judah, ye shall not go to Egypt: knowing, ye shall know, for I testified against you this day.

20 For ye erred in your souls when ye sent me to Jehovah your God, saying, Pray for us to Jehovah our God; and according to all Jehovah will say, so announce to us, and we will do.

21 And I will announce to you this day; and ye heard not to the voice of Jehovah your God, and to all which he sent me to you.

22 And now knowing, ye shall know that by sword and by famine and by death ye shall die in the place where ye desired to go to sojourn there.

JEREMIAH CHAPTER 43

1 And it will be as Jeremiah finished speaking to all the people all the words of Jehovah their God, which Jehovah their God sent him to them all these words,

2 And Azariah son of Hoshaiah will say, and Johanan son of Kareah, and all the proud men, saying to Jeremiah, Thou speakest falsehood: Jehovah our God sent thee not to say, Ye shall not go to Egypt to sojourn there:

3 For Baruch son of Neriah entices thee against us to give us into the hand of the Chaldeans, to kill us and carry us away captive to Babel.

4 And Johanan son of Kareah heard not, and all the chiefs of the armies, and all the people, to the voice of Jehovah, to dwell in the land of Judah.

5 And Johanan son of Kareah will take, and all the chiefs of the armies, all the remnant of Judah who turned back from all the nations, where they were thrust away there to sojourn in the land of Judah;

6 Men and women and children, and the king's daughters, and every soul which Nebuzaradan chief of the cooks left with Gedaliah son of Ahikam, son of Shaphan, and Jeremiah the prophet, and Baruch, son of Neriah.

7 And they will come to the land of Egypt: for they heard not to the voice of Jehovah, and they will come even to Tahpanhes.

8 And the word of Jehovah will be to Jeremiah in Tahpanhes, saying,

9 Take in thy hand great stones, and hide them in the mortar in the brick kiln, which is in the entrance of the house of Pharaoh in Tahpanhes, before the eyes of the men of Judah,

10 And say to them, Thus said Jehovah of armies, God of Israel, Behold me sending and I took Nebuchadnezzar king of Babel, my servant, and I set his throne from above these stones which I hid; and he spread his tapestry upon them.

11 And coming and smiting the land of Egypt, whom for death to death, and whom for captivity to captivity, and whom for the sword to the sword.

12 And I kindled a fire in the houses of the gods of Egypt, and he burnt them and carried them away captive: and he covered himself with the land of Egypt as the shepherd will cover himself with his garment; and he will go forth from thence in peace.

13 And he brake the pillars of the house of the sun which is in the land of Egypt; and the houses of the Gods of Egypt he shall burn in fire.

JEREMIAH CHAPTER 44

1 The word which was to Jeremiah to all the Jews dwelling in the land of Egypt, dwelling in the tower, and in Tahpanhes, and Noph, and in the land of Pathros, saying,

2 Thus said Jehovah of armies, God of Israel, Ye saw all the evil which I brought upon Jerusalem, and upon all the cities of Judah; and behold them a Waste this day, and none dwelling in them;

3 From the face of their evil which they did to irritate me, going to burn incense to serve other gods whom they knew not, they, and your fathers.

4 And I will send to you all my servants the prophets, rising early and sending, saying, Now ye shall not do this abomination which I hated.

5 And they heard not and inclined not their ear to turn back from their evil, not to burn incense to other gods.

6 And my wrath will be poured out, and mine anger, and it will be kindled in the cities of Judah and in the streets of Jerusalem; and they shall be for a waste, for a desolation as this day.

7 And now, thus said Jehovah, God of armies, God of Israel: Wherefore ye do great evil to your souls to cut off to you man and woman and child and suckling from the midst of Judah, not to leave a remnant to you;

8 For your irritating me with the works of your hands, to burn incense to other gods in the land of Egypt, where ye go to sojourn there, to cut off to you, and for your being for a curse and for a reproach in all the nations of the earth.

9 Forgat ye the evil of your fathers, and the evil of the kings of Judah, and the evil of their wives, and your evil, and the evil of your wives, which they did in the land of Judah and in the streets of Jerusalem?

10 And they were not humbled even to this day, and they feared not and they went not in my instructions and in my laws which I gave before you and before your fathers.

11 For this, thus said Jehovah of armies, God of Israel, Behold me setting my face against you for evil, and to cut off all Judah.

12 And I took the remainder of Judah, that set their faces to go to the land of Egypt to sojourn there, and they were all consumed in the land of Egypt; they shall fall by the sword and by famine: they shall be consumed from small and even to great, by the sword and by famine: they shall die, and they were for an oath, and for a, desolation, and for a curse, and for a reproach.

13 And I reviewed over those dwelling in the land of Egypt, as I reviewed over Jerusalem, by the sword, by famine and by death.

14 And there shall not be escaping or fleeing to the remnant of Judah going to sojourn there in the land of Egypt, to turn back to the land of Judah, which they lift up their soul to turn back to dwell there: for they shall not turn back but the escaped.

15 And they will answer Jeremiah, all the men knowing that their wives burn incense to other gods, and all the women standing, a great convocation, and all the people dwelling in the land of Egypt in Pathros, saying,

16 The word which thou spakest to us in the name of Jehovah, we hear not to thee

17 But doing, we will do all the word which went forth from our mouth, to burn incense to the queen of the heavens, to pour out libations to her, as we did, we and our fathers, our kings and our chiefs in the cities of Judah and in the streets of Jerusalem: and we shall be filled with bread, and we shall be well, and see not evil.

18 From then we ceased to burn incense to the queen of the heavens, and to pour out libations to her, we wanted all things, and were consumed by sword and by famine.

19 And when we burn incense to the queen of the heavens, and pour out libations to her, did we without our men make cakes to her, to serve her, and pour out libations to her?

20 And Jeremiah will say to all the people, to the men and to the women, and to all the people answering him the word, saying,

21 The incense which ye burned in the cities of Judah and in the streets of Jerusalem, ye and your fathers, your kings and your chiefs, and the people of the land, did not Jehovah remember them, and it will come up upon his heart?

22 And Jehovah shall no more be able to lift up from the face of the evil of your doings from the face of the abominations which ye did; and your land shall be for a waste, and for an astonishment, and for a curse, without any inhabitant, as this day.

23 From the face of what ye burned incense, and what ye sinned against Jehovah, and ye heard not to the voice of Jehovah, and in his instructions and in his laws and in his testimonies ye went not; for this, this evil befell you as this day.

24 And Jeremiah will say to all the people, and to all the women, Hear ye the word of Jehovah, all,Judah who are in the land of Egypt:

25 Thus said Jehovah of armies, God of Israel, saying, Ye and your wives, and ye will speak with your mouth, and with your hands ye filled up; saying, Doing, we will do our vows which we vowed, to burn incense to the queen of the heavens, and to pour out libations to her: setting up, ye will set up your vows, and doing, ye will do your vows.

26 For this, hear ye the word of Jehovah, all Judah dwelling in the land of Egypt: Behold, I sware by my great name, said Jehovah, if my name shall yet be called by the mouth of all the men of Judah, saying, The Lord Jehovah lives, in all the land of Egypt

27 Behold me watching over them for evil and not for good: and they were consumed, all the men of Judah who are in the land of Egypt, by sword and by famine, even till their finishing.

28 And escaping the sword there shall turn back from the land of Egypt to the land of Judah, men of number, and all the remnant of Judah going to the land of Egypt to sojourn there, shall know whose word shall be raised up from me and from them.

29 And this a sign to you, says Jehovah, that I review upon you in this place, so that ye shall know that raising up, I will raise up my word against you for evil.

30 Thus said Jehovah, Behold me giving Pharaoh-Hophra, king of Egypt, into the hand of his enemies, seeking his soul; as I gave Zedekiah king of Judah into the hand of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babel, his enemy, and seeking his soul.

JEREMIAH CHAPTER 45

1 The word which Jeremiah the prophet spake to Baruch, son of Neriah, in his writing these words up on the book from the mouth of Jeremiah, in the fourth year to Jehoiakim son of Josiah king of Judah, saying,

2 Thus said Jehovah, God of Israel, to thee, O Baruch;

3 Thou saidst, Wo to me now! for Jehovah added grief upon my pain; I was weary in my sighing, and I found not rest.

4 Thus shalt thou say to him, Thus said Jehovah, Behold, what I built I pulled down, and what I planted I plucked up, and all this land.

5 And thou, wilt thou seek great things to thyself? thou shalt not seek: for behold me bringing evil upon all flesh, says Jehovah: and I gave to thee thy soul for a booty to all the places where thou shalt go there.

JEREMIAH CHAPTER 46

1 The word of Jehovah which was to Jeremiah the prophet against the nations;

2 To Egypt against the army of Pharaoh-Necho, king of Egypt, that was upon the river Phrath in Carchemish, which Nebuchadnezzar king of Babel smote in the fourth year to Jehoiakim son of Josiah, king of Judah.

3 Prepare the covering and the shield, and approach to the war.

4 Harness the horses, and come up, ye horsemen, and stand in the helmets; polish the spears, and put on the coats of mail.

5 Wherefore did I see them terrified, drawing back behind? and their strong ones shall be broken, and they fled a flight, and they turned not: fear being round about, says Jehovah.

6 The swift shall not flee away, and the strong shall not escape: to the north upon the hand of the river Phrath they stumbled and fell

7 Who this as a river he shall come up, as the rivers his waters shall be moved?

8 Egypt as a river will come up, and as rivers the waters will be moved; and he will say, I will go up, I will cover the earth; I will destroy the city and those dwelling in it

9 Come up, ye horses; and rage, ye chariots; and the strong ones shall come forth: Cush and Phut seizing the shield; and the Ludims, bending the bow.

10 And that the day to the Lord Jehovah of armies, a day of vengeance to be avenged of his adversaries: and the sword consumed and was satiated, and drunk their blood to the full; for a sacrifice to the Lord Jehovah of armies in the land of the north by the river Phrath.

11 Go up to Gilead, and take balsam, O virgin daughter of Egypt: in vain shalt thou bring up many healings; none to thee.

12 The nations heard thy shame, and thy outcry filled the land: for the strong stumbled against the strong; they two fell together.

13 The word which Jehovah spake to Jeremiah the prophet, for Nebuchadnezzar king of Babel to come to strike the land of Egypt

14 Announce ye in Egypt, and cause to be heard in the tower, and cause to be heard in Noph and in Tahpanhes: say ye, Stand, and prepare for thyself; for the sword consumed round about thee.

15 Wherefore were thy powerful cast down, not to stand? for Jehovah thrust them away.

16 He multiplied the faltering, also a man fell to his neighbor: and they will say, Arise, and we will turn back to our people, and to the land of our birth, from the face of the oppressing sword.

17 They called there, Pharaoh king of Egypt an uproar; he passed by the appointment

18 I live, says the King, Jehovah of armies his name, For as Tabor in the mountains, and as Carmel in the sea, he shall come.

19 Make to thee instruments of captivity, thou daughter dwelling in Egypt: for Noph shall be for a waste and desolate from not being inhabited.

21 Also her hirelings in the midst of her as calves of the stall; for also they turned, they fled together: they stood not, for the day of their calamity came upon them, the time of their reviewing.

22 Her voice shall go as the serpent; for with an army in the sand they shall go, and with axes they came to her, as they hewing wood.

23 They cut down her forest, says Jehovah, for it shall not be searched out, for they were many above the locust, and no number to them.

24 The daughter of Egypt was ashamed; she was given into the hand of the people of the north.

25 Jehovah of armies, God of Israel, said, Behold me reviewing for the multitude of No, and upon Pharaoh and upon Egypt, and upon her gods, and upon her kings; and upon Pharaoh and upon those trusting in him:

26 And I gave them into the hand of those seeking their souls, and into the hand of Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babel, and into the hand of his servants: and after this she shall be inhabited as the days of old, says Jehovah.

27 And thou shalt not fear, O my servant Jacob, and thou shalt not be terrified, O Israel: for behold me saving thee from far off, and thy seed from the land of their captivity; and Jacob turned back, and rested and was quiet, and none making afraid.

28 Thou shalt not fear, O my servant Jacob, says Jehovah: for I am with thee; for I will make a completion among all nations where I thrust thee away there: and I will not make a completion with thee, and I will correct thee for judgment; and acquitting, I will not let thee go unpunished.

JEREMIAH CHAPTER 47

1 The word of Jehovah which was to Jeremiah the prophet, against the rovers, before Pharaoh will smite Gaza.

2 Thus said Jehovah, Behold, waters coming up from the north, and they were for an overflowing torrent, and they shall overflow the land, and its fulness; the city and those dwelling in it: and the men cried out, and all inhabiting the land wailed.

3 From the voice of the stamping of the hoofs of his strong ones, from the bounding of his chariot, the noise of his wheels, the fathers turned not back to the sons from slackness of hands;

4 For the day came to lay waste all the rovers, to cut off from Tyre and Zidon every one left of help: for Jehovah laid waste the rovers, the remnant of the island of Caphtor.

5 Baldness came upon Gaza; Ashkelon was destroyed, the remnant of their valley: how long wilt thou cut thyself?

6 Alas, thou sword of Jehovah, till when wilt thou rest? be gathered to thy sheath; be quiet and be still.

7 How shalt thou rest, and Jehovah commanded to it against Ashkelon, and against the sea shore? there he confirmed it.

JEREMIAH CHAPTER 48

1 Against Moab thus said Jehovah of armies, God of Israel, Wo to Nebo for it was laid waste: Kiriathaim was ashamed and taken: Misgab was ashamed and terrified.

2 No more praise of Moab: in Heshbon they purposed evil against it; come, and we will cut it off from a nation. Thou also shalt be destroyed, O Madmen; the sword shall go after thee.

4 Moab was broken; her youths caused a cry to be heard.

5 For the going up of Luhith weeping shall go up with weeping; for in the going down of Horonaim the enemies heard a cry of breaking.

6 Flee, save your souls, and ye shall be as ruins in the desert

7 For because of thy boasting in thy works and in thy treasures, also thou shalt be taken: and Chemosh shall go forth into captivity, his priests and his chiefs together.

8 And he laying waste shall come up on every city, and no city shall escape: and the valley was destroyed, and straightness was laid waste, as said Jehovah.

9 Ye shall give a wing to Moab, that fleeing she shall go forth: for her cities shall be for a desolation, from none dwelling in them.

10 Cursed he doing the work of Jehovah slothfully, and cursed he withholding his sword from blood.

11 Moab was tranquil from his youth, and he rested upon his lees, he was not poured out from vessel to vessel, and he went not into captivity: for this his taste stood in him, and his breath was not changed.

12 For this, behold, the days coming, says Jehovah, and I sent to him those turning aside, and they turned aside, and they will empty his vessels and break his bottles.

13 And Moab was ashamed of Chemosh, as the house of Israel was ashamed of the house of God their confidence.

14 How shall ye say, We are mighty and men of strength for war?

15 Moab was laid waste, and she went up from her cities, and the choice of his young men went down to the slaughter, says the King, Jehovah of armies, his name.

16 The calamity of Moab drew near, to come, and his evil hastened greatly.

17 All ye about him, bewail for him; and all ye knowing his name, say, How was the strong rod broken, the beautiful shoot!

18 Come down from thy glory, sit in thirst, thou daughter dwelling in Di-bon; for he laying Moab waste came up upon thee, destroying thy fortress.

19 Stand to the way and look about, thou inhabiting Aroer; ask him fleeing, and her escaping, say, What was it?

20 Moab was ashamed; for she was broken down: wail, ye, and cry; announce in Arnon that Moab was laid waste,

21 And judgment came to the land of straightness; to Holon, and to Jahazah, and upon Mephaath,

22 And upon Dibon, and upon Nebo, and upon the house of cakes of figs,

23 And upon the city of forests, and upon the house of the weaned, and upon the house of habitation,

24 And upon Kerioth, and upon Bozrah, and upon all the cities of the land of Moab, far off and near.

25 The horn of Moab was cut off, and his arm was broken, says Jehovah.

26 Make him drunk; for he was magnified against Jehovah, and Moab vomited forth in his vomit, and he was for a derision.

27 And if Israel was not a derision to thee? if he was found among thieves? for after thy speaking of him thou wilt move to and fro.

28 Those inhabiting Moab, forsook the cities and dwelt in the rock, and they were as the dove, she will nest in the regions beyond the mouth of the pit

29 We heard the pride of Moab; he was greatly lifted up; his haughtiness and his pride, and his lifting up, and the elation of his heart

30 I knew, says Jehovah, his wrath; and not thus; his empty talks did not so.

31 For this I will wait for Moab, and I will cry out for all Moab; it shall grieve for the men of Kirheres.

32 With the weeping of Jazer, I will weep for thee, O vine of Sibmah: thy tendrils passed over the sea, even to the sea of Jazer they reached: he laying waste fell upon thy fruit harvest, and upon thy vintage.

33 And joy and gladness was taken away from Carmel, and from the land of Moab; and I caused wine to cease from the wine vats: they shall not tread the shout of joy; the shout of joy, not the shout of joy.

34 From the cry of Heshbon even to Elealah, even to Jahaz, they gave their voice from Zoar even to Horonaim, a heifer of the third year: for also the waters of Nimrim shall be for desolations.

35 And I caused to cease to shout, says Jehovah, him bringing up to the height, and him burning incense to his gods.

36 For this, my heart shall sound for Moab as pipes, and my heart shall sound for the men of Kirheres as pipes: for the riches he made perished.

37 For every head bald, and every beard shaved: upon all hands cuttings, and upon the loins sackcloth.

38 Upon all the roof of Moab, and in the streets altogether lamentation: for I brake Moab as a vessel, no delight in it, says Jehovah.

39 How was it broken they wailed; how did Moab turn back the neck with shame and Moab was for derision and for terror to all round about him.

40 For thus said Jehovah: Behold, as an eagle he shall fly, and he spread his wings to Moab.

41 Kerioth was taken, and the fastnesses were seized, and the heart of the strong ones of Moab in that day was as the heart of a woman being distressed.

42 And Moab was destroyed from a people, for he was magnified against Jehovah.

43 Fear, and the pit and the snare upon thee, thou inhabiting Moab, says Jehovah.

44 He fleeing from the face of fear shall fall into the pit; and he coming up out of the pit shall be taken in the snare: for I will bring upon it, upon Moab, the years of their reviewing, says Jehovah.

45 They fleeing from the power stood in the shadow of Heshbon: for a fire will come forth from Heshbon, and a flame from the midst of Sihon, and shall consume, the corners of Moab and the crown of the sons of noise.

46 Wo to thee, O Moab! The people of Chemosh perished: for thy sons were taken into captivity, and thy daughters into captivity.

47 And I turned back the captivity of Moab in the latter days, says Jehovah. Even to this the judgment of Moab.

JEREMIAH CHAPTER 49

1 To the sons of Ammon, thus said Jehovah: Is there no sons to Israel? none inheriting to him? Wherefore did their king inherit Gad, and his people dwelt in his cities?

2 For this, behold, the days coming, says Jehovah, and I caused to be heard the alarm of war to Rabbah of the sons of Ammon; and it was for a heap of desolation, and her daughters shall be burned with fire; and Israel shall inherit those inheriting him, says Jehovah.

3 Wail, O Heshbon, for Ai was laid waste: cry, ye daughters of Rabbah, gird yourselves with sackcloth; lament, and run to and fro in the walled places; for their king shall go into captivity, his priests and his chiefs together.

4 Wherefore wilt thou boast in the valleys, thy valley flowing away, O daughter turning away? trusting in her treasures, Who shall come to me?

5 Behold me bringing fear upon thee, says the Lord Jehovah of armies, from all round about thee; and ye were thrust away every man to his face, and none gathering to him wandering.

6 And after this I will turn back the captivity of the sons of Ammon, says Jehovah.

7 To Edom, thus said Jehovah of armies, Is wisdom no more in Teman? did counsel perish from the discerning? was their wisdom poured out?

8 Flee ye, turn back, make deep to dwell, ye dwelling in Dedan; for I brought the calamity of Esau upon him, the time of his reviewing.

9 If the vintages came to thee will they not leave gleanings? if thieves by night, they destroyed their sufficiency.

10 For I made Esau naked, I uncovered his secret places, he shall not be able to hide: his seed was laid waste, and his brethren and his neighbors, and he is not

11 Leave thine orphans, I will preserve alive, and thy widows shall trust upon me.

12 For thus said Jehovah: Behold, whose judgment was not to drink the cup, drinking, they will drink; and art thou he being acquitted, shalt thou be unpunished? thou shalt not be unpunished, for drinking, thou shalt drink.

13 For by myself did I swear, says Jehovah, that Bozrah shall be for a desolation, for a reproach, and for a waste, and for a curse; and all her cities shall be for wastes forever.

14 I heard a report from Jehovah, and a messenger sent to the nations: Gather ye together, and come against her, and rise up for war.

15 For behold, I gave thee small among the nations, despised among men.

16 Thy terror deceived thee, the pride of thy heart, thou dwelling in the asylums of the rock, holding the height of the hill: if thou shalt make thy nest high as the eagle, from thence will I bring thee down, says Jehovah.

17 And Edom was for a desolation: all passing over her shall be astonished, and shall hiss at all her blows.

18 As the overthrow of Sodom and Gomorrah and her neighbors, said Jehovah, a man shall not dwell there, and the son of man shall not sojourn in her.

19 Behold, as the lion he shall come up from the excellency of Jordan against the habitation of strength: for I will wink, I will cause him to run from her: and who the chosen I shall appoint to her? for who like me? and who shall testify for me? and who this shepherd which shall stand before me?

20 For this, hear ye the counsel of Jehovah which he counseled against Edom: and his purposes which he purposed against the inhabitants of Teman: If not the least of the flock will drag them out: if he shall not make their habitation destitute upon them.

22 Behold, as the eagle he shall come up and fly and spread his wings over Bozrah, and the heart of the strong of Edom was in that day as the heart of a woman being distressed.

23 To Damascus: Hamath was ashamed, and Arpad: for they heard the evil report: they melted; fear upon the sea; it will not be able to rest

24 Damascus was relaxed, she turned back to flee, and terror laid hold of her, and pain and sorrows seized her, as she bringing forth.

26 For this her young men shall fall in her street, and all the men of war shall be destroyed in that day, says Jehovah of armies.

27 And I will kindle a fire in the walls of Damascus, and it consumed the palaces of the son of Hadad.

28 To Kedar, and to the kingdoms of Hazor, which Nebuchadnezzar king of Babel struck, thus said Jehovah: Arise ye, go up to Kedar, and lay waste the sons of the east.

29 Their tents and their flocks they shall take away: their curtains, and all their vessels, and their camels, shall they lift up for themselves; and they called to them, Fear from round about 30 Flee, move yourselves greatly, make deep to dwell, ye inhabitants of Hazor, says Jehovah; for Nebuchadnezzar king of Babel counseled counsel against you, and purposed a purpose against you.

31 Arise, go ye up to the nation at rest, dwelling with confidence, says Jehovah; no gates and no bars to it; they shall dwell alone.

32 And their camels were for plunder, and the multitude of their cattle for a spoil: and I scattered them to every wind cut off to the corner; and from all its regions beyond I will bring their calamity, says Jehovah.

Copyright © 2026 by Lord Henfield, Guildford Scientific Press

33 And Hazor was for a dwelling of jackals, a desolation even to forever: a man shall not dwell there, and the son of man shall not sojourn in it

34 The word of Jehovah which was to Jeremiah the prophet against Elam in the beginning of the kingdom of Zedekiah king of Judah, saying,

35 Thus said Jehovah of armies, Behold me breaking the bow of Elam the beginning of their strength.

36 And I brought upon Elam the four winds from the four ends of the heavens, and I scattered them to all these winds; and there shall not be a nation where the outcasts of Elam shall not come there.

37 And I confounded Elam before their enemies, and before them seeking their soul: and I brought evil upon them, the burning of mine anger, says Jehovah; and I sent after them the sword even till I finished them.

38 And I set my throne in Elam, and I destroyed from thence the king and the chiefs, says Jehovah.

39 And it was in the last days I will turn back the captivity of Elam, says Jehovah.

JEREMIAH CHAPTER 50

1 The word that Jehovah spake against Babel, against the land of the Chaldeans, by the hand of Jeremiah the prophet

2 Announce ye in the nations, and cause to be heard, and lift up a signal; cause to be heard, ye shall not hide: say, Babel was taken, Bel was ashamed, Merodach was broken; her images were ashamed, her blocks were broken.

3 For a nation came up from the north against her; it shall set her land for a desolation, and none shall be dwelling in her: from man and even to beast they moved, and they went

4 In those days and in that time, says Jehovah, the sons of Israel shall come, they and the sons of Judah together, going, and they wept: they shall go and shall seek Jehovah their God.

5 To Zion shall they ask the way, thither their faces: Come ye, and we will join ourselves to Jehovah an eternal covenant; it shall not be forgotten.

6 My people were lost sheep: their shepherds caused them to wander, they turned them away in the mountains: they went from mountain to hill, they forgot their place to lie down.

7 All finding them consumed them: and their adversaries said, We shall not transgress, for they sinned against Jehovah the habitation of justice, and the hope of their fathers, Jehovah.

8 Move from the midst of Babel, and from the land of the Chaldeans; come forth and be ye as the he goats before the flock.

9 For behold I raise up and bring up against Babel a convocation of great nations from the land of the north: and they arranged against her; from thence she shall be taken: his arrow as of a strong destroyer shall not turn back in vain.

10 And Chaldea was for a spoil: all spoiling her shall be satisfied, says Jehovah.

11 Because thou wilt be glad, because thou wilt exult, ye plundering mine inheritance, because thou wilt show off proudly as a heifer at grass, and thou wilt neigh as the strong ones;

12 Your mother was greatly ashamed; she bearing you was put to shame: behold the last of the nations a desert, dryness and a sterile region.

13 From the wrath of Jehovah she shall not be inhabited, and it was wholly a desolation: every one passing over Babel shall be astonished and shall hiss at all her blows.

14 Arrange yourselves against Babel round about: all ye bending the bow, cast at her, ye shall not spare to the arrow, for she sinned against Jehovah.

15 Shout against her round about: she gave her hand: her supports fell, her walls were pulled down: for it is the vengeance of Jehovah: avenge ye upon her; as she did, do ye to her.

16 Cut off him sowing from Babel, and him holding the sickle in time of harvest: from the face of the Grecian sword they shall turn a man to his people, and they shall flee a man to his land.

17 Israel a scattered sheep; the lions thrust away: first the king of Assur consumed him; and the last this Nebuchadnezzar king of Babel bound him fast

18 For this, thus said Jehovah of armies, God of Israel, Behold me reviewing for the king of Babel, and for his land, as I reviewed to the king of Assur.

19 And I turned back Israel to his habitation, and he fed in Carmel and Bashan; and upon mount Ephraim and Gilead shall his soul be satisfied.

20 In those days and in that time, says Jehovah, he will seek the iniquity of Israel, and not any; and the sins of Judah, and they shall not be found: for I shall forgive to whom I shall leave.

21 Go up against the land of double rebellion, against her, and against the inhabitants of Pekod, laying waste and destroying after them, says Jehovah; and do according to all which I commanded thee.

23 How was the hammer of all the earth cut off, and it will be broken! How was Babel for a desolation among the nations!

24 I laid snares for thee and also thou wert taken, O Babel, and thou knewest not: thou wert found and thou wert also taken, for thou didst contend against Jehovah.

25 Jehovah opened his treasure, and he will bring forth the vessels of his anger: for this the work to the Lord Jehovah of armies in the land of the Chaldeans

26 Come ye against her from the extremity; open her store-houses: cast her up as heaps and exterminate her: there shall be no remnant to her.

27 Lay waste all her bullocks; come down to the slaughter: wo to them! for their day came, the time of their reviewing.

28 The voice of those fleeing and escaping out of the land of Babel, to announce in Zion the vengeance of Jehovah our God, the vengeance of his temple.

29 Cause ye many to be heard against Babel: all ye bending the bow encamp against her round about; there shall be no escaping: requite her according to her work; according to all she did, do to her: for she acted proudly against Jehovah, against the Holy One of Israel.

30 For this her young men shall fall in her streets, and all the men of her war shall be destroyed in that day, says Jehovah.

31 Behold me against thee, O pride, says the Lord Jehovah of armies: for thy day came, the time I reviewed thee.

32 And pride stumbled and fell, and none lifting up to it: and I kindled a fire in his cities and it shall consume all round about him.

33 Thus said Jehovah of armies: the sons of Israel and the sons of Judah being oppressed together: and all taking them captive held upon them; they refused to send them away.

34 He redeeming them is strong; Jehovah of armies, his name: pleading, he will plead their cause, so that he caused the land to rest, and caused disquiet to the inhabitants of Babel.

35 A sword upon the Chaldeans, says Jehovah, and to the inhabitants of Babel and to her chiefs, and to her wise.

36 A sword against the liars; and they were foolish: a sword against her strong ones, and they were broken.

37 A sword against his horses and against his chariots, and against all the mixture which is in her midst; and they were for women: a sword against her treasures, and they were plundered.

38 A sword upon her waters, and they shall be dried up: for it is a land of carved images, and in their terrors they will be foolish.

39 For this the inhabitans of the deserts shall dwell with the islands, and the daughters of the ostrich shall dwell in her: and it shall be no more inhabited forever; and she shall not be dwelt in even to generation and generation.

40 As God overthrew Sodom and Gomorrah and her neighbors, says Jehovah; a man shall not dwell there, and the son of man shall not sojourn in her.

41 Behold, a people coming from the north and a great nation, and many kings shall be raised up from the thighs of the earth.

42 They shall hold. the bow and the javelin: they are fierce, and they will not pity: their voice shall sound as the sea, and they shall ride upon horses, being arranged as a man for war, against thee, O daughter of Babel.

43 The king of Babel heard their report, and his hands were relaxed: anguish seized him as the pain of her bringing forth.

44 Behold, as a lion he will come up from the excellency of Jordan to the habitation of strength: for I will wink; I will cause them to run away from her: and who the chosen I shall appoint to her? for who like me? and who shall arraign me? and who that shepherd who shall stand before me?

45 For this, hear ye the counsel of Jehovah which he counseled against Babel; and his purposes which he purposed against the land of the Chaldeans: if the last of the flock shall not drag them out: if he shall not lay waste the habitation upon them.

46 From the voice of the taking of Babel the earth was shaken, and the cry was heard among the nations.

JEREMIAH CHAPTER 51

1 Thus said Jehovah: Behold me raising up against Babel and against those dwelling in the heart of those rising up, a destroying spirit

2 And I sent forth to Babel those scattering, and they scattered her, and they shall empty her land: for they were against her round about in the day of evil.

3 Against him bending shall he bending, bend the bow, and against him going up in his coat of mail: and ye shall not spare to her young men; exterminate all her army.

4 And the wounded fell in the land of the Chaldeans, and those being thrust through in her streets

5 For Israel not in widowhood, and Judah from his God, from Jehovah of armies; if their land was filled with guilt because of the Holy One of Israel.

6 Flee from the midst of Babel and save ye each his soul: ye shall not be destroyed in her iniquity: for it is the time of vengeance to Jehovah; he will do to her a recompense.

7 Babel a cup of gold in the hand of Jehovah, making all the earth drunk: the nations drank from her wine; for this the nations will be foolish.

8 Babylon fell suddenly, and she will be broken: wail ye for her; take balsam for her pain, perhaps she will be healed.

9 We healed Babel, and she was not healed: forsake ye her and we will go each to his land: for her judgment reached to the heavens, and was lifted up even to the clouds.

10 Jehovah brought forth our justice: come ye, and we will recount in Zion the work of Jehovah our God.

11 Polish the arrows; fill the quivers: Jehovah roused up the spirit of the kings of the Males: for his purpose is against Babel, to destroy her; for it is the vengeance of Jehovah, the vengeance of his temple.

12 Lift ye up a signal against the walls of Babel, strengthen the watch, set up the watchers, prepare the ambushes: for Jehovah also purposed and also did what he spake to the inhabitants of Babel.

14 Jehovah of armies sware by his soul: That if I filled thee with men as with locusts, and they struck up a shout against thee.

15 He made the earth by his power, he prepared the habitable globe by his wisdom, and by his understanding he stretched forth the heavens.

16 For a voice he gives a multitude of waters in the heavens; and he will bring up the clouds, from the extremity of the earth, making lightnings to the rain, and he will bring forth the wind from his treasures.

17 Every man was brutish from knowledge; every founder was ashamed from his carved image: for his founding is a falsehood, and no spirit in them.

18 They are vanity, the work of delusions: in the time of reviewing they shall perish.

19 Not as these the portions of Jacob; for he the former of all: and the rod of his inheritance: Jehovah of armies his name.

20 Thou a mallet to me, a weapon of war: and I broke the nations in pieces with thee, and I destroyed kingdoms with thee;

21 And I broke in pieces with thee the horse and his rider; and I broke in pieces with thee the chariot and its charioteer;

22 And I broke in pieces with thee man and woman; and I broke in pieces with thee the old man and the boy; and I broke in pieces with thee the young man and the virgin;

23 And I broke in pieces with thee the shepherd and his flock; and I broke in pieces with thee the husbandman and his yoke; and I broke in pieces with thee the prefects and the rulers.

24 And I recompensed to Babel and to all the inhabitants of Chaldea all their evil which they did in Zion before your eyes, says Jehovah.

25 Behold me against thee, thou destroying mountain, says Jehovah, destroying all the earth: and I stretched out my hand upon thee, and I rolled thee from the rocks, and I gave thee for a burnt mountain.

26 And they shall not take from thee a stone for a corner, and a stone for foundations; for thou shalt be desolations forever, says Jehovah.

27 Lift up a signal in the earth, strike ye the trumpet in the nations, consecrate the nations against her, cause ye to be heard against her the kingdoms of Ararat, Minni, and Ashchenaz; appoint over her a satrap; bring up the horse as the bristling locust

28 Consecrate against her the nations, with the kings of the Medes, her prefects and all her rulers, and all the land of his dominion.

29 And the earth shall shake and be wearied; for the purpose of Jehovah was set up against Babel, to set the land of Babel for a desolation from not being inhabited.

30 The strong ones of Babel ceased to fight; they dwelt in fastnesses; their strength failed; they were for women: they burned her dwellings; her bars were broken.

31 A runner shall run to meet a runner, and he announcing, to meet him announcing, to announce to the king of Babel that his city was taken from the extremity.

32 And the passages were taken, and they burnt the ropes in fire, and the men of war trembled.

33 For thus said Jehovah of armies, God of Israel: the daughter of Babel is as a threshing-floor, the time of her treading; yet a little while and the time of harvest coming to her.

34 Nebuchadnezzar king of Babel consumed us, he destroyed us, he set us an empty vessel, he swallowed us down as a dragon, he filled his belly with my delicacies, he thrust us away.

35 My violence and my remainder upon Babel, shall she dwelling in Zion say; and my blood to the inhabitants of Chaldea, shall Jerusalem say.

36 For this, thus said Jehovah: Behold me pleading thy cause, and I took vengeance with thy vengeance; and I dried up her sea, and made her fountains dry.

37 And Babel was for heaps, a habitation of jackals, an astonishment and a hissing, from none inhabiting.

39 In their heat I will set their drinkings, and I made them drunken so that they shall exult, and sleep an eternal sleep, and they shall not rouse up, says Jehovah.

40 I will bring them down as lambs for the slaughter, as rams with he goats.

41 How was Sheshach taken and the praise of all the earth will be seized; how was Babel for a desolation among the nations!

42 The sea came up against Babel: with the multitude of rolling waves was she covered.

43 Her cities were for a desolation, a land of dryness and a sterile region, a land not a man dwells in them, and not the son of man shall pass through them.

44 And I reviewed over Bel in Babel, and brought forth his swallowing from his mouth: and the nations shall no more flow to him: also the wall of Babel fell.

45 Go ye out from her midst, my people, and save ye each his soul from the burning of the anger of Jehovah.

46 And lest your heart shall be faint and ye be afraid for the report being heard in the land; and a report came in a year, and after it in a year a report, and violence in the land, dominion against dominion.

47 For this, behold, the days coming and I reviewed upon the carved images of Babel: and all her land shall be ashamed, and all her wounded shall fall in her midst

48 And the heavens and the earth shouted against Babel, and all which is in them: for those laying waste shall come against her from the north, says Jehovah.

49 Also Babel for the falling of the wounded of Israel, also for Babel fell the wounded of all the earth.

50 Being saved from the sword, go: ye shall not stand: remember from far off Jehovah, and Jerusalem shall come up upon your heart

51 We were ashamed for we heard reproach: shame covered our faces, for strangers came to the holy places of the house of Jehovah.

52 For this, behold, the days coming, says Jehovah, and I reviewed upon her carved images: and in all her land the wounded shall groan.

53 If Babel shall go up to the heavens, and if she shall fortify the height of her strength, from me shall they laying waste come to her, says Jehovah.

55 For Jehovah laid Babel waste, and he destroyed from her the great voice: and the billows roared as many waters, and a noise of their voice was given.

56 For he spoiling came upon her, upon Babel, and her strong ones were taken, their bow was broken: for the God of recompenses, Jehovah requiting will requite.

57 And I made drunk her chiefs and her wise, her prefects and her rulers, and her strong ones: and they shall sleep an eternal sleep, and they shall not rise up, says the King, Jehovah of armies his name.

58 Thus said Jehovah of armies: The broad walls of Babel being demolished, shall be demolished, and her high gates shall be burnt in fire; the peoples shall labor in vain, the nations for the fire, and they shall be weary.

59 The word which Jeremiah the prophet commanded Seraiah, son of Neriah, son of Maaseiah, in his going with Zedekiah king of Judah to Babel, in the fourth year to his reigning. And Seraiah was chief of the resting place.

60 And Jeremiah will write all the evil which shall come to Babel, in one book, all these words being written against Babel

61 And Jeremiah will say to Seraiah, When thou comest to Babel, and thou sawest, and didst read all these words,

62 And thou saidst, O Jehovah, thou spakest against this place, to cut it off, for none to be dwelling in it, to man and even to beast, for it shall be desolations forever.

63 And it was as thou finishedst to read this book, thou shalt bind upon it a stone and cast it into the midst of Phrath

64 And thou saidst, Thus shall Babel sink, and shall not rise from the face of the evil which I bring upon her: and they shall be weary. Even to this the words of Jeremiah.

JEREMIAH CHAPTER 52

1 The son of twenty and one years was Zedekiah in his reigning, and eleven years he reigned in Jerusalem. And his mother's name Hamutal, daughter of Jeremiah of Libnah.

2 And he will do evil in the eyes of Jehovah, according to all which Jehoiakim did.

3 For upon the anger of Jehovah it was in Jerusalem and Judah, till his casting them away from his face, and Zedekiah will rebel against the king of Babel.

4 And it will be in the ninth year to his reigning, in the tenth month, in the tenth to the month, Nebuchadnezzar king of Babel came, he and all his army, against Jerusalem and they will encamp against her, and a watchtower against her round about

5 And the city will go into siege till the eleventh year to king Zedekiah.

6 In the fourth month, in the ninth to the month, and the famine will be strong in the city, and there was not bread for the people of the land.

7 And the city will be broken up, and all the men of war will flee and will go forth from the city by night, the way of the gate between the walls, which was by the king's garden; (and the Chaldeans upon the city round about:) and they will go the way of the sterile region.

8 And the army of the Chaldeans will pursue after the king, and they will overtake Zedekiah in the sterile regions of Jericho; and all his strength was scattered from him.

9 And they will seize the king and they will bring him up to the king of Babel to Riblah in the land of Hamath; and he will speak judgment with him.

10 And the king of Babel will slaughter the sons of Zedekiah before his eyes: and he slaughtered also all the chiefs of Judah in Riblah.

11 And he blinded the eyes of Zedekiah; and the king of Babel will bind him with fetters and bring him to Babel and give him in the house of wards till the day of his death.

12 And in the fifth month, in the tenth to the month, this year the nineteenth year to king Nebuchadnezzar king of Babel, came Nebuzaradan, chief of the cooks, standing before the face of the king of Babel, into Jerusalem,

13 And he will burn the house of Jehovah, and the king's house; and all the houses of Jerusalem, and every great house he burnt in fire:

14 And all the walls of Jerusalem round about, all the strength of the Chaldees which were with the chief of the cooks, brake down.

15 And from the weak of the people, and the rest of the people being left in the city, and those falling away which fell to the king of Babel, and the rest of the multitude, Nebuzaradan chief of the cooks carried into exile.

16 And from the weak of the land, Nebuzaradan chief of the cooks left for vine-dressers and for ploughmen.

17 And the pillars of brass which were to the house of Jehovah, and the bases, and the sea of brass which was in the house of Jehovah, the Chaldeans brake in pieces, and they will lift up their brass to Babel.

18 And the pots and the shovels and the snuffers and the vases and the dishes, and all the vessels of brass which they served in them, they took.

19 And the basins and the fire-pans and the vases and the pots and the chandeliers, and the dishes and the cups, which were of gold, gold, and which of silver, silver, the chief of the cooks took.

20 The two pillars, the one sea, and the twelve oxen of brass which were under the bases, which king Solomon made for the house of Jehovah; there was no weight to their brass of all these vessels.

21 And the pillars, eighteen cubits the height of the one pillar; and a thread of twelve cubits will surround it; and its thickness four fingers: it was hollow.

22 And a capital upon it of brass; and the height of the one capital, five cubits, and the net and the pomegranates upon the capitals round about, all of brass. And according to these, to the second pillar and the pomegranates.

23 And the pomegranates were ninety and six a side; all the pomegranates a hundred upon the net round about

24 And the chief of the cooks will take Seraiah the priest, the head, and Zephaniah the second priest, and the three watchers of the threshold:

25 And from the city he took one eunuch who was appointed over the men of war; and seven men seeing the face of the king, who were found in the city; and the scribe of the chief of the army mustering the people of the land; and sixty men from the people of the land being found in the midst of the city.

26 And Nebuzaradan chief of the cooks, will take them, and will bring them to the king of Babel to Riblah.

27 And the king of Babel will strike them, and kill them in Riblah in the land of Hamath. And Judah will be carried into exile from his land.

28 This the people which Nebuchadnezzar carried into exile: in the seventh year three thousand Jews and twenty and three.

29 In the eighteenth year to Nebuchadnezzar, eight hundred thirty and two souls from Jerusalem:

30 In the three and twentieth year to Nebuchadnezzar, Nebuzaradan chief of the cooks carried away captive of the Jews seven hundred forty and five souls: all the souls four thousand and six hundred.

31 And it will be in the thirty and seventh year to the captivity of Jehoiachin king of Judah, in the twelfth month, in the twenty and fifth to the month, Evil Merodach, king of Babel, in the year of his reigning lifted up the head of Jehoiachin king of Judah and brought him forth from the house of the prison,

32 And he will speak with him good things, and he will give his throne from above to the throne of the kings which were with him in Babel,

33 And he changed the garment of his shutting up: and he ate bread before him continually all the days of his life.

34 And his ration a ration continually, given to him from the king of Babel, the word of a day in its days, even to the day of his death, all the days of his life.

THE BOOK OF THE PROPHET EZEKIEL

Hebrew title: Sefer Yekhezkel
Estimated Range of Dating: c. 6th-century B.C.

(The Book of Ezekiel belongs to the Nevi'im (Prophets) and consists of 48 chapters and is the third of the Latter Prophets in the Tanakh and one of the major prophetic books in the Old Testament, following Isaiah and Jeremiah. According to the book itself, it records six visions of the prophet Ezekiel, exiled in Babylon, during the 22 years from 593 to 571 BC, although it is the product of a long and complex history and does not necessarily preserve the very words of the prophet.

The visions, and the book, are structured around three themes: (1st) Judgement on Israel (chapters 1–24); (2nd) Judgement on the nations (chapters 25–32); and (3rd) Future blessings for Israel (chapters 33–48). Its themes include the concepts of the presence of God, purity, Israel as a divine community, and individual responsibility to God. Its later influence has included the development of mystical and apocalyptic traditions in Second Temple and rabbinic Judaism and Christianity.

In the Chapters 10 and 11, the book contains a vision of God in heaven and describes wheels and strange beings around his throne. In fact, these two chapters deliver the most remarkable descriptions of the entire Hebrew Bible. It has a very technological character and gives the reader the impression that a kind of flying machine is described. Some scholars hold that Ezekiel's vision might be a report and detailed description of a kind of aircraft or, as Erich von Däniken had pointed out, an extraterrestrial spacecraft. NASA engineer Josef F. Blumrich decided to disprove the hypothesis. However, a thorough examination convinced him that Ezekiel might have seen a flying vehicle or spaceship of which he then made detailed drawings of the alien craft.

Descriptions of such vehicles are not entirely unique but can also be found in the Indian Ramayana Epic. In the Ramayana, a "vimana" called vehicle is described as follows: "The Pushpaka Vimana that resembles the Sun and belongs to my brother was brought by the powerful Ravana; that aerial and excellent Vimana going everywhere at will ... that chariot resembling a bright cloud in the sky ... and the King [Rama] got in, and the excellent chariot at the command of the Raghira, rose up into the higher atmosphere.'" It is the first flying vimana mentioned in existing Hindu texts. With the size of an encyclopaedia, the Ramayana is one of the largest ancient epics in the world. Scholars estimate the age of the text from the 7th to 4th centuries BC. [Ramayana, Elysium Press, Calcutta, 1892]

The book opens with a vision of YHWH. The book moves on to anticipate the destruction of Jerusalem and the Temple, explains this as God's punishment, and closes with the promise of a new beginning and a new Temple.

1. Inaugural vision Ezekiel 1:1–3:2 God approaches Ezekiel as the divine warrior, riding in his battle chariot. The chariot is drawn by four living creatures, each having four faces (those of a man, a lion, an ox, and an eagle) and four wings. Beside each "living creature" is a "wheel within a wheel", with "tall and awesome" rims full of eyes all around. God commissions Ezekiel as a prophet and as a "watchman" in Israel: "Son of man, I am sending you to the Israelites." (2:3)

2. Judgement on Jerusalem and Judah and on the nations: God warns of the certain destruction of Jerusalem and of the devastation of the nations that have troubled his people: the Ammonites, Moabites, Edomites and Philistines, the Phoenician cities of Tyre and Sidon, and Egypt.

3. Building a new city: The Jewish exile will come to an end, a new city and new Temple will be built, and the Israelites will be gathered and blessed as never before.

Some of the highlights include:

• The "throne vision", in which Ezekiel sees God enthroned in the Temple among the heavenly host;

• The first "temple vision", in which Ezekiel sees God leave the Temple because of the abominations practiced there (meaning the worship of idols rather than YHWH, the official God of Judah;

• Images of Israel, in which Israel is seen as a harlot bride, among other things;

• The "valley of dry bones", in which the prophet sees the dead of the house of Israel rise again;

• The destruction of Gog and Magog, in which Ezekiel sees Israel's enemies destroyed and a new age of peace established;

• The final temple vision, in which Ezekiel sees a new commonwealth centered around a new temple in Jerusalem, sometimes called the Third Temple, to which God's Shekinah (Divine Presence) has returned.)

EZEKIEL CHAPTER 1

1 And it will be in the thirtieth year, in the fourth, in the fifth to the month, and I in the midst of the captivity by the river Chebar, the heavens were opened and I shall see visions of God.

2 In the fifth to the month, this the fifth year to the captivity of king Jehoiachin,

3 The word of Jehovah being, was to Jehezhel, son of Buzi, the priest, in the land of the Chaldean by the river Chebar; and the hand of Jehovah will be there upon him.

4 And I shall see, and behold, the spirit of a tempest came from the north, a great cloud, and a fire taking itself, and a shining to it round about, and from its midst as the appearance of burnished brass from the midst of the fire.

5 And from its midst the likeness of four living creatures: and this their vision; and the likeness of a man to them.

6 And four faces to one, and four wings to one, to them.

7 And their feet a straight foot; and the sole of their feet as the sole of a calf's foot; and sparkling as the appearance of polished brass.

8 And his hand of a man from under their wings upon their four sides; and their faces and their wings to these four.

9 And their wings joined every one to the other; they will not turn in their going, they will go each over against his face.

11 And their faces: and their wings spread out from above; to each of the two being joined each, and two covering their bodies.

12 And they will go each over against his face; to where the spirit will be there to go, they will go; they will not turn in their going.

13 And the likeness of the living creatures, their appearance as burning coals of fire, as the appearance of flames going about between the living creatures; and a shining to the fire, and from the fire will go forth lightning.

14 And the living creatures ran and turned back as the appearance of lightning.

15 And I shall see the living creatures, and behold, one wheel upon the earth by the living creatures, to his four faces.

16 The appearance of the wheels and their works as the appearance of topaz: and one likeness to these four: and their appearance and their works as a wheel will be in the midst of the wheel.

17 In their going they will go upon their four sides: they will not turn in their going.

18 And their backs, and the height to them, and terror to them; and their backs full of eyes round about to them four.

19 And in the going of the living creatures, the wheels will go by them: and in the lifting up of the living creatures from the earth the wheels will be lifted up.

20 To where the spirit will be there to go they will go, there the spirit to go; and the wheels will be lifted up with them: for the spirit of life in the wheels.

21 In their going, they will go: and in their standing, they will stand; and in their being lifted up from the earth the wheels will be lifted up with them: for the spirit of life in the wheels.

22 And the likeness upon the heads of the living creatures a firmament as the eye of the terrible crystal, stretched forth upon their heads from above.

23 And under the expansion their wings straight each to the other: to each, two, covering upon them, to each two covering to them their bodies.

25 And a voice will be from above to the expansion which was over their head; in their standing their wings will slacken.

26 And from above to the expansion which was over their head as the appearance of a sapphire stone: the likeness of a throne, and over the likeness of a throne, the likeness as the appearance of a man upon it from above.

27 And I shall see as the appearance of burnished brass, as the appearance of fire within to it round about, from the appearance of his loins and above, and from the appearance of his loins to below, I saw as the appearance of fire, and a shining to it round about.

28 As the appearance of the bow which will be in the cloud in the day of rain, so the appearance of the shining round about This the appearance of the likeness of the glory of Jehovah. And I shall see it and I shall fall upon my face, and I shall hear the voice of him speaking.

EZEKIEL CHAPTER 2

1 And he will say to me, Son of man, stand upon thy feet, and I will speak with thee.

2 And the spirit will come into me as he spake to me, and he will cause me to stand upon my feet, and I shall bear him speaking to me.

3 And he will say to me, Son of man, I send thee to the sons of Israel, to rebellious nations who rebelled against me: they and their fathers transgressed against me even to this same day.

4 And the sons hard of face and strong of heart. I send thee to them; and say to them, Thus said the Lord Jehovah.

5 And if they will hear, and if they will desist, (for they a house of contradiction,) and they shall know that a prophet was in the midst of them.

6 And thou son of man, thou shalt not be afraid of them, and thou shalt not be afraid of their words, if rebels and thorns with thee, and thou art dwelling with scorpions: thou shalt not be afraid of their words, and thou shalt not be terrified from their face, for they a house of contradiction.

7 And speak my word to them, if they will hear and if they will desist: for they are contradiction.

8 And thou son of man, hear what I speak to thee: Thou shalt not be contradiction as the house of contradiction: open thy mouth and eat what I give to thee.

9 And I shall see, and behold, a hand sent to me; and behold, in it a roll of a book.

10 And he will spread it out before me: and it was written the face and the back side: and written upon it lamentations, sighing, and Wo.

EZEKIEL CHAPTER 3

1 And he will say to me, Son of man, eat what thou shalt find; eat this roll, and go speak to the house of Israel.

2 And I shall open my mouth, and he will cause me to eat this roll.

3 And he will say to me, Son of man, thou shalt cause thy belly to eat, and thou shalt fill thy bowels with this roll which I give to thee. And eating it, it will be in my mouth as honey for sweetness.

4 And he will say to me, Son of man, go; come to the house of Israel and speak my word to them.

5 For not to a people deep of lip and heavy of tongue; thou art sent to the house of Israel;

6 Not to many peoples deep of lip and heavy of tongue which thou wilt not hear their words If to them I sent thee, they will hear to thee.

7 And the house of Israel will not hear to thee; for they are not willing to hear to me: for all the house of Israel are strong of forehead, and they are hard of heart.

9 As the diamond strong above the rock I gave thy forehead: thou shalt not fear them, and thou shalt not be terrified from their face, for they are a house of contradiction.

10 And he will say to me, Son of man, all my words which I shall speak to thee take into thy heart, and with thine ears hear thou.

11 And go, come to the captivity, to the sons of my people, and speak to them, and say to them, Thus said the Lord Jehovah; if they will hear, and if they will desist

12 And the spirit will lift me up, and I shall hear behind me a voice of a great shaking: Praised be the glory of Jehovah from his place.

13 And the voice of the wings of the living creatures, kissing one to the other, and the voice of the wheels over against them, and the voice of a great shaking.

14 And the spirit lifted me up, and it will take me and I shall go bitter, in the heat of my spirit; and the hand of Jehovah was strong upon me.

15 And I shall go to the captivity, the hill of the green ears, those dwelling at the river Chebar, and where they are sitting there, I shall sit there seven days, being astonished in the midst of them.

16 And it will be from the end of seven days, and the word of Jehovah will be to me, saying,

17 Son of man, I gave thee a watchman to the house of Israel: and hear thou the word from my mouth, and admonish them from me.

18 In my saying to the unjust, Dying, thou shalt die; and thou admonished him not, and thou spakest not to admonish the unjust from his way of injustice to preserve him alive; this unjust one shall die in his iniquity, and his blood I will seek from thy hand.

19 And if thou hast admonished the unjust one, and he turned not back from his evil and from his way of injustice; he shall die in his iniquity and thou deliveredst thy soul.

20 And in the just turning back from his justice and doing evil, and I gave a stumbling-block before his face, he shall die: for thou didst not admonish him, in his sins he shall die, and his justice shall not be remembered which he did; and his blood will I seek from thy hand.

21 And if thou admonishedst the just for the just not to sin, and he sin not, living, he shall live, for he was admonished; and thou didst deliver thy soul.

22 And the hand of Jehovah will be there upon me; and he will say to me, Arise, go forth to the valley, and there I will speak with thee

23 And I shall arise and go forth to the valley: and behold there the glory of Jehovah stood as the glory which saw by the river Chebar: and I shall fall upon my face.

24 And the spirit will come into me, and will cause me to stand upon my feet, and will speak with me, and my to me, Come in and be shut up in the midst of thy house.

25 And thou, son of man; behold, they gave bands upon thee, and they bound thee with them, and thou shalt not go forth in the midst of them:

26 And will cause thy tongue to cleave to thy palate, and thou wert dumb, and thou shalt not be to them for a man reproving: for they are a house of contradiction.

27 And in my speaking with thee I will open thy mouth, and say thou to them, Thus said the Lord Jehovah: He hearing, shall hear; and he desisting, shall desist: for they are a house of contradiction.

EZEKIEL CHAPTER 4

1 And thou son of man take to thee a brick, and give thou it before thee, and delineate upon it the city Jerusalem;

2 And give siege against it, and build a watch tower against it, and cast a mound against it, and give the camp against it, and set battering-rams against it round about

3 And thou, take to thee an iron pan and give it a wall of iron between thee and between the city: and prepare thy face against it, and she was in siege, and press upon her. This a sign to the house of Israel.

4 And lie thou upon thy left side, and put the iniquity of the house of Israel upon it: the number of days which thou shalt lie upon it thou shalt lift up their iniquity.

5 And I gave to thee the years of their iniquity according to the number of days, three hundred and ninety days: and thou didst bear the iniquity of the house of Israel.

6 And finishing these, and thou didst lie upon thy right side the second time, and thou didst bear the iniquity of the house of Judah forty days: a day for a year, a day for a year I gave it to thee,

7 And to the siege of Jerusalem thou shalt prepare thy face, and thine arm being uncovered and prophesy against her

8 And behold, I gave bands upon thee, and thou shalt not turn from thy side to thy side, even to thy finishing the days of thy siege.

9 And thou, take to thee wheat, and barley, and the bean, and lentiles, and millet, and spelt, and give them into one vessel, and make them to thee for bread, the number of days which thou didst lie upon thy side; three hundred and ninety days shalt thou eat it

10 An thy food which thou shalt eat by weight, twenty shekels for a day: from time even to time shalt thou eat it.

11 And water by measure shalt thou drink, the sixth of the bin: from time even to time shalt thou drink.

12 And thou shalt eat it cakes of barley, and it shall be baked with dung coming forth of man, before their eyes.

13 And Jehovah will say, Like this shall the sons of Israel eat their defiled bread among the nations where I shall thrust them away there.

14 And saying, Ah, Lord Jehovah behold, my soul not being defiled: and a carcass and the torn in pieces I ate not from my youth and even till now; there came not flesh of uncleanness into my mouth.

15 And he will say to me, See, I gave to thee the dung of oxen instead of man's dung, and make thy bread upon them.

16 And he will say to me, Son of man, behold me breaking the staff of bread in Jerusalem: and they ate bread by weight and with fear; and they shall drink water by measure, and with astonishment

17 So that they shall want bread and water, and they were astonished, a man and his brother, and they were melted in their iniquity.

EZEKIEL CHAPTER 5

1 And thou son of man, take to thee a sharp sword, the barber's razor, thou shalt take them to thee and cause to pass over thy head and over thy beard: and take to the balances of weighing and divide them.

2 Thou shalt burn the third in fire in the midst of the city, according to the filling up of the days of the siege: and taking the third thou shalt strike it with the sword round about it; and the third thou shalt scatter to the wind; and I will draw out the sword after them.

3 And take from thence a few in number and bind them in thy wings.

4 And thou shalt yet take from them and cast them into the midst of the fire, and burn them in fire: from it shall come forth fire to all the house of Israel.

5 Thus said the Lord Jehovah: this is Jerusalem; I set her in the midst of the nations and lands round about her.

6 And she will change my judgments for injustice more than the nations, and my laws more than the lands which are round about her: for they rejected upon my judgments, and my laws they walked not in them.

7 For this, said the Lord Jehovah: Because of your tumult more than the nations which are round about you ye went not in my laws, and my judgments ye did not, and according to the judgments of the nations which are round about you ye did not

8 For this, thus said the Lord Jehovah: Behold me, me also, against thee, and I did judgments in the midst of thee before the eyes of the nations.

9 And I did in thee what I did not, and what I will no more do like, because of all thine abominations.

10 For this the fathers shall eat the sons in the midst of thee, and the sons shall eat their fathers; and I did judgments in thee, and I scattered all thy remnant to every wind.

11 For this, I live, says the Lord Jehovah, if not because thou didst defile my holy place with all thine abominable things, and with all thine abominations, and I will also diminish; and mine eye shall not spare, and also I will not pity.

12 A third of thee in death shall die, and with famine shall they be consumed in the midst of thee: and a third shall fall by the sword round about thee; and the third I will scatter to every wind, and I will draw out the sword after them.

13 And mine anger was completed, and I caused my wrath to rest upon them, and I was comforted: and they shall know that I Jehovah spake in my zeal in my completing my wrath upon them.

14 And I will give thee for a waste, and for a reproach among the nations which are round about thee, before the eyes of all passing by.

15 And it was a reproach and reviling, an instruction and an astonishment to the nations which are round about thee, in my doing judgments in thee in anger and in wrath, and in reproofs of wrath. I Jehovah spake.

16 In my sending the evil arrows of famine upon them which were for destruction, which I shall send to destroy you: and I will add famine upon you, and I broke to you the staff of bread.

17 And I sent upon you famine and the evil beast, and it bereaved thee; and death and blood shall pass through thee; and I will bring the sword upon thee. I Jehovah spake.

EZEKIEL CHAPTER 6

1 And the word of Jehovah will be to me, saying,

2 Son of man, set thy face to the mountains of Israel, and prophesy against them,

3 And say, Ye mountains of Israel, hear the word of the Lord Jehovah: Thus said the Lord Jehovah to the mountains and to the hills, to the torrents and to the valleys: behold me, I bring the sword upon you, and I destroyed your heights.

4 And your altars were laid waste, and your images were broken: and I caused your wounded to fall before your blocks.

5 And I gave the carcasses of the sons of Israel before their blocks; and I scattered your bones round about your altars.

6 In all your dwellings the cities shalt be laid waste, and the heights shall be made desolate; so that your altars shall be laid waste and destroyed, and your blocks were broken and ceased, and your images were cut down, and your works were wiped away.

7 And the wounded fell in the midst of you, and ye shall know that I am Jehovah.

8 And I left in being to you them escaping the sword among the nations, in my scattering you in the lands.

9 And those escaping of you remembered me among the nations where they were carried captive there, because I was broken with their heart of a harlot, which turned away from me, and their eyes committing fornication after their blocks: and they loathed in their faces for the evils which they did for all their abominations.

10 And they shall know that I am Jehovah; not in vain spake I to do to them this evil.

11 Thus said the Lord Jehovah: Strike with thy hand and stamp with thy foot, and say, Alas, for all the evil abominations of the house of Israel! for they shall fall by the famine and by the sword and by death.

12 He being far off, in death shall he die; and he being near shall fall by the sword; and he remaining and he being besieged shall die by famine: and I finished my wrath upon them.

13 And ye knew that I am Jehovah in their wounded being in the midst of their blocks round about their altars, upon every high hill, upon all the heads of the mountains, and under every green tree, and under every thick oak, the place where they gave there an odor of sweetness to all their blocks.

14 And I stretched forth my hand upon them, and I gave the land a desolation and an astonishment from the desert of Diblath, in all their dwellings: and they shall know that I am Jehovah.

EZEKIEL CHAPTER 7

1 And the word of Jehovah will be to me, saying,

2 And thou son of man, thus said the Lord Jehovah to the land of Israel: An end, the end came upon the four corners of the land.

3 Now the end upon thee, and I sent mine anger against thee, and I judged thee according to thy ways, and I gave upon thee all thine abominations.

4 And mine eye shall not spare upon thee, and I will not pity: for I will give thy ways upon thee, and thine abominations shall be in the midst of thee: and ye knew that I am Jehovah.

5 Thus said the Lord Jehovah: An evil, one evil, behold, coming

6 An end came, the end came: it awaked against thee; behold, it came.

7 The circle came to thee, thou inhabiting the land: the time came, the day of consternation drew near, and not the shout of joy of the mountains.

8 The time drawing near I will pour out my wrath upon thee, and I completed mine anger against thee: and I judged thee according to thy ways, and I gave upon thee all thine abominations.

9 And mine eye shall not spare, and I will not pity: I will give upon thee according to thy ways, and thine abominations, they shall be in the midst of thee; and ye knew that I am Jehovah striking.

11 Violence rose up for a rod of injustice: not from them, not from their multitude, and not from their confusion: and nothing eminent in them.

12 The time came, the day drew near: he buying shall not rejoice, and he selling, shall not mourn: for burning upon all her multitude.

Copyright © 2026 by Lord Henfield, Guildford Scientific Press

13 For he selling shall not turn back to the sale, and it was in their yet living: for the vision for all her multitude; it shall not turn back, and a man shall not be strengthened in his iniquity of his life.

14 They shall strike upon the trumpet, and to prepare all; and none went to the war: for my burning is upon all her multitude.

15 The sword without, and the death and the famine from within: who is in the field shall die by the sword; and who is in the city, the famine and death shall consume him.

16 And they escaping, escaped, and they were on the mountains as doves of the valleys, all of them slain, a man for his iniquity.

17 All hands shall be relaxed, and all knees shall go into water.

18 And they girded on sackcloth and trembling covered them; and shame to all faces, and upon all heads, baldness.

19 They will cast their silver into the streets, and their gold shall be for uncleanness: their silver and their gold shall not be able to deliver them in the day of the outpouring of Jehovah: they shall not satisfy their souls, and they shall not fill their bowels: for it was the stumbling-block of their iniquity.

20 The matter of his ornament they set for pride; and they made the images of their abominations, their abominable things upon it: for this I gave it to them for uncleanness.

21 And I gave it into the hands of strangers for plunder, and to the unjust of the earth for a spoil; and they profaned it

22 And I turned my face from them, and they profaned my secret; and the rapacious came into it and profaned it

23 Make the chain: for the land was filled with judgment of bloods, and the city was filled with violence.

24 And I brought the evil ones of the nations, and they inherited their houses: and I caused the pride of the strong ones to cease, and their holy places were profaned.

25 And terror came, and they sought peace, and none.

26 And ruin upon ruin shall come, and report shall be to report; and they sought a vision from the prophet; and law shall perish from the priest, and counsel from the old men.

27 The king shall mourn, and the prince shall put on desolation, and the hands of the people of the land shall tremble: from their way will I do with them, and with their judgments I will judge them, and they shall know that I am Jehovah.

EZEKIEL CHAPTER 8

1 And it was in the sixth year, in the sixth, in the fifth to the month, I sitting in my house, and the old men of Judah sitting before me, and the hand of the Lord Jehovah fell there upon me.

2 And I saw, and behold, a likeness as the appearance of fire: from the appearance of his loins and downward, tire; and from his loins and upward, as the appearance of brightness, as the appearance of burnished brass.

3 And he sent forth the likeness of a hand, and he took me by a lock of my head; and the spirit lifted me up between the earth and between the heavens, and it brought me to Jerusalem in the visions of God, to the door of the gate within, looking to the north; where was there the seat of the image of jealousy possessing

4 And behold there the glory of the God of Israel as the vision which I saw in the valley.

5 And he said to me, Son of man, lift up now thine eyes the way of the north. And I lifter up mine eyes the way of the north, and behold, from the north at the gate of the altar this image of jealousy in the entrance.

6 And he said to me, Son of man, west thou what they are doing, the great abominations which the house of Israel are doing here, to go far off from my holy place? And thou shalt yet turn back, thou shalt see great abominations.

7 And he brought me to the door of the enclosure, and I saw, and behold, one hole in the wall.

8 And he said to me, Son of man, break thou now, into the wall: and I broke through into the wall, and behold, one door.

9 And he said to me, Come and see the evil abominations which they are doing here.

10 And I came and saw, and behold, every form of creeping thing, and beast of abomination, and all the blocks of the house of Israel, delineated upon the wall round about, round about 11 And seventy men from the old men of the house of Israel, and Jaazaniah, son of Shaphan, stood in the midst of them, standing before them, and each his censer in his hand; and a rich cloud of incense went up.

12 And he said to me, Sawest, thou son of man, what the old men of the house of Israel are doing in darkness, a man in the chambers of his images? for they are saying, Jehovah sees us not; Jehovah forsook the earth.

13 And he said to me, Thou shalt turn back yet; thou shalt see great abominations which they are doing.

14 And he brought me to the door of the gate of the house of Jehovah which was to, the north; and behold, there women sat weeping for Tammuz.

15 And he said to me, Sawest, thou son of man? yet shalt thou turn back, thou shalt see abominations great above these.

16 And he brought me to the enclosure of the house of Jehovah within, and behold, a door of the temple of Jehovah, and between the porch and between the altar, about twenty and five men, their backs to the temple, and their faces to the east; and they worshiping the east to the sun.

17 And he said to me, Sawest, thou son of man? Was it light to the house of Judah doing the abominations which they did here? for they filled the land with violence, and they turned back to irritate me: and behold them sending the branch to their nose.

18 And also I will do in wrath: mine eye shall not spare and I will not pity: and they shall call in mine ear with a great voice, and I will not hear them.

EZEKIEL CHAPTER 9

1 And he will call in mine ears with a great voice, saying, Draw near, ye having oversight of the city, each the vessels of his destruction in his hand.

2 And behold, six men coming from the way of the highest gate which looking to the north, and each a weapon of smiting in pieces in his hand; and one man in the midst of them clothed with linen, an inkhorn of the scribe upon his loins: and they will come and stand by the altar of brass.

3 And the glory of the God of Israel came up from the cherub where he Was upon it, to the threshold of the house. And he will call to the man clothed with linen to whom the inkhorn of the scribe upon his loins.

4 And Jehovah will say to him, Pass through into the midst of the city, in the midst of Jerusalem, and mark a mark upon the foreheads of the men sighing and groaning for all the abominations being done in her midst

5 And to these he said in mine ears, Pass through into the city after him, and strike: your eye shall not spare, and ye shall not pity.

6 The old man, the young man, and the virgin, and little ones, and women, ye shall slay to destruction: and every man which upon him the mark, ye shall not touch; and ye shall begin from my holy place. And they will begin upon the old men which are before the house

7 And he will say to them, Defile the house, and fill the enclosures with the wounded: go ye forth. And they went forth and struck in the city.

8 And it will be as they were striking them, and I being left, and I shall fall upon my face, and I shall cry, and saying, Ah, Lord Jehovah! destroyest thou all the remnant of Israel in thy pouring forth thy wrath upon Jerusalem?

9 And he will say to me, The iniquity of the house of Israel and Judah, great exceedingly, and the land will be filled with blood and the city being filled with wresting: for they said, Jehovah forsook the land, and Jehovah saw not

10 And also I, mine eye shall not spare, and I will not pity, I gave their way upon their head.

11 And behold, the man clothed with linen to whom the inkhorn upon his loins, turning back word, saying, I did as thou didst command me.

EZEKIEL CHAPTER 10

1 And I shall see, and behold, to the which is over the head of the cherubs, as a stone of sapphire, as the vision of the likeness of a throne was seen over them.

2 And he will say to the man clothed with linen, and he will say, Go in between the wheel, underneath to the cherub, and fill thy fists with coals of fire from between the cherubs, and scatter over the city. And he will go in before mine eyes.

3 And the cherubs standing from the right to the house, in his going in, the man; and the cloud filled in the inner enclosure.

4 And the glory of Jehovah will rise from off the cherub over the threshold of the house, and the house will be filled with the cloud, and the enclosure was filled with the shining of the glory of Jehovah.

5 And the voice of the wings of the cherubs was heard, even to the enclosure without, as the voice to the Almighty in his speaking.

6 And it will be in his commanding the man clothed with linen, saying, Take the fire from between the wheel from between the cherubs; and he will go in and stand by the wheel.

7 And the cherub will stretch forth his hand from between the cherubs to the fire which is between the cherubs, and he will lift up and will give into the fists of him clothed with linen: and he will take and he went forth.

8 And there will be seen to the cherubs the form of a man's hand under their wings.

9 And I shall see, and behold, the four wheels by the cherubs, one wheel by the one cherub, and one wheel by the one cherub: and the vision of the wheels as the eye of a stone of topaz.

10 And their appearances one likeness to them four, as the wheel will be in the midst of the wheel.

11 In their going, upon their four sides they will go; they will not turn in their going, for to the place where the head will turn after it will they go; they will not turn in their going.

12 And all their flesh, and their back, and their hands, and their wings, and the wheels being filled with eyes round about, the wheels to them four.

1 To the wheels to them was called, Gilgal! in mine ears.

14 And four faces to the one: the one face the face of the cherub, and the second face the face of a man, and the third, the face of a lion, and the fourth, the face of an eagle.

15 And the cherubs will be lifted up. This the living creature which I saw by the river Chebar.

16 And in the going of the cherubs, the wheels by them will go: and in the lifting up of the cherubs their wings to rise up from the earth, the wheels they also from beside them will not turn.

17 In their standing, they will stand: and in their rising, they will rise with them: for the spirit of life was in them:

18 And the glory of Jehovah went forth from off the threshold of the house, and it will stand over the cherubs.

19 And the cherubs will lift up their wings, and will rise from the earth before mine eyes: in their going forth and the wheels with them, and they will stand at the door of the eastern gate of the house of Jehovah; and the glory of the God of Israel over them from above.

20 This the living creature I saw under the God of Israel by the river Chebar; and I shall know that they are the cherubs.

21 Four, four faces to the one, and four wings to the one; and the likeness of the hands of a man under their wings.

22 And the likeness of their faces these faces which I saw upon the river Chebar, their appearance and themselves: they will go each over against his face.

EZEKIEL CHAPTER 11

1 And the spirit will lift me up and bring me to the east gate of the house of Jehovah looking to the east: and behold, in the door of the gate, twenty and five men; and I shall see in the midst of them Jaazaniah, son of Azur, and Pelatiah, son of Benaiah, chiefs of the people.

2 And he will say to say to me, Son of man, these the men purposing vanity and counseling evil counsel in this city

3 Saying, It not being near; build houses: this the pot, and we the flesh.

4 For this, prophesy against them, prophesy, thou son of man.

5 And the spirit of Jehovah will fall upon me, and he will say to me, Say, Thus said Jehovah; Thus ye said, O house of Israel: and the risings of your spirit, I knew it.

6 Ye multiplied your wounded in this city, and ye filled its streets with the wounded.

7 For this, thus said the Lord Jehovah: Your wounded which ye set in her midst, they the flesh, and this the pot: and I brought you forth from its midst.

Ye feared the sword; and I will bring a sword upon you, says the Lord Jehovah.

9 And I brought you from its midst, and I gave you into the hand of strangers and I did judgment upon you.

10 By the sword shall ye fall upon the bound of Israel; I will judge you and ye shall know that I am Jehovah.

11 This shall not be to you for a pot, and ye shall not be in the midst of her for flesh; upon the bound of Israel will I judge you.

12 And ye shall know That I am Jehovah: for in my laws ye went not, and my judgments ye did not; and according to the judgments of the nations round about you ye did.

13 And it will be as I prophesied, and Pelatiah son of Benaiah, died. And I shall fall upon my face and cry with a great voice, and saying, Ah. Lord Jehovah, thou makest a completion with the remnant of Israel.

14 And the word of Jehovah will be to me, saying,

15 Son of man, thy brethren, thy brethren, the men of thy kin, and all the house of Israel, wholly, which the inhabitants of Jerusalem said to them, Go ye far off from Jehovah; to us this land was given for a possession.

16 For this, say, Thus said the Lord Jehovah: If I put them far off among the nations, and if I scattered them in the lands, and I will be to them for a little holy place in the lands where they went there.

17 For this, say, Thus said the Lord Jehovah: And I gathered you from the peoples, and I collected you from the lands where ye were scattered among them, and I gave to you the land of Israel

18 And they came there, and they took away all the abominable things, and all the abominations from thence.

19 And I gave to them one heart, and a new spirit I will give in the midst of you; and I turned away the heart of stone from their flesh, and I gave to them a heart of flesh:

20 That they shall walk in my laws, and they shall watch my judgments and do them, and they were to me for a people and I shall be to them for God.

21 And to the heart going to the heart of their abominable things and their abominations, I gave their way upon their head, says the Lord Jehovah.

22 And the cherubs will lift up their wings, and the wheels with them; and the glory of the God of Israel over them from above.

23 And the glory of Jehovah will go up from the midst of the city, and stand upon the mountain which is from the east to the city.

24 And the spirit lifted me up, and it will bring me to Chaldea to the captivity, in a vision by the spirit of God. And the vision which I saw will go up from me.

25 And I shall speak to the captivity all the words of Jehovah which he caused me to see.

EZEKIEL CHAPTER 12

1 And the word of Jehovah will be to me, saying,

2 Son of man, thou art dwelling in the midst of a house of contradiction, which to them eyes to see, and they saw not: ears to them to hear, and they heard not: for they are a house of contradiction.

3 And thou Son of man, make to thee vessels of captivity and emigrate by day before their eyes; and emigrating from thy place to another place before their eyes; perhaps they will see if they are a house of contradiction.

4 And bring forth thy vessels as vessels of captivity by day, before their eyes: and thou shalt go forth in the evening before their eyes, as the goings forth of captivity.

5 Before their eyes break through to thee in the wall, and bring forth by it

6 Before their eyes upon the shoulder thou shalt lift up, in thick darkness thou shalt bring forth: thou shalt cover thy face, and thou shalt not see the earth: for I gave thee a wonder to the house of Israel.

7 And I shall do thus as I was commanded: I brought forth the vessels as vessels of captivity by day, and in the evening I broke through for me in the wall with the hand; in the thick darkness I brought forth, upon the shoulder I lifted up before their eyes.

8 And the word of Jehovah will be to me in the morning, saying,

9 Son of man, did not the house of Israel, the house of contradiction, say to thee, What doest thou?

10 Say to them, thus said the Lord Jehovah: The ruler of this burden in Jerusalem, and all the house of Israel which they are in the midst of them.

11 Say, I am your wonder: as I did, so it shall be done to them: by emigrating, they shall go into captivity.

12 And the prince which is in the midst of them shall lift up upon the shoulder in thick darkness, and go forth: they shall break through into the wall to bring forth by it: he shall cover his face so that be shall not see the earth with the eye.

13 And I spread my net upon him, and he was taken in my net: and I brought him to Babel the land of the Chaldeans, and he shall not see it, and there he shall die.

14 And all which are round about him to help, and all his hosts, I will scatter to every wind; and I will draw out a sword after them.

15 And they shall know that I am Jehovah, in my scattering them in the nations; and I scattered them in the lands.

16 And I left of them men of number, from the sword and from famine, and from death, so that they shall recount all their abominations among the nations where they went there; and they shall know that I am Jehovah.

17 And the word of Jehovah will be to me, saying,

18 Son of man, thou shalt eat thy bread with trembling, and thou shalt drink thy water with disquiet and with dread;

19 And say to the people of the land, Thus said the Lord Jehovah to the inhabitants of Jerusalem, to the land of Israel: they shall eat their bread with dread, and they shall drink their waters with astonishment, that her land shall be laid waste from her fulness from the violence of all dwelling in her.

20 And the cities being inhabited shall be laid waste, and the land shall be a desolation; and they knew that I am Jehovah.

21 And the word of Jehovah was to me, saying,

22 Son of man, what this parable to you upon the land of Israel, saying, The days will be prolonged and every vision perished?

23 For this, say to them, Thus said the Lord Jehovah: I caused this parable to cease, and they shall no more use it for a parable in Israel; but speak to them: The days drew near, and the word of every vision.

24 For no more shall there be any vain vision and smooth divination in the midst of the house of Israel.

25 For I am Jehovah: I will speak, what word I will speak and it shall be done; it shall no more be protracted: for in your days, O house of contradiction, I will speak the word, and I did it, says the Lord Jehovah.

26 And the word of Jehovah will be to me, saying,

27 Son of man, behold the house of Israel saying, The vision which he saw is for many days, and for the times afar off he prophesied.

28 For this, say to them, Thus said the Lord Jehovah: No more shall my words be protracted, for I will speak the word and it shall be done, says the Lord Jehovah.

EZEKIEL CHAPTER 13

1 And the word of Jehovah will be to me, saying,

2 Son of man, prophesy against the prophets of Israel prophesying, and say to them prophesying from their heart, Hear ye the word of Jehovah.

3 Thus said the Lord Jehovah: Wo upon the foolish prophets which are going after their spirit, and they saw not

4 Thy prophets were as the foxes in the sterile regions, 0 Israel.

5 Ye went not up into the breaches, and ye will wall in the wall upon the house of Israel to stand in the war in the day of Jehovah.

6 They saw vanity and a divination of falsehood, saying, says Jehovah: and Jehovah sent them not: and they waited to raise up the word.

7 Saw ye not a vision of falsehood, and ye said, a divination of a lie, and saying, says Jehovah; and I spake not

8 For this, thus said the Lord Jehovah: Because ye spake falsehood and saw a lie, for this, behold me against you, said the Lord Jehovah.

9 And mine hand shall be upon the prophets seeing falsehood, and divining a lie: they shall not be in the assembly of my people, and they shall not be written in the writing of the house of Israel, and to the land of Israel they shall not come in; and ye knew that I am the Lord Jehovah.

10 Because, and because they led my people astray, saying, Peace; and no peace; and he built a wall and they plastering it with plaster:

11 Say to them plastering with plaster: And it shall fall: there was a violent rain poured out; and ye, O hailstones, shall fall; and the spirit of storms shall rend.

12 And behold, the wall fell; shall it not be said to you, Where the plastering which ye plastered?

13 For this, thus said the Lord Jehovah: I rent a spirit of storms in my wrath; and there shall be a violent shower overflowing in mine anger, and stones of hail in my wrath to finish.

14 And I broke in pieces the wall which ye plastered with plaster, and I caused it to touch the earth, and its foundation was uncovered and it fell, and ye were consumed in its midst: and ye knew that I am Jehovah.

15 And I finished my wrath upon the wall, and upon those plastering it with plaster, and saying to you, No wall, and none plastering it;

16 The prophets of Israel prophesying to Jerusalem, and seeing for her a vision of peace, and no peace, says the Lord Jehovah.

17 And thou son of man, set thy face against the daughters of thy people prophesying from their heart, and prophesy thou against them.

18 And say, Thus said the Lord Jehovah: Wo to them sewing together cushions for all the joints of the hands, and making cushions upon the head of every height to lie in wait for souls! will ye lie in wait for the souls to my people, and will ye preserve alive the souls to you?

19 Ye will profane me to my people for handfuls of barley and for morsels of bread, to kill the souls which shall not die, and to preserve alive the souls which shall not live, by your falsehood to my people hearing the falsehood?

20 For this, thus said the Lord Jehovah: Behold me against your pillows with which ye lie in wait there for the souls to break forth, and I rent them from your arms, and I sent away the souls, the souls which ye lie in wait for to break forth.

21 And I rent your cushions and I delivered my people from your hand, and they shall no more be in your hand for being laid in wait for; and ye knew that I am Jehovah.

22 Because ye afflicted the heart of the just one with falsehood, and I afflicted him not; and to strengthen the hands of the evil one not to turn back from his evil way, to preserve him alive.

23 For this, ye shall not see falsehood, and ye shall no more divine a divination: and I delivered my people from your hand: and ye knew that I am Jehovah.

EZEKIEL CHAPTER 14

1 And there will come to me men from the old men of Israel, and sit before me.

2 And the word of Jehovah will be to me, saying,

3 Son of man, these men brought up their blocks upon their heart, and they gave the stumbling-block of their iniquity before their face: shall I be sought out, shall I be sought oat for them?

4 For this, speak to them and say to them, Thus said the Lord Jehovah: A man, a man of the house of Israel who shall bring up his blocks upon his heart, and shall set up the stumbling-block of his iniquity before his face, and coming to the prophet, I Jehovah answered to him coming according to the multitude of his blocks;

5 So that taking the house of Israel in their heart, which were all of them separated from me by their blocks.

6 For this, say to the house of Israel, Thus said the Lord Jehovah: Turn ye back, and turn away from your blocks; and turn away your faces from all your abominations.

7 For a man, a man of the house of Israel, and of the stranger who shall sojourn in Israel, and he shall separate himself from after me, and shall bring up his blocks into his heart, and shall set the stumbling-block of his iniquity before his face, and coming to the prophet to seek out to him for me; I Jehovah will answer to him for me:

8 And I gave my face against that man, and I set him for a sign and for parables, and I cut him off from the midst of my people; and ye knew that I am Jehovah.

9 And if the prophet shall be deceived, and he spake a word, I Jehovah deceived that prophet, and I stretched forth my hand upon him, and I destroyed him from the midst of my people Israel.

10 And they bare their iniquity; as the iniquity of him seeking so shall be the iniquity of the prophet;

11 So that the house of Israel shall no more wander from after me, and they shall no more be defiled with all their transgressions; and they were to me for a people, and I will be to them for God, says the Lord Jehovah.

12 And the word of Jehovah will be to me, saying,

13 Son of man, if a land shall sin against me to cover a transgression, and I stretched forth my hands upon it, and I broke to it the staff of bread, and sent famine upon it, and I cut off from it man and cattle:

14 And were these three men in its midst, Noah, Daniel, and Job, they by their justice shall deliver their souls, says the Lord Jehovah.

15 If I shall cause the evil beast to pass through upon the land, and it was bereaved, and there was desolation from not passing through from the face of the beast:

16 These three men in its midst, I live, says the Lord Jehovah, if sons and if daughters they shall deliver; they alone shall be delivered, and the land shall be a desolation.

17 Or I shall bring a sword upon that land, and I said, Sword, thou shalt pass through the land; and I cut off from it man and cattle.

18 And these three men in its midst, I live, says the Lord Jehovah, they shall not deliver sons and daughters, for they alone shall be delivered.

19 Or I shall send death to that land, and I poured out my wrath upon it in blood, to cut off from it man and cattle

20 And Noah, Daniel, and Job, in its midst, I live, says the Lord Jehovah, if son if daughter they shall deliver; they by their justice shall deliver their soul.

21 For thus said the Lord Jehovah: Also if I sent my four evil judgments, sword and famine, and the evil beast, and death to Jerusalem, to cut off from it man and cattle?

22 And behold, there was left in it an escaping, sons and daughters being brought forth: behold them, they shall be brought forth to you, and ye saw their way and their doings: and ye were comforted concerning the evil which I brought upon Jerusalem, all which I brought upon her.

23 And they comforted you, for ye shall see their way and their doings; and ye know that not in vain did I do all which I did in her, says the Lord Jehovah.

EZEKIEL CHAPTER 15

1 And the word of Jehovah will be to me, saying,

2 Son of man, what is the tree of the vine above every tree, the vine-shoot which was upon the trees of the forest.

3 Shall wood be taken from it to do for work? or will they take from it a peg to hang upon it any vessel?

4 Behold, it was given to the fire to consume; the fire consumed its two ends, and the midst of it was burned. Will it succeed for work.

5 Behold, in its being whole, it will not do for work: but if the fire consumed it, and it was burnt, did it yet do for work?

6 For this, thus said the Lord Jehovah: As the tree of the vine upon the tree of the forest which I gave it to the fire for consuming, thus I gave the inhabitants of Jerusalem.

7 And I gave my face against them; they shall go forth from the fire, and the fire shall consume them; and they knew that I am Jehovah in my setting my face against them.

8 And I gave the land a desolation, because they transgressed a transgression, says the Lord Jehovah.

2 Son of man, cause Jerusalem to know her abomination,

3 And say, Thus said the Lord Jehovah to Jerusalem; Thy birth and thy nativity from the land of the Canaanite; thy father the Amorite, and thy mother a Hittite.

4 And thy nativity, in the day thou wert born thy navel was not cut, and thou wert not washed in water for my looking upon; and salting, thou welt not salted, and swathing, thou wert not swathed.

5 No eye spared upon thee to do one of these to thee, to pity upon thee; and thou wilt be east to the face of the field in loathing of thy soul in the day of bringing thee forth.

6 And I shall pass by thee and see thee being trodden under foot in thy bloods, and saying to thee in thy bloods, Live; and saying to thee in thy bloods, Live.

7 I gave thee ten thousand as the sprout of the field, and thou shalt be multiplied and enlarged, and come into ornament of ornaments: the breasts were set, and thy hair sprang up, and thou wert naked and nakedness.

8 And I shall pass by thee and see thee, and behold, thy time the time of loves; and I shall spread my wing over thee and cover thy nakedness: and I shall swear to thee, and come into covenant with thee, says the Lord Jehovah, and thou shalt be to me.

9 And I will wash thee in water, and I will wash thy bloods from off thee, and I will cover thee with oil.

10 And I will clothe thee with variegations, and shoe thee with tahash, and I will bind thee round with fine linen, and cover thee with silk.

11 And I shall deck thee with ornaments, and I shall give bracelets upon thy hands and a chain upon thy throat

12 And I will give a ring upon thy nose, and earrings for thine ears, and a crown of glory upon thy head.

13 And thou shalt be decked with gold and silver, and thy clothing fine linen and silk, and variegation; fine flour and honey and oil thou didst eat; and thou wilt be fair, very exceedingly, and thou wilt prosper into a kingdom.

14 And a name went forth to thee among the nations in thy beauty: for it was perfected by my decoration which I put upon thee, says the Lord Jehovah

15 And thou wilt trust in thy beauty, and commit fornication upon thy name, and thou wilt pour out thy fornications upon every one passing by; to him it will be.

16 And thou wilt take from thy garments and make to thee heights being spotted, and thou wilt commit fornication upon them: thou earnest not in, and it shall not be.

17 And thou wilt take all thy ornaments from my gold and from my silver, which I gave to thee, and thou wilt make to thee images of a male and commit fornication with them.

18 And thou wilt take thy garments of variegations and cover them: and thou gavest mine oil and mine incense before them.

19 And my bread which I gave to thee, fine flour and oil and honey I gave thee to eat, and thou didst give it before them for an odor of sweetness: and it will be, says the Lord Jehovah.

20 And thou wilt take thy sons and thy daughters which thou didst bear to me, and thou wilt sacrifice them for these to eat From thy fornication is it small?

21 And thou wilt slaughter my sons and give them in causing them to pass through for them.

22 And with all thine abominations and thy fornications thou didst not remember the days of thy youth, in thy being naked and nakedness, and thou wert trod under foot in thy blood.

23 And it will be after all thine evil, Wo, wo to thee! says the Lord Jehovah

24 Thou wilt build to thee a brothel, and thou wilt make to thee a height in every street

25 At every head of the way thou didst build thy height, and thou wilt cause thy beauty to be abhorred, and thou wilt open wide thy feet to every one passing by, and thou wilt multiply thy fornication.

26 And thou wilt commit fornication with the sons of Egypt thy neighbors, great of flesh: and thou wilt multiply thy fornications to irritate me.

27 And behold, I stretched forth my hand upon thee, and I will take away thy law, and I will give thee to the soul of those hating thee, the daughters of the rovers, being ashamed of thy way of wickedness.

28 And thou wilt commit fornication with the sons of Assur, from thy not being satisfied; and thou wilt commit fornication with them, and thou wert not satisfied.

29 And thou wilt multiply thy fornination at the land of Canaan with the Chaldeans, and also thou wert not satisfied with this,

30 How thy heart languished, says the Lord Jehovah, in thy doing all these, the work of a woman, an imperious harlot;

31 In thy building thy brothel in the head of every way, and thou madest thy height in every street; and thou wert not as a harlot to scorn a gift

32 The wife committing adultery, instead of her husband she will take strangers

33 To all committing fornication they will give liberal gifts: and thou gavest thy liberal gifts to all loving thee, and thou wilt make them a present to come in to thee from round about in thy fornications

34 And it will be in thee the reverse from women in thy fornications, and none committing fornication after thee: and in thy giving liberal gifts, and none giving liberal gifts to thee; and thou wilt be for the reverse.

35 For this, O harlot, hear the word of Jehovah:

36 Thus said the Lord Jehovah Because thy brass was poured out, and thy nakedness will be uncovered in thy fornications to those loving thee, and to all the blocks of thine abominations, and according to the bloods of thy sons which thou gavest to them;

37 For this, behold me gathering all those loving thee whom thou wert pleasant to them, and all whom thou lovedst, with all whom thou hatedst; and I gathered them against thee from round about, and I uncovered thy nakedness to them, and they saw all thy nakedness

38 And I judged thee with judgments of those committing adultery and pouring out blood; and I gave thee blood of wrath and jealousy.

39 And I gave thee into their hand, and they pulled down thy brothel, and they broke down thy heights, and they stripped thee of thy garments, and they took all thy glory, and they left thee naked and nakedness.

40 And they brought up a convocation against thee, and they stoned thee with stone, and they cut thee in pieces with their swords.

41 And they burnt thy houses with fire, and they did judgments upon thee before the eyes of many women: and I caused thee to cease from a harlot, and also thou shalt no more give hire.

42 And I caused my wrath against thee to rest, and my jealousy departed from thee, and I will no more be irritated.

43 Because that thou didst not remember the days of thy youth, and thou wilt disquiet me in all these; and lo, I also gave thy way upon the head, says the Lord Jehovah: and thou didst not do wickedness upon all thine abominations.

44 Behold, all using parables will use a parable against thee, saying, As the mother, the daughter.

45 Thou thy mother's daughter loathing her husband and her sons; and thou the sister of thy sisters who loathed their husbands and their sons: your mother a Hittite, and your father an Amorite.

46 Thine elder sister, Shomeron, she and her daughter dwelling upon thy left hand: and thy sister smaller than thou, dwelling from thy right hand, Sodom and her daughters.

47 And thou wentest not in their ways, and thou didst not their abominations: loathing as a little, and thou wilt be corrupted above them in all thy ways.

48 I live, says the Lord Jehovah, if Sodom thy sister did, she and her daughters, as thou didst, thou and thy daughters.

49 Behold, this was the iniquity of Sodom thy sister, pride, fulness of bread, security of rest was to her and to her daughters, and she strengthened not the hand of the poor and needy.

50 And they will be proud, and they will do abomination before me: and I shall take them away according to what I saw.

51 And Shomeron sinned not according to half thy sins: and thou wilt multiply thine abominations above them, and thou wilt justify thy sisters in all thine abominations which thou didst.

52 And thou also bear thy shame, who didst judge for thy sisters in thy sins which thou didst make abominable above them: they shall be justified more than thou: and also thou, be thou ashamed and bear thy shame in thy justifying thy sisters.

53 And I turned back their captivity, the captivity of Sodom and her daughters, and the captivity of Shomeron and her daughters, and the captivity of thy captivities in their midst:

54 So that thou shalt bear thy shame, and thou wert made ashamed of all which thou didst in thy comforting them.

55 And thy sisters, Sodom and her daughters, shall turn back to their beginning, and Shomeron and her daughters shall turn back to their beginning, and thou and thy daughters shall turn back to your beginning.

56 And thy sister Sodom was not for a hearing in thy mouth in the day of thy pride.

57 Before thine evil shall be uncovered as the time of reproach of the daughters of Aram and all round about her, the daughters of the rovers despising thee from round about

59 For thus said the Lord Jehovah: And doing with thee according as thou didst who despised the oath to break the covenant

60 And I remembered my covenant with thee in the days of thy youth, and I set up to thee an eternal covenant

61 And thou didst remember thy ways, and thou wert ashamed in thy receiving thy sisters great above thee, to the younger than thee: and I gave them to thee for daughters, and not from thy covenant

62 And I set up my covenant with thee, and thou knewest that I am Jehovah.

63 So that thou shalt remember, and thou wert ashamed, and there shall no more be to thee an opening of the mouth from the face of thy shame in my expiating for thee for all which thou didst, says the Lord Jehovah.

EZEKIEL CHAPTER 17

1 And the word of Jehovah will be to me, saying,

2 Son of man, propose an enigma and use a parable to the house of Israel;

3 And say, Thus said the Lord Jehovah: The great eagle great of wings, long of the wing-feather, full of feathers, which to him variegation, came to Lebanon, and he will take the foliage of the cedar.

4 He plucked off the head of the suckers, and he will bring it to the land of Canaan, and he set it in a city of merchants.

5 And he will take from the seed of the land, and he will give it in a field of seed; he took it to many waters, he set it a willow.

6 And it will spring up, and it will be for a spreading vine low of stature, for its branches turning towards him, and its roots will be under him: and it will be for a vine, and it will make branches, and it will send forth foliage.

7 And there will be one great eagle, great of wings, and many feathers: and behold, this vine turned her roots to him, and sent forth her branches to him, to water it from the ascendings of its planting.

8 In a good field by many waters it was planted, to make branches to bear fruit, to be for a great vine.

9 Say, Thus said the Lord Jehovah: Shall it prosper? shall he not pluck up its roots, and cut off its fruit, and dry up all the fresh foliage of its springing up? It shall be dried up, and not in its great strength, and by much people to lift it up from its roots.

Copyright © 2026 by Lord Henfield, Guildford Scientific Press

10 And behold, being planted, shall it prosper? as the east wind strikes upon it? drying up, shall it not be dried up? it shall be dried up upon the risings of its springing up.

11 And the word of Jehovah will be to me, saying,

12 Say now to the house of contradiction, Knew ye not what are these? Say, Behold, the king of Babel coming to Jerusalem, and he will take her king and her chiefs, and bring them to him into Babel.

13 And he will take from the seed of the kingdom and cut out with him a covenant, and he will bring him in with an oath, and he took the mighty of the land:

14 To be a low kingdom, not to be lifted up, to watch his covenant to stand to it

15 And he will rebel against him to send his messengers to Egypt, to give to him horses and much people. Shall he prosper? shall he doing these, escape? and breaking the covenant, and escaping?

16 I live, says the Lord Jehovah, if not in the place the king making him king which he despised his oath, and which he broke his covenant with him, in the midst of Babel he shall die.

17 And not with great strength and with a great convocation, shall Pharaoh do for him in the war by throwing up a mound and by building a watchtower to cut off many souls?

18 And he despised the oath to break the covenant, and behold, he gave his hand, and doing all these he shall not escape.

19 For this, thus said the Lord Jehovah: I live, if not mine oath which he despised, and my covenant which he brake, and I gave it upon his head.

20 And I spread my net upon him and he was taken in my net, and I brought him to Babel, and I contended with him there for his transgression which he transgressed against me.

21 And all his flight with all his hosts, they shall fall by the sword, and they being left shall be dispersed to every wind: and ye knew that I Jehovah spake.

22 Thus said the Lord Jehovah: And I took from the foliage of the cedar, and I gave from the head; I will pluck its suckers a tender one, and I planted upon a mountain of height and heaped up.

23 In the mountain of the height of Israel I will plant it: and it bare a branch, and it made fruit, and it was for a great cedar: and there dwelt under it all fowls of every wing; in the shadow of its branches shall they dwell.

24 And all the trees of the field knew that I Jehovah brought low the tree of height, made high the low tree, I dried up the green tree, and I caused the dry tree to flourish: I Jehovah spake and I did.

EZEKIEL CHAPTER 18

1 And the word of Jehovah will be to me, saying,

2 What to you making use of this parable upon the land of Israel, saying, The fathers will eat sour grapes and the sons' teeth will be blunted?

3 I live, says the Lord Jehovah, if it shall be to you more to use this parable in Israel.

4 Behold, all souls to me; behold, as the soul of the father, and so the soul of the son, they are to me. The soul sinning, it shall die.

5 And if a man shall be just and do judgment and justice,

6 Not to eat upon the mountains, and not to lift up his eyes to the blocks of the house of Israel, and not to defile his neighbor's wife, and he shall not come near to a woman of uncleanness.

7 And he shall not oppress a man; he shall turn back his pledge to the debtor; he will not strip off plunder, his bread he will give to him hungry, and the naked he will cover with a garment;

8 And he shall not give upon interest, and he shall not take interest, from iniquity he shall turn back his hand; he shall do judgment of truth between man to man.

9 In my laws he shall go and he watched my judgments to do the truth; he is just; living, he shall live, says the Lord Jehovah.

10 And he begat a rapacious son, pouring out blood and doing the likeness of one of these.

11 And he doing not all these, but eating upon the mountains and defiling his neighbor's wife,

12 Oppressing the poor and needy, stripping off plunder, he will not turn back the pledge, and he lifted up his eyes to the blocks, doing abomination,

13 Giving upon interest, and taking interest: and living, he shall not live: doing all these abominations, dying, he shall die; his bloods shall be upon him.

14 And behold, he begat a son, and he will see all his father's sins which he did, and he will see and will not do like them;

15 Not eating upon the mountains, and not lifting up his eyes to the blocks of the house of Israel, not defiling his neighbor's wife,

16 And not oppressing a man, not binding the pledge, and not stripping off plunder, giving his bread to him hungry, and clothing the naked with a garment

17 Turning back his hand from the poor, taking not usury and interest, doing my judgment, going in my laws; he shall not die in the iniquity of his father; living, he shall live.

18 His father because oppressing, he oppressed, stripping off, he stripped off the brother, and he did not good in the midst of my people, and behold him dying in his iniquity.

19 And ye said, Why bore not the son upon the iniquity of the father? and the son doing judgment and justice, watching all my laws, and he will do them; living, he shall live.

20 The soul sinning, it shall die. The son shall not bear for the iniquity of the father, and the father shall not bear for the iniquity of the son: the justice of the just one shall be upon him, and the injustice of the unjust one shall be upon him.

21 And if the unjust one shall turn back from all his sins which he did, and he watched all my laws and did judgment and justice; living, he shall live; he shall not die.

Copyright © 2026 by Lord Henfield, Guildford Scientific Press

22 All his transgressions which he did shall not be remembered to him: in his justice which he did he shall live.

23 Delighting, shall I delight in the death of the unjust one? says the Lord Jehovah: not in his turning back from his way and living?

24 And in the just turning back from his justice, and doing iniquity according to all the abominations which the unjust one did, will he do and live? all his justices which he did shall not be remembered: in his transgression which he transgressed and in his sins which he sinned, in them he shall die.

25 And ye said, The way of Jehovah will not make even. Hear ye now, O house of Israel; shall not my way make even? shall not your ways make hot even?

26 In the turning back of the just one from his justice, and doing iniquity and dying in them; in his iniquity which he did he shall die.

27 And in the unjust one turning back from his injustice which he did; and he will do judgment and justice, he shall save his soul alive.

28 And he will see and turn back from all his transgressions which he did, living, he shall live; he shall not die.

29 And the house of Israel said, The way of Jehovah will not make even. Will not my ways make even, O house of Israel, shall not your way not make even?

30 For this I will judge you, O house of Israel, each according to his ways, says the Lord Jehovah: Turn back and withdraw from all your transgressions; and iniquity shall not be to you for a stumbling block.

31 Cast away from you all your transgressions which ye transgressed against me, and make to you a new heart and a new spirit: and wherefore will ye die, O house of Israel?

32 For I shall not delight in the death of him dying, says the Lord Jehovah: and turn ye back and live.

EZEKIEL CHAPTER 19

1 And thou, lift thou up a lamentation for the princes of Israel,

2 And say, What thy mother? a lioness: between lions she lay down, in the midst of young lions she brought up her whelps

3 And she will bring up one of her whelps: it was a young lion, and it will learn to rend the prey eating man.

4 And the nations will hear concerning him; in their pit he was taken, and they will bring him with hooks to the land of Egypt

5 And she will see that waiting her hope perished, and she will take one of her whelps setting him a young lion.

6 And he will go about in the midst of the lions; he was a young lion, and he will learn to tear in pieces the prey, eating man.

7 And he knew their palaces, and he laid waste their cities; and the land will be desolate and its fulness from the voice of his roaring.

8 And the nations will give against him round about from the provinces, and they will spread their net upon him, being taken in their pit

9 And they will give him in a prison with hooks, and they will bring him to the king of Babel: they will bring him into fastnesses so that his voice shall no more be heard upon the mountains of Israel.

10 Thy mother as a vine in thy blood, planted by the waters: she was fruitful and covered from much water.

11 And there will be to her rods of strength to the rods of those ruling, and his stature will be lifted up between the thick boughs, and he will be seen in his height from the multitude of his branches.

12 And she shall be plucked up in wrath, she was cast down to the earth, and the wind of the east dried up her fruit: the rods of her strength were broken and dried up, and the fire consumed them.

13 And now being planted in the desert, in a land of dryness and thirst

14 And a fire will go forth from a rod of her branches; it consumed her fruit, and there was not in her a rod of strength, a rod to rule. It is a lamentation, and it shall be for a lamentation.

EZEKIEL CHAPTER 20

1 And it will be in the seventh year, in the fifth, in the tenth to the month, men from the old men of Israel came to seek Jehovah, and they sat before my face.

2 And the word of Jehovah was to me, saying,

3 Son of man, speak to the old men of Israel, and say to them, Thus said the Lord Jehovah: Come ye to seek me? I live, if I will be sought for you, says the Lord Jehovah.

4 Wilt thou judge them, wilt thou judge, son of man? Cause them to know the abominations of their fathers:

5 And say to them, Thus said the Lord Jehovah: In the day of my choosing upon Israel, and I will lift up my hand to the seed of the house of Jacob, and I will be known to them in the land of Egypt, and I will lift up my hand to them, saying, I am Jehovah your God;

6 In that day I lifted up my hand to them to bring them forth out of the land of Egypt to the land which I spied out for them flowing milk and honey; this the glory to all lands:

7 And saying to them, Cast ye away each the abominations of his eyes, an ye shall not be defiled with the blocks of Egypt: I am Jehovah your God.

8 And they will rebel against me, and they would not hear to me: they cast not away each the abominations of their eyes, and they forsook not the blocks of Egypt: and saying, To pour out my wrath upon them, to complete mine anger against them in the midst of the land of Egypt

9 And I will do for sake of my name, that it was not profaned before the eyes of the nations which they were in the midst of them, which I was made known to them before their eyes to bring them forth from the land of Egypt.

10 And I shall cause, them to go forth from the land of Egypt, and I shall bring them to the desert.

Copyright © 2026 by Lord Henfield, Guildford Scientific Press

11 And I shall give to them my laws, and my judgments I caused them to know, which a man shall do them and he lived in them.

12 And also my Sabbaths I gave to them to be for a sign between me and between them, to know that I am Jehovah consecrating them.

13 And the house of Israel will rebel against me fit the desert: in my laws they went not, and my judgments they rejected, which a man shall do them and he lived in them: and my Sabbaths they profaned greatly and saying, To pour out my wrath upon them in the desert to finish them.'

14 And I shall do for sake of my name, that it was not polluted before the eyes of the nations which I brought them forth before their eyes

15 And also I lifted up my hand to them in the desert, not to bring them in to the land which I gave flowing milk and honey; this the glory to all lands

16 Because they rejected upon my judgments, and my laws they went not in them, and my Sabbaths they profaned: for their heart went after their blocks.

17 And mine eye will spare for them from destroying them, and I made not a completion with them in the desert

18 And saying to their sons in the desert Ye shall not go in the laws of your fathers, and their judgments ye shall not watch, and with their blocks ye shall not be defiled.:

19 I am Jehovah your God; go ye in my: laws, and watch ye my judgments and do them

20 And consecrate my Sabbaths; and they were for a sign between me and between you to know that I am Jehovah your God.

21 And their sons will rebel against me: they went not in my laws, and my judgments they watched not to do them, which a man shall do them and live in them: my Sabbaths they profaned: and saying, To pour out my wrath upon them to complete mine anger against them in the desert

22 And I turned back my hand; and I will do for sake of my name, that it was not profaned before the eyes of the nations which I brought them forth before their eyes.

23 Also I lifted up my hand to them in the desert, to scatter them in the nations, to disperse them is the lands

24 Because they did not my judgments, and my laws they rejected, and my Sabbaths they profaned, and their eyes were after their fathers blocks.

25 And also I gave to them laws not good, and judgments they shall not live in them.

26 And I will defile them in their gifts in causing to pass through all bursting open the womb, so that I shall make them desolate, that they shall know that I am Jehovah.

27 For this, speak to the house of Israel, son of man, and say to them, Thus said the Lord Jehovah: Yet in this your fathers reviled me, in their transgressing a transgression against me.

28 And I shall bring them to the land which I lifted up my hand to give, it to them, and they will see every high hill and every thick tree, and they will sacrifice there their sacrifices, and they will give there the provocation of their oblation, and they will set there the odor of their sweetnesses, and they will pour out there their libations:

29 And saying to them, What the height where ye go there? And its name will be called Height, even to this day.

30 For this, say to the house of Israel, Thus said the Lord Jehovah: Are ye defiled in the way of your fathers? and commit ye fornication after their abominations?'

31 And in lifting up your gifts, in causing your sons to pass into the fire ye are defiled for all your blocks, even to this day: and shall I be sought for you, O house of Israel? I live, says the Lord Jehovah, if I will be sought by you.

32 And the things were coming up upon your spirit which will not be which ye say, We will be as the nations, as the families of the lands to serve wood and stone.

33 I live, says the Lord Jehovah, if not with a strong hand and with an arm stretched out, and with wrath poured out, will I reign over you.

34 And I brought you forth from the peoples, and I gathered you from the lands where ye were scattered in them, with a strong hand and with an arm stretched out, and with wrath panted out

35 And I brought you into the desert of the peoples, and I judged you there face to face.

36 As I contended with your fathers in the desert of the land of Egypt, so will I contend with you, says the Lord Jehovah.

37 And I caused you to pass under the rod I brought you into the bond of the covenant

38 And I separated from you the rebellious and those transgressing against me: I will bring them forth from the land of their sojournings, and to the land of Israel they shall not come in: and ye knew that I am Jehovah.

39 And ye, O house of Israel, thus says the Lord Jehovah: Go serve ye each his blocks, and afterward if ye bear not to me and ye shall not profane my holy name yet with your gifts and with your blocks.

40 For in my holy mountain, in the mountain of the height of Israel, says the Lord Jehovah, there shall all the house of Israel serve me, all in the land: there I will receive them into favor, and there I will seek your offerings and the chief of your liftings up, with all your holy things.

41 With the odor of sweetness I will receive you into favor in my bringing you forth from the peoples, and I gathered you from the lands where ye were scattered in them; and I was consecrated in you before the eyes of the nations.

42 And ye knew that I am Jehovah in my bringing you into the land of Israel, to the land which I lifted up my hand to give it to your fathers.

43 And ye remembered there your ways, and all your works which ye were defiled in them; and ye shall be wearied in your faces for all your evils which ye did.

44 And ye knew that I am Jehovah in my doing with you for sake of my name, not according to your evil ways and your corrupt deeds, O house of Israel, says the Lord Jehovah.

45 And the word of Jehovah will be to me, saying,

46 Son of man, set thy face the way of the south, and drop to the south, and prophesy against the forest of the south field.

47 And say to the forest of the south, Hear thou the word of Jehovah; thus said the Lord Jehovah: Behold me kindling a fire in thee, and it consumed in thee every green tree and every dry tree: the flaming flame shall not be quenched, and all faces from the south to the north were burned in it.

48 And all flesh saw that I Jehovah kindled it: it shall not be quenched.

49 And saying, Ah, Lord Jehovah, they say to me, Does he not use parables?

EZEKIEL CHAPTER 21

1 And the word of Jehovah will be to me, saying,

2 Son of man, set thy face to Jerusalem, and drop to the holy places, and prophesy to the land of Israel;

3 And say to the land of Israel, Thus said Jehovah: behold me against thee, and I brought forth my sword from its sheath, and I cut off from thee the just and the unjust

4 Because that I cut off from thee the just and the unjust, for this my sword shall go forth from its sheath against all flesh, from south to north.

5 And all flesh knew that I Jehovah brought forth my sword from its sheath: it shall no more turn back

6 And thou son of man, sigh with the breaking of the loins; and with bitterness thou shalt sigh before their eyes.

7 And it was when they shall say to thee, For what sighest thou? and say, For the report, because it came: and every heart melted and all hands were relaxed, and every spirit was weak, and all knees shall go into water: behold, it came, and it was, says the Lord Jehovah.

8 And the word of Jehovah will be to me, saying,

9 Son of man, prophesy and say, Thus said Jehovah: say, A sword, a sword was sharpened, and also polished.

10 In order to slaughter a slaughter it was sharpened; in order for lightning to be to it, it was polished; then shall we exult? the rod of my son despised, every tree.

11 And he will give it to be polished, to be taken in the hand: this sword was sharpened, and it was polished to give it into the hand of him slaying.

12 Cry and wail, son of man, for it was upon my people, it was upon all the princes of Israel: terrors for the sword were upon my people: for this, strike upon thy thigh.

13 For it is a trial, and what if also the rod was rejected? it shall not be, says the Lord Jehovah.

14 And thou, son of man, prophesy, and strike hand to hand, and thou shalt double the sword the third time, the sword of the wounded: this the sword of the great wounded besieging them.

15 In order to melt the heart and to multiply the ruins, I gave the turning of the sword against all their gates: Ah! it was made for lightnings, it was polished for slaughter.

17 And I also will strike my hand to my hand, and I caused my wrath to cease: I Jehovah spake.

18 And the word of Jehovah will be to me, saying,

19 And thou son of man, set to thee two ways for the sword of the king of Babel to come: from one land shall come forth they two, and form thou a hand, form upon the head of the way of the city.

20 Thou shalt set the way for the sword to come to Rabbath of the sons of Ammon, and to Judah in Jerusalem the fortified.

21 For the king of Babel stood at the mother of the way in the head of the two ways, to divine a divination; he shook with the arrows, he asked in the family gods, he looked in the liver.

22 In his right hand was the divination of Jerusalem, to set battering-rams, to open the mouth in breaking in pieces, to lift up the voice with a loud noise, to set battering-rams against the gates, to throw up a mound, to build a watch-tower.

23 And it was to them as a divination of falsehood in their eyes, swearing an oath to them, remembering iniquity to be taken.

24 For this, thus said the Lord Jehovah: Because of your causing your iniquity to be remembered, in your transgressions being uncovered, for your sins to be seen in all your works; because of your causing to be remembered, ye shall be taken in hand.

25 And thou profane unjust prince of Israel, to whom his day came in the time of iniquity the end.

26 Thus said the Lord Jehovah: Remove the tiara, and lift up the crown: this not thus: lift up the low, and make low the high.

27 Perverted, perverted, perverted, will I set her: and this was not till he came which to him the judgment; and I gave him.

28 And thou son of man, prophesy and say, Thus said the Lord Jehovah to the sons of Ammon, and for their reproach; and say, The sword, the sword was loosed: for slaughter it was polished, to consume for sake of the lightning:

29 In seeing vanity to thee, in divining to thee a lie to give thee, to the necks of the wounded of the unjust, to whom their day came in the time of iniquity the end.

30 Turn back; thou shalt not be naked: in the place where thou wert created, in the land of thy nativity, will I judge thee.

31 I poured out my wrath upon thee; in fire I made mine anger to pass over thee, and I gave thee into the hand of brutish men, machinating destruction.

32 Thou shalt be to the fire for consuming; thy blood shall be in the midst of the land; thou shalt not be remembered: for I Jehovah spake.

EZEKIEL CHAPTER 22

1 And the word of Jehovah will be to me, saying,

2 Thou son of man, wilt thou judge, wilt thou judge the city of bloods, and make her to know all her abominations?

3 And say, Thus said the Lord Jehovah: The city poured out blood in the midst of her, for her time to come; and she made blocks for herself to be defiled.

4 In thy blood which thou didst pour out thou went guilty; and by thy blocks which thou didst make thou wert defiled; and thou wilt cause thy days to draw near, and thou wilt come even to thy years: for this, I gave thee a reproach to the nations, and a derision to all the lands.

5 Those being near and those being far off from thee will scoff at thee; thou wert defiled of name and much in consternation.

6 Behold, the princes of Israel they were a man to his arm to pour out;blood in thee.

7 They made light of father and mother in thee: they did with violence to the stranger in the midst of thee: they oppresed the orphan and the widow in thee.

8 Thou didst despise my holy place, and thou didst profane my Sabbaths

9 Men of slander were in thee to pour forth blood: and they ate upon the mountains in thee: they did wickedness in the midst of thee.

10 Thy father's nakedness was uncovered in thee: they humbled her set apart for uncleanness in thee.

11 And a man did abomination with his neighbor's wife; and a man defiled his daughter-in-law in wickedness; and a man humbled his sister, his father's daughter, in thee.

12 They took a gift in thee to pour out blood; thou tookest usury and interest, and thou wilt plunder thy neighbors by violence, and thou didst forget me, says the Lord Jehovah.

13 And behold, I struck my hand at thy plunder which thou madest, and at thy blood which was in the midst of thee.

14 Will thy heart stand, or will thine hands be strong for the day which I do with thee? I Jehovah spoke, and I

15 And I scattered thee in the nations, and I dispersed thee in the lands, and I consumed thy uncleanness out of thee.

16 And thou didst inherit in thee before the eyes of the nations, and thou knewest that I am Jehovah.

17 And the word of Jehovah will be to me, saying,

18 Son of man, the house of Israel became to me for dross: all they brass and alloy, and iron, and lead, in the midst of the furnace; they were drosses of silver.

19 For this, thus said the Lord Jehovah: because all of them were for drosses, for this, behold me gathering you into the midst of Jerusalem.

20 The gathering silver and brass and iron and lead and alloy to the midst of the furnace to blow the fire upon it, to melt; so will I gather in mine anger and in my wrath, and I put down and melted you.

21 And I gathered you and blew upon you in the fire of my wrath, and ye were melted in her midst

22 As silver being melted in the midst of the furnace, so shall ye be melted in her midst; And ye knew that I Jehovah poured out my wrath upon you.

23 And the word of Jehovah will be to me, saying,

24 Son of man, say to her, Thou a land not being cleansed; it was not rained upon in the day of anger.

25 A conspiracy of her prophets in her midst as a roaring lion rending the prey; they consumed the soul; they will take the wealth and the precious thing; they multiplied her widows in her midst

26 Her priests did violence to my law, and they will profane my holy place: between the holy to the profane they separated not, and they did not make known between the unclean to the clean, and from my Sabbath they hid their eyes, and I shall be profaned in the midst of them.

28 And her prophets plastered plaster upon them, seeing vanity, and divining to them falsehood, saying Thus said the Lord Jehovah; and Jehovah spoke not

29 The people of the land oppressed with violence and stripped off robbery, and oppressed the poor and needy, and did violence to the stranger without judgment

30 And I sought from them a man to wall in the wall, and to stand in the breach before my face for the land, not to destroy it: and I found not

31 I will pour out my wrath upon them; I consumed them in the fire of mine anger: I gave their way upon their head, says the Lord Jehovah.

EZEKIEL CHAPTER 23

1 The word of Jehovah will come to me, saying,

2 Son of man, there were two women, daughters of one mother:

3 And they will commit fornication in Egypt; in their youth they committal fornication: there were their breasts pressed, and the breasts of their virginity fell away.

4 And their names Aholah the elder, and Aholibah her sister; and they will be to me, and they will bring forth sons and daughters, and their names Shomeron-Aholah and Jerusalem Aholibah.

5 And Aholah will commit fornication under me; and she will desire after those loving her, after Assur, they being near.

6 Putting on cerulean purple, prefects and governors, young men of desire all of them, horsemen riding horses.

7 And she will give her whoredoms upon them from the choice of the sons of Assur all of them, and with all whom she desired; being defiled with all their blocks.

8 And her fornications from Egypt she forsook not: for they lay with her in her youth, and they handled the breasts of her virginity, and they will pour forth her fornications upon her.

9 For this I delivered her into the hand of those loving her, into the hand of the sons of Assur whom she desired after them.

10 They uncovered her nakedness: they took her sons and her daughters and slew them with the sword: and she will be a name to women, and they did judgments upon her.

11 And her sister Aholibah will see, and she will corrupt her love more than they, and her fornications more than the fornication of her sister.

12 She desired after the sons of Assur, prefects and governors, being near, putting on splendor, horsemen riding horses, young men of desire, all of them.

13 And I shall see that one way was defiled to both of them.

14 And she will add to her fornications: and she will see men delineated. upon the wall, the images of the Chaldeans being delineated with red color.

15 Girding girdles upon their loins, a superfluity of dippings upon their heads, the appearance of third men all of them, the likeness of the sons of Babel of Chaldea, the land of their birth.

16 And she will desire after them at the sight of her eyes, and she will send messengers to them to Chaldea.

17 And the sons of Babel will come to her to the bed of loves, and defile her with their fornications, and she will be defiled with them, and her soul will be rent away from them.

18 And she will uncover her fornications, and she will uncover her nakedness: and my soul will be rent away from her, as my soul was rent away from her sister.

19 And she will multiply her fornications, to remember the days of her youth when she committed fornication in the land of Egypt

21 And thou wilt review the wickedness of thy youth in the doing of Egypt thy breasts for the breasts of thy youth.

22 For this, O Aholibah, thus said the Lord Jehovah: Behold me raising up those loving thee, against thee, whom thy soul was rent away from them, and I brought them against thee from round about 23 The sons of Babel and all the Chaldeans, Pekod and Shoa and Koa, all the sons of Amur with them: young men of desire, prefects and governors, all of them third men, and celebrated, riding horses all of them.

24 And they came against thee firm with chariot and wheel, and with a convocation of peoples, shield and buckler and helmet, they will set against thee round about: and I gave judgment before them, and they judged thee with their judgments.

25 And I gave my jealousy against thee, and they did with thee in wrath: thy nose and thine ears they shall take away; and thy posterity shall fall by the sword: they shall take thy sons and thy daughters, and thy posterity shall be consumed in fire.

26 And they stripped thee of thy garments, and they took the instrument of thy glory.

27 And I caused thy wickedness to cease from thee, and thy fornication from the land of Egypt: and thou shalt not lift up thine eyes to them, and thou shalt remember Egypt no more.

28 For thus said the Lord Jehovah: Behold me giving thee into the hand of whom thou didst hate, into the hand of whom thy soul was rent away from them.

29 And they did with thee in hatred, and they took all thy labor, and they left thee naked and nakedness: and the nakedness of thy fornication was uncovered, and thy wickedness and thy fornications.

30 Doing these to thee for thy fornications after the nations, because thou wert defiled with their blocks.

31 Thou wentest in the way of thy sister, and I gave her cup into thine hand.

32 Thus said the Lord Jehovah: thou shalt drink thy sister's cup deep and much: thou shalt be for laughter and for derision; containing much.

33 Thou shalt be filled with drunkenness and with sorrow, the cup of astonishment and desolation, the cup of thy sister Shomeron.

34 Thou didst drink it and suck out, and thou shalt crush its sherds, and pluck up thy breasts: for I spake, says the Lord Jehovah.

35 For this, thus says the Lord Jehovah: Because thou didst forget me, and thou wilt cast me behind thy back, and also bear thou thy wickedness and thy fornications

36 And Jehovah will say to me, Son of man, wilt thou judge Aholah and Aholibah, and announce to them their abominations?

37 For they committed adultery, and blood is in their hands; and with their blocks they committed adultery, and also their sons whom they brought forth to me they caused to pass through for them for consuming.

38 Yet this they did to me: they defiled my holy place in that day, and my Sabbaths they profaned.

39 And in their slaughtering their sons to their blocks, and they will come to my holy place in that day to profane it; and behold, thus they did in the midst of my house.

40 And also that ye will send to men coming from far off, whom a messenger was sent to them, and behold, they came: for whom thou didst wash, thou paintedst thine eyes, and thou didst deck with ornaments.

41 And thou wilt sit upon a splendid bed, and a table set in order before his face, and thou didst bring up there mine incense and mine oil.

42 And the voice of a multitude at rest with her: and to the men of multitude of man bringing Sabeans from the desert, and they will give bracelets upon their hands, and crowns of glory upon their heads.

43 And saying to her worn out with adulteries, Will she now commit her fornications, she also?

44 And they will go in to her as going in to a woman an harlot; thus they went in to Aholah and to Aholibah, the women of wickedness.

45 And just men they shall judge them with the judgment of adultresses, and with the judgment of those pouring out blood; for they are adultresses, and blood in their hands.

46 For thus said the Lord Jehovah: Bring up upon them a convocation and give them for a shaking and for a spoil.

47 And the convocation stoned upon them with stone, and cut them down with: their swords; they will slay their sons and their daughters, and their houses they will burn in fire.

48 And I caused wickedness to cease from the land, and all the women were instructed, and they shall not do according to your wickedness.

49 And they gave your wickedness upon you, and ye shall bear the sins of your blocks: and ye knew that I am the Lord Jehovah.

EZEKIEL CHAPTER 24

1 And the word of Jehovah will be to me in the ninth year, in the teeth month, in the tenth to the month, saying,

2 Son of man, write to thee the name of the day, this same day: the king of Babel set up against Jerusalem this same day.

3 And use a parable against the house of contradiction and say to them, Thus said the Lord Jehovah: Set on the pot, set on, and also pour water into it:

5 Take the choice of the flock and also wheel the bones under it, boil its boilings; also they cooked the bones in the midst of it

6 For this, thus said the Lord Jehovah: Wo to the city of bloods! the pot which the rust in it, and her rust went not forth from it; bring it forth by its pieces, by its pieces; the lot fell not upon it

7 For her blood was in the midst of her; she set it upon a dry rock; she poured it not forth upon the earth to cover over it with dust;

8 To cause wrath to come up, to avenge vengeance; I gave her blood upon the dry rock not to be covered.

9 For this, thus said the Lord Jehovah: Wo to the city of bloods! I will make her pile great

10 Multiply the woods, kindle the fire, make ready the flesh, and spice with spicing, and the bones shall be burned.

11 And cause it to stand upon its coals, empty, so that its brass shall be warm and burning, and its uncleanness was melted in the midst of it; its rust shall be consumed.

12 She was wearied with labors, and her great rust shall not go forth from her: in the fire her rust

13 In thy uncleanness is wickedness: because I cleansed thee and thou wert not cleansed, thou shalt no more be cleansed from thy uncleanness till my causing my wrath to rest upon thee.

14 I Jehovah spake: it came, and I did; I will not let go loose, and I will not spare, and. I will not lament; according to thy ways and according to thy works they judged thee, says the Lord Jehovah.

15 The word of Jehovah will be to me, saying,

16 Son of man, behold me taking from thee-the desire of thine eyes with a blow: and thou. shalt not lament, and thou shalt not weep, and thy tears shall not go.

17 Be silent to the sighing of blood, thou shalt not make mourning for the dead; bind thy head-dress upon thee, and thou shalt put thy shoes upon thy feet, and thou shalt not cover over the mustachios, and the bread of men thou shalt not eat

18 And I shall speak to the people in the morning and my wife will die in the evening and I shall do in the morning as I was commanded.

19 And the people will say to me, Wilt thou not announce to us what these things to us that thou doest?

20 And saying to them, The word of Jehovah was to me, saying,

21 Say to the house of Israel, Thus said the Lord Jehovah, Behold me profaning my holy place, the excellency of your strength, the desire of your eyes, and the pity of your soul, and your sons and your daughters whom ye left, shall fall by the sword.

22 And ye did as I did: ye shall not cover over your mustachios, and the bread of men ye shall not eat

23 And your head-dress uponyour heads, and your shoes upon your feet: ye shall not lament, and ye shall not weep; and ye pined away m your iniquities, and ye grieved a man to his brother. .

24 And Ezekiel was to you for a wonder: according to all which he did ye shall do: in its coming, and ye knew that I am the Lord Jehovah.

25 And thou son of man, was it not in the day, I took from them their strength, the joy of their glory the desire of their eyes, the lifting up of their soul, their sons and their daughters.

26 In that day he escaping shall come to thee to cause to hear with the ears.

27 In that day thy mouth shall be opened to him escaping and thou shalt speak, and thou shalt no more be dumb: and thou wert to them for a wonder, and they shall know that I am Jehovah.

EZEKIEL CHAPTER 25

1 And the word of Jehovah will be to me, saying,

2 Son of man, set thy face against the sons of Ammon, and prophesy against them.

3 And say to the sons of Ammon, Hear ye, the word of the Lord Jehovah, Thus said the Lord Jehovah: Because of thy saying, Aha! to my holy place, when it was profaned, and against the land of Israel, when it was made desolate, and to the house of Judah, when they went into captivity.

4 For this, behold me giving thee to the sons of the east for a possession, and they set their fortress in thee and in thee they gave their dwelling, they shall eat thy fruit, and they shall drink thy milk.

5 And I gave Rabbah for a rest of camels, and the sons of Ammon for a place of lying down of sheep, and ye knew that I am Jehovah.

6 For thus said the Lord Jehovah: Because of thy striking the hand and thy stamping with the foot and thou wilt rejoice in soul with all contempt against the land of Israel

7 For this, behold I stretched forth my hand against thee, and I gave thee for a spoil to the nations, and I cut thee off from the peoples; and I caused thee to perish from the lands: I will destroy thee and thou knewest that I am Jehovah.

8 Thus said the Lord Jehovah: Because Moab said, and Seir, Behold, the house of Judah as all the nations;

9 For this, behold me opening the shoulder of Moab from the cities, from his cities, from his extremity, the glory of the land the house of desolation the place of dwelling, and the double city.

10 To the sons of the east with the sons of Ammon, I gave it for a possession, so that it shall not make mention of the sons of Ammon among the nations.

11 And I will do judgments upon Moab; and they shall know that I am Jehovah.

12 Thus said the Lord Jehovah: Because Edom did against the house of Judah by revenging vengeance, and they will transgress a transgression, and they revenged against them;

13 For this, thus said the Lord Jehovah: and I stretched out my hand upon Edom, and I cut of from her man and cattle; and I gave her a waste from the south; and Dedan shall fall by the sword.

14 And I gave my vengeance upon Edom by the hand of my people Israel: and they did in Edom according to mine anger and according to my wrath; and they shall know my vengeance, says the Lord Jehovah.

15 Thus said the Lord Jehovah: Because the rovers did in vengeance, and they will avenge vengeance with contempt of heart to destroy, a perpetual enmity;

16 For this, thus said the Lord Jehovah.: Behold me stretching forth my hand upon the rovers, and I cut off the executioners, and I destroyed the remnant of the sea coast

17 And I did great vengeances upon them with reproofs of wrath; and they shall know that I Jehovah, in my giving vengeance upon them.

EZEKIEL CHAPTER 26

1 And it will be in the eleventh year, in one of the month, the word of Jehovah was to me, saying

2 Son of man, because that Tyre said against Jerusalem Aha! she was broken, the doors of the peoples: she was turned to me: I Shall be filled; she was laid waste:

3 For this, thus said the Lord Jehovah: Behold me against thee, O Tyre and I brought up many nations against thee as the sea brought up to its waves.

4 And they destroyed the walls of Tyre, and pulled down her towers and I swept away her dust from her,i and I gave her for a dry rock

5 It shall be for spreading nets in the midst of the sea: for I spake, says the Lord Jehovah: and it was for a spoil to the nations.

6 An her daughters who are in the field, shall be slain by the sword; and they shall know that am Jehovah

7 For thus said the Lord Jehovah: Behold me bringing upon Tyre Nebuchadezzar king of Babel, from the north, a king of kings, with horse and with chariot, and with horsemen, and a convocation, and much people.

8 Thy daughters in the field he shall slay with the sword: and he gave a watch-tower against thee, and he threw up a mound against thee, and lifted up the buckler against thee.

9 And he will give the stroke of his front against thy walls, and with his sword he will tear down thy towers.

10 From the abundance of is horses, their dust will cover thee: from the voice of the horseman, and the wheel, and the chariot, thy walls shall shake, in his coming in to thy gates, as the enterings of a city rent asunder.

11 With the hoofs of his horses he will tread down all thy streets: he will slay thy people with the sword, and the garrisons of thy strength shall go down to the earth.

12 And they spoiled thy strength and they plundered thy traffic, and they pulled down thy walls, and they will tear down thy houses of desire, and they will set thy stones and thy woods and thy dust in the midst of the water.

13 And I caused the noise of thy songs to cease and the voice of thy harps shall no more be heard.

14 And I gave thee for a dry rock thou Shalt be a spreading of nets; thou shalt no more be built: for I Jehovah spake, says the Lord Jehovah.

15 Thus said the Lord Jehovah to Tyre: Shall not islands shake from the voice of thy fall, in the cry of the wounded, in the slaying of the slain in the midst of thee?

16 And all the princes of the sea shall come down from their thrones, and they removed their robes, and they shall put off the garments of their vanegations: they shall put on tremblings; they sat upon the earth and trembled at the moments, and were astonished at thee.

17 And they lifted up for thee a lamentation, and they said to thee, How wart thou destroyed being inhabited from the seas, the celebrated city which was strong in the sea, she and her inhabitants who gave their terrors to all her inhabitants.

18 Now shall the idles tremble the day of thy fall; and the isles which are in the sea loathed from thy going forth.

19 For thus said the Lord Jehovah: I measured thee a city being desolated as the cities which were not inhabited; in my bringing up the deep upon thee, and many waters covered thee.

20 And brought thee down with them going down to the pit to the people of old, and I set thee in the earth, underneath in desolations from forever with them going down to the pit, so that thou shalt not be inhabited; and I gave glory in the land of the living,.

21 I will give thee for terrors, and not thee: and thou shalt be sought and shalt not be found any more forever, says the Lord Jehovah.

EZEKIEL CHAPTER 27

1 And the word of Jehovah will be to me, saying,

2 Thou son of man, lift up a lamentation for Tyre;

3 And say to Tyre, Thou dwelling at the entrance of the sea, a traffic of the peoples for many islands, thus said the Lord Jehovah: O Tyre, thou saidst, I am perfect of beauty.

4 In the heart of the see thy bound; they building thee completed thy beauty.

5 They built all thy bounds cypress from Shenir: they took cedars from Lebanon to make a mast for thee.

6 The oaks of Bashan they made thine oars; the house of the Ashurites made thy desk of ivory from the isles of Chittim.

7 Fine linen with variegation from Egypt was thy spreading forth to be to thee for a signal; cerulean purple, and reddish purple, from the isles of Elisha was thy covering.

8 The inhabitants of Zidon and Arvad were rowers to thee: thy wise, O Tyre, were in thee, they thy sailors.

9 The old men of Gebal and her wise were in thee making strong thy breach: all the ships of the sea and thy seamen were in thee to traffic from thy traffic.

10 Persia and Lud and Phut were in thy strength, thy men of war: hung the shield and helmet in thee; they gave thy decoration.

11 The sons of Arvad and thine army upon thy walls round about, and the Gammadims were in thy towers: they hung their shields upon thy walls round about; they completed thy beauty.

12 Tarshish thy merchant from the multitude of all riches: in silver, iron, alloy, and lead, they gave thy markets.

13 Javan, Tubal and Meshech, they thy merchants: they gave from thy traffic in the soul of man, and vessels of brass.

14 From the house of Togarmah, horses and horsemen and mules they gave thy markets

15 The sons of Dedan thy merchants; many isles the traffic of thy hand: and they brought back horns of ivory and ebony.

16 Aram thy merchant from the multitude of thy works: they gave in thy markets with the gem, reddish purple, and variegation, and byssus, and red corals, and ruby.

17 Judah and the land of Israel, they thy merchants: in wheat of Minnith and Pannag, and honey, and oil, and balsam, they gave thy traffic.

18 Damascus thy merchant in the multitude of thy works from the multitude of all riches, with wine of Helbon and wool of whiteness.

19 And Dan and Javan going away gave in thy markets: making iron, cassia and sweet cane was in thy traffic.

20 Dedan thy merchant, garments of spreading out for the chariot

21 Arabia and all the princes of Kedar, they the merchants of thy hand with lambs and rams and he goats: in them thy merchants.

22 The merchants of Sheba and Raamah, they thy merchants with the head of all spicery, and with every precious stone and gold they gave thy markets.

23 Haran and Canneh, and Eden, the merchants of Sheba, Assur, and Chilmad, thy merchants.

24 They thy merchants in perfections in coverings of cerulean purple, and variegation and in treasures of variegated stuffs bound with cords and made fast in thy markets.

25 The ships of Tarshish celebrating thee in thy traffic; and thou wilt be filled and honored greatly in the heart of the sea.

26 Thy rower brought thee into many waters: the wind of the east broke thee in the heart of the seas.

27 Thy riches and thy markets, thy traffic, thy seamen, and thy shipmen, they making strong thy breach, and they trafficking thy traffic, and all the men of thy war that are in thee, and in all thy convocation which is in the midst of thee, they shall fall into the heart of the sea, in the day of thy fall.

28 At the voice of the cry of thy shipmen, the areas shall shake.

29 All holding the oars, the seamen and the shipmen of the sea, shall come down from their ships, they shall stand upon the earth.

30 And with their voice they shall cause to be heard against thee, and they shall cry with bitterness, and they shall bring up dust upon their heads, and they shall roll themselves in ashes.

31 And they made themselves bald with baldness for thee, and they girded themselves with sackcloth, and they wept for thee with bitterness of soul and bitter wailing.

32 And their sons lifted up a lamentation for thee, and they lamented over thee: Who as Tyre, as she desolated in the midst of the sea?

33 In the going forth of thy markets from the seas thou didst satisfy many peoples; with the multitude of thy riches and thy traffics thou didst enrich the kings of the earth.

34 The time thou wert broken from the seas in the depths of the waters, thy traffic and all thy convocation fell in the midst of thee.

35 All the inhabitants of the isles were astonished at thee, and their kings shuddering, shuddered; the faces were moved.

36 The merchants among the peoples hissed at thee; thou wert terrors; and thou not, even forever.

EZEKIEL CHAPTER 28

1 The word of Jehovah will be to me, saying,

2 Son of man, say to the leader of Tyre, Thus said the Lord Jehovah: Because thy heart was lifted up, and thou wilt say, I am God, I sat upon the seat of God in the heart of the seas; and thou art man and not God, and thou wilt give thy heart as the heart of God.

4 With thy wisdom and with thy understanding thou madest to thee wealth, and thou wilt make gold and silver in thy treasures.

5 By the multitude of thy wisdom, by thy traffic thou didst multiply thy wealth, and thine heart will be lifted up in thy wealth.

6 For this, thus said the Lord Jehovah: Because of thy giving thy heart as the heart of God;

7 For this, behold me bringing strangers upon thee, the terrible of the nations: and they emptied out their swords against the beauty of thy wisdom, and they profaned thy splendor.

8 They shall bring thee down to the pit, and thou didst die the deaths of the wounded in the heart of the seas.

9 Saying, wilt thou say, I am God, before him slaying thee? and thou art man and not God, in the hand of him wounding thee.

10 Thou shalt die the deaths of the uncircumcised by the hand of strangers: for I spake, says the Lord Jehovah.

11 And the word of Jehovah will be to me, saying,

12 Son of man, lift up a lamentation over the king of Tyre, and say to him, Thus said the Lord Jehovah: Thou didst seal up the measure full of wisdom and complete of beauty.

13 Thou wert in Eden the garden of God: every precious stone thy covering, the ruby, the topaz, the onyx, the chrysolite, the sardonyx and the jasper, the sapphire, the carbuncle and the emerald, and gold: the work of thy drums and thy pipes were prepared in thee in the day of thy being created.

14 Thou the cherub of expansion covering; and I gave thee: thou wert in the holy mountain of God; thou walkedst about in the midst of the stones of fire.

15 Thou shalt be perfected in thy ways from the day of thy being created even till iniquity was found in thee.

16 In the multitude of thy traffic they filled the midst of thee with violence, and thou wilt sin: and I shall profane thee from the mountain of God, and destroying thee, O covering cherub, from the midst of the stones of fire.

17 Thine heart was lifted up with thy beauty, thou didst corrupt thy wisdom on account of thy splendor: I cast thee upon the earth, I gave thee before kings to look upon thee.

18 From the multitude of thine iniquities, by the iniquity of thy traffic, thou didst profane my holy places; and I will bring forth a fire from the midst of thee, it shall consume thee, and I will give thee for ashes upon the earth before the eyes of all seeing thee.

19 All knowing thee among the peoples were astonished at thee: thou wert terrors; and thou not, even to forever.

20 And the word of Jehovah will be to me, saying,

22 And say, Thus said the Lord Jehovah: Behold me against, thee, O Zidon; and I was honored in the midst of thee, and they shall know that I am Jehovah, in my doing judgments upon her; and I was consecrated in her.

23 And I sent death into her, and blood in her streets; and the wounded fell in the midst of her by, the sword upon her from round about: and they shall know that I am Jehovah.

24 And no more shall there be to the house of Israel a thorn making bitter; and briars causing pain from all round about them despising them; and they shall know that I am the Lord Jehovah.

25 Thus said the Lord Jehovah: in my gathering the house of Israel from the peoples where they were scattered among them, and I was consecrated in them before the eyes of the nations, and they shall dwell in the land which I gave to my servant Jacob.

26 And they dwelt upon it with confidence, and, they built houses, and they planted vineyards; and they dwelt with confidence in my doing judgments upon all those despising them from round about them; and they shall know that I am Jehovah their God.

EZEKIEL CHAPTER 29

1 In the tenth year, in the tenth, in the twelfth to the month, was the word of Jehovah to me, saying,

2 Son of man set thy face against Pharaoh king of Egypt, and prophesy against him and against all Egypt:

3 Speak and say, Thus said the Lord Jehovah: Behold me against thee Pharaoh, king of Egypt, the great sea-monster lying in the midst of his rivers, who said, The, river is to me, and I made me.

4 And I gave hooks in thy jaw bones, and I glued the fishes of thy rivers upon thy scales, and I brought thee up from the midst of thy rivers, and all the Ashes of thy rivers shall be glued to thy scales.

5 And I cast thee to the desert, thee and all the fish of thy. rivers: thou shalt fall upon the face of the field; thou shalt not be gathered, and thou shalt not be collected.: I gave thee for food to the beast of the earth and to the birds of the heavens.

6 And all the inhabitants of Egypt shall know that I am Jehovah, because they were a support of reed to the house of Israel:

7 In their taking hold upon thee by the hand, thou wilt run and rend for them all the shoulder: and in their leaning upon thee, thou: wilt break, and because to them the loins to stand.

8 For this, thus said the Lord Jehovah: Behold me bringing the sword upon thee, and I cut off from thee man and cattle.

9 And the land of Egypt was for desolation and waste; and they shall know that I am Jehovah, because he said, The river is to me; I made.

10 For this, behold me against thee, and against thy rivers, and I gave the land of Egypt for wastes of waste, a desolation from the tower Seveneh and even to the bound of Cush.

11 The foot of man shall not pass through it, and the foot of cattle shall not pass through it, and it shall not be inhabited forty years.

12 And I gave the land of Egypt a desolation in the midst of the lands being desolate, and her, cities in the midst. of the cities laid waste shall be a desolation forty years: and I scattered Egypt among the nations and I dispersed them in the lands.

13 For thus said the Lord Jehovah: From the end of forty years I will gather Egypt from the peoples where they were scattered there:

14 And I turned back the captivity of Egypt; and I caused them to turn back to the land of Paths upon the land of their nativity; and they were there a low kingdom.

15 It shall be lower than the kingdoms, and it shall no more be lifted up over the nations: and I made them few not to rule over the nations.

16 And it shall be no more to the house of Israel for trust, bringing iniquity to remembrance in their turning after them: and they shall know that am the Lord Jehovah.

17 And it will be in the twenty and seventh year, in the first, in the one to the month, the word, of Jehovah was to me, saying,

18 Son of man, Nebuchadnezzar king of Babel caused his army to serve a great service against Tyre: every head being made bald, and every shoulder made smooth: and wages were not to him and to his army from Tyre for the service that he served against her.

19 For this, thus said the Lord Jehovah: Behold me giving to Nebuchadnezzar king of Babel, the land of Egypt; and he lifted up her multitude, and he spoiled her spoil and plundered her plunder, and it was the wages to his army.

20 I gave to him the land of Egypt the wages which he served against her, because they worked for me, says the Lord Jehovah.

21 In that day I will cause the born to the house of Israel to spring up, and to thee will I give the opening of the mouth in the midst of them; and they shall know that I am Jehovah,

EZEKIEL CHAPTER 30

1 And the word of Jehovah will be to me, saying,

2 Son of man, prophesy and say, Thus said the Lord Jehovah: Wail ye, Wo to the day!

3 For the day is near, the day of Jehovah is near, the day of a cloud; it shall be the time of the nations.

4 And the sword came upon Egypt, and pain was upon Cush, in the falling of the wounded in Egypt; and they took her multitude and her foundations were torn down.

5 Cosh and Phut and Lad, and all the intermingled, and Chub, and the sons of the land of the covenant, with them shall fall by the sword.

6 Thus said Jehovah: and they upholding Egypt fell,, and the pride of her strength came down: from the tower Seveneh shall they fall in her by the sword, says the Lord Jehovah.

7 And they were desolate in the midst of the lands being desolated, and her cities shall be in the midst of the cities being laid waste.

8 And they knew that I am Jehovah in my giving fire in Egypt, and all her helpers were broken.

9 In that day shall go forth messengers from before me in ships to make confiding Cush afraid, and pain was upon them as the day of Egypt: for behold, it came.

10 Thus said the Lord Jehovah: and I caused the multitude of Egypt to cease by the hand of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babel.

11 He and his people with him, the terrible of the nations, being brought to destroy the land: and they emptied their swords upon Egypt, and they filled the land with the wounded.

12 And I gave the rivers dryness and I sold the land, into the hand of the evil: and I made the land desolate, and its fulness by the hand, of strangers: I Jehovah spake.

13 Thus said the Lord Jehovah: And I destroyed the blocks, and I caused their nothings to cease from Noph; and a prince of the land of Egypt shall be no more: and I gave fear in the land of Egypt.

14 And I made Pathros desolate, and I gave fire in Zoan, and I did judgments in No.

15 And I poured out my wrath upon Sin, the strength of Egypt; and I cut off the multitude of No.

16 And I gave fire in Egypt, and Sin writhing, shall be in pain, and No shall be for breaking in pieces, and Noph straits in the day.

18 And in Tahhapanes the day was darkened in my breaking there the rods of Egypt: and the pride of her strength ceased in her: she, a cloud shall cover her, and her daughters shall go into captivity.

19 And I did judgments in Egypt; and they knew that am Jehovah.

20 And it will be in the eleventh year, in the first, in the seventh to the month, the word of Jehovah was to me, saying,

21 Son of man, I broke the arm of Pharaoh, king of Egypt; and behold, it not bound up to give healing, to put in bandages to bind it, to make it strong to hold upon the sword.

22 For this, thus said the Lord Jehovah: Behold me against Pharaoh king of Egypt, and I brake his arms, the strong, and the broken; and I caused the sword to fall from his hand.

23 And I scattered Egypt among the nations, and I dispersed them in the lands.

24 And I strengthened the arms of the king of Babel, and I gave my sword into his hand: and I brake the arms of Pharaoh, and he groaned the groanings of the wounded before his face.

25 And I strengthened the arms of the king of Babel, and the arms of Pharaoh shall fall; and they knew that I am Jehovah in my giving my sword into the hand of the king of Babel; and he stretched it out against the land of Egypt.

26 And I scattered Egypt among the nations, and I dispersed them in the lands; and they knew that I am Jehovah.

EZEKIEL CHAPTER 31

1 And it will be in the eleventh year, in the third, in one to the month, the word of Jehovah was to me, saying,

2 Son of man, say to Pharaoh king of Egypt, and to his multitude: To whom wert thou like in thy greatness?

3 Behold, Assur a cedar in Lebanon, fair of branch, and a shading thicket, and high of stature; and his foliage was between the thick boughs.

4 The water made him great, the deep raised him up with her rivers going round about her planting, and she sent forth her channels to all the trees of the field.

5 For this his height was lifted up more than all the trees of the field, and his boughs will be multiplied, and his branches will be extended from many waters, in his sending forth.

6 And all the birds of the heavens nested in his boughs, under his branches all the of the field brought forth, and in his shadow dwelt all the great nations.

7 And he was fair in his greatness, in the length of his branches: for his root was by many waters.

8 The cedars did not hide him in the garden of God: the cypresses were not like to his boughs, and the plane trees were not as his branches; every tree in the garden of God was not like to him in his beauty.

9 I made him fair by the multitude of his branches, and all the trees of Eden which are in the garden of God will envy him.

10 For this, thus said the Lord Jehovah: Because thou wert lifted up in height, and he will give his foliage between the thick boughs, and his heart was lifted up in his height;

11 And I will give him into the hand of the God of the nations; he shall do his doing to him: I drove him out for his injustice.

12 And strangers, the terrible of the nations, shall cut him off and cast him down: upon the mountains and in all the galleys his branches fell, and his boughs shall be broken by all the torrents of the land; and all the people of the land shall go down from his shadow, and will cast him down.

13 Upon his fall shall all the fowls of the heavens sit, and upon his branches were all the beasts of the field:

14 So that all the trees of the waters shall not be lifted up in height, and they shall not give their foliage between the thick boughs, and all they drinking water shall not stand upon them in their height: for they all were given to death, to the earth underneath, in the midst of the sons of man, to those going down to the pit

15 Thus said the Lord Jehovah: In the day of his going down to hades caused to mourn: I covered the deep over him, and I shall restrain its floods, and many waters shall be withheld: and I will cause Lebanon to be darkened for him, and all the trees of the field fainted for him.

16 From the voice of his fall I caused the nations to tremble, in my causing him to go down to hades with those going down to the pit: and all the trees of Eden, the choice and good of Lebanon, all drinking water and they shall be comforted in the earth underneath.

17 They also went down with him to hades, to those being wounded with the sword; and his arm they dwelt in his shadow in the midst of the nations.

18 To whom wert thou thus like in glory and in greatness among the trees of Men? and thou wert brought down with the trees of Eden to the earth underneath: in the midst of the uncircumcised thou shalt lie, with the wounded of the sword. This is Pharaoh and all his multitude, says the Lord Jehovah.

EZEKIEL CHAPTER 32

1 And it will be in the twelfth year, in the twelfth month, in one to the month, the word of Jehovah was to me, saying,

2 Son of man, lift up a lamentation for Pharaoh king of Egypt, and say to him, Thou wert like a young lion of the nations, and thou as a whale in the seas: and thou wilt break forth with thy rivers, and trouble the waters with thy feet, and thou wilt tread their rivers.

3 Thus said the Lord Jehovah: and I spread my net over thee with a convocation of many peoples; and they brought thee up in my net

4 And I cast thee down upon the earth, upon the face of the field will I throw thee, and I caused all the birds of the heavens to sit upon thee, and I satiated from thee the beasts of all the earth.

5 And I gave thy flesh upon the mountains, and I filled the valleys with thy height

6 And I watered the earth with thine inundation from thy blood, to the mountains; and the rivers shall be full from thee.

7 And I covered the heavens in my quenching thee, and I darkened their stars; and I will cover the sun with a cloud, and the moon shall not enlighten with its light

8 All the luminaries of light in the heavens I will darken them over thee, and I gave darkness upon thy land, says the Lord Jehovah.

9 And I irritated the heart of many peoples in my bringing thy breaking among the nations, upon lands which ye knew not

10 And I caused many peoples to be astonished over thee, and kings shall shudder with shuddering over thee in my brandishing my sword over their faces; and they trembled at the moments each for his soul in the day of thy fall.

11 For thus said the Lord Jehovah: The sword of the king of Babel shall come into thee.

12 By the swords of the strong will I cause thy multitude to fall, the terrible of the nations, all of them: and they destroyed the pride of Egypt, and all her multitude were destroyed.

13 And I destroyed all her cattle above many waters; and the foot of man shall not trouble them any more, and the hoofs of cattle shall not trouble them.

14 Then will I cause their waters to subside, and I will cause their rivers to go as oil, says the Lord Jehovah.

15 In my giving the land of Egypt a desolation, and the land was desolate from her fulness in my striking all dwelling in it; and they shall know that I am Jehovah.

16 This the lamentation and the daughters of the nations lamented her: they shall lament her for Egypt, and for all her multitude they shall lament her, says the Lord Jehovah.

17 And it will be in the twelfth year, in the fifteenth to the month, the word of Jehovah was to me, saying,

18 Son of man, Wail for the multitude of Egypt, and cast it down, her, and the daughters of the powerful nations, to the earth underneath, with those going down to the pit

20 In the midst of the wounded of the sword shall they fall: she was given to the sword: do ye draw her out and all her multitude.

21 The strong of the mighty shall say to him from the midst of hades with his helpers: they went down; they lay uncircumcised, wounded of the sword.

22 Assur there and all her convocation; his graves round about him: all of them wounded, fallen by the sword.

23 Whose graves were given in the thighs of the pit, and her convocation will be round about her grave; all of them wounded, fallen by the sword, who gave terror in the land of the living.

24 There Elam and all her multitude round about her grave, all of them wounded, fallen by the sword, who went down uncircumcised to the earth underneath, who gave their terror in the land of the living; and they will bear their shame with those going down to the pit

25 In the midst of the wounded they gave a bed to her with all her multitude: her graves round about him; all of them uncircumcised, wounded of the sword: for their terror was given in the land of the living, and they shall bear their shame with those going down to the pit: he was given into the midst of the wounded.

26 There Meshech and Tubal and all dyer multitude: round about him her graves: all of them uncircumcised, wounded of the sword, for they gave their terror in the land of the living.

27 And they shall not lie with the strong fallen of the uncircumcised, who went down to hades with the weapons of their war: and they will give their swords under their heads, and their iniquities shall be upon their bones for the terror of the strong in the land of the living.

28 And thou shalt be broken in the midst of the uncircumcised, and thou shalt lie with the wounded of the sword.

29 There Edom, her kings and all her princes who were given with their strength with the wounded of the sword: they shall lie with the uncircumcised, and with those going down to the pit

30 There the princes of the north, all of them, and all the Zidonians who went down with the wounded; with their terror being ashamed of their strength; and they shall lie uncircumcised with the wounded of the sword, and bear their shame with those going down to the pit.

31 Pharaoh shall see them, and he was comforted over all her multitude wounded of the sword, Pharaoh and all his army, says the Lord Jehovah.

32 For I gave his terror in the land of the living: and he lay down in the midst of the uncircumcised with the wounded of the sword, Pharaoh and all her multitude, says the Lord Jehovah.

EZEKIEL CHAPTER 33

1 And the word of Jehovah will be to me, saying,

2 Son of man, speak to the sons of thy people and say to them, A land, when I shall bring the sword upon her, and the people of the land took one man from their extremities, and they gave him to them for a watchman.

3 And he saw the sword coming upon the land, and he struck upon the trumpet and warned the people;

4 And he hearing, heard the voice of the trumpet, and he took not warning; and the sword will come and take him. away; his blood shall be upon his head.

5 He heard the voice of the trumpet, and he took not warning; his blood shall be upon him. He taking warning delivered his soul.

6 And if the watchman shall see the sword coming, and he struck not upon the trumpet, and the people were not warned; and the sword shall come and take a soul from them, he was taken away in his iniquity, and his blood I will seek from the watchman's hand.

7 And thou son of man, I gave thee a watchman to the house of Israel; and thou heardest the word from my mouth, and thou didst warn them from me.

8 In my saying to the, unjust, O unjust one, dying, thou shalt die; and thou spakest not to warn the unjust from his way, that unjust one shall die in his iniquity, and I will seek his blood from thine hand.

9 And thou, if thou warnedst the unjust from his way to turn back from it, and be turned not back from his way, he shall die in his iniquity; and thou didst deliver thy soul.

10 And thou son of man, say to the house of Israel: Thus ye said, saying, If our transgressions and our sins be upon us, and we pining away in them, and how shall we live?

11 Say to them, I live, says the Lord Jehovah, if I shall delight in the death of the unjust; but in the turning back of the unjust one from his way, and he lived: turn back, turn back from your evil ways: and wherefore will ye die, O house of Israel?

12 And thou, son of man, say to the sons of my people, The justice of the just shall not deliver him in the day of his transgression: and the injustice of the unjust, he shall not stumble in it in the day of his turning back from his injustice; and the just shall not be able to live in the day of his sinning.

13 In my saying to the just, living, he shall live; and he trusted upon his justice, and he did evil, all his justice shall not be remembered; and in his iniquity which he did he shall die in it

14 And in my saying to the unjust, Dying, thou shalt die; and he turned back from his sinning and he did judgment and justice;

15 The unjust shall turn back the pledge he shall restore the spoil, going in the laws of the living not to do evil; living, he shall live, he shall not die.

16 All his sins which he sinned shall not be remembered to him: he did judgment and justice; living, he shall live.

17 And the sons of my people said, The way of Jehovah will not make even: and they their way shall not make even.

18 In the turning back of the just from his justice and doing iniquity, he shall die in them.

19 And in the turning back of the unjust from his injustice and doing judgment and justice upon them, he shall live.

20 And ye said, The way of Jehovah will not make even. I will judge you each according to his ways, O house of Israel.

21 And it will be in the twelfth year, in the tenth, in the fifth to the month, to our captivity, he having escaped from Jerusalem came to me, saying, The city was struck.

22 And the hand of Jehovah was to me in the evening, before he having escaped came; and he opened my mouth till he came to me in the morning; and he will open my mouth and I was no more dumb

23 And the word of Jehovah will be to me, saying,

24 Son of man, they inhabiting these wastes upon the land of Israel say, saying, Abraham was one, and he will inherit the land: and we are many; the land was given to us for a possession.

25 For this, say to them, Thus said the Lord Jehovah: Ye will eat with the bloods, and ye will lift up your eyes to your blocks, and ye will pour out blood: and shall ye possess the land?

26 Ye stood upon your sword, ye did abomination, and ye defiled each his neighbor's wife: and shall ye possess the land?

27 Thus shalt thou say to them: Thus said the Lord Jehovah: I live if not they who are in the wastes shall fall by the sword, and he who is upon the face of the field I gave him to the beast to eat him, and they who are in the fastnesses and in caves shall die by death.

28 And I gave the land a desolation and an amazement, and I caused the pride of her strength to cease; and the mountains of Israel were desolate from none passing through.

29 And they shall know that I am Jehovah in my giving the land a desolation and an astonishment for all their abominations which they did.

30 And thou son of man, the sons of my people are speaking against thee by the walls and in the doors of the houses, and speaking one to another, a man to his brother, saying, Come now and hear what the word coming forth from Jehovah.

31 And they will come to thee, according to the coming of the people, and they will sit before thee my people, and they heard thy words, and they did them not: for they making loves with their mouth, their heart went after their plunder.

32 And behold thee to them as song of loves of a fair voice, playing well an instrument: and they heard thy words and did them not 33 And in its coming (behold, it came) and they shall know that a prophet was in the midst of them.

EZEKIEL CHAPTER 34

1 And the word of Jehovah will be to me, saying,

2 Son of man, prophesy against the shepherds of Israel, prophesy, and say to them, To the shepherds, thus said the Lord Jehovah: Wo! to the shepherds of Israel who were feeding themselves: shall not the shepherds feed the sheep?

3 Ye will eat the fat, and ye will put on the wool, ye will sacrifice the fatlings: ye will not feed the sheep.

4 Ye strengthened not the sickly, and the diseased ye healed not, and the broken ye bound not up, and the thrust away ye turned not back, and the lost ye sought not; and with force and with oppression ye ruled them.

5 And they will be scattered from Without a shepherd: and they will be for consuming to all the beasts of the field, and they will be scattered.

6 My sheep will wander upon all the mountains, and upon every high hill: and upon all the face of the earth my flock was scattered, and none searching and none seeking.

7 For this, hear ye shepherds, the word of Jehovah:

8 I live, says the Lord Jehovah, if not my sheep were for plunder and my sheep will be for consuming to all the beasts of the field from no shepherd; and the shepherds sought not my sheep, and the shepherds will feed themselves, and my sheep they fed not

9 For this, hear ye shepherds, the word of Jehovah:

10 Thus said the Lord Jehovah: Behold me against the shepherds; and I sought my flock from their hand, and I caused them to cease from feeding the sheep: and the shepherds shall no more feed themselves; and I delivered my flock from their face, and they shall not be to them for consuming.

11 For thus said the Lord Jehovah: Behold me. I also sought my sheep, and I searched them out.

12 According to the seeking of the shepherd of his flock in the day of his being in the midst of his sheep being scattered.; so will I search out my sheep and deliver them from all places where they were scattered there in the day of cloud and darkness.

13 And I brought them out from the peoples, and I gathered them from the lands, and I brought them to their land, and I fed them upon the mountains of Israel by the torrents, and in all the dwellings of the earth.

14 In a good pasture will I feed them, and upon the high mountains of Israel shall be their rest: there shall they lie in a good rest, and a fat pasture they shall feed upon the mountains of Israel.

15 I will feed my sheep, and I will cause them to lie down, says the Lord Jehovah.

16 The lost I will seek out, and the thrust away I will turn back, and to the broken I will bind up, and the diseased I will strengthen: and the fat and the strong I will destroy; I will feed them with judgment

17 And ye, my sheep, thus said the Lord Jehovah; Behold me judging between sheep to sheep, to the rams and to the he goats.

18 Is it small for you ye will feed the good pasture, and the remainder of your pastures ye will tread down with your feet? and ye will drink front the settled waters and that being left they will tread with your feet

19 And my sheep will feed of the trodden down of your feet; and they will drink of the treading of your feet.

20 For this, thus said the Lord Jehovah to them: Behold me I also judged between fat sheep and between lean sheep.

21 Because with side and with shoulder ye will thrust away, and with your horns ye pushed all the sickly till that ye scattered them without;

22 And I saved my sheep, and they shall no more be for plunder; and I judged between sheep to sheep.

23 And I raised up one shepherd over them, and he fed them, my servant David; he shall feed them and he shall be to them for shepherd.

24 I Jehovah will be to them for God, and my servant David a prince in the midst of them; I Jehovah spake.

25 And I cut out to them a covenant of peace, and I caused the evil beast to cease from the land: and they dwelt with confidence in the desert, and they slept in the forests.

26 And I gave them and round about my hill a blessing; and I brought down the rain in its time, and they shall be rains of blessing.

27 And the tree of the field gave its fruit, and the land shall give her produce, and they shall be upon their land with confidence, and they knew that I am Jehovah in my breaking the rods of their yoke; and I delivered them from the hand of those serving themselves in them.

28 And they shall no more be plunder to the nations, and the beast of the earth shall not eat them; and they dwelt confidently and none making afraid.

29 And I raised up to them a plant for a name, and they shall be no more taken away by famine in the land, and they shall no more bear the shame of the nations.

30 And they knew that I Jehovah their God with them, and they my people, the house of Israel, says the Lord Jehovah.

31 And ye my sheep, the sheep of my pasture, ye are men, I your God, says the Lord Jehovah.

EZEKIEL CHAPTER 35

1 And the word of the Lord will be to me, saying,

2 Son of man, set thy face against mount Seir, and prophesy against it

3 And say to it, Thus said the Lord Jehovah: Behold me against thee, O mount Seir; and I stretched out my hand upon thee a desolation and an amazement

4 I will set thy cities a waste, and thou shalt be a desolation, and thou knewest that I am Jehovah.

5 Because there was a perpetual enmity to thee, and thou wilt pour out the sons of Israel by the hands of the sword in the time of their calamity, in the time of iniquity the end:

6 For this, I live, says the Lord Jehovah, for I will make thee for blood and blood shall pursue thee: since thou hatedst not blood, and blood shall pursue thee.

7 And I gave mount Seir for a desolation, and desolation, and I cut off from it him passing through and him turning back.

8 And I filled his mountains with his wounded: in thy hills and in thy valleys, and all thy torrents the wounded of the sword shall fall in them:

9 I will give thee perpetual desolations, and thy cities shall not be inhabited: and ye knew that I am Jehovah.

10 Because of thy saying, The two nations and the two lands shall be to me, and we will possess it; and Jehovah was there:

11 For this, I live, says the Lord Jehovah, and I did according to thine anger and according to thine envy which thou didst in thy hatred against them; and I was known among them according to that I will judge thee.

12 And thou knewest that I am Jehovah; I heard all thy reproaches which thou spakest against the mountains of Israel, saying, They were given to us a desolation to consume.

13 And ye will be magnified against me with your mouth, and ye multiplied your words against me: I heard.

14 Thus said the Lord Jehovah: When all the earth rejoiced I will make thee a desolation.

15 For thy rejoicing at the inheritance of the house of Israel, because it was a desolation, thus will I do to thee: thou shalt be a desolation O mount Seir, and all Edom, all of it: and they shall know that I am Jehovah.

EZEKIEL CHAPTER 36

1 And thou son of man, prophesy to the mountains of Israel, and say, Ye mountains of Israel, hear the word of Jehovah:

2 Thus said the Lord Jehovah: Because the enemy said against you, Aha! and the heights of old were for a possession to us:

3 For this, prophesy and say, Thus said the Lord Jehovah: Because for, because of making desolate, and panting after you from round about, for you to be a possession for the remainder of the nations, and ye will come up upon the lips of the tongue and a slander of the people:

4 For this ye mountains of Israel, hear the word of the Lord Jehovah: Thus said the Lord Jehovah to the mountains and to the hills, to the torrents and to the valleys, and to the desolate wastes, and to cities being forsaken which were for plunder and for derision to the rest of the nations that are from round about;

5 For this, thus said the Lord Jehovah: If not in the fire of my jealousy I spake against the rest of the nations and against all Edom who gave my land to them for a possession with joy of all the heart, with contempt of soul for casting it out for plunder.

6 For this, prophesy against the land of Israel, and say to the mountains and to the hills, and to the torrents and to the valleys, Thus said the Lord Jehovah: Behold me, in my jealousy and in my wrath did I speak because ye bore the shame of the nations.

7 For this, thus said the Lord Jehovah: I lifted up my hand; if not the nations who are from round about to you, they shall bear their shame.

8 And ye mountains of Israel, ye shall give your branch, and ye shall bear your fruit to my people Israel; for they drew near to come.

9 For behold me for you, and I turned to you and ye were tilled and sown.

10 And I multiplied man upon you, all the house of Israel, all of it: and the cities were inhabited and the wastes shall be built

11 And I multiplied upon you man and cattle; and they multiplied and were fruitful: and I caused you to dwell according to your former times, and I did good above your beginnings: and ye knew that I am Jehovah.

12 And I caused man to go upon you, my people Israel; and they shall possess thee, and thou wert to them for an inheritance, and thou shalt no more add to bereave them.

13 Thus said the Lord Jehovah: Because of their saying to you, Thou didst consume man, and thou wert bereaving thy nations

14 For this, thou shalt no more consume man, and thou shalt no more bereave thy nation; says the Lord Jehovah.

15 And I will no more cause to be heard in thee the shame of the nations, and thou shalt bear no more the reproach of the peoples, and thou shalt no more bereave thy nations, says the Lord Jehovah.

16 And the word of Jehovah will be to me, saying,

17 Son of man, the house of Israel dwelling upon their land, and they will defile it with their way and with their doings: their way was before me as the uncleanness of her set apart.

18 And I will pour out my wrath upon them upon the blood which they poured out upon the land, and they defiled it by their blocks:

19 And I will scatter them among the nations, and they shall be dispersed in the lands: according to their ways and according to their doings, I judged them.

20 And he will come to the nations where they came in there, and they will profane my holy name in saying to them, These the people of Jehovah, and they went forth from their land.

21 And I will spare for my holy name that the house of Israel profaned among the nations where they went there.

22 For this, say to the house of Israel, Thus said the Lord Jehovah: I do not for your sake, O house of Israel, but for my holy name which ye profaned among the nations where ye went there.

23 And I consecrated my great name, being profaned among the nations which ye profaned, in the midst of them; and the nations shall know that I am Jehovah, says the Lord Jehovah, in my being consecrated among you before your eyes.

24 And I took you from the nations and I gathered you from all the lands, and I brought you into your land.

25 And I sprinkled clean waters upon you, and ye were cleansed: from all your uncleannesses and from all your blocks will I cleanse you.

26 And I gave to you a new heart, and a new spirit will I give in the midst of you: and I turned away your heart of stone from your flesh, and I gave to you an heart of flesh.

27 And my spirit I will, give in the midst of you, and I made that ye shall go in my laws, and my judgments shall ye watch and do.

28 And ye dwelt in the land which I gave to your fathers, and ye were to me for a people, and I shall be to you for God.

29 And I saved you from all your uncleannesses: and I called for the grain and I multiplied it, and I will not give famine upon you.

30 And I multiplied the fruit of the tree and the produce of the field, so that ye shall no more take the reproach of famine among the nations.

31 And ye remembered your evil ways and your doings which not being good, and ye loathed with your faces for your iniquities and for your abominations.

32 I did not for your sakes, says the Lord Jehovah, it shall be known to you: be ashamed and be disgraced for your ways, O house of Israel

33 Thus said the Lord Jehovah; In the day of my cleansing you from all your iniquities, and I caused the cities to be inhabited, and the walls were built

34 And the desolate land shall be worked instead of its being a desolation before the eyes of all passing by.

35 And they said: This land being desolate was as the garden of Eden: and the cities laid waste and desolated and destroyed, being fortified, were inhabited.

36 And the nations which shall be left round about you shall know that I Jehovah built the destroyed, I planted the desolated: I Jehovah spake, and I did.

37 Thus said the Lord Jehovah: Yet this will I be sought out to the house of Israel, to do to them; I will multiply them with men as sheep.

38 As holy sheep, as the sheep of Jerusalem in her appointments; thus shall the cities laid waste be filled with flocks of men: and they shall know that I am Jehovah.

EZEKIEL CHAPTER 37

1 The hand of Jehovah was upon me, and he will bring me forth in the spirit of Jehovah, and he will set me down in the midst of the valley; and it was filled with bones.

2 And he caused me to pass over them round about, round about: and behold, exceeding many upon the face of the valley; and behold, exceedingly dry.

3 And he will say to me, Son of man, shall these bones live? And saying, Thou Lord Jehovah knoweth.

4 And he will say to me, Prophesy over these bones, and say to them, Ye dry bones, hear the word of Jehovah.

5 Thus said the Lord Jehovah to these bones: Behold, I bring upon you the spirit, and ye lived.

6 And I gave sinews upon you, and I brought up flesh upon you, and I drew skin over you, and I gave spirit in you, and ye lived; and ye shall know that I am Jehovah.

7 And I prophesied as I was commanded: and there will be a voice as I prophesied, and behold a shaking, the bones will draw near, bone to his bone.

8 And I saw and behold, upon them sinews and flesh came up, and the skin will draw over them from above: and no spirit in them.

9 And he will say to me, prophesy to the spirit, prophesy, son of man, and say to the spirit, thus said the Lord Jehovah: Come from the four winds, O wind and blow upon these slain, and they shall live.

10 And I prophesied as he commanded me, and the spirit will come upon them and they will live, and they will stand upon their feet, an army great, exceedingly, exceedingly.

11 And he will say to me, Son of man, these bones all the house of Israel: behold them saying, Our bones were dried up, and our hope perished, and we were cut off to us.

12 For this, prophesy and say to them, Thus said the Lord Jehovah: Behold, I opened your graves and brought you up from your graves, O my people, and I brought you to the land of Israel.

13 And ye knew that I was Jehovah in my opening your graves and in my bringing you up from your graves, O my People

14 And And I gave my spirit in you, and ye lived, and I caused you to rest upon your land: and ye knew that I Jehovah spake, and I did, says the Lord Jehovah.

15 And the word of Jehovah will be to me, saying,

16 And thou son of man, take to thee one tree and write upon it, For Judah, and for the sons of Israel his company: and take one tree and write upon it, For Joseph, the tree of Ephraim, and all the house of Israel his company:

17 And draw them near one to one to thee, for one tree; and they were for one in thine hand.

18 And when the sons of thy people shall say to thee, saying, Wilt thou not announce to us what these to thee?

19 Speak to them, thus said the Lord Jehovah: Behold I take the tree of Joseph, which is in the hand of Ephraim, and the tribes of Israel his company, and I gave them upon him with the tree of Judah, and ye made them for one tree, and they were one in my hand.

20 And the trees which thou shalt write upon them were in thy hand before their eyes.

21 And speak to them, Thus said the Lord Jehovah: Behold, I take the sons of Israel from among the nations where they went there, and I gathered them from round about, and I brought them to their land:

22 And I made them for one nation in the land in the mountains of Israel; and one king shall be to them all for king: and they shall no more be for two nations, and they shall no more be divided into two kingdoms at all.

23 And they shall no more be defiled with their blocks and with their abominable things, and in all their transgressions: and I saved them from all their dwellings where they sinned in them, and I cleansed them: and they were to me for a people, and I will be to them for God.

24 And my servant David a king over them; and one shepherd shall be to all of them: and in my judgments they shall go and they shall watch my laws and do them.

25 And they shall dwell upon the land which I gave to my servant to Jacob which your fathers dwelt upon it, and they shall dwell upon it, they and their sons and their sons' sons, even to forever: and David my servant a prince to them forever.

26 And I cut out to them a covenant of peace; it shall be an eternal covenant with them: and I gave them, and I multiplied them, and I gave my holy place in the midst of them forever.

27 And my dwelling was with them, and I was to them for God, and they shall be to me for a people.

28 And the nations shall know that I am Jehovah consecrating Israel in my holy place, being in the midst of them forever.

EZEKIEL CHAPTER 38

1 And the word of Jehovah will be to me, saying,

2 Son of man, set thy face against Gog, the land of Magog, the head prince of Meeheoh and Tubal, and prophesy against him,

3 And say, Thus said the Lord Jehovah: Behold me against thee, O Gog, head prince of the head of Meshech and Tubal:

4 And I turned thee back, and I gave hooks in thy jaw bones, and I brought thee forth and all thine army of horses and horsemen, clothed in perfection, all of them a great convocation with buckler and shield, holding swords all of them:

5 Persia, Cush and Phut with them, all of them with shield and helmet

6 Gomer and all his hosts; the house of Togarmah of the thighs of the north, and all his hosts: many peoples with thee.

7 Be prepared, and be prepared for thyself, thou, and all thy convocation convoked together to thee, and be to them for watching.

8 From many days thou shalt be reviewed: in the last of the years thou shalt come to the land turned back from the sword, being gathered from many peoples upon the mountains of Israel, which were continually for waste: and she was brought forth from the peoples, and they dwelt confidently all of them.

9 Ascending, thou shalt come as a storm, as a cloud to cover the earth shalt thou be and all thy hosts, and many peoples with thee.

10 Thus said the Lord Jehovah and it was in that day words will come up upon thy heart, and thou purposed an evil purpose:

11 And thou saidst, I will come up upon the land of the open country; I will go to those being at rest, dwelling confidently, all of them dwelling without a wall, and bar and doors not to them,

12 To spoil a spoil and to plunder a plunder; to turn back thy hand upon the wastes being inhabited, and upon the people being gathered out of the nations making cattle and substance, dwelling upon the summit of the land.

13 Sheba and Dedan and the merchants of Tarshish, and all her young lions, they shall say to thee, For spoiling a spoil art thou come? For plundering a plunder didst thou call together thy convocation? to lift up silver and gold, to take cattle and substance, to spoil a great spoil?

14 For this, prophesy, O son of man, and say to Gog, Thus said the Lord Jehovah: In that day in my people Israel dwelling confidently, shalt thou not know?

15 And thou earnest out of the places from the thighs of the north, thou, and many peoples with thee, riding horses all of them, a great convocation and much strength:

16 And coming up upon my people Israel as a cloud to cover the land; it shall be in the last of the days, and brought thee forth against my land, for the nations to know me in my being consecrated in thee before their eyes, O Gog.

17 Thus said the Lord Jehovah: Art thou he of whom I spake in days of old by the hand of my servants the prophets of Israel, prophesying in those days years to bring thee against them?

18 And it was in that day, in the day Gog came upon the land of Israel, says the Lord Jehovah, my wrath shall come up in my face.

19 And in my jealousy, in the fire of my wrath I spake, If not in that day shall be a great shaking upon the land of Israel.

20 And from my face shall shake the fish of the sea, and the birds of the heavens, and the beasts of the field, and every creeping thing creeping upon the earth, and every man which is upon the face of the earth; and the mountains were overthrown, and the precipices fell, and every wall shall fall to the earth.

21 And I called to all my mountains a sword against him, says the Lord Jehovah: and the sword of each shall be against his brother.

22 And I will contend with him with death and with blood; and an overflowing rain, and hailstones, fire and sulphur will I rain upon him and upon his hosts, and upon many peoples which are with him.

23 And I magnified myself, and I consecrated myself; and I was made known to the eyes of many nations, and they knew that I am Jehovah.

EZEKIEL CHAPTER 39

1 And thou son of man, prophesy against Gog, and say, Thus said the Lord Jehovah: Behold me against thee, O Gog, prince of the head of Meshech and Tubal:

2 And I turned thee back, and I led thee, and I caused thee to come up from the thighs of the north, and I brought thee upon the mountains of Israel:

3 And I struck thy bow out of thy left hand, and thine arrows will I cause to fall from thy right hand.

4 Upon the mountains of Israel shalt thou fall, thou and all thy hosts, and the peoples which are with thee: to the ravenous bird, the bird of every wing, and to the beasts of the field I gave to consume.

5 Upon the face of the field thou shalt fall: for I spake, says the Lord Jehovah.

6 And I sent a fire upon Magog, and upon them dwelling with confidence in the islands: and they knew that I am Jehovah.

7 And I will make known my holy name in the midst of my people Israel; and I will no more profane my holy name: and the nations shall know that am Jehovah, the Holy One in Israel.

8 Behold, it came, and it was, says the Lord Jehovah; this the day which I spike.

9 And they dwelling in the cities of Israel went forth and kindled and set on fire with the weapons and the shield and the buckler, with the bow and with the arrows, and with the rods of the hand and with the spear, and they burnt a fire with them seven years:

10 And they shall not lift up wood from the field, and they shall not cut down from the forests; for they shall kindle fire with the weapons, and they spoiled those spoiling them, and they plundered those plundering them, says the Lord Jehovah.

11 And it was in that day, I will give to Gog a place there, a sepulchre in Israel, the valley of those passing through east of the sea: and it stopped those passing by: and they buried there Gog, and all his multitude: and they called the valley, The Multitude.

12 And the house of Israel buried them to cleanse the land seven months.

13 And they buried all the people of the land: and it was to them for name the day of honoring me; says the Lord Jehovah.

14 And they shall separate men continually, passing through in the land burying those transported with those remaining upon the face of the earth, to cleanse it: from the end of seven months they shall search.

15 And they caused to pass through, passed through in the land, and he seeing a bone of man and he built a pillar by it, they burying, buried it in the valley of the multitude of Gog.

16 And also the name of the city, The Multitude. And they cleansed the land.

17 And thou, son of man, thus said the Lord Jehovah: Say to the bird of every wing and to all the beasts of the field, Gather yourselves together, and come; assemble yourselves from round about to my sacrifice which I sacrifice to you, a great sacrifice upon the mountains of Israel; and ye ate flesh and drank blood.

18 The flesh of the strong shall ye eat, and the blood of the princes of the earth shall ye drink, rams, lambs and he goats, bullocks being fattened, of Bashan all of them.

19 And ye ate fat to satiety, and ye drank blood to drunkenness, from my sacrifice which I sacrificed for you.

20 And ye were satiated at my table with horse and chariot, with the strong, and every man of war, says the Lord Jehovah.

21 And I gave my honor among the nations, and all the nations saw my judgments which I did, and my hand that I put upon them.

22 And the house of Israel knew that I am Jehovah their God, from this day and farther.

23 And the nations shall know that for their iniquity the house of Israel were carried away captive: because they transgressed against me, and I will hide my face from them, and I will give them into the hand of their enemies, and they shall fall by the sword, all of them.

24 According to their uncleanness and according to their transgressions I did with them, and I will hide my face from them.

25 For this, thus said the Lord Jehovah: Now will I turn back the captivity of Jacob, and I compassionated all the house of Israel, and I was jealous for my holy name

26 And they bare their shame and all their transgression which they transgressed against me, in their dwelling upon their land confidently, and none terrifying.

27 In my turning them back from the peoples, and I gathered them from the lands of their enemies, and I was consecrated in them before the eyes of many nations;

28 And they shall know that I am Jehovah their God in my carrying them captive to the nations: and I collected them into their land, and I will no more leave from them there.

29 And I will no more bide my face from them, for I poured out my spirit upon the house of Israel, says the Lord Jehovah.

EZEKIEL CHAPTER 40

1 In the twenty and fifth year to our captivity, in the beginning, of the year, in the tenth to the month, in the fourteenth year after that the city was struck, in this very day the hand of Jehovah was upon me, and he will bring me there.

2 In the visions of God he brought me to the land of Israel, and he will set me down upon an exceeding high mountain, and upon it as the building of a city from the south.

3 And he will bring me there, and behold, a man, his appearance as the appearance of brass, and a cord of flax in his hand, and a reed of measure; and he stood in the gate.

4 And the man will speak to me, Son of man, see with thine eyes, and hear with thine ears, and set thy heart to all which I cause thee to see; for in order to cause thee to see thou went brought hither: announce all which thou seest to the house of Israel.

5 And behold a wall from without to the house round about, round about, and in the man's hand a reed of measure six cubits by the cubit, and a handbreadth: and he will measure the breadth of the building, one reed: and the height, one reed.

6 And he will come to the gate which its face the: way of the east, and he will come up upon its steps, and he will measure the threshold of the gate, one reed the breadth, and the other threshold, one reed the breadth.

7 And the chamber one reed the length, and one reed the breadth; and between the chambers, five cubits: and the threshold of the gate from the side of the porch of the gate from the house, one reed.

8 And he will measure the porch of the gate from the house, one reed.

9 And he will measure the porch of the gate, eight cubits; and its projection, two cubits; and the porch of the gate from within.

10 And the chambers of the gate the way of the east, three from hence, and three from thence; one measure to their three: and one measure to the projections from hence and from thence.

11 And he will measure the breadth of the door of the gate, ten cubits; the length of the gate, thirteen cubits.

12 And the bound before the face of the chambers, one cubit, and one cubit the bound from hence: and the chamber six cubits from hence, and six cubits from thence.

13 And he will measure the gate from the roof of the chamber to its roof; the breadth, twenty and five cubits, door over against door.

14 And he will make projections sixty cubits, and to the projection of the enclosure of the gate round about, round about 15 And upon the face of the gate of the entrance to the face of the porch of the gate, fifty cubits.

16 And windows closed to the chambers, and to their posts inside to the gate, round about, round about, and thus to the porches: and to the windows round about, round about inside, and to the post, palm trees.

17 And he will bring me to the enclosure without, and behold, cells and a tesselated pavement made to the enclosure round about, round about: thirty cells to the tesselated pavement.

18 And the tesselated pavement to the shoulder of the gates over against the length of the gates, the lower tesselated pavement

19 And he will measure the breadth from the face of the lower gate to the face of the enclosure within from with out, a hundred cubits to the east and to the north.

20 And a gate whose face the way of the north to the enclosure without, he measured its length and its breadth.

21 And its chamber, three from hence; and three from thence; and its post and its porch was as the measure of the first gate: fifty cubits its length, and its breadth five and twenty by the cubit.

22 And its windows and its porch and its palm tree, as the measure of the gate whose face the way of the east: and they will go up into it by seven steps; and its porch before them.

23 And the gate to the interior enclosure over against the gate to the north and to the east: and he will measure from gate to gate, a hundred cubits.

24 And he will cause me to go the way of the south, and behold a gate the way of the south: and he measured its post and its porch according to these measures.

25 And windows to it, and to its porch round about, round about, as those windows: fifty cubits the length, and the breadth, five and twenty cubits.

26 And its going up, seven steps, and its porch before them: and palm trees to it, one from hence, and one from thence, to its post

27 And a gate to the inner enclosure the way of the south: and he will measure from gate to gate the way of the south, a hundred cubits.

28 And he will bring me to the inner enclosure by the gate of the south: and he will measure the gate of the south according to these measures.

29 And its chamber and its projection, and its porch, according to these measures: and windows to its porch round about, round about: fifty cubits the length, and the breadth five and twenty cubits.

30 And the porches round about, round about, the lengthfive and twenty cubits, and the breadth five cubits.

31 And its projections to the enclosure without; and palm trees to its post: and its going up, eight steps.

32 And he will bring me to the inner enclosure the way of the east: and he will measure the gate according to these measures.

33 And its chamber, and its post, and its porch, according to these measures: and windows to it and to its porch round about, round about: the length fifty cubits, and the breadth five and twenty cubits.

34 And its porch to the enclosure without; and palm trees to its post from hence and from thence: and its going up, eight steps.

35 And he will bring me to the gate of the north, and he measured according to these measures;

36 Its chamber, its post, and its porch, and windows to it round about, round about: the length fifty cubits, and the breadth five and twenty cubits.

37 And its post to the court-yard without; and palm trees to its post from hence and from thence: and its going up, eight steps.

38 And the cell and its entrance by the posts of the gates, there they will cleanse the burnt-offering.

39 And in the porch of the gate two tables from hence, and two tables from thence, to slaughter upon them the burnt-offering and the sin and the trespass.

40 And upon the Shoulder from without to the going up to the entrance of the gate of the north, two tables; and upon the other shoulder which was at the porch of the gate, two tables.

41 Four tables from hence, and fear tables from thence, to the side of the gate; eight tables they will slaughter upon them.

42 And the four tables for the burnt-offering, of cut stones, the length, one cubit and a half, and the breadth, one cubit and a half, and the height, one cubit: upon them they placed the instruments which they will slaughter the burnt-offering with them, and the sacrifice.

43 And stalls one hand-breadth set up in the house round about, round about: and upon the tables the flesh of the oblation.

44 And from without to the inner gate, cells placed in order in the inner enclosure which was upon the side of the gate of the north; and their faces the way of the south: one at the side of the gate of the east, the face the way of the north.

45 And he will speak to me, This the cell whose face the way of the south, for the priests watching the watches of the house.

46 And the cell whose face the way of the north, for the priests watching the watches of the altar: they the sons of Zadok drawing near from the sons of Levi, to Jehovah to serve him.

47 And he will measure the enclosure, the length a hundred cubits, and the breadth a hundred cubits, quad-rated; and the altar before the house.

48 And he will bring me to the porch of the house, and he will measure the posts of the porch, five cubits from hence, and five cubits from thence: and the breadth of the gate three cubits from hence, and three cubits from thence.

49 The length of the porch, twenty cubits, and the breadth, eleven cubits; and by the steps which they will go up to it: and pillars to the posts, one from hence, and one from thence.

EZEKIEL CHAPTER 41

1 And he will bring me to the temple, and he will measure the posts. six cubits the breadth from hence, and six cubits the breadth from thence, the breadth of the tent

2 And the breadth of the entrance, ten cubits; and the sides of the entrance, five cubits from hence, and five cubits from thence: and he will measure its length, forty cubits: and the breadth, twenty cubits.

3 And he went inside, and he will measure the post of the entrance, two cubits; and the entrance, six cubits; and the breadth of the door, seven cubits.

4 And he will measure its length, twenty cubits; and the breadth, twenty cubits, to the face of the temple: and he will say to me, This the holy of holies.

5 And he will measure the wall of the house, six cubits; and the breadth of the rib, four cubits, round about, round about to the house, round about

6 And the ribs, side to side, three and thirty times; and entering into the wall which was to the house to the sides round about, round about, to be holding, and they shall not be holding in the wall of the house

7 It was broad and turned round upwards, upwards to the sides: for the circuit of the house, upwards, upwards round about, round about to the house: for this the breadth of the house up-wards, and thus the lowest will go up upon the highest to the middle.

8 And I saw to the house the height round about, round about the foundations of the sides the fulness of a reed, six cubits the joining.

9 The breadth of the wall which was to the side without, five cubits: and that remaining of the house the sides which were to the house.

10 And between the cells, the breadth, twenty cubits round about to the house, round about, round about:

11 And the entrance of the side to that remaining, one door the way of the north, and one door to the south: and the breadth of the remaining place, five cubits round about, round about

12 And the building which was at the face of the separation the side the way of the sea, the breadth, seventy cubits; and the wall of the building five cubits the breadth, round about, round about; and its length ninety cubit.

13 And he measured the house, the length, a hundred cubits; and the separated place and the building and its walls, the length, a hundred cubits.

14 And the breadth of the face of the house, and the separated place to the east, a hundred cubits.

15 And he measured the length of the building at the face of the separated place which was upon its back part, and its offsets from hence, and from thence, a hundred cubits, and the inner temple and the porches of the enclosure.

16 The thresholds, and the windows closed, and the offsets round about to their three ever against the threshold, a board of wood round about, round about, and the earth even to the windows, and the windows being covered.

17 To above the door and even to the inner house, and to without, and to all the wall round about, round about, in the inside and on the outside measures.

18 And cherubs being made, and palm trees, and a palm tree between a cherub to a cherub: and two faces to the cherub;

19 And the face of man to the palm tree from hence, and the face of a young lion to the palm tree from thence: being made to all the house round about, round about 20 From the earth even to above the entrance, the cherubs and the palm trees being made, and the wall of the temple.

21 The temple glittering four-square, and the face of the holy place; the vision according to the vision.

22 The altar of wood, three cubits the height, and its length, two cubits; and its angles to it, and its length, and its walls, of wood: and he will speak to me: This the table which is before the face of Jehovah.

23 And two doors to the temple and to the holy place.

24 And two doors to the doors, two turning doors; two to the one door, and two to the other door.

25 And being made upon them upon the doors of the temple, cherubs and palm trees, according to those being upon the walls; and thick wood upon the face of the porch from without 26 And closed windows and the palm trees from hence, and from thence, upon the shoulders of the porch, and the sides of the house, and upon the thresholds.

EZEKIEL CHAPTER 42

1 And he will bring me forth to the enclosure without, the way a way of the north: and he will bring me to the cell which was over against the separated place, and which was over against the building to the north.

2 To the face of the length a hundred cubits the door of the north, and the breadth, fifty cubits.

3 Over against the twenty which were for the inner enclosure, add over against the tesselated pavement which was to the court without, an offset to the face of an offset in threes.

4 And before the cells a walk, ten cubits the breadth of the inside, a way of one cubit; and their doors to the north.

5 And the upper cells shortened, for the offsets will prevail above these, from the lower and from the middle of the building:

6 For they were from threes, and no pillars to them as the pillars of the enclosures: for this it was contracted from the lower and from the middle from the earth.

7 And the wall that was without over against the cells, the way of the enclosure without to the face of the cells, its length, fifty cubits.

8 For the length of the cells which were to the enclosure without, fifty cubits: and behold, at the face of the temple a hundred cubits

9 And from under to these cells the entrance from the east, in his going to them from the enclosure without

10 In the breadth of the wall of the enclosure the way of the east to the separated place and to the face of the building, the cells.

11 And the way before them as the appearance of the cells which were the way of the north, as the length so the breadth: and all their goings out according to their judgments and according to their entrances.

12 And according to the doors of the cells which were the way of the south, a door in the head of the way, the way in the face of the wall suitable the way of the east in entering.

13 And he will say to me, The cells of the north, the cells of the south which are at the face of the separated place, they the cells of the holy place, where the priests shall eat there, that draw near to Jehovah, the holies of holies: there shall they set the holies of holies, and the gift, and the sin, and the trespass; for the place is holy.

14 On the priests' coming in, and they shall go not forth from the holy place to the enclosure without, and there they shall set their garments which they shall serve in them; for they are holy; they shall put on other garments, and approach to that for the people.

15 And he finished the measure of the inner house, and he brought me forth the way of the gate whose face the way of the east, and he measured it round about, round about

16 He measured the wind of the east with the reed of measure, five-hundred reeds, by the reed of measure round about

17 He measured the wind of the north, five hundred reeds by the reed of measure round about 18 The wind of the south he measured five hundred reeds by the reed of measure.

19 He turned to the wind of the sea, he measured five hundred reeds by the reed of measure.

20 To the four winds he measured it: the wall to it round about, round about, the length five hundred, and the breadth five hundred, to separate between the holy to the profane.

EZEKIEL CHAPTER 43

1 And he will cause me to go to the gate, the gate whose face the way of the east

2 And behold, the glory of the God of Israel came from the way of the east: and his voice as the voice of many waters; and the earth was illuminated from his glory.

3 And as the appearance of the vision which I saw, as the vision which I saw in my coming to destroy the city: and the visions as the vision which I saw at the river Chebar; and I shall fall upon my face.

4 And the glory of Jehovah came into the house the way of the gate which its face the way of the east.

5 And the spirit will lift me up and bring me to the inner enclosure; behold, the glory of Jehovah filled the house.

6 And I shall hear him speaking to me from the house; and a man was standing by me.

7 And he will say to me, Son of man, the place of my throne, and the place of the soles of my feet, where I shall dwell there in the midst of the sons of Israel forever, and the house of Israel shall no more defile my holy name, they and their kings by their fornication, and by the corpses of their kings in their heights.

8 In their giving their threshold with my thresholds, and their door-post by my door-posts, and the wall between me and between them, and they defiled my holy name with their abominations which they did: and consuming them in my anger.

9 Now they shall put far off their fornication, and the corpses of their kings, from me, and I dwelt in the midst of them forever.

10 Thou son of man, announce to the house of Israel, the house, and they shall be ashamed of their iniquities: and measure the structure.

11 And if they were ashamed of all which they did, the form of the house and its structure, and all its goings out and all its comings in, and all its forms, and all its laws, and all its forms, and all its instructions, make known to them: and write before their eyes, and they shall watch all its instructions and all its laws, and do them.

12 This the instruction of the house: Upon the head of the mountain all its bound round about, round about, holy of holies. Behold, this the instruction of the house.

13 And these the measures of the altar by cubits: a cubit, a cubit and a hand-breadth; and the bosom, a cubit and a cubit the breadth; and its bound to its lip round about, one span: and this the back of the altar.

14 And from the bosom of the earth even to the lower terrace, two cubits, and the breadth, one cubit; and from the small terrace even to the great terrace, four cubits, and the breadth, the cubit

15 And the mountain of God, four cubits; and from the lion of God and upwards, four horns.

16 And the lion of God, twelve the length by twelve the breadth; four square to its four squares.

17 And the terrace, fourteen the length by fourteen the breadth, to its four squares; and the bound round about it half a cubit, and the bosom to it, a cubit round about; and its steps turning east

18 And he will say to me, Son of man, thus said the Lord Jehovah: These the laws of the altar in the day of Making it to bring up a burnt-offering upon it, and to sprinkle upon it blood.

19 And give to the priests the Levites, those which are of the seed of Zadok, drawing near to me, says the Lord Jehovah, to save me, a bullock, son of a cow, for sin.

20 And take from its blood and give upon its four horns, and to the four corners of the terrace, and to the border round about: and cleanse it and expiate it.

21 And take the bullock of the sin and burn it in the appointed place of the house from without to the holy place.

22 And in the second day thou shalt bring near a kid of the goats complete for sin; and cleanse ye the altar as they cleansed for the bullock.

23 In thy finishing the cleansing thou shalt bring a bullock, son of a cow, blameless, and a blameless ram front the sheep;

24 And bring them near before Jehovah, and the priests cast salt upon them, and they brought them up a burnt-offering to Jehovah.

25 Seven days thou shalt do a he goat of sin for the day, and a bullock, son of a cow, and a ram from the sheep, blameless, shall they do.

26 Seven days and they expiated the altar, and they cleansed it; and they filled his hand.

27 And they finished the days, and it was in the eighth day and forward, the priests will do your burnt-offerings upon the altar, and your peace: and I received you into favor, says the Lord Jehovah.

EZEKIEL CHAPTER 44

1 And he turned me back the way of the gate of the holy place with out, looking to the east; and it was shut

2 And Jehovah will say to me; This gate shall be shut, it shall not be opened, and a man shall not come in through it; because Jehovah God of Israel came in through it and it was shut.

3 The prince, the prince, he shall sit in it to eat bread before Jehovah; from the way of the porch of the gate he will go in, and from its way he went out

4 And he will bring me the way of the gate of the north to the face of the house: and I shall see, and behold, the glory of Jehovah filled the house of Jehovah: and I shall fall upon my face.

5 And Jehovah will say to me, Son of man, set thy heart, and see with thine eyes, and hear with thine ears all which I speak to thee concerning all the laws of the house of Jehovah, and concerning all its instructions; and set thy heart to the entering of the house, and all the goings out of the holy place.

6 And thou shalt say to the perverse to the house of Israel, Thus said the Lord Jehovah: Enough for you of all your abominations, O house of Israel.

7 In your bringing in the sons of the stranger, uncircumcised of heart and uncircumcised of flesh, to be in my holy place to profane it, my house, in your bringing near my bread, the fat and the blood, and they will break my covenant by all your abominations.

8 And ye watched not the watches of my holy place: and ye set for watching of my watches in my holy place for yourselves.

9 Thus said the Lord Jehovah: Every son of the stranger, uncircumcised of heart and uncircumcised of flesh, shall not come in to my holy place, to every son of the stranger which is the midst of the sons of Israel.

10 But the Levites who went far off from me, in the going astray of Israel who went astray from me after the blocks; and they bare their iniquity.

11 And they were serving in my holy place, reviewing at the gates of the house, and serving the house: they shall slaughter the burnt-offering and the sacrifice for the people, and they shall stand before them to serve them.

12 Because they will serve them before their blocks, and they were to the house of Israel for a stumbling block of iniquity; for this I lifted up my hand against them, says the Lord Jehovah, and they bare their iniquity.

13 And they shall not come near to me to be priest to me, to come near all my holy things, to the holies of holies: and they bare their shame, and their abominations which they did,,

14 And I gave them watchers of the watches of the house for all its service, and for all which shall be done in it

15 And the priests the Levites, sons of Zadok, who watched the watches of my holy place in the going astray of the sons of Israel from me, they shall draw near to me to serve me, and they stood before me to bring near to me the fat and the blood, says the Lord Jehovah:

16 They shall come into my holy place, and they shall draw near to my table, to serve me; and they watched my watches.

17 And it was in their going in to the gates of the inner enclosure they shall put on linen garments; and wool shall not come up upon them in their serving in the gates of the inner enclosure, and the house.

18 And linen turbans shall be upon their heads, and linen drawers shall be upon their loins; and they shall not be girded with sweat

19 And in their going forth to the enclosure without, to the enclosure to the people, they shall lay off their garments which they serve in them, and set them in the cells of the holy place, and put on other garments; and they shall not consecrate the people in their garments.

22 And they Shall not take a widow and her thrust away, to them for wives: but virgins from the seed of the house of Israel, and a widow which shall be a widow from a priest, shall they take.

23 And they shall point out to my people between the holy to the profane, and they shall cause them to know between the unclean to the clean.

24 And upon contention they shall stand to judge in my judgments, and they judged: and my instructions and my laws in all my appointments, they shall watch; and my Sabbaths shall they consecrate.

25 And to a dead man they shall not come to be defiled: but for father and for mother, and for son and for daughter, for brother, for sister who was not to a husband, they shall be defiled.

27 And in the day of his going into the holy place, to the inner court he serve in the holy place, he shall bring near his sin, says the Lord Jehovah.

28 And it was to them for an inheritance; I am their inheritance: and a possession ye shall not give to there in Israel: I am their possession.

29 The gift and the sin and the trespass shall they eat; and every devoted thing in Israel shall be to them.

30 And the first of all the first-fruits of all, and every oblation of all from all your oblations, shall be for the priests: and the first of your grouts ye shall give to the priest to cause blessing to rest upon thy house.

31 Every carcass or torn from bind and from cattle, the priests shall not eat.

EZEKIEL CHAPTER 45

1 And in your causing the land to fall in inheritance, ye shall lift up an oblation to Jehovah, holiness from the land: the length, five and twenty thousand the length; and the breadth, ten thousand: it is holy in all its bounds round about

2 There shall be from this to the holy place five hundred, by five being square round about; and fifty cubits the area to it round about

3 And from this measure thou shalt measure the length, five and twenty thousand, and the breadth, ten thousand: and in it shall be the holy plate, the holy of holies.

4 A holy place from the land this shall be to the priests serving the holy place drawing near to serve Jehovah: and it was to them a place for their houses and a holy place for the holy place.

5 And five and twenty thousand the length, and ten thousand the breadth, shall be to the Levites serving the house to them for a possessn of twenty cells.

6 And ye shall give the possession of the city, five thousand the breadth, and the length, five and twenty thousand, over against the oblation of the holy place: it shall be to all the house of Israel.

7 And for the prince from this, and from this to the oblation of the holy place, and to the possession of the city, at the face of the oblation of the holy place, and at the face of the possession of the city from the side of the sea, the ass, and from the side of the east to the east: and the length over against one of the portions from the bound of the sea to the bound of the east,

8 In the land it shall be to him for a possession in Israel: and my princes shall no more oppress my people; and they shall give the land to the house of Israel according to their tribes.

9 Thus said the Lord Jehovah: Enough to you, O princes of Israel: remove ye violence and oppression, and do judgment and justice, lift up your expulsions from off my people, says the Lord Jehovah.

10 A just balance, and a just ephah, and a just bath, shall be to you.

Copyright © 2026 by Lord Henfield, Guildford Scientific Press

11 The ephah and the bath shall be one measure, for the bath to lift up the tenth of the homer, and the ephah the tenth of the homer: to the homer shall it be from its measure.

12 And the shekel twenty gerahs: twenty shekels, five and twenty shekels, fifteen shekels the maneh shall be to you.

13 This the oblation which ye shall lift up: the sixth of an ephah of an homer of wheat, and give the sixth of an ephah of an homer of barley.

14 And the law of oil, the bath of oil, the tenth of the bath from the cor, ten baths the homer, for ten baths are the homer.

15 And one sheep from the flock out of two hundred, out of the well watered region of Israel, for a gift and for the burnt-offering, and for the peace to expiate for them, says the Lord Jehovah.

16 All the people of the land shall be for this oblation for the prince in Israel.

17 And for the prince it shall be the burnt-offerings, and the gift, and the libation, in the festivals and in the new moons, and in the Sabbaths, and in all the appointments of the house of Israel: he shall do the sin, and the gift, and the burnt-offering, and the peace to expiate for the house of Israel

18 Thus said the Lord Jehovah: In the first, in one to the month, thou shalt take a bullock, son of a cow, blameless, and cleanse the holy place:

19 And the priest took of the blood of the sin and gave upon the door-posts of the house, and upon the four corners of the terrace, to the altar and upon the door-posts of the gate of the inner enclosure.

20 And thus shalt thou do in the seventh to the month, from each going astray and from the simple: and ye expiated the house.

21 In the first, in the fourteenth day in the month, the passover shall be to you the festival of seven days; unleavened shall be eaten.

22 And in that day the prince did for himself and for all the people of the land the bullock of sin.

23 And seven days of the festival he shall do a burnt-offering to Jehovah, seven bullocks and seven rams blameless for the day, seven days; and the sin a he goat of the goats for the day.

24 And the gift an ephah for a bullock, and an ephah for a ram shall he do, and oil, an hin to the ephah.

25 In the seventh, in the fifteenth day to the month, in the festival shall he do according to these things, seven days, according to the sin, according to the burnt-offering; and according to the gift and according to the oil.

EZEKIEL CHAPTER 46

1 Thus said the Lord Jehovah: The gate of the inner enclosure turning to the east shall be shut six days of work; and in the day of the Sabbath it shall be opened, and in the day of the new moon it shall be opened.

2 And the prince went in the way of the porch of the gate from without, and he stood by the door-posts of the gate, and the priests did his burnt-offerings and his peace, and he worshiped upon the threshold of the gate, and he went forth: and the gate shall not be shut until the evening.

3 And the people of the land worshiped at the door of that gate in the Sabbaths and in the new moons, before Jehovah.

4 And the burnt-offering which the prince shall bring near to Jehovah in the day of the Sabbath, six blameless lambs, and a blameless ram.

5 And the gift an ephah to a ram, a gift for the lambs the giving of his hand, and the oil, an hin to the ephah

6 And in the day of the new moon, a blameless bullock, the son of a cow, and six lambs and a ram: they shall be blameless.

7 And an ephah to the bullock and an ephah to a ram shall he do the gift, and to the lambs, according as his hand shall attain, and the oil, an hin to the ephah.

8 And in the going in of the prince he shall go in the way of the porch of the gate, and in its way he shall go forth.

9 And In the going in of the people of the land before Jehovah in the appointments, he going in the way of the gate of the north to worship, shall come forth the way of the gate of the south; and he going in the way of the gate of the south, shall come forth the way of the gate of the north: he shall not turn back the way which he came in it, but he shall come forth opposite to it

10 And the prince in the midst of them, in their going in, shall go in; and in their going forth, his going forth.

11 And in the festivals and in the appointments the gift shall be an ephah to a bullock, and an epbah for a ram, and for the lambs the giving of his hand, and the oil, an bin to the ephah.

12 And when the prince shall do a voluntary gift of a burnt-offering or peace a voluntary gift to Jehovah, and he opened to him the gate turning to the east, and he did his burnt-offering and his peace according as he will do in the day of the Sabbath: and he went forth and shut the gate after his going forth.

13 And a blameless lamb the son of his year thou shalt do for a burnt-offering for the day to Jehovah: in the morning, by the morning, shalt thou do it

14 And thou shalt do the gift for it in the morning by the morning, the sixth of an ephah, and the oil, the third of an hin, to sprinkle the fine flour; a gift to Jehovah a law forever, continually.

15 And prepare ye the lamb and the gift, and the oil, in the morning, by the morning, a burnt-offering continually.

16 Thus said the Lord Jehovah: If the prince shall give a gift to a man of his sons, of his inheritance, it shall be to his sons; this their possession by inheritance.

17 And if he shall give a gift of his inheritance to one of his servants, and it was to him until the year of liberty; and it turned back to the prince: but his inheritance his sons'; to them it shall be.

18 And the prince shall not take of the inheritance of the people to oppress them, from their possession; from his possession he shall cause his sons to inherit, so that my people shall not be scattered each from his possession.

19 And he will bring me through the entrance which is by the shoulder of the gate, into the cells of the holy place, to the priests, turning to the north: and behold, there a place upon the two thighs of the sea.

20 And he will say to me, This the place where the priests shall boil there the trespass and the sin, where they shall cook the gift; not to bring forth to the enclosure without to consecrate the people.

21 And he will bring me forth to the enclosure without, and he will cause me to pass through to the four angles of the enclosure; and behold, an enclosure in an angle of the enclosure; an enclosure in an angle of the enclosure.

22 In the four angles of the enclosure, enclosures shut up, forty the length and thirty the breadth: one measure to these four angles.

23 And a wall round about in them, round about to them four, and boiling places made from under the walls round about 24 And he will say to me, These the house of those boiling where those serving the house shall boil there the sacrifice of the people.

EZEKIEL CHAPTER 47

1 And he will turn me back to the door of the house; and behold, waters coming forth from under the threshold of the house to the east: for the face of the house eastward, and the waters coming down from under from the right shoulder of the house, from the south to the altar.

2 And he will bring me forth the way of the gate of the north; and he will turn me round the way without to the gate without the way looking to the east; and behold, waters flowing from the right shoulder.

3 And in the going forth of the man eastward, and the line in his hand, and he will measure a thousand by the cubit, and he will cause me to pass through the waters; the waters of the soles.

4 And he will measure a thousand, and he will cause me to pass through the waters; the waters of the knees. And he will measure a thousand, and cause me to pass through; the Waters of the loins.

5 And he will measure a thousand, a torrent which I shall not be able to pass through: for the waters rose, waters of swimming, a torrent which shall not be passed through.

6 And he will say to me, Didst thou see, son of man? And he will cause me to go, and he will turn me back upon the lip of the torrent

7 In my turning back, and behold, upon the lip of the torrent very much wood from here and from them

8 And he will say to me, These waters going forth to the circuit of the east, and they went down to Arabia and came into the sea: being brought forth to the sea and the waters were healed.

9 And it was every living soul that shall creep, to all where the two torrents shall come there, shall live: and there was very many fish, because these waters came there: and they shall be healed and all lived where the torrent shall come there.

10 And it was the fisherman shall stand upon it from the fountain of the kid, even to the fountain of the two calves; they shall be a spreading for nets; their fish shall be according to its kind as the fish of the great sea very many.

11 Its marshes and its pools and they shall not be healed; they were given marshes to salt

12 And upon the torrent shall come up upon its lip, from hence and from thence, every tree of food, its leaf shall not fade, and its fruit shall not be consumed: for its months it shall bear early fruit, for its waters from the holy place they come forth: and its fruits were for food and its leaf for medicine.

13 Thus said the Lord Jehovah: This the bound by which ye shall inherit the land for the twelve tribes of Israel: Joseph two portions.

14 And ye inherited it, each as his brother: which I lifted up my hand to give it to your fathers: and this land fell to you in inheritance.

15 And this the bound of the land to the side of the north from the great sea, the way of Hethlon, to go to Zedad

16 Hamath, Berothah, Sibraim, which is between the bound of Damascus and between the bound of Hamath; the middle enclosure which is to the bound of Hauran.

17 And the bound from the sea was the enclosure of fountains, the hound of Damascus, and the north northward, and the bound of Hamath: And the side of the north.

18 And the side of the east from between Hauran and tom between Damascus, and from between Gilead and from between the land of Israel, Jordan, from the bound to the east sea shall ye measure: and the east side.

19 And the south side southward from Tamar even to the waters of contradiction in Kadesh, the torrent to the the great sea: and the south side south

20 And the side of the sea the great sea from the bound, even to over against the entrance of Hamath. This the side of the sea.

21 And ye divided that land to you for the tribes of Israel.

22 And ye shall cause it to fall in inheritance to you, and to the strangers sojourning in the midst of you, who begat sons in the midst of you: and they were to you as the nation among the sons of Israel with you they shall fall in the inheritance in the midst of the tribes of Israel.

23 And it was in the tribe which the stranger sojourned with it there shall ye give his inheritance, says the Lord Jehovah.

EZEKIEL CHAPTER 48

1 And these the names of the tribes: From the extremity north to the hand of the way of Hethlon to go to Hamath, the enclosure of the fountain, the bound of Damascus northward to the hand of Hamath, and they were to him the east side, the sea, Dan, one 2 And upon the bound of Dan from the side east even to the side of the sea, Asher, one.

3 And upon the bound of Asher from the side east even to the side of the sea, Naphtali, one.

4 And by the bound of Naphtali from the side east even to the side of the sea, Manasseh, one.

5 And upon the bound of Manasseh from the side east even to the side of the sea, Ephraim, one.

6 And upon the bound of Ephraim to the side east, even to the side of the Rea, Reuben, one.

7 And upon the bound of Reuben from the side east even to the side of the sea, Judah, one.

8 And upon the bound of Judah from the side east even to the side of the sea, shall be the oblation which ye shall lift up, five and twenty thousand the breadth, and the length as one of the portions from the side east, even to the side of the sea: and the holy place was in the midst of it

9 The oblation which ye shall lift up to Jehovah, the length, five and twenty thousand, and the breadth, ten thousand.

10 And to these shall be the holy oblation to the priests; the north, five and: twenty thousand, and to the sea, the breadth ten thousand, and eastward, the breadth ten thousand, and to the south, the length five and twenty thousand, and the holy place of Jehovah was in: the midst of it

11 To the priests being consecrated: of the sons of Zadok, who watched my watches, who went not astray in the going astray of the sons of Israel, as the Levites went astray.

12 And the oblation from the oblation of the land shall be to them holy of holies to the bound of the Levites.

13 And the Levities over against the bound of the priests, five and twenty thousand the length, and the breadth ten thousand: all the length five and twenty thousand, and the breadth ten thousand.

14 And they shall not sell from it. and it shall not be exchanged, and he shall not cause the first-fruits to pane away, for it is holy to Jehovah.

15 And the five thousand being left in the breadth upon the face of the five and twenty thousand, this profane the city for dwelling and for an area, and the city was in the midst of it.

16 And these its measures: the side north, five hundred and four thousand, and the south side five hundred and four thousand, and from the side east five hundred and four thousand, and the side of the sea, five hundred and four thousand.

17 And the area was to the city northward, fifty and two hundred, and south, fifty and two hundred, and east, fifty and two hundred, and the sea, fifty and two hundred.

18 And the remainder in the length over against the oblation of holiness, ten thousand eastward, and ten thousand to the sea: and it was over against the oblation of the holy place; and its Produce was for bread to the servants of the city.

19 And serving the city they shall serve it from all the tribes of Israel.

20 All the oblation five and twenty thousand by five and twenty thousand: four square ye shall lift up the oblation of holiness for a possession of the city.

21 And the remainder to the prince, from hence and from thence to the oblation of the holy place, and to the possession of the city at the face of five and twenty thousand of the oblation even to the bound eastward, and the sea, upon the face of five and twenty thousand upon the bound of the sea, over against the portions to the prince: and it was the oblation of holiness; and the holy place of the house in the midst of it

22 From the possession of the Levites from the possession of the city, in the midst of that to the prince, it shall be between the bound of Judah and between the bound of Benjamin, to the prince it shall be.

23 And the rest of the tribes, from the side east even to the side of the sea, Benjamin, one.

24 And upon the bound of Benjamin from the side east even to the side of the sea, Simeon, one.

25 And upon the bound of Simeon from the side east even to the side of the sea, Issachar, one.

26 And upon the bound of Issachar from the side east even to the side of the sea, Zebulon, one.

27 And upon the bound of Zebulon from the side east even to the side of the sea, Gad, one.

28 And upon the bound of Gad at the side south southward, the bound shall be from Tamar, the waters of contradiction of Kadesh, the torrent to the great sea

29 This the land which ye shall cause to fall for inheritance to the tribes of Israel, and these their portions, says the Lord Jehovah.

30 And these the goings out of the city from the side north, five hundred and four thousand the measure.

31 And the gates of the city for the names of the tribes of Israel, three gates north; the gate of Reuben, one; the gate of Judah, one; the gate of Levi, one.

32 And to the side east, five hundred and four thousand: and three gates; the gate of Joseph, one; the gate of Benjamin, one; the gate of Dan, one;

33 And the side south, five hundred and four thousand the measure: and three gates; the gate of Simeon, one; the gate of Issachar, one; the gate of Zebulon, one.

34 The side of the sea five hundred and four thousand; three gates; the gate of Gad, one; the gate of Asher, one; the gate of Naphtah, one.

35 Bound about eighteen thousand: and the name of the city from the day, Jehovah there.

THE TREI ASAR
(THE BOOK OF THE TWELVE MINOR PROPHETS)

1. THE BOOK OF THE PROPHET HOSEA
Hebrew title: Sefer Hosea

(Dated to c. 760–720 BC, The Book of Hosea (Hebrew: Sefer Hosea) is one of the oldest books of the Hebrew Bible, predating most of the Torah (Pentateuch). It is part of The Trei Asar, a book of the Hebrew Bible with 12 chapters or parts. This little biographical collection was probably made in Babylon in the years of the captivity,

Set around the fall of the Northern Kingdom of Israel, the Book of Hosea denounces the worship of gods other than Yahweh, metaphorically comparing Israel's abandonment of Yahweh to a woman being unfaithful to her husband. According to the book's narrative, the relationship between Hosea and his unfaithful wife Gomer is comparable to the relationship between Yahweh and his unfaithful people Israel. The eventual reconciliation of Hosea and Gomer is treated as a hopeful metaphor for the eventual reconciliation between Yahweh and Israel.

A brief outline of the concepts:

• Chapters 1–2; Account of Hosea's marriage with Gomer biographically which is a metaphor for the relationship with Yahweh and Israel.

• Chapter 3; Account of Hosea's marriage autobiographically. This is possibly a marriage to different women

• Chapters 4–14:9 / 14:10; Oracle judging Israel, Ephraim in particular, for not living up to the covenant.)

TREI ASAR 1, HOSEA CHAPTER 1

1 The word of Jehovah which was to Hosea son of Beeri, in the days of Uzziah, Jotham, Ahaz, Hezekiah, kings of Judah, and in the days of Jeroboam, son of Joash, king of Israel.

2 The beginning of the word of Jehovah by Hosea. And Jehovah will say to Hosea, Go, take to thee a wife of fornication and children of fornication; for the land committing fornication, will commit fornication from after Jehovah.

3 And he will go and take Gomer, daughter of Diblaim; and she will conceive and bring forth to him a son.

4 And Jehovah will say to him, Call his name Jezreel; for yet a little and I reviewed the bloods of Jezreel upon the house of Jehu, and I caused the kingdom of the house of Israel to cease.

5 And it was in that day and I broke the bow of Israel in the valley of Jezreel.

6 And she will yet conceive and bring forth a daughter. And he will say to him, Call her name, Not being compassionated: for I will no more add to compassionate the house of Israel; for taking away, I will take them away.

7 And I will compassionate the house of Judah, and I saved them by Jehovah their God, and I will not save them by bow and by sword, and by battle, by horses and by horsemen.

8 And she will wean the Not being compassionated, and she will conceive and bring forth a son.

9 And he will say; Call his name, Not my people: for ye are not my people, and I will not be to you.

10 And the number of the sons of Israel was as the sand of the sea which shall not be measured and shall not be numbered: and it was in the place which it shall be said to them, Ye are not my people, and it shall be said to them, Ye the sons of the living God.

11 And the sons of Judah and the sons of Israel were gathered together, and they appointed to them one head, and they came up out of the land: for great the day of Jezreel.

TREI ASAR 1, HOSEA CHAPTER 2

1 Say ye to your brethren, My people; and to your sisters, Being compassionated.

2 Contend with your mother, contend ye, for she is not my wife, and I not her husband: for she shall put away her fornications from her face, and her adulteries from between her breasts;

3 Lest I shall strip her naked, and I set her as the day of her birth, and I set her as a desert, and I set her as a land of dryness, and I slew her with thirst

4 And her sons I will not compassionate, for they are the sons of fornications

5 For their mother committed fornication: she conceiving them acted shamefully: for she said, I will go after those loving me giving me my bread and my water, my wool and my linen, mine oil and my drinks.

6 Therefore, behold me hedging in thy way with thorns, and I walled a wall and she shall not find her beaten paths.

7 And she pursued those loving her, and she shall not overtake them; and she sought them and she shall not find: and she said, I will go and turn back to my former husband, for it was well to me then more than now.

8 And she knew not that I gave to her grain, and new wine, and new oil. and I multiplied silver to her, and gold they made for Baal.

9 For this I will turn back and take away my grain in its time, and my new wine in its appointment, and I took away my wool and my linen to cover her nakedness.

10 And now will I uncover her wickedness before the eyes of those loving her, and a man shall not deliver her from my hand.

11 And I caused all her rejoicing to cease, her festival and her new moon, and her Sabbath and all her appointment

12 And I destroyed her vine and her fig tree, of which she said, They are wages to me which those loving me gave to me: and I set them for a forest, and the beasts of the field ate them.

13 And I reviewed upon her the days of the Baals, which she will burn incense to them, and she will be decked with her earring and her necklace, and she will go after those loving her, and she forget me, says Jehovah.

14 For this, behold, I entice her, and I caused her to go into the desert, and I spake to her heart.

15 And I gave to her her vineyards from thence, and the valley of Achor for a door of hope: and she was humbled there as the days of her youth and as the days of her coming up out of the land of Egypt

16 And it was in that day, says Jehovah, thou shalt call me, My husband; and thou shalt no more call to me, My Lord.

17 And I put away the names of the Baals out of her mouth, and they shall no more be remembered by their name.

18 And I cut out for them a covenant in that day with the beasts of the field, and with the birds of the heavens, and the creeping things of the earth: and I will break the bow and the sword and the battle out of the land, and I caused them to lie down confidently.

19 And I betrothed thee to me forever; and I betrothed thee to me in justice and in judgment, and in kindness and in compassions.

20 And I betrothed thee to me in faithfulness, and thou knewest Jehovah.

21 And it was in that day, I will answer, says Jehovah, I will answer the heavens and they shall answer the earth;

22 And the earth shall answer the grain and the new wine and the new oil; and they shall answer Jezreel.

23 And I sowed her to me in the earth; and I compassionated her Not being compassionated; and I said to Not my people, Thou my people; and they will say, My God.

TREI ASAR 1, HOSEA CHAPTER 3

1 And Jehovah will say to me, Yet go, love a woman loving evil and an adulteress, as Jehovah loves the sons of Israel, and they took to other gods and love raisin-cakes.

2 And I shall buy her to me for fifteen of silver, and an homer of barley, and a measure of barley:

3 And saying to her, Many days thou shalt well with me; and thou shalt not commit fornication, and thou shalt not be for a man: and also I am for thee.

4 For many days shall the sons of Israel dwell, not a king and not a chief and not a sacrifice and not a pillar and it one ephod and teraphim

5 Afterward the sons of Israel shall turn back and they sought Jehovah their God, and David their king; and they trembled at Jehovah and at his goodness in the last of the days.

TREI ASAR 1, HOSEA CHAPTER 4

1 Hear the word of Jehovah, ye sons of Israel: for a contention to Jehovah with the inhabitants of the land, for no truth and no kindness and no knowledge of God in the land.

2 Swearing and lying, and breaking in pieces, and stealing and committing adultery, they broke forth; and bloods touched upon bloods.

3 For this the land shall mourn, and every one in it languished with the beasts of the field and with the fowls of the heavens; and also the fish of the sea shall be taken away.

4 But a man shall not contend, and he shall not admonish a man: and my people as contending with the priest.

5 And thou wert weak in the day, and the prophet also was weak with thee by night, and I destroyed thy mother.

6 My people were cut off from not knowing: because thou didst reject knowledge and I will reject thee from being priest to me: and thou wilt forget the instructions of thy God; I will also forget thy sons, also I

7 As they multiplied so they sinned against me: I will change their glory into dishonor.

8 They will eat up the sin of my people, and they will lift up their soul to their iniquity.

9 And it was as the people so the priest: and I reviewed upon them their way; and their doings I will turn back to them.

10 For they ate and they shall not be satisfied, and they committed fornication and they shall not spread abroad: for with Jehovah they left off to watch.

11 Fornication and wine and new wine will take away the heart.

12 My people will ask in their counsel, and with their rod they will announce to them: for the spirit of fornications caused to err, and they will commit fornication from under their God.

13 Upon the heads of the mountains they will sacrifice, and upon the hills they will burn incense, under the oak and the white poplar and the terebinth, because its shadow was good: for this your daughters will commit fornication, and your brides shall commit adultery.

14 I will not review over your daughters when they shall commit fornication, and over your brides when they shall commit adultery: fur they will separate themselves with harlots, and with prostitutes will they sacrifice: and the people will not understand, they shall be thrown down.

15 If thou Israel commit fornication Judah shall not transgress; and ye shall not come to Gilgal, and ye shall not go up to the house of vanity, and ye shall not swear, Jehovah lives.

16 For as a stubborn heifer Israel was stubborn: now will Jehovah feed them as a lamb in a wide place.

17 Ephraim is joined to images: leave him.

19 The wind bound her up in her wings, and they shall be ashamed of their sacrifices

TREI ASAR 1, HOSEA CHAPTER 5

1 Hear this ye priests, and attend, ye house of Israel, and give ear, ye house of the king; for the judgment is to you, because ye were a snare to the watch tower and a net stretched out upon Tabor.

2 And the rowers made deep the slaughter, and I a correction to them all.

3 I knew Ephraim and Israel were not hid from me: for now thou didst commit fornication, O Ephraim; Israel was deified.

4 They will not give their doings to turn back to their God, for the spirit of fornication is in the midst of them, and they knew not Jehovah.

5 And the pride of Israel was humbled in his face, and Israel and Ephraim shall be weak in their iniquity; Judah also being weak with them.

6 With their sheep and with their oxen they will go to seek Jehovah; and they shall not find; he withdrew himself from them.

8 Strike the horn upon the hill, and the trumpet upon the height: make a loud noise at the house of vanity after thee, O Benjamin.

9 Ephraim shall be for desolation in the day of chastisement: in the tribes of Israel I made known the faithful thing.

10 The princes of Judah were as they removing the bound: upon them will I pour out my wrath as water.

11 Ephraim was oppressed, he was broken in judgment because he was willing to go after the command.

12 And I as a moth to Ephraim, and as rottenness to the house of Judah.

13 And Ephraim will see his disease and Judah his wound, and Ephraim will go to Assur, and he will send to king Jareb: and he will not be able to heal for you, and he will not remove from you the wound.

14 For I as the lion to Ephraim, and as the young lion to the house of Judah I, I will rend and go away; I will take away and none delivering.

15 I will go and turn back to my place, even till when they shall be guilty, and they sought my face: in straitness to them they will turn to me.

TREI ASAR 1, HOSEA CHAPTER 6

1 Go ye and we will turn back to Jehovah: for he rent and he will heal us; he will strike, and he will bind us up.

2 He will revive us after two days: in the third day he will raise us up and we shall live before him.

3 And we shall know, we shall pursue to know Jehovah: as the morning his going forth was prepared; and he shall come as the rain to us, as the latter rain, the early rain of the earth.

4 What shall I do to thee, O Ephraim? What shall I do to thee, O Judah? and your kindness as the cloud of the morning, and as the dew being early went away.

5 For this I cut off by the prophets; I slew them by the words of my mouth: and thy judgments the light going forth.

6 For I delighted in mercy and not sacrifice; the knowledge of God more than burnt-offerings.

7 And they as man passed by the covenant: there they acted faithlessly against me.

8 Gilead a city working vanity, defrauding from blood.

9 As troops waiting for a man, the company of priests will break in pieces the way with the shoulder: for they did wickedness.

10 In the house of Israel I saw something horrible: there the fornications to Ephraim, Israel was defiled.

11 Also, O Judah, he set a harvest for thee in my turning back the captivity of my people.

TREI ASAR 1, HOSEA CHAPTER 7

1 As I healed to Israel, the iniquity of Ephraim was uncovered, and the evils of Shomeron: for they did falsehood, and the thief will come in, and the troop invaded without

2 And they will not say to their heart, I remembered all their evil: now their doings surrounded them; they were before my face.

3 By their evil they will gladden the king, and the chiefs by their falsehoods.

4 All of them committing adultery, as an oven set on fire from baking; he will cease from raising from kneading the dough till its leavening.

5 The day of our king the chiefs began anger from wine; stretching forth his hand with mockers.

6 For they drew near their heart as a furnace in their lying in wait: all the night their baker slept; in the morning it burnt as the fire of flame.

7 They were all hot as a furnace, and they consumed their judges; all their kings fell: none among them calling to me.

8 Ephraim will mingle himself among my people; Ephraim was a cake not turned.

9 Strangers consumed his strength, and he knew not: also grayness of hair was sprinkled upon him, and he knew not

10 And the pride of Israel was humbled in his face: and they turned not back to Jehovah their God. and sought him not in all this

11 And Ephraim will be as an enticed dove, not a heart: they called Egypt, they went to Assur.

12 When they shall go I will spread my net upon them; as birds of the heavens I will bring them down; I will correct them when hearing to their assembly.

13 Wo! to them, for they fled from me: destruction to them because they transgressed against me: and I will redeem them and they spake falsehoods against me.

14 And they cried not to me in their heart, for they shall wail upon their beds: for corn and new wine they will assemble themselves together; they will turn aside against me..

15 And I corrected and strengthened their arms, and they will purpose evil against me.

16 They will turn back not to the Highest: they were as a bow of deceit: their chiefs shall fall by the sword from the wrath of their tongue: this their derision in the land of Egypt

TREI ASAR 1, HOSEA CHAPTER 8

1 The trumpet to thy mouth: as an eagle upon the house of Jehovah, because they passed by my covenant and they transgressed against my laws.

2 Israel shall cry to me, My God, we knew thee.

3 Israel rejected the good: the enemy shall pursue him.

4 They made kings, and not from me: and they made princes, and I knew not: their silver and their gold they made to them images to cut off.

5 Thy calf rejected, O Shomeron; mine anger was kindled against them: how long shall they not be able to be clean?

6 For from Israel, and this workman made it, and it is not God: for the calf of Shomeron shall be broken in pieces.

7 For they shall sow the wind, and they shall reap the whirlwind: no stalk to it: the sprout shall not make flour: perhaps it will make, strangers will swallow it down.

8 Israel was swallowed down: now they were among the nations as a vessel no delight in it.

9 For they went up to Assur, Ephraim a wild ass alone to himself: they hired those loving.

10 Also if they will hire among the nations, now will I gather them, and shall they be weak a little from the lifting up of the king of the princes.

11 Because Ephraim multiplied altars to sin, altars were to him to sin.

12 I will write to him his multitude of my instructions; they were reckoned as a strange thing.

13 The sacrifices of my gifts they will sacrifice flesh, and they will eat; Jehovah delighted not in them; now will he remember their iniquity, and he will review their sins: they shall turn back to Egypt

14 And Israel will forget him making him, and he will build temples; and Judah multiplied fortified cities: and I sent a fire upon his cities and it will consume its palaces.

TREI ASAR 1, HOSEA CHAPTER 9

1 Thou shalt not rejoice, O Israel; exult not as the peoples: for thou didst commit fornication from thy God; thou didst love a gift upon all the threshing-floors of grain.

2 The threshing-floor and the winepress shall not feed them, and the new wine shall fail in her.

3 They shall not dwell in the land of Jehovah; and Ephraim turned back to Egypt, and in Assur they shall eat the unclean thing.

4 They shall not pour out wine to Jehovah, and they shall not be pleasant to him: their sacrifices as the bread of sorrows to them; all eating it shall be defiled: for their bread for their soul shall not come in to the house of Jehovah.

5 What will ye do for the day of appointment, and for the day of the festival of Jehovah?

7 The days of oversight came, the days of recompense came; Israel knew: the prophet is foolish, the man of the spirit, raving, for the multitude of thine iniquity and great destruction.

8 The watchman of Ephraim with God: the prophet the snare of a fowler upon all his ways; destruction in the house of his God.

9 They made deep, they were corrupted as the days of the hill: he will remember their iniquity, he will review their sins.

10 I found Israel as grapes in the desert; as the first fruit in the fig-tree in her beginning I saw your fathers: they went to Baal-Peor, and they will separate themselves to shame, and their abominable things will be according to their love.

11 Ephraim shall fly away as a bird, their glory of birth and of the womb and of conception.

12 But if they shall bring up their sons and I bereaved them from man: but also wo to them in my departing from them.

13 Ephraim, as I saw for Tyre, was planted in a habitation: and Ephraim to bring forth his sons to him slaying.

14 Give to them, O Jehovah: what wilt thou give? give to them a miscarrying womb, and dry breasts.

15 All their wickedness in Gilgal: for there I hated them: for the evil of their doings I will drive them out from my house, I will not add to love them: all their chiefs are turning away.

16 Ephraim was smitten, their root was dried up, they shall not make fruit: also if they shall bring forth, and I destroyed the desires of their womb.

17 God will reject them, for they heard not to him: and they will be wandering about among the nations.

TREI ASAR 1, HOSEA CHAPTER 10

1 Israel an empty vine, he will place fruit to himself: according to the multitude to his fruit he multiplied to his altars; according to the goodness of his land they made good pillars.

2 Their heart was divided; now shall they be guilty: he will break down their altars, he shall lay waste their images

3 For now they will say, No king to us because we feared not Jehovah; and what shall the king do to us?

4 They spake words swearing falsehood, cutting out a covenant: and judgment broke forth as the head upon the furrows of the field

5 For the calves of the house of vanity they shall fear dwelling in Shomeron: for his people mourned over it, and his priests will exult over it, for its glory, for it was removed from it

6 Also it shall be brought to Assur a gift to king Jareb: Ephraim shall take shame, and Israel shall be ashamed of his counsel.

8 And the heights of vanity were destroyed, the sin of Israel: the thorn and weeds shall come up upon their altars; and they said to the mountains, Cover us; and to the hills, Fall upon us.

9 From the days of the hill thou didst sin, O Israel: there they stood: the battle in the hill against the sons of iniquity shall not overtake them.

10 In my coming and I shall correct them, and the peoples shall be gathered together against them in their being bound to their two sins.

11 And Ephraim a heifer being taught, loving to tread out the grain, and I passed over upon the good of her neck: I will cause Ephraim to ride; Judah shall be silent, and Jacob shall be strong to him.

12 Sow to yourselves for justice, reap ye for the mouth of kindness; break up to you the fallow ground: and the time to seek Jehovah till he shall come and cast justice upon you.

13 Ye ploughed injustice, ye reaped iniquity; ye ate the fruit of falsehood: for thou didst trust in thy way in the multitude of thy strong ones.

14 And an uproar arose among thy people, and all thy fortifications shall be laid waste, as Shaman laid waste the house of the ambush of God in the day of battle: the mother was dashed in pieces upon the sons.

15 Thus did the house of God to you from the face of the evil of your evil: in the morning the king of Israel being cut off, was cut off.

TREI ASAR 1, HOSEA CHAPTER 11

1 When Israel was a child, and I loved him, and I called for my son out of Egypt

2 They called to them, thus they went from them: they will sacrifice to the Baals, and to the carved images they will burn incense.

3 And I taught Ephraim to walk, taking them by their arms; and they knew not that I healed them.

4 I will draw them with the cords of man, with the bands of love: and I will be to them as those lifting up the yoke upon their jaw-bones, and I will gently give them to eat

5 He shall not turn back to the land of Egypt, and Assur shall be his king, for they refused to turn back.

6 And the sword was polished in his cities, and it consumed his branches, and devoured from their counsels.

7 And my people are bent to turning away from me: and they will call together to the Most High; he will not exalt them.

8 How shall I give thee up, O Ephraim? Shall I deliver thee over, O Israel? How shall I give thee as the earth? Shall I set thee as roes? My heart was turned upon me; my grievings were kindled together.

9 I will not do the burning of mine anger, I will not turn back to destroy Ephraim: for I am God, and not a man; the Holy One in the midst of thee: and I will not come into the city.

10 They shall go after Jehovah: as a lion shall he roar: for he shall roar, and the sons of the waters shall tremble.

11 They shall tremble as a bird out of Egypt, and as a dove out of the land of Assur: and I caused them to dwell in their houses, says Jehovah.

12 Ephraim surrounded me with falsehood, and the house of Israel with deceit: and Judah even ruled with God, and was faithful with the holy ones.

TREI ASAR 1, HOSEA CHAPTER 12

1 Ephraim fed upon the wind, and he pursued the east wind: all the day he multiplied falsehood and destruction; and they will cut out a covenant with Assur, and oil will be brought to Egypt

2 And a contention to Jehovah with Judah, and to review Jacob according to his ways; he will turn back to him according to his doings.

3 In the belly he circumvented his brother, and by his strength he was a leader with God.

4 And he will be a leader to the messenger, and he will prevail: he wept, and he will make supplication to him: in the house of God he will find him, and there he will speak with him.

5 And Jehovah God of armies, Jehovah his remembrance.

6 And thou, in thy God thou shalt turn back: watch mercy and judgment, and wait always for thy God.

7 Canaan in his hand, the balances of deceit: he loved to oppress.

8 And Ephraim will say, Surely I became rich, I found to me wealth: all my labors shall not be found to me iniquity which was sin.

9 And I am Jehovah thy God from the land of Egypt; I will even cause thee to dwell in tents as in the days of the appointment

10 And I spake by the prophets, and I multiplied the vision, and by the hand of the prophets I will use similitudes.

11 If Gilead nothing? Surely they were vanity: in Gilgal they sacrificed oxen; also their altars as heaps upon the furrows of the field.

12 And Jacob will flee to the field of Aram, and Israel will serve for a wife, and for a wife he watched.

13 And by a prophet Jehovah brought up Israel out of Egypt, and by a prophet he was perserved

14 Ephraim provoked bitternesses, and bloods shall fly swiftly upon him, and his reproach shall his Lord turn back to him.

TREI ASAR 1, HOSEA CHAPTER 13

1 According to the word Ephraim being terrified be was lifted up in Israel; and he will transgress in Baal and die.

2 And now they will add to sin, and they will make to them a molten image of their silver, in their understanding images the work of artificers all of it: they saying to them, The men sacrificing shall kiss the calves.

3 For this they shall be as the cloud of the morning, and as the early dew going way; as the chaff will be driven from the threshing-floor on the wind, and as the smoke from the chimney.

4 And I am Jehovah thy God from the land of Egypt, and thou shalt not know a God except me: and none saving but me.

5 I knew thee in the desert, in the land of thirst

6 According to their pasture, and they will be satiated; they were satiated, and their heart will be lifted up: for this they forgat me.

7 And I will be to them as a lion: as a panther upon the way I will look around.

8 I will fall upon them as a bear bereaved, and I will rend the enclosure of their heart, and devour them there as a lion: the beast of the field shall cleave them asunder.

9 O Israel, thou didst destroy thyself; but in me in thy help.

10 Now will I be thy king, and he shall save thee in all thy cities, and thy judges of whom thou saidst, Thou shalt give to me a king and princes.

11 I will give to thee a king in mine anger, and I will take away in my wrath.

12 The iniquity of Ephraim was bound up; his sin was concealed.

13 The pains of her bringing forth shall come to him: he a son not wise; for now he shall not stand in the breaking forth of sons.

14 From the hand of hades will I redeem them; from death will I ransom them: I will be thy words, O death, I will be thy cutting off, O hades: consolation will be hid from mine eyes.

15 If he shall bear fruit in the midst of his brethren, the east wind shall come, the wind of Jehovah came up from the desert, and his fountain shall be dried up, and he shall lay waste his place of fountains: he shall plunder the treasure of all vessels of desire.

16 Shomeron shall be guilty, for she rebelled against her God: by the sword shall they fall: their infants shall be dashed in pieces, and they having conceived shall be cleft asunder.

TREI ASAR 1, HOSEA CHAPTER 14

1 Turn back, O Israel, even to Jehovah thy God, for thou wert weak in thine iniquity.

2 Take with you words and turn back to Jehovah: say to him, Thou wilt take away all iniquity, and take good: and we will requite the fruits of our lips.

3 Assur will not save us; we will not ride upon a horse, and we will no more say, Our God, to the work of our hands, for in thee the orphan shall be compassionated.

4 I will heal their turning away, I loved them largely: for mine anger turned away from him.

5 I will be as the dew to Israel: he shall blossom as the lily and strike his roots as Lebanon.

6 His sprouts shall go, and his strength shall be as the olive tree, and the odor to him as Lebanon.

7 They sitting in his shadow shall turn back; they shall live upon the grain, and they shall blossom as the vine: his remembrance as the wine of Lebanon.

8 Ephraim: What to me yet to images? I humbled, and I will regard him: I as the green cypress From me thy fruit was found.

9 Who being wise, and he shall understand these things? and knowing, and he shall know them? for the ways of Jehovah are straight, and the just shall go in them: and they transgressing shall be weak in them.

2. THE BOOK OF THE PROPHET JOEL

Hebrew title: Sefer Joel

(The Book of Joel is part of the Hebrew Bible, one of twelve prophetic books known as the Twelve Minor Prophets. (The term indicates the short length of the text in relation to longer prophetic texts known as the Major Prophets.

The Book of Hosea is one of the books of the Hebrew Bible and of the Christian Old Testament. The book is about a man who was told by God to marry a woman who would not live with him as she should have done. Even though Hosea brought her back to his house and had some children with her, she kept leaving him and going away to other men. Hosea was told that his story was a picture of the way God's people treated God, by going after other gods (idols) even though God wanted them to stay with Him and love Him.)

TREI ASAR 2, JOEL CHAPTER 1

1 The word of Jehovah which was to Joel son of Pethuel.

2 Hear this, ye old men, and give ear, all ye inhabitants of the earth. Was this in your days, and if in the days of your fathers?

3 Concerning it recount to your sons, and your sons to their sons, and their sons to another generation.

4 The residue of the creeping locust the common locust ate; and the residue of the common locust the feeder ate; and the residue of the feeder the devourer ate.

5 Awake, ye intoxicated, and weep; and wail, all ye drinking wine, on account of the new wine, for it was cut off from your mouth.

6 For a nation came up upon my land, strong, and no number; his teeth the teeth of a lion, and a biter's teeth of the lioness to him.

7 He set my vine for destruction, and my fig tree for breaking: he stripped off its covering and cast away; and its shoots were whitened.

9 The gift was cut off and the libation from the house of Jehovah; mourn, ye priests serving Jehovah.

10 The field was laid waste, the land mourned; for the grain was laid waste, the new wine was dried up, the new oil languished.

11 The husbandmen were ashamed; wail, ye vine-dressers, for the wheat and for the barley, for the harvest of the field perished.

12 The vine was dried up, and the fig tree languished; the pomegranate, also the palm tree and the apple tree; all the trees of the field were dried up, for joy was dried up from the sons of man.

13 Be ye girded and lament, ye priests: wail, ye, serving the altar: come in, pass the night in sackcloth, ye serving God: for the gift and the libation were withheld from the house of your God.

14 Consecrate a fast., call an assembly, gather together the old men, all the inhabitants of the land to the house of Jehovah your God, and cry to Jehovah.

15 Alas! for the day: for the day of Jehovah is near, and as destruction from the Almighty shall it come.

16 Was not the food cut off before our eyes, from the house of our God, joy and gladness?

17 The kernels died beneath the clods, the treasures were laid waste, the garners were pulled down, for the grain was dried up.

18 How the beasts groaned! the herds of oxen wept, for no pasture to them; also the flocks of sheep were laid waste.

19 To thee, O Jehovah, will I call: for a fire consumed the habitations of the desert, and the flame burned all the trees of the field.

20 Also the beasts of the field will look up to thee: for the channels of waters were dried up, and the fire devoured the habitations of the desert.

TREI ASAR 2, JOEL CHAPTER 2

1 Clang ye the trumpet in Zion, shout in my holy mountain: all the inhabitants of the land shall be moved, for the day of Jehovah is coming, for it is near.

2 A day of darkness and of thick darkness; a day of cloud and gloom as the morning spread upon the mountains: great and strong people; the like to him was not from forever, and after him there shall not be added even to the years of generation and generation.

3 Before him a fire devoured, and after him a flame shall burn; the land as the garden of Eden before him, and after him a desert of desolation; and also there was no escaping to him.

4 His appearance as the appearance of horses; and as horsemen so shall they run.

5 As the voice of chariots upon the heads of the mountains they shall leap, as the voice of a flame of fire devouring the stubble, as a strong people set in order for battle.

7 They shall run as strong men; as men of war they shall come up upon the wall; and they shall go each in his ways; they shall not change their paths.

8 And they shall not thrust a man his brother; they shall go a man in his high way: and in the midst of the javelin shall they fall, they shall not be cut in pieces.

9 In the city they shall run up and down; on the wall shall they run, into the houses they shall come up, through the windows shall they come in as a thief.

10 The earth was moved before his face; the heavens trembled: the sun and the moon were darkened, and the stars took away their shining:

11 And Jehovah gave his voice before the face of his strength: for exceedingly great his camp, and strong he doing his word: for great the day of Jehovah, and exceedingly terrible; and who shall endure it?

12 And also now, says Jehovah, Turn back even to me with all your heart, and with fasting, and with weeping and with wailing.

13 And rend your heart and not your garments, and turn back to Jehovah your God: for he is merciful and compassionate, slow of anger and of much kindness, and lamenting on account of the evil.

14 Who shall know he will turn back, and lamenting and leaving a blessing after him, a gift and a libation to Jehovah your God?

16 Gather the people, consecrate the convocation, assemble the old men, gather the children and those sucking the breasts: the bridegroom shall come forth from his chamber and the bride from her nuptial couch.

17 Between the porch and to the altar the priests serving Jehovah shall weep, and they shall say, Spare, O Jehovah, thy people, and thou wilt not give thine inheritance to reproach for the nations to rule over them: wherefore shall they say among the peoples, Where is their God?

18 And Jehovah will be jealous for his land, and he will pity. for his people.

19 And Jehovah will answer and say to his people, Behold me sending to you the grain and the new wine, and the new oil; and ye were satisfied with it: and I will no more give you a reproach among the nations.

20 And the northern I will remove far off from you, and I thrust him into a land of dryness and desolation, with his face to the east sea, and his end to the last sea; and his stink came up. and his stench shall come up, for he magnified to do.

21 Thou shalt not fear, O land; rejoice and be glad, for Jehovah magnified to do.

22 Ye shall not fear, ye beasts of the field, for the pastures of the desert sprang forth, for the tree bore its fruit, the fig tree and the vine gave their strength.

23 Ye sons of Zion rejoice and be glad in Jehovah your God; for he gave to you the early rain for justice, and he will bring down to you the rain, the early and latter rain in the first.

24 And the threshing-floors were filled with grain, and the wine-vats overflowed with new wine and new oil.

25 And I requited to you the years which the common locust ate, the feeder, and the devourer, and the creeping locust, my great army which I sent among you.

26 And eating, ye ate and were satisfied, and ye praised the name of Jehovah your God who did wonderfully with you: and my people shall not be ashamed forever.

27 And ye knew that I am in the midst of Israel, and I am Jehovah your God, and none else: and my people shall not be ashamed forever.

28 And it was after this I will pour out my spirit upon all flesh; and your sons and your daughters prophesied, your old men shall dream your young men shall see visions.

29 And also upon the servants and upon the maids in those days I will pour out my spirit.

30 And I gave wonders in the heavens, and in the earth, blood and fire and pillars of smoke.

31 The sun shall be turned to darkness and the moon to blood, before the coming of the great and the terrible day of Jehovah.

32 And it was all who shall call upon the name of Jehovah shall escape: for in Mount Zion and in Jerusalem shall be an escaping, as said Jehovah; and among those left whom Jehovah called.

TREI ASAR 2, JOEL CHAPTER 3

1 For behold, in those days and in that time when I shall turn hack the captivity of Judah and Jerusalem,

2 And I gathered all nations, and I brought them down to the valley of Jehoshophat, and I contended with them there for my people and mine inheritance Israel whom they scattered among the nations, and they divided the land.

3 And for my people they cast the lot: and they will give the boy for a harlot, and they sold the girl for wine; and they will drink

4 And also what are ye to me, O Tyre and Sidon, and all the circuits of Philistia? do ye requite to me a recompense? and if ye recompense to me, swiftly and speedily I will turn back your recompense upon your head;

5 For ye took my silver and my gold, and my delights of good things ye brought to your temples.

6 And the sons of Judah and the sons of Jerusalem ye sold to the sons of the Grecians, in order to remove them far off from their border.

7 Behold me raising them up from the place where ye sold them there, and I turned back your recompense upon your head:

8 And I sold your sons and your daughters into the hand of the sons of Judah, and they sold them to the Sabeans to a nation far off: for Jehovah spake.

9 Call ye this among the nations: Consecrate war; rouse up the strong ones, they shall draw near, all the men of war shall come up.

10 Beat your plough-shares into swords, and your pruning-knives into spears: the weak shall say, I am strong.

11 Hasten and come all ye nations from round about, and be ye gathered together: there lead down, O Jehovah, thy strong ones.

12 The nations shall be roused and come up to the valley of Jehoshaphat: for there I will sit to judge all the nations from round about

13 Send ye forth the sickle, for the harvest was ripened: come ye, go down, for the wine press was filled, the vats, overflowed; for their evil is great

14 Multitudes, multitudes in the valley of judgment: for the day of Jehovah is near in the valley of judgment

15 The sun and the moon were darkened, and the stars took away their shining.

16 And Jehovah shall cry out from Zion, and from Jerusalem he shall give his voice; and the heavens and the earth trembled: and Jehovah the refuge to his people, and the fortress to the sons of Israel.

17 And ye knew that I am Jehovah your God dwelling in Zion my holy mountain: and Jerusalem was holy, and strangers shall no more pass through her.

18 And it was in that day the mountains shall drop new wine, and the hills shall flow milk, and all the channels of Judah shall flow waters, and a fountain shall come forth from the house of Jehovah, and it watered the valley of acacias.

19 Egypt shall be for a desolation, and Edom shall be for a desert of desolation from violence to the sons of Judah, because they poured out innocent blood in their land.

20 And Judah shall dwell forever, and Jerusalem to generation and generation.

21 And I cleansed their blood I cleansed not: and Jehovah dwelt in Zion (Jerusalem).

3. THE BOOK OF THE PROPHET AMOS

Hebrew title: Sefer Amos
Estimated Range of Dating: c. 790–740 B.C.

(The Book of Amos belongs to the Nevi'im (Hebrew for: "prophets") and of the third of the Twelve Minor Prophets in the Tanakh / Old Testament.

Amos lived during the time of two other prophets,Hosea and Isaiah, around 750 BC while Jeroboam II (785–745 BC) was king of Israel and Uzziah (c. 770–750 BC) was king of Judah. Amos lived in the kingdom of Judah but preached in the northern Kingdom of Israel. His major themes of social justice, God's omnipotence, and divine judgement became the main elements of his teachings.

The book of Amos is probably the oldest book of a prophet in the Bible and it has 9 chapters. Its message is harsh, but Amos wrote some of the most poetic parts of the Bible. The author (we do not know with certainty if it was Amos or one of his disciples) was not a simpleton, he was well-educated. In the first chapter, he says that God will punish many of the nations around Israel. Then in the second chapter he uses similar words to say that Judah and Israel will also be punished. The rest of the book tells the reasons for that punishment before ending with a promise that Israel would then be restored. He wrote about social justice, God's power, judgement and eventual restoration.

Structure
Oracles against the nations (1.3–2.6)
Addresses to groups in Israel
• Women of Samaria (4.1–3)
• Rich persons in Samaria (6.1–7)
• Rich persons in Jerusalem (8.4–8)
Five symbolic visions of God's judgement on Israel, interrupted by a confrontation between Amos and his listeners at Bethel (7.10–17):
• Locusts (7.1–3)
• Fire (7.4–6)
• A plumb line (7.7–9)
• A basket of fruit (8.1–3)
• God beside the altar (9.1–8a)
Epilogue 9:8b–15.)

TREI ASAR 3, AMOS CHAPTER 1

1 The words of Amos who was among the shepherds of Tekoa, which he saw concerning Israel in the days of Uzziah king of Judah, in the days of Jeroboam son of Joash king of Israel, two years before the shaking.

2 And he will say, Jehovah will cry out from Zion, and from Jerusalem he will give his voice; and the habitations of the shepherds mourned, and the head of Carmel was dried up.

3 Thus said Jehovah: For three transgressions of Damascus, and for four, I will not turn back for their threshing Gilead with threshing-sledges of iron.

4 And I sent fire into the house of Hazael, and it shall devour the palaces of the son of Hadad.

5 And I broke the bar of Damascus, and I cut off the inhabitants of the valleys of vanity, and him taking hold of the rod of the house of delight: and the people of Aram were carried away captive to a walled place said Jehovah.

6 Thus said Jehovah: For three transgressions of Gaza, and for four, I will not turn it back, for their carrying away captive the whole captivity to deliver over to Edom

7 And I sent a fire upon the walls of Gaza, and it shall devour its palaces.

8 And I cut off the inhabitants of Ashdod, and him holding the rod from Ashkelon; and I turned back my hand against Ekron: and the remnant of the rovers perished, said the Lord Jehovah.

9 Thus said Jehovah: For three transgressions of Tyre, and for four, I will not turn it back, for their delivering over the whole captivity to Edom, and they remembered not the covenant of their brethren:

10 And I sent a fire upon the walls of Tyre and it shall consume her palaces.

11 Thus said Jehovah: For three transgressions of Edom, and for four, I will not turn it back: for his pursuing his brother with the sword, and he destroyed his compassions, and his anger will rend forever, and his wrath was observed perpetually.

12 And I sent a fire upon Teman and it devoured the palaces of Bozrah.

13 Thus said Jehovah: For three transgressions of the sons of Ammon, and for four, I will not turn it back: for their cleaving asunder those conceiving of Gilead to increase their bound.

14 And I kindled a fire in the walls of Rabbah, and it devoured her palaces with a loud noise in the day of war, with a storm in the day of whirlwind:

15 And their king went into captivity, he and his chiefs together, said Jehovah.

TREI ASAR 3, AMOS CHAPTER 2

1 Thus said Jehovah: For three transgressions of Moab, and for four, I will not turn it back, for they burnt the bones of the king of Edom into lime:

2 And I will send a fire upon Moab and it devoured the palaces of the cities, and Moab died with tumult, with a loud noise and with the voice of the trumpet:

3 And I cut off the judge from the midst of her, and I will slay all her chiefs with him, said Jehovah.

4 Thus said Jehovah: For three transgressions of Judah, and for four, I will not turn it back from him, for their rejecting the instructions of Jehovah, and they watched not his laws, and their lies caused them to err which their fathers went after them.

5 And I sent a fire upon Judah, and it devoured the palaces of Jerusalem.

6 Thus said Jehovah: For three transgressions of Israel, and for four, I will not turn it back, for their selling the just one for silver and the needy for shoes;

7 Panting for the dust of the earth upon the head of the poor, and they will turn away the way of the humble: and a man and his father will go to the same young girl to profane my holy name:

8 And upon garments taken in pledge they will turn by every altar, and they will drink the wine of the amerced in the house of their God.

9 And I destroyed the Amorite from their face, whom his height as the height of the cedars, and he was strong as the oaks; and I will destroy his fruit from above and his roots from beneath.

10 And I brought you up from the land of Egypt, and I will cause you to come into the desert forty years to possess the land of the Amorite [the Semitic speaking Amurru lived in the north of Phoenicia; some Amorite conquered Babylonia in around 1900 BC; King Hammurabi was a member of the Amorite Dynasty.]

11 And I will raise up from your sons for prophets, and from your young men for Nazarites. Is it not even this, ye sons of Israel? says Jehovah.

12 And ye will give the Nazarites wine to drink; and ye commanded to the prophets, saying, Ye shall not prophesy.

13 Behold, I am pressed under you as a wagon will be pressed being filled with the sheaf to it

14 And flight perished from the swift; and the strong shall not strengthen his power, and the mighty shall not save his soul.

15 And he holding the bow shall not stand; and the swift with his feet shall not escape: and he riding the horse shall not save his soul.

16 And he strong of heart among the mighty shall flee away naked in that day, says Jehovah.

TREI ASAR 3, AMOS CHAPTER 3

1 Hear this word which Jehovah spake against you, ye sons of Israel, against all the family which I brought up from the land of Egypt, saying,

2 You only did I know from all the families of the earth: for this I will review over you all your iniquities.

3 Shall two go together if they met not by appointment?

4 Will the lion roar in the forest and not tearing in pieces for him? will the young lion give his voice from his cave if he took nothing?

5 Will the bird fall upon the snare of the earth and no noose for her? shall a snare be brought up from the earth and a taking shall not be taken?

6 If the trumpet shall be struck in the city and the people not be terrified? if evil shall be in the city and Jehovah did not?

7 For the Lord Jehovah will not do a word but he will uncover his secret to his servants the prophets.

8 The lion roared, who shall not be afraid? the Lord Jehovah spake, who shall not prophesy?

9 Cause to be heard upon the palaces in Ashdod, and upon the palaces in the land of Egypt, and say, Be ye gathered together upon the mountains of Shomeron, and see the great tumults in the midst of her, and the oppressed in the midst of her.

10 And they knew not to do the straight, says Jehovah, storing up violence and oppression in their palaces.

11 For this, thus said the Lord Jehovah: An adversary and round about the land; and he brought down thy strength from thee, and thy palaces were plundered.

12 Thus said Jehovah: As the shepherd will deliver from the mouth of the lion two legs, and part of an ear, thus shall the sons of Israel be delivered dwelling in Shomeron in the extremity of a tribe, or in Damascus under a roof.

13 Hear ye, and testify in the house of Jacob, says the Lord Jehovah, God of armies.

14 For in the day of my reviewing the transgressions of Israel upon him, and reviewed upon the altars of the house of God: and the horns of the altar were broken, and they fell to the earth.

15 And I struck the house of autumn with the house of summer; and the houses of ivory perished, and the great houses were taken away, says Jehovah.

TREI ASAR 3, AMOS CHAPTER 4

1 Hear this word, ye heifers of Bashan, which are upon the mountain of Shomeron, oppressing the poor, breaking in pieces the needy, saying to their lords, Bring, and we will drink.

2 The Lord Jehovah sware by his holiness, that behold, the days coming upon you and he took you away with hooks, and your last part with thorns of the fish.

3 And ye shall go forth at the breaches, a woman before her; and ye cast to the fortress, says Jehovah.

4 Come to the house of God and transgress: at Gilgal multiply to transgress; and bring your sacrifices for the morning, your tenths for three days:

5 And burn incense from leaven, a thanksgiving, and call; cause the free will offerings to be heard: for thus ye loved ye sons of Israel, says the Lord Jehovah.

6 And also I gave to you cleanness of teeth in all your cities, and want of bread in all your places: and ye turned not back even to me, says Jehovah.

7 And I withheld from you the rain in yet three months to harvest: and I caused to rain upon one city, and upon one city I will not cause to rain: and one portion shall be rained upon, and the portion which shall not be rained upon, it shall dry up.

8 And two, three cities wandered about to one city to drink water, and they will not be satisfied: and they turned not back even to me, says Jehovah.

9 I struck you with blasting and with yellowness: the multitudes of your gardens and your vineyards and your fig-trees and your olives the creeping locust shall eat: and ye turned not back even to me, says Jehovah.

10 And I sent death among you in the way of Egypt: and I slew your young men with the sword, with the captivity of your horses; and I will bring up your camps with fire and in your anger, and ye turned not back even to me, says Jehovah.

11 I overthrew among you as God overthrows Sodom and Gomorrah, and ye shall be as a fire-brand snatched from the burning: and ye turned not back even to me, says Jehovah.

12 For this, thus will I do to thee, O Israel: because that I will do this to thee, prepare to meet thy God, O Israel.

13 For behold, he forming the mountains and creating the wind, and announcing to man his meditation, making the morning darkness and treading upon the heights of the earth, Jehovah, God of armies his name.

TREI ASAR 3, AMOS CHAPTER 5

1 Hear ye this word which I lift up to you, a lamentation, O house of Israel.

2 The virgin of Israel fell; she shall not add to rise: she was cast out upon her land; none raising her up.

3 For thus said the Lord Jehovah: The city going out a thousand shall leave an hundred, and going out a hundred shall leave ten to the house of Israel.

4 For thus said Jehovah to the house of Israel: Seek ye me and live:

5 And ye shall not seek the house of God, and to Gilgal ye shall not go: and to the well of the oath ye shall not pass over: for Gilgal being taken captive shall be carried away captive, and the house of God shall be for nothing.

6 Seek ye Jehovah and live, lest he shall break through the house of Joseph as fire, and devour, and none quenching to the house of God.

7 Turning judgment to wormwood and they put down justice in the earth.

8 He made the seven stars and Orion, and he turned the shadow of death to the morning, and he darkened the day to night: calling to the water of the sea, and he will pour them out upon the face of the earth: Jehovah his name:

9 Causing desolation to shine forth upon the strong one and desolation shall come against the fortress.

11 For this, because of your treading upon the poor one, and ye will take away the liftings up of wheat from him: ye built houses of hewn stone, and ye shall not dwell in them; ye planted vineyards of desire and ye shall not drink their wine.

12 For I knew your many transgressions, and your strong sins: pressing upon the just, taking a ransom, and they turned away the needy in the gate

13 For this the prudent one shall be silent in that time, for it is an evil time.

14 Seek good and not evil, so that ye shall live: and so Jehovah God of armies shall be with you as ye said.

15 Hate evil and love good, and set ye judgment in the gate: perhaps Jehovah God of armies will compassionate the remnant of Joseph.

16 For this, thus said Jehovah God of armies, the Lord: In all your broad places, wailing; and in all the streets they shall say, Wo! wo! and they called to the husbandman to mourning, and wailing to all knowing lamentation.

17 And in all vineyards, wailing: for I will pass through in the midst of thee, said Jehovah.

18 Wo! to you longing for the day of Jehovah; for what this to you? The day of Jehovah this is darkness and not light

19 According as a man will flee from the face of the lion and the bear struck upon him, and he came into the house and leaned his hand upon the wall, and the serpent bit him.

20 Shall not the day of Jehovah be darkness and not light? and dark and no shining to it?

21 I hated, I rejected your festivals, and I will not smell in your assemblies.

22 For if ye shall bring up to me burnt-offerirgs, and your gifts, I will not delight; and I will not look upon the peace-offerings of your fatlings.

23 Remove from me the noise of thy songs; for I will not hear the music of thy lyres.

25 Did ye bring near to me sacrifices and gifts in the desert forty years, O house of Israel?

26 Ye lifted up the tent of your king and the statue of your images, the star of your God which he made for you.

27 And I caused you to be carried away captive farther off than Damascus, said Jehovah, God of armies his name.

TREI ASAR 3, AMOS CHAPTER 6

1 Wo! to those living at ease in Zion, and trusting in the mountain of Shomeron, being distinguished the chief of the nations, and to them the house of Israel came.

2 Pass through Calneh, and see; and go ye from thence to Hamath the great: and go down to the wine-press of the rovers: are they good above these kingdoms? or their bound great above your bound?

3 Extending to the evil day, and ye will bring near the seat of violence;

4 Lying upon beds of ivory, and stretching out upon their couches, and eating the lambs from the flock, and the calves from the midst of the stall.

5 Prating upon the mouth of the lyre, as David they invented to them instruments of music;

6 Drinking wine in vases, and they will anoint with the chief of ointments: and they were not grieved for the breaking of Joseph.

7 For this now shall they be carried away captive with the head of those carried away captive, and the shouting a those poured forth was removed.

8 The Lord Jehovah sware by his soul, says Jehovah God of armies: I abhor the pride of Jacob and I hated his palaces: and I delivered up the city and its fulness.

9 And it was if there shall remain ten men in one house, and they died.

10 And his friend lifted him up, and he burning him, and bringing forth the bones out of the house, and he said to him by the sides of the house: Yet with thee? And he said, No more. And he said, Silence: for not to make mention of the name of Jehovah.

11 For behold, Jehovah commands, and he struck the great house with breaches, and the small house with clefts.

12 Shall horses run upon the rock? will he plough with oxen? for ye turned judgment to poison and the fruit of justice to wormwood.

13 Rejoicing to no word, saying, Did we not take horns by our strength?

14 For behold, I raise up against you, O house of Israel, says Jehovah God of armies, a nation; and they pressed you from the entrance of Hamath, even to the torrent of the sterile region.

TREI ASAR 3, AMOS CHAPTER 7

1 Thus the Lord Jehovah caused me to see; and behold, he will form locusts in the beginning of the coming up of the latter grass; and behold, the latter grass after the moorings of the king.

2 And it was if he finished to devour the green herb of the land, and saying, O Lord Jehovah, forgive now: who shall raise up Jacob? for he is small.

3 Jehovah lamented for this: It shall not be, said Jehovah.

4 Thus the Lord Jehovah caused me to see: and behold, the Lord Jehovah called to contend with fire, and it will devour the great deep, and devoured the portion.

5 And saying, O Lord Jehovah, cease now: who shall cause Jacob to rise? for he is small.

6 Jehovah lamented for this: Also this shall not be, said the Lord Jehovah.

7 Thus he caused me to see: and behold, Jehovah stood upon a wall of lead, and lead in his hand.

8 And Jehovah will say to me, What seest thou, Amos? And saying, Lead. And Jehovah will say to me: Behold me setting lead in the midst of my people Israel: I will no more add to pass by to him.

9 And the heights of Isaak were made desolate, and the holy places of Israel shall be laid waste; and I rose up against the house of Jeroboam with the sword.

10 And Amaziah priest of the house of God, will send to Jeroboam, kind of Israel, saying, Amos conspired against thee in the midst of the house of Israel: the land will not be able to endure all his words.

11 For thus said Amos: Jeroboam shall die by the sword, and Israel being taken captive shall be carried away captive from his land.

12 And Amaziah will say to Amos, Thou seer, go flee for thyself to the land of Judah, and eat there bread, and there shalt thou prophesy.

13 And thou shalt no more add to prophesy in the house of God, for it is the king's holy place, and it is the house of the kingdom.

Copyright © 2026 by Lord Henfield, Guildford Scientific Press

14 And Amos will answer and say to Amaziah, I am no prophet, and I not the son of a prophet; for I a herdsman, and gathering figs of the sycamores.

15 And Jehovah will take me from after the sheep, and Jehovah will say to me, Go prophesy to my people Israel.

16 And now hear the word of Jehovah: Thou sayest thou shalt not prophesy against Israel, and thou shalt not drop against the house of Isaak.

17 For this, thus said Jehovah: Thy wife shall commit fornication in the city, and thy sons and thy daughters shall fall by the sword, and thy land shall be divided by line, and thou shalt die upon a polluted land: and Israel being taken captive shall be carried into captivity from his land.

TREI ASAR 3, AMOS CHAPTER 8

1 Thus the Lord Jehovah caused me to see: and behold, a basket of fruit.

2 And he will say, Amos, what seest thou? And saying, A basket of fruit. And Jehovah will say to me: The end came upon my people Israel; I will no more add to pass by to him.

3 The songs of the temple wailed in that day, says the Lord Jehovah; many a corpse in every place being cast forth: silence.

4 Hear this, ye, panting after the needy, to cause the humble of the, land to cease.

5 Saying, When will the month pass through, and we will sell grain? and the Sabbath, and we will open wheat to diminish the ephah, and to enlarge the shekel, and to make crooked the balance of deceit?

6 To buy the poor with silver, and the needy for shoes; and we will sell the refuse of the grain.

7 Jehovah sware by the pride of Jacob, If I will forget forever all their works.

8 For this shall not the land be moved, and all dwelling in it, mourn? And it came up all of it as a river; and it was driven out and watered as the river of Egypt

9 And it was in that day, says the Lord Jehovah, I caused the sun to set at noon, and I darkened the light to the earth in that day:

10 And turned your festivals into mourning, and all your songs to lamentation; and I brought up sackcloth upon all loins, and upon every head, baldness; and I set it as the mourning of an only one, and its last part as a day of bitterness.

11 Behold, the days coming, says the Lord Jehovah, and I sent famine into the land; not a faniine for bread, and not a thirst for water, but for hearing the words of Jehovah.

12 And they wandered from sea even to sea, and from the north and even to the sunrising, they shall run up and down to seek the word of Jehovah and they shall not find.

13 In that day the fair virgins shall faint, and the young men, for thirst.

14 They swearing by the trespass of Shomeron, and they said, Thy God lives, O Dan, and the way of the well of the oath lives, and they fell, and they shall rise no more.

TREI ASAR 3, AMOS CHAPTER 9

1 I saw Jehovah standing upon the altar: and he will say, Strike the crown, and the thresholds shall tremble: and dash them in pieces upon the head of them all; and the last of them I will slay with the sword: the fleeing to them shall not flee, and he escaping to them shall not escape.

2 If they shall break through into hades, from thence shall my hand take them; and if they shall go up to the heavens, from thence I will bring them down.

3 And if they shall hide in the head of Carmel, from thence will I search and take them; and if they shall be concealed from before mine eyes in the bottom of the sea, from thence I will command the serpent, and he bit them.

4 If they shall go into captivity before the face of their enemies, from thence I will command the sword and it slew them: and I set mine eyes upon them for evil and not for good.

5 And the Lord Jehovah of armies touching upon the land, and it shall melt, and all dwelling in it mourned: and it came up as a river all of it, and it was overflowed as the river of Egypt.

6 He building his ascents in the heavens, and founding his arches upon the earth; he calling to the waters of the sea, and he will pour them forth upon the face of the earth: Jehovah his name.

7 Are ye not as the sons of the Cushites to me, O sons of Israel? says Jehovah. Did I not bring up Israel out of the land of Egypt? and the rovers from Caphtor, and Aram from Kir?

8 Behold, the eyes of the Lord Jehovah upon the sinning kingdom, and I destroyed it from the face of the earth; only that destroying, I will not destroy the house of Jacob, says Jehovah.

9 For behold, I command, and I caused the house of Israel to move to and fro among all nations as it will move to and fro in a sieve, and a stone shall not fall to the earth.

10 By the sword shall all sinning of my people die, saying, It shall not draw near, and the evil shall not cleave about us.

11 In that day I will raise up the tent of David having fallen, and I walled in their breaches, and I will raise up its destructions, and I built it as the days of old:

12 So that they shall possess the remnant of Edom, and all the nations which my name was called upon them, says Jehovah doing this

13 Behold, the days coming, says Jehovah, the ploughing touched upon the harvesting, and the treading of grapes upon the drawing of the seed; and the mountains dropped new wine, and all the hills shall melt.

14 And I turned back the captivity of my people Israel, and they built the cities laid waste, and they inhabited; and they planted vineyards, and they drank their wine; and they made gardens and ate their fruit

15 And I planted them upon their land, and they shall no more be plucked up from their land which I gave to them, said Jehovah thy God.

4. THE BOOK OF THE PROPHET OBADIAH

Hebrew title: Sefer Ovadyah
Estimated Range of Dating: 7th to 6th centuries B.C.

(The book of Obadiah is based on a prophetic vision concerning the fall of Edom,[verse 1,4,18] a mountain dwelling nation[v.8,9,19,21] whose founding father was Esau [v.6][Genesis 36:9]. The text consists of a single chapter, divided into 21 verses, making it the shortest book in the Hebrew Bible. The text of Obadiah is most interesting as it bears witness to the animosities Hebrews and Arabs feel to one another from very early times onwards.

Obadiah describes an encounter with God, who addresses Edom's arrogance and charges them for their violent actions against their brother nation, the House of Jacob (Israel)[v.10]. Edom (also called Idumaea) refers to an Arabic tribe that ruled the region which the Romans knew under the name Arabia Petraea, meaning Arabia whose capital was the City of Petra. The western half of ancient Edom is the Negev desert all the way to Eilat, all part of modern Israel. The eastern half is possessed by the Hashemite kingdom of Jordan.

The historian Tovma (Thomas) Artsruni, who began writing History sometime in the 870s, uses the name "Mecca" or "Makka" for the ancient City of "Petra" (city of rocks) when he writes about Mohammed [who was a Hashemite]: "At that time, in a place of Petrea Arabia Pharan, named Makka - The Mecca - he showed himself to brothers bandits, warriors and band chiefs, who were worshiping in a temple the idols of Ammonites, Samam and Kabar." (Brosset, 1894, Livre II, 4. Pg 89).

Throughout most of the history of Judah, Edom was controlled absolutely from Jerusalem as a vassal state. Among the region's great powers, Edom was held in low regard, probably due to the different Arabic lifestyle which was more adapted to desert and mountains than to life in cities. Obadiah said that the high elevation of their dwelling place in the mountains of Seir had gone to their head, and they had puffed themselves up in pride. "'Though thou exalt thyself as the eagle, and though thou set thy nest among the stars, thence will I bring thee down', saith the Lord." (Obadiah 1:4).

In 597 BC, Nebuchadnezzar II sacked Jerusalem, carted away the King of Judah, and installed a puppet ruler. The Edomites helped the Babylonians loot the city. Obadiah, writing this prophecy around 590 BC, suggests the Edomites should have remembered that blood was thicker than water. "In the day that thou stoodest on the other side, in the day that the strangers carried away captive his forces, and foreigners entered into his gates, and cast lots upon Jerusalem, even thou wast as one of them [Obadiah 1:11]." Obadiah said in judgement God would wipe out the house of Esau forever, and not even a remnant would remain. The Edomites' land would be possessed by Egypt and they would cease to exist as a people. But the Day of the Lord was at hand for all nations, and someday the children of Israel would return from their exile and possess the land of Edom.

The following text talks about Israel's relations to the Zoroastrian Persians whose religion also was monotheistic. It goes: "And the captivity of this host of the children of Israel shall possess that of the Canaanites, even unto Zarephath [the ancient Phoenician City of Sarepta, now Sarafand, Lebanon]; and the captivity of Jerusalem, which is in Sepharad [the modern Bijar area in northwestern Iran], shall possess the cities of the south."

Both, Zarephath and Sepharad, were part of the Median Empire or Median Dynasty of Persia [Madai] that was in power between c. 678 BC and 549 BC. The Medes had an ancient Iranian religion (a form of pre-Zoroastrian Mazdaism or Mithra worshipping) with a priesthood named as "Magi" [from which we got our word 'magician'. A magus was a 'wise or learned man']. Later, during the reigns of the last Median kings, the reforms of Zoroaster spread into western Iran. Through the Israelite-Persian relatinships, Zoroastrian philosophy entered also Judaism.

Scriptural parallels: The exact expression "the Day of the Lord", from Obadiah 1:15, has been used by other authors throughout the Old and New Testaments, as follows:

Old Testament: Isaiah 2,13, 34, 58, Jeremiah 46:10, Lamentations 2:22, Ezekiel 13:5, Joel 1, 2, 3, Amos 5:18, 5:20, Zephaniah 1, 2, Zechariah 14:1, Malachi 4:5

New Testament: 1 Thessalonians 5:2, 2 Peter 3:10, Acts 2:20, 1 Corinthians 5:5, 2 Corinthians 1:14

For other parallels, compare Obadiah 1:1–8 with Jeremiah 49:7–16.)

TREI ASAR 4, OBADIAH CHAPTER 1

1 The vision of Obadiah. Thus said the Lord Jehovah to Edom: We heard a report from Jehovah, a messenger was sent among the nations; arise ye, and we will rise up against her for war.

2 Behold, I gave thee small among the nations: thou being greatly despised.

3 The pride of thy heart deceived thee, dwelling in the refuges of the rock, the height his seat; he said in his heart, Who shall bring me down to the earth?

4 If thou shalt exalt as the eagle, and set thy nest between the stars, from thence will I bring thee down, says Jehovah.

5 If thieves came to thee, if those laying waste by night, (how thou wert destroyed!) will not they steal their sufficiency? If the grape gatherers came to thee will they not leave gleanings?

6 How were they of Esau sought out! His hidden things were sought out

7 All the men of thy covenant sent thee even to the bound: the men of thy peace deceived thee, they prevailed against thee; they set thy bread a snare under thee: no understanding in him.

8 Was it not in that day, says Jehovah, and I destroyed the wise out of Edom, and understanding from mount Esau?

9 And thy strong ones were terrified, O Teman, so that each shall be cut off from mount Esau from slaughter.

11 In the day of thy standing from before, in the day of the strangers carrying away captive his strength, and foreigners came into his gate, and upon Jerusalem they cast the lot, also thou as one of them.

12 And thou shalt not look upon thy brother in the day of his calamity, and thou shalt not rejoice to the sons of Judah in the day of their perishing, and thou shalt not magnify thy mouth in the day of straits.

13 Thou shalt not come in to the gate of my people in the day of their misfortune; also thou shalt not look upon his evil in the day of his misfortune, and thou shalt not stretch forth upon his wealth in the day of his misfortune

14 Thou shalt not stand upon the fork of the roads to cut off those of his escaping; and thou shalt not deliver up those remaining of his in the day of straits.

15 For the day of Jehovah is near upon all the nations: as thou didst, it shall be done to thee: thy recompense shall turn back upon thy head.

16 For as thou didst drink upon my holy mountain, all the nations shall drink continually, and they drank and they swallowed down, and they were as they not being.

17 And in mount Zion shall be an escaping and there was holiness; and the house of Jacob shall possess their possessions.

18 And the house of Jacob was a fire, and the house of Joseph for a flame, and the house of Esau for straw; and they burned in them, and they devoured them; and a survivor shall not be to the house of Esau, for Jehovah spake.

19 And they of the south shall possess mount Esau, and of the low country, the rovers: and they shall possess the field of Ephraim, and the field of Shomeron: and Benjamin, Gilead

20 And the captivity of this beginning to the sons of Israel, that of the Canaanites even to Zarephath; and the captivity of Jerusalem which is in Sepharad shall possess the cities of the south.

21 And survivors came up into mount Zion to judge the mount Esau; and the kingdom was to Jehovah.

5. THE BOOK OF THE PROPHET JONAH

Hebrew title: Sefer Yonah
Estimated Range of Dating: 5th century B.C.

(The Book of Jonah is a book of the Nevi'im ("Prophets") in the Hebrew Bible. It tells of a Hebrew prophet named Jonah son of Amittai who is sent by God to prophesy the destruction of Nineveh but tries to escape the divine mission. Set in the reign of Jeroboam II (786–746 BC), it was probably written in the post-exilic period, some time between the late 5th to early 4th century BC. The story has a long interpretive history and has become well known through popular children's stories. In Judaism, it is the Haftarah portion read during the afternoon of Yom Kippur to instill reflection on God's willingness to forgive those who repent; it remains a popular story among Christians. It is also retold in the Koran.

Unlike the other Prophets, the book of Jonah is almost entirely narrative, with the exception of the poem in chapter 2. The actual prophetic word against Nineveh is given only in passing through the narrative. As with any good narrative, the story of Jonah has a setting, characters, a plot, and themes. It also relies heavily on such literary devices as irony, satire, and allusion as a device of deception. As it deals with the anger and scorn of conquered people, it is also highly political.

Outline:

1. Jonah Flees His Mission (chapters 1–2)
• Jonah's Commission and Flight (1:1–3)
• Endangered 'Sailors' (citizens) Cry to Their gods (1:4–6)
• Jonah's Disobedience Exposed (1:7–10)
• Jonah's punishment and Deliverance (1:11–2:1;2:10)
• His Prayer of Thanksgiving (2:2–9)
2. Jonah Reluctantly fulfills His Mission (chapters 3–4)
• Jonah's Renewed Commission and Obedience (3:1–4)
• Endangered Ninevites Repentant Appeal to God (3:4–9)
• The Ninevites' Repentance Acknowledged (3:10–4:4)
• Jonah's Deliverance and Rebuke (4:5–11)

Jonah is the central character in the Book of Jonah, in which God commands him to go to the city of Nineveh to prophesy against it "for their great wickedness is come up before me," but Jonah instead attempts to flee from "the presence of the Lord" by going to Jaffa and sailing to Tarshish. A huge storm arises and the sailors, realising that it is no ordinary storm, cast lots and discover that Jonah is to blame. Jonah admits this and states that if he is thrown overboard, the storm will cease. The sailors refuse to do this and continue rowing, but all their efforts fail and they are eventually forced to throw Jonah overboard. As a result, the storm calms and the sailors then offer sacrifices to God. Jonah is miraculously saved by being swallowed by a large fish, in whose belly he spends three days and three nights. While in the great fish, Jonah prays to God in his affliction* and commits to thanksgiving and to paying what he has vowed. God then commands the fish to vomit Jonah out.

[Tarshish, Phoenician and Hebrew: t-r-s-s, Tarsis, occurs in the Hebrew Bible most frequently as a place name that could be reached by crossing the sea from Phoenicia (modern Lebanon) and the Land of Israel. Titus Flavius Josephus clearly identifies "Tarshush" in his Jewish Antiquities (Antiquitates Iudaicae i. 6, § 1) as the City of Tarsus in southern Asia Minor (modern Turkey), which some have later equated with the Tarsisi mentioned in Assyrian records from the reign of Esarhaddon. It was the hometown of Saul of Tarsos, better known as Paul the Apostle.*

Tarsus is first mentioned as Tarsisi in Neo-Assyrian [911 and 609 BC] records of the campaigns of Esarhaddon, as well as several times in the records of Shalmaneser I and Sennacherib, the latter having the city rebuilt. The city may have been of Semitic origin or was founded by Semites again. Legends seem to confirm that: Japheth (Hebrew: Yepet, Greek: Iapheth; Latin: Iapetus), is one of the three sons of Noah in the Book of Genesis. Through his son Javan, he got his grandson Tarshish. Stephanus of Byzantium quotes Athenodorus of Tarsus as relating another legend: Anchiale, daughter of Iapetus [Japheth] and sister of Javan, founded Anchiale (a city near Tarsus): her son Cydnus gave his name to the River Cydnus (today: River Berdan, sometimes called River Tarsos) at Tarsus. The son of Cydnus was Parthenius, from whom the city was called Parthenia: afterwards the name was changed to Tarshish, after Cydnus' cousin. And today that is Tarsus.]

The question why Jonah took the route to Niniveh via Tarsos becomes clear only at a second glance. It may well have been safer as he did not need to cross the Syrian Desert but could join a caravan from its starting point in Tarsos to the main eastbound trading road that led him through the 'Fertile Crescent' directly to the River Tigris. From there he went south on a river boat directly to Niniveh. This journey would have lasted only a few days.

Generations of Bible readers wondered what the story with the fish mean. The name of the great city itself is the solution to this riddle. The city name "Niniveh" comes from the Akkadian word "Ninua" (or Nina). The cuneiform character for 'Nina' means "fish in a house" or the "Great Fish". In Aramaic, the common language of Israel and Judaea, "Nuna" means "fish" as well. So "Niniveh" is the "Place of Fish" or the "Great City of Fish". We deal here with a marvellous allusion. When Jonah is swallowed by a large fish, in whose belly he spends three days and three nights, it means nothing else but that he enters Niniveh, stays for three days, and is finally thrown out; may be because of the trouble he has made. The author might have been compelled to compose this allusion in order to protect his readers from the Assyrian authorities in Israel and Judah who also could read the story.

The significance of Niniveh cannot be overestimated. The City of Nineveh (Akkadian: Uru Ninua) was an ancient Assyrian city of Upper Mesopotamia, located on the eastern bank of the Tigris River, near the outskirts of modern-day Mosul in northern Iraq. It was the capital of the Neo-Assyrian Empire. In fact, at that time it was the largest city in the world for approximately fifty years until the year 612 BC when, after a bitter period of civil war in Assyria, it was sacked by a coalition of its former subject peoples, the Babylonians, Medes, Chaldeans, Persians, Scythians and Cimmerians. The Israelites might have taken part in that raid as the Kingdom of Israel was destroyed around 720 BC, when it was conquered by the Neo-Assyrian Empire.

At this time, the total area of Nineveh comprised about 7 square kilometres (1,730 acres), and fifteen great gates penetrated its walls. An elaborate system of eighteen canals brought water from the hills to Nineveh, and several sections of a magnificently constructed aqueduct erected by Sennacherib were discovered at Jerwan, about 65 kilometres (40 mi) distant. Archaeologist found the palace which has overall dimensions of about 503 by 242 metres (1,650 ft × 794 ft) and was built on a massive limestone platform 22m (70 ft) high. In total, the foundation is made of roughly 2,680,000 cubic metres (3,505,308 cu yd) of brick (approximately 160 million bricks). The walls on top, made out of mud brick, were an additional 20 metres (66 ft) tall. The enclosed area of the city had between 100,000 and 150,000 inhabitants, about twice as many as Babylon at the time, placing it among the largest settlements worldwide. And Jonah confirms it: "Then said the LORD, Thou hast had pity on the gourd, for the which thou hast not laboured, neither madest it grow; which came up in a night, and perished in a night: 11And should not I spare Nineveh, that great city, wherein are more than sixscore thousand persons that cannot discern between their right hand and their left hand; and also much cattle?" [A score is 20; 6 x 20 = 120; 1,000 x 120 = 120,000 inhabitants.]

The stone carvings found in Niniveh tell the story of the Assyrian conquest in shocking details. In the inscriptions, King Sennacherib boasted of his conquests. He wrote of Babylon: "Its inhabitants, young and old, I did not spare, and with their corpses I filled the streets of the city." A full and characteristic set shows the campaign leading up to the siege of Lachish in 701; it is the "finest" from the reign of Sennacherib, and now in the British Museum. He later wrote about a battle in Lachish: "And Hezekiah of Judah who had not submitted to my yoke ... him I shut up in Jerusalem his royal city like a caged bird. Earthworks I threw up against him, and anyone coming out of his city gate I made pay for his crime. His cities which I had plundered I had cut off from his land." No wonder that the Jews were angry and the author of this book casted their anger into a masterpiece of world literature.)

TREI ASAR 5, JONAH CHAPTER 1

1 And the word of Jehovah shall be to Jonah, son of Amittai, saying,

2 Arise, go to Nineveh, the great city, and call against it; for their evil came up before me.

3 And Jonah will rise up to flee to Tarshish from the face of Jehovah, and he will go down to Joppa; and he will find a ship going to Tarshish, and be will give his hire, and he will go down in it to go with them to Tarshish from the face of Jehovah.

4 And Jehovah cast down a great wind upon the sea, and there will be a great storm upon the sea, and the ship was thought to be broken.

5 And the seamen will fear, and they will cry each to his God, and they cast down the vessels which were in the ship into the sea to lighten from them. And Jonah went down to the sides of the ship, and he will lie down and snore.

6 And the chief sailor will draw near to him and say to him, What to thee, thou snoring? Arise, and call to thy God; perhaps thy God will work for us and we shall not perish.

7 And they will say each to his neighbor, Come, and we will cast the lot, and we shall know for the retributions of this evil to us. And they will cast lots, and the lot will fall upon Jonah.

8 And they will say to him, Announce now to us, on account of whom is this evil to us? what thy work? and from whence wilt thou come? what thy land? and from what people art thou?

9 And he will say to them, I an Hebrew; and I feared Jehovah God of the heavens, who made the sea and the dry land.

10 And the men will fear a great fear, and they will say to him, What this thou didst? For the men knew that he fled from the face of Jehovah, for he announced to them.

11 And they will say to him, What shall we do to thee and the sea shall subside from you? For the sea went and tossed about 12 And he will say to them, Lift me up and cast me down to the sea, and the sea will subside from you: For I shall know on my account this great storm is upon you.

13 And the men will break through to turn back to the dry land, and they will not be able, for the sea went and tossed about against them.

14 And they will call to Jehovah, and say, Ah, now, O Jehovah, not now shall we perish for the soul of this man, and thou wilt not give upon us innocent blood: for thou Jehovah didst as thou pleased.

15 And they will lift up Jonah and cast him down into the sea: and the sea will stand from its foam.

16 And the men feared Jehovah with great fear, and they will sacrifice a sacrifice to Jehovah, and they will vow vows.

17 And Jehovah will prepare a great fish to swallow down Jonah: and Jonah will be in-the bowels of the fish three days and three nights.

TREI ASAR 5, JONAH CHAPTER 2

1 And Jonah will pray to Jehovah his God from the bowels of the fish,

2 And he will say, I called out of straits to me to Jehovah, and he will answer me; from the belly of hades I cried for help, thou heardest my voice.

3 And thou wilt cast me into the depth, into the heart of the seas; and the river will surround me: all thy breakers and thy waves passed over me.

4 And I said, I was driven from before thine eyes; yet I shall add to look to thy holy temple.

5 The waters encompassed me even to the soul: the deep will surround me, the sedge was bound to my head.

6 I shall go down to the cuttings off of the mountains; the earth, her bars about me forever: and thou wilt bring up my life from corruption, O Jehovah my God.

7 In my soul fainting upon me I remembered Jehovah: and my prayers will come in to thee to thy holy temple.

8 They watching the vanities of falsehood will forsake their kindness.

9 And I will sacrifice to thee with the voice of praise; what I vowed I will requite. Salvation is to Jehovah.

10 And Jehovah will say to the fish, and he will vomit forth Jonah upon the dry land.

TREI ASAR 5, JONAH CHAPTER 3

1 And the word of Jehovah will be to Jonah the second time, saying,

2 Arise, go to Nineveh the great city, and call to it the calling which I speak to thee.

3 And Jonah will rise and go to Nineveh according to the word of Jehovah. And Nineveh was a great city to God, the going of three days.

4 And Jonah will begin to go in to the city the going of one day, and he will call, and say, Yet forty days and Nineveh being overthrown.

5 And the men of Nineveh will believe in God, and they will call a fast, and put on sackcloth, from great and even to small.

6 And the word will reach to the king of Nineveh, and he will rise from his throne, and he will take away his wide cloak from off him, and he will cover with sackcloth, and he will sit upon ashes.

7 And he will cry out and say in Nineveh from the edict of the king and of his great ones, saying, The man and beast, the herd and flock shall not taste of anything; they shall not feed and they shall not drink water.

8 And man and beast shall be covered with sackcloth, and they shall cry with strength to Jehovah: and they shall turn back each from his evil way, and the violence which is in their hands.

9 Who shall know God will turn back and lament, and turning back from the burning of his anger and we shall not perish?

10 And God will see their works that they turned back from their evil way, and God will lament for the evil which he spake to do to them: and he did it not

TREI ASAR 5, JONAH CHAPTER 4

1 And it will be evil to Jonah, a great evil, and it will kindle to him.

2 And he will pray to Jehovah and say, Ah, now, O Jehovah, was not this my word while I was upon my land? For this I anticipated to flee to Tarshish, for I knew that thou art merciful and compassionate, slow to anger and of much kindness, and lamenting for evil.

3 And now, O Jehovah, take now my soul from me, for it is good for me to die rather than for me to live.

4 And Jehovah will say, Didst thou well for thee to be angry?

5 And Jonah will go out of the city, and sit from the east to the city, and he make to him there a tent, and he will sit under it in the shadow, even till he shall see what will be upon the city.

6 And Jehovah God will appoint a gourd, and it will come up from above to Jonah to be a shadow over his head to deliver to him from his evil. And Jonah will rejoice over the gourd with great joy.

7 And God will appoint a worm in the going up of the morning for the morrow, and it will strike the gourd, and it will dry up.

8 And it will be as the sun rose, and God will appoint a sultry east wind; and the sun struck upon the head of Jonah, and he will faint, and he will ask his soul to die, and say, It is good for me to die rather than live.

9 And God will say to Jonah, Was it well to kindle to thee for the gourd? And he will say, It was well to kindle to me, even to death.

10 And Jehovah will say, Thou didst spare for the gourd, which thou didst not labor for it, and thou didst not cause it to grow; it was the youth of a night, and the son of a night perished.

6. THE BOOK OF THE PROPHET MICAH

Hebrew title: Sefer Mikayahu
Estimated Range of Dating: early 5th century B.C.

(The Book of Micah is the sixth of the twelve minor prophets in the Hebrew Bible / Old Testament. It records the sayings of Micah, whose real name is Mikayahu, meaning "Who is like Yahweh?". Chapter 1:1 identifies the prophet as "Micah of Moresheth" (a town in southern Judah), and states that he lived during the reigns of Yehotam, Ahaz and Hezekiah, roughly 750–700 BC.

Scholars accept that only chapters 1–3 contain material from the late 8th century prophet Micah. The latest material comes from the post-Exilic period after the Temple was rebuilt in 515 BC, so that the early 5th century BC seems to be the period when the book was completedThe book has three major divisions, chapters 1–2, 3–5 and 6–7, each introduced by the word "Hear," with a pattern of alternating announcements of doom and expressions of hope within each division. Micah reproaches unjust leaders, defends the rights of the poor against the rich and powerful; while looking forward to a world at peace centered on Zion under the leadership of a new Davidic monarch. While the book is relatively short, it includes lament (1.8–16; 7.8–10), theophany (1.3–4), hymnic prayer of petition and confidence (7.14–20), and the "covenant lawsuit" (6.1–8), a distinct genre in which Yahweh (God) sues Israel for breach of contract of the Mosaic covenant.

Just like Jonah, the Book of Micah is very political. After a long period of peace, Israel, Judah, and the other nations of the region came under increasing pressure from the aggressive and rapidly expanding Neo-Assyrian empire. Between 734 and 727 Tiglath-Pileser III of Assyria conducted almost annual campaigns in Palestine, reducing the Kingdom of Israel, the Kingdom of Judah and the Philistine cities to vassalage, receiving tribute from Ammon, Moab and Edom, and absorbing Damascus (the Kingdom of Aram) into the Empire. On Tiglath-Pileser's death Israel rebelled, resulting in an Assyrian counter-attack and the destruction of the capital, Samaria, in 721 after a three-year siege. Micah 1:2–7 draws on this event: Samaria, says the prophet, has been destroyed by God because of its crimes of idolatry, oppression of the poor, and misuse of power. The Assyrian attacks on Israel (the northern kingdom) led to an influx of refugees into Judah, which would have increased social stresses, while at the same time the authorities in Jerusalem had to invest huge amounts in tribute and defense.

Contents:

• The Heading (1:1): As is typical of prophetic books, an anonymous editor has supplied the name of the prophet, an indication of his time of activity, and an identification of his speech as the "word of Yahweh", a generic term carrying a claim to prophetic legitimacy and authority. Samaria and

• Judgement against Samaria (1:2–7): Drawing upon ancient traditions for depicting a theophany, the prophet depicts the coming of Yahweh to punish the city, whose sins are idolatry and the abuse of the poor.

• Warnings to the cities of Judah (1:8–16): Samaria has fallen, Judah is next. Micah describes the destruction of the lesser towns of Judah (referring to the invasion of Judah by Sennacherib, 701 BC). For these passages of doom on the various cities, paronomasia is used. Paronomasia is a literary device which 'plays' on the sound of each word for literary effect. For example, the inhabitants of Beth-le-aphrah ("house of dust") are told to "roll yourselves in the dust." 1:14. Though most of the Paronomasia is lost in translation, it is the equivalent of 'Ashdod shall be but ashes,' where the fate of the city matches its name.

• Misuse of power denounced (2:1–5): Denounces those who appropriate the land and houses of others. The context may be simply the amassing wealth for its own sake, or could be connected with the militarisation of the region for the expected Assyrian attack.

• Threats against the prophet (2:6–11): The prophet is warned not to prophesy. He answers that the rulers are harming God's people, and want to listen only to those who advocate the virtues of wine.

• A later promise (2:12–13): These verses assume that judgement has already fallen and Israel is already scattered abroad.

• Judgement on wicked Zion (3:1–4): Israel's rulers are accused of gaining more wealth at the expense of the poor, by any means. The metaphor of flesh being torn illustrates the length to which the ruling classes and socialites would go to further increase their wealth. Prophets are corrupt, seeking personal gain. Jerusalem's rulers believe that God will always be with them, but God will be with his people, and Jerusalem will be destroyed.

• Zion's future hope (4:1–5) This is a later passage, almost identical with Isaiah 2:2–4. Zion (meaning the Temple) will be rebuilt, but by God, and based not on violence and corruption but on the desire to learn God's laws, beat swords to ploughshares and live in peace.

• Further promises to Zion (4:6–7) This is another later passage, promising Zion that she will once more enjoy her former independence and power.

• Deliverance from Distress in Babylon (4:9–5:1) The similarities to Isaiah 41:15–16 and the references to Babylon suggest the period of this material, although it is unclear whether a period during or after the siege of 586 is meant. Despite their trials, God will not desert his people.

• The promised ruler from Bethlehem (5:1–14): This passage is usually dated to the exile. Although chapters 4:9–10 have said that there is "no king in Zion", these chapters predict the coming Messiah will emerge from Bethlehem, the traditional home of the Davidic monarchy, to restore Israel. Assyria will be stricken, and Israel's punishment will lead to the punishment of the nations.

• A Covenant lawsuit (6:1–5): Yahweh accuses Israel (the people of Judah) of breaking the covenant through their lack of justice and honesty, after the pattern of the kings of Israel (northern kingdom).

• Torah Liturgy (6:6–8): Micah speaks on behalf of the community asking what they should do in order to get back on God's good side. Micah then responds by saying that God requires only "to do justice, and to love mercy, and to walk humbly with your God." Thus declaring that the burnt offering of both animals and humans (which may have been practiced in Judah under Kings Ahaz and Manasseh) is not necessary for God.

• The City as a Cheat (6:9–16): The city is reprimanded for its dishonest trade practices.

• Lament (1–7): The first passage in the book in the first person: whether it comes from Micah himself is disputed. Honesty and decency have vanished, families are filled with strife.

• A song of fallen Jerusalem (8–10): The first person voice continues, but now it is the city who speaks. She recognises that her destruction is deserved punishment from God. The recognition gives grounds for hope that God is still with her.

• A prophecy of restoration (11–13): Fallen Jerusalem is promised that she will be rebuilt and that her power will be greater than ever (a contrast with the vision of peace in 4:1–5).

• A prayer for future prosperity (14–17): The mood switches from a request for power to grateful astonishment at God's mercy.)

TREI ASAR 6, MICAH CHAPTER 1

1 The word of Jehovah which was to Micah the Morasthite, in the days of Jotham, Ahaz, Hezekiah, kings of Judah, who saw upon Shomeron and Jerusalem.

2 Hear, all ye peoples; attend, O earth, and its fulness, and the Lord Jehovah shall be among you for a witness, Jehovah from his holy temple.

3 For behold, Jehovah will come forth from his place, and come down and tread upon the heights of the earth.

4 And the mountains melted under him, and the valleys shall be cleft as wax from the face of the fire, as waters cast down in a descent

5 For the transgression of Jacob all this, and for the sins of the house of Israel What the transgression of Jacob? Is it not Shomeron? And what the heights of Judah? Are they not Jerusalem?

6 And I set Shomeron for the rubbish of the field, for the plantings of a vineyard: and I poured down its stones into the valley, and I will uncover its foundations.

7 And all her carved images shall be beaten down, and all her gifts shall be burnt in fire, and all her images I will set a desolation: for she gathered from the gift of a harlot, and they shall turn back even to the gift of a harlot

8 For this I will lament and wail; I will go stripped and naked: I will make wailing as jackals, and mourning as the daughters of the ostrich.

9 For her blow is incurable, for it came even to Judah; he touched even to the gate of my people, even to Jerusalem.

10 Ye shall not announce in Gath; weeping, ye shall not weep: in the house of dust roll thyself in dust

11 Pass away for you, thou fair one inhabiting the nakedness of shame: she inhabiting the place of flocks shall not go forth to the wailing of the house of firm root; he shall take from you his standing.

12 For she dwelling in bitterness was anxious for good: but evil came down from Jehovah to the gate of Jerusalem.

13 Make fast the chariot to the steed, thou inhabitress of the smitten: she the beginning of sin to the daughter of Zion: for in thee were found the transgressions of Israel.

14 For this thou shalt give a sending forth upon the possession of Gath: the houses of falsehood are for falsehood to the kings of Israel.

15 Yet I will bring to thee him possessing, O inhabitress at the head: he shall come even to Adullam, the glory of Israel.

16 Make bald, and shave for the sons of thy delights; increase thy baldness as the eagle; for they were carried away captive from thee.

TREI ASAR 6, MICAH CHAPTER 2

1 Wo to them purposing vanity, and working evil upon their beds! In the light of the morning they will do it because it is to the strength of their hand.

2 And they desired fields, and they took by force; and houses, and they took away: and they oppressed a man and his house, and a man and his inheritance.

3 For this, thus said Jehovah: Behold me purposing evil against this family, which ye shall not remove your necks from thence; and ye shall not go loftily: for it is an evil time.

4 In that day a parable shall be lifted up against you, and a wailing of a wailing was wailed, saying, Being laid waste, we shall be laid waste: he will exchange a portion of my people: how he will remove to me; for turning away, he will divide our fields.

5 For this there shall not be to thee any casting a cord by lot in the convocation of Jehovah.

6 Ye shall not let fall in drops; they shall let fall in drops; they shall not let fall in drops for these; shame shall not be removed.

7 Causing the house of Jacob to say, Was the spirit of Jehovah shortened? if these his doings? shall not my words do good to a people going straight?.

8 Aforetime my people for the enemy: he will raise them up from before the garment; ye will put off the wide cloak from those passing by with confidence, turning back the war.

9 The women of my people ye will thrust out from the house of her delights; from her children ye will take my majesty forever.

10 Arise ye, and go, for this is not the rest: because it was defiled it will destroy, and with a sore destruction.

11 If a man going in the spirit and falsehood, lying, I will drop to thee for wine and for strong drink; and he was the dropping of this people.

12 Gathering, O Jacob, I will gather all of thee; collecting, I will collect the remnant of Israel; together I will set them as the sheep of Bozrah, as the flock in the midst of their pasture they shall make noise from man.

13 He breaking forth came up before them: they broke forth and they will pass through the gate, they will go forth by it; and their king will pass through before them and Jehovah at their head.

TREI ASAR 6, MICAH CHAPTER 3

1 And saying, Hear now, ye heads of Jacob, and ye judges of the house of Israel: Is it not for you to know judgment?

3 And who ate the flesh of my people, and they stripp off their skin from off them; and they brake their bones in pieces, and separated as for the pot, and as flesh in the midst of the kettle.

4 Then shall they cry to Jehovah and he will not answer them, and he will hide his face from them in that time, as their doings were evil.

5 Thus said Jehovah for the prophets causing my people to wander, and biting with their teeth, and they called, Peace; and who will not give upon their mouth and they consecrated war against him:

6 For this, night to you from a vision, and darkness to you from divining; and the sun went down upon the prophets, and the day was dark upon them.

7 And they seeing were ashamed, and they divining were disgraced, and they covered over their lip, all of them; for no answer of God.

8 But I was filled with power, with the spirit of Jehovah, and judgment and strength to announce to Jacob his transgression, and to Israel his sin.

9 Hear now this, ye heads of the house of Jacob, and judges of the house of Israel abhorring judgment, and they will pervert all uprightness.

11 Her heads will judge for a gift, and her priests will teach for hire, and her prophets will divine for silver: and they will lean upon Jehovah, saying, Is not Jehovah in the midst of us? he will not bring evil upon us.

12 For this, on account of you Zion shall be ploughed a field, and Jerusalem shall be ruins, and the mountain of the house for the heights of the forest.

TREI ASAR 6, MICAH CHAPTER 4

1 And it was in the last of the days the mountain of the house of Jehovah will be prepared upon the head of the mountains, and it was lifted up above the hills, and peoples flowed to it.

2 And many nations went and said, Come, and we will go up to the mountain of Jehovah, and to the house of the God of Jacob, and he will teach us from his ways, and we will go in his paths: from Zion will instruction go forth, and the word of Jehovah from Jerusalem.

3 And he judged between many peoples, and he admonished to strong nations even to far off; and they beat their swords into ploughshares and their spears into pruning-knives: nation shall not lift up sword against nation, and they shall no more learn war.

4 And they shall sit every man under his vine and under his fig tree, and none terrifying: for the mouth of Jehovah of armies spake.

5 For all peoples shall go each in the name of his God, and will go in the name of Jehovah our God for ever and ever.

6 In that day, says Jehovah, I will assemble her halting, and I will gather her thrust out, and whom I broke in pieces.

7 And I set her halting for a remnant, and her far removed, for a strong nation: and Jehovah reigning over them in mount Zion from now and even to forever.

8 And thou, O tower of the flock, hill of the daughter of Zion, even to thee shall it come, and the first dominion: came the kingdom to the daughter of Jerusalem.

9 Now wherefore wilt thou cry out with an outcry? is no king in thee? or thy counselor perished? for pain laid hold of thee as she bringing forth.

10 Be in pain and bring forth, O daughter of Zion, as she bringing forth: for now shalt thou go forth out of the city, and dwell in the field, and going even to Babel; there shalt thou be delivered; there Jehovah will redeem thee from the hand of thine enemies.

11 And now many nations were gathered against thee, saying, She shall be defiled, and our eyes shall look upon Zion.

12 And they knew not the purposes of Jehovah, and they understood not his counsel for he gathered them as sheaves of the threshing-floor.

13 Arise and thresh, O daughter of Zion: for I will set thy horn iron, and thy hoofs of brass: and thou didst crush many peoples: and I devoted their plunder to Jehovah, and their wealth to the Lord of all the earth.

TREI ASAR 6, MICAH CHAPTER 5

1 Now thou shalt crowd thyself together, O daughter of a troop: besieging there against us; with a rod they will strike the judge of Israel upon the cheek.

2 And thou, house of bread, of Ephratah, for being small among the thousands of Judah, out of thee shall come forth to me he being ruler in Israel; and his goings forth from of old from the days of eternity.

3 For this he will give them up even till the time she bearing will bring forth: and the remainder of his brethren shall turn back to the sons of Israel.

4 And he stood and fed in the strength of Jehovah, in the majesty of the name of Jehovah his God; and they shall dwell: for now shall he be magnified to the ends of the earth.

5 And this was peace, for Assur shall come up into our land: and when he shall tread in our palaces and we raised against him seven shepherds, and eight anointed men.

6 And they ruled the land of Assur with the sword, and the land of Nimrod in its openings: and he delivered from Assur when he shall come in to our land, and when he shall tread in our bound.

7 And the remnant of Jacob was in the midst of many peoples as the dew from Jehovah, as showers upon the green herb, which will not wait for man and will not delay for the sons of man.

8 And the remnant of Jacob was among the nations in the midst of many peoples as a lion among the beasts of the forest, as a young lion among the flocks of sheep: who, if he passed through, and he trod down and pulled in pieces, and none delivering.

9 Thy hand shall be raised up against thine adversaries, and all thine enemies shall be cut off

10 And it was in that day, says Jehovah, and I cut off thy horses from the midst of thee, and I destroyed thy chariots.

11 And I cut off the cities of thy land, and I battled down all thy fortresses:

12 And I cut off sorceries from thy hand, and they practicing magic shall not be to thee.

13 And I cut off thy carved images and thy statues from the midst of thee; and thou shalt no more worship the work of thy hands.

14 And I tore up thine images from the midst of thee, and I destroyed thy cities.

15 And I did vengeance in anger and in wrath with the nations, which they heard not.

TREI ASAR 6, MICAH CHAPTER 6

1 Hear ye now what Jehovah said: Arise, contend thou with the mountains, and the hills shall hear thy voice.

2 Hear ye mountains the contention of Jehovah, and ye perpetual foundations of the earth: for a contention to Jehovah with his people, and he will dispute with Israel

3 My people, what did I to thee? and in what did I weary thee? answer to me.

4 For I brought thee up from the land of Egypt, and from the house of servants I redeemed thee; and I shall send before thy face, Moses, Aaron and, Miriam.

5 O my people, remember now what Balak king of Moab counseled, and what Balaam son of Beor answered him from the acacias even to Gilgal; in order to know the justice of Jehovah.

6 With what shall I come before Jehovah? I will bow to the high God; shall I come before him with burnt-offerings, with calves, the sons of a year?

7 Will Jehovah delight in thousands of rams, in ten thousands of torrents of oil? shall I give my first-born my transgression? the fruit of my belly, the sin of my soul?

8 He announced to thee, O man, what was good; and what did Jehovah require of thee but to do judgment and to love mercy, and being humbled, to go with thy God?

9 The voice of Jehovah will call to the city, and wisdom feared thy name: hear ye the rod, and who appointed it

10 Are there yet treasures of injustice in the house of the unjust, and the ephah of leanness being cursed?

11 Shall I make clean with the balances of injustice, and with the bag of stones of deceit?

12 For her rich ones were full of violence, and her inhabitants spake falsehood, and their tongue of deceit in their mouth.

13 And also I made sick, striking thee, making desolate for thy sins.

14 Thou shalt eat and not be satisfied; and thine emptiness in the midst of thee; and thou shalt remove and shalt not deliver; and what thou shalt save I will give to the sword.

15 Thou shalt sow and thou shalt not reap; thou shalt tread the olive and thou shalt not anoint thyself with oil; and new wine, and thou shalt not drink wine.

16 The laws of Omri will be observed, and all the work of the house of Ahab, and ye will go in their counsels; so that I shall give thee for a desolation, and her inhabitants for hissing, and ye shall bear the reproach of my People.

TREI ASAR 6, MICAH CHAPTER 7

1 Wo to me! for I was as the gatherings of the fruit harvest, as the gleanings of the vintage, no cluster to eat: my soul desired the first ripe fig.

2 The merciful one perished from the earth, and none upright among men: they all will lie in wait for bloods; they will hunt each his brother with a net.

3 For doing evil with the hands to do well, the chief asking, and the judge, for peace; and the great one, he spake the mischief of his soul: and they will entangle it

4 Their good as the thorn, the upright more than the thorn-hedge: the day of thy watchings and thy reviewings came; now shall be their perplexity.

5 Ye shall not trust in a companion, ye shall not confide in a friend: watch the doors of thy mouth from her lying in thy bosom.

6 For the son despising the father, the daughter rising up against her mother, the bride against her mother-in-law; a man's enemies the men of his house.

7 I will look about for Jehovah, I will wait for God my deliverer; my God will hear me.

8 Thou shalt not rejoice against me, O mine enemy: if I fell I arose: if I shall sit in darkness, Jehovah a light to me.

9 The anger of Jehovah I will bear, for I sinned against him till he shall maintain my contention, and do my judgment: he will bring me forth to the light, I shall look upon his justice.

10 And mine enemy shall see, and shame shall cover her saying to me, Where Jehovah thy God? Mine eyes shall look upon her: now shall she be for treading down as the mire of the streets.

11 The day for the building of thy walls, that day shall the law be removed far off.

12 That day he shall come even to thee from Assur and the fortified cities, and from the fortress and even to the river, and from sea to sea, and mountain to mountain.

13 And the land was for a desolation upon its inhabitants from the fruit of their doings.

14 Feed my people with thy rod, the sheep of thine inheritance dwelling by themselves in the forest, in the midst of Carmel: they shall feed Bashan and Gilead as the days of old.

15 According to the days of thy coming forth out of the land of Egypt I will cause him to see wonderful things

16 The nations shall see and be ashamed from all their strength: they shall put the hand upon the mouth, their ears shall be deaf.

17 They shall lick the dust as the serpent, as crawlers of the earth they shall move out of their close places: for Jehovah our God they shall tremble and they shall fear from thee

18 Who is God as thee, lifting up iniquity and passing by transgression to the remnant of his inheritance? he held not his anger forever for he delighted in mercy.

19 He will turn back, he will compassionate us: he will subdue our iniquities, and thou wilt cast all their sins into the depths of the sea.

20 Thou wilt give truth to Jacob, mercy to Abraham, which thou didst swear to our fathers from the days of old.

7. THE BOOK OF THE PROPHET NAHUM

Hebrew title: Sefer Nakhum
Estimated Range of Dating: c. 7th century B.C.

(The Book of Nahum is the seventh book of the 12 minor prophets of the Hebrew Bible. It is attributed to the prophet Nahum. Not much is known about Nahum. His name means "comforter", and he was from the town of Elkosh or Alqosh (Nahum 1:1), which may have been a town of northern Galilee. The scholarly consensus is that the "book of vision" was written at the time of the fall of Nineveh at the hands of the Medes and Babylonians in 612 BC. This theory is demonstrated by the fact that the oracles must be dated after the Assyrian destruction of Thebes, Egypt in 663 BC, as this event is mentioned in Nahum 3:8.

In his book "Jewish Antiquities" [Books IX–XI.], Titus Flavius Josephus places Nahum during the reign of Jotham, while others place him in the beginning of the reign of Ahaz, Judah's next king, or even the latter half of the reign of Hezekiah, Ahaz's son. All three accounts date the book to the 8th century BC. The book would then have been written in Jerusalem, where Nahum would have witnessed the invasion of Sennacherib and the destruction of his host (2 Kings 19:35).

The subject of Nahum's prophecy is the approaching complete and final destruction of Nineveh, the capital of the great and at that time flourishing Assyrian empire. Ashurbanipal was at the height of his glory. Nineveh was a city of vast extent, and was then the centre of the civilisation and commerce of the world, according to Nahum a "bloody city all full of lies and robbery" (Nahum 3:1), a reference to the Neo-Assyrian Empire's military campaigns and demand of tribute and plunder from conquered cities.

All conquered nations were full of hatred and Jonah had already uttered his message of warning, and Nahum was followed by Zephaniah, who also predicted (Zephaniah 2:4–15) the destruction of the city.

Nineveh was destroyed apparently by fire around 625 BC, and the Assyrian empire came to an end, an event which changed the face of Asia.

The Babylonian chronicle of the fall of Nineveh tells the story of the end of Nineveh. Nabopolassar of Babylon joined forces with Cyaxares, king of the Medes, and laid siege for three months. Assyria lasted a few more years after the loss of its fortress, but attempts by Egyptian Pharaoh Neco II to rally the Assyrians failed due to opposition from king Josiah of Judah, and it seemed to be all over by 609 BC.)

Archaeological digs have uncovered the splendour of Nineveh in its zenith under Sennacherib (705–681 BC), Esarhaddon (681–669 BC), and Ashurbanipal (669–633 BC). Massive walls were eight miles in circumference. It had a water aqueduct, palaces and a rich library with 20,000 clay tablets, including accounts of a creation in Enuma Elish and a flood in the Epic of Gilgamesh. They served once as blueprint for some of the most exciting narratives of the Tanakh.)

TREI ASAR 7, NAHUM CHAPTER 1

1 The lifting up of Nineveh. The book of the vision of Nahum the Elkoshite.

2 God is jealous and Jehovah avenging; Jehovah avenging and possessing wrath; Jehovah avenging to his adversaries and he keeping for his enemies.

3 Jehovah slow to anger and great of power, and Jehovah acquitting, will not acquit his way in the whirlwind and in the storm, and a cloud the dust of his feet

4 Rebuking upon the sea, and he will dry it up, and all the rivers he laid waste, and Bashan languished, and Carmel, and the flower of Lebanon languished.

5 The mountains shook from him, and the hills melted, and the earth will lift up from his face, and the habitable globe and all dwelling in it

6 Before the face of his wrath who shall stand? and who will rise up in the burning of his anger? his wrath was poured out as fire, and the rocks were torn down from him.

7 Jehovah is good for a fortress in the day of straits; and he knew those trusting in him.

8 With an inundation passing through he will make a completion of her place, and darkness shall pursue his enemies.

9 What will ye purpose against Jehovah? he made a completion: straits shall not rise up twice.

10 For even to thorns surrounding them, and drinking to excess as drunkards, they shall be devoured as straw fully dried up.

12 Thus said Jehovah: If peace thus many, and thus they were shown and he passed through. And afflicting thee I will afflict thee no more.

13 And now I will break his rod from off thee, and I will tear away thy bonds.

14 And Jehovah commanded concerning thee, of thy name no more shall be sown: from the house of thy God I will cut off the carved image and the molten image: I will set thy grave, for thou wert contemned.

15 Behold upon the mountains the feet of him announcing good news, causing peace to be heard. O Judah, keep thy festivals, complete thy vows: for Belial shall no more add to pass through thee: he was completely cut off.

TREI ASAR 7, NAHUM CHAPTER 2

1 The hammer came up upon thy face: press upon the fortress, look about the way, strengthen the loins, make the power strong greatly.

2 For Jehovah turned back the pride of Jacob as the pride of Israel: for they emptying emptied them out, they corrupted their vineshoots

3 The shield of the strong ones being red, the men of strength being clothed in scarlet: with fire of irons the chariots in the day of his preparing, and the cypresses were made to tremble.

4 The chariots shall be mad in the streets, they shall run up and down in the broad places: their appearance as flames; as lightnings shall they run.

5 He shall make mention of his chiefs: they shall be weak in their goings; they shall hasten to her wall, and the covering was prepared.

6 The gates of the rivers were opened, and the temple melted away.

7 It was fixed, she was led away captive, she went up and her maids being led as the voice of doves smiting upon their heart

8 And Nineveh it is as a pool of water from the days, and they fleeing, stood: they stood, and none looking back.

9 They plundered silver, they plundered gold: and no end to her splendid equipage; glory from all the vessels of desire.

10 She was emptied, and being emptied, and being made empty: and the heart melted, and a wavering of the knees, and trembling in all loins, and the face of them all gathered a glow.

11 Where is the dwelling of the lions and that pasture for the young lions where the lion went, the lioness there, the lion's whelp, and none terrifying?

12 The lion tore in pieces the sufficiency of his whelps, and strangling for his lionesses; and his holes shall be filled with the prey, and his dens with that torn in pieces.

13 Behold me against thee, says Jehovah of armies; and I burnt her chariot in the smoke, and the sword shall devour thy young lions, and I cut of thy prey from the land, and the voice of her messengers shall no more be heard.

TREI ASAR 7, NAHUM CHAPTER 3

1 Wo! to the city of bloods: all of it was filled with falsehood, with violence; the prey will not withdraw.

2 The voice of the whip and the voice of the shaking of the wheel, and the horse moving swiftly, and the chariot bounding.

3 The horsemen also lifting up the flame of the sword, and the lightning of the spear: and a multitude of wounded, and the heavy carcass; and no end to the corpses; they shall stumble upon their dead bodies.

4 From the multitude of the fornications of the fair harlot, the beauty of the mistress of sorceries, selling the nations by her fornication, and families by her sorceries

5 Behold me against thee, says Jehovah of armies; and I uncovered thy skirts upon thy face, and I caused nations to see thy nakedness, and kingdoms thy shame.

6 And I cast abominable things upon thee, and I disgraced thee, and I set thee as a sight

7 And it was all serving thee shall flee from thee, and say, Nineveh was laid waste: who shall be moved for her? from whom shall I seek those consoling to thee?

8 Wilt thou be good above No, the builder dwelling among the rivers, the waters round about to her, whose strength the sea, from the sea her wall?

9 Cush her strength, and Egypt, and no end; Put and Lubim were among thy helpers.

10 Also she being carried away captive went into captivity: also her young children shall be dashed in pieces at the head of every street, and upon her honored ones they cast the lot, and all her great ones were bound in chains.

11 And thou shalt be intoxicated, and thou shalt be hid; thou shalt seek a fortifiedplace from the enemy.

12 All thy fortresses, fig trees with the early figs: if they shall be shaken, and they fell into the mouth of him eating

13 Behold, thy people women in the midst of thee: the gates of thy land being opened were opened to thine enemies: a fire devoured thy bars.

14 Draw the water of the siege to thee, strengthen thy fortresses go into clay, tread upon the clay, hold fast from the brick.

15 There shall the fire devour thee; the sword shall cut thee off, it shall devour thee as the feeder: make thee numerous as the feeder, make thee numerous as the locust

16 Thou didst multiply thy traffics above the stars of the heavens: the feeder spread out and it will fly away.

17 Thy devoted ones as the locust, and thy satraps as the locust of locusts encamping in the walls in a cold day; the sun arose and they fled away, and where his place he knew not

18 Thy shepherds slumbered, O king of Assur: thy chiefs will lie down: thy people breathed upon the mountains, and none gathering.

19 No healing to thy breaking; thy blow sickly: all hearing thy report shall clap the hand upon thee: for upon whom did not thine evil pass continually?

8. THE BOOK OF THE PROPHET HABAKKUK

Hebrew title: Sefer Habaquq

(The Book of Habakkuk is the eighth book of the 12 minor prophets of the Bible. It is attributed to the prophet Habakkuk, and was probably composed between the 7th and the 6th centuries BC., not long before the Babylonians' siege and capture of Jerusalem in 586 BC. Of the three chapters in the book, the first two are a dialog between Yahweh and the prophet. A copy of these chapters is included in the Habakkuk Commentary, found among the Dead Sea Scrolls. Chapter 3 may be an independent addition, now recognised as a liturgical piece, but was possibly written by the same author as chapters 1 and 2.

Habakkuk identifies himself as a prophet in the opening verse. Due to the liturgical nature of the book of Habakkuk, there have been some scholars who think that the author may have been a temple prophet. Temple prophets are described in 1 Chronicles 25:1 as using lyres, harps and cymbals. Some feel that this is echoed in Habakkuk 3:19b, and that Habakkuk may have been a Levite and singer in the Temple. There is no biographical information on the prophet Habakkuk; in fact less is known about him than any other writer of the Bible. The only canonical information that exists comes from the book that is named for him. His name comes either from the Hebrew word khavak meaning "embrace" or else from an Akkadian word hambakuku for a kind of plant.

Although his name does not appear in any other part of the Jewish Bible, Rabbinic tradition holds Habakkuk to be the Shunammite woman's son, who was restored to life by Elisha in 2 Kings 4:16. The prophet Habakkuk is also mentioned in the narrative of Bel and the Dragon, part of the deuterocanonical additions to Daniel in a late section of that book. In the superscription of the Old Greek version, Habakkuk is called the son of Joshua of the tribe of Levi. In this book Habakkuk is lifted by an angel to Babylon to provide Daniel with some food while he is in the lion's den.

It is unknown when Habakkuk lived and preached, but the reference to the rise and advance of the Chaldeans (New Babylonians) in 1:6–11 places him in the middle to last quarter of the 7th century BC One possible period might be during the reign of Jehoiakim, from 609–598 BC. The reasoning for this date is that it is during his reign that the Neo-Babylonian Empire of the Chaldeans was growing in power. The Babylonians marched against Jerusalem in 598 BC. Jehoiakim died while the Babylonians were marching towards Jerusalem and Jehoiakim's eighteen-year-old son Jehoiachin assumed the throne. Upon the Babylonians' arrival, Jehoiachin and his advisors surrendered Jerusalem after a short time. With the transition of rulers and the young age and inexperience of Jehoiachin, they were not able to stand against Chaldean forces. There is a sense of an intimate knowledge of the Babylonian brutality in 1:12–17.)

TREI ASAR 8, HABAKKUK CHAPTER 1

1 The lifting up which Habbakuk the prophet saw.

2 How long, O Jehovah, did I cry for help, and thou wilt not bear? I will cry to thee violence, and thou wilt not save.

3 Wherefore wilt thou cause me to see vanity and cause me to look at labor? and oppression and violence before me, and there will be contention, and strife will be raised up.

4 For this, the law will be slack, and judgment will not go forth forever: for the unjust surrounds the just; for this perverted judgment will go forth.

5 See ye among the nations, and look, and wonder; ye shall wonder: for the working a work in your days ye will not believe if it shall be recounted.

6 For behold me raising up the Chaldeans, the nation bitter and hasty, going upon the wide places of the land to possess the dwelling not to him.

7 He terrible and dreadful: his judgment and his elevation shall come forth from himself,

8 And his horses were swift above panthers, and they were sharp above the wolves of the evening: and his horsemen were spread, and his horsemen shall come from far off; they shall fly as the eagle hastening to eat

9 Wholly for violence shall he come: the host of their faces forwards, and he shall gather a captivity as the sand.

10 And he shall scoff at kings, and princes a derision to him: at every fortress he shall deride, and he shall heap up dust and take it

11 Then the spirit changed, and he will pass over, and he transgressed: this his strength is his God.

12 Art thou not from of old, O Jehovah, my holy God? We shall not die. O Jehovah, thou didst set him for judgment; and O Rock, thou didst found him for correction.

13 Being pure of eyes from beholding evil, and wilt not be able to look upon labor: wherefore wilt thou look upon the transgressors? wilt thou be silent in the unjust swallowing the just above him?

14 And wilt thou make man as the fishes of the sea, as the creeping thing no ruler over him?

15 And he brought up a completion with the book, he will drag him in his net, and he will gather him in his fishnet: for this he will rejoice and be glad.

16 For this he will sacrifice to his net and burn incense to his fish-net; for by them his portion fat and his food. growing fat

17 For this, will he empty his net; and he will not spare to slay the nations continually.

TREI ASAR 8, HABAKKUK CHAPTER 2

1 I will stand upon my watch, and be set me upon the fortress, and I will watch to see what he will speak in me, and what I shall turn back upon my reproof.

2 And Jehovah will answer me and say, Write the vision, and grave upon the tablets, so that he shall run reading in it

3 For yet the vision for the appointment, and it shall breathe to the end, and it shall not lie: if it shall delay, wait for it; for coming, it will come; and it shall not delay.

4 Behold, his soul being inflated in him, was not straight: and the just one shall live by his faithfulness.

5 And also if a proud man transgressing by wine, and he will not rest; who enlarged his soul as hades, and he as death, and he will not be satisfied, and he will gather to him all nations, and he will collect to him all peoples.

6 Shall not these all of them lift up a parable against him, and an enigma of an oracle against him, and it shall be said, Wo! to him multiplying that not to him. how long making heavy upon him goods taken in pledge?

7 Shall they not rise up suddenly, biting thee? and they disquieting thee shall rise up, and thou wert for plunder to them.

8 For thou didst spoil many nations, all the rest of the peoples shall spoil thee; from the bloods of man, and the violence of the land, of the city, and all dwelling in it.

9 Wo! to him plundering an evil plunder to his house, to set his nest on high, to deliver from the hand of evil.

10 Thou wilt counsel shame to thy house, cutting off many peoples, and causing thy soul to sin.

11 For the stone from the wall shall cry out, and the cross-beam from the wood shall answer it.

13 Behold, is it not from Jehovah of armies, and the peoples shall labor in a sufficiency of fire, and the peoples shall be wearied in a sufficiency of emptiness?

14 For the earth shall be filled to know the glory of Jehovah as the waters shall cover over the sea?

15 Wo! to him giving his neighbor drink, pouring out thy leathern bottle, and also to be drunken so as to look upon their nakedness.

16 Thou wert satisfied with dishonor rather than honor: drink thou also and be uncircumcised: the cup of the right hand of Jehovah shall turn upon thee, and ignominy upon thy glory.

17 For the violence of Lebanon shall cover thee, and the destruction of beasts shall terrify them from the bloods of man, and the violence of the earth, of the city, and all dwelling in it.

18 What profited the carved image that he forming it carved it? the molten image and he teaching falsehood, that the former of his forming trusted upon it to make nothings being dumb?

19 Wo! to him saying to the wood, Awake; and to the dumb stone, Arise, it shall teach. Being overlaid with gold and silver, and not any spirit in its midst.

20 And Jehovah in his holy temple: be silent all the earth before his face.

TREI ASAR 8, HABAKKUK CHAPTER 3

1 A Prayer by Habakkuk the prophet upon songs

2 O Jehovah, I heard thy report, I was afraid: O Jehovah, preserve alive thy work in the midst of years, in the midst of years make known; in anger thou wilt remember mercy.

3 God will come from Teman, and the Holy One from mount Paran Silence. His majesty covered the heavens, and his praise filled the earth.

4 And the brightness will be as the light; horns to him from his hand; and he set the hiding of his strength.

6 He stood, and he will measure the earth: he saw, and he will cause the nations to tremble, and the mountains of eternity will be dispersed, the perpetual hills bowed down: the goings everlasting to him.

7 I saw the tents of Cushan under vanity: the curtains of the land of strife shall be moved.

8 Was Jehovah angry against the rivers? if thine anger against the rivers? if thy wrath against the sea? if thou wilt ride upon thy horses, thy chariots of salvation?

9 In nakedness thou shalt raise thy bow, the oaths of the tribes, he said. Silence. Thou wilt divide the earth with rivers.

10 They saw thee, the mountains shall tremble: the pouring of the waters passed by: the deep gave his voice, he lifted up his hands on high.

11 The sun, the moon stood in her habitation: at the light of thine arrows they will go, at the shining of the lightning of thy spear.

12 In wrath thou wilt march through the land in anger, thou wilt thresh the nations

13 Thou wentest forth to save thy people, to save thy Messiah; thou didst crush the head from the house of the unjust, making naked the foundation, even to the neck. Silence.

14 Thou didst pierce with rods the head of the leader: they will rush on as a tempest to scatter me their exultation as to devour the poor in secret

15 Thou didst tread upon the sea with thy horses, the heap of many waters

16 I heard and my belly will tremble; at the voice my lips quivered: rottenness will come into my bones, and I shall tremble under me that I shall rest at the day of straits: to come up to the people he will invade him.

17 If the fig tree shall not blossom, and no produce in the vines; the work of the olive failed, and the fields made not food; and the sheep being cut off from the fold, and no oxen in the stalls.

18 I will exult in Jehovah, I will rejoice in the God saving me.

19 Jehovah the Lord my strength, and he will set my feet as the hinds, and upon my heights he will cause me to tread. For the overseer upon my stringed instruments.

9. THE BOOK OF THE PROPHET ZEPHANIAH

Hebrew title: Sefer Tsephanyah

(The Book of Zephaniah (Hebrew: Tsfanya) is the ninth of the Twelve Minor Prophets, preceded by the Book of Habakkuk and followed by the Book of Haggai. Zephaniah means "Yahweh has hidden / protected," or "Yahweh hides". The book begins with: "The word of the Lord which came unto Zephaniah the son of Cushi, the son of Gedaliah, the son of Amariah, the son of Hizkiah [King Hezekiah], in the days of Josiah the son of Amon, king of Judah." That is all we know about Zephaniah.

However, the name "Cushi," is interesting. It was the name of Zephaniah's father and it means "Kushite". The text of Zephaniah mentions the sin and restoration of "Ethiopia." There is some confusion when it comes to the name "Ethiopia" in the Bible. Ethiopia here means "Nubia" [which is in today's Sudan] and refers to the ancient kingdom of Kush that had its centres around the 4th and 5th cataracts of the River Nile. Hezekiah's reign was between c. 715 and 686 BC.

The Kingdom of Kush survived longer than that of Egypt, invaded Egypt (under the leadership of King Piye), and controlled Egypt during the 8th century BC as the 25th Dynasty [744–656 BC] of Egypt.

Of the Nubian kings of this era, Taharka is perhaps the best known. A son and the third successor of the founding pharaoh, Piye, he was crowned in Memphis, Egypt c. 690. Taharka ruled over both Nubia and Egypt, restored Egyptian temples at Karnak, and built new temples and pyramids in Nubia before being driven from Lower Egypt by the Assyrians. Napata and Meroë were the capitals of Kush.

As with many of the other prophets, there is no external evidence to directly associate composition of the book with a prophet by the name of Zephaniah. Some scholars consider the words in Zephaniah to reflect a time early in the reign of King Josiah (640–609 BC) before his reforms of 622 BC took full effect, in which case the prophet may have been born during the reign of Manasseh (698/687–642 BC). Others agree that some portion of the book is postmonarchic, that is, dating to later than 586 BC when the Kingdom of Judah fell in the Siege of Jerusalem. Some who consider the book to have largely been written by a historical Zephaniah have suggested that he may have been a disciple of Isaiah because of the two books' similar focus on rampant corruption and injustice in Judah.)

TREI ASAR 9, ZEPHANIAH CHAPTER 1

1 The word of Jehovah which was to Zephaniah son of Cushi, son of Gedaliah, son of Amariah, son of Hizkiah, in the days of Josiah son of Amon, king of Judah.

2 Taking away, I will take away all from off the face of the earth, says Jehovah

3 I will take away man and cattle; I will take away the birds of the heavens, and the fish of the sea, and the stumbling blocks with. the unjust; and I cut off man from the face of the earth, says Jehovah.

4 And I stretched out my hand upon Judah and upon all the inhabitants of Jerusalem; and I cut off from this place the remnant of Baal, with the name of the obscurations with the priests

5 And those worshiping upon the roofs to the army of the heavens, and worshiping, swearing to Jehovah, and swearing to Malcham;

6 And those departing from after Jehovah, and who sought not Jehovah, and asked not for him.

7 Be silent from the face of the Lord Jehovah: for the day of Jehovah is near, for Jehovah prepared a swam he consecrated his called ones.

8 And it was in the day of the sacrifice of Jehovah, and I reviewed upon the chiefs and upon the sons of the king, and upon all having put on strange clothing.

9 And I reviewed upon every one leaping upon the threshold in that day, filling their lords' houses with violence and deceit

10 And it was in that day, says Jehovah, a voice of a cry from the gate of fishes, and a wailing from the second, and a great breaking from the hills.

11 Wail, ye inhabitants of Maktesh, for all the people of Canaan were destroyed; all lifting up silver were cut off.

12 And it was in that time, I will search out Jerusalem with lights, and I reviewed upon the men curdled upon their lees, saying in their heart, Jehovah will do good and not evil.

13 And their wealth was for plunder, and their houses for desolation: and they built houses, and they inhabited not; and they planted vineyards, and they shall not drink their wine.

14 The great day of Jehovah is near, it is near and hastening greatly, the voice of the day of Jehovah: the strong one cried there bitterly.

15 A day of wrath, that day a day of straits and distress, a day of storm and desolation, a day of darkness and thick darkness, a day of cloud and gloom,

17 And I pressed upon man, and they went as the blind, because they sinned against Jehovah: and their blood was poured out as dust and their bread as dung.

18 Also their silver also their gold shall not be able to deliver them in the day of the wrath of Jehovah; and all the land shall be consumed by the fire of his jealousy: for he will make a completion even sudden of all dwelling in the land.

TREI ASAR 9, ZEPHANIAH CHAPTER 2

1 Collect yourselves together and be ye collected, O nation not ashamed;

Copyright © 2026 by Lord Henfield, Guildford Scientific Press

2 Before the law bring forth, as the chaff the day passing away before the burning of the anger of Jehovah shall not come upon you, before the day of the anger of Jehovah shall not come upon you.

3 Seek Jehovah, all ye humble of the earth, who did his judgment; seek justice, seek humility: perhaps ye shall be covered in the day of the anger of Jehovah.

4 For Gaza shall be forsaken, and Ashkelon for a desolation: they shall thrust out Ashdod at noon, and Ekron shall be rooted up.

5 Wo! to the inhabitants of the region of the sea, the nation of the Cherethites: the word of Jehovah is upon you, O Canaan, the land of the rovers, and I destroyed thee from none inhabiting.

6 And the region of the sea was a dwelling, and a cutting off of the shepherds and sheepfolds.

7 And the region was for the remnant of the house of Judah; upon them they shall feed: in the houses of Ashkelon they shall lie down in the evening: for Jehovah their God shall review them, and turn back their captivity.

8 I heard the reproach of Moab, and the revilings of the sons of Ammon which they reproached my people, and they will magnify against their border.

9 For this. I live, says Jehovah of armies, God of Israel, for Moab shall be as Sodom, and the sons of Ammon as Gomorrah, the possession of the thorn-bush and salt-pits, and a desolation even to forever: the remnant of my people shall plunder them, and the rest of my nation shall inherit them.

10 This to them for their pride, for they reproached and they will magnify against the people of Jehovah of armies.

11 God being terrible to them, for he made lean all the gods of the earth; and they shall worship to him each from his place, all the isles of the nations.

12 Also ye Cushites, they being wounded by my sword.

13 And he will stretch out his hand against the north, and he will destroy Assur; and he will set Nineveh for a desolation, a dryness as the desert

14 And the flocks lay down in the midst of her, all the beasts of the nations: also the pelican, also the hedgehog shall lodge in her capitals; a voice shall sing in the window; desolation in the threshold: for the cedar was naked.

15 This the exulting city dwelling confidently, saying in her heart, I, and none besides me. How was she for a desolation, a piece of lying down for the beast! all passing by her shall hiss and wave his hand.

TREI ASAR 9, ZEPHANIAH CHAPTER 3

1 Wo! to the wonderful and oppressing city being redeemed.

2 She heard not to the voice: she received not instruction; she trusted not in Jehovah; she drew not near to her God.

3 Her chiefs in the midst of her are roaring lions; her judges evening wolves; they laid not up for the morning.

4 Her prophets vain-glorious men of treacheries: her priests defiled the holy place, they violated the law.

5 Jehovah is just in her midst; he will not do iniquity: in morning by morning he will give his judgment to the light, he as not wanting; and the evil will not know shame.

6 I cut off the nations: their pinnacles were desolate: I laid waste their streets from none passing by; their cities were destroyed from not a man, from not an inhabitant

7 I said, Surely thou wilt fear me, thou wilt receive instruction; and her dwelling shall not be cut off, all that I reviewed over her but they rose early, they corrupted all their doings.

8 For this, wait for me, says Jehovah, to the day of my rising up for a testimony: for my judgment is to assemble the nations for my gathering the kingdoms to pour upon them my wrath, all the burning of mine anger: for in the fire of my jealousy all the earth shall be devoured.

9 For then I will turn to the peoples a purified lip, for all to call upon the name of Jehovah, to serve him with one shoulder.

10 From beyond to the rivers of Cush incense, the daughter of my dispersed shall bring my gifts.

11 In that day shalt thou not be ashamed for all thy doing which thou didst transgress against me: for then will I remove from the midst of thee those exulting in thy pride, and thou shalt no more add to be elevated in my holy mountain.

12 And I left in the midst of thee a humble and weak people, and they trusted in the name of Jehovah.

13 The remnant of Israel shall not do iniquity, and they shall not speak falsehood: and in their mouth shall not be found a tongue of deceit: for they shall feed and lie down, and none terrifying.

14 Shout for joy, O daughter of Zion; cry with a loud voice, O Israel; rejoice and exult with all the heart, O daughter of Jerusalem.

15 Jehovah removed thy judgments, be turned away thine enemy: the king of Israel, Jehovah in the midst of thee: thou shalt no more see evil.

16 In that day he will say to Jerusalem, Thou shalt not fear: O Zion, thy hands shall not be slack.

17 Jehovah thy God is in the midst of thee: the strong one will save, he will rejoice over thee with joy; he will be silent in his love, he will exult over thee with rejoicing.

18 I will assemble those grieved for the appointment, who were from thee, the lifting up upon it a reproach.

19 Behold me doing all for sake of thee in that time: and I saved her halting, and her being driven out I will gather; and I set them for a praise and for a name in every land of their shame.

20 In that time I will bring you, and in the time of my gathering you: for I will give you for a name and for a praise among all peoples of the earth, in my turning your captivity before your eyes, said Jehovah.

10. THE BOOK OF THE PROPHET HAGGAI

Hebrew title: Sefer Haggay or Khagai
Estimated Range of Dating: c. 520 B.C.

(The Book of Haggai, also known as the Book of Aggeus, is a book of the Hebrew Bible or Tanakh, and has its place as the third-to-last of the Minor Prophets. It is a short book, consisting of only two chapters. The Book of Haggai was written in 520 BC, some 18 years after Cyrus had conquered Babylon and issued a decree in 538 BC, allowing the captive Jews to return to Judea. The Book of Haggai is named after its presumed author, the prophet Haggai. There is no biographical information given about the prophet in the Book of Haggai. Haggai's name is derived from the Hebrew verbal root h-g-g, which means "to make a pilgrimage." Haggai's name might come from his single-minded effort to bring about the reconstruction of that destination of ancient Judean pilgrims, the Temple in Jerusalem.

Haggai's message is filled with an urgency for the people to proceed with the rebuilding of the second Jerusalem temple. Haggai attributes a recent drought to the people's refusal to rebuild the temple, which he sees as key to Jerusalem's glory. The book ends with the prediction of the downfall of kingdoms, with one Zerubbabel, governor of Judah, as the Lord's chosen leader. [According to the biblical narrative, Zerubbabel was a governor of the Achaemenid Persian Empire's province Yehud Medinata [Judah] and the grandson of Jeconiah, penultimate king of Judah. Zerubbabel led the first group of Jews, numbering 42,360, who returned from the Babylonian captivity in the first regnal year of Cyrus the Great, Kurush II, the king (emperor) of the Achaemenid Empire. The date is generally thought to have been between 538 and 520 BC. Zerubbabel also laid the foundation of the Second Temple in Jerusalem soon after.]

The first chapter contains the first address (2–11) and its effects (12–15).

The second chapter contains:

1. The second prophecy (1–9), which was delivered a month after the first

2. The third prophecy (10–19), delivered two months and three days after the second; and

3. The fourth prophecy (20–23), delivered on the same day as the third

These discourses are referred to in Ezra 5:1 and 6:14. (Compare Haggai 2:7, 8 and 22)

Haggai [1:14–15] reports that three weeks after his first prophecy, the rebuilding of the Temple began in c. 521 BC and the Book of Ezra [6:15] indicates that it was finished in 516 BC. "The Temple was completed on the third day of the month Adar, in the sixth year of the reign of King Darius.")

TREI ASAR 10, HAGGAI CHAPTER 1

1 In the second year to Darius the king, in the sixth month, in one day of the month, was the word of Jehovah, by the hand of Haggai the prophet to Zerubbabel son of Shealtiel, governor of Judah, and to Josbna son of Josedeck the great priest, saying

2 Thus said Jehovah of armies, saying, This people said the time was not come, the time of the house of Jehovah to be built

3 And the word of Jehovah will be by the hand of Haggai the prophet, saying,

4 Is the time for you, O ye, to dwell in your covered houses, and this house a waste?

5 And now, thus said Jehovah of armies: Set your hearts upon your ways

6 Ye sowed much and brought in little; eating and not being satisfied; ye drank, and not drinking to the full; putting on clothing, and not being warm to him; and he hiring out, hires out for a purse perforated.

7 Thus said Jehovah of armies: Set your hearts upon your ways.

8 Go up to the mountain and bring wood, and build the house, and I will delight in it, and I shall be honored, said Jehovah.

9 Looking for much, and behold, to little; and ye brought to the house and I blew upon it For what? says Jehovah of armies. Because of mine house that it was laid waste, and ye run each to his house.

10 For this the heavens over you were shut up from dew, and the earth withheld her produce.

11 And I will call the drought upon the land, and upon the mountains, and upon the grain, and upon the new wine and upon the new oil, and upon what the earth shall bring forth, and upon man and upon cattle, and upon all the labor of the hands.

12 And Zerubbabel son of Shealtiel will hear, and Joshua son of Josedeck the great priest, and all the remnant of the people, to the voice of Jehovah their God, and to the words of Haggai the prophet, as Jehovah their God sent him, and the people will fear from the face of Jehovah.

13 And Haggai the messenger of Jehovah will say in the message of Jehovah to the people, I am with you, says Jehovah.

14 And Jehovah will raise up the spirit of Zerubbabel son of Shealtiel, governor of Judah, and the spirit of Joshua son of Josedeck the great priest and the spirit of all the remnant of the people; and they will come and do the work in the house of Jehovah of armies their God.

15 In the twenty and fourth day to the sixth month in the second year to Darius the king.

TREI ASAR 10, HAGGAI CHAPTER 2

1 In the seventh, in the twentieth and one to the month, was the word of Jehovah by the hand of Haggai the prophet, saying,

2 Say now to Zerubbabel son of Shealtiel, governor of Judah, and to Joshua son of Josedeck the great priest, and to the remnant of the people, saying,

3 Who being left among you who saw this house in its first glory? and how see ye it now? Is it not in your eyes like it as nothing?

4 And now be strong, O Zerubbabel, says Jehovah; and be strong, O Joshua, son of Josedeck the great priest; and be strong, O all people of the land, says Jehovah, and do, for I am with you, says Jehovah of armies.

5 The word which I cut out with you in bringing you forth out of Egypt, and my spirit stood in the midst of you; ye shall not fear.

6 For thus said Jehovah of armies; Yet once it is a little, and I shake the heavens and the earth and the sea and the dry land.

7 And I shook all nations, and the desire of all nations came; and I filled this house with glory, said Jehovah of armies.

8 To me the silver and to me the gold, says Jehovah of armies.

9 Great shall be the glory of this latter house above the first, said Jehovah of armies: and in this place I will give peace, says Jehovah of armies.

10 In the twenty and fourth to the ninth, in the second year to Darius, was the-word of Jehovah by the hand of Haggai the prophet, saying,

11 Thus said Jehovah of armies, Ask now the priests the law, saying,

12 If a man shall lift up holy flesh in the wing of his garment and touch with the wing of his garment upon the bread and upon pottage, and upon wine and upon oil, and upon any food, shall it be made holy? And the priests shall answer and say, No.

13 And Haggai will say, If the unclean of soul shall touch upon any of these, shall it be unclean? and the priests shall answer and say, It shall be unclean.

14 And Haggai will answer and say, Thus this people and thus this nation before me, says Jehovah; and thus all the work of their hands; and what they shall bring near there it is unclean.

15 And now, set now your heart from this day and upward, before setting stone upon stone in the temple of Jehovah.

16 Who were ye coming to the heap of twenty and it was ten? coming to the wine-vat to draw fifty of the wine-press, and there was twenty?

17 I struck you with blasting and with yellowness and with hail in all the work of your hands; and none with you to me, says Jehovah.

18 Set now your heart from this day and upward, from the twenty and fourth day to the ninth, from the day that the temple of Jehovah was founded, set ye your heart

19 Is the seed yet in the storehouse? and even the vine and the fig tree, and the pomegranate and the olive tree bore not: from this day will I praise.

20 And the word of Jehovah will be the second time to Haggai in the twenty and fourth to the month, saying,

21 Say to Zerubbabel, governor of Judah, saying, I shake the heavens and the earth.

22 And I overturned the throne of kingdoms, and I destroyed the strength of the kingdoms of the nations; and I overturned the chariot and those riding it; and the horses and their horsemen came down, a man by the sword of his brother.

23 In that day, says Jehovah of armies, I will take thee, O Zerubbabel, son of Shealtiel, my servant, says Jehovah, and I set thee as a seal; for I chose in thee, says Jehovah of armies.

11. THE BOOK OF THE PROPHET ZECHARIAH

Hebrew title: Sefer Zekharyah
Estimated Range of Dating: c. 520–518 BC

(The Book of Zechariah, attributed to the Hebrew prophet Zechariah, is included in the Twelve Minor Prophets in the Hebrew Bible. The name "Zechariah" means "God remembered." Not much is known about Zechariah's life other than what may be inferred from the book. It has been speculated that his grandfather Iddo was the head of a priestly family who returned with Zerubbabel, and that Zechariah may himself have been a priest as well as a prophet. This is supported by Zechariah's interest in the Temple and the priesthood, and from Iddo's preaching in the Books of Chronicles.

The Book of Zechariah was written by at least two different people. Zechariah 1–8, sometimes referred to as First Zechariah, was written in the 6th century BC. Zechariah 9–14, often called Second Zechariah, contains within the text no datable references to specific events or individuals but most scholars give the text a date in the fifth century BC.

Second Zechariah, probably written by a disciple of Zechariah, appears to make use of the books of Isaiah, Jeremiah, and Ezekiel, the Deuteronomistic History, and the themes from First Zechariah.

Contents and Structure:

Chapters 1 to 6

The book begins with a preface, which recalls the nation's history, for the purpose of presenting a solemn warning to the present generation. Then follows a series of eight visions, succeeding one another in one night, which may be regarded as a symbolical history of Israel, intended to furnish consolation to the returned exiles and stir up hope in their minds. The symbolic action, the crowning of Joshua, describes how the kingdoms of the world become the kingdom of God's Messiah.

Chapters 7 and 8

Chapters Zechariah 7 and Zechariah 8, written two years later, are an answer to the question whether the days of mourning for the destruction of the city should be kept any longer, and an encouraging address to the people, assuring them of God's presence and blessing.

Chapters 9 to 11 [sometimes called 'The First Oracle] tell of a future time when the nations around them would be destroyed by an army, but Jerusalem would be kept from destruction. The coming of a Messiah is mentioned here [a Jewish teaching that craves for firm leadership].

Chapters 12 to 14 [sometimes called 'The Second Oracle] tell about the glories that await Israel in "the latter day", the final conflict and triumph of God's kingdom.)

TREI ASAR 11, ZECHARIAH CHAPTER 1

1 In the eighth month, in the second year to Darius, was the word of Jehovah to Zechariah son of Barachiah, son of Iddo the prophet, saying,

3 And thou saidst to them, Thus said Jehovah of armies: Turn back to me, says Jehovah of armies, and I will turn back to you, said Jehovah of armies.

4 Ye shall not be as your fathers which the former prophets called to them, saying, Thus, said Jehovah of armies: Turn back now from your evil ways and your evil doings: and they heard not, and they attended not to me, says Jehovah.

5 Your fathers, where are they? and the prophets, shall they live forever?

6 But the words and the laws which I commanded my servants the prophets, did they not reach your fathers? and they will turn back and say, As Jehovah of armies purposed to do to us according to our ways and according to our doings, so he did with us.

7 In the twenty and fourth day to the eleventh month, this the month Sabat, in the second year to Darius, was the word of Jehovah to Zechariah, son of Barachiah, son of Iddo the prophet, saying,

8 I saw by night, and behold a man riding upon a red horse, and he stood beween the myrtles which were in shady place; and after him red horses, bay, and white.

9 And saying, What these, my lord? And the messenger speaking with me, will say to me, I will cause thee to see what these are?

10 And the man standing between the myrtles will answer and say, These which Jehovah sent to go about in the earth.

11 And they will answer the messenger of Jehovah standing between the myrtles, and they will say, We walked about in the earth, and behold, all the earth sat and rested.

12 And the messenger of Jehovah will answer and say, O Jehovah of armies, how long wilt thou not compassionate Jerusalem and the cities of Judah with whom thou wert very angry this seventy years?

13 And Jehovah will answer the messenger speaking with me good words, consoling words.

14 And the messenger speaking with me, will say to me, Call thou, saying, Thus said Jehovah of armies; I was jealous for Jerusalem and for Zion with great jealousy.

15 And I am angry with great anger against the nations living in quiet: for I was angry a little and they helped for evil.

16 For this, thus said Jehovah: I turned back to Jerusalem with mercies: my house shall be built in it, says Jehovah of armies, and a cord shall be stretched forth upon Jerusalem.

17 Yet call, say, Thus said Jehovah of armies: My cities shall be spread abroad for good; and Jehovah yet comforted Zion and yet chose Jerusalem.

18 And I shall lift up mine eyes, and see, and behold, four horns

19 And saying to the messenger speaking with me, What these? And he will say to me, These the horns which scattered Judah, and Israel, and Jerusalem.

20 And Jehovah caused me to see four artificers

21 And saying, What came these to do? And he will say, saying, These the horns which scattered Judah, so that a man lifted not up his head: and these will come to terrify them, to cast out the horns of the nations lifting up the horn to the land of Judah to scatter it.

TREI ASAR 11, ZECHARIAH CHAPTER 2

1 I shall lift up mine eyes and see, and behold, a man, and in his hand a cord of measure.

2 And saying, Whither goest thou? And he will say to me, To measure Jerusalem, to see according to what its breadth, and according to what its length.

3 And behold, the messenger speaking with me went forth, and another messenger went forth to meet him:

4 And he will say to him, Run, speak to this youth, saying, Jerusalem shall be inhabited an open country from the multitude of men and cattle in the midst of her.

5 And I will be to her, says Jehovah, a wall of fire round about, and I will be for glory in the midst of her.

6 Alas! alas! and flee ye from the land of the north, says Jehovah: for as the four winds of the heavens I spread you abroad, says Jehovah.

8 For thus said Jehovah of armies: After glory he sent me to the nations spoiling you: for he touching upon you touched the gate of his eye.

9 For behold me waving my hand upon them, and they were a spoil to their servants: and ye knew that Jehovah of armies sent me.

10 Shout for joy and rejoice, O daughter of Zion: for behold me coming, and I dwelt in the midst of thee, says Jehovah.

11 And many nations joined themselves to Jehovah in that day, and they were to me for a people: and I dwelt in the midst of thee, and thou knewest that Jehovah of armies sent me to thee.

12 And Jehovah inherited Judah his portion upon the holy land, and he yet chose Jerusalem.

13 Be silent, all flesh, from the face of Jehovah: for he was raised from the habitation of his holiness.

TREI ASAR 11, ZECHARIAH CHAPTER 3

1 And he will cause me to see Joshua the great priest standing before the messenger of Jehovah, and the adversary standing upon his right hand for his adversary.

2 And Jehovah will say to the adversary, And Jehovah will rebuke in thee, thou adversary: and Jehovah having chosen in Jerusalem will rebuke in thee: is not this a fire-brand snatched from the fire?

3 And Joshua was clothed in filthy garments, and he stood before the messenger.

4 And he will answer and say to them standing before him, saying, Remove the filthy garments from off him, And he will say to him, See, I caused thine iniquity to pass from thee, and clothed thee with festive garments.

5 And saying, They shall set a pure turban upon his head; and they will set the pure turban upon his head, and they will put on the garments. And the messenger of Jehovah stood.

6 And the messenger of Jehovah will protest to Joshua, saying,

7 Thus said Jehovah of armies: If thou wilt go in my way, and if thou shalt watch my watches, and thou also shalt judge my house, and also thou shalt watch my enclosure, and I gave to thee the goings between these standing by.

8 Hear now, O Joshua the great priest, thou and thy friends sitting before thee, for they are men of wonder: for behold me bringing my servant the Sprout.

9 For behold the stone which I gave before Joshua; upon one stone seven eyes: behold me engraving its engraving, says Jehovah of armies, and I removed the iniquity of that land in one day.

10 In that day, says Jehovah of armies, ye shall call each his neighbor under the vine and under the fig tree.

TREI ASAR 11, ZECHARIAH CHAPTER 4

1 And the messenger speaking with me will turn back and rouse me up as a man that will be roused from his sleep.

2 And he will say to me, What seest thou? And saying, I saw, and behold, a candlestick of gold, all of it, and a bowl upon its head, and its seven lights upon it, and seven tubes to the seven lights which were upon its head:

4 And I shall answer and say to the messenger speaking with me, saying, What are these, my lord?

5 And the messenger speaking with me will answer and say to me, Knewest thou not what these are? And saying, No, my lord.

6 And he will answer And say to me, saying, This the word of Jehovah to Zerubbabel, saying, Not by strength, not by power, but by my spirit, said Jehovah of armies.

7 Who art thou, O great mountain? before the face of Zerubbabel for a level region. And he brought forth the stone of the head, a noise: Grace, grace to it

8 And the word of Jehovah will be to me, saying,

9 The hands of Zerubbabel founded this house, and his hands shall complete it; and thou knewest that Jehovah of armies sent me to you.

10 For who despised the day of small things? and they rejoiced, and they saw the stone of tin in the hand of Zerubbabel, these seven; they the eyes of Jehovah running to and fro in all the earth.

11 And I shall answer and say to him, What these two olive trees upon the right of the candlestick and upon its left?

12 And I shall answer the second time, and say to him, What these two twigs of the olive trees which by the hand of the two tubes of gold. emptying from them the gold?

13 And he will say to me, saying, Knewest thou not what these are? And saying, No, my lord.

14 And he will say, These the two sons of new oil standing by the Lord, of all the earth.

TREI ASAR 11, ZECHARIAH CHAPTER 5

1 And I shall turn back and lift up mine eyes and see, and behold, a roll flying.

2 And he will say to me, What seest thou? And saying, I see a roll flying; its length twenty by the cubit, and its breadth, ten by the cubit

3 And he will say to me, This the curse going forth upon the face of all the earth: for every one stealing from thence was empty like it; and every one swearing from this was empty like it

4 I brought it forth, says Jehovah of armies, and it came into the house of the thief, and into the house of him swearing for falsehood in my name: and it lodged in the midst of his house, and it finished it and its wood and its stones.

5 And the messenger speaking with me will go forth and say to me, Lift up now thine eyes and see what this going forth.

6 And saying, What is it? And he will say to me, This the ephah going forth. And he will say, This their eye in all the earth.

7 And behold, a talent of lead was lifted up: and this one woman sitting in the midst of the ephah.

8 And he will say, This injustice. And he will cast her into the midst of the ephah; and he will cast a stone of lead upon its mouth.

9 And I shall lift up mine eyes and see, and behold, two women will come forth, and the wind in their wings; and to them wings as the wings of the stork; and they shall lift up the ephah between the earth and between the heavens.

10 And saying to the messenger speaking with me, Whither do they carry the ephah?

11 And he will say to me, To build for it a house in the land of Shiner: and it was prepared, and set there upon her base.

TREI ASAR 11, ZECHARIAH CHAPTER 6

1 And I shall turn back and lift up mine eyes and see, and behold, four chariots going forth from between two mountains; and the mountains, mountains of brass.

2 In the first chariot, red horses; and in the second chariot, black horses;

3 And in the third chariot, white horses and in the fourth chariot, horses sprinkled with spots, and fleet

4 And I shall answer and say to the messenger speaking with me, What are these, my lord?

5 And the messenger will answer and say to me, These the four spirits of the heavens going forth from standing before the Lord of all the earth.

6 The black horses which are in it, going forth into the land of the north; and the white went forth after them; and the sprinkled with spots went forth to the land of the south.

7 And the fleet went forth and they will seek to go in order to go to and fro in the earth: and he will say, Go; go to and fro in the earth. And they will go to and fro in the earth.

8 And he will cry out with me, and speak to me, saying, See them going forth to the land of the north; they caused my spirit to rest in the land of the north.

9 And the word of Jehovah will be to me, saying,

10 Take from the captivity, from Heldai, from Tobijah, and from Jedaiah, which came from Babel, and come thou in that day and go into the house of Josiah son of Zephaniah;

11 And take silver and gold and make crowns, and set upon the head of Joshua, son of Josedeck the great priest;

12 And say to him, saying, Thus said Jehovah of armies, saying, Behold the man, The Sprout his name; and he shall spring forth from his place and build the temple of Jehovah.

13 And he shall build the temple of Jehovah; and he shall lift up the majesty, and he sat and ruled upon his throne: and he was priest upon his throne: and the counsel of peace shall be between them two.

14 And the crown shall be to Helem, and to Tobijah, and to Jedaiah, and to Hen, son of Zephaniah, for a remembrance in the temple of Jehovah.

15 And they being far off shall come and build in the temple of Jehovah; and ye knew that Jehovah of armies sent me to you. And it was if hearing, ye shall hear to the voice of Jehovah your God.

TREI ASAR 11, ZECHARIAH CHAPTER 7

1 And it will be in the fourth year to Darius the king, the word of Jehovah was to Zechariah in the fourth to the ninth month, in Chisleu;

2 And he will send to the house of God, the chief of the treasure, and the friend of the king, and his men to beseech the face of Jehovah.

3 To speak to the priests which were to the house of Jehovah of armies, and to the prophets, saying, Should I weep in the fifth month, separating myself according as I did, how many the years?

4 And the word of Jehovah of armies was to me, saying,

5 Say to all the people of the land, and to the priests, saying, When ye fasted and mourned in the fifth and in the seventh, and this seventy years, fasting, fasted ye to me, me?

6 And when ye shall eat, and when ye shall drink, are ye not eating, and are ye not drinking?

7 Is it not the words which Jehovah called by the hand of the former prophets in Jerusalem being inhabited and in security, and its cities round about her, and inhabiting the south and the low country?

8 And the word of Jehovah will be to Zechariah, saying,

9 Thus said Jehovah of armies, saying. Judge ye the judgment of truth, and do mercy and compassions each to his brother.

10 And the widow and the orphan, the stranger and the poor, ye shall not oppress; and ye shall not purpose evil in your heart a man to his brother.

11 And they will refuse to attend, and they will give a stubborn shoulder, and their ears they made heavy from hearing.

12 And their heart they set a diamond from hearing the instruction and the words which Jehovah of armies sent by his spirit by the hand of the former prophets: and there will be great wrath from Jehovah of armies.

13 And it will be as he called and they heard not; so they shall call, and I will not hear, said Jehovah of armies:

14 And I will toss them about among all the nations which they knew not: and the land was desolate after them from passing through and from turning back: and they shall set the land of desire for a desolation.

TREI ASAR 11, ZECHARIAH CHAPTER 8

1 And the word of Jehovah of armies will be, saying,

2 Thus said Jehovah of armies: I was jealous for Zion with great jealousy and with great wrath was I jealous for her.

3 Thus said Jehovah: I turned back to Zion, and I dwelt in the midst of Jerusalem: and Jerusalem was called, The city of truth; and the mountain of Jehovah of armies, The holy mountain.

4 Thus said Jehovah of armies: Yet shall old men and old women sit in the broad places of Jerusalem, and a man his support in his hand from the multitude of days.

5 And the broad places of the city shall be filled with boys and girls playing in her broad places.

6 Thus said Jehovah of armies: If it shall be wonderful in the eyes of the remnant of this people in these days, also shall it be wonderful in mine eyes, says Jehovah of armies:

7 Thus said Jehovah of armies: Behold me saving my people from the land of the sun rising, and from the land of the going down of the sun.

8 And I brought them, and they dwelt in the midst of Jerusalem: and they were to me for a people, and I will be to them for God, in truth and in justice.

9 Thus said Jehovah of armies: Your hands shall be strong, ye bearing in these days these words from the mouth of the prophets, which were in the day the house of Jehovah of armies was founded for the temple to be built

10 For before these days there was no hire of man, and not any hire of cattle; and to him going out, and to him coming in, no peace from the straits: and I will send all the men each against his neighbor.

11 And now not as the former days am I to the remnant of this people, says Jehovah of armies.

12 For the seed of peace; the vine shall give her fruit and the earth shall give her produce, and the heavens shall give their dew; and I caused the remnant of this people to inherit all these.

13 And it was as ye were a curse in the nations, O house of Judah, and house of Israel; so I will save you, and ye were a praise: ye shall not fear; your hands shall be strengthened.

14 For thus said Jehovah of armies; As I had in mind to do evil to you in your fathers' provoking me to anger, said Jehovah of armies, and, I lamented not

15 So I turned back.; I had in mind in these days to do good to Jerusalem and to the house of Judah: ye shall not fear.

16 These the words which ye shall do: speak the truth each with his neighbor; truth and the judgment of peace judge ye in your gates.

17 And ye shall not purpose evil, a man to his neighbor, in your heart; and ye shall not love the oath of falsehood: for all these which I hated, says Jehovah.

18 And the word of Jehovah of armies will be to me, saying,

19 Thus said Jehovah of armies: The fast of the fourth, and the fast of the fifth, and the fast of the seventh, and the fast of the tenth, shall be to the house of Judah for joy and for gladness, and for good appointments; and love ye truth and peace.

20 Thus said Jehovah of armies: Yet that peoples shall come, and the inhabitants of many cities:

21 And the inhabitants of one went to one, saying, We will go, going to beseech the face of Jehovah, and to seek Jehovah of armies: I will go also.

22 And many peoples and strong nations came to seek Jehovah of armies in Jerusalem, and to beseech the face of Jehovah.

23 Thus said Jehovah of armies: In those days, that ten men shall take hold from all tongues of the nations, and they took hold of the wing of a man a Jew, saying, We will go with you: for we heard God is with you.

TREI ASAR 11, ZECHARIAH CHAPTER 9

1 The lifting up of the word of Jehovahh in the land of Hadrach, and Damascus its gift: when to Jehovah the eye of man and all the tribes of Israel

2 And also Hamath shall be the bound in it; Tyre and Zidon, for it was wise exceedingly.

3 And Tyre will build for herself a fortress, and she will heap up silver as the dust, and gold as the mud of the streets.

4 Behold, Jehovah will dispossess her, and he struck her strength in the sea; and she shall be devoured by fire.

5 Ashkelon shall see and shall fear; and Gaza, and she shall be greatly pained, and Ekron; for her confidence was ashamed; and the king perished from Gaza, and Ashkelon shall not be inhabited.

6 And a foreigner dwelt in Ashdod, and I cut off the pride of the rovers

7 And I took away his bloods from his mouth, and his abominable things from between his teeth: and being left he also to our God, and he was a thousand in Judah, and Ekron as a Jebusite.

8 And I encamped at my house a garrison from him passing by, and from him turning back: and he driving shall no more pass through against them: for now I saw with mine eyes.

9 Rejoice greatly, O daughter of Zion; make a loud noise, O daughter of Jerusalem: behold, thy king shall come to thee: just, and saving; he is humble and riding upon an ass, and upon an ass's colt the son of asses.

10 And I cut off the chariot from Ephraim, and the horse from Jerusalem, and the bow of war was cut off: and he spake peace to the nations: and his dominion from sea even to sea, and from the river even to the end of the earth.

11 Also thou by the blood of thy covenant I sent forth thy bound ones from the pit no water in it

12 Turn back to the fortress, ye captives of hope: also announcing this day I will turn back double to thee;

13 For I tread out Judah to me, I filled the bow with Ephraim, and I raised up thy sons, O Zion, against thy sons, O Greece, and I set thee as the sword of the strong one.

14 And Jehovah will be seen upon them, and his arrow shall go forth as lightning: and the Lord Jehovah will strike upon the trumpet, and he went with tempests of the south.

15 Jehovah of armies shall protect over them; and they devoured and subdued with the stones of the sling; and they drank, they made a noise as from wine; and they filled as the vase, as the corners of the altar.

16 And Jehovah their God saved them in that day as the sheep of his people: for the stones of consecration, lifting themselves up in his land.

TREI ASAR 11, ZECHARIAH CHAPTER 10

1 Ask ye from Jehovah rain in the time of the latter rain; Jehovah made lightnings, and he will give rain of heavy showers to them, to each the green herb in the field.

2 For the family gods spake vanity, and the diviners saw falsehood, and they will speak dreams of falsehood they will comfort in vain: for this, they removed as a flock, they were afflicted for there was no shepherd.

3 Mine anger was kindled against the shepherds, and I will review upon the he goats: for Jehovah of armies reviewed upon his flock the house of Judah, as the house of his strength in the war.

4 From him the chief, from him the nail, from him the bow of war, from him came forth every tyrant together.

5 And they were as the strong treading down in the mud of the streets in the battle: and they waged war, for Jehovah was with them, and they riding horses were ashamed.

6 And I strengthened the house of Judah, and I will save the house of Joseph, and I turned them back for I cornpassionated them, and they were as if I cast them not off: for I am Jehovah their God, and I will answer them.

7 And they were as the strong one of Ephraim, and their heart rejoiced as from wine: and their sons shall see, and rejoice; their heart shall exult in Jehovah.

8 I will hiss for them, and gather them; for I redeemed them: and they multiplied as they multiplied.

9 And I will sow them among the peoples, and in distant places shall they remember me: and they lived with their sons, and turned back.

10 And I turned them back from the hind of Egypt, and from Assur will I gather them, and to the land of Gilead and Lebanon will I bring them; and it shall not be found for them.

11 And he passed through the sea of straits, and he struck the waves in the sea, and all the depths of the river dried up; and the pride of Assur was brought down, and the rod of Egypt shall depart

12 And I strengthened them in Jehovah; and in his name shall they go about, says Jehovah.

TREI ASAR 11, ZECHARIAH CHAPTER 11

1 Open the doors, O Lebanon, and fire shall devour among thy cedars.

2 Wail, O cypress, for the cedar fell; for the powerful ones were destroyed: wail, ye oaks of Bashan, for the forest of the vintage went down.

3 A voice of wailing of the shepherds, for their greatness was destroyed: a voice of the roaring of young lions, for the pride of Jordan was destroyed.

4 Thus said Jehovah my God: Feed the flock of slaughter;

5 Which they possessing them will slaughter them, and they will not be punished: and they selling them will say, Blessed be Jehovah; and I shall be rich: and their shepherds had not pity upon them.

6 For I will no more have pity upon the inhabitants of the land, says Jehovah: and behold, the men to be found each in the hand of his neighbor, and in the hand of his king: and they beat the land, and I will not deliver from their hand.

7 And I will feed the flock of slaughter for you, and the poor of the sheep: And I will take to me two rods; to the one I called Beauty, and to the one, I called Cords; and I will feed the sheep.

8 And I will conceal three shepherds in one month; and my soul will be shortened for them, and also their soul loathed for me.

9 And saying, I will not feed you: the dying shall die, and the concealed shall be concealed; and they being left shall eat each the flesh of her neighbor.

10 And I will take my rod Beauty, and I will cut it off, to break my covenant which I cut out with all the peoples.

11 And it shall be broken in that day: and the poor of the flock watching me knew that it was the word of Jehovah.

12 And saying to them, If good in your eyes, give ye my hire; and if not, desist. And they will weigh my hire, thirty of silver.

13 And Jehovah will say to me, Cast it to the potter: a splendor of price which I was prized of them. And I shall take the thirty of silver and cast it in the house of Jehovah, to the potter.

14 And I shall cut off my second rod, Cords, to break the brotherhood between Judah and between Israel.

15 And Jehovah will say to me, Yet take to thee the vessels of a foolish shepherd.

16 For behold, I raise up a shepherd in the land, he shall not review those being concealed; the youth he shall not seek, and he shall not heal the broken, and he shall not nourish the standing firmly: and he shall eat the flesh of the fading, and he shall break their hoofs.

17 Wo! to the empty shepherd forsaking the sheep; the sword upon his arm, and upon his right eye: and his arm

TREI ASAR 11, ZECHARIAH CHAPTER 12

1 The Lifting up of the word of Jehovah for Israel, says Jehovah, stretching forth the heavens and founding the earth, and forming the spirit of man in the midst of him.

2 Behold, I set Jerusalem a dish of reeling to all peoples round about, and against Judah shall he be in the straitness against Jerusalem.

3 And it was in that day I will set Jerusalem a stone of burden to all peoples: all loading her, being out; shall be cut; and all the nations of the earth were gathered together against her..

4 In that day, says Jehovah, I will strike every horse with astonishment, and his rider with madness: and upon the house of Judah I will open mine eyes, and every horse of the peoples I will strike with blindness.

5 And the thousands of Judah said in their heart, The inhabitants of Jerusalem strength to me in Jehovah of armies their God.

6 In that day I will set the thousands of Judah as a fire-pan of fire among the woods, and as a torch of fire in a sheaf; and they devoured upon the right and upon the left all the peoples round about: and Jerusalem shall yet dwell in her place in Jerusalem.

7 And Jehovah saved the tents of Judah first, so that the glorying of the house of David shall not be magnified, and the glorying of the inhabitants of Jerusalem, against Judah.

8 In that day Jehovah shall protect about the inhabitants of Jerusalem; and he being weak among them in that day was as David; and the house of David as God, as the messenger of Jehovah before them.

9 And it was in that day I will seek to destroy all the nations coming against Jerusalem.

10 And I poured out upon the house of David and upon the inhabitants of Jerusalem the spirit of grace and supplications: and they looked to me whom they pierced, and they mourned for him as mourning for the only begotten, and being embittered for him as being embittered for the first-born.

11 In that day the mourning shall be magnified as the mourning of Hadad-Rimmon in the valley of Megiddon.

12 And the land mourned, families, families by themselves; the family of the house of David by itself, and their wives by themselves; the family of the house of giving by itself, and their wives by themselves.

13 The family of the house of Levi by itself, and their wives by themselves; the family of hearing by itself, and their wives by themselves.

14 All the families being left, families, families, by themselves, and their wives by themselves.

TREI ASAR 11, ZECHARIAH CHAPTER 13

1 In that day shall be a fountain opened to the house of David and to the inhabitants of Jerusalem, for sin and for putting away.

2 And it was in that day, says Jehovah of armies, I will cut off the names of the images from the land, and they shall be remembered no more: and also I will cause the prophets and the unclean spirit to pass out of the land.

3 And it was if a man shall yet prophesy, and his father and his mother who begat him, said to him, Thou shalt not live, for thou spakest falsehood in the name of Jehovah: and his father and his mother begetting him thrust him through in his prophesying.

4 And it was in that day the prophets shall be ashamed, each of his vision, in his prophesying; and they shall not put on a mantle of hair to speak lies:

5 And saying, I am not a prophet; I a man working the land; for man sold me from my youth.

6 And saying to him, What these wounds between thy hands? And he said, Which I was struck in the house of those loving me.

7 O sword, be raised up against my shepherd, and against the man of my fellowship, says Jehovah of armies: strike the shepherd and the sheep shall be scattered; and I turned back my hand upon the little ones.

8 And it was in all the land, says Jehovah, two parts in it shall be cut off, they shall expire; and the third shall be left in it

9 And I brought the third through fire, and I purified them as purifying silver, and I tried them as trying gold: he shall call on my name and I will answer him: I said, He is my people; and he shall say, Jehovah my God.

TREI ASAR 11, ZECHARIAH CHAPTER 14

1 Behold, the day to Jehovah coming, and thy spoil was divided in the midst of thee.

2 And I gathered all the nations against Jerusalem for war; and the city was taken, and the houses were plundered, and the women shall be ravished; and half the city shall go forth into captivity, and the people being left shall not be cut off from the city.

3 And Jehovah went forth and waged war with these nations as the day of his warring in the day of encounter.

4 And his feet stood in that day upon the mount of Olives which is upon the face of Jerusalem from the east; and the mount of Olives was cleft asunder from its half from the sunrising and the sea, and a very great valley; and half of the mountain removed to the north, and its half to the south.

5 And ye fled to the valley of the mountains; for the valley of the mountains shall reach to the side, and ye fled as ye fled from the face of the shaking in the days of Uzziah, king of Judah: and Jehovah my God came, all the holy ones with thee.

6 And it was in that day the light shall not be; the splendors shall be drawn in:

7 And it was one day it shall be known to Jehovah, not day, and not night: and it was at the time of evening it shall be light

8 And it was in that day living waters went forth from Jerusalem: half of them to the former sea, and half of them to the last sea: in summer and in autumn shall it be.

9 And Jehovah was for king over all the earth: in that day Jehovah shall be one, and his name one.

10 He shall surround all the land as the desert from the hill to the pomegranate south of Jerusalem: and it was high, and she dwelt in her place from the gate of Benjamin even to the place of the first gate, even to the gate of the corner, and the tower of Hananeel even to the wine-presses of the king.

11 And they shall dwell in her and destruction shall be no more: and Jerusalem shall be confidently dwelt in.

12 And this shall be the smiting which Jehovah will smite all the peoples who made war upon Jerusalem; and he caused his flesh to pine away, and he stood upon his feet, and his eyes shall pine away in their holes, and his tongue shall pine away in their mouth.

13 And it was in that day there shall be great consternation of Jehovah among them; and they laid hold each upon the hand of his neighbor, and his hand shall come up upon the hand of his neighbor.

14 And also Judah shall wage war in Jerusalem; and he gathered the strength of all the nations round about, gold and silver and garments to an exceeding multitude.

15 And thus shall be the smiting of the horse, the mule, the camel, and the ass, and all the cattle which shall be in those camps, as this smiting.

16 And every one being left of all the nations coming against Jerusalem, and they went up from year to year to worship to the king, Jehovah of armies, to keep a festival, the festival of booths.

17 And it was who will not come up of the families of the earth to Jerusalem to worship to the king, Jehovah of armies, and upon them shall not be rain.

18 And if the family of Egypt shall not go up, and it not coming, and not upon them there shall be the smiting which Jehovah shall smite the nations which will not come up to keep the festival, the festival of booths.

19 This shall be the sin of Egypt, and the sin of all the nations which will not come up to keep the festival, the festival of booths.

20 In that day shall be upon the bells of the horse, Holiness to Jehovah; and it was the pots in the house of Jehovah as vases before the face of the altar.

21 And every pot in Jerusalem and in Judah was holiness to Jehovah of armies: and all sacrificing came and took of them, and boiled in them: and the Canaanite shall be no more in the house of Jehovah in that day.

12. THE BOOK OF THE PROPHET MALACHI

Hebrew title: Sefer Malakhiyah
Author: Azaryahu, known as Ezra (Greek: Esdras)
Estimated Range of Dating: mid-5th century B.C.

(Malachi [or Malachias; Malahi, Malakhi] is the last book of the Neviim contained in the Tanakh, canonically the last of the Twelve Minor Prophets. In the Christian ordering, the grouping of the Prophetic Books is the last section of the Old Testament, making Malachi the last book before The New Testament.

This gives Christian Bible readers the false impression that after Malachi was a 500-years long gap called the "Intertestamental Period", with no writing activites at all, and the New Testament would then be continueing the once dropped writing traditions. This believe was desired by Christian Bible compilers [designated by Emperor Flavius Constantinus and his right-hand man Eusebius of Caesarea Maritima].

This is the reason why the Christian Old Testament differs from arrangement in the Hebrew Bible, although both have almost the same contents. Christian Church authorities wanted to point out by this arrangement, that the Jews [once the Christians' greatest rivals] were abandoned by God and the 'baton of faithfulness' had been passed over to the Christians. The silent removal of the Hebrew Deuterocanon from Protestant Bibles in 1885 had pretty much the same reasons as background.

The word "Malachi," is a title meaning "My Messenger" or simply "The Messenger". The title has been chosen because there is no author attributed to this book and it occurs in the superscription at 1:1. It is quite common that Semites use in their book titles the most significant-looking word from the first verse or line of the first chapter. One of the Targums identifies Ezra (or Esdras) as the author of Malachi.

[The word Targum is Hebrew for interpretation, translation, version. Targums or Targumim were originally spoken translations of the Jewish scriptures that a professional interpreter would give in the common language of the listeners. This procedure had become necessary as Aramaic became the common language of the Jewish people in the centuries BC. Hebrew was only used for lithurgy and worship and it was not understood anymore.]

The book of Malachi is divided into three chapters in the Hebrew Bible and the Greek Septuagint and four chapters in the Latin Vulgate. The fourth chapter in the Vulgate consists of the remainder of the third chapter starting at verse 3:19.

There are very few historical details in the Book of Malachi. The greatest clue as to its dating may lie in the fact that the Persian-era term for governor (peha) is used in 1:8 of the Hebrew original. This points to a composition date after the Babylonian Exile (1st) because of the use of the Persian period term 'peha' and (2nd) because Judah had a king before the exile, not a governor. Since, in Malachi, the temple has already been rebuilt, the book must be composed later than 515 BC. Malachi was apparently known to the author of Ecclesiasticus early in the 2nd century BC. Because of the development of themes in the book of Malachi, most scholars assign it to a position after Haggai and Zechariah, close to the time when Ezra and Nehemiah came to Jerusalem in 445 BC.

The Book of Malachi was written to correct the lax religious and social behaviour of the Israelites – particularly the priests – in post-exilic Jerusalem. In 1:2, Malachi has the people of Israel question God's love for them. This introduction to the book illustrates the severity of the situation which Malachi addresses. The graveness of the situation is also indicated by the dialectical style with which Malachi confronts his audience. Malachi proceeds to accuse his audience of failing to respect God as God deserves.

In 2:1, Malachi states Yahweh Sabaoth is sending a curse on the priests who have not honored him with appropriate animal sacrifices: "Now, watch how I am going to paralyze your arm and throw dung in your face--the dung from your very solemnities--and sweep you away with it. Then you shall learn that it is I who have given you this warning of my intention to abolish my covenant with Levi, says Yahweh Sabaoth."

In 2:10, Malachi addresses the issue of divorce. On this topic, Malachi deals with divorce both as a social problem ("Why then are we faithless to one another ... ?" 2:10) and as a religious problem ("Judah ... has married the daughter of a foreign god" 2:11). In contrast to the book of Ezra, Malachi urges each to remain steadfast to the wife of his youth.

Malachi also criticises his audience for questioning God's justice. He reminds them that God is just, exhorting them to be faithful as they await that justice. Malachi quickly goes on to point out that the people have not been faithful. In fact, the people are not giving God all that God deserves. Just as the priests have been offering unacceptable sacrifices, so the people have been neglecting to offer their full tithe to God. The result of these shortcomings is that the people come to believe that no good comes out of serving God.

Malachi assures the faithful among his audience that in the eschaton, the differences between those who served God faithfully and those who did not will become clear. The book concludes by calling upon the teachings of Moses and by promising that Elijah will return prior to the Day of Yahweh. [The Last Judgement or The Day of the Lord (Hebrew: 'Day of Resurrection' or Arabic: 'Day of Judgement') is part of the eschatological world view of the Abrahamic religions and in the Frashokereti of Zoroastrianism.]

Primarily because of the following quote (3:1), the Book of Malachi is frequently referred to in the Christian New Testament: ""Behold, I am going to send My messenger, and he will clear the way for Me. And the Lord, whom you seek, will suddenly come to His temple; and the messenger of the covenant, in whom you delight, behold, He is coming,' says the LORD of hosts." Christians believe that the messianic prophecies of the Book of Malachi have been fulfilled in the life, ministry, transfiguration, death and resurrection of Jesus. Most Jews and Muslims continue to await the coming of the prophet Elijah who will prepare the way for the Lord.)

TREI ASAR 12, MALACHI CHAPTER 1

1 The lifting up the word of Jehovah to Israel by the hand of Malachi.

2 I loved you, said Jehovah. And ye said, In what didst thou love us? Was not Esau brother to Jacob? says Jehovah: and loving Jacob.

3 And I hated Esau, and I will set his mountains a desolation, and his inheritance for the jackals of the desert

4 For Edom will say, We were broken down, and we will turn back and build the wastes; thus said Jehovah of armies: They shall build and I will pull down; and calling to them, The bound of injustice, and, The people with whom Jehovah was very angry, even to forever.

5 And your eyes shall see, and ye shall say, Jehovah will be magnified from above to the bound of Israel.

6 A son will honor the father, and the servant his lord; and if I a father, where mine honor? and if I their lord, where my fear? said Jehovah of armies to you, O priests despising my name. And ye said, In what did we despise thy name?

7 Bringing polluted bread upon mine altar; and ye said, In what did we pollute thee? In your saying, The table of Jehovah it was despised.

8 And if ye shall bring near the blind for a sacrifice, is it not evil? and if ye shall bring near the lame and the sick, is it not evil? bring A near now to thy governor; will he delight in thee, or lift up thy face? said Jehovah of armies.

9 And now, beseech now, the face of God, and he will be gracious to us: this was from your hand: will he lift up from you the faces? says Jehovah of armies.

10 Who also among you and he will shut the doors? and ye shall not make light mine altar gratuitously. Not to me delight in you, said Jehovah of armies, and I will not delight in the gift of your hand.

11 For from the rising of the sun and even to its going down, great my name among the nations; and in every place incense being brought to my name, and a clean gift: for great my name among the nations, said Jehovah of armies.

12 And ye profaning it in your saying, The table of Jehovah it being polluted; and its fruit, its food was despised.

13 And ye said, Behold, what a weariness! and ye puffed at it, said Jehovah of armies; and ye brought the spoiled and the lame, and the sick; and ye brought the gift: shall I accept it from your hand? said Jehovah.

14 And cursed he deceiving, and there is in his flock a male, and he vowed and sacrificed a corrupt thing to Jehovah: for I am a great king, said Jehovah of armies, and my name terrible among the nations.

TREI ASAR 12, MALACHI CHAPTER 2

1 And now to you this command, O ye priests.

2 If ye will not hear and if ye will not set upon your heart to give honor to my name, said Jehovah of armies, and I sent a curse upon you, and I cursed your blessings, and also I cursed it for your not setting upon the heart.

3 Behold me rebuking the seed to you, and I scattered dung upon your faces, the dung of your festivals; and it lifted you up to it.

4 And ye knew that I sent this command to you, for my covenant to be with Levi, said Jehovah of armies.

5 My covenant was with him of life and peace; and I will give them to him fearing, and he shall fear me, and from the face of my name he was terrified.

6 The law of truth was in his mouth, and iniquity was not found in his lips: in truth and in uprightness he went with me, and he turned back many from iniquity.

7 For the lips of the priest shall watch knowledge, and they shall seek the law from his mouth: for he is the messenger of Jehovah of armies.

8 And ye departed out of the way; ye made many weak by the law; ye corrupted the covenant of Levi, said Jehovah of armies.

9 And also I set you despised and low to all the people, according as ye watch not my way, and lift up the face against the law.

10 Is there not one father to us all? is there not one God creating us? wherefore shall we deal faithlessly each against his brother, to profane the covenant of our fathers?

11 Judah dealt faithlessly, and an abomination was done in Israel and in Jerusalem; for Judah profaned the holy place of Jehovah which he loved, and married the daughter of a strange god.

12 Jehovah will cut off to the man which shall do it, him waking, and him answering from the tents of Jacob, and him bringing near a gift to Jehovah of armies.

13 And this ye will do the second time, covering with tears the altar of Jehovah, with weepings and shrieks, from not any more looking to the gift, and to take delight from your hand.

14 And ye said, For what? For that Jehovah testified between thee and between the wife of thy youth, which thou didst deal faithlessly against her, and she thy companion and the wife of thy covenant

15 And did he not make one? And the remainder of the spirit to him. And why one? Seeking a seed of God. And ye matched in your spirit, and he shall not deal faithlessly against the wife of thy youth.

16 For he hated sending away, says Jehovah God of Israel: and he covered violence with his clothing, said Jehovah of armies: and ye watched in your spirit, and ye shall not deal faithlessly.

17 Ye wearied Jehovah with your words: and ye said, In what did we weary? In your saying, Every one doing evil is good in the eyes of Jehovah, and he delighted in them; or, Where the God of judgment?

TREI ASAR 12, MALACHI CHAPTER 3

1 Behold me sending my messenger, and he looked upon the way before my face: and suddenly Jehovah whom ye seek shall come to his temple, and the messenger of the covenant whom ye delight in: behold him coming, said Jehovah of armies.

2 And who enduring the day of his coming? and who standing in his being seen? for he is as the fire of the crucible, as the alkali of the fuller.

3 And he sat melting and cleansing silver: and he cleansed the sons of Levi, and he purified them as gold and as silver, and they were to Jehovah bringing near the sacrifice in justice.

4 And the sacrifice of Judah and Jerusalem was pleasant to Jehovah, as the days of old and as the former years.

5 And I came near to you for judgment: and I was a swift witness against those practicing magic, and against those committing adultery, and against those swearing to falsehood, and against those oppressing the hire of the hireling, the widow and the orphan, and those turning aside the stranger, and they feared not me, said Jehovah of armies.

6 For I am Jehovah, I changed not; and ye the sons of Jacob were not finished.

7 For from the days of your fathers ye departed from my laws, and ye watched not. Turn back to me and I will turn back to you, said Jehovah of armies. And ye said, In what shall we turn back?

8 Will man defraud God? For ye defraud me. And ye said, In what did we defraud thee? The tenths and the offerings.

9 Ye are cursed with a curse: and ye defrauded me, the nation all of it

10 Bring ye all the tenths to the house of treasure, and food shall be in my house, and try me now in this, said Jehovah of armies, if I will not open to you the lattices of the heavens, and empty out to you a blessing, even is it not a sufficiency.

11 And I rebuked upon the eater for you, and he shall not corrupt for you the fruit of the earth; and the vine in the field shall not be barren to you, says Jehovah of armies.

12 And all nations pronounced you happy, for ye shall be a land of delight, said Jehovah of armies.

13 Your words were strong against me, said Jehovah. And ye said, What did we speak against thee?

14 Ye said, Vanity to serve God: and what profit that we watched his watches, and that we went mourning from the face of Jehovah of armies?

15 And now we pronounce the proud happy; also they working injustice were built up; also they tried Jehovah and they will be delivered.

16 Then they fearing Jehovah spake each to his neighbor, and Jehovah will attend and will hear, and write a book of remembrance before him for those fearing Jehovah, and for thinking upon his name.

17 And they were to me, said Jehovah of armies, for the day which I make wealth; and I spared for them as a man will spare for the son serving him.

18 And ye turned back and saw between the just to the unjust, and between him serving God and to him serving him not

TREI ASAR 12, MALACHI CHAPTER 4

1 For behold, the day coming, burning as a furnace; and all the proud and all doing injustice were straw: and the day coming burnt them, said Jehovah of armies, that it shall not leave to them root and branch.

2 And to you fearing my name the sun of justice arose, and healing in his wings; and ye went forth and spread as calves of the stall.

3 And ye tread down the unjust; for they were ashes under the soles of your feet in the day which I doing, said Jehovah of armies.

4 Remember ye the law of Moses my servant, which I commanded him in Horeb for all Israel, the laws and the judgments.

5 Behold, I send to you Elijah the prophet before the coming of the day of Jehovah, great and terrible:

6 And he turned back the heart of the fathers to the sons, and the heart of the sons to the fathers, lest I shall come and strike the earth with utter destruction.

THE WRITINGS

WISDOM AND POETRY; Hebrew: THE KETUVIM

THE BOOK OF PSALMS

Hebrew title: Tehillim (& 151-155)
("Praises"; or: Hymns, Odes, Lyrics and Poems to God)
Estimated Range of Dating: c. 5th to 1st centuries B.C.

(The Book of Psalms (Tehillim, "praises"), commonly referred to simply as Psalms, the Psalter or "the Psalms", is the first book of the Ketuvim ("Writings"), the third section of the Hebrew Bible, and thus a book of the Christian Old Testament. The title is derived from the Greek translation, psalmoi, meaning "instrumental music" and, by extension, "the words accompanying the music". The book is an anthology of individual psalms, with 150 in the Jewish and Western Christian tradition and more in the Eastern Christian churches. Many are linked to the name of David, but his authorship is not accepted by modern scholars.

The Psalter is poetry, though it has many prayers and not all Old Testament prayers were poetic. In fact, not all praise was poetic either. The Psalms are full of images, comparisons and metaphor. The Hebrew text often plays with words and repeats the same words, adding synonyms (words with the same meaning) to fill out the description. Important words show the main themes in the prayer or song.

The Psalms were written not merely as poems, but as songs for singing. More than a third of the psalms are addressed to the Director of Music. Some psalms exhort the worshipper to sing (e.g. Pss. 33:1-3; 92:1-3; 96:1-3; 98:1; 101:1; 150). Some headings denote the musical instruments on which the psalm should be played (Pss. 4, 5, 6, 8, 67). Some refer to singing at the sheminit or octave (Pss. 6, 12). And others preserve the name for ancient eastern modes, like mut la-ben (Death of the son; Ps. 9), ayelet ha-shachar (hind of the dawn; Ps. 22); shoshanim (Lilies; Ps. 45); or alamoth (Maidens?; Ps. 46).

USE IN JEWISH RITUAL

The reading of psalms is viewed in Jewish tradition as a vehicle for gaining God's favour. They are thus often specially recited in times of trouble, such as poverty, disease, or physical danger; in many synagogues, Psalms are recited after services for the security of the State of Israel. Sefer ha-Chinuch states that this practice is designed not to achieve favor, as such, but rather to inculcate belief in Divine Providence into one's consciousness, consistently with Maimonides' general view on Providence. (Relatedly, the Hebrew verb for prayer, hitpalal, is in fact the reflexive form of palal, to judge. Thus, "to pray" conveys the notion of "judging oneself": ultimately, the purpose of prayer—tefilah—is to transform ourselves.)

Many Jews complete the Book of Psalms on a weekly or monthly basis. Each week, some also say a Psalm connected to that week's events or the Torah portion read during that week. In addition, many Jews (notably Lubavitch, and other Chasidim) read the entire Book of Psalms prior to the morning service, on the Sabbath preceding the calculated appearance of the new moon.

Some of the titles given to the Psalms have descriptions which suggest their use in worship:

• Some bear the Hebrew description shir (Greek: 'ode', 'song'). Thirteen have this description. It means the flow of speech, as it were, in a straight line or in a regular strain. This description includes secular as well as sacred song.

• Fifty-eight Psalms bear the description mizmor, a lyric ode, or a song set to music; a sacred song accompanied with a musical instrument.

• Psalm 145 alone has the designation tehillah, meaning a song of praise; a song the prominent thought of which is the praise of God.

• Thirteen psalms are described as maskil ('wise'): 32, 42, 44, 45, 52–55, 74, 78, 88, 89, and 142. Psalm 41:2, although not in the above list, has the description ashrei maskil.

• Six Psalms (16, 56–60) have the title michtam ('gold'). Rashi suggests that michtam refers to an item that a person carries with him at all times, hence, these Psalms contain concepts or ideas that are pertinent at every stage and setting throughout life, deemed vital as part of day-to-day spiritual awareness.

• Psalm 7 (along with Habakkuk chapter 3) bears the title shigayon. There are three interpretations: (1st) According to Rashi and others, this term stems from the root shegaga, meaning "mistake"—David committed some sin and is singing in the form of a prayer to redeem himself from it; (2nd) shigayon was a type of musical instrument; (3rd) Ibn Ezra considers the word to mean "longing", as for example in the verse in Proverbs 5:19 tishge tamid.

USE IN CHRISTIAN RITUAL:

New Testament references show that the earliest Christians used the Psalms in worship, and the Psalms have remained an important part of worship in most Christian Churches. The Roman Catholic, Eastern Orthodox, Oriental Orthodox, Eastern Catholic, Presbyterian, Lutheran and Anglican Churches have always made systematic use of the Psalms, with a cycle for the recitation of all or most of them over the course of one or more weeks. In the early centuries of the Church, it was expected that any candidate for bishop would be able to recite the entire Psalter from memory, something they often learned automatically during their time as monks.

Several conservative Protestant denominations sing only the Psalms (some churches also sing the small number of hymns found elsewhere in the Bible) in worship, and do not accept the use of any non-Biblical hymns; examples are the Reformed Presbyterian Church of North America, the Presbyterian Reformed Church (North America) and the Free Church of Scotland.

• Psalm 22 is of particular importance during the season of Lent as a Psalm of continued faith during severe testing.

• Psalm 23, The LORD is My Shepherd, offers an immediately appealing message of comfort and is widely chosen for church funeral services, either as a reading or in one of several popular hymn settings;

• Psalm 51, Have mercy on me O God, called the Miserere from the first word in its Latin version, in both Divine Liturgy and Hours, in the sacrament of repentance or confession, and in other settings;

• Psalm 82 is found in the Book of Common Prayer as a funeral recitation.

• Psalm 137, By the rivers of Babylon, there we sat down and wept, the Eastern Orthodox Church uses this hymn during the weeks preceding Great Lent.

New translations and settings of the Psalms continue to be produced. An individually printed volume of Psalms for use in Christian religious rituals is called a Psalter.

Psalms have often been set as part of a larger work. The psalms feature large in settings of Vespers, including those by Claudio Monteverdi, Antonio Vivaldi, and Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart, who wrote such settings as part of their responsibilities as church musicians. Psalms are inserted in Requiem compositions, such as Psalm 126 in A German Requiem of Johannes Brahms and Psalms 130 and 23 in John Rutter's Requiem.

The Septuagint, present in Eastern Orthodox churches, includes a Psalm 151; a Hebrew version of this was found in the Psalms Scroll of the Dead Sea Scrolls. Some versions of the Peshitta (the Bible used in Syriac churches in the Middle East) include Psalms 152–155. There are also the Psalms of Solomon, which are a further 18 psalms of Jewish origin, likely originally written in Hebrew, but surviving only in Greek and Syriac translation. These and other indications suggest that the current Western Christian and Jewish collection of 150 psalms were selected from a wider set.)

THE PSALMS

(The Psalms are prayers and poetry for singing. Most of the following chapters have a brief introduction giving advice to the chief musician, here called overseer. The little chapter beginnings in square brackets [in italic] are very old musical notes and belong to the original Bible text. The numbering of the psalm verses is somewhat inconsistent; this appears to be the case in most Bibles.)

PSALMS CHAPTER 1

Happy the man who went not in the counsel of the unjust, and he stood not in the way of the sinful, and sat not in the seat of those scoffing.

Copyright © 2026 by Lord Henfield, Guildford Scientific Press

2 But his delight is in the law of Jehovah, and in his law he will meditate day and night

3 And he was as a tree planted by the streams of water which will give its fruit in its time; his leaf shall not fall away, and all which he shall do shall be prospered.

4 Not so the unjust: but as the chaff which the wind shall drive away.

5 For this, the unjust shall not rise up in judgment, and the sinful in the assembly of the just

6 For Jehovah shall know the way of the just: but the way of the unjust shall perish.

PSALMS CHAPTER 2

Wherefore did the nations rage, and the peoples will meditate emptiness?

2 The kings of the earth will place themselves, and the princes sat down together against Jehovah and against his Messiah.

3 We will tear away his bands, and we will cast away his cords from us.

4 He dwelling in the heavens shall laugh: Jehovah shall deride to them.

5 Then shall he speak to them in his anger, and in his burning shall he tery them.

6 And I anointed my king over Zion my holy mountain.

7 I will recount for a law of Jehovah: He said to me, Thou my son; this day I begat thee.

8 Ask of me and I will give the nations thine inheritance, and thy possession the extremities of the earth.

9 Thou shalt rule them with a rod of iron; as a potter's vessel shalt thou break them in pieces. kings, and be instructed, ye judging the land.

10 And now be circumspect, ye and be silent Silence.

11 Serve Jehovah with fear, and rejoice with trembling.

12 Kiss the chosen lest he shall be angry, and ye perish in the way when his anger shall kindle as a little. Happy all they putting their trust in him.

PSALMS CHAPTER 3

2 Jehovah, how they pressing upon me were multiplied! many rising up against me.

3 Many saying to my soul, No salvation to him in God. Silence.

4 And thou, Jehovah, a shield about me: my glory, and lifting up my head.

5 With my voice will I call to Jehovah, and he will answer me from his holy mountain. Silence.

6 I lay down and I, shall sleep; I awaked: for Jehovah will uphold me.

7 I shall not be afraid of ten thousand of people who sit round about upon me.

8 Arise, O Jehovah; save me, my God, for thou didst strike all mine enemies upon the cheek; thou didst break the teeth of the unjust.

9 To Jehovah salvation: upon thy people thy blessing. Silence.

PSALMS CHAPTER 4

2 In my calling, answer me, O God of my justice: in straits thou didst enlarge me; compassionate me and hear my prayer.

3 Sons of man, how long mine honor for shame? Ye will love emptiness, ye. will seek falsehood. Silence.

4 And know ye that Jehovah separated the kind one to himself: Jehovah will hear in my calling to him.

5 Be ye disturbed, and ye shall not sin: say in your heart upon your bed,

6 Sacrifice ye the sacrifices of justice, and trust to Jehovah.

7 Many saying, Who will cause us to see good? Lift up upon us the light of thy face, O Jehovah.

8 Thou gavest gladness in my heart, from the time their grain and their new wine increased.

9 In peace together shall I lie down, and I shall sleep: for thou Jehovah alone wilt cause me to dwell confidently.

PSALMS CHAPTER 5

[To the overseer of the pipes; chanting of David.]

2 Give ear to my sayings, O Jehovah; attend to my cry.

3 Attend to the voice of my supplication, my King and my God: for to thee will I pray.

4 O Jehovah, the morning thou wilt hear my voice; the morning I will set in order to thee, and I will look about.

5 For thou not a God delighting in injustice: and evil shall not dwell with thee.

7 Thou shalt destroy those speaking falsehood: a man of bloods and deceit Jehovah will abhor.

8 And I in the multitude of thy mercy will come into thy house; I will worship to thy holy temple in thy fear.

9 O Jehovah, guide me into thy justice, for sake of mine enemies; make thy way straight before my face.

10 Not steadfast in his mouth; the midst of them mischiefs; their throat a grave opened; they will be smooth with their tongue,

11 Punish them, O God: they shall fall by their counsels; in the multitude of their transgressions thrust them down, for they rebelled against thee.

12 And all they putting trust in thee shall rejoice forever: they shall shout for joy, and thou wilt cover over them: and they loving thy name shall exult in thee.

13 For thou wilt bless the just, O Jehovah: thou wilt surround him with favor as a shield

PSALMS CHAPTER 6

[To the overseer upon the stringed instruments upon the octave, chanting of David.]

2 O Jehovah, not in thine anger wilt thou correct me, and not in thy wrath wilt thou chastise me.

3 Compassionate me, O Jehovah, for I languish: heal me, O Jehovah, for my bones trembled.

4 My soul trembled exceedingly: and thou, O Jehovah, how long?

5 Turn back, O Jehovah, deliver my soul: save me for sake of thy mercy.

6 For in death none remembering thee: in hades who shall give thanks to thee?

7 I was wearied with my sighing all the night I shall make my bed to swim with my tears; I shall make my couch to flow.

9 Depart from me, all ye doing vanity, for Jehovah heard the voice of my weeping.

10 Jehovah heard my supplication; Jehovah will receive my prayer

11 All mine enemies shall be ashamed, they shall tremble exceedingly they shall turn back, they shall be ashamed suddenly.

PSALMS CHAPTER 7

[Song of David which he sang to Jehovah upon the words of Cush, son of the right hand.]

2 O Jehovah my God, in thee I put My trust: save me from all pursuing me, and deliver me:

3 Lest he shall rend my soul as the lion, breaking in pieces and none delivering.

4 O Jehovah my God, if I did this, if there is iniquity in my hand;

5 If I rewarded evil him being at peace with me; (and I will deliver mine enemy undeservedly:)

6 The enemy will pursue my soul, and overtake; and he will tread down my life to the earth, and he will cause mine honor to dwell upon the dust Silence.

7 Arise, O Jehovah, in thine anger, lift up thyself for the wrath of mine enemies: and awake to me the judgment thou didst command.

8 And the assembly of the people shall surround thee: and for it turn back on high.

9 Jehovah shall judge peoples: judge me, O Jehovah, according to my justice, and according to mine integrity upon me.

10 Now shall the evil of the unjust come to an end; and thou wilt direct the just one: for the just God tried hearts and reins.

11 My shield upon God, saving the upright of heart

12 God judging the just one, and being angry in all the days.

13 If he shall not turn back, he will sharpen his sword; he bent his bow and he will be prepared.

14 And he prepared to himself the instruments of death; he will work his arrows for those inflaming.

15 Behold, lie will bring forth vanity, and he conceived trouble, and he will bring forth falsehood.

16 He dug a pit, and he will dig it out, and he will fall into the pitfall he will make.

18 I will confess to Jehovah according to his justice: and I will play on the harp to the name of Jehovah most high.

PSALMS CHAPTER 8

2 O Jehovah our Lord, how mighty thy name in all the earth! who will set thy majesty over the heavens.

3 Out of the mouth of children and sucklings thou hast founded strength on account of thine enemies, to cause the enemy and the avenger to cease.

4 For I shall see thy heavens, the work of thy fingers; the moon and the stars which thou didst prepare.

5 What is man that thou wilt remember him? and the son of man that thou wilt review him?

6 And thou wilt diminish him a little more than the messengers, and thou wilt surround him with glory and honor.

7 And thou wilt give him dominion over the works of thy hands; thou didst put all under his feet:

8 Sheep and oxen, all of them, and also the cattle of the field;

9 And the birds of the heavens, and the fish of the sea, passing through the paths of the seas.

10 O Jehovah our Lord, how mighty thy name in all the earth!

PSALMS CHAPTER 9

[To the overseer upon the death of Laban, chanting of David.]

2 I will praise, O Jehovah, with all my heart; I will recount all thy wonderful works.

3 I will be glad and rejoice in thee: I will play on the harp to thy name, O Most High.

4 In the turning away of mine enemies backward, they shall be weak and perish from thy face.

5 For thou didst my judgment and my cause; thou satest upon the throne judging justice.

6 Thou didst rebuke the nations, thou didst destroy the unjust one, wiping off their name forever and ever.

7 O enemy! desolations were wholly finished, and thou didst tear down cities; their remembrance perished with them.

8 And Jehovah shall dwell forever: he prepared his throne for judgment

9 And he will judge the habitable globe in justice, he will judge peoples in uprightness.

10 And Jehovah will be a height for the oppressed one, a height for times in straits.

11 And they knowing thy name will trust in thee, for thou didst not forsake those seeking thee, O Jehovah.

13 For he sought out bloods, be remembered them: he forget not the cry of the humble.

14 Compassionate me, O Jehovah: see my affliction from those hating me, thou lifting me up from the gates of death:

15 So that I shall recount all thy praises in the gates of the daughter of Zion: I will rejoice in thy salvation.

16 The nations sank into the pit they made: in the net they hid, their foot was taken by it

17 And Jehovah was known by the judgment he did: by the work of his hands the unjust was snared. Meditation. Silence.

18 The unjust shall be turned away into hades, all the nations forgetting God.

21 Put fear to them, O Jehovah: the nations shall know they are man. Silence.

PSALMS CHAPTER 10

Wherefore, O Jehovah, wilt thou stand afar off? wilt thou hide for times in straits?

2 In the pride of the unjust he will burn the poor: they shall be taken in the devices that they purposed.

3 For the unjust boasted upon the desire of his soul, and he blessed him plundering, despising Jehovah.

4 The unjust according to the height of his anger, will not seek: God is not in all his thoughts.

5 His ways will be in pain in all time; thy judgments high from before him: all his enemies he will puff at them.

6 Saying in his heart, I shall not be moved: to generation and generation for not in evil.

7 His mouth was filled with cursing and deceit and violence: under his tongue, trouble and vanity.

8 Sitting in ambush of the enclosures: in hiding-places he will slay the innocent: his eyes will be hid to the afflicted.

9 He will lie in wait in secret as the lion in her den: he will lie in wait to catch the poor one: he will catch the poor one in drawing him into his net

10 And crushing, he will bow down, and cast down the afflicted by his strong ones.

11 Saying in his heart, God forgat: he hid his face; not seeing forever.

12 Arise, O Jehovah; O God, lift up thine hand: thou wilt not forget the poor.

13 For what did the unjust one despise God, saying in his heart, Thou wilt not search?

14 Thou sawest; for thou wilt look upon trouble and anger, to give with thine hand: the poor will be left to thee; thou wert the helper of the orphan.

15 Break the arm of the unjust and the evil one: thou wilt seek out his injustice; thou wilt not find.

17 Thou heardest the desire of the poor, O Jehovah: thou wilt prepare their heart, thou wilt cause thine ear to attend.

18 To judge the orphan and the dejected, that the man of the earth shall no more add to make afraid.

PSALMS CHAPTER 11

[To the overseer; of David.] In Jehovah I put my trust: how will ye say to my soul, Wander ye to your mountain, little bird?

2 For behold, the unjust will bend the bow, they prepared their arrow upon the cord, they will shoot in darkness the upright of heart

3 If the pillars shall be pulled down, what did the just one?

4 Jehovah is in his holy temple; Jehovah, in the heavens his throne: his eyes will behold, his eyelashes will try the sons of man.

5 Jehovah will try the just one: and the unjust and him loving violence, his soul hated.

6 He will rain upon the, unjust, snares, fire and brimstone, and a wind of violent heat: the portion of their cup.

7 For Jehovah the just loved justice; his face will behold the upright

PSALMS CHAPTER 12

[To the overseer upon the octave, chanting of David.]

2 Save, O Jehovah, for the merciful one ceased; for faithfulnesses failed from the sons of men.

3 They will speak vanity each with his neighbor: smooth lips, with a heart and a heart will they speak

4 Jehovah will cut off all smooth lips, and the tongue speaking great things:

5 Who said, By our tongues we shall prevail; our lips are with us: who is Lord over us?

6 From the oppression of the poor, from the sighing of the needy, now will I arise, Jehovah will say; I will set with salvation, he will puff at him.

7 The sayings of Jehovah are pure sayings: silver tried in the crucible of the earth, purified seven times.

9 The unjust shall walk round about as the rising of a tempest to the sons of man.

PSALMS CHAPTER 13

[To the overseer; chanting of David.]

2 How long, O Jehovah, wilt thou wholly forget me? how long wilt thou hide thy face from me?

3 How long shall I put counsels in my soul, grief in my heart the day? how long shall mine enemy rise up against me?

4 Look upon, answer me, O Jehovah my God: enlighten mine eyes, lest I shall sleep the death;

5 Lest mine enemy shall say, I prevailed against him; mine adversaries shall exult when I shall be moved.

6 And I trusted in thy mercy; my heart shall exult in thy salvation. I will sing to Jehovah for he benefited me.

Psalms Chapter: 14

[To the overseer; of David.] The fool said in his heart, No God. They were corrupted, they made their; works abominable, none doing good.

Copyright © 2026 by Lord Henfield, Guildford Scientific Press

2 Jehovah looked down from the heavens upon the sons of men, to see is there he understanding, seeking God.

3 All turned away together, they were corrupted: none doing good, not even one.

4 Did not the workers of vanity know? eating my people they ate bread; they called not Jehovah.

5 There they feared a fear: for God is in the generation of the just one.

7 Who will give out of Zion the salvation of Israel? in Jehovah bringing back the captivity of his people, Jacob shall exult, Israel shall rejoice.

PSALMS CHAPTER 15

[Chanting of David.] O Jehovah, who shall sojourn in thy tent? who shall dwell in thy holy mountain?

2 He going blameless, and working justice, and speaking truth in his heart.

4 In his eyes a reprobate being despised; and those fearing Jehovah, he will honor. Swearing to the friend, and he will not change.

5 Not giving his silver for interest, and gave not presents against the innocent. He doing these things shall not be moved forever.

PSALMS CHAPTER 16

[Writing of David.] Watch me, O God: in thee I put my trust

2 Thou saidst to Jehovah, Thou my Lord: my good not upon thee.

3 To the holy ones that are upon the earth, they and the mighty ones, all my delight is in them.

4 Their labors shall be multiplied after they hastened: I will not gather their libations of blood, and I will not lift up their names upon my lips.

5 Jehovah the portion of my part and of my cup: thou didst hold up my lot.

6 The cords fell to me in sweetnesses; also the inheritance was bountiful upon me.

7 I will praise Jehovah who counseled me: also the night my reins instructed me.

8 I set Jehovah before me always: for from my right hand I shall not be moved.

9 For this my heart rejoiced, and my glory shall exult: also my flesh shall dwell with confidence.

10 For thou wilt not leave my soul to hades; thou wilt not give thy merciful ones to see corruption.

11 Thou wilt cause me to know the way of life: abundance of joys with thy face; favors in thy right hand forever.

PSALMS CHAPTER 17

[Prayer of David.] Hear justice, O Jehovah, attend to my outcry, give ear to my prayer, not in lips of deceit.

2 From thy face shall my judgment go forth; thine eyes will see uprightnesses.

3 Thou didst try my heart; thou didst review the night; thou didst refine me, thou wilt find nothing: I purposed, my mouth shall not pass by.

4 For the works of men, by the word of thy lips I watched the ways of the violent one.

5 Hold up my being straight in thy ways, my steps be not moved

6 I called thee, for thou wilt answer me, O God: incline thine ear to me, hear my sayings.

7 Make thy kindnesses distinguished, thou saving those putting their trust, from those rising up against thy right hand.

8 Watch me as the pupil of the daughter of the eye: thou wilt hide me in the shadow of thy wings.

9 From the face of the unjust that laid me waste, enemies against the soul will go round about against me.

11 We went straight, now they surrounded us: their eyes they will set to incline to the earth;

12 His likeness as a lion will long for the prey, and as a young lion dwelling in secret places.

13 Arise, O Jehovah, anticipate his face, cast him down: deliver my soul from the unjust, thy sword.

15 I in justice shall see thy face: I shall be satisfied in awaking with thine appearance.

PSALMS CHAPTER 18

[To the overseer; to the servant of Jehovah, of David who spake to Jehovah the words of this song in the day Jehovah delivered him from the hand of all his enemies, and from the hand of Saul:]

2 And he will say, I will love thee, O Jehovah, my strength.

3 Jehovah is my rock and my fortress, and my deliverer; my God, my rock, I will put my trust in him; my shield and the horn of my salvation, my height.

4 Praising, I will call upon Jehovah, and I shall be saved from mine enemies.

5 The pains of death surrounded me, and the torrents of Belial made me afraid.

6 The pains of hades surrounded me: the snares of death anticipated me.

7 In my straits I will call upon Jehovah, and to my God will I cry: he will hear my voice from his temple, and my cry will come before him into his ears.

8 And it will be moved and the earth will tremble, and the foundations of the mountains will be moved and they will shake, for it was kindled to him.

9 A smoke went up in his anger, and fire from his mouth will consume, and coals were kindled from it.

10 And he will incline the heavens and come down: and gloom under his feet

11 And he will ride upon a cherub, and will fly: and he will fly upon the wings of the wind.

12 He will set darkness his covering; his tent round about him darknesses of waters, thick clouds.

13 From the brightness before him the clouds passed over, hail and coals of fire.

14 And Jehovah will thunder in the heavens, and the Most High will give his voice; hail and coals of fire.

15 And he will send his arrows and scatter them; and he increased lightnings, and he will discomfit them.

16 And the channels of waters will be seen, and the foundations of the habitable globe will be uncovered from thy rebuke, O Jehovah, from the breathing of the spirit of thine anger.

17 He will send forth from on high, he will take me, he will draw me out of many waters.

18 He will deliver me from my strong enemy, and from them hating me: for they were strong above me.

19 They will anticipate me in the day of my calamity, and Jehovah will be a support to me.

20 And he will bring me forth to a wide place: he will deliver me, for he delighted in me.

21 Jehovah will recompense me according to my justice, according to the cleanness of my hands he will turn back to me.

22 For I watched the ways of Jehovah, and I acted not wickedly from my God.

23 For all his judgments are before me, and his laws I shall not put away from me.

24 And I blameless with him, and I will watch myself from mine iniquity.

25 And Jehovah will turn back to me according to my justice, and according to the cleanness of my hands before his eyes.

26 With the kind thou wilt show thyself kind; and with the blameless man thou wilt be perfect

27 With the purified thou wilt be purified, and with the perverse thou wilt show thyself perverse

28 Thou wilt save the humble people, and thou wilt humble the eyes of the lifted up.

29 For thou wilt enlighten my lamp Jehovah my God will give light to my darkness.

30 For by thee I will break down a troop, and in my God I will leap upon the wall.

31 God, blameless his way: the saying of Jehovah being refined: a shield to all trusting in him.

32 For who is God besides Jehovah? or who a rock except our God?

33 God girding me with strength, and he will give my way blameless.

34 Setting my feet as the hinds, and he will cause me to stand upon my heights.

35 Teaching my hands to war, and a bow of brass was bent by mine arms.

36 Thou wilt give to me the shield of thy salvation, and thy right hand will uphold me, and thy clemency will enlarge me.

37 Thou wilt make broad my steps under me and my joints did not waver.

38 I will pursue mine enemies, and I will overtake them: and I shall not turn back till consuming them.

39 I will smite them through and through, and they shall not be able to rise: they shall fall under my feet.

40 Thou wilt gird one with strength for war: thou wilt bend under me those rising up against me.

41 Mine enemies thou gavest the back of the neck to me, and I shall destroy those hating me.

42 They will cry and none saving: to Jehovah, and he answered them not

43 And I will beat them in pieces as dust upon the face of the wind: I will pour them out as the mire of the streets.

44 Thou wilt deliver me from the contentions of the people; thou wilt set me for head of the nations: a people I knew not shall serve me.

45 At the hearing of the ear they shall hear to me: sons of the stranger shall feign to me.

47 Jehovah lives; and and praised be my Rock; and the God of my salvation shall be exalted.

48 God giving vengeance to me, and he will speak the peoples under me.

49 Delivering me from mine enemies: from those rising up thou wilt lift me up: thou wilt deliver me from the man of violence

50 For this I will praise thee among the nations, O Jehovah, and I will play on the harp to thy name.

51 Magnifying the salvation of his king; and he did mercy to his anointed, and to David and to his seed even to forever.

PSALMS CHAPTER 19

[To the overseer; chanting of David.]

2 The heavens recounting the glory of God, and the firmament announcing the work of his hands.

3 Day to day will gush out the saying, and night to night will breathe out knowledge.

4 No saying and no words without their voice being heard.

5 Their line went forth into all the earth, and their words into the ends of the habitable globe. In them he set a tent for the sun.

6 And he as a bridegroom coming forth from his nuptial couch, will rejoice as a strong one to run a way.

8 The law of Jehovah is blameless, turning back the soul; the testimonies of Jehovah being faithful, making wise the simple.

9 The mandates of Jehovah are straight, rejoicing the heart: the command of Jehovah pure, enlightening the eyes.

10 The fear of Jehovah being pure, standing forever: the judgments of Jehovah, truth, they were altogether just

12 Also thy servant being admonished by them: in watching them much reward.

13 Who will understand errors? acquit me from hidden things.

14 Also withhold thy servant from arrogant things; they shall not rule over me: then shall I be blameless, and I was acquitted from much transgression.

15 The saying of my mouth and the meditation of my heart shall be for acceptance before thee, O Jehovah, my rock and my redeemer.

PSALMS CHAPTER 20

[To the overseer; chanting of David.]

2 Jehovah will answer thee in the day of straits; the name of the God of Jacob shall exalt thee.

3 He will send thy help from the holy place and from Zion he will support thee.

4 He will remember all thy gifts, and he will make fat thy burnt-offerings. Silence.

5 He will give to thee according to thy heart, and fill up all thy counsel

6 We will rejoice in thy salvation, and in the name of our God we will cover over: Jehovah will fill up all our petitions.

7 Now I knew that Jehovah saved his Messiah; he will answer him from his holy heavens by the strength of the salvation of his right hand.

8 These in chariots, and these in horses: and in the name of Jehovah our God will we remember.

9 They bowed down and they fell: and we arose, and we shall stand erect

10 O Jehovah, save: the king he will answer us in the day of our calling.

PSALMS CHAPTER 21

[To the overseer; chanting of David.]

2 O Jehovah, in thy strength shall the king rejoice; and in thy salvation how shall he greatly exult

3 The desire of his heart thou gavest to him, and the longing of his lips thou didst not withhold. Silence.

4 For thou wilt anticipate him with praises of goodness: thou wilt set a crown of pure gold to his head.

5 He asked life from thee; thou gavest to him length of days forever and ever.

6 Great his glory in thy salvation: majesty and honor thou wilt set upon him.

7 For thou wilt set him praises forever: thou wilt make him glad in joy with thy face.

8 For the king trusted in Jehovah, and in the mercy of the Most High he shall not be moved.

10 Thou wilt set them as a furnace of fire for the time of thy face: Jehovah in his anger will swallow them down, and the fire shall devour them.

11 Their fruit thou wilt destroy from the earth, and their seed from the sons of man.

12 For they stretched out evil upon thee: they purposed a device, they will not prevail.

13 For thou wilt set them the shoulder among thine being left, thou wilt prepare against their face.

14 Be thou exalted, O Jehovah, in thy strength: we will sing and play thy powers upon the harp.

PSALMS CHAPTER 22

[To the overseer upon the first place of the dawn; chanting of David.]

2 My God, my God, wherefore forsookest thou me? far off from my salvation the words of my groaning.

3 My God, I will call in the day, and thou wilt not answer; and in the night no silence to me.

4 And thou inhabiting the holy place, the praises of Israel.

5 In thee our fathers trusted: they trusted, and thou wilt deliver them.

6 To thee they cried and were delivered: in thee they trusted and were not ashamed.

7 And I a worm and not a man; a reproach of man, and the people despised me.

8 All seeing me will deride me: they will gape with the lip, they will shake the head.

9 He rolled upon Jehovah, he will deliver him: he will deliver him for he delighted in him.

10 Thou causing me to break forth from the womb: causing me to trust upon my mother's breasts.

11 Upon thee was I cast from the womb: from my mother's belly thou my God.

12 Thou wilt not remove far from me, for straits draw near; for none helping.

13 Many bulls surrounded me: the strong of Bashan surrounded me.

14 They opened their mouth upon me, a lion rending and roaring.

15 I was poured out as water, and all my bones were sundered; my heart was as wax being melted in the midst of my bowels.

16 My strength was dried up as the potsherd, and my tongue cleaving to my jaws; and thou wilt set me for the dust of death.

17 For dogs surrounded me: the assembly of those being evil moved round about me: they digged my hands and my feet

18 I shall number all my bones: they will behold and look upon me.

19 They will divide my garments to them, and upon my clothing they will cast the lot

20 And thou, O Jehovah, wilt not be far off: O my strength, hasten to help me.

21 Deliver my soul from the sword, my only one from the band of the dog.

22 Save me from the mouth of the lion: and thou didst answer me from the horns of the high.

23 I will recount thy name to my brethren: in the midst of the convocation I will praise thee.

24 Ye fearing Jehovah, praise him; all the seed of Jacob honor him; and be afraid of him all ye seed of Israel.

25 For he despised not and he abhorred not the afflictions of the bumble; and he hid not his face from him, and in his crying to him he heard.

26 Of thee my praise in the great convocation: I will complete my vows before them fearing him.

27 The humble shall eat and be satisfied: they shall praise Jehovah they seeking him: your heart shall live forever.

28 All the ends of the earth shall remember and shall turn back to Jehovah: and all the families of the nations shall worship before thee.

29 For to Jehovah the kingdom, and he rules among the nations.

30 All the fat ones of the earth shall eat and worship before him, and all they going down to dust shall bow down, and he preserved not alive his soul.

31 A seed shall serve him; it shall be numbered to Jehovah for a generation.

32 They shall come and announce his justice to a people being born, for he made.

PSALMS CHAPTER 23

[Chanting of David.] Jehovah my shepherd, and I shall not want.

2 He will cause me to lie down in pastures of tender grass: he will lead me to the water of rest

3 He will turn back my soul: he will guide me into the tracks of justice for sake of his name.

4 Also if I shall go into the valley of the shadow of death, I shall not be afraid of evil, for thou art with me; thy rod and thy staff they will comfort me.

5 Thou wilt set in order a table before me in front of mine enemies: thou madest fat mine head with oil; my cup being satisfied with drink.

6 Surely goodness and mercy, shall pursue me all the days of my life: and I dwelt in the house of Jehovah to the length of days.

PSALMS CHAPTER 24

[To David chanting.] To Jehovah the earth and its fulness, the habitable globe and they dwelling in it.

2 For he founded it upon the seas, and upon the rivers he will prepare it

3 Who will go up to the mountain of Jehovah? and who shall stand in his holy place?

4 The blameless one of hands and the clean of heart; who lifted not up his soul to vanity, and swore not for deceit

5 He shall receive a praise from Jehovah, and justice from God saving him.

7 Lift up your heads, ye gates, and be ye lifted up, ye openings of eternity, and the King of glory shall come in.

8 Who is this King of glory? Jehovah strong and mighty, Jehovah mighty for war.

9 Lift up, ye gates, your heads, and be lifted up, ye openings of eternity, and the King of glory shall come in.

10 Who is he, this King of glory? Jehovah of armies, he is the King of glory. Silence.

PSALMS CHAPTER 25

[To David.] To thee, O Jehovah, I will lift up my soul.

2 My God, in thee I trusted, I shall not be ashamed: mine enemies shall not exult over me.

3 Also all awaiting thee shall not be ashamed: they transgressing emptily shall be ashamed.

4 O Jehovah, cause me to know thy ways; teach me thy paths.

5 Cause me to tread in thy truth, and teach me: for thou art God saving me; on thee I waited all the day.

6 Remember thy compassions, O Jehovah, and thy mercies; for they are from forever.

7 The sins of my youth and my transgressions thou wilt not remember: according to thy mercy remember thou for me for sake of thy goodness, O Jehovah.

8 Good and upright is Jehovah: for this he will teach the sinning in the way.

9 He will cause the humble to trend in judgment, and he will teach the humble the way.

10 All the paths of Jehovah are mercy and truth to those watching his covenant and his testimonies.

11 For sake of thy name, O Jehovah, and thou forgavest to mine iniquity; for it was much.

12 Who this man fearing Jehovah? he will teach him in the way he shall choose.

14 The secret of Jehovah to them fearing him; and his covenant he will cause them to know.

15 Mine eyes are always to Jehovah, for he will bring forth my feet from the net

16 Turn to me and pity me, for I alone and afflicted.

17 The straits of my heart were enlarged: bring me out from my distresses.

18 See mine affliction and my labor, and let go to all my sins.

19 See mine enemies, for they were many, and they hated me with the hatred of violence.

20 Watch my soul and deliver me: I shall not be ashamed, for I put my trust in thee.

21 Integrity and uprightness shall watch me; for I waited for thee.

22 Redeem Israel, O God, from all his straits.

PSALMS CHAPTER 26

[To David.] Judge me, O Jehovah, for I went in mine integrity, and in Jehovah I trusted: I shall not waver.

2 Prove me, O Jehovah, and try me; refine my reins and my heart

3 For thy mercy is before mine eyes, and I walked about in thy truth.

4 I sat not with men of vanity, and I will not go in with those lying hid.

5 I hated the convocation of those being evil, and with the unjust I will not sit

6 I will wash my hands in cleanness, and I will surround thine altar, O Jehovah:

7 To hear with the voice of praise, and to recount all thy wonders.

8 O Jehovah, I loved the habitation of thy house, and the place of the dwelling of thine honor.

9 Thou wilt not gather my soul with the sinning, and my life with men of bloods:

10 Which in their hands mischief, and their right hand filled with sifts.

11 And I, I will go in mine integrity: redeem me and pity me.

12 My foot stood in straightness: in the convocations will I praise Jehovah.

PSALMS CHAPTER 27

[To David.] Jehovah my light and my saviour; of whom shall I be afraid? Jehovah the strength of my life; from whom shall I tremble?

2 In the drawing near of those doing evil to me, to eat my flesh, adversaries and enemies to me, they were weak and fell

3 If a camp shall encamp against me, my heart shall not fear: if war shall rise up against me, in this I trust

4 I asked one from Jehovah, I will seek it; I sat in the house of Jehovah all the days of my life, to look upon the sweetness of Jehovah, and to inquire in his temple.

5 For he will hide me in the booth in the day of evil: he will cover me with the covering of his tent; he will lift me up upon a rock.

6 And now he will lift up my head over mine enemies round about me: and I will sacrifice in his tent sacrifices of rejoicing; I will sing and I will play on the harp to Jehovah.

7 Hear my voice, O Jehovah: I will call, and pity me and answer me.

8 My heart said to thee, Seek .ye my face; thy face, O Jehovah, I will seek.

9 Thou wilt not cover thy face from me; thou wilt not turn away thy servant in anger: thou, wert my help; thou wilt not leave me and thou wilt not forsake me, my God saving me.

10 For my father and my mother forsook me, and Jehovah will gather me.

11 Teach me, O Jehovah, thy way, and lead me in a path of straitness for sake of those pressing me.

12 Thou wilt not give me to the soul of him pressing me, for witnesses of falsehood rose up against me, and violence will blow.

13 Unless I believed to look upon the goodness of Jehovah in the land of the living.

14 Wait for Jehovah: be strong, and thy heart shall be strengthened: and wait for Jehovah.

PSALMS CHAPTER 28

[To David.] To thee, O Jehovah, will I call, my rock; thou wilt not be silent from me: lest thou wilt be silent from me and I was made like with them going down to the pit

2 Hear the voice of my supplications in my crying to thee, in my lifting up my hands to the oracle of thy holy place.

3 Thou wilt not draw me with the unjust, and with those working vanity, speaking peace with their neighbors, and evil in their heart

4 Give to them according to their work and according to the evil of their doings, according to the word of their hands; give to them, turn back to them their recompense.

5 For they will not understand for the doing of Jehovah, and for the work of his hands; he will destroy them and he will not build them up.

6 Praised be Jehovah, for he heard the voice of my supplications

7 Jehovah my strength and my shield; in him my heart trusted, and I was helped: and my heart will exult, and from my song will I praise him.

8 Jehovah strength to them, and he the fortress of salvations of his Messiah.

9 Save thy people and bless thine inheritance, and feed them and lift them up even forever.

PSALMS CHAPTER 29

[Chanting of David.] Give to Jehovah, ye sons of God, give to Jehovah glory and strength.

2 Give to Jehovah the glory of his name; worship to Jehovah in the splendors of his holy place.

3 The voice of Jehovah upon the waters: the God of glory thundered: Jehovah upon many waters.

5 The voice of Jehovah broke the cedars; and Jehovah will break the cedars of Lebanon.

6 And he will cause them to leap as a calf; Lebanon and Sirion as the son of buffaloes.

8 The voice of Jehovah will cause the desert to whirl; Jehovah will cause the desert of holiness to whirl.

9 The voice of Jehovah will cause the hinds to bring forth, and will uncover the forests: and in his temple every one said, Glory.

10 Jehovah sat upon the inundation: and Jehovah sat King forever.

11 Jehovah will give strength to his people; he will bless his people with peace.

PSALMS CHAPTER 30

2 I will exalt thee, O Jehovah, for thou didst draw me out, and thou didst not gladden mine enemies to me.

3 O Jehovah my God, I cried to thee, and thou wilt heal me.

4 O Jehovah, thou broughtest up my soul from hades: thou didst save me alive from those going down to the pit

6 For a moment in his anger; life in his acceptance: weeping shall lodge in the evening, and rejoicing for the morning.

7 And I said in my security, I shall not be moved forever.

8 O Jehovah, in thy good will thou didst cause strength to stand for my mountain: thou didst cover thy face, I was in trepidation.

9 To thee, O Jehovah, will I call, and to Jehovah will I make supplication.

10 What the profit in my blood in my going down to the pit? shall the dust praise thee? shall it announce thy truth?

11 Hear, O Jehovah, and pity me: O Jehovah, be a helper to me.

12 Thou didst turn my wailing to dancing to me: thou didst loose my sackcloth, and thou wilt gird me with gladness;

13 So that glory shall play on the harp to thee, and shall not be silent O Jehovah my God, I will praise thee forever.

PSALMS CHAPTER 31

[To the overseer, chanting of David.]

2 In thee, O Jehovah, I put my trust, I shall not be ashamed forever: in thy justice deliver me.

3 Incline thine ear to me, hastening to deliver me: be to me for a rock of strength, for a house of fortresses to save me.

4 For thou my rock and my fortress; and for sake of thy name thou wilt guide me, and thou wilt protect me.

5 Thou wilt bring me forth from the net which they concealed for me: for thou my fortress.

6 Into thy hand I will commit my spirit: thou didst redeem me, O Jehovah God of truth.

7 I hated those watching vanities of falsehood, and I trusted to Jehovah.

8 I will rejoice and be glad in thy mercy, for thou sawest mine affliction; thou knewest my soul in straits;

9 And thou didst not shut me up in the hand of the enemy: thou didst cause my feet to stand in a broad place.

10 Pity me, O Jehovah, for straits are to me: mine eye fell away; with trouble my soul and my belly.

11 For my life was finished in sorrow, and my years in sighing: my strength was weak in mine iniquity, and my bones fell away.

12 From all mine enemies I was a reproach, and greatly to my neighbors, and a fear to those knowing me: they seeing me without fled from me.

13 I was forgotten as the dead from the heart: I was a vessel perishing.

14 For I heard the slander of many sojourning round about: in their sitting together against me they purposed to take away my soul

15 And I trusted upon thee, O Jehovah: I said, Thou my God.

16 My times in thy hand: deliver me from the hand of mine enemies, and from those pursuing me.

17 Cause thy face to shine upon thy servant: save me in thy mercy.

18 O Jehovah, I shall not be ashamed, for I called upon thee: the unjust shall be ashamed and they shall be destroyed to hades.

19 The lips of falsehood shall be mute; speaking boldly in pride and contempt.

20 How much thy goodness which thou didst conceal for them fearing thee; thou didst work for those putting their trust in thee before the sons of man.

22 Praised be Jehovah, for he made wonderful his mercy to me in the fortified city.

23 And I said in my hasty flight; I was cut off from before thine eyes: yet thou heardest the voice of my supplications in my crying to thee.

24 Love Jehovah, all ye his godly ones: and he watched the faithful and requiting abundantly the doing of pride.

25 Be strong, and he will strengthen your heart, all ye waiting for Jehovah.

PSALMS CHAPTER 32

2 Happy the man Jehovah will not reckon sin to him, and no deceit in his spirit

3 If I was silent, my bones fell away in my groaning all the day.

4 For day and night thy hand will be heavy upon me: my moisture was turned into the dryness of summer. Silence.

5 I will make known to thee my sin, and mine iniquity I hid not I said, I will confess upon my transgression to Jehovah; and thou didst take away the iniquity of my sin. Silence.

6 For this all the godly shall pray to thee for the time of finding: only for the inundation of many waters they shall not draw near to him.

7 Thou a covering to me, from straits thou wilt watch me; thou wilt surround me with rejoicings of deliverance. Silence.

8 I will make thee wise, and teach thee in the way. which thou shalt go: I will counsel mine eyes upon thee.

9 Ye shall not be as the horse, as the mule, not understanding: with bit and curb to stop his youth, not drawing near to thee.

10 Many the sorrows to the unjust one: and he trusting in Jehovah, mercy shall surround him.

11 Be glad in Jehovah, and rejoice, ye just: and shout for joy, all ye upright of heart.

PSALMS CHAPTER 33

Rejoice, ye just, in Jehovah, praise being suitable for the upright

2 Confess to Jehovah upon the harp: upon an instrument of ten strings play ye to him.

3 Sing to him a new song; make cheerful playing with a loud noise.

4 For straight the word of Jehovah, and all his work in faithfulness.

5 He loved justice and judgment: the earth was filled with the mercy of Jehovah.

6 By the word of Jehovah the heavens were made, and by the spirit of his mouth all their army.

7 He heaped up the waters of the sea as a mound: he gave the depths into storehouses.

8 All the earth shall fear from Jehovah: and of him shall all dwelling in the habitable globe be afraid.

9 For he said, and it shall be; he commanded, and it will stand.

10 Jehovah made vain the counsel of the nations: he brought the purposes of the peoples to nought

11 The counsel of Jehovah shall stand forever, the purposes of his heart to generation and generation.

12 Happy the nation to whom Jehovah is his God; the people he chose for an inheritance to him.

16 The king was not saved by much strength: the strong one will not be delivered by much power.

17 The horse was false to salvation, and he shall not deliver by the multitude of his strength.

18 Behold, the eye of Jehovah upon those fearing him, upon those hoping for his mercy;

19 To deliver their soul from death, and to save them alive in famine.

20 Our soul waited for Jehovah: he our help and our shield.

21 For in him our heart shall rejoice, for in his holy name we trusted.

22 Thy mercy, O Jehovah, shall be upon us according as we hoped for thee.

PSALMS CHAPTER 34

[To David in his changing his understanding before Abimelech; and he will drive him out, and he will go.]

2 I will praise Jehovah in all time: always his praise in my mouth.

3 In Jehovah my soul shall glory, the humble shall hear and rejoice.

4 Magnify to Jehovah with me, and we will exalt his name together.

5 I sought Jehovah and he answered me, and from all my fears he delivered me.

6 They looked to him and were bright, and their faces shall not be ashamed.

7 This poor one called, and Jehovah heard, and from all his straits he saved him.

8 Behold, the messenger of Jehovah surrounding to those fearing him, and he will deliver them.

9 Taste ye and see that Jehovah is good: happy the man who shall put his trust in him.

10 Fear Jehovah, ye his holy ones; for no want to those fearing him.

11 The young lions suffered want and were hungry: and they seeking Jehovah shall not want any good.

12 Come, ye sons, hear to me: I will teach you the fear of Jehovah.

13 Who the man desiring life, loving days, to see good?

14 Watch thy tongue from evil; and thy lips from speaking deceit

15 Turn away from evil, and do good; seek peace and pursue it

17 The face of Jehovah against those doing evil, to cut off their remembrance from the earth.

18 They cried and Jehovah heard, and he delivered them from all their straits.

19 Jehovah is near to the broken of heart, and he will save the humble of spirit

20 Many the evils of the just one, and Jehovah will deliver him from all of them.

21 He watched all his bones: one of them was not broken.

23 Jehovah redeems the soul of his servants: and all trusting in him shall not transgress.

PSALMS CHAPTER 35

[To David.] Contend, O Jehovah, with them contending with me: fight with those fighting with me.

2 Take hold of the shield and the buckler, and stand up for my help.

3 Draw out the spear, and shut up to the meeting of them pursuing me: say to my soul, I am thy salvation.

4 They seeking my soul shall be ashamed and disgraced: they shall be drawn back and be ashamed purposing my evil

5 They shall be as chaff before the wind: and the messenger of Jehovah overthrowing.

6 Their way shall be darkness and slippery places, and the messenger of Jehovah pursuing them.

7 For gratuitously they hid for me the destruction of their net: gratuitously they dug for my soul.

8 Desolation shall come to him not knowing, and his net which he hid shall take him: in destruction he shall fall in it

9 And my soul shall rejoice in Jehovah: it shall be glad in his salvation.

Copyright © 2026 by Lord Henfield, Guildford Scientific Press

10 All my bones shall say, O Jehovah, who as thee, delivering the poor from him strong above him, and the poor and the needy from him stripping him?

11 Witnesses of wrong will rise up; they will ask me what I knew not.

12 They will requite me evil instead of good, bereaving to my soul

13 And I, in their being sick, my clothing sackcloth: I humbled my soul in fasting, and my prayer shall be turned back upon my bosom.

14 As a friend, as a brother to me: I went about as mourning a mother: being darkened, I bowed down.

15 And in my halting they rejoiced, and they were gathered together: they smiting were gathered together against me, and I knew not; they rent asunder and ceased not:

17 O Jehovah, how long wilt thou see? Turn back my soul from their destruction, my only one from the lions.

18 I will praise thee in the great convocation: I will celebrate thee among a strong people.

19 Mine enemies shall not rejoice over me for falsehood: they hating me gratuitously shall pinch the eye.

20 For they will not speak peace: and against the quiet of the land they will purpose words of deceits.

21 They will widen their mouth upon me: they said, Aha! aha our eye saw it.

22 Thou sawest, O Jehovah: thou wilt not be silent: O Jehovah, thou wilt not remove far off from me.

23 Rouse up and awake to judgment, my God and my Lord, for my contention.

24 Judge me according to thy justice, O Jehovah my God, and they shall not rejoice over me.

25 They shall not say in their heart, Aha! our soul. They shall not say, We swallowed him down.

26 They shall be ashamed and they shall blush together, rejoicing for my evil: they shall be clothed with shame and reproach, magnifying against me.

27 Those delighting in my justice shall rejoice and be glad: they shall say always, Jehovah shall be magnified: he delighted in the peace of his servant

28 My tongue shall speak of thy justice, thy praise all the day.

PSALMS CHAPTER 36

[To the overseer, to the servant of Jehovah: to David.

2 A song of transgression to the unjust one in the midst of my heart, no fear of God before his eyes.]

3 For he made smooth to himself in his eyes, to find his iniquity to hate.

4 The words of his mouth vanity and deceit: he ceased to be circumspect, to do good.

5 He will purpose vanity upon his bed; he will set himself upon a way not good; he will not reject evil

6 O Jehovah, thy mercy is in the heavens; thy faithfulness even to the clouds.

7 Thy justice as the mountains of God; thy judgments a great deep: man and cattle thou wilt save, 0 Jehovah.

8 How precious thy mercy, O God! and the sons of man shall put their trust in the shadow of thy wings.

9 They shall satiate from the fatness of thy house; and thou shalt give them to drink the torrent of thy delights.

10 For with thee the fountain of life: in thy light we shall see light

11 Draw out thy mercy to those knowing thee, and thy justice to the upright of heart

12 The foot of pride shall not come to me, and the hand of the unjust shall not move me.

13 There they working vanity fell: they were thrust down, and they shall not be able to rise.

PSALMS CHAPTER 37

[To David.] Thou shalt not be angry at those doing evil, and thou shalt not envy those working iniquity.

2 For as grass hastening they shall be cut down, and as the greenness of grass they shall fall away.

3 Trust in Jehovah and do good; dwell in the land and be fed with faithfulness.

4 And delight thyself upon Jehovah, and he shall give to thee the petitions of thy heart

5 Roll thy way upon Jehovah, and trust upon him, and he will work.

6 And he brought forth as the light thy justice, and thy judgment as the noon.

7 Be silent to Jehovah and wait for him: thou shalt not be angry at him prospering his way, at the man doing wickednesses.

8 Desist from anger and forsake wrath: thou shalt not be angry only to do evil

9 For they doing evil shall be cut off: and they waiting for Jehovah they shall inherit the earth.

10 Yet a little, and no unjust one thou didst mark upon his place, and he was not

11 And the humble shall inherit the earth, and they delighted themselves for the multitude of peace.

13 Jehovah shall laugh at him: for he saw that his day will come.

14 The unjust let loose the sword, and they bent their bow; they cast down the poor and needy, to slaughter the upright of way.

17 For the arms of the unjust shall be broken, and Jehovah upholds the just 18 Jehovah will know the days of the blameless, and their inheritance shall be forever.

19 They shall not be ashamed in the time of evil, and in the days of famine they shall be satisfied.

Copyright © 2026 by Lord Henfield, Guildford Scientific Press

20 For the unjust shall perish, and the enemies of Jehovah as the preciousness of lambs: they ended in smoke; they ended.
21 The unjust one borrowed and he will not repay: and the just one compassionated, and gave.
22 For they praising him shall inherit the earth, and they cursing him shall be cut off.
23 From Jehovah the steps of a man were prepared, and he will delight in his way.
24 If he shall fall he shall not be prostrated, for Jehovah will uphold his hand.
25 I was a youth, also I grew old, and I saw not the just one forsaken and his seed seeking bread.
26 All the day he compassionates and lends; and his seed to be blessed.
27 Depart from evil and do good, and dwell forever.
28 For Jehovah love's judgment, and he will not forsake his godly ones; forever they were watched, and the seed of the unjust was cut off.
29 The just shall inherit the earth, and they shall dwell upon it forever.
30 The mouth of the just one shall speak wisdom, and his tongue shall speak judgment
31 The law of his God is in his heart, and his goings shall not waver.
32 The unjust watches for the just, and seeks to kill him,
33 Jehovah will not leave him in his Land, and he will not condemn him in his being judged.
34 Wait for Jehovah and watch his way, and be will exalt thee to inherit the earth: in the cutting off the unjust thou shalt see.
35 I saw the unjust one making afraid, and spreading abroad as a green native tree.
36 And he shall pass away, and behold, he is not: and I shall seek him and he was not found.
37 Watch the blameless, and see the upright one, for the latter state to the man peace.
38 And they transgressing were destroyed together: the latter state of the unjust was cut of 39 And the salvation of the just is from Jehovah: their strength in time of straits.
40 And Jehovah shall help them, and he will deliver them: he will deliver them from the unjust, and he will save them, for they trusted in him.

PSALMS CHAPTER 38

[Chanting of David to bring to remembrance.]

2 O Jehovah, thou wilt not reprove me in thy wrath, and thou wilt not correct me in thine anger.
3 For thine arrows came down upon me, and thy hand will press down upon me.
4 No soundness in my flesh from thy wrath; no peace in my bones from the face of my sins.
5 For mine iniquities passed over my head: as a heavy lifting up they will be loaded above me.
6 My stripes became loathsome: they flowed from the face of my folly.
7 I was moved, I was even greatly bowed down: all the day I went darkened.
8 For my loins were filled with inflammation, and no soundness in my flesh.
9 I was languid and crushed even greatly: I roared from the groaning of my heart
10 O Jehovah, before thee all my desire, and my sighing was not hid from thee.
11 My heart moved about rapidly, my strength forsook me, and the light of mine eyes also they not with me.
12 My friends and my neighbors will stand from before my stroke, and my kindred stood from far off.
13 And they seeking my soul will lay snares: and they seeking my evil spake mischief, and they will meditate deceits all the day,
14 And I, as deaf, shall not hear; and as dumb, he will not open his mouth.
15 And I as a man that heard not, and not in his mouth confutations
16 For, for thee, O Jehovah, I waited: thou wilt answer, O Jehovah my God.
17 For I said, Lest they shall rejoice over me: in the wavering of my foot they magnified against me.
18 For I being prepared for halting, and my pain always before me.
19 For I will announce mine iniquity: I shall be afraid for my sin.
20 And mine enemies living, they were strong: and they hating me with falsehood were multiplied.
21 And they requiting evil for good will be mine adversaries, for my pursuing good
22 Thou wilt not forsake me, O Jehovah: my God, thou wilt not remove far off from me.
23 Hasten for my help, O Jehovah, my salvation.

PSALMS CHAPTER 39

[To the overseer, to Jeduthun: chanting of David.]

2 I said, I will watch my way from sinning with my tongue: I will watch for my mouth with a muzzle while yet the unjust one is before me.
3 I was dumb with silence, I was silent from good, and my pain was moved.
4 My heart was hot in the midst of me; in my heat the fire will burn: I spake with my tongue.
5 O Jehovah, make me to know mine end, and the measure of my days, what it is; I shall know how I fail.
6 Behold, thou gavest my days a hand-breadth, and my life as nothing before thee: but every man stood all vanity. Silence.
7 Surely in a shadow a man will go about: surely they will be disquieted in vain: he will store up, and he knew not who shall gather them.
8 And now, what waited I for, O Jehovah? my hope it is to thee.
9 Deliver me from all my transgression: thou wilt not set me a reproach of the foolish one.

Copyright © 2026 by Lord Henfield, Guildford Scientific Press

10 I was dumb, I will not open my mouth; for thou didst

11 Remove from me thy stroke: I was finished from the contention of thy hand.

12 With corrections for iniquity thou didst correct man, and thou wilt melt down as a moth his beauty: surely every man is vanity. Silence.

13 Hear my prayer, O Jehovah, and give ear to my cry; thou wilt not be silent at my tears, for I a sojourner with thee, a dweller, as all my fathers.

14 Look away from me, and I shall be cheerful, before I shall go and I not be.

PSALMS CHAPTER 40

[To the overseer: of David chanting.]

2 Waiting, I waited for Jehovah, and he will incline to me, and he will hear my cry.

3 And he will bring me up from the pit of destruction, from the clay of mire, and he will set my feet upon a rock, preparing my goings.

4 And he will give a new song in my mouth, praise to our God: many shall see and fear, and they shall trust in Jehovah.

5 Happy the man who set Jehovah his trust, and turned not to the arrogant, and those turning aside to falsehood.

6 Many the wonders thou didst, O Jehovah my God, and thy purposes to us: none shall set in order to thee: I will announce and speak, they were numerous above number.

7 Sacrifice and a gift thou didst not delight in; the ears thou didst pierce to me: burnt-offering and sin thou didst not ask.

8 Then I said, Behold, I came: in the volume of the book it was written concerning me.

9 To do thine acceptance, O my God, I delighted; and thy law in the midst of my bowels.

10 I announced good news, justice in the great convocation: behold, my lips I will not shut up, O Jehovah, thou knewest

11 I hid not thy justice within my heart; I said thy faithfulness and thy salvation: I hid not thy mercy and thy truth to the great convocation.

12 Thou wilt not, O Jehovah, shut up thy compassions from me: thy mercy and thy truth shall always guard me.

13 For evils even not being numbered encompassed about me: mine inquities overtook me, and I was not able to see; they were numerous above the hairs of my head, and my heart forsook me.

14 Be gracious, O Jehovah, to deliver me: hasten, O Jehovah, to help me.

15 They shall be ashamed and blush together seeking my soul to take it away; they shall be turned back, and they delighting in my evil shall be ahamed.

16 They shall be made desolate for the reward of their shame, they saying to me, Aha! aha!

17 All they seeking thee shall rejoice and be glad in thee: they loving thy salvation shall say, Jehovah shall be magnified.

18 And I am poor and needy, Jehovah will think upon me: thou my help and my deliverer; thou will not delay, O my God.

PSALMS CHAPTER 41

[To the overseer: chanting of David.]

2 Happy he attending to the weak one: in the day of evil Jehovah will deliver him.

3 Jehovah will watch him and preserve him alive; he shall be happy upon the earth, and thou wilt not give him to the soul of his enemies.

4 Jehovah will support him upon a bed of sickness: thou turnedst all his bed in his sickness.

5 I said, O Jehovah, pity me, heal my soul, for I sinned against thee.

6 Mine enemies will say evil to me: When shall he die, and his name perish?

7 And if he came to see, he will speak vanity: his heart will gather vanity to him; he will go forth without; he will speak.

8 Together, all hating me, will whisper against me: against one they will purpose evil to me.

9 A word of Belial will press upon him: and when he lay down, he will not add to rise up.

10 Also the man of my peace whom I trusted in him, eating my bread, magnified the heel against me.

11 And thou, O Jehovah, pity me and raise me up, and I will requite to them.

12 By this I knew that thou didst delight in me, for mine enemy will not shout over me.

13 And I, in mine integrity thou didst support me, and thou wilt set me before thy face forever.

14 Praised be Jehovah God of Israel, from forever and even to forever. Amen and Amen.

PSALMS CHAPTER 42

[To the overseer instructing for the sons of Borah.]

2 As the stag will long for the channels of waters, thus will my soul long for thee, O God.

3 My soul thirsted for God, for the living God: when shall I come and see the face of God?

4 My tears were to me bread day and night, in saying to me all the days, Where is thy God?

5 These I shall remember, and I shall pour out my soul in me: for I shall pass through into the booth, I shall go softly with them even to the house of God, with the voice of joy and confession, of the multitude keeping a festival.

6 Why wilt thou be bowed down, O my soul? and be disturbed upon me? Hope upon God, for yet shall I praise him for the salvation of his face.

7 O my God, my soul will be bowed down upon me: for this I will remember from the land of Jordan and the Hermonites, from the mountain of smallness

8 Deep calling to deep at the voice of thy cataracts: all thy breakers and thy waves passed over me.

9 The day Jehovah will command his mercy, and in the night the song with me; the prayer to the God of my life.

Copyright © 2026 by Lord Henfield, Guildford Scientific Press

10 I will say to God my rock, Wherefore didst thou forget me? wherefore darkened shall I go for the oppression of the enemy?

11 With a breaking of my bones mine enemies reproached me, in their saying all the day, Where their God?

12 Why wilt thou be bowed down, O my soul? and why wilt thou be disturbed upon me? Hope upon God, for yet shall I praise him, the salvation of my face and my God.

PSALMS CHAPTER 43

Judge me, O God, and contend my contention from a nation not godly: from the man of deceit and iniquity thou wilt deliver me.

2 For thou the God of my strength: why didst thou reject me? wherefore darkened shall I go about for the oppression of the enemy?

3 Send forth thy light and thy truth; they shall lead me, they shall bring me to thy holy mountain and to thy tents.

4 I will come to the altar of God, to God the gladness of my joy: and I will praise thee upon the harp, O God, my God.

5 Why wilt thou be bowed down, O my soul? and why wilt thou be disturbed upon me? hope upon God, for yet shall I praise him, the salvation of my face, and my God.

PSALMS CHAPTER 44

[To the overseer for the sons of Korah: of instruction.]

2 O God, with our ears we heard; our fathers recounted to us the work thou didst in their days, in days of old.

3 Thou didst with thy hand drive out the nations and thou wilt plant them; thou wilt pluck in pieces the people, and thou wilt send them forth.

4 For by their sword they possessed not the land, and their arm saved them not: for thy right hand and thine arm, and the light of thy face, for thou didst delight in them.

5 Thou art he my King, O God: command the salvation of Jacob.

6 In thee we will thrust our enemies: in thy name we will tread down those rising up against us.

7 For I will not trust in my bow, and my sword will not serve me.

8 For thou savedst us from our enemies, and those hating us thou didst make ashamed.

9 In God we praised all the day, and thy name we will celebrate forever. Silence.

10 But thou didst reject, and thou wilt shame us, and not go forth with our armies.

11 Thou wilt turn us back from the enemy: and those hating us spoiled for themselves.

12 Thou wilt give us as sheep for food, and thou didst scatter us among the nations.

14 Thou wilt set us a reproach to our neighbors, and a derision and scorn to them round about us.

15 Thou wilt set us a parable among the nations, a shaking of the head among the peoples.

16 All the day my shame before me, and the confusion of my face covered me,

18 All this came to us, and we did not forget thee, and we lied not in thy covenant

19 Our heart drew not back, and thou wilt not incline our going from thy path;

20 For thou didst crush us in the place of jackals, and thou wilt cover over us with the shadow of death.

21 If we forgat the name of our God, and stretched out our hands to a strange god:

22 Will not God search this out? for he knew the secrets of the heart

23 For, for thee we were killed all the day; we were reckoned as sheep of the slaughter.

25 Why wilt thou hide thy face? wilt thou forget our affliction and our oppression?

26 For our soul was bowed down to the dust: our belly was glued to the earth.

27 Arise a help for us, and redeem us for sake of thy mercy.

PSALMS CHAPTER 45

[To the overseer over the lilies, for the sons of Korah, instruction: a song of the beloved.]

2 My heart boiled over a good word: I say my works to the king: my tongue the pen of one writing promptly.

3 Thou wert very beautiful above the sons of man: grace was poured forth by thy lips: for this God praised thee forever.

4 Gird thy sword upon the thigh, thou strong one in thy majesty and thine honor.

5 And in thy splendor prosper thou riding upon the word of truth and humility, of justice; and thy right hand shall teach thee wonderfully.

6 Thine arrows being sharpened peoples shall fall under thee as the heart of the king's enemies.

7 Thy throne, O God, forever and ever: a rod of straightness the rod of thy kingdom.

8 Thou lovedst justice, and thou wilt hate injustice: for this, God thy God anointed thee with the oil of joy above thy companions.

9 Myrrh and aloes, cassia, all thy garments, from the temples of ivory, by which they gladdened thee.

11 Hear, O daughter, and see, and incline thine ear, and forget thy people and thy father's house;

12 And the king shall desire for himself thy beauty, for he is thy Lord; and worship thou to him.

13 And the daughter of the rock with a gift; and the rich of the people shall supplicate thy face.

15 With variegation she shall be brought to the King; the virgins after her, her companions, being brought to thee.

16 They shall be brought with gladness and joy: they shall come into the temple of the king.

17 Instead of thy fathers shall be thy sons; thou shalt set them for chiefs in all the earth.

18 I will cause thy name to be remembered in every generation and generation: for this the peoples shall praise thee forever and ever.

PSALMS CHAPTER 46

2 O God, to us refuge and strength, helping greatly, being found in straits

3 For this we will not fear in the changing of the earth, and in the moving of the mountains into the heart of the seas.

4 Its waters will roar, they will foam; the mountains will tremble in its pride. Silence.

5 A river, its streams will gladden the city of God, the holy place of the tents of the Most High.

6 God is in her midst, she shall not be moved: God will help her at the face of morning.

7 Nations raged, kingdoms were moved: he gave with his voice, the earth will melt

8 Jehovah of armies is with us, the God of Jacob a height for us. Silence.

9 Come, behold the works of Jehovah, what desolations he set in the earth.

10 Causing wars to cease even to the end of the earth; he will break the bow, and be cut off the spear, and he will burn the cars in fire.

11 Desist, and know that I am God: I will be exalted in the nations, I will be exalted in the earth.

12 Jehovah of armies is with us; the God of Jacob a height for us. Silence.

PSALMS CHAPTER 47

[To the overseer, to the son of Korah: chanting.]

2 All peoples ye shall clap the hand; shout to God with the voice of rejoicing.

3 For Jehovah the Most High is terrible; a great King over all the earth.

4 He will speak the peoples under us, and the nations under our feet.

5 He will choose for us our inheritance, the excellency of Jacob whom he loved. Silence.

6 God went up with a shout, Jehovah with the voice of a trumpet

7 Play on the harp to God, play on the harp to our King; play on the harp.

8 For God is King of all the earth: play on the harp from understanding.

9 God reigned over the nations; God sat upon his holy throne.

10 The nobles of the peoples were gathered together, the people of the God. of Abraham: for to God the shields of the earth: he was lifted up greatly.

PSALMS CHAPTER 48

[A song of chanting to the sons of Korah.]

2 Great is Jehovah, and greatly praised in the city of our God, in his holy mountain.

3 Fair of elevation, the joy of all the earth, is mount Zion, the sides of the north, the city of the great King.

4 God being known in her fortresses for a height

5 For behold, the kings met together, they passed by together.

6 They saw, so they were astonished; they trembled, they took flight

7 Trembling seized them there, pain as of her bringing forth.

9 As we heard, so we saw in the city of Jehovah of armies, in the city of our God: God will prepare it even forever. Silence.

10 We thought, O God, of thy mercy in the midst of thy temple.

11 According to thy name, O God, so thy praise upon the ends of the earth: thy right hand being full of justice.

14 Set your hearts to her fortification; divide up her palaces, so that ye shall recount to the later generation.

15 For this God is our God forever and ever: he will guide us to death.

PSALMS CHAPTER 49

[To the overseer, to the sons of Korah: chanting.]

2 Hear this, all ye peoples; give ear, all ye inhabitants of the World:

3 Also ye sons of Adam, also ye sons of man together, ye rich and needy.

4 My mouth shall speak wisdom, and the meditation of my heart understanding.

5 I will incline mine ear to a parable: I will open my enigma upon the harp.

6 Wherefore shall I fear in the days of evil, the iniquity of my heel shall surround me.

7 They trusting upon their wealth, and they will glory in the multitude of their riches.

8 A man redeeming shall not redeem the brother, he shall not give to God his ransom:

9 (And the redemption of their soul is precious, and it ceased forever:)

10 And he shall yet live forever, he shall not see destruction.

11 For he shall see the wise shall die: together the fool and the stupid one shall perish, and they left their wealth to others.

Copyright © 2026 by Lord Henfield, Guildford Scientific Press

12 The midst of them their houses forever, their dwellings to generation and generation; they called in their names upon their lands.

13 And man shall not abide in honor, being like as the beasts they perished.

14 This their way folly to them: and those after them will delight in their mouth. Silence.

15 As sheep they were laid in hades; death shall rule over them, and the upright shall come down upon them in the morning; and their rock for falling away in hades from a dwelling to him.

16 But God will redeem my soul from the hand of hades, for he will receive me. Silence.

17 Thou shalt not fear when a man shall be enriched, and when the honor of his house shall be increased;

18 For not in his dying shall he take anything: his honor shall not go down after him.

19 For in his living he will praise his soul, (and he will praise thee for thou wilt do good to thyself,)

20 It shall go even to the generation of his fathers; even forever they shall not see light

21 Man in honor shall not understand; being like as the beasts, they perished.

PSALMS CHAPTER 50

[Chanting to Asaph.] The God of gods, Jehovah spike, and he will call the earth from the rising of the sun even to its going down.

2 Out of Zion the perfection of beauty, God shone forth.

3 Our God shall come, and he will not be silent: a fire shall consume before him, and it stormed greatly round about him.

4 He will call to the heavens from above, and to the earth to judge his people.

5 Gather ye my godly ones to me, they cutting out my covenant upon sacrifice

6 And the heavens shall announce his justice: for God himself the judge. Silence.

7 Hear ye, my people, and I will speak; O Israel, and I will testify against thee: I am God thy God.

8 Not for thy sacrifices will I reprove thee and for thy burnt-offerings, being always before me.

9 I will not take a bullock from thy house, from thy fold, he goats.

10 For to me all the beasts of the forest, the cattle upon a thousand mountains.

11 I knew all the birds of the mountains and the moving things of the field with me.

12 If I shall hunger I shall not say to thee; for to me the habitable globe, and its fulness.

13 Shall I eat the flesh of the strong ones, and shall I drink the blood of goats?

14 Sacrifice to God thanksgiving, and repay thy vows to the Most High:

15 And call upon me in the day of straits: I will deliver thee, and thou shalt honor me.

16 And to the unjust one God said, What to thee to recount my law, and thou wilt lift up my covenant upon thy mouth?

17 And thou hatedst instruction, and thou wilt cast my words behind thee.

18 If thou sawest a thief, and thou wilt run with him, and thy portion with those committing adultery.

19 Thou sentest thy month into evil, and thy tongue will contrive deceit

21 These things thou didst and I was silent; thou thoughtest, being, I shall be like to thee: I will reprove thee, and I will set it in order before thine eyes.

22 Understand now this, ye forgetting God, lest I shall rend and none delivering.

23 He sacrificing praise shall honor me, and he setting the way I will cause him to look upon the salvation of God.

PSALMS CHAPTER 51

[To the overseer: chanting to David;

2 In the coming to him of Nathan the prophet, when he went in to Bathsheba.]

3 Compassionate me, O God, according to thy mercy: according to the Multitude of thy compassions wipe away my transgressions.

4 Multiply to wash me from mine iniquity, and cleanse me from my sin.

5 For I shall know my transgression, and my sin is always before me.

6 Against thee, thee alone, did I sin, and I did evil in thine eyes: so that thou wilt be justified in thy speaking, and thou wilt be pure in thy judging.

7 Behold, I was born in iniquity, and in sin did my mother conceive me.

8 Behold, thou didst delight in truth in the reins, and in bidden things thou wilt cause me to know wisdom.

9 Thou wilt purify me with hyssop, and I shall be clean: thou wilt wash me and I shall be white above snow.

10 Thou wilt cause me to hear joy and gladness; the bones thou didst break shall rejoice.

11 Hide thy face from my sin, and wipe away all mine iniquities.

12 Create for me a clean heart, O God, and renew a steadfast spirit in my midst, 13 Thou wilt not cast me away from thy face, and thou wilt not take thy holy spirit from me.

14 Turn back to me the joy of thy salvation, and thy willing spirit shall uphold me.

15 I will teach those transgressing, thy ways, and those sinning shall turn back to thee.

16 Deliver me from bloods, O God the God of my salvation; my tongue shall rejoice in thy justice.

17 O Jehovah, thou wilt open my lips, and my mouth shall announce thy praise.

Copyright © 2026 by Lord Henfield, Guildford Scientific Press

18 For thou wilt not delight in sacrifice, and thou wilt not take pleasure in burnt-offering.

19 The sacrifices of God a spirit being broken: a heart being broken and crushed, O God, thou wilt not despise.

21 Then wilt thou delight in sacrifices of justice, in burnt-offering and whole burnt-offering: then they will bring up bullocks upon thine altar.

PSALMS CHAPTER 52

[To the overseer instruction to David:

2 In the coming of Doeg the Edomite to Saul, and he will say to him, David came to the house of Ahimelech.]

3 Why wilt thou boast in evil, thou strong one? the mercy of God is all the day.

4 Thy tongue will purpose mischief as a razor being sharpened, working deceit.

5 Thou lovedst evil above good; falsehood more than speaking justice. Silence.

6 Thou lovedst all words of destruction, a tongue of deceit

7 Also God will break thee down forever; he will take thee and sweep thee away from the tent, and root thee up from the land of the living. Silence.

8 And the just shall see and fear, and laugh at him.

9 Behold, the man will not set God his strength, and he will trust in the multitude of his riches he will be strengthened in his mischief.

10 And I am as a green olive tree in the house of God: I trusted in the mercy of God forever and ever.

11 I will praise thee forever, for thou didst: and I will wait for thy name, for it is good before thy godly ones.

PSALMS CHAPTER 53

[To the overseer upon the stringed instrument: instruction to David.]

2 The fool said in his heart, No God. They were corrupted; they made iniquity abominable: none doing good.

3 God from the heavens looked forth upon the sons of man to see if there is he understanding, seeking God.

4 They all drew back: together they were corrupt; none doing good, not even one.

5 Did not those transgressing know any thing? eating up my people, they ate bread: they called not upon God.

6 They feared a fear; there was no fear: for God scattered the bones of him making narrow: thou didst make ashamed, for God rejected them.

7 Who will give from Zion the salvation of Israel? In God turning back the captivity of his people, Jacob shall rejoice, and Israel shall be glad.

PSALMS CHAPTER 54

[To the overseer upon the stringed instrument, instruction to David: In the going of the Ziphims, and they will say to Saul, Is not David hiding with us?]

2 O God, in thy name save me, and in thy strength thou wilt judge me.

3 O God, hear my prayer: give ear to the sayings of my mouth.

4 For strangers rose up against me, and the powerful sought out my soul: they set not God before them. Silence.

5 Behold, God a help to me: Jehovah with those upholding my soul.

6 He will turn back the evil to those oppressing me; in thy truth cut them off.

7 In willingness I will sacrifice to thee: I will praise thy name, 0 Jehovah, for it is good.

8 For from all straits he delivered me, and mine eyes looked upon my enemies.

PSALMS CHAPTER 55

[To the overseer upon the stringed instrument, instruction to David.]

2 Give ear O God, to my prayer; thou wilt not hide thyself from my supplication.

3 Attend to me and answer me; I shall flow down and make a noise in my complaint

4 From the voice of the enemy, from the face of the oppression of the unjust one: for they will bring down vanity upon me, for in anger they will lie in wait for me.

5 My heart will be pained within me, and the terrors of death fell upon me.

6 Fear and trembling will come upon me, and horror will cover me.

7 And saying, Who will give me the wing-feather as a dove? I will fly away and settle down.

8 Behold, I will move far off; fleeing away I will lodge in the desert. Silence.

9 I will hasten escape to me from the rushing wind, from the storm.

10 Swallow up, O Jehovah, divide their tongue: for I saw violence and strife in the city.

11 Day and night they will surround it upon its walls: and vanity and trouble in her midst

13 For not the enemy will reproach me, and I will bear: not he hating me magnified against me; and I will hide from him.

14 And thou a man according to my estimation, my friend and my acquaintance.

15 Who together made sweet the intercourse, we will go into the house of God with the multitude.

16 Death shall lay waste upon them; they shall go down living to hades, for evils in their sojournings in the midst of them.

17 I will call upon God, and Jehovah will save me:

18 Evening and morning and noon I will meditate and make a noise, and he will hear my voice.

19 He redeemed my soul in peace from the encounter against me: for with many they were with me.

Copyright © 2026 by Lord Henfield, Guildford Scientific Press

20 God will hear and he will humble them, and he dwelt of old. Silence. With whom no changes to them and they feared not God.

21 He stretched forth his hand in his recompenses: he profaned his covenant

22 They were divided from the wrath of his mouth, and his heart drew near: his words were soft above oil, and they drawn swords.

23 Cast thy giving upon Jehovah and he will sustain thee: he will not give forever a wavering to the just one.

24 And thou, O God, wilt bring them down to the well of destruction: men of bloods and deceit shall not halve their days; and I will trust in thee.

PSALMS CHAPTER 56

[To the overseer for the silent dove of those far off: to David, a poem in the rovers taking him in Gath.]

2 Compassionate me, O God, for man panted after me; warring all the day, he will press me.

3 Mine enemies panted after me all the day: for many warring against me proudly.

4 The day I shall be afraid I will trust to thee.

5 In God I will praise his word, in God I trusted; I will not fear what flesh shall do to me.

6 All the day they will grieve my words: against me all their purposes for evil

7 They will sojourn, they will hide, they will watch my heels as they waited for my soul

8 For nothing is deliverance to them? In anger bring down the peoples, O God.

9 Thou didst recount my wanderings: set thou my tears in thy bottle: are they not in thy book?

10 Then will mine enemies turn back in the day I shall call: this I knew, that God is for me.

11 In God I will praise the word: in Jehovah I will praise the word.

12 In God I trusted, I will not fear what man shall do to me.

13 Upon me, O God, thy vows: I will repay praises to thee.

14 For thou deliveredst my soul from death: are not my feet from falling, to go about before God in the light of the living?

PSALMS CHAPTER 57

[To the overseer, Thou wilt not destroy, to David a poem in his fleeing from the face of Saul in the cave.]

2 Compassionate me, O God, compassionate me: for in thee my soul put trust, and in the shadow of thy wings I will put my trust till calamity shall pass by.

3 I will call to God the Most High; to God he completed for me.

4 He will send from the heavens and he will save me; he rebuked him panting after me. Silence. God will send forth his mercy and his truth.

5 My soul is in the midst of lions: I shall lie down with the flaming, the sons of man, their teeth spears and arrows, and their tongue a sharp sword.

7 They prepared a net for my steps; my soul was bent down: they dug a pit before me, they fell into the midst of it. Silence.

8 My heart was prepared, O God, my heart was prepared: I will sing and play on the harp.

9 Awake, my glory; awake, lyre and harp: I shall awake early.

10 I will praise thee, O Jehovah, among the peoples: I will play on the harp to thee among the nations.

11 For great even to the heavens thy mercy, and even to the clouds, thy truth.

12 Be thou exalted over the heavens, O God: over all the earth, thy glory.

PSALMS CHAPTER 58

[To the overseer, Thou wilt not destroy; to David a poem.]

2 Will ye indeed speak dumb justice? will ye judge justly, ye sons of man?

3 Also in heart ye will work evil; in the earth ye will roll the violence of your hands.

4 The unjust turned aside from the belly: they went astray from the womb, speaking falsehood.

5 Wrath to them according to the likeness of the wrath of a serpent: as the deaf adder will stop its ear;

6 Which will not hear to the voice of enchanters, charming with enchantments from wisdom.

8 They shall melt away as water shall go about to them: he will bend his arrow, they shall be as cut off.

9 As a snail shall melt away he shall go: fire fell; they saw not the sun.

10 Before your pots shall perceive the thorn, as living, as in wrath, he will sweep him away.

11 The just one shall rejoice as seeing vengeance: he shall wash his footsteps in the blood of the unjust one.

12 And man shall say, Truly, fruit to the just one: truly there is a God judging in the earth.

PSALMS CHAPTER 59

[To the overseer, Thou wilt not destroy, to David a poem; in Saul sending, and they will watch the house to kill him.]

2 Deliver me from mine enemies, O God: thou wilt set me on high from those rising up against me.

3 Deliver me from those working vanity, and save me from men of bloods.

4 For behold, they lay in wait for my soul: the strong will gather against me; not my transgression and not my sin, O Jehovah.

5 Not iniquity, they will run and they will prepare: be aroused to meet me, and see.

6 And thou Jehovah God of armies, God of Israel, awake to review all the nations: thou wilt not compassionate all covering iniquity. Silence.

Copyright © 2026 by Lord Henfield, Guildford Scientific Press

7 They will turn back at evening: they will make a noise as a dog, and they will surround the city.

8 Behold, they will gush out with their mouth: swords in their lips: for who heard?

9 And thou, O Jehovah, wilt laugh at them; thou wilt deride at all the nations.

10 His strength for thee will I watch: for God my height

11 My God, his mercy shall anticipate me: God shall cause me to look upon mine enemies.

12 Thou wilt not kill them lest my people shall forget: cause them to wander to and fro by thy strength, and bring them down, O Jehovah, our shield.

13 The sin of their mouth the word of their lips, and they shall be taken in their pride: and from cursing and from falsehood they will recount.

14 Finish in wrath, finish, and they not be: and they knew that God ruled in Jacob to the ends of the earth. Silence.

15 They shall turn back at evening; they shall make a noise as a dog, and they will surround the city.

16 They shall wander to and fro to eat, though they shall not be satisfied; and they will pass the night

17 And I will sing thy strength; and I will rejoice at morning for thy mercy; for they wert a height to me, and a refuge in the day of straits to me.

18 My help, to thee I will play on the harp, for God my height, the God of my mercy.

PSALMS CHAPTER 60

[To the overseer upon the lily of song: poem to David to teach;

2 In the setting on fire Aram of the two rivers, and Aram of the station; and Joab will turn back and strike Edom in the valley of salt, twelve thousand.]

3 O God, thou didst cast us off, thou didst break us down, thou wert angry; wilt thou turn back to us?

4 Thou didst shake the earth; thou didst rend it: heal its breakings, for it is depressed.

5 Thou didst cause thy people to see a hard thing: thou didst give us to drink the wine of reeling.

6 Thou gavest a signal to those fearing thee, to flee from the face of the bow. Silence.

7 So that thy beloved ones shall be delivered, save with thy right hand and answer us.

8 God spake in his holy place; I will rejoice, I will divide the shoulder, and I will measure the valley of booths.

9 Gilead to me, and Manasseh to me; and Ephraim the strength of my head; Judah my judge.

10 Moab the pot of my washing; over Edom I will cast out my shoe: for me, Philistia shouted for joy.

11 Who will bring me to the city of fortification? who guided me even to Edom?

12 Wilt not thou, O God? thou didst cast us off, and wilt thou not go forth, O God, with our armies?

14 In God we will do strength and he will tread down our adversaries.

PSALMS CHAPTER 61

[To the overseer upon the stringed instrument; to David.]

2 Hear, O God, my wailing; attend to my prayer.

3 From the end of the earth I will call to thee, in the fainting of my heart: thou wilt lead me into the rock it will be lifted up above me.

4 For thou wert a refuge to me, a tower of strength from the face of the enemy.

5 I will dwell in thy tent forever: I will put my trust in the covering of thy wings. Silence.

6 For thou, O God, heartiest to my vows: thou gavest the inheritance to those fearing thy name.

7 Thou wilt add days to the days of the king: his years as generation and generation.

8 He shall dwell before God forever: mercy and truth a portion shall guard him.

9 Thus will I play on the harp to thy name forever, to repay me my vows day by day.

PSALMS CHAPTER 62

[To the overseer, to Jeduthun: chanting to David.]

2 Surely my soul was silent to God: from him my salvation.

3 Surely he my rock and my salvation, my height; I shall not be greatly moved.

4 How long will ye set upon a man? ye will kill all of you: as a wall inclining, a wall thrust down.

5 Surely they counseled to thrust down his lifting up: they will delight in falsehood: with their mouth they will praise, and in their inward parts they will curse. Silence.

6 Only, my soul be thou silent to God; for from him my hope.

7 Surely he my rock and my salvation: my height; I shall not be moved.

8 Upon God my salvation and my glory: the rock of my strength, my refuge in God.

9 Trust in him in all time; ye people, pour out your heart before him: God is a refuge for us. Silence.

10 Surely the sons of man vanity, the sons of man falsehood: to be brought up into the balances, they together of vanity.

11 Ye shall not trust in oppression, ye shall not become vain in plunder: if wealth shall increase ye shall not set the heart

12 Once God spake; twice I heard this; that strength is to God.

13 And to thee, O Jehovah, mercy: for thou wilt recompense to each according to his work.

PSALMS CHAPTER 63

[Chanting to David in his being in the desert of Judah.]

2 God thou art my God; I will seek thee: my soul thirsted for thee, my flesh longed for thee in a land of dryness, and thirsty without water.

Copyright © 2026 by Lord Henfield, Guildford Scientific Press

3 Thus in the holy place I saw thee, to see thy strength and thy glory.

4 For thy mercy was good more than life; my lips shall praise thee.

5 So I will bless thee in my life: in thy name will I lift up my hands.

6 As milk and fatness my soul shall be satisfied; and with rejoicing lips shall my mouth praise.

7 When I remembered thee upon my bed in the watches, I will meditate upon thee.

8 For thou wert a help to me, and in the shadow of thy wings I will rejoice.

9 My soul adhered after thee: thy right hand held fast upon me.

10 They will seek my soul for destruction, they shall go into the lower parts of the earth.

11 They shall deliver to the hands of the sword; they shall be a portion of foxes.

12 And the king shall rejoice in God; all swearing in him shall glory: for the mouth of those speaking falsehood shall be stopped.

PSALMS CHAPTER 64

[To the overseer; chanting to David.]

2 Hear, O God, my voice in my complaint: thou wilt guard my life from the fear of the enemy.

3 Thou wilt cover me from the consultation of evil ones; from the crowd of the workers of vanity:

4 Who sharpened as a sword their tongue, they bent their arrows a bitter word:

5 To shoot down the blameless one in secret things: suddenly they will shoot, and they will not be afraid.

6 They will strengthen to themselves an evil word: they will recount to hide snares; they said, Who shall see them

7 They will search out iniquities; they completed a search searched out: and a man drew near, and a deep heart.

8 God shall be exalted; their blows were the arrow of the simple.

9 And they will cause their tongue to falter upon themselves: all looking upon them shall be moved.

10 And all men shall fear, and they shall announce the work of God: and they shall look at his doing.

11 The just one shall rejoice in Jehovah, and he put his trust in him; and all the upright of heart shall glory.

PSALMS CHAPTER 65

[To the overseer; chanting to David a song.]

2 Praise being silent to thee, O God in Zion: and to thee shall the vow be repaid.

3 Hear thou prayer: even to thee shall all flesh come.

4 The words of iniquities were strong above me: our transgressions thou wilt cover them.

5 Happy him thou wilt choose, and thou wilt draw near; he shall dwell in thy enclosures: we shall be satisfied in the good of thy house; holy is thy temple.

6 Wonderful things in justice thou wilt answer us, O God saving us, the trust of all the ends of the earth, and those being far off upon the sea:

8 Restraining the tumult of the seas, the tumult of their waves, and the multitude of the nations.

9 And they shall be afraid, those dwelling in the ends, from thy signs: the goings forth of the morning and evening thou wilt cause to rejoice.

10 Thou reviewedst the earth, and thou wilt water it: thou wilt greatly enrich it; the stream of God being full of waters: thou wilt prepare their grain, for so thou wilt prepare it.

11 Thou givest its furrows to drink to the full: thou wilt cause its incisions to flow down in showers: thou wilt bless its springing up.

13 The pastures of the desert shall drop, and the hills shall be girded with joy.

14 The lambs of the sheep were clothed, and the valleys shall be covered with corn; they shall shout for joy, they shall also sing.

PSALMS CHAPTER 66

[To the overseer; a song of chanting.] Shout ye for joy to God, all the earth:

2 Play ye on the harp, the glory of his name: set the glory of his praise.

3 Say to God, How terrible thy works! in the multitude of thy strength thine enemies shall lie to thee.

4 All the earth shall worship to thee, and they shall play on the harp to thee; they shall play on the harp to thy name. Silence.

5 Come and see ye the works of God: terrible the doing upon the sons of man.

6 He turned the sea into dry land: they will pass through the river on foot: there we shall rejoice in him.

7 Ruling by his strength forever; his eyes will look about upon the nations: they turning away shall not lift up for themselves. Silence.

8 Ye peoples bless our God, and cause the voice of his praise to be heard.

9 He set our soul in life, and he gave not our feet to waver.

10 For thou didst try us, O God, thou didst prove us as purifying of silver.

11 Thou broughtest us into the net; thou didst set a heavy burden upon our loins.

12 Thou didst cause men to ride upon our head; we went through fire and through water: and thou wilt bring us forth to abundance.

13 I will go into thine house with 'burnt-offerings: I will repay to thee my vows,

14 Which my lips opened and my month spake in straits to me.

15 I will bring up to thee burnt-offerings of marrows with incense of rams; I will do oxen with he goats. Silence.

16 Come, hear, and I will recount, all ye fearing God, what he did for my soul

17 I called to him with my mouth, and he was lifted up under my tongue.

18 If I saw vanity in my heart, Jehovah will not hear.

19 Surely God heard; he attended upon the voice of my prayer.

20 Praised be God who turned not away my prayer, and his mercy from me.

PSALMS CHAPTER 67

[To the overseer upon the stringed instrument: chanting of the song.]

2 God will compassionate us and bless us; his face will enlighten us. Silence.

3 To know thy way in the earth, thy salvation among all the nations.

5 The nations shall be glad and rejoice, for thou wilt judge peoples in uprightness, and thou wilt pity the nations upon earth. Silence.

7 The earth gave her produce; God our God shall bless Us.

8 God shall bless us, and all the ends of the earth shall fear him.

PSALMS CHAPTER 68

2 God will rise; his enemies shall be scattered, and they hating him shall flee from his face.

3 As smoke being dispersed thou wilt disperse: as wax melting from the face of fire, the unjust shall perish from the face of God.

4 And the just shall be glad; they shall rejoice before God, and they shall rejoice with gladness.

5 Sing ye to God; play on the harp to his name: raise him up to ride in the evenings, in Jah his name, and rejoice before him.

6 A father of orphans and a judge of widows, God in his holy habitation.

7 God setting the only ones in the house, bringing forth the bound into prosperities, but those turning away dwelt in a dry land.

8 O God, in thy going forth before thy people, in thy stepping in the desert. Silence.

9 The earth shook, also the heavens dropped from the face of God, this Sinai from the face of God, the God of Israel.

10 Thou wilt scatter a rain of abundance, O God, to thine inheritance, and being weary thou didst make it firm.

11 Thy living ones dwelt in it: thou wilt prepare in thy goodness for the poor, O God.

12 Jehovah will give the word: to those announcing good news a great army.

13 Kings of armies will flee away, they will flee away, and she resting in the house will divide the spoil

14 If ye shall lie down within the stalls, the wings of the dove being covered with silver, and her wing feathers with yellowness of gold.

16 The mountain of God the mountain of Basilan; the mountain of height the mountain of Bashan.

17 Wherefore will ye lie in wait, ye mountains of heights? the mountain God desired to dwell in it: also Jehovah will dwell forever.

18 The chariot of God twice ten thousand thousands upon thousands: Jehovah among them, Sinai in the holy place.

19 Thou didst go up to height, thou didst take captive captivity: thou didst receive gifts in man, also those turning away, for Jehovah God to dwell.

20 Praised be Jehovah; day by day the God of our salvation will lift up to us. Silence.

21 The God to us a God for salvations; and to Jehovah the Lord the goings forth to death.

22 Also God will crush the head of his enemies, the crown of him going about in his faults.

23 Jehovah said, I will turn back from Bashan; I will turn back from the depths of the sea:

24 So that thy foot shall shake in blood, the tongue of thy dogs from the enemies of him.

25 They saw thy goings, O God; the goings of my God, my King, in the holy place.

26 The chiefs went before, they playing on instruments, after; in the midst, girls beating the tabret.

27 Praise ye God in the assemblies, Jehovah from the fountain of Israel

28 Then little Benjamin in a deep sleep, the chiefs of Judah their throng, the chiefs of Zebulon, the chiefs of Naphtali.

29 Thy God commanded thy strength: strengthen, O God, this thou didst for us.

30 From thy temple at Jerusalem kings shall bring a gift to thee.

31 Rebuke the beasts of the reed, the assembly of the strong ones, with the heifers of the peoples, prostrating themselves with pieces of salver: scatter the peoples, they will delight in wars.

32 The rich shall come out of Egypt; Cush shall cause its hand to run to God.

33 Ye kingdoms of the earth, sing to God; play on the harp to Jehovah. Silence.

34 To him riding upon the heavens of heavens of old, behold, he will give in his voice a voice of strength.

35 Ye shall give strength to God: upon Israel is his majesty, and his strength in the clouds.

36 O God, being wonderful in thy holy things: the God of Israel, he gave strength and powers to the people. Praised be God.

PSALMS CHAPTER 69

[To the overseer upon the lilies; to David.]

2 Save me, O God, for the waters came even to the soul.

3 I sank in mire of depth, and no standing: I came into depths of waters and the floods overwhelmed me.

4 I was wearied in my calling, my throat was dried up: mine eyes failed waiting for my God.

5 Those hating me were many above the hairs of my head: mine enemies destroying me by falsehood were strong: then I will turn back what I plucked not away.

6 O God, thou knewest for my folly, and my faults were not hid from thee.

7 They waiting for thee shall not be ashamed for me: O Lord Jehovah of armies, they shall not be disgraced for me, seeking thee, O God of Israel.

8 Because for thee I bare reproach: shame covered my face.

9 I was polluted to my brethren, and a stranger to my mother's sons.

10 For the zeal of thy house devoured me, and the reproaches of those reproaching thee fell upon me.

11 And I will weep with fasting of my soul, and it will be for reproaches to me.

12 And I will give my clothing sackcloth, and I for a parable to them.

13 They sitting in the gate will speak against me, and I was but the music of stringed instruments, of strong drink

14 And I, my prayer is to thee, O Jehovah, a time of acceptance: O God, in the multitude of thy mercy answer me, in the truth of thy salvation.

15 Deliver me from the mire and I shall not sink: I shall be delivered from those hating me, and from the depths of waters.

16 The streams of water shall not overflow me, and the depth shall not swallow me down, and the well shall not close upon me her mouth.

17 Answer me, O Jehovah, for good is thy mercy: according to the multitude of thy compassions turn to me.

18 And thou wilt not hide thy face from thy servant; for straits are to me.: hasten to answer me.

19 Draw near to my soul, redeem it: ransom me on account of mine enemies.

20 Thou knewest my reproach and my shame, and my disgrace: all mine adversaries are before thee.

21 Reproach broke my heart, and I shall be ill at ease: and I shall hope for comforting, and none; and for those consoling, and I found not

22 And they will give my food poison, and for my thirst they will give me vinegar to drink.

24 Their eyes shall be darkened from seeing, and cause their loins to waver always.

25 Pour out upon them thy wrath, and the burning of thins anger shall overtake then).

26 Their fortress shall be desolated, and in their tents there shall none be dwelling.

27 For whom thou didst strike they pursued; and they will relate to the pain of thy wounded.

28 Thou wilt give iniquity to their iniquity, and they shall not come into thy justice.

29 They shall be wiped off from the book of the living, and with the just they shall not be written.

30 And I am poor and dejected: and thy salvation, O God, shall set me up on high.

31 I will praise the name of God with a song, and will magnify him with praise.

32 And it shall be good to Jehovah above an ox, a bullock shooting out horns and hoofs,

33 The poor saw, they shall be glad: and seeking Jehovah your heart shall live.

34 For Jehovah heard to the needy, and he despised not his hound.

35 The heavens shall praise him, and the earth, the sea, and every creeping thing in it

36 For God will save Zion, and he will build the cities of Judah, and they shall dwell there and inherit it

37 And the seed of his servants shall inherit it, and they loving his name shall dwell in it.

PSALMS CHAPTER 70

[To the overseer: to David, to bring to remembrance.]

2 O God, to deliver me; O Jehovah hasten to help me.

3 They seeking my soul shall be confused and ashamed: they shall be turned away behind; and they desiring my evils, shall be ashamed.

4 They shall be turned back for a reward of their shame, saying, Aha! Aha

5 All seeking thee shall rejoice and be glad in thee, and they shall say always, God shall be magnified; they loving thy salvation.

6 And I am poor and needy: O God, hasten to me, my help and my deliverer; thou, O Jehovah, wilt not delay.

PSALMS CHAPTER 71

In thee, O Jehovah, I put my trust; shall not be ashamed forever.

2 In thy justice thou wilt deliver me, and let me escape: incline to me thine ear and save me.

3 Be thou to me for a rock of refuge to come always: thou didst command to save me, for thou my rock and my fortress.

4 My God, deliver me from the hand of the unjust one, from the hand of him transgressing, and the violent one.

5 For thou my hope, O Lord Jehovah: my trust from my youth.

6 Upon thee was I supported from the womb: from the bowels of my mother thou didst separate me: in thee my praise always.

7 I was as a wonder to many: and thou my refuge of strength.

8 My mouth shall be filled with thy praise, thy magnificence all the day.

Copyright © 2026 by Lord Henfield, Guildford Scientific Press

9 Thou wilt not cast me off to the time of old age; as my strength fails thou wilt not forsake me.

10 For mine enemies said to me, and they watching my soul took counsel together,

11 Saying, God forsook him: pursue him and take him, for none delivering.

12 O God, thou wilt not be far off from me: my God, hasten for my help.

13 They lying in wait for my soul shall be ashamed; they shall be finished; they seeking my evil shall be covered with reproach and shame.

14 And I will always hope, and I added upon all thy praise.

16 I will go in the strength of the Lord Jehovah: I will keep in remembrance thy justice, thine alone.

17 O God, thou didst teach me from my youth: and even to this will I announce thy wonders.

18 And also even to old age and grayness, O God, thou wilt not forsake me; till I shall announce thine arm to the generation, thy strength to every one who shall come:

19 And thy justice, O God, even to height, who didst great things: O God, who like thee?

20 Who didst cause us to see great straits and evils; thou wilt turn back, thou wilt preserve us alive, and from the depths of the earth thou wilt turn back, thou wilt bring us up.

22 Also I will praise thee with the instrument of the harp; thy truth, O God, I will play on the harp, to thee, O Thou, Holy One of Israel.

23 My lips shall rejoice when I shall play on the harp to thee, and my soul which thou redeemedst.

24 Also my tongue all the day shall celebrate thy justice; for they were confused, for they seeking my evil were ashamed.

PSALMS CHAPTER 72

[To Solomon.] O God, thou wilt give thy judgments to the king, and thy justice to the king's son.

2 He shall judge thy people in justice, and thy poor in judgment.

3 The mountains shall lift up peace to the people, and the hills in justice.

4 He shall judge the poor of the people, and save to the sons of the needy, and he will break in pieces him oppressing.

5 And they shall fear thee with the sun and before the moon, generation of generations.

6 He shall come down as rain upon a fleece, as showers of pouring rain upon the earth.

7 The just one shall break forth in his days, and a multitude of peace even till no moon.

8 And he shall rule from sea even to sea, and from the river even to the. ends of the earth.

9 Inhabitants of the desert shall bow before him, and his enemies shall lick the dust

10 The kings of Tarshish and the islands shall turn back a gift, the kings of Sheba and Seba shall bring a present

11 And all kings shall worship to him: all nations shall serve him.

12 For we will deliver the needy from the powerful one, and the poor and no helper to him.

13 He will spare for the poor and the needy, and he will save the souls of the needy.

14 From oppression and from violence he will redeem their soul, and their blood shall be precious in his eyes.

15 And he shall live, and there shall be given to him from the gold of Sheba: and there shall always be supplications for him; all the day shall they praise him.

16 There shall be diffusion of grain in the earth upon the head of the mountains; its fruit shall shake as Lebanon, and they shall blossom from the city as the grass of the earth.

17 His name shall be forever: his name shall flourish before the sun: and they shall be praised in him: all nations shall pronounce him happy.

18 Praised be Jehovah God, the God of Israel, doing wonders himself alone.

19 And praised be the name of his glory forever; and his glory shall fill all the earth. Amen and Amen.

20 The prayers of David son of Jesse were completed.

PSALMS CHAPTER 73

[Chanting to Asaph.] Surely God is good to Israel, to the clean of heart

2 And I, my feet nearly turned aside; my going was almost poured out

3 For I was envious at the foolish; I shall see the peace of the unjust

4 For not the pains to their death, and their body fat

5 They are not in the trouble of men, and with man they shall not be struck.

6 For this, pride surrounded them as a neck-chain; the dress of violence will cover to them.

7 Their eye will come forth from fat: they passed over the imaginations of the heart

8 They will mock and speak in evil of oppression: they will speak from elevation.

9 They set their mouth against the heavens, and their tongue will go in the earth.

10 For this, his people will turn back here: and full water shall be sucked out to them.

11 And they said, How did God know? and is there knowledge in the Most High?

12 Behold, these the unjust, and they being secure of the world increased riches.

13 Surely in vain I cleansed my heart, and I will wash my hands in cleanness.

14 And I am struck all the day, and my reproofs for the mornings.

15 If I said, I will recount thus; behold, I transgressed against the generation of thy sons.

16 And I shall think to know this, it is labor in mine eyes.

17 Till I shall come to the holy place of God I shall not understand for their latter state.

18 Surely in slippery places thou wilt set them, to cast them down into ruins.

19 How they were for desolation as in a moment they perished; they were finished from sudden destruction.

21 For my heart will be embittered, and my loins were hard.

22 And I stupid, and I shall not know, and I was a beast with thee.

24 In thy counsel thou wilt guide me, and after, thou wilt receive me with glory.

25 Who to me in the heavens? and from thee I desired nothing in the earth.

26 My flesh failed and my heart: the rock of my heart and my portion is God forever.

27 For behold, they being far off from thee shall perish: thou didst lay waste all committing fornication from thee.

28 And I drawing near to God, it is good for me: I put in the Lord Jehovah my refuge, to recount all thy works.

PSALMS CHAPTER 74

[Understanding to Asaph.] Wherefore, O God, didst thou reject forever? will thine anger smoke against the sheep of thy feeding?

2 Remember thine assembly thou didst purchase of old; thou didst redeem the rod of thine inheritance; this mount Zion thou didst dwell in it

3 Lift up thy steps to desolations forever; all the evil of the enemy in the holy place.

4 Thine enemies roared in the midst of thine appointment; they set their signs, signs.

5 It will be known according to bringing the axes upwards upon the thicket of wood.

6 And now with axes and hammers they will beat her engravings.

7 They cast thy holy place into fire, to the earth they defiled the tent of thy name.

8 They said in their heart, We will rage against them together: they burnt up all the appointments of God in the earth.

9 We saw not our signs, no more a prophet: and not with us will it be known how long.

10 How long, O God, shall the enemy reproach? Shall the enemy despise thy name forever?

12 And God my king of old working salvations in the midst of the earth.

14 Thou didst break the heads of the sea monster, thou wilt give him for food to the people, to the inhabitants of the desert

15 Thou didst cleave asunder the fountain and the torrent: thou driedst up the rivers of strength.

16 To thee the day, also to thee the night: thou didst prepare the light and the sun.

17 Thou didst set all the bounds of the earth: summer and autumn thou didst form them.

19 Thou wilt not give the soul of thy turtle-dove to the beast: the life of thy poor thou wilt not forget forever.

21 The poor one shall not turn back ashamed: the humble and the needy shall praise thy name.

23 Thou wilt not forget the voice of thine adversaries: the pride of them rising up against thee going up always

PSALMS CHAPTER 75

[To the overseer, Thou wilt not destroy: chanting to Asaph a song.]

2 We confessed to thee, O God, we confessed: and thy name is near, thy wonders recounted.

3 For I will take the appointment, I will judge uprightnesses

4 The earth and all dwelling in it being melted: I made even its pillars. Silence.

5 I said to the foolish, Ye shall not be foolish; and to the unjust, Ye shall not lift up the horn:

6 Ye shall not lift up your horn to elevation: ye will speak with an impudent neck.

7 For not from the going forth and from the west, and not from the desert the lifting up.

8 For God is judge: he will humble this, and this he will lift up.

9 For a cup in the hand of Jehovah, and the wine red, being full of mixed wine; and he will pour out from this: but its lees all the unjust of the earth shall suck out, they shall drink.

10 And I will announce forever; I will play on the harp to the God of Jacob.

11 And all the horns of the unjust will I cut off; the horns of the just one shall be exalted.

PSALMS CHAPTER 76

[To the overseer upon the stringed instrument: chanting to Asaph song.]

2 In Judah was God known: great his name in Israel.

3 And his booth shall be in peace, and his dwelling in Zion.

4 There he broke the lightnings of the bow, the shield and the sword, and war. Silence

Copyright © 2026 by Lord Henfield, Guildford Scientific Press

6 The mighty of heart were spoiled, they slumbered their sleep: and all the men of strength found not their hands.

7 From thy rebuke, O God of Jacob, the chariot and the horse lay in a deep sleep.

8 Thou art feared, thou: and who shall stand before thee from the time of thine anger?

9 From the heavens thou didst cause judgment to be heard; the earth feared and rested.

10 In God's rising up to judgment, to save all the poor of the earth. Silence.

11 For the wrath of man shall praise thee: the remainder of wrath thou wilt gird up.

12 Vow, ye, and repay to Jehovah your God: all being round about him shall bring a gift for fear.

13 He will cut off the spirit of leaders, being terrible to the kings of the earth.

PSALMS CHAPTER 77

[To the overseer for Jeduthun: to Asaph a chanting.]

2 My voice to God, and I will cry with my voice to God, and he gave ear to me.

3 In the day of my straits I sought Jehovah: my hand was stretched out at night, and it will not be slack: my soul refused to be comforted.

4 I will remember God and I shall be disquieted: I shall be depressed and my spirit will languish. Silence.

5 Thou didst hold mine eyes watching: I was moved, and I will not speak.

6 I reckoned the days of old, the everlasting years.

7 I will remember my stringed instruments in the night: I shall meditate with my heart, and my spirit will search out.

8 Will Jehovah reject forever? and will he no more add to be satisfied?

9 Did his mercy fail forever? his word come to an end to generation and generation?

10 Did God forget to compassionate? or in anger did he gather his compassion? Silence.

11 And saying, This has made me sick: the years of the right hand of the Most High.

12 I will remember the works of Jah: for I will remember the ancient time of thy wonder.

13 And I meditated in all thy work, and I will think upon all thy doings.

14 O God, thy way is in the holy place: what God great as God?

15 Thou the God doing wonder: thou didst make known thy strength among the peoples.

16 Thou didst redeem with the arm thy people the sons of Jacob and Joseph. Silence.

17 The waters saw thee, O God, the waters saw thee; they will tremble, also the depths will be moved.

18 The clouds poured out waters: the clouds gave a voice: also thine arrows will go about.

19 The voice of thy thunder in the wheel: the lightnings lightened the habitable globe: the earth moved and it will shake.

20 In the sea thy way, and thy paths in many waters, and thy heels were not known.

21 Thou didst guide thy people as sheep by the hand of Moses and Aaron.

PSALMS CHAPTER 78

[Instruction to Asaph.]

1 Give ear, O my people, to my law: incline your ears to the sayings of my mouth.

2 I will open my mouth in a parable: I will utter enigmas from ancient time:

3 Which we heard and we shall know them, and our fathers recounted to us.

4 It was not hid from their sons, to a later generation recounting the praises of Jehovah and his strength, and his wonders which he did.

5 For he raised up a testimony in Jacob and set a law in Israel, which he commanded our fathers to make them known to their sons:

6 So that a later generation shall know; sons shall be born, they shall rise up and recount to their sons.

7 And they shall set their hope in God, and they shall not forget the works of God, and they shall watch his commands.

8 And they shall not be as their fathers, a generation turning away and bitter, a generation it prepared not its heart, and its spirit was not firm with God.

9 The sons of Ephraim bending, lifting up the bow, turned in the day of the encounter.

10 They watched not the covenant of God, and in his law they refused to go;

11 And they will forget his works and his wonders which he caused them to see.

12 Before their fathers he did a wonder in the land of Egypt, the field of loading.

13 He rent the sea and he will cause them to pass through; and he will cause the waters to stand as a heap.

14 And he will guide them in a cloud the day, and all the night in a light of fire.

15 He will rend the rocks in the desert, and give drink as the great abyss.

16 And he will bring forth flowings from the rock, and bring down waters as rivers.

17 And they will yet add to sin against him to embitter the Most High in a dry land.

18 And they will tempt God in their heart to ask food for their soul.

19 And they will speak against God; they said, Will God be able to arrange a table in the desert?

20 Behold, he struck the rock and waters will flow, and torrents will pour out; will he be able also to give bread? or will he prepare flesh for his people?

21 For this Jehovah heard and he will overflow, and a fire was kindled in Jacob, and also anger came up upon Israel.

22 For they believed not in God, and they trusted not in his salvation.

Copyright © 2026 by Lord Henfield, Guildford Scientific Press

23 And he commanded the clouds from above, and he opened the doors of the heavens.

24 And he will rain upon them manna to eat, and he gave the grain of the heavens to them.

25 Man ate the bread of the strong: he sent to them provision to fulness.

26 He will cause the east wind to go forth in the heavens, and by his strength he will lead the south wind.

27 And he will rain flesh upon them as the dust, birds of feather as the sand of the seas.

29 And they shall eat and be well filled: and he will bring to them their desire.

31 And the anger of God came up upon them, and he will slay among their fat ones and he bowed down the chosen of Israel.

32 In all this they yet sinned, and they believed not in his wonders.

33 And he will finish their days in vanity, and their years in terror.

34 When he slew them and they sought him, and they turned back and sought for God.

35 And they will remember that God is their Rock, and God the Most High redeemed them.

36 And they will deceive with their mouth, and with their tongue they will lie to him.

37 And their heart was not right with him, and they were not firm in his covenant

38 And he being compassionate will cover iniquity, and he will not destroy: and he multiplied to turn back his anger, and he will not rouse up all his wrath.

39 And he will remember that they are flesh; a spirit going and not turning back.

40 How often they will embitter him in the desert! they will grieve him in the waste.

41 And they will turn back and tempt God, and they broke in upon the Holy One of Israel.

42 They remembered not his hand the day which he redeemed them from the enemy;

43 How he set in Egypt his signs, and his wonders in the field of loading.

44 And he turned to blood their rivers, and their flowings they shall not drink

45 He will send forth among them the gad-fly, and they shall devour them; and frogs, and they shall destroy them.

46 And he will give their produce to the devourer, and their labor to the locust

47 He will kill their vine with hail, and their sycamore trees with frost

48 He will deliver their cattle to the hail, and their possessions to the flames.

49 He will send upon them the burning of his anger, outpouring and wrath, and straits, sending evil messengers.

50 He will prepare a beaten path for his anger; he spared not their soul from death, and their life he delivered to the word;

51 And he will strike all the firstborn in Egypt; the first-fruits of their toils in the tents of Ham:

52 He will remove his people as sheep, and he will lead them as a flock in the desert

53 And he will guide them securely and they feared not: and the sea covered their enemies.

54 And he will bring them to the bound of his holy place, this mountain his right hand purchased.

55 And he will cast out the nations from their face, and he will divide them by lot in the measure of inheritance, and he will cause the tribes of Israel to dwell in their tents.

56 And they will tempt and embitter God the Most High, and they watched not his testimonies.

57 And they will draw back, and they will transgress as their fathers: they were turned as a bow of deceit

58 And they will make him angry with their heights, and they will provoke him to jealousy with their carved images.

59 God heard and he will overflow, and he will greatly contemn in Israel.

60 And he cast off the tent of Shiloh, the tent he pitched among man.

61 And he will give his strength to captivity, and his beauty into the hand of the enemy.

62 And he will deliver his people to the sword, and he overflowed upon his inheritance.

63 The fire devoured his young men, and his virgins wailed not

64 His priests fell by the sword, and his widows wept not

65 And Jehovah will awake as he sleeping, as the strong one shouting from wine.

66 And he will strike his enemies behind: he gave to them reproach forever.

67 And he will reject in the tent of Joseph, and he chose not in the tribe of Ephraim.

68 And be will choose the tribe of Judah, mount Zion which he loved.

69 And he will build his holy place as of buffaloes, as the earth he founded it forever.

70 And he will choose in David his servant, and he will take him from the folds of sheep.

71 From those bringing up to care for Jacob his people and for Israel his inheritance.

72 And he will feed them according to the integrity of his heart, and he will guide them in the understandings of his hands.

PSALMS CHAPTER 79

[Chanting to Asaph.] O God, the nations came into thine inheritance; they defiled thy holy temple; they set Jerusalem for ruins.

2 They gave the corpses of thy servants food to the birds of the heavens, the flesh of thy godly ones to the beasts of the earth.

Copyright © 2026 by Lord Henfield, Guildford Scientific Press

3 They poured out their blood as water round about Jerusalem; and none burying.

4 We were a reproach to our neighbors, a derision and scorn to those being round about us.

5 How long, O Jehovah? wilt thou be angry forever? shall thy jealousy burn as fire?

6 Pour out thy wrath upon the nations which knew thee not, and upon the kingdoms which called not upon thy name.

7 For devouring Jacob and they laid Waste his dwelling.

8 Thou wilt not remember against us former iniquities: thy compassions shall quickly anticipate us, for we were greatly weak:

9 Help us, O God; save us, for the word of the glory of thy name: and deliver us, and cover our sins for sake Of thy name.

10 Wherefore shall the nations say, Where is their God? He will make known among the nations before our eyes the vengeance of the blood of thy servants being poured out.

11 The mourning of the bound shall come before thee; according to the greatness of thine arm let the sons of death remain

12 And turn back to our neighbors seven fold to their bosom their reproach which they reproached thee, O Jehovah.

13 And we are thy people and the sheep of thy pasture: we will confess to thee forever: to generation and generation we will recount thy praise.

PSALMS CHAPTER 80

[To the overseer for the lilies of the testimonies; to Asaph a chanting.]

2 O thou feeding Israel, give ear, guiding Joseph as sheep.; thou dwelling in the cherubs, shine forth.

3 Before Epraim and Benjainin add Manasseh raise up thy strength, and come to save for us.

4 O God, turn us back and cause thy face to shine, and we shall be saved:

5 O Jehovah, God of armies, how long didst thou smoke against the prayer of thy people?

6 Thou gavest them to eat the bread of tears, and thou wilt give them to drink in tears by measure.

7 Thou wilt set us a strife to our neighbors, and our enemies will deride to themselves.

8 O God of armies, turn us back and cause thy face to shine, and we shall be saved.

9 Thou wilt remove a vine from Egypt: thou wilt cast out the nations and thou wilt plant it

10 Thou didst set in order before it, and thou wilt cause its roots to take root and the earth will be filled.

11 Its Shadow covered the mountains, and its branches the cedars of God.

14 The swine from the forest will lay it waste, and the Moving thing of the field will feed upon it

15 O God of armies, turn back now: look from the heavens and see, and review this vine;

16 And the plant which thy right hand planted, and upon the son thou madest strong for thee,

17 Burning it in fire, tutting it down; from the rebuke of thy face they shall perish.

18 Thy hand shall be upon the man of thy right hand, upon the son of man thou madest Strong for thee.

19 And we will not draw back from thee: thou wilt cause us to live, and we will call upon thy name.

20 O Jehovah, God of armies turn us back; cause thy face to shine, and We shall be saved.

PSALMS CHAPTER 81

[To the overseer upon the stringed instrument; to Asaph.]

2 Rejoice ye in God our strength: shout to the God of Jacob.

3 Lift up music, and ye shall give the drum, the pleasant harp, with the lyre.

4 Strike ye the trumpet in the new in the full moon, for the day of our festival.

5 For it is a law to Israel, a judgment to the God of Jacob.

6 He set him a testimony in Joseph in his going forth upon the land of Egypt: I shall hear a lip I knew not

7 I removed his shoulder from the burden: his hands shall past by from the basket

8 Thou calledst in straits, and I will deliver thee; I will answer thee in the hiding place of thunder. I will prove thee at the water of strife. Silence.

9 Hear, O my people, and I will testify in thee: O Israel, if thou wilt hear to me;

10 A strange god shall not be in thee; and thou shalt not worship to a strange god.

11 I am Jehovah thy God bringing thee up from the land of Egypt: make broad thy mouth and I will fill it

12 And my people heard not to my voice; and Israel was not inclined to me.

13 And I will send him forth in the hardnesses of their heart: they shall go in their counsels.

14 Would that my people heard to me! Israel shall go in my ways.

15 Shortly I shall humble their enemies, and against their adversaries I will turn back my hand.

17 And he shall cause them to eat from the fat of wheat, and from the rock with honey will I satisfy thee.

PSALMS CHAPTER 82

[Chanting to Asaph.] God stood in the assembly of God; he will judge in the midst of gods.

2 How long will ye judge wickedness, and ye will lift up the faces of the unjust? Silence.

3 Judge ye the poor one, and the orphan: do justice to the humble one and the poor one

4 Deliver the poor and needy one: take away out of the hand of the unjust

5 They will not know, they will not Understand: they will go about in darkness: all the foundations of the earth will be moved.

6 I said, Ye are gods; and the sons of the Most High all of you.

8 Arise, O God, judge the earth: for then shalt inherit in all nations.

PSALMS CHAPTER 83

[A song of chanting to Asaph.]

2 O God, not stillness to thee: thou wilt not be silent, and thou wilt not rest, O God.

3 For behold, thine enemies will be clamorous; and they hating thee lifted up the head.

4 Against thy people they will make crafty consultation, and they will counsel against thy hidden ones.

5 They said, Come, and we will cut them off from a nation; and the name of Israel shall no more be remembered.

6 For they counseled together with the heart: they will cut out a covenant against thee:

7 The tents of Edom and the Ishmaelites, Moab and the Hagarites.

8 Gebel and Ammon and Amalek; the rovers with the inhabitants of Tyre;

9 Also Assur was joined with them: they were an arm to the sons of Lot Silence.

10 Do to them as Midian, as Sisera, as Jabin, at the torrent Bison:

11 They were destroyed at the fountain of the dwelling: they were dung to the earth.

12 Set them their nobles as Oreb, and as Zeeb: and as Zebah and as Zalmunna, all their princes:

13 Who said, We will inherit for us the dwellings of God.

14 O my God, set them as a wheel; as straw before the wind.

15 As fire will burn the forest, and as the flame will cause the mountains to burn.

16 So wilt thou pursue them with thy tempest, and thew wilt terrify them with thy whirlwind:

18 They shall be ashamed and terrified, even to forever; and they shall be put to shame and perish.

19 And they shall know that thou, thy name Jehovah alone, the Most High over all the earth.

PSALMS CHAPTER 84

[To the overseer upon the stringed instrument: to the sons of Korah, a chanting.]

3 My soul longed after, and also failed for the enclosures of Jehovah: my heart and my flesh will rejoice for the living God.

4 Also the sparrow found a house, and the swallow a nest for herself where she put her young brood, thine altars, O Jehovah of armies, my King and my God.

5 Happy they dwelling in thy house; they shall yet praise thee. Silence.

6 Happy the man strength to him in thee; the raised ways in their heart;

7 Passing through in the valley of Baca they will set it a fountain; also the early rain will cover the ponds.

8 They will go from strength to strength, being seen in Zion to God.

9 O Jehovah God of armies, hear my prayer: give ear, O God of Jacob. Silence.

10 See, O God our shield, and behold the face of thy Messiah.

11 For good a day in thine enclosures above a thousand. I chose to wait on the threshold in the house of my God, rather than to dwell in the tents of injustice.

12 For Jehovah God a sun and shield: Jehovah will give grace and glory; he will not withhold good to those going uprightly.

13 O Jehovah of armies, happy the man trusting in thee.

PSALMS CHAPTER 85

[To the overseer: to the sons of Korah a chanting.]

2 O Jehovah, thou didst delight in thy land: thou didst turn back the captivity of Jacob.

3 Thou didst lift up the iniquity of thy people, thou didst cover all their sin. Silence.

4 Thou didst take away all thy wrath: thou didst turn back the burning of thine anger.

5 Turn us back, O God of our salvation, and annul thine anger with us.

6 Wilt thou be angry with us forever? wilt thou draw out thine anger to generation and generation?

7 Wilt thou not turn back? wilt thou give us life? and thy people shall rejoice in thee.

8 Cause us, O Jehovah, to see thy mercy, and thou wilt give to us thy salvation.

9 I will hear what God Jehovah shall speak: for he will speak peace to his people, and to his godly ones: and they shall not turn back to folly.

10 Surely his salvation is near to those fearing him, for glory to dwell in his land.

11 Mercy and truth met together; justice and peace kissed.

12 Truth will spring up from the earth, and justice looked forth from the heavens.

13 Also Jehovah will give good, and our land shall give her produce.

14 Justice shall go before him, and shall set to the way of his steps.

PSALMS CHAPTER 86

[A prayer to David.] Incline, O Jehovah, thine ear: answer me, for I am poor and needy.

Copyright © 2026 by Lord Henfield, Guildford Scientific Press

2 Watch my soul, for I am godly: save thy servant, thou my God, trusting in thee.

3 Compassionate me, O Jehovah, for to thee I will call all the day.

4 Rejoice the soul of thy servant, for to thee, O Jehovah, will I lift up my soul.

5 For thou, O Jehovah, art good and forgiving, and great of mercy to all calling to thee.

6 Give ear, O Jehovah, to my prayer, and attend upon the voice of my supplications.

7 In the day of my straits I will call thee, for thou wilt answer me.

8 None like to thee among the gods, O Jehovah, and none according to thy works.

9 All the nations which thou madest shall come and worship before thee, O Jehovah, and they shall do honor to thy name.

10 For great art thou, and doing wonders: thou God alone.

11 Teach me, O Jehovah, thy way; I will go in thy truth: unite my heart to fear thy name.

12 I will praise thee, O Jehovah, my God, with all my heart, and I will honor thy name forever.

13 For thy mercy is great upon me, and thou didst deliver my soul from hades below.

14 O God, the proud rose up against me, and the assemblies of the terrible sought my soul; and they set not thee before them.

15 And thou, O Jehovah, art a God compassionate and merciful, and slow to anger and great of mercy and truth.

16 Turn to me and pity me; thou wilt give thy strength to thy servant, and save to the son of thy maid-servant

17 Make with me a sign for good, and they hating me shall see and be ashamed: for thou, Jehovah, didst help me and comfort me.

PSALMS CHAPTER 87

2 Jehovah loved the gates of Zion above all the tents of Jacob.

3 Honored things being spoken in thee, O city of God. Silence.

4 I will make mention of Rahab and Babel to those knowing me: behold the rovers, and Tyre, with Cush; this was born there.

5 And to Zion a man will say, And a man was born in her: and he the Most High shall prepare her.

6 Jehovah shall recount in writing up the peoples, This was born there. Silence.

7 The chiefs according to them beginning: all my fountains in thee.

PSALMS CHAPTER 88

[A song of chanting to the sons of Korah to the overseer upon the lute, for affliction of instruction, for Heman the Ezrabite.]

2 O Jehovah, God of my salvation, the day have I cried in the night before thee.

2 My prayer shall come before thee: incline thine ear to my wailing;

3 For my soul was filled with evils, and my life touched upon hades.

4 I was reckoned with those going down to the pit: I was as a man of no strength:

5 Free among the dead, as they wounded lying down in the grave, whom thou no more didst remember them, and they were cut off by thy hand.

6 Thou didst set me in the pit beneath, in darknesses, in the shades.

7 Thy wrath lay upon me, and thou didst afflict with all thy breakers. Silence.

8 Thou didst remove far from me mine acquaintance; thou didst set me an abomination to them: I was shut up, and I shall not go forth.

9 Mine eye languished from affliction: I called to thee, O Jehovah, in all the day, I stretched my hands to thee.

10 Wilt thou do wonder to the dead? if the shades shall arise, shall they praise thee? Silence.

12 Shall thy wonder be known in darkness, and thy justice in a land of oblivion?

13 And to thee, O Jehovah, I cried, and in the morning shall my prayer anticipate thee.

14 Wherefore, O Jehovah, wilt thou cast off my soul? wilt thou hide thy face from me?

15 I am poor and expiring from youth: I bore thy terrors; I shall be perplexed.

16 Upon me thy burnings passed over; thy terrors made me silent

17 They surrounded me as water all the day; they folded round about me together.

18 Thou didst remove far from me lover and friend, mine acquaintance into darkness.

PSALMS CHAPTER 89

[Of instruction to Ethan the Ezrahite.]

2 The mercies of Jehovah forever will I sing: to generation and generation will I make known thy faithfulness with my mouth.

3 For I said, Mercy shall be built up forever: the heavens, thy faithfulness shall be prepared in them.

4 I cut out a covenant to my chosen, I sware to David my servant,

5 Even to forever I will prepare thy seed, and I built up to generation and generation thy throne, Silence.

6 And the heavens shall confess thy wonders, O Jehovah, also thy faithfulness in the convocation of the holy ones.

7 For who in the cloud shall be compared to Jehovah? shall he be likened to Jehovah among the sons of God?

8 God being greatly terrible in the council of the holy ones and to be feared by all round about him.

9 O Jehovah, God of armies, who as thee, Jah [Yah, Yahweh, Lord, God], strong? and thy faithfulness round about thee?

10 Thou ruling over the lifting up of the sea: in the lifting up of its waves thou wilt soothe them.

11 Thou didst break Rahab in pieces as the wounded one; with the arm of thy strength thou didst scatter thine enemies.

12 To thee the heavens, also to thee the earth; the habitable globe and its fulness thou didst found them.

13 The north and the south thou didst create them: Tabor and Hermon shall rejoice in thy name.

14 To thee an arm with strength: thou wilt strengthen thy hand, and thou wilt lift up thy right hand.

17 In thy name they shall rejoice all the day, and in thy justice they shall be exalted.

18 For thou the beauty of their stength, and in thine acceptance our horn shall be exalted.

19 For to Jehovah our shield, and to the Holy One of Israel our King.

20 Then thou spakest in a vision to thy godly one, and thou wilt say, I put help upon the mighty one; I exalted the chosen one from the people.

21 I found David my servant; with my holy oil I anointed him:

22 Which my hand shall be prepared with him: also shall mine arm strengthen him.

23 The enemy shall not impose upon him, and the son of iniquity shall not afflict him.

24 And I beat down his adversaries from his fame, and I will smite those hating him.

25 And my faithfulness and my mercy with him, and in my name shall his horn be exalted.

26 And I set his hand in the sea, and his right hand in the rivers.

27 He shall call me, Thou my father, my God, and the Rock of my salvation,

28 Also I will give him the firstborn, the highest to the kings of the earth.

29 Forever will I watch my mercy to him, and my covenant was firm to him.

30 I set his seed forever, and his throne as the days of the heavens.

31 If his sons shall forsake my law, and not go in my judgments;

32 If they shall profane my laws and watch not my commands;

33 And I reviewed their transgression with the rod, and their iniquity with blows.

34 And my mercy I will not rend from him, and I will not lie in my faithfulness,

35 I will not profane my covenant, and I will not change the going forth of my lips.

36 Once did I swear in my holy place if I shall lie to David.

37 His seed shall be forever and his throne as the sun before me.

38 As the moon it shall be prepared forever, and a faithful witness in the cloud. Silence.

40 Thou didst reject the covenant of thy servant: thou didst profane to the earth his consecration.

42 All those passing over the way plundered him: he was a reproach to his neighbors:

44 Also thou wilt turn hack the edge of his sword, and thou caused him not to rise up in war.

45 Thou didst cause to cease from his cleansing, and his throne thou didst cast it down to the earth.

47 How long, O Jehovah, wilt thou hide thyself forever? Shall thy wrath burn as fire?

48 Remember me what is life: wherefore in vain didst thou create all the sons of man?

49 What man shall live and not see death? Shall he deliver his soul from the hand of hades? Silence.

50 Where thy former mercies, O Jehovah, thou didst sware to David in thy faithfulness?

51 Remember, O Jehovah, the reproach of thy servants; I lifted up in my bosom all the multitudes of peoples;

52 Which thine enemies reproached, O Jehovah; which they reproached the heels of thy Messiah.

53 Blessed be Jehovah forever. Amen and Amen.

PSALMS CHAPTER 90

[Prayer to Moses the man of God.] O Jehovah, thou wert a refuge to us in generation and generation.

2 Before the mountains were born, and the earth shall be begun, and the habitable globe, and from forever even to forever, thou art God.

3 Thou wilt turn man even to crushing, and thou wilt say, Turn back, ye sons of man.

4 For a thousand years in thine eyes as the day of yesterday, for it shall pass away, and watches in the night.

5 Thou didst overwhelm them; in sleep shall they be; in the morning as the grass will pass away.

6 In the morning it will flourish, and it will pass away at evening; it will be cut off and will dry up.

7 For we were finished in thine Anger, and in thy wrath we were terrified.

8 Thou didst set our iniquities before thee, our hidden things before the light of thy face.

9 For all our days turned away in thy wrath: we finished our years as a meditation

Copyright © 2026 by Lord Henfield, Guildford Scientific Press

10 The days of our years, in them seventy years; and if in strengths, eighty years, and their pride labor and vanity; for being soon cut off and we shall fly away.

11 Who shall know the strength of thine anger? and according to thy fear, thy wrath.

12 To number our days so make known, and we shall bring the heart to wisdom.

13 Turn back, O Jehovah, how long? and have pity upon thy servants.

14 Satisfy us in the morning with thy mercy, and we shall rejoice and be glad in all our days.

15 We rejoiced according to the days thou didst humble us, the years we saw evil.

17 And the sweetness of Jehovah our God shall be upon us: and the work of our hands prepare thou it upon us; and the work of our hands prepare thou it.

PSALMS CHAPTER 91

He dwelling in the covering of the Most High, in the shadow of the Almighty shall he lodge.

2 Saying to Jehovah, My refuge and my fortress: my God, I will trust in thee

3 For he will deliver thee from the snare of the fowler, from the word of ruin.

4 He will cover thee with his wing feathers, and under his wings thou shalt trust: his truth a shield and buckler.

5 Thou Shalt not be afraid from terror the night; from the arrow that will fly the day;

6 From the word that shall go in darkness: from the cutting off that shall lay waste the noon-day.

7 A thousand shall fall from thy side, and ten thousand from thy right hand; and to thee it shall not reach.

8 Only with thine eyes thou shalt look and thou shalt see the retribution of the unjust

9 For thou, O Jehovah, my trust; thou didst set the Most High thy refuge.

10 Evil shall not approach to thee, and a blow shall not come near in thy tent

11 For he will command his messengers for thee, to watch thee in all thy ways.

12 Upon the hands shall they lift thee up, lest thou shalt strike thy foot against a stone.

13 Upon the lion and the asp, shalt thou tread: thou shalt tread down the young lion and the dragon.

14 For he delighted in me and I will deliver him: I will exalt him, for he knew my name.

15 He shall call me and I will answer him: I am with him in straits; I will deliver him and honor him.

16 With length of days will I satisfy him, and I will cause him to look upon my salvation.

PSALMS CHAPTER 92

[Chanting a song to the day of Sabbath.]

2 It is good to confess to Jehovah, to play on the harp to thy name, O Most High.

3 To announce in the morning thy mercy, and thy faithfulness in the night.

4 Upon a ten stringed instrument, and upon the lyre; with the murmurs upon the harp.

5 For thou didst gladden me, O Jehovah, by thy work: I will rejoice in the works of thy hands.

6 How great were thy works, O Jehovah! thy thoughts were very deep.

8 In the putting forth of the unjust as grass, and all working iniquity shall flourish; to destroy them even to forever:

9 And thou being high, O Jehovah, forever.

10 For behold, thine enemies, O Jehovah, for behold, thine enemies shall perish; all working iniquity shall be dispersed.

11 My horn shall be lifted up as a buffalo: I was poured over with fresh oil.

14 And mine eye shall look upon mine enemies: in the risings up of the unjust against me, mine ears shall hear.

13 The just one shall flourish as the palm tree: he shall become great as the cedar in Lebanon.

14 Those being planted in the house of Jehovah, shall flourish in the enclosures of our God.

15 They shall yet sprout in old as; they shall be fat and green.

16 To announce that Jehovah is upright: my rock and no iniquity in him.

PSALMS CHAPTER 93

Jehovah reigned, he put on majesty: Jehovah put on strength, he girded himself: also the habitable globe shall be prepared, it shall not be moved.

2 Thy throne was prepared from then: thou art from forever.

3 The rivers lifted up, O Jehovah, the rivers lifted up their voice, the rivers shall lift up their roarings.

5 Thy testimonies were very firm: holiness was becoming to thy house, O Jehovah, to length of days.

PSALMS CHAPTER 94

O God of vengeance, O Jehovah God of vengeance, shine forth.

2 Be thou lifted up judging the earth: turn back retribution upon the proud.

3 How long shall the unjust, O Jehovah, how long shall the unjust exult?

4 They will utter, they will speak impudently; all they working iniquity will boast themselves.

Copyright © 2026 by Lord Henfield, Guildford Scientific Press

5 They will break in pieces thy people, O Jehovah, and they will afflict thine inheritance.

6 The widow and the stranger they will slay, and they will kill the orphan.

7 And they will say Jah will not see, and the God of Jacob will not understand.

8 Understand, ye brutish among the people: and ye foolish, when will ye understand?

9 He planting the ear, shall he not hear? if he formed the eye, shall he not see?

10 He chastising the nations, shall he not do justice? he teaching man knowledge.

11 Jehovah knew the thoughts of man that they are vanity.

12 Happy the man whom thou shalt chastise, O Jah: and thou wilt teach him from thy laws.

13 To give rest to him from the days of evil, till the pit shall be dug for the unjust

14 For Jehovah will not cast off his people, and he will not forsake his inheritance.

15 For judgment shall turn back even to justice: and after it all the upright of heart

16 Who shall rise up for me against those doing evil? who shall stand for me against those working iniquity?

18 If I said, My foot wavered; thy mercy, O Jehovah, upheld me.

19 In the multitude of my thoughts in my midst thy consolations will delight my soul.

20 Shall the throne of mischief be joined together with thee forming labor upon the law?

22 And Jehovah shall be for a height to me, and my God for the rock of my refuge.

23 And he will turn back upon them their iniquity, and in their evil he will cut them off; Jehovah our God will cut them off.

PSALMS CHAPTER 95

Come, we will rejoice to Jehovah: we will shout to the Rock saving us.

2 We will anticipate his face with confession, with music we will shout to him.

3 For Jehovah is the great God, and a great King over all gods.

4 For in his hand the recesses of the earth, and the heights of the mountains to him.

5 For to him the sea, and he made it: and his hands formed the dry land.

6 Come, we will worship and bow down before Jehovah: he made us.

7 For he is our God, and we the people of his feeding and the sheep of his hand. This day if ye will, hear to his voice.

8 Ye shall not harden your heart as the strife, as the day of trial in the desert:

9 When your fathers tempted me, they proved me; also they saw my works.

10 Forty years I shall loathe to the generation, and saying, A people they wandering in heart, and they knew not my ways:

11 For I sware in mine anger if they shall come in to my rest

PSALMS CHAPTER 96

Sing ye to Jehovah a new song: sing ye to Jehovah all the earth.

2 Sing ye to Jehovah, praise his name; announce glad tidings; from day to day, his salvation.

4 For great is Jehovah, and being greatly praised: he is terrible above all gods.

5 For all the gods of the peoples are nothings: and Jehovah made the heavens:

6 Majesty and honor are before him; strength and beauty in his holy place.

7 Give to Jehovah, ye families of the peoples, give to Jehovah glory and strength.

8 Give to Jehovah the glory of his name: lift ye up a gift and come to his enclosures.

9 Worship ye to Jehovah in the ornaments of holiness: tremble ye from his face, all the earth.

10 Say ye among the nations, Jehovah reigned: also the habitable globe shall be prepared, it shall not be moved: he will judge the peoples in uprightness.

11 The heavens shall be glad, and., the earth shall rejoice: the sea shall be moved, and its fulness.

12 The field shall exult and all that is in it: then shall all the trees of the, forest rejoice.

13 Before the face of Jehovah; for he came, for he came to judge the earth: he will judge the habitable globe in justice, and the peoples in his faithfulness.

PSALMS CHAPTER 97

Jehovah reigned, the earth shall exult: the many islands shall be glad.

2 A cloud and darkness round about him: justice and judgment the preparing of his throne.

3 Fire shall go before him and shall burn up his enemies round about

4 His lightnings lightened the habitable globe; the earth saw and it Will tremble.

5 The mountains melted as wax from before the face of Jehovah, from before the face of the Lord of all the earth.

7 All serving a carved thing shall be ashamed, they boasting themselves in nothings; worship to him, all ye Gods.

8 Zion heard and she will be glad, and the daughters of Judah shall rejoice for sake of thy judgments, O Jehovah.

9 For thou, Jehovah, art most high over all the earth: thou wert exalted greatly above all gods.

Copyright © 2026 by Lord Henfield, Guildford Scientific Press

10 Hate evil, ye loving Jehovah: he watched the souls of his godly ones; he will deliver them from the hand of the unjust

11 Light was sown for the just one, and gladness for the upright of heart

12 Be glad ye just, in Jehovah, and praise him at the remembrance of his holiness.

PSALMS CHAPTER 98

[Chanting.] Sing ye to Jehovah a new song, for he did wonders: his right hand saved for him, and his holy arm.

2 Jehovah made known his salvation: to the eyes of the nations he uncovered his justice.

3 He remembered his mercy and his faithfulness to the house of Israel: all the ends of the earth saw the salvation of our God.

4 Shout ye to Jehovah, all the earth break forth into joy and rejoice, and play on the harp.

5 Play to Jehovah on the harp, on the harp and the voice of music.

7 The sea shall he moved and its fulness: the habitable globe and they dwelling in it.

8 The rivers shall clap the hand: the mountains shall rejoice together

9 Before Jehovah; for he came to judge the earth: he will judge the habitable globe in justice, and the peoples in uprightness

PSALMS CHAPTER 99

Jehovah reigned, the peoples shall be moved: he dwelling in the cherubs; the earth shall quake.

2 Jehovah is great in Zion, and he was raised up over all peoples.

3 They shall praise thy great and terrible name: he is holy.

4 And the king's strength loved judgment; thou didst prepare uprightnesses, thou didst judgment and justice in Jacob.

5 Exalt ye Jehovah our God, and worship at the footstool of his feet; he is holy.

6 Moses and Aaron among his priests, and Samuel among those calling upon his name; calling to Jehovah and he will answer them.

7 In a pillar of cloud he will speak to them: they watched his testimonies, and the law he gave them.

8 O Jehovah our God, thou didst answer them; thou wert God lifting up to them, and taking vengeance for all their doings.

9 Exalt ye Jehovah our God, and worship at his holy mountain; for Jehovah our God is holy.

PSALMS CHAPTER 100

[Chanting for praise.] Shout ye to Jehovah, all the earth.

2 Serve ye Jehovah with gladness: come before him with rejoicing.

3 Know ye that Jehovah he is God: he made us and not we his people and the sheep of his feeding.

5 For Jehovah is good; his mercy forever and his faithfulness to generation and generation.

PSALMS CHAPTER 101

[To David a chanting.] Mercy and judgment will I sing to thee, O Jehovah: I will play on the harp.

2 I will be prudent in a blameless way. When wilt thou come to me? I will go about in integrity of heart in the midst of my house.

3 I will not set a word of Belial before mine eyes: I hated him doing transgressions; he shall not cleave to me.

4 A heart of oppression shall depart from me: I shall not know evil.

5 Slandering his neighbor in secret, him will I cut off: him being lofty of eyes and broad of heart, with him I will not eat

6 Mine eyes are upon the faithful of the earth, to dwell with me: he walking in a blameless way, he shall serve me.

7 He doing deceit shall not dwell in the midst of my house: he speaking falsehoods shall not be prepared before mine eyes.

8 For the mornings I will destroy all the unjust of the land; to cut off from the city of Jehovah all doing iniquity.

PSALMS CHAPTER 102

2 O Jehovah, hear my prayer, and my cry shall come to thee.

3 Thou wilt not hide thy face from me in the day of straits to me; incline thine ear to me: in the day I shall call, speedily answer me.

4 For my days were finished in smoke, and my bones burnt as fuel.

5 My heart was struck and dried up as grass, that I forget eating my bread.

6 From the voice of my groaning my bone did cleave to my flesh.

7 I was like to the pelican of the desert: I was as the owl of the dry places.

8 I watched and I shall be as the sparrow being alone upon the roof

9 All the day mine enemies reproached me, they praising me aware against me.

10 For I ate ashes as bread, and I mingled my drink with weeping.

11 From the face of thine anger and thy wrath: for thou didst lift me up and thou wilt cast me down.

12 My days declining as a shadow, and I shall be dried up as grass.

13 And thou, O Jehovah, wilt remain forever; and thy remembrance to generation And generation.

14 Thou wilt arise, thou wilt compassionate Zion: for the time to compassionate her for the appointment came.

15 For thy servants delighted in her stones, and they will compassionate her dust

16 And the nations shall fear the name of Jehovah: and all the kings of the earth thy glory

17 For Jehovah built Zion, he was seen in his glory

18 He looked upon the prayer of the helpless, and he despised not their prayer.

20 For be looked forth from the height of his holy place; from the heavens Jehovah looked upon the earth;

21 To hear the groaning of the bound; to loose the sons of death.

24 He answered in the way of his strength: he shortened my days.

25 Saying, O my God, thou wilt not take me away in the half of my days: thy years in generations of generations.

26 Before time thou didst found the earth, and the heavens the work of thy hands.

27 They shall perish and thou shalt stand.

28 And all they shall fall away as a garment; as clothing thou shalt change them, and they shall be changed.

29 And thou the same, and thy years shall not finish.

30 The sons of thy servants shall abide, and their seed shall be prepared before thee.

PSALMS CHAPTER 103

[To David.] Praise Jehovah, O my soul, and all within me, his holy name.

2 Praise Jehovah, O my soul, and thou wilt not forget all his acts.

3 Forgiving to all thine iniquity, healing to all thy diseases.

5 Satisfying even to thee with good; thy youth shall be renewed as the eagle.

6 Jehovah did justices and judgments to all being oppressed.

7 He will make known his ways to Moses, his doings to the sons of Israel.

8 Jehovah being compassionate and merciful, slow to anger and great of mercy.

9 He will not contend forever; he will not keep forever.

10 He did not to us according to our sins, and he did not recompense upon us according to our iniquities.

11 For as the height of the heavens above the earth, his mercy prevailed upon those fearing him.

12 As far off as the sunrisings from the west, he removed far from us our transgressions.

14 For he knew our formation; he remembered that we are dust.

15 Man, his days as grass: as the blossom of the field, thus he will flourish.

16 For the wind passed over upon it and it is not; and its place shall know it no more.

17 And the mercy of Jehovah is from forever even to forever upon those fearing him, and his justice to sons' sons.

18 To those watching his covenant, and to those remembering his charges to do them.

20 Praise Jehovah, ye his messengers mighty of strength, doing his word, to hear the voice of his word.

22 Praise Jehovah all ye his works in all places of his dominions: praise Jehovah, O my soul.

PSALMS CHAPTER 104

[Praise Jehovah,] O my soul. O Jehovah my God thou wert great exceedingly; thou didst put on strength and honor:

2 Being covered with light as a garment: stretching forth the heavens as a curtain:

3 Framing his upper chambers in the waters: setting the clouds his chariot: going upon the wings of the wind.

5 Founding the earth upon her bases, she shall not be moved forever and even

6 The deep thou coveredst it as a garment: the waters will stand upon the mountains.

7 From thy rebuke they shall flee; from the voice of thy thunder they shall be terrified.

8 They shall go up the mountains; they shall go down into the valleys to the place: this thou didst found for them.

9 Thou didst set a bound they shall not pass over; they shall not turn bark to cover the earth.

10 Sending forth fountains into the valleys, they will go between the mountains.

14 Causing grass to spring up for the cattle, and the green herb for the service of man, to bring forth bread from the earth:

15 And wine will gladden the heart of man, to cause the face to shine from oil, and bread will support the heart of man.

16 And the trees of Jehovah shall be satisfied; the cedars of Lebanon which he planted;

17 Where there the sparrows will nest: the stork, the cypresses her house.

19 He made the moon for the appointments: the sun knew his going down.

20 Thou didst set darkness and it will be night: in it all the beasts of the forest shall creep.

22 The sun shall rise, they will be gathered together, and in their dens they will lie down.

23 Man will go forth to his work, and to his labor even to evening.

24 How thy works were multiplied. O Jehovah! in wisdom thou madest them all: the earth was filled with thy possessions.

25 This great and broad sea, hands there of the creeping thing, and no number of the beasts, small with great

26 There the ships will go: the sea monster thou didst form to play in it

27 They will all wait for thee to give their food in its time.

28 Thou wilt give to them, they will gather up: thou wilt open thy hand, they will be filled with good.

29 Thou wilt hide thy face, they will tremble: thou wilt take away their spirit, they shall expire and turn back to dust

30 Thou wilt send forth thy spirit, they will be created: thou wilt renew the face of the earth.

31 The glory of Jehovah shall be forever: Jehovah, shall rejoice in his works.

32 Looking upon the earth and it will tremble: he will touch up the mountains and they will smoke.

33 I will sing to Jehovah in my living: I will play on the harp to my God in my enduring.

34 My meditating upon him shall be sweet: I will rejoice in Jehovah.

35 Sinners shall be finished from the earth, and the unjust no more. Praise Jehovah, O my soul

PSALMS CHAPTER 105

Confess to Jehovah, call upon his name: make ye known his doings among the peoples.

2 Sing ye to him and play on the harp to him: discourse ye upon all his wonders.

3 Boast ye in his holy name: the heart of those seeking Jehovah shall rejoice.

5 Remember his wonders which he did; his signs and the judgments of his mouth.

7 He is Jehovah our God: his judgments are in all the earth.

10 And he will set it for a law to Jacob, to Israel an eternal covenant:

11 Saying, To thee will give the land of Canaan, the line of your inheritance:

12 In their being men of number, as few and strangers in it.

13 And they will go about from nation to nation, from the kingdom to another people;

14 He permitted not a man to oppress them, and for them he will reprove kings.

15 Ye shall not touch upon my Messiah, and ye shall not do evil to my prophets.

16 And he will call a famine upon the land: he broke all the support of bread.

17 He sent a man before them, Joseph, for a servant was he sold:

19 Even to the time his word came: the sayings of Jehovah purified him.

20 The king sent and he will bring him down; the ruler of the peoples, and he will loose him.

21 He set him lord to his house, and ruler over all his possessions:

23 And Israel will come into Egypt, and Jacob sojourned in the land of Ham.

24 And he will make his people fruitful greatly, and he will strengthen him above his enemies.

26 He sent Moses his servant; Aaron whom he chose in him.

27 They set the words of his signs among them, and wonders in the land of Ham.

28 He sent darkness, and he will darken; and they embittered not his words.

29 He turned their waters to blood, and he will slay their fish.

31 He said, and the gad-fly will come, and gnats in all their bounds.

33 And he will strike their vine and their fig trees, and he will break the tree of their bound.

34 He said, and the locust will come and the feeder, and no number.

35 And it will devour all the of their land, and it will devour all the fruit of their earth.

36 And he will strike every first-born in their land, the first-fruits to all their strength.

37 And he will bring them forth with silver and gold, and none being weak in their tribes.

39 He spread a cloud for covering, and fire to lighten the night

40 Asking, and he will bring the quail, and he will fill them with the bread of the heavens.

41 He opened the rock and the waters will flow; they went in dry places a river.

42 For he remembered his holy word with Abraham his servant

43 And he will bring forth his people in joy, his chosen in rejoicing.

44 And he will give to them the lands of the nations, and they will inherit the labor of the people;

45 So that they shall watch his laws, and his instructions they shall observe. Praise ye Jah.

PSALMS CHAPTER 106

Praise Jah [Yah, Yahweh, Lord, God]. Confess to Jehovah, for he is good, for his mercy is forever.

2 Who shall speak the powers of Jehovah? will he cause all his praises to be heard?

4 Remember us, O Jehovah: thy people with acceptance: review us with thy salvation;

5 To see the goodness of thy chosen ones, to be glad in the gladness of thy nation, to boast with thine inheritance.

6 We sinned with our fathers, we acted perversely, we did evil.

7 Our fathers considered not thy wonders in Egypt; they remembered not the multitude of thy mercies; they embittered at the sea, the sea of sedge;

8 And he will save them for sake of his name, to make known his powers.

9 And he will rebuke in the sea of sedge, and it will be dried up: and he will lead them in the depths as the desert

10 And he will save them from the hand of him hating, and he will redeem them from the hand of the enemy.

11 And the waters will cover their enemies: one of them was not left

12 And they will believe in his words, they will sing his praise.

14 And they will desire a desire in the desert, and they will tempt God in the waste.

15 And he will give to them their asking; and he will send leanness into their soul.

16 And they will be jealous. against Moses in the camp, against Aaron the holy of Jehovah.

17 The earth will open and will swallow down Dathan, and will cover the assembly of Abiram.

18 And a fire will be kindled in their assembly; the flame will burn up the unjust

19 They will make a calf in Horeb, and they will worship to the molten image.

20 And they will change their glory into the likeness of an ox eating grass.

21 They forgat God saving them, doing great things in Egypt

22 Wonders in the land of Ham, terrible things in the sea of sedge.

23 And he will say to destroy them unless Moses his chosen stood in the breaking before him to turn away his wrath from destroying.

24 And they will despise in the land of desire; they trusted not to his word:

25 And they will murmur in their tents; they heard not to the voice of Jehovah.

26 And he will lift up his hand against them: he will cause them to fall in the desert:

27 And to cause their seed to fall among the nations, and to scatter them in the lands.

28 And they will be bound to Baalpeor, and they will eat the sacrifices of the dead.

29 And they will irritate in their doings, and the blow will break upon them.

30 And Phinehas will stand and intercede, and the blow will be restrained.

31 And it will be reckoned to him for justice to generation and generation, even to forever.

32 And they will anger him at the water of strife, and it will be evil to Moses on account of them:

34 They did not destroy the peoples which Jehovah said to them.

35 And they will mingle with the nations, and they will learn their works.

36 And they will serve their images, and they will be for a snare to them.

37 And they will sacrifice their sons and their daughters to lords.

38 And they will pour out innocent blood, the blood of their sons and their daughters which they sacrificed to the images of Canaan: and the land will be polluted with bloods.

39 And they will be defiled with their works: and they will commit fornication in their doings.

40 And the anger of Jehovah will kindle against his people, and he will abhor his inheritance.

41 And he will give them into the hand of the nations; and they hating them shall rule over them.

42 And their enemies will press them, and they shall be humbled under their hand.

43 Many times he will deliver them, and they will embitter with their counsel, and they will be brought low in their iniquity.

44 And he will look upon straits to them in his hearing their wailing.

45 And he will remember his covenant to them, and he will console according to the multitude of his mercy.

46 And he will give them for compassions before all those carrying them away captive.

47 Save us, O Jehovah our God, and gather us from the nations to confess to thy holy name, to boast in thy praise

48 Blessed be Jehovah the God of Israel from forever and even to forever: and all the people saying, Amen. Praise ye Jah.

PSALMS CHAPTER 107

2 They being redeemed of Jehovah shall say, Which he redeemed them from the hand of the enemy.

3 And he gathered them from the lands, from the sunrisings and from the west, from the north and from the sea.

4 They will wander in the desert in a waste; the way of a city of dwelling they found not

5 Hungering, also thirsting, their soul will faint in them.

6 And they will cry to Jehovah in straits to them, and he will deliver them from their distresses.

7 And he will cause them to tread in a straight way, to go to a city of dwelling.

8 They shall confess to Jehovah his mercy, and his wonders to the sons of man.

9 For he satisfied the thirsty soul, and the hungering soul he filled with good.

10 They sitting in darkness and in the shadow of death, being bound with affliction and iron.

11 For they embittered the sayings of God, and they despised the counsel of the Most High:

12 And he will humble their heart with labor; they were weak, and none helping.

13 And they will cry to God in straits to them; he will save them from their distresses.

14 He will bring them forth from darkness and the shadow of death, and he will burst their bands.

15 They shall confess to Jehovah his mercy, and his wonders to the sons of man.

16 For he broke the brazen doors, and cut off the bars of iron.

17 Being turned away from the way of their transgression, they will be humbled from their iniquities.

18 Their soul will abhor all food, and they will draw near to the gates of death.

19 And they will cry to Jehovah in straits to them; he will save them from their distresses.

20 He will send his word and heal them, and he will deliver them from their destructions.

23 They shall go down to the sea in ships, doing work in many waters.

25 And he will say, and he will cause the spirit of storm to stand up, and its waves will rise up.

26 They will go up to the heavens, they will go down to the depths: their soul will be melted with evil.

27 They will reel and stagger as he intoxicated, and all their wisdom will be swallowed down.

28 And they will cry to Jehovah in straits to them, and he will bring them forth from their distresses.

29 He will set the storm for a calm, and their waves will be still

30 And they will be glad that they will subside, and he will guide them to the harbor of their desire.

31 They shall confess to Jehovah his mercy, and his wonders to the sons of man.

32 And they shall exalt him in the convocation of the people, and they shall praise him in the seat of the old men.

33 He will set rivers to a desert, and the findings of waters to thirst;

34 A land of fruit to saltness, for the evil of those dwelling in it

35 He will set a desert for pools of water, and a land of dryness for findings of water.

36 And there will he cause the hungering to dwell, and they shall prepare a city of dwelling;

37 And they shall sow fields and plant vineyards, and they will make fruits of produce.

38 And he will bless them, and they shall multiply greatly, and he will not diminish their cattle.

39 And they will be diminished and brought low from oppression, evil and grief

40 He poured out contempt upon the nobles, and he will cause them to wander in a waste of not a way.

41 He will set up the needy on high from affliction, and he will set families as a flock.

42 The upright shall see and be glad, and all iniquity shall shut her mouth.

43 Who the wise and will watch these, and they shall understand the mercies of Jehovah.

PSALMS CHAPTER 108

[Song of chanting to David.]

2 My heart being prepared, O God, I will sing and play on the harp, also mine honor.

3 Awake, lyre and harp: I will awake early.

4 I will praise thee among the people of Jehovah, and I will play on the harp in the nations.

6 Be thou exalted above the heavens, 0 God: and over all the earth, thy glory;

7 So that thy beloved ones shall be delivered: save with thy right hand, and answer us.

8 God shake in his holy place; I will exult, I will divide Shechem, and I will measure the valley of tents.

9 To me Gilead; to me Manasseh; and Ephraim, the fortress of my head, and Judah my judge.

10 Moab the pot of my washing; upon Edom I will cast my shoe; over Philistia will I shout for joy.

11 Who will bring me to the city of fortification? who guide me even to Edom?

12 Will not God? Thou didst cast us off, and wilt thou not go forth, O God, with our armies?

14 In God we shall do strength, and he will tread down our enemies.

PSALMS CHAPTER 109

[To the overseer, to David a chanting.] O God of my praise, thou wilt not be silent;

2 For the mouth of the unjust, and the mouth of deceit opened against me; they eke with me the tongue of false-hood.

3 And with words of hatred they surrounded me, and they will war with me gratuitously.

4 For my love they will oppose me: and I for prayer.

5 And they will set against me evil instead of good, and hatred for my love.

7 In his being judged he shall come forth condemned: and his prayer shall be for sin.

10 And shaking his sons shall wander about, and they asked and sought from their desolations.

11 The creditor shall lay snares for all which is to him, and strangers shall plunder his labor.

12 There shall not be to him any drawing out mercy, and there shall not be any compassionating to his orphans

14 The iniquity of his fathers will be in remembrance to Jehovah, and the sins of his mother shall not be wiped of 15 They shall be before Jehovah always, and their remembrance shall be cut off from the earth.

16 Because he remembered not to do mercy, and he will pursue the poor and needy man to slay the dejected of heart.

17 And he will love cursing, and it shall come to him: and he delighted not in praise, and it shall be far from him.

18 And he will put on cursing as his garment, and it shall come into his midst as water, and as oil into his bones.

19 It shall be to him as the garment shall cover him, and for a girdle it shall gird him always.

20 This the doing of those lying in wait for me from Jehovah, and speaking evil against my soul.

21 And thou Jehovah my Lord do with me for sake of thy name: for good thy mercy, deliver thou me.

22 For poor and needy am I, and my heart wounded in my midst.

23 As the shadow according to its declining I was gone: I was shaken off as the locust.

24 My knees were weak from fasting, and my flesh failed from fatness.

25 And I was a reproach to them: they will see me and they will shake the head.

26 Help me, O Jehovah my God: save me according to thy mercy:

27 And they shall know that this is thy hand; thou, O Jehovah, didst it.

28 They will curse and thou wilt bless: they arose and they shall be ashamed; and thy servant shall be glad.

29 They lying in wait for me shall put on shame, and they shall be covered with their shame as an upper garment

30 I will praise Jehovah greatly with my mouth; and in the midst of many will I praise him.

31 For he will stand at the right hand of the needy to save his soul from the judges.

PSALMS CHAPTER 110

[To David a chanting.] Jehovah spake to my Lord, Sit thou at my right hand and I will set thine enemies the stool to thy feet

2 The rod of thy strength will Jehovah send out of Zion: rule thou in the midst of thine enemies.

3 Thy people were willing in the day of thy strength, in the splendors of holiness from the womb of the dawn: to thee the dew of thy childhood.

4 Jehovah sware and he will not lament, Thou a priest forever according to the manner of Melchizedeck.

6 He shall judge in the nations; he filled with dead bodies: he crushed the head over much land.

7 He shall drink from the torrent in the way: for this he shall lift up the head.

PSALMS CHAPTER 111

Praise ye Jah [Yah, Yahweh, Lord, God]. I will praise Jehovah with all the heart, in the consultation of the upright, and the assembly.

2 Great the works of Jehovah, sought out to all their desires.

4 He made remembrance to his wonders. Jehovah merciful and compassionate.

5 He gave prey to those fearing him: he will remember forever his covenant

6 The power of his work, he announced to his people, to give them the inheritance of the nations.

7 The works of his hands are truth and judgment; faithful are all his charges;

8 Being sustained even to forever, being done in truth and uprightness.

9 He sent deliverance to his people: he commanded his covenant forever: holy and terrible his name.

10 The beginning of wisdom is the fear of Jehovah: a good understanding to all doing them: his praise stands forever.

PSALMS CHAPTER 112

Praise ye Jah [Yah, Yahweh, Lord, God]. Happy the man fearing Jehovah, delighting greatly in his commands..

2 His seed shall be great in the earth: the generation of the upright shall be praised.

4 Light arose in darkness to the upright: merciful and compassionate and just

5 A good man, being merciful and lending: he will hold up his words in judgment;

6 For he shall not be moved forever: the just one shall be for eternal remembrance.

7 He shall not fear an evil report: his heart being prepared to trust in Jehovah.

8 His heart being sustained, he will not fear even till he shall look upon his enemies.

9 He scattered, he gave to the needy; his justice stands forever; his horn shall be exalted in glory.

10 The unjust one shall see and be angry; shall gnash his teeth and he melted away: the desire of the unjust shall perish.

PSALMS CHAPTER 113

Praise ye Jah [Yah, Yahweh, Lord, God]. Praise, ye servents of Jehovah, praise ye the name of Jehovah.

2 The name of Jehovah shall be praised from time and even forever.

3 From the rising of the sun even to its going down, the name of Jehovah is praised.

4 Jehovah is high above all nations, his glory above the heavens.

5 Who as Jehovah our God, lifting himself up to dwell?

6 To see those being humbled in the heavens and in the earth?

8 To sit with the nobles, with the nobles of his people.

9 Causing the sterile woman to dwell in the house, a mother of sons being glad. Praise ye Jah.

PSALMS CHAPTER 114

In Israel's going forth out of Egypt, the house of acob from a people speaking a foreign tongue;

2 Judah was for his holy place, Israel his dominion.

3 The sea saw and it will flee: Jordan will turn away back

4 The mountains leaped as rains, the hills as the sons of the flock.

5 What to thee, O sea, that thou wilt flee? O Jordan, thou wilt turn away back?

6 O mountains, ye will leap as rams? O hills, as sons of the flock?

7 From the face of Jehovah tremble thou earth; from the face of the God of Jacob;

8 He turning the rock a pool of water, the flint to fountains of waters.

PSALMS CHAPTER 115

Not to us, O Jehovah, not to its, but to thy name thou. wilt give glory, for thy mercy, for thy truth.

2 Wherefore shall the nations say, Where now their God?

3 And our God is in the heavens; did all that he delighted in.

5 A mouth to them, and they shall not speak: eyes to them, and they will not see:

6 Ears to them, and they shall not hear: a nose to them, and they shall not smell:

7 Their hands, and they will not feel: their feet, and they shall not go: they shall not murmur in their throat

8 They making them shall be as they; all that trusted in them.

9 O Israel, trust in Jehovah: he is their help and their shield.

10 O house of Aaron, trust ye in Jehovah: he their help and their shield.

12 Jehovah remembered us: he will bless, he will bless the house of Israel; he will bless the house of Aaron.

13 He will bless those fearing Jehovah, the small with the great

14 Jehovah will add to you, to you and to your sons.

15 Ye being blessed to Jehovah, making the heavens and the earth.

16 The heavens of heavens to Jehovah, and he gave the earth to the sons of man.

17 The dead shall not praise Jah [Yah, Yahweh, Lord, God], and all going down to silence.

18 And we will bless Jah from time and even forever. Praise ye Jah.

PSALMS CHAPTER 116

I Loved, for Jehovah will hear the voice of my supplication.

2 For he inclined his ear to me, and in my days I will call.

3 The pains of death surrounded me, and the distresses of hades found me: shall find straits and affliction.

4 And upon the name of Jehovah will I call; now, O Jehovah, deliver my soul.

5 Jehovah is merciful and just, and our God compassionates

6 Jehovah watching the simple: I was brought low, and he will save for me.

7 Turn back, O my soul, to thy rest; for Jehovah benefited to thee.

8 For thou deliveredst my soul from death, mine eyes from tears, my feet from a fall.

9 I will go about before Jehovah in the lands of the living.

10 I believed, for I will speak: I was greatly humbled.

11 I said in my alarm, Every man a lie.

12 What shall I turn back to Jehovah for all his benefits to me?

13 I will lift up the cup of salvation, and upon the name of Jehovah will I call.

14 I will repay my vows to Jehovah before now to all his people.

15 Precious in the eyes of Jehovah the death to his godly ones.

16 Now, O Jehovah, for I am thy servant; I thy servant, the son of thy maid-servant: thou didst loose to my bonds.

17 To thee will I sacrifice a sacrifice of praise, and I will call upon the name of Jehovah.

18 My vows to Jehovah I will repay before now to all his people,

19 In the enclosures to the house of Jehovah, in the midst of thee, O Jerusalem. Praise ye Jah.

PSALMS CHAPTER 117

Praise Jehovah all ye nations; laud him, all ye peoples.

2 For his mercy was strengthened upon us, and the truth of Jehovah is forever. Praise ye Jah.

PSALMS CHAPTER 118

2 Now shall Israel say that his mercy is forever.

3 The house of Aaron shall now say that his mercy is forever.

5 Out of distress I called upon Jah: Jah answered me in an enlarging.

6 Jehovah for me, I will not fear what man shall do to me.

7 Jehovah for me in my help, and I shall look upon those hating me.

8 Good to trust in Jehovah rather than to trust in man.

9 Good to trust in Jehovah rather than to trust in nobles.

10 All nations surrounded me: in the name of Jehovah but I will cut them off.

11 They surrounded me; also they surrounded me: in the name of Jehovah but I will cut them of 12 They surrounded me as bees; they were quenched as the fire of thorns: in the name of Jehovah for I will destroy them.

13 Being thrust, I was thrust down to fall, and Jehovah helped me.

14 Jah my strength and music, and he will be to me for salvation.

17 I shall not die, for I shall live and I shall recount the works of Jah.

18 Jah correcting, corrected me, and he gave me not to death.

19 Open to me, ye gates of justice: I will go into them, I will praise Jah.

20 This the gate to Jehovah, the just shall go into it

21 I will praise thee, for thou didst answer me, and thou wilt be to me for salvation.

22 The stone the builders refused will be for the head of the corner.

23 This was from Jehovah; he was wonderful in our eyes.

24 This the day Jehovah made, we will rejoice and be glad in it

26 Blessed he coming in the name of Jehovah: we blessed you from the house of Jehovah.

27 God is Jehovah, and he will shine to us: make ye fast the festival with interweavings, even to the horns of the altar.

28 Thou my God, and I will praise thee: my God, I will exalt thee.

29 Confess ye to Jehovah, for he is good; for his mercy is forever.

PSALMS CHAPTER 119

(The words from ALEPH to TAW are the Egyptian and Mesopotamian names of the letters of the Phoenician-Hebrew Alphabet. They headline or number the paragraphs of this chapter; each chapter consists of exactly 8 verses. Letter names and their meaning, see detailed information at the end of Appendix B.)

[ALEPH.]

1 Happy the blameless of way, they going in the law of Jehovah.

2 Happy they watching his testamonies; they shall seek him with all the

3 Also they worked not iniquity: they went in his ways.

4 Thou didst command thy charges to be watched greatly.

5 Would that my ways were directed to watch thy laws!

6 Then I shall not be ashamed in my looking to all thy commands.

7 I will praise thee in uprightness of heart in my learning the judgments of thy justice.

8 I will watch thy laws: thou wilt not forsake me even wholly.

[BETH.]

9 In what shall a youth cleanse his way? To watch according to thy word.

10 With all my heart I sought thee, thou wilt not cause me to wander from thy commands.

11 In my heart I hid thy sayings, so that I shall not sin to thee.

12 Blessed be thou, O Jehovah: teach me thy laws

13 With my lips I recounted all the judgments of thy mouth.

14 In the way of thy testimonies I rejoiced as by all riches.

15 In thy charges I will meditate, and I will look upon thy ways.

16 In thy laws I will delight: I will not forget thy word.

[GIMEL.]

17 Benefit to thy servant, I shall live and watch thy word.

18 Uncover mine, eyes and I shall behold the wonders from thy laws.

19 I am a stranger in the earth, thou wilt not hide thy commands from me.

20 My soul was crushed for the desire to thy judgments in all time.

23 Also the chiefs sat, they spake against me: thy servant will meditate in thy laws.
24 Also thy testimonies my delight, the men of my counsel.

[DALETH.]
25 My soul did cleave to the dust: make me alive according to thy word.
26 I recounted my ways and thou wilt answer me: teach me thy laws.
27 Cause me to understand the way of thy charges, and I will meditate in thy wonders.
28 My soul dropped in grief: confirm me according to thy word.
29 The way of falsehood remove thou from me, and with thy laws compassionate me.
30 I chose the way of truth: I place thy judgments.
31 I adhered to thy testimonies: O Jehovah, thou wilt not make me ashamed.
32 I will run the way of thy commands, for thou wilt enlarge my heart

[HE.]
33 Teach me O Jehovah, the way of thy laws, and I will watch it forever.
34 Cause me to understand and I will guard thy instructions; and I will watch it with all the heart.
35 Cause me to tread in the beaten path of thy commands, for I delighted in it
36 Incline my heart to thy testimonies and not to plunder.
37 Cause mine eyes to pass from seeing vanity; make me live in thy way.
38 Set thy sayings to thy servant that is for thy fear.
39 Cause my reproach to pass away which I feared for thy judgments are good.
40 Behold, I desired for thy charges: make me alive in thy justice.

[VAW.]
41 And thy mercy shall come to me, O Jehovah, thy salvation according to thy saying.
42 And I will answer him reproaching me a word, for I trusted in thy word.
43 And thou wilt not take away from my mouth the word of truth even wholly: for I hoped for thy judgments.
44 And I will watch thy law always, forever and ever.
45 And I will go about in an enlarging: for I sought thy charges.
46 And I will speak in thy testimonies before kings, and I shall not be ashamed.
47 I will delight myself in thy commands which I loved.
48 And I will lift up my hands to thy commands which I loved, and I will meditate in thy laws.

[ZAYIN.]
49 Remember the word to thy servant upon which thou didst cause me to hope.
50 This my comfort in mine affliction, for thy word made me alive.
51 The proud derided me even greatly: I declined not from thy law.
52 I remembered thy judgments from forever, O Jehovah, and I shall be comforted.
53 Violent heat seized me from the unjust forsaking thy law.
54 Thy laws were musics to me in the house of my sojourning.
55 I remembered thy name in the night, O Jehovah, and I will watch thy law.
56 This shall be to me, for I watched thy charges.

[KHETH.]
57 My portion, O Jehovah: I said to watch thy words.
58 I waited for thy face with all the heart: compassionate me according to thy word.
59 I reckoned my ways, and I will turn back my feet to thy testimonies.
60 I hastened and delayed not to watch thy commands.
61 The cords of the unjust passed over me: I forget not thy law.
62 The middle of the night I will arise to confess to thee for the judgments of thy justice.
63 I am a companion to all who will fear thee, and to those watching thy charges.
64 Thy mercy, O Jehovah, filled the earth: teach me thy laws.

[TSETH.]
65 Thou didst goodness with thy servant, O Jehovah, according to thy word.
66 Teach me good taste and knowledge, for I believed in thy commands.
67 Before I shall be humbled I go astray: and now I watched thy word.
68 Thou art good, and doing good; teach me thy laws.
69 The proud devised falsehood against me: I will watch thy charges with all the heart.
70 Their heart was fat as fatness; I delighted in thy law.
71 Good for me that thou didst humble me, so that I shall learn thy laws.
72 Good for me the law of thy mouth above thousands of gold and silver.

[YODH.]
73 Thy hands made me and they will prepare me: cause me to understand and I will learn thy commands.
74 They fearing thee shall see me and be glad; for I hoped for thy word.
75 I knew, O Jehovah, that thy judgments are justice, and in truth thou didst humble me.

76 Now shall thy mercy be to comfort me, according to thy word to thy servant
77 Thy compassion shall come to me and I shall live, for thy law is my delight
78 The proud shall be ashamed, for they acted perversely to me without cause: I will meditate in thy charges
79 They fearing thee shall turn to me, and they shall know thy testimonies.
80 My heart shall be blameless in thy laws, so that I shall not be ashamed.

[KAPH.]
81 My soul failed for thy, salvation: I hoped for thy word.
82 Mine eyes failed for thy word, saying, When wilt thou comfort me?
83 I was as a bottle in smoke; I forgot not thy laws.
84 How many the days of thy servant? when wilt thou do judgment upon them pursuing me?
85 The proud dug pits for me which is not according to thy law.
86 All thy commands are faithfulness; they pursued me without cause; help thou me.
87 They almost finished me upon earth, and I forsook not thy charges.
88 According to thy mercy make me live, and I will watch the testimonies of thy mouth.

[LAMEDH.]
89 Forever, O Jehovah, thy word was set in the heavens.
90 To generation and generation thy faithfulness: thou didst prepare the earth and it will stand.
91 They stood according to thy judgments this day, for all are thy servants.
92 Unless thy law was my delight I perished in mine affliction.
93 Forever will I not forget thy charges, for in them thou didst make me live.
94 I am to thee; save me; for I sought thy charges.
95 The unjust waited for me to destroy me: I shall understand thy testimonies.
96 I saw the end to all perfection: thy command is exceeding broad.

[MEM.]
97 How I loved thy law I all the day it is my meditation.
98 Above mine enemies thou wilt make me wise from thy commands, for It is forever to me.
99 Above all those teaching me I understood, for thy testimonies a meditation to me.
100 I shall understand above the old men, for I watched thy charges.
101 I withheld my feet from every evil way, so that I watch thy word.
102 I departed not from thy judgments, for thou didst teach me.
103 How smooth were thy words to my palate I more than honey to my mouth!
104 From thy charges I shall understand: for this I hated every way of falsehood.

[NUN.]
105 Thy word a lamp to my feet, and a light to my beaten path.
106 I sware, and I will cease to stand, to watch the judgments of thy justice.
107 I was humbled even greatly: O Jehovah, cause me to live according to thy word,
108 Accept now the voluntaries of my month, O Jehovah, and teach me thy judgments.
109 My soul is in my hand always, and I, forgot not thy law.
110 The unjust one gave a snare for me, and I wandered not from thy charges.
111 I inherited thy testimonies forever: for they are the joy of my heart.
112 I inclined my heart to do thy laws forever to the end.

[SAMEKH.]
113 I hated dividings, and I loved thy law.
114 Thou my hiding and my shield: I hoped for thy word.
115 Depart from me, ye doing evil, and I will watch the commands of my God.
116 Uphold me according to thy word, and I shall live: and thou wilt not make me ashamed of my hope.
117 Support me and I shall be saved: and I shall look upon thy laws always 118 Thou didst make light of all going astray from thy laws, for their deceit is falsehood.
119 The dross thou didst cause to cease, all the unjust of the earth: for this I loved thy testimonies.
120 My flesh stood erect from thy fear, and I was afraid of thy judgments.

[AYIN.]
121 I did judgment and justice: thou wilt not leave me to those oppressing me.
122 Be surety for thy servant for good: the proud shall not oppress me.
123 Mine eyes failed for thy salvation, and for the word of thy justice.
124 Do with thy servant according to thy mercy, and teach me thy laws.
125 I am thy servant; cause me to understand, and I shall know thy tesmonies.
126 The time to work to Jehovah: they let go thy law.
128 For this I made straight all thy charges, all: hated every way of falsehood.

[PE.]

129 Thy testimonies are wonderful: for this my soul watched them.

130 The entrance of thy words will enlighten; causing the simple to understand.

131 I opened wide my mouth, and I shall pant: for I longed for thy commands.

132 Look upon me and compassionate me according to the judgment to those loving thy name.

133 Prepare my steps in thy word, and all iniquity shall not rule over me.

134 Redeem me from the oppression of man, and I will watch thy charges.

135 Cause thy face to shine upon thy servant, and teach me thy laws.

136 Mine eyes will bring down streams of waters because they will not watch thy laws.

[TSADE.]

138 Thou didst command justice thy testimonies, and faithfulness exceedingly.

139 My jealousy cut me off; for mine enemies forgat thy words.

140 Thy word is refined greatly, and thy servant loved it

141 I am small and despised: I did not forget thy charges.

143 Straits and distress found me: thy commands my delight

144 Justice is thy testimonies forever: cause me to understand and I shall live.

[QOPH.]

145 I called with all my heart: answer me, O Jehovah: I will watch thy laws.

146 I called to thee: save me, and I will watch thy testimonies.

147 I anticipated the dawn, and I will cry: I hoped for thy words

148 Mine eyes anticipated the watches to meditate in thy word.

149 Hear my voice according to thy mercy O Jehovah, cause me to live according to thy judgment

150 They drew near pursuing mischief: they removed far off from thy law.

151 Thou art near, O Jehovah; and all thy commands are truth.

152 Of old I knew from thy testimonies, for thou didst found them forever.

[RESH.]

153 See mine affliction, and deliver me: for I forget not thy law.

154 Contend my contention and redeem me: cause me to live for thy word.

156 Great thy compassions, O Jehovah: cause me to live according to thy judgments.

157 Many are they pursuing me and pressing me: I declined not from thy testimonies.

158 I saw those transgressing, and I shall loathe, for they watched not thy word.

159 See that I loved thy charges, O Jehovah, make me live according to thy mercy.

160 The beginning of thy word is truth: and forever all thy just judgment

[SHIN.]

161 Chiefs pursued me gratuitously: and my heart was afraid from thy words.

162 I rejoice at thy word as he finding much spoil.

163 I hated falsehood, and I will abhor it: I loved thy law.

164 Seven times in the day I praised thee, for the judgments of thy justice.

165 Much peace to those loving thy law, and no stumbling-block to them.

166 I hoped for thy salvation, O Jehovah, and I did thy commands.

167 My soul watched thy testimonies, and loved them greatly.

168 I watched thy charges, and thy testimonies: for all my ways are before thee.

[TAW.]

169 My cry shall draw near before thee, O Jehovah: cause me to understand according to thy word.

170 My supplication shall come before thee: deliver me according to thy word.

171 My lips shall seek praise, for thou wilt teach me thy laws.

173 Thy hand shall be to help me, for I chose thy charges.

174 I longed for thy salvation, O Jehovah, and thy law is my delight

175 My soul, shall live and praise thee; and thy judgments shall help me.

176 I wandered as a lost sheep; seek thy servant, for I forgat not thy commands.

PSALMS CHAPTER 120

[Song of ascensions.] I called to Jehovah in straits to me, and he will answer me.

2 O Jehovah, deliver my soul from lips of falsehood, from a tongue of deceit.

3 What shall be given to thee? and what shall be added to thee, thou tongue of deceit?

5 Wo! to me that I sojourned in Mesech; I dwelt with the tents of Ke dar.
6 My soul dwelt much upon it with Him hating peace.
7 I peace: and when I shall speak, they for war.

PSALMS CHAPTER 121

[Song of ascensions.] I will lift up mine eyes to the mountains from whence shall come my help.
2 My help from Jehovah; he made the heavens and the earth.
3 He will not give to move thy foot: he watching thee will not slumber.
4 Behold, he watching. Israel will not slumber and he will not sleep.
6 By day the sun shall not burn thee, and the moon in the night
7 Jehovah shall watch thee from all evil: he shall watch thy soul.
8 Jehovah shall watch thy going out and thy coming in, from time and even forever.

PSALMS CHAPTER 122

[Song of ascensions to David.] I was glad in their saying to me, We will go to the house of Jehovah.
2 Our feet were standing in the gates of Jeursalem.
3 Jerusalem was built as a city, joined to it together.
4 There the tribes went up, the tribes of Jah [Yah, Yahweh, Lord, God], the testimonies to Israel, to confess to the name of Jehovah.
5 For there sat thrones for judgment to the house of David.
6 Ask ye the peace of Jerusalem: they loving thee shall be at rest
7 Peace shall be in thy fortification, peace in thy palaces.
8 For sake of my brethren and my friends, I will now speak, Peace upon
9 For sake of the house of Jehovah our God I will seek out good for thee.

PSALMS CHAPTER 123

[Song of ascensions.] To thee dwelling in the heavens I lifted up mine eyes.
2 Behold, as the eyes of servants to the hand of their lords, as the eyes of a maid to the hand of her mistress, so our eyes are to Jehovah our God, even till he compassionate us.
3 Compassionate us, O Jehovah, compassionate us: for we were much filled with contempt
4 Much was our soul filled with it, a derision of those living at ease the contempt of the proud.

PSALMS CHAPTER 124

[Song of ascensions to David.] Unless Jehovah was to us, now shall Israel say,
2 Unless Jehovah was to us in the rising up of man against us,
3 Then they swallowed us down living, in the kindling of their anger against us:
4 Then the waters overflowed us, the torrent passed over our soul:
5 Then the swelling waters passed over our soul.
6 Blessed be Jehovah, who gave us not a prey to their teeth.
7 Our soul as a sparrow was delivered from the snare of the fowlers: the snare was broken and we were delivered.
8 Our help is in the name of Jehovah.; he made the heavens and the earth.

PSALMS CHAPTER 125

[Song of ascensions.] They trusting in Jehovah are as mount Zion; it shall not be moved; remaining forever.
2 Jerusalem, the mountains are round about to her; and Jehovah is round about to his people from now and even to forever.
3 For the rod of the unjust one shall not rest upon the lot of the just; so that the just shall not stretch forth their hand in iniquity.
4 Do good, O Jehovah, to the good and to the upright in their hearts.
5 And those turning to their winding ways, Jehovah will cause them to go with those working iniquity: peace upon Israel.

PSALMS CHAPTER 126

[Song of ascensions.] In Jehovah turning back the returning of we were as those dreaming.
2 Then our mouth will be filled with laughter, and our tongue with rejoicing: then shall they say among the nations, Jehovah magnified to do with those.
3 Jehovah magnified to do with us; we were made glad.
4 Jehovah turned back our captivity, as torrents in the south.
5 They sowing in tears shall reap in rejoicing.
6 He going, shall go; and weeping he lifted up the drawing of the seed: coming, he shall come with joy, lifting up his sheaves.

PSALMS CHAPTER 127

[Song of ascensions to Solomon.] If Jehovah shall not build the house, they building it, in it labored in vain. If Jehovah shall not watch the city, he watching, watched in vain.
2 In vain for you rising early to arise from after sitting; eating the bread of toils: so will he give to his beloved sleep.
3 Behold, sons are the inheritance of Jehovah: the reward of the fruit of the womb.
4 As arrows in the hand of the strong one, so are sons of youth.
5 Happy the man who filled his quiver from them: they shall not be ashamed when they shall speak with their enemies in the gate.

PSALMS CHAPTER 128

2 For thou shalt eat the labor of thy hands: happy thou, and well to thee.

3 Thy wife as a vine bearing fruit in the sides of thy house: thy sons as plants of olives round about thy table.

4 Behold, that thus shall the man be praised fearing Jehovah.

5 Jehovah shall bless thee from Zion: and look thou upon the good of Jerusalem all the days of thy life.

6 And see thou the sons to thy sons: peace upon Israel.

PSALMS CHAPTER 129

[Song of ascensions.] Much they pressed me from my youth, shall Israel now say:

2 Much they pressed me from my youth: also they shall not prevail against me.

3 They ploughing, ploughed upon my back: they made long to their furrows

4 Jehovah the just cut the entanglings of the unjust

5 They shall be ashamed and draw back all hating Zion.

6 They shall be as the grass of the roofs drying up before it was drawn out:

7 He harvesting filled not his hand; and he heaping together, not his arm.

8 And they passing by, said not, The praise of Jehovah to you: we praised you in the name of Jehovah.

PSALMS CHAPTER 130

[Song of ascensions.] From the depths I called thee, O Jehovah.

2 O Jehovah, hear to my voice: thine ears shall be attentive to the voice of my supplication.

3 If thou, Jehovah, shalt watch iniquities, O Jehovah, who shall stand?

4 For with thee, forgiveness; so that thou shalt be feared.

5 I waited for Jehovah, my soul waited, and I hoped for his word

6 My soul for Jehovah more than they watching for the morning: they watching for the morning.

8 And he will redeem Israel from all his iniquities.

PSALMS CHAPTER 131

[Song of ascensions to David.] O Jehovah, my heart was not lifted up, and mine eyes were not exalted, and I went not in great things and in wonders above me.

2 If I did not place and rest my soul as a child weaned of his Mother: my soul as a weaned child.

3 Israel shall hope for Jehovah from now and even to forever.

PSALMS CHAPTER 132

2 Who sware to Jehovah; he vowed to the mighty one of Jacob:

3 If I shall go into the tent of my house, if I shall go up upon the bed of my couch;

4 If I shall give sleep to mine eyes, slumber to mine eyelashes,

5 Even till I shall find a place for Jehovah, dwellings for the mighty one of Jacob.

6 Behold, we heard it in Ephratah: we found it in the fields of the forest

7 We will come in to his dwellings: we will worship at the footstool of his feet

8 Arise, O Jehovah, to thy rest; thou, and the ark of thy strength.

10 For sake of David thy servant thou wilt not turn away the face of thy Messiah.

11 Jehovah sware the truth to David; he will not turn back from it: from the fruit of thy belly I will set upon the throne to thee.

12 If thy sons shall watch my covenant and my testimonies, these I shall teach them; also their sons even to forever shall sit upon the throne to thee forever.

13 For Jehovah chose in Zion; for he desired it for a dwelling to himself.

14 This my rest even forever: here I will dwell, for I desired it

15 Blessing I will bless her provision: I will fill her needy with bread.

16 And I will put upon her priests salvation, and her godly ones shall rejoice a rejoicing.

17 There will I cause the horn to David to spring up: I prepared a lamp for my Messiah.

18 I will put shame upon his enemies, and upon him shall his diadem flourish.

PSALMS CHAPTER 133

2 As good oil upon the head, going down upon the beard, the beard of Aaron: coming down upon the mouth of his garments:

3 As the dew of Hermon coming down upon the mountains of Zion: for there Jehovah commanded the blessing, life even forever.

PSALMS CHAPTER 134

[Song of ascensions.] Behold, praise ye Jehovah, all ye servants of Jehovah, standing in the house of Jehovah, in the nights.

2 Lift up your hand to the holy place, and praise ye Jehovah.

3 Jehovah shall bless thee out of Zion: he made the heavens and the earth.

PSALMS CHAPTER 135

Praise ye Jah [Yah, Yahweh, Lord, God]. Praise ye the name of Jehovah; praise, ye servants of Jehovah,

2 Standing in the house of Jehovah, in the enclosures of the house of our God.

3 Praise ye Jah; for Jehovah is good: play on the harp to his name, for it is pleasant

4 For Jah chose to himself Jacob; Israel for his property.

5 For I knew that great is Jehovah, and our Lord above all gods.

6 All which Jehovah delighted in he did, in the heavens and in the earth, in the seas and all the depths.

7 Causing the liftings up to ascend from the ends of the earth; he made lightnings for the rain; bringing forth the wind from his treasures.

8 He struck the first-born of Egypt, from man even to cattle.

9 He sent signs and wonders into the midst of thee, O Egypt, upon Pharaoh, and upon all his servants.

10 He struck many nations, and slew strong kings;

11 To Sihon, king of the Amorites, and to Og, king of Bashan, and to all the kings of Canaan:

12 And he gave their land an inheritance, an inheritance to Israel his people.

13 O Jehovah, thy name is forever; O Jehovah, thy remembrance to generation and generation.

14 For Jehovah will judge his people, and he will compassion upon his servants.

16 A mouth to them, and they shall not speak; eyes to them, and they shall not see;

17 Ears to them, and they shall not hear; also there is no spirit in their mouth.

18 They making them shall be as they: every one who trusted in them.

19 O house of Israel, bless ye Jehovah: O house of Aaron, praise ye Jehovah:

21 Blessed be Jehovah from Zion, dwelling in Jerusalem. Praise ye Jah.

PSALMS CHAPTER 136

2 Confess to the God of gods: for his mercy is forever.

3 Confess to the Lord of lords: for his mercy is forever.

4 To him alone making great wonders: for his mercy is forever.

5 To him making the heavens in understanding: for his mercy is forever.

6 To him spreading the earth upon the sea: for his mercy is forever.

9 The moon and the stars for rulings in the night: for his mercy is forever.

11 And he will bring forth Israel from the midst of them: for his mercy is forever.

12 With a hand of strength, and with an arm stretched out: for his mercy is forever.

14 And he caused Israel to pass through in its midst: for his mercy is forever.

15 And he shook off Pharaoh and his strength into the sea of sedge: for his mercy is forever.

18 And he will slay mighty kings: for his mercy is forever.

23 He remembered for us our lowness: for his mercy is forever:

24 And he will redeem us from our enemies: for his mercy is forever.

25 He gave bread to all flesh: for his mercy is forever.

26 Confess ye to the God of the heavens: for his mercy is forever.

PSALMS CHAPTER 137

By the rivers of Babel (Babylon on the Euphrates), there we sat down: also we wept in our remembering Zion (Jerusalem).

2 Upon the willows in her midst, we hung our harps;

3 For there they carrying us away captive asked us the words of a song; and they heaping us up gladness; Sing to us from the song of Zion.

4 How shall we sing the song of Jehovah upon the land of a stranger?

5 If I forget thee, O Jerusalem, my right hand shall be forgotten.

6 My tongue shall cleave to in palate, if I remember thee not; if I bring not up Jerusalem upon the head of my joy.

7 Remember, O Jehovah, for the sons of Edom, the day of Jerusalem; they saying, Make bare, make bare, even to the foundations in her.

8 O daughter of Babel laying waste; happy he recompensing to thee thy retribution thou didst to us

9 Happy he taking hold and dashing in pieces thy children against the rock.

PSALMS CHAPTER 138

[To David.] I will praise thee with all my heart: before God I will play to thee on the harp.

2 I will worship to thy holy temple, and I will praise thy name for thy mercy and for thy truth: for thou didst magnify thy word over all thy name.

3 In the day I called, and thou wilt answer me; thou wilt enlarge me with strength in my soul.

4 All the kings of the earth shall praise thee, O Jehovah, for they heard the sayings of thy mouth.

5 And they shall sing in the ways of Jehovah: for great the glory of Jehovah.

6 If Jehovah is high, and he will see the humble one: and the lofty one he will know from far off.

7 If I shall go in the midst of straits, thou wilt make me alive: against the anger of mine enemies thou wilt stretch forth thy hand, and thy right hand shall save me.

8 Jehovah will complete for me: O Jehovah, thy mercy is forever: thou wilt not let go the works of thy hands.

PSALMS CHAPTER 139

[To the overseer, to David a chanting.] O Jehovah thou didst search me, and thou wilt know.

2 Thou knewest my sitting and my rising; thou didst understand for my thoughts from far of 3 Thou didst sift my way and my lying down, and thou knewest all my ways.

4 For not a word in my tongue, behold, O Jehovah, thou knewest all of it

5 Thou didst press me behind and before, and thou wilt place thine hand upon me.

6 Knowledge being wonderful from me; being high, I shall not be able for it

7 Whither shall I go from thy spirit? and whither from thy face shall I flee?

8 If I shall ascend to the heavens, thou art there: and shall I bend down to hades, behold thee.

9 Shall I lift up the wings of the dawn? shall I dwell in the uttermost parts of the sea?

10 Also there thy hand will guide me, and thy right hand will hold me.

11 And saying, surely the darkness shall fall upon me; and the night shone about me.

12 Also darkness shall not darken from thee; and the night shall shine as the day: as the darkness, so the light

13 For thou didst possess my reins: thou wilt cover me in my mother's womb.

14 I will praise thee; for I was wonderfully distinguished: thy works are wonders, and my soul knew greatly.

15 My bones were not hid from thee, when I was made in secret. I was variegated in the lower parts of the earth.

16 Thine eyes saw my substance unformed; and upon thy book all of them shall be written; the days they were formed, and not one in them.

17 And to me how were thy thoughts precious, O God! how were their heads strong!

18 I will count them; they shall be multiplied above the sand of the sea: I awoke, and I am yet with thee.

19 Surely thou wilt kill the unjust one, O God: and ye men of bloods, depart from me.

20 For they will say to thee for mischief; thine enemies were lifted up for vanity.

21 Shall I not hate those hating thee, O Jehovah? and I shall loathe against those rising up against thee.

22 I hated them with completeness of hatred: they were to me for enemies.

23 Search me, O God, and know my heart: try me and know my thoughts:

24 And see if the way of pain is in me, and guide me in the eternal way.

PSALMS CHAPTER 140

[To the overseer, chanting to David:]

2 Deliver me, O Jehovah, from the evil man: wilt thou guard me from the man of violences

3 Who reckoned evils in the heart; all the day they will gather together wars.

4 They sharpened their tongue as a serpent; the poison of asps under their lips. Silence,

5 Watch me, O Jehovah, from the hands of the unjust one; from the man of violences wilt thou guard me; who purposed to overthrow my steps.

6 The proud hid a snare for me, and cords; they spread a net at the hand of the way; they set snares for me. Silence.

7 I said to Jehovah, Thou my God: give ear, O Jehovah, to the voice of my supplication.

8 O Jehovah my Lord, the strength of my salvation, thou didst cover for my head in the day of weapons.

9 Thou wilt not give, O Jehovah, the desires of the unjust one: thou wilt not bring forth his device; they will be lifted up. Silence.

10 The head of those surrounding me, the labor of their lips shall cover them.

11 Burning coals shall be shaken upon them; he shall cast them into fire, into whirlpools; they shall not rise up.

12 A man of tongue shall not be prepared in the earth: a man of violence, evil shall hunt him to melt down the coverings.

13 Knowing that Jehovah will do judgment to the poor one, judgment to the needy.

14 But the just shall confess to thy name: the upright shall dwell with thy face.

PSALMS CHAPTER 141

[Chanting to David.] O Jehovah, I called to thee; hasten to me; give ear to my voice in my calling to thee.

2 My prayer shall be prepared incense before thee; the lifting up my hands the gift of the evening.

3 Set, O Jehovah, a watch to my mouth; guard over the door of my lips.

4 Thou wilt not incline my heart to an evil word, to work works in injustice with men doing iniquity: and I will not eat upon their dainties.

5 The just one shall smite me; a mercy: and he shall admonish me, an oil of the head it shall not decorate my head: for yet my prayer in their evils.

6 Their judges were cast down against the hands of the rock, and they heard my words, for they were sweet.

7 As he cutting up and cleaving asunder in the earth, our bones were scattered at the mouth of hades.

8 For to thee, O Jehovah my Lord, are mine eyes: in thee I put my trust; thou wilt not make my soul naked.

9 Watch me from the hands of the snare they will lay for me, and the snares of those working iniquity.

10 The unjust shall fall into their nets together, till I shall pass by.

PSALMS CHAPTER 142

[Of the understanding to David; a prayer in his being in the cave.]

2 With my voice I will cry to Jehovah; with my voice I will entreat to Jehovah.

3 I will pour out before him my complaint; I will announce my straits before him.

4 In my spirit languishing upon me, and thou knewest my beaten paths. In the way which I shall go they hid a snare for me.

5 Looking upon the right hand, and seeing, and none caring for me: flight perished from me; none sought for my soul

6 I cried to thee, O Jehovah: I said, Thou my refuge, my portion in the land of the living.

7 Attend to my cry, for I languished greatly: deliver me from those pursuing me, for they were strengthened above me.

8 Bring forth my soul out of prison to praise thy name: the just shall surround upon me; for thou wilt benefit to me.

PSALMS CHAPTER 143

[Chanting to David.] O Jehovah, hear my prayer, give ear to my supplication: in thy faithfulness answer me; in thy justice.

2 And thou wilt not come into judgment with thy servant, for all living shall not be justified before thee.

3 For the enemy pursued my soul; he crushed to the earth my life; he caused me to dwell in darknesses, as the dead of old.

4 And my spirit will languish upon me, and my heart will be desolate within me.

5 I remembered the days of old and I meditated in all thy work, and I will meditate upon the work of thy hands.

6 I spread out my hands to thee: my soul as a weary land for thee. Silence.

7 Quickly answer me, O Jehovah: my spirit failed: thou wilt not hide thy face from me: I was made like those going down to the pit.

8 Cause me to hear thy mercy in the morning; for in thee I trusted: cause me to know the way that I shall go; for to thee I lifted up my soul.

9 Deliver me from mine enemies, O Jehovah: to thee I covered myself.

10 Teach me to do thine acceptance, for thou art my God: thy spirit is good; thou wilt guide me into a land of uprightness.

11 For sake of thy name, O Jehovah, thou wilt make me live: in thy justice thou wilt bring forth my soul out of straits.

12 And in thy mercy thou wilt cut off mine enemies, and thou destroyedst all those pressing my soul: for I am thy servant

PSALMS CHAPTER 144

[To David.] Blessed be Jehovah my rock, teaching my hands for the encounter, my fingers for war;

2 My mercy and my fortress, my height and delivering for me; my shield, and in him I put my trust; treading down peoples under me.

3 O Jehovah, what is man and thou wilt know him? the son of man, and thou wilt reckon him?

4 Man was likened to vanity: his days as a shadow passing away.

5 O Jehovah, incline thy heavens, and thou wilt come down: touch upon the mountains and they shall smoke.

6 Send forth the lightning, and thou wilt scatter them: send thine arrows, and thou wilt destroy them.

7 Send thy hands from height; snatch me away, and deliver me from many waters, from the hand of the sons of the stranger;

8 Whom their mouth spake vanity, and their right hand a right hand of falsehood.

9 O God, a new song will I sing to thee; with an instrument of ten strings, I will play on the harp to thee.

11 Snatch me away and deliver me from the hand of the sons of the stranger, whom their mouth spake vanity, and their right hand a right hand of falsehood:

12 That our sons as plants growing great in their youth, our daughters as corners variegated, the likeness of a temple:

13 Our garners being filled, bringing forth from sort to sort; our sheep bringing forth thousands, ten thousands in our streets:

14 Our oxen bearing no breaking, and no coming forth, and no complaining in our broad places.

15 Happy the people thus and thus to him: happy the people Jehovah his God.

PSALMS CHAPTER 145

[Praise to David.] I will exalt thee my God, the King, and I will praise thy name forever and ever.

2 In all the day I will praise thee, and I will praise thy name forever and ever.

3 Great is Jehovah, and being greatly praised; and to his greatness no search.

4 Generation to generation shall praise thy works, and they shall announce thy powers.

5 I will speak the splendor of the honor of thy majesty, and the words of thy wonders.

6 And they shall tell the strength of thy terrible things, and I will recount thy greatnesses

7 They shall pour forth the remembrance of the multitude of thy goodness, and they shall shout forth thy justice.

8 Jehovah is compassionate and merciful; slow to anger, and great of mercy.

11 They shall tell the glory of thy kingdom, and they shall speak of thy strength;

12 To make known to the sons of man his powers, and the glory of the majesty of his kingdom.

13 Thy kingdom a kingdom of all times, and thy dominion in every generation and generation.

14 Jehovah upholds to all falling, and raises up for all bowed down.

15 The eyes of all hope for thee, and thou givest to them their food in its time.

16 Opening thy hand and filling the desire to all living.

18 Jehovah is near to all calling upon him, to all who shall call upon him in truth.

19 He will do the desire of them fearing him, and he will hear their cry and he will save them.

20 Jehovah watches all loving him, and all the unjust he will destroy.

21 My mouth shall speak the praise of Jehovah, and all flesh shall bless his holy name forever and ever.

PSALMS CHAPTER 146

1 Praise ye Jah [Yah, Yahweh, Lord, God]. Praise Jehovah, O my soul.

2 I will praise Jehovah in my life; I will play on the harp to my God. in my continuing.

3 Ye shall not trust in nobles: in the son of man, to him no salvation.

4 His spirit shall go forth, he shall turn back to his earth; in that day his thoughts perished.

5 Happy is he the God of Jacob for his help, his hope upon Jehovah his God:

6 He made the heavens and the earth, the sea, and all that is in them: he watched the truth forever.

7 He did judgment for the oppressed; he gave bread to the hungering: Jehovah loosed those being bound.

8 Jehovah opened the eyes of the blind: Jehovah raised those being bowed down: Jehovah loved the just

9 Jehovah watched the strangers he will restore the orphan and the widow, and he will overturn the way of the unjust

10 Jehovah shall reign forever, thy God, O Zion, to generation and generation. Praise ye Jah.

PSALMS CHAPTER 147

Praise ye Jah [Yah, Yahweh, Lord, God]: for it is good to play on the harp to our God; for it is pleasant: praise is becoming.

2 Jehovah builds Jerusalem: he will collect together the outcasts of Israel.

3 Healing to the broken of heart, and binding up their pains.

4 Counting the number to the stars, he will call names to all of them.

6 Jehovah setting up again the poor, and humbling the unjust even to the earth.

7 Strike up to Jehovah with praise; play upon the harp to our God:

8 Covering the heavens with clouds, preparing rain for the earth, causing the grass to spring up on the mountains.

9 Giving to the cattle its food, to the sons of the ravens which call.

10 He will not delight in the strength of the horse: he will not be pleased in the legs of a man.

11 Jehovah being delighted in those fearing him, in those hoping for his mercy.

12 Praise Jehovah, O Jerusalem; praise thy God, O Zion.

13 For he strengthened the bars of thy gates; he blessed thy sons within thee.

14 Setting thy bound peace, he will fill thee with the fat of the wheat.

16 Giving snow as wool: he will scatter the hoarfrost as ashes.

18 He will send his word and melt them: his wind shall blow, the waters will flow.

19 Announcing his word to Jacob, his laws and judgments to Israel.

20 He did not thus to every nation: and judgments they knew them not Praise ye Jah.

PSALMS CHAPTER 148

Praise ye Jah [Yah, Yahweh, Lord, God]. Praise ye Jehovah from the heavens: praise him in the heights.

3 Praise ye him, sun and moon: praise ye him all the stars of light.

5 They shall praise the name of Jehovah, for he commanded and they were created:

6 And he will cause them to stand even to forever: he gave a law and it shall not pass away.
7 Praise Jehovah from the earth, ye dragons and all depths:
8 Fire and hail, snow and vapor: the spirit of storm doing his word:
9 Mountains and all hills; the tree of fruit and all cedars:
10 The beast and all cattle; the creeping thing, and the bird of wing:
11 Kings of the earth, and all peoples; chiefs and all judges of the earth:
12 Young men and also virgins; old men with the youths:
13 They shall praise the name of Jehovah: for his name alone is exalted; his majesty over the earth and the heavens.
14 And he will lift up the horn to his people, praise to all his godly ones; to the sons of Israel a people drawing near to him. Praise ye Jah.

PSALMS CHAPTER 149
Praise ye Jah [Yah, Yahweh, Lord, God]. Sing to Jehovah a new song, his praise in the convocation of his godly ones.
2 Israel shall rejoice in him making him: the sons of Zion shall exult in their king.
3 They shall praise his name in the dance, and they shall play to him upon the drum and harp.
4 For Jehovah delighted in his people: he will adorn the humble in salvation.
5 The godly ones shall triumph in glory; they shall rejoice upon their bed
6 The liftings up of God in their throat, and a sword of two mouths in their hand;
7 To do vengeance upon the nations, chastisements upon the peoples.
8 To bind their kings in fetters, and their honorable ones in fetters of iron;
9 To do upon them the judgment written: this honor to all his godly ones. Praise ye Jah.

PSALMS CHAPTER 150
Praise ye Jah [Yah, Yahweh, Lord, God]. Praise ye God in his holy place: praise him in the firmament of his power.
2 Praise ye him in his powers: praise him according to the multitude of his greatness.
3 Praise ye him with the clangor of the trumpet: praise him with the lyre and the harp.
4 Praise him with the drum and the dance: praise ye him with strings and the pipe.
5 Praise ye him with ringing instruments of hearing: praise him with ringing instruments of loud noise.

THE HIDDEN OR LOST PSALMS 151-155

The Apocryphal Psalms in Syriac Aramaic

(The psalms 151-155 were considered fake by most Jewish and Christian authorities, but not by the Eastern Orthodox communities where we can find them in copies of the Greek Septuagint, Ethiopic, Syriac and Armenian Bibles. With the Dead Sea Scrolls found in the caves of Qumran in 1947 and 1956, we now know that at least Psalms 151, 154 and 155 are authentic. For this reason, we show them here.)

PSALMS CHAPTER 151
(Dead Sea scroll 11QPs(a) or 11Q5) This Psalm narrates the story of David when he slew Goliath in single combat.)
Superscription: [This psalm was written by David himself after he fought single-handedly with Goliath.]
1 I was the youngest among my brethren, and a youth in my father's house.
2 I used to feed my father's flock, and I found a lion and a wolf, and slew them and rent them.
3 My hands made a harp, and my fingers fashioned a lyre.
4 Who will show me my Lord? He, my Lord, is become my God.
5 He sent His angel and took me away from my father's sheep, and anointed me with the oil of anointing.
6 My brethren, the fair and the tall, in them the Lord had no pleasure.
7 And I went forth to meet the Philistine, and he cursed me by his idols.
8 But I drew his sword and cut off his head, and took away the reproach from the children of Israel.

PSALMS CHAPTER 152
(This text survived only in Syriac. The original language may be Hebrew from about 323-31 BC.)
[Spoken by David when he was contending with the lion and the wolf which took a sheep from his flock.]
1 With a loud voice glorify ye God; in the assembly of many proclaim ye His glory.
2 Amid the multitude of the upright glorify His praise; and speak of His glory with the righteous.
3 Join yourselves literally, your soul to the good and to the perfect, to glorify the Most High.
4 Gather yourselves together to make known His strength; and be not slow in showing forth His deliverance [and His strength] and His glory to all babes.
5 That the honour of the Lord may be known, wisdom hath been given; and to tell of His works it hath been made known to men:
6 to make known unto babes His strength, and to make them that lack understanding literally, heart to comprehend His glory;
7 who are far from His entrances and distant from His gates:
8 because the Lord of Jacob is exalted, and His glory is upon all His works.
9 And a man who glorifies the Most High, in him will He take pleasure; as in one who offers fine meal, and as in one who offers he-goats and calves;
10 and as in one who makes fat the altar with a multitude of burnt offerings; and as the smell of incense from the hands of the just.

12 And in their eating shall be satisfying in truth, and in their drinking, when they share together.

13 Their dwelling is in the law of the Most High, and their speech is to make known His strength.

14 How far from the wicked is speech of Him, and from all transgressors to know Him!

15 Lo, the eye of the Lord taketh pity on the good, and unto them that glorify Him will He multiply mercy, and from the time of evil will He deliver their soul.

16 Blessed be the Lord, who hath delivered the wretched from the hand of the wicked; who raiseth up a horn out of Jacob and a judge of the nations out of Israel;

17 that He may prolong His dwelling in Zion, and may adorn our age in Jerusalem.

PSALMS CHAPTER 153

(This text survived only in Syriac. Date and provenance are like Psalm 152.)

[Spoken by David when returning thanks to God, who had delivered him from the lion and the wolf and he had slain both of them.]

1 O Lord, I have cried unto Thee; hearken Thou unto me.

2 I have lifted up my hands to Thy holy dwelling-place; incline Thine ear unto me.

3 And grant me my request;3 my prayer withhold not from me.

4 Build up my soul, and destroy it not; and lay it not bare before the wicked.

5 Them that recompense evil things turn Thou away from me, O judge of truth.

6 O Lord, judge me not according to my sins, because no flesh is innocent before Thee.

7 Make plain to me, O Lord, Thy law, and teach me Thy judgements;

8 and many shall hear of Thy works, and the nations shall praise Thine honour.

9 Remember me and forget me not; and lead me not into things that be too hard for me.

10 The sins of my youth make Thou to pass from me, and my chastisement let them not remember against me.

11 Cleanse me, O Lord, from the evil leprosy, and let it no more come unto me.

12 Dry up its roots in literally, from me, and let not its leaves sprout within me.

14 To whom shall I complain that he may give unto me? and what can the strength of men add [unto me]?

15 From before Thee, O Lord, is my confidence; I cried unto the Lord and He heard me, and healed the breaking of my heart.

16 I slumbered and slept; I dreamed and was helped, and the Lord sustained me.

17 They sorely pained my heart; I will return thanks because the Lord delivered me.

18 Now will I rejoice in their shame; I have hoped in Thee, and I shall not be ashamed.

19 Give Thou honour for ever, even for ever and ever.

20 Deliver Israel Thine elect, and them of the house of Jacob Thy proved one.

PSALMS CHAPTER 154

(This Psalm survived in Syriac biblical manuscripts and also was found in Hebrew, in the Dead Sea scroll 11QPs(a)154 (also known as 11Q5), a first-century AD manuscript.)

[Spoken by David when he was contending with the lion and the wolf which took a sheep from his flock.]

1 O God, O God, come to my aid; help Thou me and save me; deliver Thou my soul from the slayer.

2 Shall I go down to Sheol by the mouth of the lion? or shall the wolf confound me?

3 Was it not enough for them that they lay in wait for my father's flock, and rent in pieces a sheep of my father's drove, but they were wishing also to destroy my soul?

4 Have pity, O Lord, and save Thy holy one from destruction; that he may rehearse Thy glories in all his times, and may praise Thy great name:

5 when Thou hast delivered him from the hands of the destroying lion and of the ravening wolf, and when Thou hast rescued my captivity from the hands of the wild beasts.

6 Quickly, O my Lord Adonai, send from before Thee a deliverer, and draw me out of the gaping pit, which imprisons me in its depths.

PSALMS CHAPTER 155

(This psalm is extant in Syriac and was also found in the Dead Sea scroll 11QPs(a)155 (also called 11Q5), a first-century AD Hebrew manuscript. The theme of this psalm is similar to Psalm 22, date and origin unclear but its origin is clearly pre-Christian.)

[Spoken by David when returning thanks to God, who had delivered him from the lion and the wolf and he had slain both of them.]

1 Praise the Lord, all ye nations; glorify Him, and bless His name:

2 Who rescued the soul of His elect from the hands of death, and delivered His holy one from destruction:

3 and saved me from the nets of Sheol, and my soul from the pit that cannot be fathomed.

4 Because, ere my deliverance could go forth from before Him, I was well nigh rent in two pieces by two wild beasts.

5 But He sent His angel, and shut up from me the gaping mouths, and rescued my life from destruction.

6 My soul shall glorify Him and exalt Him, because of all His kindnesses which He hath done and will do unto me.

THE BOOK OF PROVERBS

Proverbs of Solomon
Hebrew title: Mishle Shlomoh
Estimated Range of Dating: c. 5th - 1st centuries B.C.

(The Book of Proverbs (Hebrew: Mishle (Shlomoh), "Proverbs (of Solomon)") is a book in the third section (called Ketuvim) of the Hebrew Bible and a book of the Christian Old Testament. When translated into Greek and Latin, the title took on different forms: in the Greek Septuagint (LXX) it became Paroimiai ("Proverbs"); in the Latin Vulgate the title was Proverbia, from which the English name is derived.

Proverbs is not merely an anthology but a "collection of collections" relating to a pattern of life which lasted for more than a millennium. It is an example of the Biblical wisdom tradition, and raises questions of values, moral behaviour, the meaning of human life, and right conduct. The repeated theme is that "the fear of God (meaning submission to the will of God) is the beginning of wisdom." Wisdom is praised for her role in creation; God acquired her before all else, and through her he gave order to chaos; and since humans have life and prosperity by conforming to the order of creation, seeking wisdom is the essence and goal of the religious life.

The superscriptions divide the collections as follows:

- Proverbs 1–9: "Proverbs of Solomon, Son of David, King of Israel"
- Proverbs 10–22:16: "Proverbs of Solomon"
- Proverbs 22:17–24:22: "The Sayings of the Wise"
- Proverbs 24:23–34: "These Also are Sayings of the Wise"
- Proverbs 25–29: "These are Other Proverbs of Solomon that the Officials of King Hezekiah of Judah Copied"
- Proverbs 30: "The Words of Agur"
- Proverbs 31:1–9: "The Words of King Lemuel of Massa, Which his Mother Taught Him"
- Proverbs 31:10–31: the ideal wise woman (elsewhere called the "woman of substance").

It is impossible to offer precise dates for the sayings in Proverbs, a "collection of collections" relating to a pattern of life which lasted for more than a millennium. The phrase conventionally used for the title is taken from chapter 1:1, mishley shelomoh, Proverbs of Solomon (the phrase is repeated at 10:1 and 25:1), is likely more concerned with labeling the material than ascribing authorship.)

PROVERBS CHAPTER 1

1 Proverbs of Solomon, son of David, king of Israel;

2 To know wisdom and instruction; to discern the words of understanding;

3 To receive the instruction of wisdom, justice and judgment, and uprightness;

4 To give craftiness to the simple, and to the youth, knowledge and meditation.

5 The wise one will hear and he will add learning: and he understanding, shall obtain guidance:

6 To understand a proverb, and an enigma: the words of the wise and their parables.

7 The fear of Jehovah is the beginning of knowledge: the foolish despised wisdom and instruction.

8 My son, hear the instruction of thy father, and thou shalt not reject the law of thy mother:

9 For they a garland of grace to thy head, and necklaces for thy throat

10 My son, if they sinning shall entice thee, thou shalt not go in.

11 If they shall say, Go with us, we will lie in wait for blood, we will hide for the innocent gratuitously;

12 We will swallow them down living, as hades, and whole, as they going down to the pit:

13 We shall find precious riches, we will fill our houses with spoil:

14 Wilt thou cast thy lot in the midst of us; one purse shall be to all:

15 My son, thou shalt not go in the way with them; withhold thy foot from their beaten paths:

16 For their feet will run to evil, and they will hasten to pour out blood:

17 For gratuitously the net was spread in the eyes of all possessing a wing.

18 And they will lie in wait for their blood; they will hide for their souls.

19 So the ways of every one plundering plunder; he will take the soul of those possessing it.

20 Wisdom will cry without; in the broad places she will give her voice:

21 She will call in the head of sound, in the entrances of the gates: in the city she will say her words:

22 How long, ye simple, will ye love simplicity? and mockers delight to mock for them, and the foolish hate knowledge?

23 Ye shall turn back at my reproofs: behold, I will pour forth my spirit to you, I will make known my words to you.

24 Because I called and ye will refuse; I stretched forth my hands, and none attending;

25 And ye will reject all my counsels, and ye desired not my reproofs:

26 Also I will laugh at your ruin: I will deride in the coming of your terror;

27 In your terror coming as a destroying tempest, and your ruin shall come as a whirlwind; in the coming upon you of straits and distress.

28 Then they shall call upon me, and I will not answer; they shall seek me, and shall not find me;

29 For that they hated knowledge, and chose not the fear of Jehovah:

30 They desired not for my counsels: and derided all my reproofs.
31 And they shall eat from the fruit of their way, and be filled with their purposes
32 For the turning away of the simple shall slay them, and the error of the foolish shall destroy them.
33 And he hearing to me shall dwell in confidence, and being quiet from fear of evil.

PROVERBS CHAPTER 2

1 My son, if thou wilt receive my words, and wilt hide my commands with thee;
2 To attend to wisdom thou wilt incline thine ear, thy heart to understanding;
3 For if thou will call to understanding, wilt give thy voice to understanding
4 If thou wilt seek her as silver, and dig for her as hidden treasure;
5 Then shalt thou understand the fear of Jehovah, and thou shalt find the knowledge of God.
6 For Jehovah will give wisdom: from his mouth knowledge and understanding.
7 He treasured up deliverance for the upright: a shield to those going in uprightness:
8 To guard the paths of judgment, and he will watch the way of his godly ones.
9 Then thou shalt understand justice and judgment and uprightness; every good track.
10 For wisdom shall come into thy heart, and knowledge shall be pleasant to thy soul.
11 Meditation shall watch over thee, understanding shall guard thee:
12 To deliver thee from the evil way, from the man speaking deceit;
13 Those forsaking the paths of straightness to go in the ways of darkness;
14 Those rejoicing to do evil will exult in the deceit of evil;
15 Whose paths are perverted, and in their tracks are bent aside:
16 To deliver thee from the strange woman, from the stranger making smooth her sayings;
17 Forsaking the friend of her youth, and forgetting the covenant of her God.
18 For her house sunk down to death, and her tracks to the shades.
19 All going in it shall not turn back, and they shall not overtake the paths of life.
20 So that thou shalt go in the way of the good, and thou shalt watch the paths of the just 21 For the upright shall dwell in the land, and the blameless shall remain in it
22 And the unjust shall be cut off from the land, and they transgressing shall be wiped off from it.

PROVERBS CHAPTER 3

1 My son, thou shalt not forget my law, and thy heart shall guard my commands:
2 For length of days and years of life, and peace they shall add to thee.
3 Mercy and truth shall not forsake thee: bind them upon thy throat; write them upon the tablet of thy heart:
4 And find grace and good understanding in the eyes of God and man.
5 Trust to Jehovah with all thy heart; and thou shalt not lean to thine understanding.
6 In all thy ways know him, and he will make straight thy paths.
7 Thou shalt not be wise in thine eyes: fear Jehovah and depart from evil.
8 It shall be healing to thy sinews, and moistening to thy bones.
9 Honor Jehovah from thy substance, and from the first-fruits of all thy produce.
11 My son, thou shalt not reject the instruction of Jehovah, and thou shalt not loathe upon his reproofs:
12 For whom Jehovah shall love he will rebuke, as a father the son he will delight in.
13 Happy the man finding wisdom; and the man shall bring forth understanding.
14 For good her gain above the gain of silver, and her increase above gold.
15 She is precious above red corals: and all thy delights shall not be equal with her.
17 Her ways the ways of pleasantness, and all her beaten paths, peace.
18 She is a tree of life to all holding upon her: and happy he holding her fast
19 Jehovah by wisdom founded the earth; he prepared the heavens by understanding.
20 By his knowledge the depths were rent, and the clouds will drop dew.
21 My son, they shall not depart from thine eyes: keep counsel and meditation:
22 And they shall be life to thy soul, and grace to thy throat
23 Then shalt thou go thy way confidently, and thy foot shall not stumble.
24 If thou shalt lie down thou shalt not be afraid: and thou liest down and thy sleep shall be sweet
25 Thou shalt not be afraid from sudden terror, and from the destruction of the unjust when it shall come.
26 For Jehovah shall be in thy confidence, and he watched thy foot from being taken.
27 Thou shalt not withhold good from those possessing it in its being to the power of thy hand to do.

28 Thou shalt not say to thy neighbor, Go, and turn back, and to-morrow I will give; and there is with thee.

29 Thou shalt not fabricate evil upon thy neighbor, and he dwelling confidently with thee.

30 Thou shalt not contend with man to no purpose, if he did thee no evil

31 Thou shalt not envy against a man of violence, and thou shalt choose in all his ways.

32 For the perverse is an abomination of Jehovah: and his intercourse with the upright

33 The curse of Jehovah is in the house of the unjust one: and he will bless the dwelling of the just 34 But he will deride to those deriding: and he will give grace to the humble.

PROVERBS CHAPTER 4

1 Hear, ye sons, the instruction of a father, and attend to know understanding.

2 For I gave to you good instruction; ye shall not forsake my law.

3 For I was son to my father; tender and only before the face of my mother.

4 And he taught me, and he will say to me, Thy heart shall hold fast my words: watch my commands and live.

5 Obtain wisdom, obtain understanding: thou shalt not forget, and thou shalt not decline from the words of my mouth.

6 Thou shalt not forsake her, and she will watch thee: love her, and she will guard thee.

7 Wisdom the beginning; obtain wisdom, and with all thine acquisition, obtain understanding.

8 Lift her up and she shall exalt thee: she will honor thee when thou. shalt embrace her.

9 She will give to thy head a garland of grace: a crown of glory she will deliver thee.

10 Hear, my son, and receive my words, and the years of life shall be multiplied to thee.

11 In the way of wisdom I taught thee; I caused thee to tread in the tracks of uprightness

12 In thy going, thy steps shall not be pressed; and if thou shalt run thou shalt not be weak.

13 Lay hold upon instruction, thou shalt not let go: guard her for she is thy life.

14 In the path of the unjust thou shalt not go, and thou shalt not advance in the way of the wicked.

15 Reject it, thou shalt not pass in it; turn aside from it and pass by.

16 For they slept not, if they shall not do evil; and their sleep was taken away, if they shall not cause to falter.

17 For they ate the bread of injustice, and they will drink the wine of violences:

18 The path of the just as the light shining, going and shining even to the day prepared.

19 The way of the unjust as darkness: they shall not know in what they shall stumble.

20 My son, attend to my word; incline thine ear to my sayings.

21 They shall not turn aside from thine eyes; watch them in the midst of thy heart

22 For they are life to those finding them, and healing to all their flesh.

23 Guard thy heart with all watching, for from it the goings forth of life.

26 Make level the track of thy feet, and all thy ways shall be prepared.

27 Thou shalt not decline to the right and the left: turn away thy foot from evil

PROVERBS CHAPTER 5

1 My son, attend to my wisdom; incline thine ear to understanding:

2 To watch meditation, and thy lips shall guard knowledge.

3 For the lips of the strange woman will drop droppings of the honeycomb, and her palate is smooth above oil:

4 And her latter state being bitter as wormwood; sharp as a two-mouthed sword.

5 Her feet go down to death; her steps will hold fast to hades.

6 Lest thou shalt make level the path of life, her tracks wavered; thou wilt not know.

7 And now, ye sons, hear to me, and ye shall not depart from the words of my mouth.

8 Remove far off from her thy way, and thou shalt not draw near to the door of her house:

9 Lest thou shalt give thy strength to others, and thy years to the cruel:

10 Lest strangers shall be filled with thy strength, and thy labors in the house of strangers;

11 And thou didst lament in thy latter state, in the consuming of thy flesh and thy fulness,

12 And thou saidst, How did I hate instruction, and my heart despise reproofs

13 And I heard not to the voice of him teaching me, and I inclined not mine ear to him instructing me.

14 As I was almost in all evil in the midst of the convocation and the assembly.

15 Drink water from thy pit, and flowing from the midst of thy well.

17 They shall be to thee alone, and not strangers with thee.

18 Thy fountain shall be blessed: and rejoice from the wife of thy youth.

19 The hind of loves and the wild goat of grace; her breasts shall satiate thee in all time; thou shalt always wander in her loves.

20 And wherefore, my son, wilt thou wander with a strange woman, and embrace the bosom of a stranger?

21 For before the eyes of Jehovah are the ways of man, and he makes level all his tracks.

22 His iniquities shall take the unjust one, and with the cords of his sins shall he be held fast.

23 He shall die in not being instructed, and he shall wander in the multitude of his folly.

PROVERBS CHAPTER 6

1 My son, if thou becamest surety for thy friend, thou didst strike thy hands for a stranger;

2 Thou wert snared with the sayings of thy mouth, thou wert taken with the sayings of thy mouth.

3 Do this now, my son, and deliver thyself when thou camest into the hand of thy friend; go humble thyself and enlarge thy friend.

4 Thou shalt not give sleep to thine eyes, and slumber to thine eyelashes.

5 Deliver thyself as the roe from the hand, and as the bird from the hand of the fowler.

6 Go to the ant, thou slothful one; see her ways, and be wise:

7 Which no leader to her, scribe and ruler;

8 She will prepare in summer her bread, gathering her food in harvest.

9 How long, O slothful one, wilt thou lie down? when wilt thou rise from thy sleep?

10 A little sleep, a little slumber, a little folding of the hands to lie down:

11 And thy poverty came as he going, and thy want as a man of the shield.

13 Pinching the eyes, speaking with the feet, teaching with his fingers;

14 Perverseness in his heart, fabricating evil in all time, he will send forth strifes.

15 For this, his destruction shall come suddenly; in a moment he shall be broken, and none healing.

16 These six Jehovah hated, and seven an abomination of his soul:

17 Eyes being lifted up; a tongue of falsehood, and hands shedding innocent blood,

18 A heart fabricating purposes of iniquity; feet being quick to run to evil,

20 My son, watch the commands of thy father, and thou shalt not reject the laws of thy mother:

21 Tie them always upon thy heart; bind them upon thy throat

22 In thy going about it shall lead thee; in thy lying down it shall watch over thee; and awaking, it shall speak to thee.

23 For the command is a lamp, and the law a light; and the way of life the reproof of instruction:

24 To watch thee from the woman of evil, from the smoothness of the strange tongue.

26 For by a woman a harlot, even to a round of bread: and a man's wife will hunt the precious soul.

28 If a man shall go upon burning coals shall his feet not be burnt?

29 So he going in to his neighbor's wife; all touching upon her shall not be innocent

30 They will not despise a thief if he shall steal to fill up his soul; for he will be hungry.

31 And being found he shall recompense seven fold; he shall give all the substance of his house.

32 He committing adultery with a woman lacked a heart: destroying his soul he will do it.

33 A blow and contempt shall he find; and his reproach shall not be wiped away.

34 For jealousy is the wrath of man, and he will not spare in the day of vengeance.

35 He will not lift up the face of any ransom, and he will not be willing if thou shalt increase the reward.

PROVERBS CHAPTER 7

1 My son, watch my words, and thou shalt hide my commands with thee.

2 Watch my commands, and live; and my law as the pupil of thine eyes.

3 Bind them upon thy fingers, and write them upon the tablet of thine heart

4 Say to wisdom, Thou my sister; and thou shalt call knowledge to understanding:

5 To watch thyself from the strange woman, from the stranger making smooth her sayings.

6 For in the window of my house I looked forth through my lattice,

7 And I shall see among the simple, I shall perceive among the sons a youth wanting heart,

8 Passing in the street near her corner; and he will step the way of her house,

9 In the twilight, in the evening of the day, in the middle of the night, in the thick darkness:

10 And behold, a woman to his meeting, the attire of a harlot, and hidden of heart

11 She being noisy and perverse; her feet will not dwell in her house:

12 One time without, one time in the broad ways; and she will lie in wait near every corner.

13 She laid hold upon him and kissed to him; she strengthened her face, and she will say to him,

14 Sacrifices of peace upon me: today I repaid my vows.

15 For this, I shall come forth to thy meeting, to seek thy face, and I shall find thee.
16 With adornings I spread my bed, variegated with thread of Egypt
17 I sprinkled my bed with myrrh and aloes and cinnamon.
18 Come, we will be satisfied with loves till the morning: we will rejoice ourselves with loves.
19 For the man not in the house, he went in a way far off.
20 He took a bundle of silver in his hand; he will come to his house the day of the full moon.
21 With much of her talking she caused him to turn aside; with the smoothness of her lips she will thrust him away.
22 He went after her suddenly as the ox will go to the slaughter, and as the fetter for the correction of the foolish.
23 Till an arrow shall cleave his liver; as a bird hastening to the snare, and not knowing that it is for his soul.
24 And now, ye sons, hear to me, and attend to the sayings of my mouth.
25 And thy heart shall not deviate to her ways; thou shalt not wander in her beaten paths.
26 For she cast down many wounded, and the strong all being slain by her.
27 Her house the ways to hades, going down to the chambers of death.

PROVERBS CHAPTER 8

1 Shall not wisdom call, and understanding give her voice?
2 She stood upon the head of the heights, upon the way of the house of the beaten paths.
3 At the hand of the gates, at the mouth of the city from the coming in of the doors she will cry:
4 To you, ye men, I shall call, and my voice is to the sons of man.
5 Understand craftiness, ye simple: and ye foolish, understand the heart
6 Hear ye, for I will speak dear things; and the openings of my lips uprightnesses.
7 For my palate shall meditate the truth, and evil is the abomination of my lips.
8 In justice are all the sayings of my mouth; nothing in them crooked and perverse.
9 All of them straight to him understanding, and right to those finding knowledge.
10 Receive my instruction and not silver and knowledge above tried gold.
11 For wisdom is good above pearls, and all delights shall not be made equal with her.
12 I wisdom dwelt with prudence, and I shall find the knowledge of machinations.
13 The fear of Jehovah hates evil: pride and haughtiness, and the evil way, and the mouth of perverseness I hated.
14 To me counsel and wisdom: I am understanding; to me is strength.
15 By me kings shall reign, and princes shall decree justice.
16 By me chiefs shall have dominion, and nobles all judging the earth.
17 I loved those loving me: and they seeking me shall find me.
18 Riches and honor are with me; splendid riches and justice.
19 My fruit is good above gold, and above pure gold; and my gain above tried silver.
20 I shall go in the way of justice, in the midst of the beaten paths of judgment:
21 To cause those loving me to inherit existence: and I will fill their treasures.
22 Jehovah set me up the beginning of his way, before his works from ancient time.
23 From forever I was knit together, from the beginning, from the first of the earth.
24 In no depths was I begun; in no fountains abundant in waters.
25 Before the mountains were settled; before the hills I had a beginning:
26 Yet he made not the earth and the fields, and the head of the clods of the habitable globe.
27 In his preparing the heavens I was there: in his inscribing a circle upon the face of the deep:
28 In his making firm the clouds from above: in his strengthening the fountains of the deep:
29 In his setting his law to the sea, and the waters shall not pass by his mouth; in his making firm the foundations of the earth:
30 And I shall be near him the builder, and I shall be a delight of day, day, smiling before him in all time
31 Smiling in the habitable globe of his earth; and my delight with the sons of man.
32 And now ye sons, hear to me: and the happy shall watch my ways.
33 Hear ye instructions, and be wise, and ye shall not reject it
34 Happy the man hearing to me, to watch at my doors day, day; to watch the door posts of my entrances.
35 For he finding me, the finding of life, and he shall bnng forth acceptance from Jehovah.
36 And he sinning against me did violence to his soul: all hating me loved death.

PROVERBS CHAPTER 9

1 Wisdom built her house, she hewed out her seven pillars:
2 She slaughtered her slaughter; she mingled her wine; also she prepared her table.
3 She sent forth her girls: she will call upon the wings of the heights of the city,
4 Who the simple, he shall turn aside here: he wanting heart, she said to him,
5 Come ye, eat of my bread, and drink ye of the wine I mingled.
6 Forsake ye the foolish, and live; and go straight in the way of understanding.
7 He instructing him mocking received to himself dishonor: and he reproving to the unjust one, his blemish.

Copyright © 2026 by Lord Henfield, Guildford Scientific Press

8 Thou shalt not reprove him mocking, lest he shall hate thee: reprove to the wise one and he will love thee.

9 Thou shalt give to the wise one and he will be more wise: make known to the just one and he will add receiving.

10 The beginning of wisdom is the fear of Jehovah, and the knowledge of the holy ones is understanding.

11 For in me thy days shall be multiplied, and years of life shall be added to thee.

12 If thou wert wise, thou wert wise for thyself: and thou mockedst, thou alone shalt suffer.

13 A woman of folly being noisy, simple, and she knew not anything.

14 And sitting at the door of her house, upon the throne of the heights of the city,

15 To call to those passing the way, making straight their paths:

16 Who is simple, he shall turn aside here: and he wanting heart, and she said to him,

17 Stolen waters will be sweet, and the bread of secrets shall be pleasant

18 And he knew not that there the shades; her called ones in the depths of hades

PROVERBS CHAPTER 10

1 Proverbs of Solomon. A wise son will gladden a father: and a son of the foolish will grieve his mother.

2 Treasures of injustice shall not profit, and justice shall deliver from death.

3 Jehovah will not cause the soul of the just one to hunger: and he will thrust away the desire of the unjust

4 A slothful hand makes poverty, and the hand of the active will make rich.

5 He gathering in summer, is a prudent son: he lying in deep sleep in harvest, a son causing shame.

6 Blessings upon the head of the just one: and violence shall cover the mouth of the unjust

7 The memory of the just one for blessing: and the name of the wicked shall be rotten.

8 The wise of heart will receive commands: and the foolish of lips shall fall.

9 He going in integrity shall go confidently: and he perverting his ways shall be known.

11 A fountain of life the mouth of the just one: and violence shall cover the mouth of the unjust

12 Hatred will excite strifes: and love will cover over all transgressions.

13 In the lips of him understanding, wisdom shall be found: and a rod for the back of him wanting heart

16 The labors of the just one, to life: the increase of the unjust to sin.

19 In the multitude of words transgression shall not cease: and he withholding his lips is prudent

21 The lips of the just one shall feed many: and fools in wanting heart, shall die.

22 The blessing of Jehovah it will make rich, and it will not add pain with it

23 As laughter to the foolish one, to do mischief: and wisdom is to the man of understanding.

24 The fear of the unjust one it shall come to him: and the desire of the just shall be given.

25 As the whirlwind passing away the unjust one is not: and the just one a foundation forever.

26 As vinegar to the teeth and as smoke to the eyes, so is the slothful one to those sending him.

27 The fear of Jehovah will add days, and the years of the unjust shall be diminished.

28 The hope of the just is gladness: and the expectation of the unjust shall perish.

29 The way of Jehovah is a fortress to the upright one: and destruction to those doing iniquity.

30 The just one shall not be moved forever: and the unjust shall not inhabit the earth.

31 The mouth of the just one shall germinate wisdom: and the tongue of perverseness shall be cut off.

32 The lips of the just one shall know acceptance: and the mouth of the unjust, perverseness.

PROVERBS CHAPTER 11

1 Balances of deceit, an abomination of Jehovah: and a whole stone his delight

2 Pride coming, and dishonor will come: and wisdom with the humble.

3 The integrity of the upright shall guide them: and the perverseness of transgressors shall destroy them.

4 Wealth will not profit in the day of wrath, and justice will deliver from death.

5 The justice of the blameless shall make straight his way, and in his injustice the unjust shall fall.

6 The justice of the upright shall deliver them, and transgressors shall be taken in their mischief.

7 In the death of an unjust man expectation shall perish: and the hope of the vain shall perish.

8 The just one was delivered from straits, and the unjust will come in his stead.

9 With the mouth the profane will destroy his neighbor: and by knowledge, shall the just one be delivered.

10 In the good of the just the city will exult: and in the perishing of the unjust it rejoiced.

11 By the blessing of the upright the city shall be exalted: and by the mouth of the unjust it shall be overthrown.

Copyright © 2026 by Lord Henfield, Guildford Scientific Press

12 He wanting heart despised for his neighbor: and a man of understanding will be silent.

13 He going about tale-bearing reveals a secret: and he being faithful of spirit hides the word.

14 In no guidance the people will fall: and salvation in a multitude of counseling.

15 The evil one shall become evil, for he became surety for a stranger: and he hating those striking hands being secure.

16 A woman of grace will obtain honor, and the powerful will obtain riches.

17 The man of mercy benefited his soul: and the cruel troubled his flesh.

18 The unjust one did a work of falsehood: and the seed of justice the reward of truth.

19 So justice to life, and he pursuing evil, to his death.

20 The perverse of heart are an abomination of Jehovah, and the blameless of way his delight

21 Hand to hand, the evil one shall not be unpunished: and the seed of the just were delivered.

22 A ring of gold in the nose of a swine, a fair woman and she departed from discernment

24 There is scattering and yet adding; and the withholding more than right, only to want

25 The soul of blessing shall be made fat: also he watering, shall himself drink to the full.

26 He withholding grain, the people shall curse him: and blessing upon the head of him selling.

27 He seeking good shall strive after acceptance: and he seeking evil, it shall come to him.

28 He trusting in his riches himself shall fall: and the just shall flourish as the foliage.

29 He troubling his house shall inherit wind: and the foolish is servant to the wise of heart

30 The fruit of the just a tree of life; and he taking souls is wise.

31 Behold, the just shall be requited in the earth: much more the unjust one and the sinning.

PROVERBS CHAPTER 12

1 He loving instruction loved knowledge: and he hating reproof, is stupid.

2 The good shall obtain acceptance from Jehovah: and the man of mischief he will condemn.

3 A man shall not be prepared by injustice: and the root of the Just shall not be moved.

4 A woman of strength is a crown to her husband: and she causing shame, as rottenness in his bones.

5 The purposes of the just are judgment: the guidance of the unjust, deceit

6 The words of the unjust are the lying in wait of blood: and the mouth of the upright shall deliver them.

7 The unjust are overthrown, and they are not: and the house of the just shall stand.

8 According to the mouth of understanding a man shall be praised: and he being perverse of heart shall be for contempt

9 He is good being despised, and a servant to him above him, honoring himself, and wanting bread.

10 The just one shall know the soul of his cattle: and the compassion of the unjust are cruel.

11 He working his earth shall be filled with bread: and he pursuing vain things wanted heart.

12 The unjust one desired the net of the evil: and the root of the just will give.

13 In the transgression of the lips is the snare of evil: and the just one shall come forth out of straits.

14 From the fruit of the mouth a man shall be satisfied with good: and the reward of the hands of a man shall be good to him.

17 He breathing out faithfulness will announce justice: and a witness of falsehoods, deceit

18 There is he talking idly as the piercings of the sword: and the tongue of the wise is healing.

19 The lip of truth shall be prepared forever: and the tongue of falsehood while I shall wink.

20 Deceit in the heart of those devising evil: and joy to those counseling peace.

21 No iniquity shall approach to the just one: and the unjust were filled with evil.

22 Lips of falsehood an abomination of Jehovah: and they doing faithfulness his delight

23 A prudent man covered knowledge: and the heart of the foolish will meet folly.

24 The hand of the active shall give dominion: and of the slothful one shall be for tribute.

25 Fear in the heart of a man will bow it down: and a good word will gladden it

26 The just excelled above his neighbor: and the way of the unjust shall lead them astray.

27 The slothful one shall not ensnare his hunting: and the substance of the active man is precious.

28 In the way of justice is life; and the way of its beaten path not death.

PROVERBS CHAPTER 13

1 A wise son the instruction of a father: and he. mocking heard not reproof.

2 From the fruit of a man's mouth he shall eat good: and the soul of the transgressing, violence.

3 He guarding his mouth, watched his soul: he opening wide his lips, destruction to him.

4 The soul of the slothful one desiring, and nothing: and the soul of the active shall be made fat

5 The just one will hate the word of falsehood: and the unjust one will be loathsome and be put to shame.

6 Justice will guard the blameless of way: and injustice shall overthrow the sinning.

7 There is he making himself rich, and not anything: making himself poor, and much wealth.

8 The expiating of a man's soul is his riches: and the poor will not hear rebuke.

9 The light of the just shall rejoice: and the lamp of the unjust shall be quenched.

10 Only by pride contention will be given: but with those being advised, wisdom.

11 Wealth from vanity shall be diminished: and he gathering with the hand, shall increase.

12 Hope being forgotten afflicts the heart: and desire coming, a tree of life.

13 He despising to the word it shall be perverse to him: and he fearing the command shall be requited.

14 The law of the wise one a fountain of life, to depart from the snares of death.

15 Good understanding shall give grace: and the way of the transgressing is perpetuity.

16 Every prudent one will do in knowledge: and the foolish one will spread folly.

18 Instruction dismisses poverty and shame: and he watching reproof shall be honored.

19 The desire coming to pass, will be sweet to the soul: and an abomination to the foolish to depart from evil.

20 He going with the wise, and he is wise: and the companion of the foolish shall become evil.

22 The good shall cause his sons' sons to inherit: and the wealth of him sinning was treasured up for the just.

23 Much food to the fallow ground of the poor: and in no judgment there is destroying 24 He withholding his rod hates his son: and he loving him, sought correction for him.

25 The just one ate to fill his soul: and the belly of the unjust shall want

PROVERBS CHAPTER 14

1 The wise woman built her house but the foolish will pull it down with her hands.

2 He going in his uprightness will fear Jehovah: and he perverted in his ways, despised him.

3 In the month of the foolish one a rod of pride: and the lips of the wise shall watch them.

4 In no oxen the stall clean, and much increase in the strength of the ox.

5 A witness of faithfulnesses will not lie: and a witness of falsehood will breathe out lies.

6 He mocking sought wisdom, and none: and knowledge being easy to him understanding.

7 Go from before to the foolish man and thou knewest not the lips of knowledge.

8 The wisdom of the prudent is to understand his way: and the folly of the foolish is deceit

9 The foolish will mock at guilt: and between the upright acceptance.

10 The heart will know the bitterness of its soul, and in its joys the stranger shall not mingle.

11 The house of the unjust shall be destroyed: and the tent of the upright shall flourish.

12 There is a way straight before man, and its latter state the ways of death.

13 Also in laughter the heart shall have pain, and its latter state of joy, grief.

14 He drawing back the heart shall be filled from his ways: and a good man from above him.

15 The simple will believe to every word: and the prudent will understand to his going.

17 He reaping anger will do folly: and a man of mischiefs will be hated.

20 Also the poor shall be hated by his neighbor: and many loving the rich one.

21 He despising to his neighbor, sins: and he compassionating the poor, he is happy.

22 Shall they not go astray, seeking evil? and mercy, and truth to those seeking good.

23 In all labor will be profit: and the word of the lips only to want

24 The crown of the wise is their riches: the folly of the foolish, folly.

25 A witness of truth delivers souls: and deceit will breathe out lies.

26 In the fear of Jehovah the trust of strength, and to his sons a refuge.

27 The fear of Jehovah a fountain of life, to depart from the snares of death.

28 In a multitude of people the king's decoration: and in the cessation of the people the destruction of the prince.

29 The slow to anger of much understanding: and the short of spirit exalts folly.

30 A heart of healing, the life of the flesh: and jealousy the rottenness of the bones.

31 He oppressing the poor reproached him making him: and he honoring him compassionated the needy.

32 The unjust one shall be driven away in his evil: and the just one trusted in his death.

33 In the heart of him understanding, wisdom shall rest: and in the midst of fools it shall be made known.

34 Justice will exalt a nation: and sin a reproach to nations.

35 The acceptance of the king to a servant of understanding: and his wrath shall be to him causing shame.

PROVERBS CHAPTER 15

1 A soft answer will turn away wrath, and a word of pain will bring up anger.

2 The tongue of the wise will make knowledge good: and the mouth of the foolish will gush forth folly.

3 In every place are the eyes of Jehovah observing closely the evil and the good.

4 The healing of the tongue the tree of life: and perverseness in it a breaking in the spirit

5 The foolish will deride his father's instruction: and he watching reproof will be crafty.

6 The house of the just much treasure: and in the increase of the unjust the being troubled.

7 The lips of the wise will disperse knowledge: and the heart of the foolish not so.

8 The sacrifice of the unjust an abomination of Jehovah: and the prayer of the upright his acceptance.

9 The way of the unjust an abomination of Jehovah: and he will love him pursuing justice.

10 Correction is evil to him forsaking the way: he hating reproof shall die.

11 Hades and destruction are before Jehovah: much more the hearts of the sons of man.

12 He mocking will not love him reproving him: to the wise he will not go.

13 A heart of joy will do the face good: and by pains of heart the spirit was dejected.

14 The heart of him understanding will seek knowledge: and the face of the foolish will feed folly.

15 All the days of the afflicted are evil: and the good of heart drinking always.

16 Good is little with the fear of Jehovah more than much treasure and confusion with it

17 Good a ration of herbs and love there, above an ox of the stall and hatred with it.

18 A man of wrath will excite strife: and he slow to anger will appease contention.

19 The way of the slothful as the cutting of the thorn: and the path of the upright was raised up.

20 A wise son will gladden the father: and the foolish man despised his mother.

21 Folly is joy to him wanting heart: and the man of understanding will make straight to go.

22 The frustrating purposes with no counsel, but in the multitude of counselors it shall be set up.

23 Joy to the man in the answer of his mouth: and a word in its time how good

24 The path of life is above to the understanding one, to depart from hades below.

25 The house of the proud will Jehovah sweep away, and he will set up the bound of the widow.

26 The purposes of evil an abomination of Jehovah: and the pure speaking of pleasantness.

27 He plundering plunder troubled his house; and he hating gifts shall live.

28 The heart of the just one shall meditate to answer: and the mouth of the unjust shall gush out evil.

29 Jehovah is far off from the unjust: and he will hear the prayer of the just 30 From the light of the eyes the heart will rejoice: and a good report will fatten the bones.

31 The ear hearing the reproof of life shall lodge in the midst of the wise.

32 He driving away instruction despised his soul: and he hearing reproof obtained a heart

33 The fear of Jehovah the instruction of wisdom; and before honor humility.

PROVERBS CHAPTER 16

1 To man the dispositions of the heart, and the answer of the tongue from Jehovah.

2 All the ways of man are clean in his eyes, and Jehovah tried the spirits.

3 Roll to Jehovah thy works, and thy purposes shall be established.

4 Jehovah made all to his purpose, and also the unjust for the day of evil.

5 Every one lifted up of heart an abomination to Jehovah: and hand to hand, shall not be unpunished.

6 By mercy and truth iniquity shall be expiated: and in the fear of Jehovah a departing from evil.

7 The ways of a man being accepted of Jehovah also he will make his enemies friends with him.

8 Good a little with justice above abundance of increase with no judgment

9 The heart of man will purpose his ways, and Jehovah will prepare his steps.

10 Divining upon the lips of the king: his mouth will not transgress in judgment

11 Weighing and balances of judgment are to Jehovah, and his work all the stones of the bag.

12 An abomination of kings to do injustice: for in justice shall the throne be prepared.

13 Lips of justice the acceptance of kings; and he will love the word of the upright

14 The king's wrath, messengers of death: and a wise man shall expiate it

15 In the light of the king's face is life, and his acceptance as the cloud of the latter rain.

16 The obtaining of wisdom how good above gold and the obtaining of understanding to be chosen above silver.

17 The highway of the upright is to depart from evil: to watch his ways the guarding of his soul.

19 Good the cast down of spirit with the humble more than to divide the spoil with the proud.

20 He understanding in the word shall find good: and he trusting in Jehovah, he being happy.

21 He understanding shall call to the wise of heart: and sweetness of lips shall add knowledge

Copyright © 2026 by Lord Henfield, Guildford Scientific Press

22 The understanding of him possessing it is a fountain of life: and the instruction of the foolish is folly.

23 The heart of the wise shall attend to his mouth, and he shall add knowledge to his lips.

24 Words of pleasantness an, honeycomb, sweet to the soul, and healing to the bones.

25 There is a way straight before a man, and its latter state the ways of death.

26 The soul of him laboring, labored for himself; for his mouth urged upon him.

27 A man of Belial dug up evil, and upon his lips, as a burning fire.

29 A man of violence will seduce his neighbor, and he caused him to go in a way not good.

33 In the bosom he shall, cast the lot; and from Jehovah all his judgment

PROVERBS CHAPTER 17

1 Good a dry morsel and peace with it, above a house full of sacrifices of contention.

2 An understanding servant shall rule a son causing shame, and shall divide the inheritance in the midst of the brethren.

3 The crucible for silver and the furnace for gold: and Jehovah tries hearts.

4 He doing evil attends upon, lips of vanity; he lying feeds upon a tongue of mischief

5 He mocking to the poor one reproached him making him: and he rejoicing at misfortune shall not be unpunished.

6 The crown of old men, sons' sons: and the glory of sons their fathers.

7 The lip of excellence is not becoming to, the foolish one: much less the lip. of falsehood to the noble one.

8 The gift a stone of grace in the, eyes of him possessing it: to all which it shall turn it shall prosper.

9 He covering transgression seeks love; and he perverting in the word, separates a, friend.

10 A reproof will take hold upon, him understanding more than a hundred, blows the foolish.

11 An evil one will seek only contradiction.: and a cruel messenger shall be sent against him.

13 He turning back evil, instead of good, evil shall not move from his house.

15 He justifying the unjust one and he condemning the just one, is an abomination to Jehovah, also they two.

16 Wherefore this a price in the hand of the foolish one to obtain wisdom, and no heart?

17 A friend loves in all time, and a brother shall be born for straits.

18 A man wanting heart will strike the hand, pledging a pledge before his friend.

19 He loving transgression loves contention: he lifting up his gate seeks breaking.

20 The perverse of heart shall not find good: and he turning about with his tongue shall fall into evil.

21 The foolish one was born for sorrow to himself, and the father of the foolish one shall not rejoice.,

23 The unjust one will take a gift from the bosom to turn, aside the paths of judgment

24 Wisdom, is with the face of him understanding, and the eyes of the foolish one are in the ends of the earth.

25 A foolish son a grief to his father, and bitterness to her bringing him forth.

26 Also punishing to the just one is not good, to strike nobles for uprightness.

27 He withholding his words will shew knowledge: I man of understanding is a cool spirit

28 Also the foolish one being silent shall be thought wise: and he shutting his lips, understanding.

PROVERBS CHAPTER 18

1 He separating himself will Seek according to desire; he will be irritated with every purpose.

2 The foolish one will not delight in understanding, but in, the disclosings of his heart

3 In the coming of the unjust also came contempt, and with dishonor, reproach.

4 Deep waters are the words of man's mouth, the fountain of wisdom a gushing stream.

5 To lift up the face of the unjust one is not good; to turn aside the just one in judgment.

6 The lips of the foolish one will come into contention, and his mouth will call for blows.

7 The mouth of the foolish is destruction to him, and his lips the snare of his soul.

8 The words of the tale-bearer as dainty morsels, and they will go down to the chambers of the belly.

9 Also he being slothful in his work, he the brother of the master of destruction.

10 The name of Jehovah a tower of strength: into it the just one shall run and be exalted.

11 The rich one's wealth his strong city, and as a wall lifted up in his imagination.

12 Before a breaking a man's heart will be lifted up, and before honor, humility.

13 He turning back the word before he shall hear it, is folly and shame to him.

14 The spirit of man will sustain his disease; and a dejected spirit who shall lift up?

Copyright © 2026 by Lord Henfield, Guildford Scientific Press

15 The heart of him understanding will obtain knowledge and the ear of the wise will seek knowledge.
16 The gift of a man will enlarge to him, and shall conduct him before the great 17 The first one just in his cause; his neighbor will come and search him.
18 The lot will cause contentions to cease, and will separate between the strong,
19 A brother falling away, above a city of strength; and strifes as the bars of a fortress.
20 From the fruit of a man's mouth his belly shall be filled; and he shall be filled with the increase of his lips.
21 Death and life in the hand of the tongue: and they loving it shall eat its fruit
22 He finding a wife found good, and shall obtain acceptance from Jehovah.
23 The poor one will speak supplications; and the rich one will answer with vehemence.
24 A man of friends for making friendship: and there is love attaching more than a brother.

PROVERBS CHAPTER 19
1 Good the poor one going in his integrity above the perverse of lips, and he foolish.
2 Also the soul without knowledge is not good, and he hastening with his feat, sins.
3 The folly of man will subvert his way: and his heart will be angry against Jehovah.
4 Wealth will add many friends; and the poor one will be separated from his neighbor.
5 A witness of falsehoods shall not be unpunished, and he breathing out lies shall not escape.
6 Many will wait for the face of the prince, and every one the friend to the man giving.
7 All the brethren of the poor hated him: how much more his friends removed far from him? pursuing words they are not
8 He obtaining a heart loved his soul: he watched understanding to find good.
9 A witness of falsehoods shall not be unpunished, and he breathing out lies shall perish.
10 Delight is not becoming to the foolish one; much less for a servant to rule over chiefs.
11 The understanding of man will defer his anger: and his glory to pass over transgression.
12 The king's wrath growling as the young lion, and his acceptance as dew upon the grass.
13 A foolish son a calamity to his father: and the strifes of a woman a dropping thrust out
14 A house and wealth the inheritance of fathers: and an understanding wife from Jehovah.
15 Sloth will cast a deep sleep; and the soul of sloth shall hunger.
16 He watching the command watches his soul: he despising his ways shall die.
17 He pitying the poor lends to Jehovah, and he will recompense to him his act.
18 Correct thy son when there is hope, and thy soul shall not lift up for his sighing.
19 The stern in wrath lifted up a fine: for if thou shalt deliver and thou shalt yet add.
20 Hear counsel and receive instruction, so that thou shalt be wise in thy latter state.
21 Many purposes in a man's heart: and the counsel of Jehovah, that shall stand.
22 The desire of man his mercy: and the poor good above the man of falsehood.
23 The fear of Jehovah is to life: and he being filled shall lodge satisfied; he shall not be reviewed for evil.
24 The slothful one hiding his hand in the dish, also he will not turn it back to his mouth.
25 Thou shalt strike him mocking, and the simple will be crafty: and reprove to him understanding, and he will understand knowledge.
26 He oppressing the father and putting the mother to flight, is a son causing shame and causing disgrace.
27 Cease, my son, to hear instructions for erring from the words of knowledge.
28 A witness of Belial shall mock judgment: and the mouth of the unjust will swallow down iniquity.
29 Judgment was prepared for those mocking, and blows for the back of the foolish.

PROVERBS CHAPTER 20
1 Wine is mocking, strong drink is noisy: and every one going astray by it will not be wise.
2 The terror of the king growling as the young lion: he overflowing against him sinned against his soul.
3 Honor to a man ceasing from strife: and every foolish one will be irritated.
4 The slothful one reproaching will not work: he shall ask in harvest, and nothing.
5 Deep waters are counsel in the heart of man; and a man of understanding will draw it out
6 The multitude of man will call each his mercy: and a man of faithfulness who shall find?
7 The just one going about in his integrity: his sons happy after him.
8 The king shall sit upon the throne of judgment scattering with his eyes all evil.
9 Who shall say, I cleansed my heart; I was pure from my sin?
10 A stone and stone, an ephah and ephah, an abomination of Jehovah, also they two.
11 Also a youth shall be known by his doings, if pure and straight his work.
12 The hearing ear and the seeing eye, Jehovah made, also them two.
13 Thou shalt not love sleep lest thou shalt be dispossessed: open wide thine eyes, being filled with bread.
14 Evil, evil, he buying will say: and departing to him, and then he will boast

Copyright © 2026 by Lord Henfield, Guildford Scientific Press

15 There is gold and a multitude of pearls: and a precious vessel the lips of knowledge.

16 Take his garment that became surety for a stranger: and bind him by a pledge for strange women.

17 Bread of falsehood is sweet to a man; and afterward his mouth shall be filled with gravel

18 The purpose shall be prepared by counsel, and with guidance make war.

19 He revealing a secret going about tale-bearing: and thou shalt not intermingle with him embracing his lips.

21 An inheritance greedily gotten in the beginning; and its latter state shall not be

22 Thou shalt not say, I will requite evil; wait for Jehovah, he will save to thee.

23 An abomination of Jehovah stone and stone; and the balance of deceit is not good.

25 The snare of man swallowing down the holy thing, after the vows for seeking.

26 A wise king scatters the unjust, and he will turn back a wheel over them.

27 The light of Jehovah is the breath of man, searching all the chambers of the belly.

28 Mercy and truth shall guard the king: and his throne he upheld in mercy.

29 The glory of young men their strength: and the ornament of old men gray hair.

30 The joining of a wound will cleanse against evil: and blows the chambers of the belly.

PROVERBS CHAPTER 21

1 Steams of waters the heart of the king, in the hand of Jehovah: upon all which he shall delight in he will turn it

2 Every way of a man right in his eyes: and Jehovah will prepare hearts.

3 To do justice and judgment was chosen by Jehovah above gold.

4 Lifting up the eyes and enlarging the heart, the light of the unjust is sin.

5 The purposes of the active only to abundance; and every one hastening only to want

6 The making treasures by the tongue of falsehood is vanity scattered from those seeking death.

7 The violence of the unjust shall sweep them away, for they refuse to do judgment

8 The way of man is crooked and strange: and the pure his work is right

9 Good to dwell upon the corner of the roof rather than with a woman of strifes and a house of community.

10 The soul of the unjust one desired evil: his neighbor shall not be compassionated in his eyes.

11 In punishing him mocking, the simple shall become wise: and in instruction to the wise one he will take knowledge.

12 The just one being circumspect for the house of the unjust one: overthrowing the unjust for evil.

13 He stopping his ear from the cry of the poor one also himself shall call and shall not be answered.

14 Giving in secret will subdue anger: and a gift in the bosom, strong wrath.

15 Joy to the just one to do judgment: and destruction to those working iniquity.

17 A man of poverty loving joy: he loving wine and oil shall not be rich.

18 The unjust one a ransom for the just one, and he transgressing, instead of the upright

19 Good to dwell in the land of the desert rather than with a woman of contentions and anger.

20 A treasure desired, and oil in the house of the wise one; and the foolish man will swallow it down.

22 The wise one ascended the city of the strong, and he will bring down the strength of its confidence.

23 He watching his mouth and his tongue watches his soul from straits.

25 The desire of the slothful shall kill him, for his hands refused to work,

26 He longed a longing all the day: and the just one shall give and not keep back.

27 The sacrifice of the unjust is an abomination, for also he will bring it in mischief.

28 A witness of lies shall perish: and a man hearing, shall speak clearly.

29 An unjust man strengthened with his face: and the upright he will prepare his ways.

30 No wisdom and no understanding, and no counsel against Jehovah.

31 The horse is prepared for the day of war and salvation is to Jehovah.

PROVERBS CHAPTER 22

1 A Name to be chosen rather than much riches, and good grace rather than gold.

2 The rich and poor one met together: Jehovah made them all.

3 The crafty saw evil, and he will hide, and the simple passed on and were punished.

4 The end of humility the fear of Jehovah, riches and honor and life.

5 Thorns, snares, in the way of the perverse one: he watching his soul shall be far from them.

6 Straiten to a youth upon the mouth of his way, also when he shall grow old he will not depart from it.

7 The rich one will rule over the poor, and he borrowing, a servant to the man lending.

Copyright © 2026 by Lord Henfield, Guildford Scientific Press

8 He sowing iniquity shall reap vanity, and the rod of his wrath shall be finished.

9 The good eye it shall be blessed, for he gave from his bread to the poor.

10 Cast out him mocking, and strife shall go out, and contention shall cease and dishonor.

12 The eyes of Jehovah guarded knowledge, and he will overthrow the words of him transgressing.

13 The slothful one said, A lion without; I shall be slain in the midst of the broad places.

14 The mouth of the strange woman a deep pit: and he cursing Jehovah shall fall there.

15 Folly being bound in the heart of a youth; the rod of correction shall remove it far off from him.

16 He oppressing the poor one to increase for himself, he gave to the rich; also to want

17 Incline thine ear and hear the words of the wise, and thou shalt set thy heart to my knowledge.

18 For pleasant things if thou shalt watch them in thy belly; they shall be prepared together for thy lips.

19 For thy trust to be in Jehovah, I caused thee to know to-day, thee also.

20 Did I not write to thee three days ago in counsels and knowledge?

21 To cause thee to know the truth of the words of truth; to turn back the words of truth to those sending thee?

22 Thou shalt not strip the poor because he is poor: and thou shalt not crush the humble in the gate.

23 For Jehovah will contend their contention, and rob the soul to those robbing them.

24 Thou shalt not be companion of the possessor of anger, and with the man of wrath thou shalt not go:

25 Lest thou shalt learn his ways and take a snare to thy soul.

26 Thou shalt not be with those striking the hand with those pledging for debts.

27 If not to thee to requite, why shall he take thy bed from under thee?

29 Sawest thou a man apt in his works? Before kings shall he stand; he shall not stand before the dark ones

PROVERBS CHAPTER 23

1 If thou shalt sit to eat with a ruler, understanding, thou shalt understand what is before thee.

2 And put a knife to thy swallow if thou the possessor of a soul.

3 Thou shalt not long for his dainties: and it is the bread of lies.

4 Thou shalt not labor to become rich: cease from thy wisdom.

5 Wilt thou cause thine eyes to fly upon it and it is not? for making, it will make to it wings; as an eagle and it flew to the heavens.

6 Thou shalt not eat the bread of an evil eye, and ye shall not long for its dainties:

7 Like him estimating evil in his soul, so is he: Eat and drink, he will say to thee; and his heart not with thee.

8 Thy morsel which thou didst eat thou shalt vomit forth and destroy thy pleasant words.

9 In the ears of the foolish thou shalt not speak, for he will despise for the understanding of thy words.

10 Thou shalt not remove the old bound; and into the field of the orphans thou shalt not come:

11 For he redeeming them, he is strong; he will contend their contention with thee.

12 Bring thy heart to instruction, and thine ears to the words of knowledge.

13 Thou shalt not withhold instruction from youth: if thou shalt strike him with a rod he shall not die.

14 Thou shalt strike him with the rod, and thou shalt deliver his soul from hades.

15 My son, if thy heart be wise, my heart shall rejoice, even mine.

16 And my reins shall exult in the speaking of thy lips uprightnesses.

17 Thy heart shall not envy against those sinning: but be in the fear of Jehovah all the day.

18 But there is a latter state, and thine expectation shall not be cut off.

19 Hear thou, my son, and be wise, and guide thy heart right in the way.

20 Thou shalt not be with those drinking wine to excess, and with squanderers of flesh to them:

21 For the drunkard and the squanderer shall be dispossessed: and slumber shall clothe with rags.

22 Hear to thy father that begat thee, and thou shalt not despise thy mother when growing old.

23 Buy the truth, and thou shalt not sell wisdom and instruction and understanding.

24 The father of the just one rejoicing, shall rejoice: he shall beget a wise one and shall rejoice in him.

25 Thy father shall rejoice, and thy mother, and she begetting thee shall exult.

26 My son, thou shalt give thy heart to me, and thine eyes shall delight in my way.

27 For a harlot is a deep ditch; and a strong woman a narrow well.

28 She also will lie in wait as for prey, and she will add those transgressing among men.

29 To whom wo? to whom want? to whom strife? to whom complaint? to whom wounds gratuitously? to whom dark fleshings of the eyes?

30 To those remaining at the wine; to those going to seek mixed wine.

Copyright © 2026 by Lord Henfield, Guildford Scientific Press

31 Thou shalt not look upon wine when it shall be red, when it shall give its eye in the cup, it will go about in uprightnesses.

32 Its latter state it will bite as serpent, and sting as a viper.

33 Thine eyes shall see strange women, and thy heart shall speak perverseness.

34 And thou wert as he lying down in the heart of the sea, and as he lying down upon the head of the mast

35 They struck me, I was not pained; they beat me, I knew not: when shall I awake? I will add, I will yet seek it.

PROVERBS CHAPTER 24

1 Thou shalt not envy against men of evil, thou shalt not desire to be with them.

2 For their heart will meditate destruction, and their lips will speak labor.

3 By wisdom a house will be built, and it will be prepared by understanding:

4 And by knowledge shall the chambers be filled with all precious and pleasant riches.

5 A wise man is in strength, and a man of knowledge strengthens power.

6 For by guidance thou shalt make to thee war, and in the multitude of counselors salvation.

7 High things to the foolish is wisdom: in the gate he will not open his mouth.

8 He purposing to do evil for himself shall be called the master of mischief.

9 The purpose of folly is sin, and he mocking, an abomination to man.

10 Wilt thou be discouraged in the day of straits thy strength is narrow.

11 If thou shalt refrain to deliver those being brought to death, and those going to be slain;

12 If thou shalt say, Behold, we knew not this; will not he trying hearts, understand? and he guarding thy soul, knew? and he turned back to man according to his work.

13 My son, eat honey, for it is good; and the dropping of honey being sweet to thy palate.

14 So the knowledge of wisdom to thy soul if thou shalt find: and there is a latter state and thine expectation shall not be cut off.

16 For the just one shall fall seven times, and rise: and the unjust shall be weak in evil

17 In the falling of thine enemies thou shalt not rejoice, and in his stumbling thy heart shall not exult:

18 Lest Jehovah shall see and it be evil in his eyes, and he turn back from him his anger.

19 Thou shalt not be angry against the evil; thou shalt not envy against the unjust:

20 For there shall be no latter state to the evil one: the light of the unjust shall be extinguished.

21 My son, fear thou Jehovah and the king: thou shalt not intermingle with those changing:

22 For suddenly shall their calamity rise, and who shall make known the misfortune of them two?

23 Also these to the wise. To look upon the face in judgment is not good.

24 He saying to the unjust, Thou art just; peoples shall curse him, and nations shall curse him:

25 And it shall be pleasant to those reproving, and a blessing of good shall come upon them.

26 He shall kiss the lips turning back right words.

27 Prepare thy work without, and make it ready for thee in the field afterwards; and build thy house.

28 Thou shalt not be a witness gratuitously against thy neighbor, and deceive not with thy lips.

29 Thou shalt not say, According to what he did to me, thus will I do to him: I will turn back to the man according to his work.

30 I passed upon the field of the slothful man, and upon the vineyard of the man wanting heart;

31 And behold, it came up all of it with thorns; brambles covered its face, and the wall of its stones was overthrown.

32 And I shall see and set my heart: I looked, I took instruction.

33 A little sleep, a little slumber, a little folding of the hands to lie down:

34 And thy poverty came going about, and thy want as a man of shield.

PROVERBS CHAPTER 25

1 Also these the proverbs of Solomon which the men of Hezekiah king of Judah transcribed.

2 The glory of God to conceal the word: and the glory of kings to search the word.

3 The heavens for height, and the earth for depth, and the heart of kings not searched out

4 Take ye away the dross from the silver, and a vessel shall come forth for the goldsmith.

5 Take ye away the unjust one from before the king, and his throne shall be prepared in justice.

6 Thou shalt not show thyself proud before the king, and thou shalt not stand in the place of the great.

7 For good to say to thee, Come up hither, rather than humbling thyself before the noble whom thine eye saw.

8 Thou shalt not go forth hastily to strive, lest what thou shalt do in its latter state in thy neighbor putting thee to shame.

9 Contend thy contention with thy neighbor; and thou shalt not reveal the secret of another:

10 Lest he hearing shall reproach thee, and thine infamy shall not turn away.

11 Apples of gold in images of silver is the word spoken upon its wheels.

12 An earring of gold and a necklace of gold, the wise one reproving upon the hearing ear.

13 As the cold of snow in the day of harvest a faithful messenger to those sending him: he shall restore the soul of his lord.

14 Clouds and wind and not rain, a man boasting in a gift of falsehood.

15 In slowness to anger shall the prince be persuaded, and the soft tongue shall break the bones.

17 Make rare thy foot from thy neighbor's house, lest he shall be satiated with thee, and hate thee.

18 A mallet and a sword and an arrow sharpened, the man answering against his neighbor testimony of falsehood.

19 A bad tooth and a wavering foot, the confidence of the faithless one in the day of straits

20 He removing a covering in the day of cold, and vinegar upon nitre, and he singing in songs to an evil heart.

21 If thine enemy hunger, give him bread to eat; and if he thirst, give him water to drink:

22 For thou tookest up coals of fire upon his head, and Jehovah will recompense to thee.

23 The north wind will set free the rain, and an angry face, a hidden tongue.

24 Good to dwell upon a corner of the roof rather than with a woman of strifes and a house of community.

25 Cold waters to the fainting soul, and a good message from a land far off.

26 A fountain trampled down, and a fountain corrupted, the just one turned aside before the unjust one.

27 To eat much honey is not good: and to seek out their honor, not honor.

28 A city being broken down, and not a wall, a man who restrains not to his spirit.

PROVERBS CHAPTER 26

1 As snow in summer and as rain in harvest., so honor not becoming to the foolish one.

2 As the sparrow for wandering, as the swallow for flying, so the curse shall not come in vain.

3 A whip for the horse, the curb for the ass, and the rod for the back of the foolish.

4 Thou shalt not answer the foolish according to his folly lest thou shalt be like to him.

5 Answer the foolish according to his folly lest he shall be wise in his own eyes.

6 He drank violence, cutting off the feet, sending words by the hand of the foolish one.

7 The legs of the lame were weak, and a parable in the mouth of the foolish.

8 As a bundle of stones in a heap of stones, so he giving honor to the foolish one.

9 A thorn going up into the hand of a drunkard, a parable in the mouth of the foolish.

10 The great one piercing all, and he hired the foolish one, and those passing by.

12 Sawest thou a man wise in his eyes? hope is for the foolish one more than for him.

13 The slothful one said, A lion in the way; a lion between the broad places.

14 A door will turn upon its hinge, and the slothful upon his bed.

15 The slothful one hid his hand in the dish; he was weary to turn it back to his mouth.

16 The slothful one is wise in his eyes more than seven turning back a reason.

17 Laying hold upon the ears of a dog, he passing by overflowing upon strife not to him.

18 As a madman casting fiery darts, arrows and death,

19 So the man deceiving his neighbor and saying, Am I not sporting?

20 In the ceasing of wood, fire will go out: and in not being a tale-bearer, strife will subside.

21 As charcoal to burning coals and woods to fire, and a man of strifes to kindle strife.

22 The words of a tale-bearer as dainty morsels, and they will go down to the chambers of the belly.

23 Silver dross covering over a pot-sherd, burning lips and an evil heart.

24 He hating will be known by his lips, and he will set deceit in his midst;

25 When his voice will compassionate, thou shalt not believe him, for seven abominations in his heart

26 Hatred will be covered by deceit, his evil will be revealed in the convocation.

27 He digging a pit shall fall into it: and he rolling a stone it shall turn back upon him.

28 A tongue of falsehood will hate its crushing, and a smooth mouth will make an overthrow.

PROVERBS CHAPTER 27

1 Thou shalt not boast upon the day of the morrow, for thou shalt not know what a day shall bring forth.

2 A stranger shall praise thee, and not thy mouth; a stranger, and not thy lips.

3 A stone is heavy and sand a burden, and the wrath of the foolish one heavy more than they two.

4 Wrath is cruelty, and anger an overflowing; and who shall stand before jealousy?

5 Naked rebuke is good above secret love.

6 Faithful the wounds of a friend; and abundant the kisses of an enemy.

7 The full soul will tread down the honey droppings, and to the hungry soul all bitter is sweet

8 As the bird wandering from her nest, so is a man wandering from his place.

9 Oil and incense will rejoice the heart: and the sweetness from his friend from the counsel of the soul.

10 Thy friend and thy father's friend thou shalt not forsake; and thou shalt not go to thy brother's house in the day of thy calamity: good he dwelling near, more than a brother far off.

11 My son, be wise and gladden my heart, and I will turn back word to him reproaching me.

12 The prudent one saw the evil, he hid himself; the simple passed and were punished.

13 Take his garment pledging a stranger, and bind him by a pledge for a strange woman.

14 He blessing his friend with a great voice, rising early in the morning, a curse shall be reckoned to him.

15 A dropping thrust forth in the day of rain and a woman of strifes were alike.

17 Iron will sharpen upon iron; and a man will sharpen the face of his friend.

18 He guarding the fig tree shall eat its fruit: and he watching his lord shall be honored.

19 As in water, face to face, so the heart of man to man.

20 Hades and destruction shall not be satisfied; and the eyes of man shall not be satisfied.

21 The crucible for silver, and the furnace for gold, and a man to the mouth praising him.

22 If thou shalt pound the foolish in a mortar in the midst of the grain with a pestle, thou shalt not remove from him his folly.

23 Knowing, thou shalt know the face of thy flock; set thy heart to thy herds.

24 For not strength forever, and not consecration to generation and generation.

25 The grass was uncovered and the young herbage was seen; and the green plants of the mountains were gathered.

26 Lambs for thy clothing, and the he goats the price of the field.

27 And enough of goats' milk for thy bread, and for the bread of thy house, and the life of thy girls.

PROVERBS CHAPTER 28

1 The unjust fled and none pursuing, and the just shall be confident as the young lion.

2 In the transgression of a land many its chiefs: and by a man understanding to know, the place shall be extended.

3 A poor man oppressing the poor, a sweeping rain and no bread.

4 They forsaking the law will praise the unjust: and they watching the law, shall contend with them.

5 Men of evil shall not understand judgment: and they seeking Jehovah shall understand all.

6 Good the poor one going in his integrity above him perverting the ways, and he the rich.

7 He watching the law a son understanding: and the companion of squanderers will shame his father.

8 He increasing by interest and usury, he shall gather it for him compassionating the poor.

9 He turning away his ear from hearing the law, also his prayer is an abomination.

10 He causing the upright to wander in an evil way, into his pit shall he fall: and the good shall inherit complete things.

11 The rich man is wise in his eyes, and the poor one understanding shall search him out.

12 In the rejoicing of the just, much glory: in the rising up of the unjust, man will hide himself.

13 He covering his transgression shall not prosper: but he confessing and forsaking, shall be compassionated.

14 Happy the man fearing always: and he hardening his heart shall fall into evil

16 A prince wanting understanding and great in oppressions: he hating gain shall lengthen the days.

17 He terrifying violence upon the blood of a soul shall flee even to the pit; none shall hold fast upon him.

18 He going uprightly shall be saved; and he being violent in the ways shall fall at once.

19 He working his land shall be filled with bread: and he pursuing the vain shall be filled with poverty.

20 A man of faithfulness multiplied blessings: and he hesting to be rich shall not be innocent

21 To look upon faces is not good and for a morsel of bread the man will transgress.

22 A man of evil eye hasted for riches, and knew not that want shall come upon him.

23 He reproving a man, afterwards shall find favor more than he smoothing the tongue.

24 He stripping his father and his mother, and saying, No transgression; is companion to a man destroying.

25 He enlarging the soul shall excite strife: and he trusting upon Jehovah shall he made fat

26 He trusting in his heart is foolish: and he going in wisdom shall be delivered.

27 He giving to the poor wants not: and he hiding his eyes increased curses.

28 In the rising up of the unjust, man shalt hide: and in their perishing, the lust shall increase.

PROVERBS CHAPTER 29

1 A Man of reproofs hardening the neck, shall be suddenly broken, and no healing.

2 In the increasing of the just the people will rejoice: and in the ruling of the unjust one the people will groan.

3 A man loving wisdom will gladden his father: and he feeding harlots shall destroy riches.

4 A king in judgment shall establish the land: and a man of presents shall overthrow it

5 A man making smooth against his neighbor spreads a net for his steps.

6 In the transgression of an evil man is a snare: and the just one shall rejoice and be glad:

7 The just one knew the judgment of the poor: the unjust one will not understand knowledge.

8 Men of derision will kindle up a city: and the wise will turn away anger.

10 Men of bloods will hate the upright one: and the upright will seek his soul.

11 The foolish one will bring forth all his spirit; and the wise one will restrain it back.

12 A ruler listening to the word of falsehood, all serving him are unjust

13 The poor one and the man of oppressions met together: Jehovah enlightening the eyes of them both.

14 The king judging the poor in truth, his throne shall be established for a testimony.

16 In increasing the unjust, transion will increase: and the just all look upon their fall.

17 Correct thy son and he shall cause thee to rest, and he shall give delight to thy soul.

18 In no vision the people shall be unruly: and he watching the law, happy is he.

19 A servant will not be corrected by words: for he will understand and not answer.

20 Thou sawest a man hasty in his words: hope to the foolish one more than to him.

21 He bringing up his servant delicately from youth, and his latter state will be a child.

22 A man of anger will excite strife, and the possessor of wrath increased transgression.

23 A man's pride shall bring him low: and honor shall uphold him humble of spirit

24 He dividing with a thief, hates his soul: he shall hear cursing and shall not announce.

25 The fear of man will give a snare: and he trusting in Jehovah shall be exalted.

26 Many are seeking the face of the ruler, and from Jehovah a man's judgment

27 A man of iniquity is an abomination of the just; and the upright of way, an abomination of the unjust one.

PROVERBS CHAPTER 30

1 The words of Agur, son of Jakeh: the lifting up: the declaration of the man to Ithiel; to Ithiel and Ucal:

2 For I am brutish more than man, and not the understanding of a man to me.

3 I learnt not wisdom, and I shall not know the knowledge of the holy.

4 Who went up to the heavens, and came down? who gathered the wind in his fists? who bound the waters in a garment? who set up all the ends of the earth? what his name and what his son's name, if thou shalt know?

5 All the word of God is purified: he a shield to those trusting in him.

6 Thou shalt not add to his words lest he reprove in thee, and thou wert false.

7 Two things I asked from thee, thou wilt not withhold from me before I shall die:

8 Vanity and the word of falsehood remove far from me; thou wilt not give to me poverty and riches; feed me with bread of my allowance:

9 Lest I shall be filled and I spake lies, and said, Who is Jehovah? and lest I shall be dispossessed and I stole, and I laid hold upon the name of God.

10 Thou shalt not slander the servant to his lord lest he shall curse thee, and thou wert guilty.

11 A generation will curse its father, and will not bless its mother.

12 A generation pure in its eyes, and not washed from its finding.

13 A generation, how its eyes were raised up and its eyelashes will be lifted up.

14 A generation, its teeth swords, and its biter's teeth, knives, to devour the poor from the land, and the needy from man.

15 To the leech two daughters: Give, give. Behold, three shall not satisfied; four shall not say, Wealth:

16 Hades; and the closed womb; the earth not filled with water; and fire said not, Wealth.

17 The eye shall mock to his father, and despise to obey the mother, the ravens of the valley shall bore it out and the sons of the eagle shall eat it

18 They three were wonderful above me; and four, I knew them not:

19 The way of the eagle in the heavens; the way of the serpent upon the rock; the way of the ship in the heart of the sea; and the way of a man with a maid.

20 So the way of a woman committing adultery; eating and wiping her mouth, and saying, I transgressed not

21 For three the earth was moved, and for four, which it shall not be able to lift up:

22 For a servant when he shall reign; and the foolish one when he shall be filled with bread;

23 For a hated woman when she shall be married and a maid when she shall inherit to her mistress.

24 They four the small of the earth, and they are wise, being made wise:

25 The ants a people not strong, and they will prepare their bread in the summer;

26 The rabbits a people not strong, and they will set their house in the rock;

27 To the locust no king, and it will go forth divided all of them;

28 The lizard will take hold with their hands, and it is in the temples of the king.

29 They three making good the step, and four, making good to go:

30 The lion strong among cattle, and he will not turn back from the face of all;

31 One girded in loins, or a he goat; and a king, no rising up with him.

32 If thou wert foolish in lifting up thyself, and if thou purposed, the hand to the mouth.

33 For the pressure of milk will bring forth cheese, and the pressure of the nose will bring forth blood: and the pressure of wrath will, bring forth contention.

PROVERBS CHAPTER 31

1 The words of Lemuel the king, the lifting up which his mother will instruct him.

2 What, my son? and what the son of my womb? and what the son of my vows?

3 Thou shalt not give thy strength to women, and thy ways to the destroying of kings.

4 Not for kings, O Lemuel, not for kings to drink and for princes the desire of strong drink:

5 Lest he shall drink and forget what is prescribed, and change the judgment of all the sons of affliction.

6 Ye shall give strong drink to him perishing, and wine to the bitter of soul

7 He shall drink and forget his poverty, and shall no more remember his toil.

8 Open thy mouth for the dumb, for the judgment of all the sons of the surviving.

10 Who shall find a woman of virtue? for her price is far above pearls.

11 The heart of her husband trusted in her, and he shall not want spoil.

12 She rewarded him good and not evil all the days of her life.

13 She sought wool and flax, and she will work in delight with her hands.

14 She was as the ships of the merchant; from far off she will bring her bread.

15 She will rise while yet night, and she will give food to her house, and a portion to her girls.

16 She purposed a field, and he will take it: from the fruit of her hands she planted a vineyard.

17 She girded her loins with strength, and she will strengthen her arms.

18 She tasted that her traffic is good: her light will not go out by night

20 She spread forth her hands to the poor, and sent forth her hands to the needy.

21 She will not fear for her house from snow, for all her house put on double.

22 She made for herself coverings; byssus and purple her clothing.

24 She made the under garment., and she will sell; and she gave a girdle to the Canaanite.

25 Strength and ornament her clothing; and she will laugh to the last day.

26 She opened her mouth in wisdom, and the law of mercy upon her tongue.

27 She viewed the goings of her house, and the bread of sloth she will not eat

28 Her sons rose up and they will call her happy; her husband, and he will praise her.

29 Many daughters did virtue, and thou wentest up over all of them.

30 Favor a falsehood, and beauty vanity: a woman fearing Jehovah, she shall be praised.

THE BOOK OF JOB

Hebrew title: Sefer Iyob
Estimated Range of Dating: 550-450 B.C.

(The Book of Job (Hebrew: Iyob) is a book in the Ketuvim ("Writings") section of the Hebrew Bible (Tanakh), and the first poetic book in the Old Testament of the Christian Bible. Addressing the problem of theodicy – the vindication of the justice of God in the light of humanity's suffering – it is a rich theological work setting out a variety of perspectives. The language of Job stands out for its conservative spelling and for its exceptionally large number of words and forms not found elsewhere in the Bible. It is a masterpiece of wisdom, philosophy and literature.

Job appears in the 6th-century BC Book of Ezekiel as a man of antiquity renowned for his righteousness, and the author of the Book of Job has apparently chosen this legendary hero for his parable. Rabbinic tradition ascribes it to Moses, but scholars generally agree that it was written between the 6th and 5th centuries BC. The anonymous author was almost certainly an Israelite, although he has set his story outside Israel, in southern Edom or northern Arabia, and makes allusion to places as far apart as Mesopotamia and Egypt.

Job, Ecclesiastes and the Book of Proverbs belong to the genre of wisdom literature, sharing a perspective that they themselves call the "way of wisdom". Wisdom means both a way of thinking and a body of knowledge gained through such thinking, as well as the ability to apply it to life. It is attainable in part through human effort and in part as a gift from God, but never in its entirety – except by God. The three books share attitudes and assumptions but differ in their conclusions: Proverbs makes confident statements about the world and its workings that are flatly contradicted by Job and Ecclesiastes. Wisdom literature from Sumeria and Babylonia can be dated to the second millennium BC. Several texts from ancient Mesopotamia and Egypt offer parallels to Job, and while it is impossible to tell whether the author of Job was influenced by any of them, their existence suggests that he was the recipient of a long tradition of reflection on the existence of inexplicable suffering.)

JOB CHAPTER 1

1 A man as in the land of Uz*, Job his name; and that man was blameless and upright, and fearing God, and departing from evil. ( Due to the text's Aramaic language features, Uz might have been located in Aram, Syria; in antiquity a significant heartland of literature.)*

2 And seven sons and three daughters will be born to him.

3 And his possession will be seven thousand sheep, and three thousand camels, and five hundred pair of oxen, and five hundred she asses, and service exceedingly much; and that man shall be great above all the sons of the east.

4 And his sons went and made a drinking in the house, a man his day; and they sent and called for their three sisters to eat and drink with them.

5 And it will be that the days of drinking went round, and Job will send and consecrate them, and he rose early in the morning and brought up burnt-offerings for the number of them all: for Job said, Perhaps my sons sinned, and blessed God in their hearts. Thus did Job all the days.

6 And the day will be and the sons of God will come to stand before God, and also the adversary will come in the midst of them.

7 And Jehovah will say to the adversary, From whence wilt thou come? And the adversary will answer Jehovah, and say, From running to and fro in the earth, and from walking about in it.

8 And Jehovah will say to the adversary, Didst thou set thy heart to my servant Job? for none like him in the earth; a man blameless and upright, fearing God and departing from evil.

9 And the adversary will answer Yehovah and say, Did Job fear God gratuitously?

10 Didst thou, not hedge about him and about his house, and about all that is to him from round about? Thou didst bless the work of his hands, and his possession spread abroad in the earth.

11 But send forth now thy band and tough upon all which is to him, if he will not bless thee upon thy face.

12 And Jehovah will say to the adversary, Behold, all that is to him in thy hand: only upon him thou shalt not send. forth thy hand. And the adversary will go forth from the face of Jehovah.

13 And the day will be and his sons and daughters will be eating and drinking wine in the house of their brother, the first-born:

14 And a messenger came to Job; and he will say, The oxen were ploughing, and the he asses were feeding upon their hands.

15 And Sheba will fall and take them; they struck the young men by the month of the sword; and only shall escape, I alone, to announce to thee.

16 This one yet speaking, and this came, and he will say, The fire of God. fell from the heavens, and it will burn upon the sheep and upon the young men, and it will devour them; and I shall escape, only I alone, to announce to thee.

17 This one yet speaking, and this came, and he will say, The Chaldeans set three heads, and they invaded upon the camels, and they will take them, and they struck the young men with the mouth of the sword; and I shall escape, only I alone, to announce to thee.

18 This yet speaking, and this came, and he will say, Thy sons and thy daughters Were eating and drinking wine in the house of their brother, the first-born:

19 And behold, a great wind came from beyond the desert., and it will touch upon the four corners of the house, and fall upon the young men, and they will die; and I shall escape, I only, to announce to thee.

20 And Job will rise and rend his covering, and shave his head, and fall to the earth and worship.

21 And he will say, Naked I came forth from my mother's womb, and naked shall I turn back there: Jehovah gave, and Jehovah took; the name of Jehovah shall be blessed.

22 In all this Job sinned not, and gave not folly to God.

JOB CHAPTER 2

1 And the day will be and the sons of God will come to stand before Jehovah, and the adversary also will come in the midst of them to stand before Jehovah.

2 And Jehovah will say to the adversary, From whence wilt thou come? And the adversary will answer to Jehovah and say, From running to and fro in the earth, and from walking about in it

3 And Jehovah will say to the adversary, Didst thou set thy heart to my servant Job, that none like him in the earth, a man blameless and upright, fearing God and departing from evil? And yet he holding fast upon his integrity, and thou wilt stimulate me to destroy him without cause.

4 And the adversary will answer Jehovah and say, Skin for skin, and all which is to a man he will give for his soul.

5 But send forth now thy hand and touch upon his bone and upon his flesh, if he will not bless thee to thy face.

6 And Jehovah will say to the adversary, Behold him in thy hand, but watch his soul

7 And the adversary will go forth from the face of Jehovah, and he will strike Job with an evil burning sore, from the sole of his foot even to his crown.

8 And he will take to him a pot sherd to scrape himself with it, and he will sit in the midst of the ashes.

9 And his wife will say to him, Yet thou art holding fast upon thine integrity: praise God and die.

10 And he will say to her, According to the word of one of the foolish women thou wilt speak. Shall we also receive good from God, and shall we not receive evil? In all this. Job sinned not with his lips.

11 And the three friends of Job will hear all this evil coming upon him, and they will come, a man from his place:: Eliphaz the Temanite, and Bildad the Shuhite, and Zophar the Naamathite: and they will appoint to come together to deplore for him, and to comfort him.

12 And they will lift up their eyes from far off, and they knew him not, and they will lift up their voice and weep; and they will rend each his covering, and they will sprinkle dust upon their heads to the heavens.

13 And they sat with him upon, the earth seven days and seven nights, and none spake a word to him: for they saw that grief was great exceedingly.

JOB CHAPTER 3

1 After this Job opened his mouth, and he will curse his day.

2 Job will answer and say,

3 The day shall perish I shall bring forth in it, and the night said, A male was conceived.

4 That day shall be darkness; God shall not search it out from above, and the light shall not shine upon it.

5 Darkness shall pollute it, and the shadow of death; a cloud shall dwell upon it; the obscurations of day shall terrify it

6 That night darkness shall take it; it shall not be joined upon the days of the year; it shall not come into the number of months.

7 Behold, that night shall be hard; no rejoicing shall be in it

8 They cursing the day shall curse it, they being ready to rouse up the sea monster.

9 The stars of its twilight shall he dark; it shall wait for light, and none; and it shall not look upon the eyelashes of the dawn.,

10 Because it shut not up the doors of my belly; and shall it hide the labor of mine eyes?

11 Wherefore shall I not die from the womb? and I came forth from the belly, and I shall expire.

12 Why did the knees anticipate me? and wherefore the breasts that I shall suck?

13 For now I lay down and I shall rest; I slept: then there will be rest to me.

14 With kings and counselors of the earth building the wastes for themselves;

15 Or with chiefs, gold to them, filling their houses with silver:

16 Or as a hidden abortion I shall not be; as children they saw not light.

17 There the unjust ceased to be angry, and the weary in strength shall rest.

19 The little and the great, he is there; and the servant being free from his lord.

20 Wherefore shall light be given to him toiling, and life to the bitter of soul?

21 Waiting for death, and it is not; and they will dig more than for hidden treasures;

22 Rejoicing with joy when they find the grave;

23 To a man whose way was hid, and God will hedge about him?

24 For my sighing will come before any bread, and my groanings shall be poured put as waters.

25 For I feared a fear, and it will come upon me, and what I was afraid of will come to me.

26 I was not secure, and I rested not, and I was not quiet; and trouble will come.

JOB CHAPTER 4

1 And Eliphaz the Temanite will answer and say,

2 Trying the word to thee shalt thou be weary? who shall be able to with hold in speaking?

Copyright © 2026 by Lord Henfield, Guildford Scientific Press

3 Behold, thou didst instruct many, and thou wilt strengthen the weak hands.
4 Thy words will raise up the weak and thou wilt strengthen the bent knees.
5 But now it shall come to thee and thou wilt be wearied; it will touch even to thee, and thou wilt tremble.
6 Is not thy fear, thy confidence, thy hope, and the integrity of thy ways?
7 Remember now, who perished, he being innocent? and where were the upright cut off?
8 According to what I saw, they ploughing iniquity and sowing labor shall reap it
9 By the breath of God they shall perish, and from the spirit of his anger they shall be finished.
10 The roaring of the lion, and the voice of the lion, and the teeth of the young lions were broken.
11 The lion perished from failure of prey, and the sons of the lioness shall be scattered.
12 And a word shall be brought to me by stealth, and mine ear will take a transient sound from it
13 In thoughts, from visions of the night, in the falling of deep sleep upon men,
14 Fear met me, and trembling, and caused the multitude of my bones to tremble.
15 And the spirit will glide before my face; the hair of my flesh will stand erect:
16 It will stand, and I shall not recognize its appearance: a form before mine eyes; I shall hear stillness and a voice:
17 Shall a man be just above God? If a man shall be pure above him making him?
18 Behold, in his servants he will not trust, and upon his messengers he will set folly:
19 Also those dwelling in houses of clay which their foundation in the dust, being crushed before the moth.
20 From morning to evening they will be struck; from not setting to superintend they will perish.
21 Did not their remainder in them remove? They will die, and not in wisdom.

JOB CHAPTER 5

1 Call now, if there is answering thee; and to whom from the holy ones wilt thou turn?
2 For to the foolish, and anger will slay, and the simple will jealousy kill.
3 I saw the foolish one taking root, and suddenly I shall curse his habitation.
4 His sons shall be far from salvation, and they shall be crushed in the gate, and none delivering.
5 Which his harvest the hungry one will devour, and not from thorns shall they take it, and destruction gaped after their substance.
6 For toil will not come forth from the dust, and labor will not spring up from the earth;
7 For man shall be born to labor as the sons of the flame will lift up to fly.
8 But I will seek to God, and to God set my cause:
9 He did great things, and no searching;. and wonders even no number:
10 He gave rain upon the face of the earth, and sent waters upon the out places:
11 To raise up the humbled to height; and those mourning were exalted to salvation.
12 Bringing to nought the purposes of the crafty, and their hand shall not do an undertaking.
13 He took the wise in their craftiness, and the counsel of the perverse was headlong.
14 The days they will meet darkness, and they will grope in the noon day as night
15 And he saved the needy from the sword, from their mouth and from the band of the strong one.
16 And hope will be to the poor one, and iniquity contracted her mouth.
17 Behold, happy the man God shall rebuke him: and thou shalt not reject the correction of the Almighty:
18 For he will cause pain, and he will bind up: he will smite and his hands will heal.
19 In six straits he will deliver thee, and in seven, evil shall not touch upon thee.
20 In famine he redeemed thee from death, and in war from the hands of the sword.
21 In the scourge of the tongue thou shalt be hid, and thou shalt not be afraid of desolation when it shall come.
22 At desolation and at hunger thou shalt laugh, and from the beasts of the earth thou shalt not fear.
23 For with the stones of the field they covenant, and the beast of the field was at peace with thee.
24 And thou knewest that thy tent is peace, and thou reviewedst thy dwelling, and thou shalt not sin.
25 And thou knewest the multitude of thy seed, and thine offspring as the grass of the earth.
26 Thou shalt come in old age to thy grave, as the ascending of a heap of sheaves in its time.
27 Behold this, we searched it out, so it is: hear it, and know thou for thyself.

JOB CHAPTER 6

1 And Job will answer and say,
2 I would weighing, my anger shall be weighed, and my falls shall be lifted up in the balances together.
3 For now it will be heavy above the sand of the seas: for this my words were rash.
4 For the arrows of the Almighty are with me, which their anger drank up my spirit: the terrors of God will be prepared for me.
5 Shall the wild ass bray at grass? if the ox will low over his provender?
6 Shall that unseasoned be eaten without salt? if there is taste in purslain slime?
7 My soul refused to touch these as the loathsomeness of my bread.
8 Who will give my asking shall come? and will God give my expectation?

9 And God will, and he will crush me; will he let his hand remain, and will he cut me off?

10 And it will yet be my consolation, and I shall exult in pain: he will not spare; for I hid not the words of of the Holy One.

11 For what my strength that I shall wait and what my end, that I shall prolong my soul?

12 If my strength the strength of stones? if my flesh of brass?

13 And if not my help in me? and deliverance fled from me?

14 To him melting, mercy from his friend; and he will forsake the fear of the Almighty.

15 My brethren dealt faithlessly as a torrent; as a channel of torrents they shall pass away;

16 Being darkened because of ice, upon them the snow will be hid:

17 In the time they will flow of they became extinct: in its heat they were extinguished from their place.

18 The paths of their way will turn aside; they will go up into desolation and perish.

20 They were ashamed for trusting; they came even to it, they will be put to shame.

21 For now ye were not: ye shall see the terror and be afraid.

22 For did I say, Give to me? and from your strength make ye a present for me?

23 And deliver me from the hand of the enemy? and from the hand of the strong ye shall redeem me?

24 Teach ye me, and I will be silent: and what I erred in, cause me to understand.

25 How forcible were words of uprightness! and what will reproving from you prove?

26 Will ye purpose to reprove words, and for the spirit of the words of him despairing?

27 But ye will cause the orphans to fall, and ye will dig for your friend.

28 And now be content, look upon me; and before your face if I shall lie;

29 Turn ye back now, it shall not be iniquity; and turn back yet, my justice is in it

30 Is there iniquity in my tongue? if my palate shall not understand calamities.

JOB CHAPTER 7

1 Is there not warfare to man upon the earth, and his days as the days of a hireling?

2 As the servant will gape for the shadow, and as the hireling will wait for his work:

3 So was I caused to possess to me months of vanity, and nights of toil were allotted to me.

4 If I lay down, and I said, When shall I arise, and the evening be measured? And I was filled with tossings even to the twilight

5 And my flesh was clothed with worms, and a clod of dust; my akin was contracted and melted away.

6 My days were swift above a weaver's shuttle, and will finish with no more of hope.

7 Remember that my life is wind: mine eyes shall not turn back to see good

8 The eye of him seeing me shall not look after me: thine eyes are upon me, and I am not

9 The cloud will end and will go away: thus he shall go down to hades and shall not come up.

10 He shall turn back no more to his house, and his place shall know him no more.

11 Also I will not restrain my mouth; I will speak in the straitness of my spirit; I will complain in the bitterness of my soul.

12 Am I the sea, or a dragon, that thou wilt set a watch over me?

13 For I said, My bed shall comfort me; my couch shall lift up in my complaint;

14 And thou didst terrify me with dreams, and thou wilt make me afraid with visions:

15 And my soul will choose strangling; death rather than my bones.

16 I melted away; I shall not live forever: desist from me, for my days are vanity.

17 What is man that thou wilt magnify him? and that thou wilt set thy heart to him?

18 And thou wilt review him for the mornings, and thou wilt try him for the moments.

19 How long wilt thou not look away from me? wilt thou not desist from me even to my swallowing down my spittle?

20 I sinned; what shall I do to thee, guarding men? wherefore didst thou set me for an assault to thee, and I shall be upon myself for a burden?

21 And why wilt thou not lift up my transgression and pass over mine iniquity? for now I shall lie down to the dust; and thou soughtest me and I was not

JOB CHAPTER 8

1 And Bildad the Shuhite will answer and say,

2 How long wilt thou speak these things? and the great spirit of the words of thy mouth?

3 Will God pervert judgment? and if the Almighty will pervert justice?

4 If thy sons sinned to him, and he will send them away by the hand of their transgression;

5 If thou shalt seek to God, if thou shalt make supplication to him;

6 If thou wert pure and upright, for now he will awake for thee and requite the habitation of thy justice.

7 And thy beginning was small, and thy latter state shall increase greatly.

8 For ask now to the first generation, and prepare to seek their fathers:

9 (For yesterday are we and we shall not know, for our days upon earth are a shadow:)

10 Shall they not teach thee, and say to thee, and bring forth words from their heart?

11 Shall the bulrush lift itself up without a marsh? shall the marsh grass grow without water?
12 While yet in its greenness it shall not break off, and it will dry up before grass.
13 So the paths of all forgetting God and the hope of the profane one shall perish.
14 Which his hope shall be cut off, and the spider's house his trust
15 He shall lean upon his house and it shall not stand: he shall hold fast upon it, and it shall not rise up.
16 It was moist before the sun, and its sprout will come forth upon his garden.
17 His roots were entwined upon a heap, he shall see a house of stones.
18 If he should swallow him down from his place, and it lied upon it: I saw thee not 19 Behold, this the rejoicing of his way, and from the dust shall they cause another to grow.
20 Behold, God will not reject the blameless one, and he will not take hold upon the hand of those doing evil:
21 Till he shall fill thy mouth with laughing, and thy lips with shouts of joy.
22 They hating thee shall put on shame; and the tent of the unjust shall not be.

JOB CHAPTER 9

1 And Job will answer and say,
2 I knew that so the truth: and how shall man be just with God?
3 If he shall desire to contend with him, he shall not answer him one from a thousand.
4 Wise of heart and strong of power: who was hard before him and shall be requited?
5 Removing the mountains and they knew not: who overturned them in his anger;
6 Moving the earth from her place, and her pillars will tremble;
7 Saying to the sun, and it shall not rise; and for the stars he will seal them up
8 He alone spread out the heavens and he trod upon the heights of the sea.
9 He made Ash-Chesil and Cimah, and the chambers of the south;
10 He did great things even not searched out; and wonders even no number.
11 Behold, he will pass by me, and I shall not see: and he will glide on and I shall not understand for him.
12 Behold, he will catch and who shall turn him? and who shall say to him, What wilt thou do?
13 God will not turn back his anger, the helpers of pride bowed down under him.
14 How much less shall I answer him, shall I choose my words with him?
15 Whom, if I was just, I shall not answer; I will make supplication to my judge.
16 If I called and he will answer me, I shall not believe that he will give ear to my voice.
17 Who will assail me with tempest, and he multiplied my wounds without cause.
18 He will not give me to draw in my spirit, for he will fill me with bitterness.
19 If for strength, behold him strong: if for judgment, who shall arraign me
20 If I shall be just, my mouth shall condemn me: I am blameless, and he will declare me perverse.
21 I am blameless, I shall not know my soul: I shall despise my life.
22 It is one: for this, I said, The blameless one and the unjust one he finishes.
23 If the scourge shall fall suddenly, he will deride at the trial of the innocent
24 The earth was given into the hand of the unjust one: he will cover the faces of her judges; if not now, who is it?
25 My days were swift above a runner: they fled, they saw not good.
26 They glided along with the ships of desire: as the eagle will pounce upon food.
27 If my saying, I will forget my complaint, I will let go my face, and I will be cheerful:
28 I was afraid of all my pains, I knew that thou wilt not acquit me.
29 Shall I do evil, wherefore this shall I labor in vain?
30 If I washed myself in snow-water, and cleansed my hands clean;
31 Then thou wilt immerse me in the ditch, and my garments abhorred me.
32 For not a man as I; I shall answer him, we shall come together in judgment
33 There is not between us a reprover; he will put his hand upon us two.
34 He will take away his rod from me, and his truth shall not make me afraid.
35 I will speak, and I shall not fear him; but not so am I with myself.

JOB CHAPTER 10

1 My soul was weary in my life; I shall leave upon me my complaint; I shall speak in the bitterness of my soul
2 Saying to God, Thou wilt not condemn me; make known to me for what thou wilt contend with me.
3 Is it good to thee that thou wilt oppress, that thou wilt despise the labor of thy hinds, and thou didst shine upon the counsels of the unjust?
4 Were eyes of flesh to thee? or wilt thou see as man saw?
5 Are thy days as man's days? or thy years as the days of man?
6 That thou wilt seek for mine iniquity, and wilt search out for my sins?
7 Upon thy knowledge that I will not do evil; and none delivering from thy hand.

8 Thy hands formed me, and they will work me together round about; and thou wilt swallow me down.

9 Remember now, thou didst make me as day; and thou wilt turn me back to dust.

10 Wilt thou not weigh me out as milk, and coagulate me as cheese?

11 Thou wilt clothe me with skin and flesh, and thou wilt hedge me with bones and sinews.

12 Thou didst with me life and mercy, and thy reviewing watched my spirit

13 And these thou didst hide in thy heart: I knew that this is with thee.

14 If I sinned; and thou didst watch me, and thou wilt not acquit me from mine iniquity.

15 If I did evil, wo to me; and was I just, I shall not lift up my head, being filled with dishonor: and see thou mine affliction;

16 And shall it be lifted up? Thou wilt hunt me as the lion, and thou wilt turn back, thou wilt show thyself wonderful upon me.

17 Thou wilt renew thy testimonies before me, and thou wilt increase thy wrath upon me; changes and war with me.

18 And wherefore didst thou bring Me forth from the belly? I shall expire, and eye shall not see me.

19 I shall be as I was not; I shall be brought from the womb to the grave.

20 Is it not my days few? He will cease; he will turn from me, and I shall be cheerful a little,

21 Before I shall go and turn back to the land of darkness and the shadow of death;

22 A land of darkness, as thick darkness; of the shadow of death, and not orders, and the brightness, as thick darkness.

JOB CHAPTER 11

1 And Zophar the Naamathite will answer and say,

2 Shall not the multitude of words be answered? and shall a man of lips be justified?

3 Shall thy empty talks cause men to be silent? and wilt thou deride and none making ashamed?

4 And thou wilt say, My instruction is pure, and I was clean in thine eyes.

5 And who Will give God speaking, and he will open his lips with thee?

6 And he shall announce to thee hidden things of wisdom, for they are the double for understanding. And know thou that God will set to thee from thine iniquity.

7 Searching shalt thou and God? Shalt thou find the Almighty even to completeness?

8 The heavens being high, what wilt thou do? Hades being deep, what wilt thou know?

9 Its measure long above the earth, and broad above the sea.

10 If he shall pass on, and shut up, and gather together, who shall turn him back.

11 For he knew men of vanity, and he will see iniquity; and will he not understand?

12 And man being empty will be without heart: and man will be born a wild ass's colt

13 If thou preparedst thy heart, and didst spread thy hands towards him;

14 If iniquity in thy hand, remove it far off, and wickedness shall not dwell in thy tents.

15 For then thou shalt lift up thy face from spot; and thou wert firm, and thou shalt not fear:

16 For thou shalt forget toil, then shalt remember as waters they passed away.

17 And life shall rise above the noonday: thou shalt shine forth, thou shalt be as the morning

18 And thou didst trust, for there is hope; and thou didst search out; thou shalt lie down confidently.

19 And thou shalt lie down and none terrifying; and many waited for thy face.

20 And the eyes of the unjust shall be consumed, and flight shall perish from them, and their hope a breathing out of the soul.

JOB CHAPTER 12

1 And Job will answer and say,

2 Verily that ye are the people, and shall wisdom die with you?

3 Also to me a heart like you; I fall not more than you: and with whom not like these?

4 I shall be he laughing at his neighbor, calling to God, and he will answer him: the just blameless one being laughed at

5 To misfortune is contempt to the thoughts of him at ease, being prepared for the waverings of the foot

6 The tents to those oppressing will be secure, and confidence to those provoking God to anger: whom God will bring into his hand

7 But ask now the beasts and they shall teach thee; and the birds of the heavens, and they shall announce to thee:

8 Or speak to the earth and it shall teach thee; and the fishes of the sea shall recount to thee.

9 Who knew not in all these that the hand of God did this?

10 Which in his hand the soul of all living, and the spirit of all the flesh of man.

11 Shall not the ear try words? and the palate shall taste food to it?

12 With old men is wisdom, and length of days, understanding

13 With him wisdom and strength, to him counsel and understanding.

14 Behold, he will pull down and it shall not be built up: he will shut up against man and it shall not be opened.

15 Behold, he will hold back upon the waters, and they will dry up: and he will send them forth and they will overturn the earth.

16 With him strength and purpose:to him the one led astray and him leading astray.

17 Leading away counselors stripped off and he will make foolish the judges

18 He loosed the bonds of kings, and he will gird upon their loins a girdle.
19 Leading away priests stripped off, and he will overthrow the mighty.
20 Removing the lip to the faithful, and he will take discernment of old men.
21 Proving contempt upon nobles, and he slackened the girdle of the strong.
22 Revealing deep things from darkness, and he will bring to light the shadow of death.
23 Making great to the nations, and he will destroy them: he spread out to the nations, and he will guide them.
24 Taking away the heart of the heads of the people of the earth, and he will cause them to wander in a waste, not a way.
25 They will feel darkness and not light, and he will cause them to wander as one intoxicated.

JOB CHAPTER 13

1 Behold all mine eye saw, and mine ear heard, and it will understand for it
2 According to your knowledge I knew also: I fall not more than you.
3 But I will speak to the Almighty; I shall delight to plead before God.
4 And on the contrary, ye devise falsehood; physicians all of you for nothing.
5 Who will give silence? Ye shall be silent, and it shall be to you for wisdom.
6 Hear now my proof, and attend. to the pleadings of my lips.
7 Will ye speak wickedness for God? and will ye speak deceit to him?
8 Will ye accept his face? will ye contend for God?
9 Is it good that he shall search you out?, or as he mocking against a man; will ye mock against him?
10 Reproving, he will reprove you if in secret ye lift up faces.
11 Shall not his majesty make you afraid? and his terror fall upon you?
12 Your remembrances being likened to ashes, your backs to backs of clay.
13 Be silent from me and I will speak what shall pass upon me.
14 For what shall I lift up my flesh in my teeth, and shall I put my soul in my hand?
15 If he shall slay me shall I not hope? only I will prove my ways to his face.
16 Also he is to me for salvation for a profane one shall not come before him.
17 Hearing, hear ye my words, and my declaration in your ears.
18 Behold now I set in order judgment; I knew that I shall be justified.
19 Who is he will contend with me? for now shall I be silent and expire;
20 Only two things thou wilt not do with me: then I shall not hide from thy face.
21 Remove thy hand far from me, and thy terror shall not make me afraid.
22 And call and I will answer, and I shall speak, and turn thou to me.
23 How many iniquities and sins to me? make known to me my transgression and my sin.
24 Why wilt thou hide thy face, and reckon me for an enemy to thee?
25 Wilt thou terrify the scattered leaf? and wilt thou pursue the dry straw?
26 For thou wilt write bitter things against me; and thou wilt give me to inherit the iniquities of my youth.
27 And thou wilt set my feet in the stocks, and thou wilt watch all my paths; thou wilt dig round the roots of my feet
28 And he as rottenness will fall away; as a garment the moth ate it.

JOB CHAPTER 14

1 Man being born of woman is short of days and full of disquiet
2 And as a flower he will come forth, and will be cut down: and he will flee as a shadow, and shall not stand.
3 Also upon this one didst thou open thine eyes? and wilt thou bring Me into judgment with thee?
4 For who shall give a clean thing from an unclean? Not one.
5 If his days are determined, the number of his months with thee; thou madest his limit; he shall not pass over.
6 Look away from him and be shall cease, till he shall delight as an hireling in his day.
7 For there is hope for a tree if it shall be cut down, and it shall yet revive, and its suckers shall not cease.
8 If its root shall grow old in the earth, and its trunk shall die in the dust
9 From the smell of water it will break forth, and make foliage as a plant
10 And man will die and be weak: and man will expire, and where is he?
11 The waters departed from the sea, and the river will be wasted and dried up;
12 And man lay down and he will not rise: till the heavens be no more they shall not awake and rise from their sleep.
13 Who will give thou wilt hide me in hades? wilt thou cover me till the turning away of thine anger? wilt thou set for me a limit, and wilt thou remember me?
14 If a man die, shall he live? All the days of my warfare I will wait till the coming of my change.
15 Thou shalt call and I will answer thee: thou wilt long for the work of thy hands.
16 For now thou wilt count my steps: wilt thou not watch over my sin?
17 My transgression is sealed up in a purse, and thou wilt patch upon mine iniguity.
18 And yet the mountain falling shill decay, and the rock shall be removed from its place.

19 The waters rubbed the stones: thou wilt overflow the flowings of the dust of the earth; and thou didst destroy the hope of man.

20 Thou wilt overpower him forever, and he will go away: changing his face, thou wilt send him away.

21 His sons will be honored and he knew not: they will be brought low, and he will not understand for them.

22 But his flesh upon him shall have pain, and his soul upon him shall mourn.

JOB CHAPTER 15

1 And EliPhaz the Temanite will answer and say,

2 Shall a wise one answer knowledge of wind, and fill his belly with the east wind?

3 Reproving with words he shall not profit, and speeches will be of no use in them.

4 Also thou wilt bring to nought, fear, and thou wilt withhold meditation before God.

5 For thy mouth will accustom itself to thine iniquity, and thou wilt choose the tongue of the crafty.

6 Thy mouth will condemn thee, and not I: and thy lips will testify against thee.

7 Shalt thou be the firm man born? and hadst thou a beginning before the hills?

8 Shalt thou hear in the consultation of God? and wilt thou reserve wisdom to thyself?

9 What knewest thou and we shall not know? wilt thou understand and it not be with us?

11 Is it small with thee the consolations of God? and a word covered with thee?

12 Why shall thy heart take thee? and why shall thine eyes wink?

13 That thou wilt turn thy spirit against God, and thou broughtest words from thy mouth?

14 What is man that he will be clean? and that he will be just, being born of woman?

15 Behold, in his holy ones he will, not trust; and the heavens were not clean in his eyes.

16 How much more abominable and corrupt is man drinking iniquity as water!

17 I will show thee, hear to me; and that I saw I will recount;

18 Which the wise ones will announce, and he hid it not from their fathers.

19 To them alone the earth was given, and a stranger passed not in the midst of them.

20 All the days the unjust one himself being pained, and numbering the years they were hidden to him terrifying.

21 The voice of fears in his ears: in peace he destroying shall come upon him.

22 He will not believe to turn back from darkness, and he was waited for by the sword.

23 He wandered about for bread, where he knew that the day of darkness was ready at his hand.

24 Straitness and distress shall terrify him; they shall overpower him as a king ready for war.

25 For he stretched forth his hand against God, and he will strengthen himself against the Almighty.

26 He will run against him upon the neck, upon the thicknesses of his shields:

27 For he covered his face with his fat, and he will make fatness upon the flank

28 And he will dwell in cities out off, the houses shall not be inhabited by them, which were ready for heaps.

29 He shall not be rich, and his wealth shall not rise up; their possession shall not extend upon the earth.

30 He shall not depart from darkness; the flame shall dry up his suckers, and by the breath of his mouth shall he depart

31 He being deceived shall not trust in vanity: for vanity shall be his compensation.

32 Before his day it shall be completed, and his branch was not green.

33 He will shake off as a vine his unripe grapes, and he will cast his flower as the olive.

34 For the assembly of the profane is hard, and fire consumed the tents of the gift

35 He conceiving trouble and he bringing forth vanity, and their belly shall prepare deceit

JOB CHAPTER 16

1 And Job will answer and say,

2 I heard many like there: comforters of vexation ye all.

3 Was there an end to words of wind? or what will provoke thee that thou wilt answer?

4 Also I will speak as you: if it is your soul instead of my soul, I will join together with words against you, and shake my head against you upon it

5 I will strengthen you with my month, the moving of my lips shall hold back

6 If I shall speak, my pain will not be held back, and shall I cease, what will go from me?

7 But now he made me weary: thou hast made desolate all mine assembly.

8 Thou wilt lay fast hold on me to be for a testimony, and my leanness will rise up in me; it will answer against my face.

9 He rent in his anger, and he will lie in wait for me, gnashing upon me with his teeth; mine enemy will sharpen his eyes against me.

10 They gaped upon me with their mouth; with reproach they struck upon my cheek; they will fill out together against me.

11 God will shut me up to the evil one, and he will cast me into the hands of the unjust

12 I was secure, and he will break me in pieces: and he seized upon my neck and he will disperse me, and he will set me up to him for a mark:

13 His multitudes will surround upon me, he will cleave my reins asunder, and not spare; he will pour my gall upon the earth.

Copyright © 2026 by Lord Henfield, Guildford Scientific Press

14 He will break me, breaking upon the face of breaking; he will run upon me as the strong one.

15 I sewed together sackcloth upon my skin, and I thrust my horn into the dust.

16 My face became red from weeping, and upon my eyelashes the shadow of death

17 Not for violence in my hands: and my prayer is clean.

18 O earth, thou wilt not cover my blood; and shall there not be place for my cry?

19 Also now, behold, my witness in the heavens, and my testimony in the heights.

20 My friends mocking me: to God mine eye wept.

21 Shall he judge for a man with God? and the son of man for his neighbor?

22 When years of number shall come, and the way I shall go I shall not turn back

JOB CHAPTER 17

1 My spirit being destroyed my days were extinct; the graves are for me.

2 If not mockings with me? and shall not mine eye lodge in their bitterness?

3 Set up now, pledge me with thee: who is he will strike for my hand?

4 For thou didst hide their heart from understanding; for this thou wilt not exalt them.

5 He will commence evils for a position, and the eyes of his sons shall be consumed.

6 He set me for a parable of the peoples, and I shall be one spit upon to the face.

7 And mine eye shall be weak from vexation, and my thoughts as a shadow all of them.

8 The upright shall be astonished upon this, and the innocent Shall arouse himself against the profane.

9 And the just shall hold on his way, and the clean one of hands shall add strength.

10 But ye all shall turn back, and come ye now, and I shall not find a wise one among you.

11 My days passed away, my purposes were broken; the possessions of my heart

12 They will set the night for day: the light being near from the face of darkness.

13 If I shall wait, hades is my house: in darkness I spread my bed.

14 I called to the pit: Grave, thou my father: and to the worm, My mother, and my sister.

15 And where now my hope? and my hope who shall regard it?

16 They shall go down to the bars of hades if together we shall go down to the dust.

JOB CHAPTER 18

1 And Bildad the Shuhite will answer and say,

2 How long will ye set an end to words? Ye shall understand, and afterwards we will speak.

3 Wherefore were we reckoned as cattle, and were unclean in your eyes?

4 He rent his soul in his anger: shall the earth be forsaken for thee? and shall the rock be removed from its place?

5 Also the light of the unjust shall be extinguished, and the flame of his fire shall not shine;

6 The light was darkened in his tent, and his lamp shall be extinguished for him.

7 The steps of his strength shall be straightened, and his counsel shall cast him down.

8 For he was cast into a net by his feet, and he will go about upon latticework.

9 A snare shall lay hold upon the heel, the noose shall hold fast upon him.

10 His gin being hid in the earth, and his snare upon the beaten path.

11 Terrors made him afraid round about, and scattered him to his feet.

14 His confidence shall be plucked out from his tent, and it shall drive him to the king of terrors.

15 It shall dwell in his tent, from not to him: brimstone shall be scattered upon his dwelling.

16 From underneath, his roots shall be dried up, and from above, his harvest shall be cut off.

17 His remembrance shall perish from the earth, and not a name to him upon a face without.

18 They shall drive him out of light into darkness, and they shall exclude him from the habitable globe.

19 No offspring to him, and no progeny among his people, and not a survivor in his dwellings.

21 Also these the dwellings of evil, and this the place of him not knowing God.

JOB CHAPTER 19

1 And Job will answer and say,

2 How long will ye, grieve my soul, and crush me with words?

3 These ten times ye will reproach me: ye will not be ashamed, ye will injure me.

4 If indeed I erred my error will lodge with me.

5 If indeed ye will magnify yourselves against me, and prove against me my reproach:

6 Know ye now that God subverted me; and he folded his net about me.

7 Behold, I shall cry violence, and shall I not be answered: I shall cry for help, and no judgment

8 He walled up my path and I shall not pass, and he will set darkness upon my beaten paths.

9 And he put off from me my honor, and he removed the crown of my head.

10 He will lay me waste round about, and I shall go: and he will remove my hope as a tree.
11 And he will kindle his anger against me, and he will reckon me to him as his enemy.
12 His troops shall come together and raise up their way against me, and they will encamp round about to my tent
13 He removed my brethren far from me, and mine acquaintance truly turned aside from me.
14 My kindred ceased, and they acquainted with me forgot me.
15 They sojourning in my house and my maids, mill reckon me for a stranger: I was a foreigner in their eyes.
16 I called to my servant and he will not answer; I shall entreat him with my mouth.
17 My spirit was loathsome to my wife, and I entreated to the sons of my belly.
18 Also children rejected me; I shall arise, and they will speak against me.
19 All the men of my intimacy will abhor me, and those I loved were turned against me.
20 My bone cleaved to my skin and to my flesh, and I shall escape with the skin of my teeth.
21 Pity me, pity me, ye my friends, for the hand of God touched upon me.
22 Why will ye pursue me as God, and will ye not be satisfied from my flesh?
23 Who will give now, and my words shall be written? who will give and they shall be delineated in a book?.
24 They shall be cut in the rock with a style of iron and lead, forever.
25 And I knew he redeeming me lived, and at last he shall rise up upon the dust:
26 And after they destroyed my skin, this, and from my flesh I shall see God:
27 Which I shall see for myself, and mine eyes beheld, and not a stranger: my reins were finished in my bosom.
28 For ye shall say, Why shall we pursue after him and the root of the word was found in me?
29 And fear ye to yourselves, from the face of the sword? for wrath the iniquities of the sword, so that ye shall know there is judgment

JOB CHAPTER 20

1 And the Naainathite will answer and say,
2 For this my thoughts will turn back, and because of my haste in me.
3 I shall hear the instruction of my shame, and the spirit of my understanding will cause me to answer.
4 Thou knewest this from everlasting when man was set upon the earth:
5 For the rejoicing of the unjust drawing near, and the gladness of the profane even for a moment
6 If his elevation shall go up to the heavens, and his head shall reach to the cloud;
7 As his dung he shall perish forever: they seeing him shall say, Where is he?
8 As a dream he shall fly away, and they shall not find him: and he shall flee away as the vision of the night
9 The eye scanned him and shall not add; and his place shall no more look after him.
10 The weak shall break his sons, and his hands shall turn back his wealth.
11 His bones were full of his youth, and shall lie down with him in the dust.
12 If evil shall be sweet in his mouth he will cover it under his tongue;
13 He will spare over it, and forsake it not, and keep it back in the midst of his palate:
14 His bread in his bowels was turned, the gall of asps in his midst
15 He swallowed down riches, and he shall vomit it up, and God shall drive it out of his belly.
16 He shall suck the poison of asps: the viper's tongue shall kill him.
17 He shall not look upon the streams, the rivers, the torrents of honey and curdled milk
18 Turning back the labor, and he shall not swallow down: according to the substance of his exchange and he shall not exult
19 For he oppressed, forsaking the poor; he stripped the house and he will not build it up.
20 For he knew not tranquillity in his belly, in his desire he shall not escape.
21 Nothing was left to his food; for this his good shall not be stable.
22 In the fulness of his abundance it shall be pressed to him: every laboring hand shall come to him.
23 He will be for filling his belly, he will send upon him the burning of his anger, and will rain upon him in his eating.
24 He shall flee from the weapon of iron, the bow of brass shall pierce him.
25 Being drawn it will come forth from the body; and the lightning will go from his bile, and terrors upon him.
26 All darkness hid for his secret places: a fire not blown upon shall devour him; and the remaining one shall do evil upon his tent.
27 The heavens shall uncover his iniquity, and the earth an adversary against him.
28 The increase of his house shall be rolled off; they were poured out in the day of his anger.
29 This the portion of an unjust man and the lot of his command from God.

JOB CHAPTER 21

1 And Job will answer and say,
2 Hearing, hear ye my speech, and this shall be your consolations.
3 Suffer me and I will speak; and after my word ye will mock
4 I, is my complaint to man? and then wherefore shall not my spirit be shortened?

5 Look to me and be astonished, and put the hand upon the mouth.

6 And when I remembered and trembled, and horror took hold of my flesh.

7 Wherefore shall the unjust live? They grew old, also they were strong in power.

8 Their seed was established before their face with them, and their offspring before their eyes.

9 Their houses peace from fear, and the rod of God not upon them.

10 His ox passed over and will not be cast away: his heifer will escape and will not be barren.

11 They will send forth their children as a flock, and their children will leap.

12 They will lift up with the drum and harp, and they will rejoice at the voice of the pipe.

13 Their days glided on in good, and in a moment they will lay hold of hades.

14 And they will say to God, Depart from us; and we desired not the knowledge of thy ways.

15 What the Almighty that we shall serve him? and what shall we be profited if we shall supplicate to him?

16 Behold, their good not in the hand: the counsel of the unjust was far from me.

17 How often the light of the unjust shall be extinguished, and their destruction will come upon them. He will distribute pains in his anger.

18 They shall be as straw before the wind, and as chaff the storm stole it away.

19 God will lay up his iniquity for his sons: he will requite to him and be shall know.

20 His eyes shall see his destruction, and he shall drink from the wrath of the Almighty.

21 For what his delight in his house after him, and the number of? his months were divided out?

22 Shall he teach knowledge to God? and he will judge those lifted up.

23 This shall die in the strength of his fulness, altogether tranquil and at rest

24 His sides were filled with fat, and the marrow of his bones will, be moistened.

25 And this will die in the soul of bitterness, and will not eat in good.

26 They will lie down together upon the dust, and the worm shall cover over them.

27 Behold, I knew your purposes, and the devices ye will shake off against me.

28 For ye will say, Where the house of the noble one; and where the tent of the dwellings of the unjust?

29 Did ye not ask them passing over the way? and shall ye not know their signs?

30 For the evil one will be spared for the day of destruction; they shalt be led away to the day of wraths

31 Who shall announce his way upon his face? and who shall requite to him that he did?

32 And he shall be led away to the graves, and shall watch over the tomb.

33 And the clods of the valley were sweet to him, and every man shall draw after him, and before him no number.

34 And how will ye comfort me in vain, and your answers remained treachery?

JOB CHAPTER 22

1 And Eliphaz the Temanite will answer and say,

2 Shall a man profit to God as he understanding shall profit for himself?

3 Did it please to the Almighty that thou wilt be just? and if gain if thou wilt perfect thy ways?

4 Will he reprove thee from thy fear? Will he go with thee into judgment?

5 Is not thine evil much? and no end to thine iniquities?

6 For thou wilt take a pledge of thy brethren, in vain, and the garments of the naked thou wilt strip of 7 Thou wilt not give to the weary one water to drink, and from the hungry one thou wilt withhold bread.

8 And the man of arm, to him the earth; and the lifted up of face dwelt in it.

9 Thou didst send away widows empty, and the arms of the orphans will be broken.

10 For this, snares are round about thee, and sudden fear will terrify thee;

11 Or darkness thou wilt not see; and abundance of waters shall cover thee.

12 Is not God high in the heavens? and see the head of the stars for they were lifted up.

13 And thou saidst How shall God know? Shall he judge in the cloud of darkness?

14 Clouds a covering to him, and he will not see; and he will go about the circle of the heavens.

15 Wilt thou watch the path of old which men of iniquity trod?

16 Who were laid hold of, and no time a river will pour out their foundation?

17 They saying to God, Depart fron us: and what shall the Almighty do for them?

18 And he filled their houses with good: and the counsel of the unjust was far from me.

19 The just shall see and shall be glad: and the innocent shall deride at them.

20 If our adversaries were not destroyed, and their remnant the fire shall devour.

21 Be acquainted now with him, and be safe: by them shall good come to thee.

22 Take now the law from his mouth, and set his words in thy heart.

23 If thou wilt turn back even to the Almighty, thou shalt be built up, thou shalt remove iniquity far off from thy tent

24 Place thou gold upon the dust, and the precious ore of the torrents of Ophir (the rapids of the river Indus near Abhira, in the northwest of India, also known as Sindh.)

25 And the Almighty was thy gold and silver of labors to thee.

26 For then upon the Almighty shalt thou delight thyself, and thou shalt lift up thy face to God.

27 And thou shalt pray to him, and he will hear thee, and thou shalt repay thy vows.

28 And thou shalt decide the word, and it shall be set up to thee: and the light shone upon thy ways.

29 For they were humbled, and thou wilt say, A lifting up; and he will save him depressed of eyes.

30 He will deliver the island of the innocent: and it was delivered by the pureness of thine hands.

JOB CHAPTER 23

1 And Job will answer and say,

2 Also to-day is my complaint bitter: my hand heavy over my groaning,

3 Who will give, I knew to find him: I will come even to his place.

4 I will arrange judgment before him, and I will fill the mouth with proofs.

5 I shall know the words he will answer me, and I shall understand what he will say to me.

6 Will he contend with me in great power? No; but he will put in me.

7 There the upright one disputed with him; and I shall be delivered forever from my judge.

8 Behold, I shall go before, and he is not; and behind, I shall not understand for him.

9 The left hand in his working, and I shall not behold: he will cover himself on the right hand, and I shall not see.

10 For he knew the way with me, he tried me.; I shall come forth as gold.

11 My foot laid hold upon his going, I watched his way and not softly.

12 From the command of his lips and I will not waver; from his law I hid the words of his mouth.

13 And he is in one, and who shall turn him back? and his soul desired, and he will do.

14 For he will finish my appointing: and many such with him.

15 For this I shall tremble from his face: I shall consider, and I shall be afraid of him.

16 God relaxed my heart, and the Almighty caused me to tremble.

17 For I was not cut off from the face of darkness, and he covered misfortune from my face.

JOB CHAPTER 24

1 Wherefore were not times hidden from the Almighty,? and they knowing him saw not his days.

2 They will remove the bound; they will strip off the flock, and they will feed.

3 They will lead away the ass of the orphans, and they will take for pledge, the widow's ox.

4 They will turn the needy from the Way: the poor of the earth hid themselves together.

5 Behold, wild asses in the desert will go forth in their work, seeking for prey: the sterile region bread for him, and for the young.

6 In the field they will harvest his meslin, and they will glean the vintage of the unjust one.

7 They will cause the naked to lodge without clothing, and no covering in the cold.

8 They will be wet from the pouring rains of the mountains, and they embraced the rock from no shelter.

9 They will strip the orphan from the breast, and take a pledge for the poor.

10 They caused the naked to go without clothing, and from the hungry they took away the sheaf;

11 Between their walls they will press out oil; they trod their wine-presses, and they will thirst

12 From the city men will groan, and the soul of the wounded will cry out: and God will not set folly.

13 They were among the rebels of light; they knew not his ways, and they dwelt not in his beaten paths.

14 The murderer will rise by light; he will kill the poor and needy; and in the night he will be as a thief.

15 And the eye of the adulterer watched the twilight, saying, Eye shall not perceive me: and secretly he will set the face.

16 To break through houses in darkness in the day they shut up for themselves: they knew not light

17 For the morning altogether to them the shadow of death: if it shall be known, the terrors of the shadow of death.

18 He is swift upon the face of the waters; their portion will be cursed in the earth: he will not see the way of the vineyards.

19 Dryness, also heat, will strip the snow waters: hades him sinning.

20 The womb shall forget him; the worm sucked him; he shall be no more remembered: and iniquity shall be broken as a tree.

21 He did evil to the barren; she will not bear: andhewill not do good to the widow.

22 And he drew the mighty in his power: he will rise up and none shall be sure in living.

23 It will he given to him for confidence, and he will rest upon: and his eyes upon their ways.

24 They were lifted up a little while, and they are not, and they were brought low; as all they will be drawn together, and as the head of an ear of grain they shall be cut off.

25 And if not now, who will cause me to lie, and set my words for nought?

JOB CHAPTER 25

1 And Bildad the Shuhite will answer and say,

2 Dominion and fear with him; he made peace in his heights.

3 Is there a number to his troops? and upon whom shall not his light arise?

4 And how shall man be justified with God? and how shall he born of woman be clean?

5 Behold even to the moon, and it shall not shine; and the stars were not clean in his eyes.

6 How much less man, a worm; and the son of man, a worm.

JOB CHAPTER 26

1 And Job will answer and say,

2 How didst thou help to him of no strength? didst thou save the arm of no strength?

3 How didst thou counsel to him of no wisdom? and didst thou make known help for abundance?

4 And with whom didst thou announce words? and whose breath came forth from thee?

6 Hades is naked before him, and no covering to destruction.

7 He stretched out the north upon emptiness, he hung up the earth upon nothing.

8 He bound up the waters in his clouds, and the cloud was not rent under them.

9 Holding fast the face of the throne, he spread his cloud upon it

10 He marked out with a compass the law upon the face of the waters, even till the end of light with darkness..

11 The pillars of the heavens shall be shaken, and be astonished from his reproof.

12 By his power he caused the sea to tremble; by his understanding he smote through pride.

13 By his spirit he polished the heavens; his hand pierced the flat serpent

14 Behold these the ends of his ways; how transient a sound of the word was heard in him! and the thunder of his might who shall understand?

JOB CHAPTER 27

1 And Job will add to take up his parable, and say,

2 God lives, he removed my judgment; and the Almighty embittered my soul;

3 For all the while my breath is in me, and the spirit of God in my nose;

4 If my lips shall speak iniquity, and my tongue if it shall murmur deceit

5 Far be it to me if I shall justify you: till I expire I will not remove my integrity from me.

6 My justice I held fast, and I will not let it go: my heart shall not reproach from my days.

7 Mine enemy shall be as the unjust one, and he rising up against me, as the evil one.

8 For what the hope of the profane one if he shall plunder? for God shall draw out his soul.

9 Will God hear his cry when straits shall come upon him?

10 If he will delight himself upon the Almighty? will he call upon God in all time?

11 I will teach you by the hand of God: what is with the Almighty I will not hide.

12 Behold, all ye yourselves saw; and wherefore this, will ye breathe out vanity?

13 This the portion of an unjust man with God, and the inheritance of the terrible they shall take from the Almighty.

14 If his sons shall be multiplied, for then the sword: and his offspring shall not be satisfied with bread.

16 If he shall heap up silver as the dust, and prepare clothing as clay;

17 He shall prepare, and the just shall put on, and the innocent shall divide the silver.

18 He built his house as the moth, and as a booth he watching made.

19 The rich one shall lie down, and he shall not be gathered: he opened his eyes, and he is not

20 Terrors shall hedge him about as waters, the night a tempest stole him away.

21 The east wind shall lift him up, and he shall go: and it shall sweep him away in storm from his place.

22 For he shall cast upon him and not spare: fleeing, he will flee from his hand.

23 It shall be clapped upon him with their hands, and it shall be hissed upon him from his place.

JOB CHAPTER 28

1 For there is a going forth for silver, and a place for gold they will purify it

2 Iron shall be taken from the dust, and stone will pour out brass.

3 He set an end to darkness, and he searched out for all completeness: the stone of darkness and the shadow of death.

4 The torrent broke out from the sojourner; being forgotten of the foot, they were weak, they wandered from men.

5 The earth, from it will come forth bread, and under it was turned as fire.

6 Its stones the place of the sapphire, and dust gold to it

7 A beaten path the birds knew not, and the vulture's eye scanned it not:

8 The sons of pride trod it not, and the lion passed not by upon it.

9 He stretched forth his hand upon the flint; he overturned the mountains from the roots.

10 He cut rivers in the rocks, and his eye saw every precious thing.

11 He bound the rivers from weeping, and he will bring forth the hidden thing to light

12 And from whence shall wisdom be found? and where this place of understanding?

13 And man knew not its estimation, and it shall not be found in the land of the living.

14 The depth said, It is not in me: and the sea said, Not with me.

15 Shut up gold shall not be given for it, and silver shall not be weighed its price

Copyright © 2026 by Lord Henfield, Guildford Scientific Press

16 It shall not be weighed with gold of Ophir, with the precious onyx, and the sapphire.
17 Gold and crystal shall not compare with it, and its exchange, vessels of pure gold.
18 High things, and crystal, shall not be remembered: and the drawing out of wisdom above pearls.
19 The topaz of Cush (Nubia, Sudan) shall not compare with it; with pure gold it shall not be weighed.
20 And from whence shall wisdom come? and where this place of understanding?
21 And being hid from the eyes of all living, and covered from the birds of the heavens.
22 Destruction and death said, We heard its report with our ears:
23 God understood its way, and he knew its place.
24 For he will look to the ends of the earth, he will see under all the heavens;
25 To make the weight for the wind; and he weighed the waters by measure.
26 In his making a law for the rain, and a way for the lightning of the voices.
27 Then he saw, and he will recount it; he prepared it, and also he searched it out
28 And he will say to man, Behold, the fear of Jehovah, that is wisdom; and to depart from evil is understanding.

JOB CHAPTER 29

1 And Job will add to lift up his parable, and say,
2 Who will give me as the months of old, as the days God will watch me?
3 In his causing his light to shine upon my head, before his light I shall go through darkness;
4 As I was in the days of my ripeness, in the intercourse of God upon my tent;
5 In the Almighty being yet with me, my youths round about me;
6 In washing my goings with butter, and the rock will pour out with me streams of oil;
7 In my going forth to the gate upon the city, in the street I shall prepare my seat
8 The young men saw me and hid themselves, and the old men rose up and stood.
9 Chiefs held back in words, and they will put the hand to the mouth.
10 The voice the leaders hid, and their tongue was joined to their palate.
11 If the ear heard, and it will pronounce me happy; and the eye saw, and it will testify to me:
12 For I shall deliver the poor crying, and the orphan, and none helping to him.
13 The praise of him perishing will come upon me, and I shall cause the heart of the widow to rejoice.
14 I put on justice and it will clothe me: my judgment as an upper garment and a turban.
15 Eyes was I to the blind one, and feet to the lame was I.
16 I was a father to the needy, and the contention I knew not I shall search it out
17 And I shall break the biter's teeth of the evil one, and I shall cast the prey from his teeth.
18 And saying, I shall expire with my nest I shall multiply days as the sand.
19 My root opened to the waters, and the dew will lodge upon my foliage.
20 My glory new with me, and my bow will be changed in my hand.
21 To me they heard, and they waited, and they will be silent for them at my counsel.
22 After my words they will not repeat, and my speech will drop upon them.
23 And they waited for me as the rain, and they opened wide their mouth for the latter rain.
24 I shall laugh at them, they will not believe; and the light of my face they will not cast down.
25 I shall choose their way, and I shall sit the head, and I shall dwell as king in the troop, as he shall comfort those mourning.

JOB CHAPTER 30

1 And now the younger than I laughed upon me, which I rejected their fathers to set with the dogs of my flock.
2 Also the strength of their hands wherefore to me? Upon them old age perished.
3 In want and in hunger, barren, gnawing the dry land, yesternight desolation and burning.
4 Plucking off sea purslain upon the shrub, the root of broom their bread.
5 They shall be driven forth from the midst, they shall cry after them as a thief:
6 To dwell in the horror of the valleys, holes of the dust, and the rocks.
7 Between the shrubs they will bray; they will be poured out under the thorn bush.
8 The sons of the foolish one, also the sons of no name: they were beaten from the land.
9 And now I was their song, and I to them for a by word.
10 They abhorred me, they removed far from me, and withheld not spittle from my face.
11 Because he loosed his cord and he will afflict me, and they cast off the bridle from before me.
12 Upon the right the brood will rise up; they cast away my feet, and they will cast up the paths of their destruction against me.
13 They tore up my beaten path, they helped for my fall, no help to them.
14 They will come as a wide breach under a destroying tempest, they rolled themselves.
15 Terror turned upon me, it will pursue my willingness as the wind, and my salvation passed away as a cloud.
16 And now my soul shall be poured out upon me; and the days of affliction will hold me fast

Copyright © 2026 by Lord Henfield, Guildford Scientific Press

17 The night my bones pierced from above me, and my gnawers will not lie down.
18 By the multitude of power my clothing will be disguised: it will gird me about as the mouth of my coat
19 He cast me to the clay; I shall become like as dust and ashes.
20 I shall cry to thee and thou wilt not answer me: I stood up and thou wilt not attend to me.
21 Thou wilt turn to be cruel to me: with the strength of thy hand thou wilt lie in wait for me.
22 Thou wilt lift me up to the wind; thou wilt cause me to ride, and thou wilt melt to me counsel.
23 For I knew thou wilt turn me back to death, and the house appointed to all living.
24 But prayer is nothing; he will send forth the hand, if in his calamity to them a cry for help.
25 If I wept not for him being hard of day: my soul was grieved for the needy.
26 For I hoped for good and evil will come: and I shall wait for light and darkness will come.
27 My bowels boiled, and were not silent: the days of affliction anticipated me.
28 I went darkened without warmth: I rose up, I shall cry in the convocation.
29 I was a brother to jackals, and a companion to the daughters of the ostrich.
30 My skin was black from above me, and my bones burnt from heat
31 And my harp will be for mourning, and my pipe for the voice of those weeping.

JOB CHAPTER 31

1 I cut out a covenant for mine eyes; and why shall I show myself attentive to a virgin?
2 And what the portion of God from above? and the inheritance of the Almighty from the heights?
3 Is not destruction to the evil one? and strangeness to those working iniquity?
4 Will he not see my way, and number all my steps?
5 If I went with vanity, and my foot will haste upon deceit;
6 He shall weigh me in balances of justice, and God will know mine integrity.
7 If my going will incline from the way, and my heart went after mine eyes, and a blemish did cleave upon my hands:
8 I will sow and another shall eat; and my offspring shall be rooted up.
9 If my heart was seduced by woman, and I laid wait at the door of my neighbor;
10 My wife shall grind for another, and others shall bow down upon her.
11 For this is crime, and this is iniquity for the judges.
12 For it is a fire; it will devour even to destruction, and will root out upon all mine increase.
13 If I shall despise the judgment of my servant and my maid in their contending with me;
14 And what shall I do when God shall rise up? And when he shall review, what shall I turn back to him?
15 Did not he making me in the womb, make him? And he will prepare us in one belly.
16 If I shall withhold from the desire of the poor, and cause the eyes of the widow to fail;
17 And eating my morsel alone, and the orphan ate not from it;
18 (For from my youth he grew up to me as a father, and I shall guide her from my mother's womb;)
19 If I shall see one perishing from not being clothed, and no covering to the needy;
20 If his loins did not praise me, and he will be warmed from the fleece of my sheep
21 If I lifted up my hand against the orphan when I shall see, my help in the gate:
22 My shoulder shall fall from its shoulder-blade, and mine, arm shall be broken from the bone.
23 For the destruction of God is a terror to me, and from his lifting up I shall not prevail.
24 If I set gold my hope, and said to gold, My trust;
25 If I shall rejoice because of the Multitude of my riches, and because my hand found much;
26 If I shall see the light when it shall shine, and the moon going in splendor;
27 And my heart will be seduced in secret, and my hand shall kiss to my mouth:
28 Also this an iniquity for the judges: for I lied to God from above.
29 If I shall rejoice in the destruction of him hating me, and I exalted when evil found him:
30 And I gave not my palate to sin to ask in cursing his soul.
31 If the men of my tent said not, Who will give from his flesh? We shall not be satisfied.
32 The stranger shall not lodge without: I shall open my doors to the traveler.
33 If I covered my transgression, as man, to hide mine iniquity in my bosom:
34 If I, shall fear a great multitude, and the contempt of families terrify me, and I will be silent and not go out of my door.
35 Who will give to me hearing to me.? Behold, my sign, the Almighty will answer me, and the man contending with me wrote a book.
36 If not, I shall lift it up upon my shoulder, I will bind it a crown to me
37 The number of my steps I shall announce to him: as a leader I shall draw near to him.
38 If my land shall cry against me, and its, furrows shall weep together;
39 If I ate its strength without silver, and caused its possessors to expire:
40 The thorn shall come forth, instead of wheat, and the weed instead of barley. The words of Job were completed

JOB CHAPTER 32

1 And these three men will cease from answering Job, for he is just in his eyes.

2 And the anger of Elihu will kindle, son of Barachel the Buzite, from the family of Ram: against Job was, his anger kindled, for his justifying his soul above God.

3 And against his three friends was his anger kindled, because they, found not an answer, and they will condemn Job.

4 And Elihu waited for Job in words, for they were old for days above him.

5 And Elihu will see that not an Answer in the mouth of the three men, and his anger will kindle,

6 And Elihu, the son of Barachel the Buzite will answer and say, I few for days, and ye old men; for this I was afraid, and I shall fear showing you my knowledge.

7 I said, days shall speak, and multitude of years shall make known wisdom.

8 But it is a spirit in man, and the breath of the Almighty will cause them to understand.

9 Not the many will be wise: and old men understand judgment.

10 For this, I said, Hear to me; I also will show my knowledge.

11 Behold, I waited for your words, giving ear even to your understandings while ye will search out words.

12 And I will show myself attentive even to you, and behold, none from you confuting to Job, answering his words.

13 Lest ye shall say, We found wisdom: God will thrust him, not man.

14 And he arranged not words against me: and I will not turn back to him with your words.

15 They were confounded; they answered no more: they removed words from themselves.

16 And I waited, (for they will not speak, for they stood, they answered no more:)

17 I also will answer my part, I also will show my knowledge.

18 For I was filled with words, the spirit of my belly pressed upon me.

19 Behold, my belly as wine it will not open; it will break open as new wine skins.

20 I will speak, and it will breathe to me: I will open my lips and answer.

21 Not now shall I lift up the face of man, and I shall not flatter to man.

22 For I knew not, shall I flatter; for a little while, he making me will take me away.

JOB CHAPTER 33

1 And yet hear now, O Job, my speech, and give ear to all my words.

2 Behold, now, I opened my mouth, my tongue spake in my palate.

3 My sayings the uprightness of my heart, and my lips spake knowledge purely.

4 The spirit of God made me, and the breath of the Almighty will cause me to live.

5 If thou shalt be able to turn back to me, set in order before me, stand forth.

6 Behold, I am according to thy mouth for God: from clay was I also broken off

7 Behold, my terror shall not make thee afraid, and my hand shall not be heavy upon thee.

8 Surely thou spakest in mine ear and I will hear the voice of thy words.

9 I am clean without transgression; I am fair, and no iniquity to me.

10 Behold, he will find enmity against me, and he will reckon me for an enemy to him.

11 He will set my feet in the stocks, he will watch all my paths.

12 Behold, this thou wert not just: I will answer thee, for God will be great above man.

13 Wherefore didst thou contend against him? for he will not answer all his words.

14 For God will speak at once, and at a second time, and he shall not regard it.

15 In a dream, in a vision of the night, in the falling of deep sleep upon men, in slumbers upon the bed;

16 Then he will uncover the ear of men, and will seal in their instruction,

17 To remove man from working, and he will bide pride from man.

18 He will keep back his soul from the pit, and his life from passing away by the spear.

19 And he was chastened with pain upon his bed, and the multitude of his bones perpetually.

20 His life loathed bread, and his soul food of desire.

22 And his soul will draw near to the pit, and his life to the dead.

23 If there is a messenger upon him, an interpreter, one from a thousand, to announce to man his uprightness:

24 And he will compassionate him and say, Deliver him from going down to the pit: I found an expiation.

25 His flesh revived above a youth: he shall turn back to the days of his childhood.

26 He shall pray to God and he shall receive him into favor: and he shall see his face with rejoicing, and he will turn back to man his justice.

27 He will look upon men, and he shall say, I sinned, and I perverted the right, and it was not fitting to me;

28 Redeem my soul from passing into the pit, and my life shall look upon light

29 Behold, all these God will work twice, thrice, with man,

30 To turn back his soul from the pit, to enlighten with the light of the living.

31 Attend, O Job, hear to me: be silent and I will speak

32 If there be words, turn back to me: speak, for I desired to justify thee.

33 If not, hear thou to me: be silent, and I shall teach thee wisdom.

JOB CHAPTER 34

1 And Elihu will answer and say,

2 Hear, ye wise, my words; and ye knowing, give ear to me.

3 For the ear will try words, and the palate will taste of food

4 We will choose to us judgment: we shall know between ourselves what is good.

5 For Job said, I was just: and God removed my judgment

6 Shall I speak falsehood against my judgment? mine arrow was desperate without transgression.

7 What man as Job he will drink scoffing as water?

8 Going for company with those working iniquity, and to go with men of injustice?

9 For he said, It will not profit a man in delighting himself with God.

10 For this, ye men of heart, hear to me: far be it to God from doing evil; and the Almighty from iniquity.

11 For the work of man shall he recompense to him, and a man shall find himself according to his way.

12 Also surely God will not do evil, and the Almighty will not pervert judgment

13 Who committed to him the earth? and who set up the habitable globe all of it?

14 If he will set his heart to him, he will gather his spirit and his breath to him;

15 All flesh shall expire together, and man shall turn back to dust

16 If now understanding, hear this: give ear to the voice of my words.

17 Also shall he hating judgment, rule? and if thou wilt condemn the just mighty one?

18 Saying to the king, Wickedness; (Belial) to nobles, Injustice.

19 Who accepted not the face of chiefs, and looked not upon the rich one before the poor: for his hand made all of them.

20 In a moment shall they die, and the middle of the night shall the people be moved and pass away: and the mighty shall be removed with not a hand.

21 For his eyes are upon the ways of man, and he will see all his steps.

22 Not darkness and not the shadow of death for those working iniquity to hide there.

23 For he will not yet set upon man to go to God in judgment

24 He shall break in pieces the mighty, not searching out, and he will set others in their stead.

25 For this he will know their work, and he turned the night, and they will be crushed.

26 He struck them for the unjust in the place of those seeing;

27 Who therefore turned away from after him, and they consider not all his ways,

28 To cause the cry of the poor one to come to him, and he will hear the cry of the humble.

29 And he will give quiet, and who shall disturb? and he will hide the face, and who shall look upon him? and against a nation and against man wholly:

30 From the reigning of the profane man from the people being snared.

31 For he said to God, I was lifted up, I will pervert no more.

32 Besides I shall see thou wilt teach it to me: if I did iniquity, I will not add.

33 Is it with thee? he will requite it, if thou didst refuse, if thou shalt choose, and not I: and what thou knewest, speak.

34 Men of heart will say to me, and a wise man heard to me.

35 Job will speak not with knowledge, and his word not with understanding.

36 My father, Job shall be tried even to the end, for turning back with men of iniquity.

37 He will add rebellion to his sin; he will clap between us, and he will multiply his words to God.

JOB CHAPTER 35

1 And Elihu will answer and say,

2 Didst thou reckon this for judgment thou saidst, My justice is above God?

3 For thou wilt say, What shall it profit to thee? what shall I profit from my sin?

4 I will turn back words to thee, and thy companions with thee.

5 Look upon the heavens and see; behold the clouds, they were high above thee.

6 If thou sinnedst, what wilt thou do against him? and thy transgressions were multiplied, what wilt thou do to him?

7 If thou wert just, what wilt thou give to him? or what shall he take from thy hand?

8 Thy injustice to a man as thou: and thy justice to the son of man.

9 From the multitude of oppressions they will cry out: they will cry out from the arm of the many.

10 And not saying, Where is God making me? he gave songs in the night

11 And who teacheth us from the cattle of the earth, and he will make us wise above the birds of the heavens?

12 Then they will cry, and he will not answer from the face of the pride of the evil.

13 Also God will not hear vanity, and the Almighty will not look upon it

14 Also if thou shalt say thou wilt not see him, judgment is before him, and thou shalt wait for him.

15 And now that it is not, he reviewed his anger, and he knew not in great transgression.

16 And Job will open his mouth in vain; he will bind together words without knowledge.

JOB CHAPTER 36

1 And Elihu will add and say,

2 Wait for me a little, and I will show thee, for yet words for God.

3 I will lift up my knowledge from far off, and to him making me, I will give justice.

4 For truly my words are not falsehood: the perfect of knowledge with thee.

5 Behold, God is mighty, and he will not despise: mighty in strength of heart

6 He will not save alive the unjust one, and he will give the judgment of the poor.

7 He will not take off his eyes from the just: and with kings upon the throne, and he will seat them for glory, and they shall be exalted.

8 And they being bound in fetters shall be taken in the cords of affliction.

9 And he will announce to them their work, and their transgressions, for they will be strong.

10 And he will uncover their ear for instruction, and he will say that they shall turn back from iniquity.

11 If they will hear and will serve him, they shall finish their days in good, and their years in delights.

12 And if they will not hear, they shall pass away by the spear, and they shall expire without knowledge.

13 And the profane of heart shall set up anger: they will not cry if he bound them.

14 Their soul will die in youth, and their life among the consecrated.

15 He will deliver the poor one in his affliction, and he will uncover their ear in oppression.

16 And also he moved thee from the mouth of the enemy to a broad, not straight place; and thy table came. down full of fatness.

17 And thou didst fill up the judgment of the unjust one; judgment and right shall hold together.

18 Because of wrath, lest he shall remove thee with smiting, and a multitude of covering shall not turn thee away.

19 Will he value thy riches? not gold and all the powers of thy strength.

21 Watch thyself; thou shalt not turn to iniquity: for upon this thou didst choose rather than affliction.

22 Behold, God will exalt by his power: who teaches like him?

23 Who charged upon him his way? and who said, Thou didst iniquity?

24 Remember that thou shalt magnify his work which men beheld.

26 Behold, God is great, and we shall not know the number of his years, and it was not searched out

27 For he will withhold the drops of water: they will pour out rain for its vapor.

28 Which the clouds will shake out; they will drop an abundance upon man.

29 Also if he shall understand the spreadings of the cloud, the noise of his booth.

30 Behold, he spread upon it his light, and he covered the roots of the sea.

31 For by them he will judge the peoples; he will give food to abundance.

32 With the hands be covered the light; and he commanded concerning it with a mark.

33 His thunder will announce concerning him, and the flock also concerning the going up.

JOB CHAPTER 37

1 Also at this my heart shall tremble, and it will leap from its place.

2 Hearing, hear ye, to the noise of his voice, and the growling going out from his mouth.

3 He will let it go free under all the heavens, and his light upon the wings of the earth.

4 After him a voice shall rear; he will thunder with the voice of his majesty: and he will not leave them behind when his voice shall be heard.

5 God will thunder with his voice of wonder, doing great things, and we shall not know.

6 For he will say to the snow, Be it on earth; and to the shower of rain, and to the shower of the rains of his strength.

7 He will seal in the hand of every man, for all men to know his work.

8 And the beast shall go into the covert, and shall dwell in its habitation.

9 From the chamber shall come forth the whirlwind, and cold from the scatterings.

10 From the breath of God ice will be given, and the breadth of the waters in being straitened.

11 Also by watering he will cast down the cloud: he will scatter the cloud of his light:

12 Being turned by his guidance to their doing all that he commanded them upon the face of the habitable globe of the earth.

13 If for the rod, if for his land, if for mercy, it shall find him.

14 Give ear to this, O Job: stand and consider the wonders of God.

15 Shalt thou know in God's setting upon them, and he caused the light of his cloud to shine?

16 Shalt thou know upon the poisings of the cloud, the wonders of the complete of knowledges?

17 That thy garments are warm in quieting the earth from the south?

18 Wilt thou spread out with him to the clouds, strong as the sight of a melted mass?

19 Make known to us what we shall say to him we shall not set in order from the face of darkness.

20 Shall it be recounted to him that I shall speak? If a man spake, then shall he be swallowed down.

21 And now they saw not the bright light that is in the clouds: and the wind passed over and it will cleanse them.
22 From the north, gold shall come: upon God terrible majesty.
23 The Almighty we found not: great of power and judgment, and much justice, he will not afflict
24 For this, men shall fear him: he will not see all the wise of heart.

JOB CHAPTER 38

1 And Jehovah will answer Job from the whirlwind, and he will say,
2 Who this darkening counsel in words without knowledge?
3 Gird now thy loins as a man; and I will ask thee, and make thou known to me.
4 Where wort thou in my founding the earth? Announce, if thou knewest understanding.
5 Who set its measures, if thou shalt know? or who stretched the line upon it?
6 Upon what were its bases impressed? or who placed its corner-stone?
7 In the rejoicing together of the stars of morning, and all the sons of God will shout for joy?
8 And he will hedge in the sea with doors in its breaking forth, going forth from the womb.
9 In my making the cloud its garment, and darkness its bandage:
10 And I shall break upon it my law, and I shall set bars and doors;
11 And saying, Even to this shalt thou come, and thou shalt not add: and here in the pride of thy waves, stand thou.
12 In thy days didst thou command the morning? and didst thou make the dawning know its place?
13 To take hold upon the wings of the earth, and the unjust shall be shaken out of it?
14 It shall be turned as clay to the seal; and they shall stand as clothing.
15 And their light shall be withheld from the unjust, and the high arm shall be broken.
16 Didst thou go even to the fountains of the sea? and didst thou go about in searching the depth?
17 Were the gates of death uncovered to thee? and shalt thou see the gates of the shadow of death?
18 Wilt thou consider even to the breadth of the earth? Announce if thou knewest all of it
19 Where the way light shall dwell? and darkness, where its place?
20 That thou shalt take it to its bound, and that thou shalt understand the beaten paths of its house?
21 Knewest thou? for shalt thou then be born, and the number of thy days great?
22 Didst thou come into the treasures of snow? and shalt thou see the treasures of hail,
23 Which I kept back for the time of straits, for the day of encounter and war?
24 Where that way the light will divide, it will scatter the east wind upon the earth?
25 Who divided a channel for the overflowing, and a way for the lightning of the voices?
26 To cause it to rain upon the earth, not a man; the wilderness not a man in it?
27 To satisfy the desolation and burning, and to cause the springing up of the finding of the tender grass?
28 Is there a father to the rain? or who begat the reservoirs of the dew?
29 From whose womb came forth the ice? and the hoarfrost of the heavens, who brought it forth?
30 The waters shall be hid as a stone, and the face of the depth will be taken.
31 Wilt thou bind the bands of the cluster, or wilt thou open the cords of Orion?
32 Wilt thou bring forth the twelve signs in its time? and the great bear and his sons, wilt thou guide them?
33 Knewest thou the laws of the heavens? or wilt thou set up its dominion in the earth?
34 Wilt thou lift up thy voice to the cloud, and abundance of waters shall cover thee?
35 Shalt thou send lightnings, and shall they go and shall they say to thee, Behold us?
36 Who put wisdom in the reins? or who gave understanding to the mind?
37 Who shall number the clouds in wisdom? and who shall cause the bottles of heaven to lie down?
38 In the pouring out of the dust into a melted mass, and the clods will adhere 39 Wilt thou hunt the prey for the lion? and wilt thou fill up the life of the young lions?
40 For they will sink down in the dwellings; they will dwell in the thicket to lie in wait
41 Who will prepare for the raven his food? for his young will cry to God; they will wander without food.

JOB CHAPTER 39

1 Knewest thou the time of the bringing forth of the wild goats of the rock? and wilt thou watch the bearing of the hinds?
2 Wilt thou number the months they shall fill up? and didst thou know the time of their bringing forth?
3 They will bow, they will bring forth their children, they will cast forth their pains.
4 Their sons will be fat, they will increase with grain; they will go forth and not turn back to them.
5 Who sent the wild ass free? and who opened the bonds of the wild ass?
6 To whom did I set the desert his house, and the salt land his dwellings?
7 He will laugh at the multitude of the city; he will not hear the noise of him driving.
8 The searching out of the mountains his pasture, and he will seek after every green thing.

9 Will the buffalo be willing to serve thee, or will he lodge by thy stall?

10 Wilt thou bind the buffalo in the furrow with cords, or will he harrow the valleys after thee?

11 Wilt thou trust in him because great his strength? and wilt thou leave to him thy labor?

12 Wilt thou believe in him that he will turn back thy seed and gather to thy threshing-floor?

13 The wings of ostriches exulted; and the wing-feather of the stork and the pinion.

14 For she will leave her eggs to the earth, and she will warm them in the dust;

15 And she will forget that the foot will press it, and the beast of the field will crush it

16 She made hard to her sons as not to her: her labor in vain without fear;

17 For God caused her to forget wisdom, and he divided not to her in understanding.

18 For the time she will lash herself up upon height, she will laugh at the horse and at his rider.

19 Wilt thou give strength to the horse? wilt thou clothe his neck with thunder?

20 Wilt thou cause him to tremble as the locust? the glory of his snorting is terror.

21 They will dig in the valley, and he will rejoice in strength: he will go forth to the meeting of the weapon.

22 He will laugh at fear, and he will not be dismayed; and he will not turn back from the face of the sword.

23 The quiver will give forth a whizzing against him, the flame of the spear and the javelin.

24 With leaping and rage he will swallow the earth; and he will not believe that it is the voice of the trumpet

25 He will say according to the multitude of the trumpet, Aha! and he will smell the battle from far off, the thunder of the chiefs, and the war cry.

26 From thy understanding will the hawk mount upwards? will it stretch its wings to the south?

27 If at thy mouth the eagle will lift itself up, and if it will raise up its nest?

28 She will dwell in the rock, and she will lodge upon the cliff of the rock and the fortress.

29 From thence it sought food; far off shall its eyes behold.

30 Her young shall suck up the blood: and where the wounded, there is she.

JOB CHAPTER 40

1 And Jehovah will answer Job, and he will say,

2 Shall he contending with the Almighty, instruct? he reproving God shall answer it

3 And Job will answer Jehovah, and say,

4 Behold, I was vile; what shall I turn back to thee? I put my hand to my mouth.

5 Once I sake, and I will not answer: and twice, and I will not add.

6 And Jehovah will answer Job from the whirlwind, and he will say,

7 Gird up now thy loins as a man; I will ask thee, and do thou make known to me.

8 Wilt thou also annul my judgment? wilt thou condemn me so that thou shalt be just?

9 And if an arm to thee as God? and with thy voice wilt thou thunder as he?

10 Deck thyself now with majesty and grandeur, and thou shalt put on ornament and splendor.

11 Scatter the overflowings of thine anger, and see every proud one and bring him low.

12 See every proud one, and humble him; and crush the unjust in their place.

14 And also I will confess to thee that thy right hand shall save for thee.

15 Behold now, the great beast which I made with thee; he will eat grass as an ox.

17 He will bend his tail as a cedar; the sinews of his thighs will be woven together.

18 His bones tubes of brass; his bones as a hammered bar of iron.

19 He the chief of the ways of God: he making him, his sword will reach.

20 For the mountains shall lift up produce for him, and all the beasts of the field shall play there.

21 He will lie down under the shades, in the covering of the reed and marsh.

23 Behold, he will oppress a river, and he will not spring up: he will trust that Jordan burst forth into his mouth.

24 He will take it with his eyes: his nose will pierce through snares.

JOB CHAPTER 41

1 Wilt thou draw out the crocodile with a hook and with a cord wilt thou press down his tongue?

2 Wilt thou put a rope in his nose? and wilt thou hollow out his jaw with a thorn?

3 Will he multiply supplications to thee? will he speak soft things to thee?

4 Will he cut out a covenant with thee? wilt thou take him for a servant forever?

5 Wilt thou play with him as a bird? and wilt thou bind him for thy maidens?

6 Shall companions give a feast upon him? shall they divide him between the Canaanites?

7 Wilt thou fill his skin with pointed weapons? and his head with fish spears?

8 Put thy hand upon him; remember the battle, thou shalt not add.

9 Behold, his hope was false: shall he not be cast down at his sight?

10 None fierce that he will rouse him up: and who is he will stand before me?

11 Who anticipated me, and I will recompense? under all the heavens it is to me.

12 I will not be silent for him, and the word of powers and the beauty of his preparation.

15 Pride of strong shields shut up with a seal of straitness.

16 One shall touch upon another, and the wind shall not come between them.

17 They will adhere each in his brotherhood, they will hold together, and they will not be separated.

18 His sneezings a light will shine, and his eyes as the eyelashes of the dawning of day.

21 His soul will kindle coals, and a flame will go forth from his mouth.

22 In his neck will lodge strength, and terror will leap before him.

23 The flaps of his flesh adhered: it will press upon him; it will not be moved.

24 His heart will press as a stone; and it will press as the under millstone.

25 His lifting up, the mighty will be stirred up: from breaking they shall purify themselves.

26 The sword reaching him, shall not be raised up: the spear, the dart, and the coat of mail.

27 He will reckon iron for straw, and brass for wood of rottenness

28 The son of the bow shall not cause him to flee: sling-stones were turned to him for stubble.

29 The bludgeon was reckoned to him for stubble: and he will laugh at the shaking of the javelin.

30 Sharpnesses of the potsherd under him: he will spread a trench upon the mire.

31 He will cause the deep to boil as a pot: he will set the sea as ointment

32 He will cause a beaten path to shine after him: the deep will be reckoned to be hoary.

33 None upon the dust being like him; he made him without fear.

34 He will see every thing high: he is king over all the sons of pride.

JOB CHAPTER 42

1 And Job will answer Jehovah, and he will say,

2 I knew that thou wilt be able to do all, and counsel shall not be restrained from thee.

3 Who this hiding counsel without knowledge? for this, I announced, and I shall not understand; wonders above me, and I shall not know.

4 Hear, now, and I will speak: I will ask thee and make thou known to me.

5 By the hearing of the ear I heard of thee: and now mine eyes saw thee:

6 For this, I shall melt away, and I lamented in dust and ashes.

7 And it will be after Jehovah spake these words to Job, and Jehovah will say to Eliphaz the Temanite, Mine anger was kindled against thee, and against thy two friends: for ye spake not the right before me as my servant Job.

8 And now take to you seven bullocks and seven rams, and go to my servant Job, and bring up a burnt-offering for yourselves; and my servant Job shall pray for you: for his face I will accept, so as not to do with you for folly, for ye spake not to me the right as my servant Job.

9 And Eliphaz the Temanite, and Bildad the Shuhite, Zophar the Naamathite, will go, and they will do according as God Jehovah spake: and Jehovah will accept the face of Job.

10 And Jehovah turned back the captivity of Job in his praying for his friends: and Jehovah added all which was to Job, to the double.

11 And there will come to him all his brethren and all his sisters, and all knowing him before; and they will eat bread with him in his house: and they will deplore for him, and they will comfort him upon all the evil which Jehovah brought upon him: and they will give to him tack one weight, and each one ring of gold.

12 And Jehovah blessed the latter state of Job more than his beginning: and there will be to him fourteen thousand sheep, and six thousand camels, and a thousand yoke of oxen, and a thousand she-asses.

13 And there will be to him seven sons and three daughters.

14 And he will call the name of the one, Jemima; and the name of the second, Kezia; and the name of the third, Keren-Happuch.

15 And women were not found fair as the daughters of Job, in all the land: and their father will give to them an inheritance in the midst of their brethren.

16 And Job will live after this a hundred and forty years, and he will see his sons, and his sons' sons, four generations.

17 And Job will die, old and full of days.

THE SCROLL OF THE SONG OF SOLOMON

Song of Songs or Song for Solomon
Hebrew title: Megilath Shir Hashirim
Estimated Range of Dating: 4th to 3rd centuries B.C.

(The Song of Songs, also Song of Solomon or Canticles (Hebrew: Shir Hashirim, Greek and Ancient Greek: Asma Asmaton; Latin: Canticum Canticorum), is one of the megillot (scrolls) found in the last section of the Tanakh, known as the Ketuvim (or "Writings"), and a book of the Old Testament. The Song of Songs is unique within the Hebrew Bible: it shows no interest in Law or Covenant or the God of Israel, nor does it teach or explore wisdom like Proverbs or Ecclesiastes (although it does have some affinities to wisdom literature, as the ascription to Solomon indicates); instead, it celebrates sexual love, giving "the voices of two lovers, praising each other, yearning for each other, proffering invitations to enjoy". The two are in harmony, each desiring the other and rejoicing in sexual intimacy; the women of Jerusalem form a chorus to the lovers, functioning as an audience whose participation in the lovers' erotic encounters facilitates the participation of the reader.

The Song offers no clue to its author or to the date, place, or circumstances of its composition. The superscription states that it is "Solomon's", but even if this is meant to identify the author, it cannot be read as strictly as a similar modern statement. The most reliable evidence for its date is its language: Aramaic gradually replaced Hebrew after the end of the Babylonian exile in the late 6th century BC, and the evidence of vocabulary, morphology, idiom and syntax clearly points to a late date, centuries after King Solomon to whom it is traditionally attributed.

It has parallels with Mesopotamian and Egyptian love poetry from the first half of the 1st millennium, and with the pastoral idylls of Theocritus, a Greek poet who wrote in the first half of the 3rd century BC; as a result of these conflicting signs, speculation ranges from the 10th to the 2nd centuries BC, with the language supporting a date around the 3rd century.

There is widespread consensus that, although the book has no plot, it does have what can be called a framework, as indicated by the links between its beginning and end. Beyond this, however, there appears to be little agreement and attempts to find a structure can only be indicative:

- Introduction (1:1–6)
- Dialogue between the lovers (1:7–2:7)
- The woman recalls a visit from her lover (2:8–17)
- The woman addresses the daughters of Zion (3:1–5)
- Sighting a royal wedding procession (3:6–11)
- The man describes his lover's beauty (4:1–5:1)
- The woman addresses the daughters of Jerusalem (5:2–6:4)
- The man describes his lover, who visits him (6:5–12)
- Observers describe the woman's beauty (6:13–8:4)
- Appendix (8:5–14)

In modern Judaism the Song is read on the Sabbath during the Passover, which marks the beginning of the grain harvest as well as commemorating the Exodus from Egypt. Jewish tradition reads it as an allegory of the relationship between God and Israel, Christianity as an allegory of Christ and his "bride", the Church.)

SONG OF SOLOMON CHAPTER 1

1 The song of songs which is to Solomon.

2 He shall kiss me from the kisses of his mouth: for thy good breasts are above wine.

3 To the odor of the good ointments thy name shall be poured forth an ointment; for this, the maidens loved thee.

4 Draw me, we will run after thee: the king brought me to his chambers: we will exult and rejoice in thee, we will remember thy breasts above wine: the upright loved thee.

5 I am black and beautiful, O daughters of Jerusalem, as the tents of Kedar, as the curtains of Solomon.

6 Thou shalt not see me, I am black; the sun searched me: my mother's sons were angry with me; they set me to watch the vineyards; my vineyard I watched not for me.

7 Announce to me, thou whom my soul loved, where thou wilt feed, where thou wilt lie down at noon: wherefore shall I be as he covered by the herds of thy companions.

8 If thou shalt not know for thyself, O fair one among women, come forth for thyself at the heels of the flock, and feed thy kids by the shepherds' tents.

9 To my mares in Pharaoh's chariots I likened thee, O my neighbor.

10 Thy cheeks were beautiful with with rows, thy neck with strings of pearls.

11 We will make for thee rows of gold, with marks of silver.

12 The king yet in his divan, my spikenard gave its odor.

13 A bundle of myrrh my beloved to me; he shall lodge between my breasts.

14 A cluster of cypress my beloved to me in the vineyards of the kids' fountain.

16 Behold thee beautiful, my beloved, also pleasant: also our bed is green.

17 The walls of our houses cedars, our carved ceilings, cypresses.

SONG OF SOLOMON CHAPTER 2

1 I am the flower of the plain, the lily of the valleys

2 As the lily between thorns, so is my friend between the daughters.

3 As the apple among the trees of the forest, so my beloved between the sons. In his shadow I delighted, and I sat down, and his fruit was sweet to my palate.

4 He brought me to the house of wine, and his banner over me was love.

5 Sustain me with cakes, and refresh me with apples, for I am pierced of love.

7 I adjured you, O daughters of Jerusalem, by the roes, or by the hinds of the field, if ye shall awake and if ye shall arouse love till he shall desire.

8 The voice of my beloved I behold him coming leaping upon the mountains, springing upon the hills

9 My beloved is like to the roe or to the fawn of the hinds: behold him standing behind our wall looking forth from the windows, glancing from the lattices.

10 My beloved answered and said to me, Rise up for thyself, my friend, my beautiful one, and go for thyself.

11 For behold, the winter passed. away, the rain glided away; it went for itself.

12 The flowers were seen in the earth; the time of pruning came, and the voice of the turtle-dove was heard in our land.

13 The fig tree ripened its unripe figs, and the vines are in blossom; they gave an odor. Rise up, my friend, my beautiful one, and go for thyself.

14 My dove in the refuges of the rock, in the biding of the steep mountain: cause me to see thy form, cause me to hear thy voice; for thy voice is sweet and thy form becoming.

15 Seize for us the foxes, the little foxes destroying the vineyards: and our vineyards are in blossom.

16 My beloved to me, and I to him: he feeding among the lilies.

17 Until the day shall breathe and the shadows fled away, turn, thou, it being likened to thee, my beloved, to the roe, or to the fawn of the hind upon the mountains of section.

SONG OF SOLOMON CHAPTER 3

1 Upon my bed in the night I sought him whom my soul loved: I sought him, and I found him not

2 I will arise now, and I will go round about in the city; in the streets, and in the broad places I will seek him whom my soul loved. I sought him, and I found him not

3 They watching going about in the city, found me: Saw ye him that my soul loved?

4 As a little I passed from them till I found him my soul loved: I held him fast, and I shall not let him go till I brought him into my mother's house, and to the chamber of her conceiving me.

5 I adjured you, O daughters of Jerusalem, by the roes, and by the hinds of the field, if ye shall awake and if ye shall arouse love till he shall desire.

6 Who is this coming up from the desert as columns of smoke of burning incense, of myrrh and frankincense from all the powder of the trader.

7 Behold his bed of Solomon: sixty strong ones round about it from the strong ones of Israel.

8 All of them holding the sword, being trained to war: each his sword upon his thigh from terror in the night

9 King Solomon made for himself a litter from the woods of Lebanon.

10 Its pillars he made silver, its support gold, its seat reddish purple, its midst tesselated with love from the daughters of Jerusalem.

11 Go forth, ye daughters of Zion, and look upon king Solomon; upon the crown his mother crowned to him in the day of his espousals, and in the day of the gladness of his heart

SONG OF SOLOMON CHAPTER 4

1 Behold thee beautiful, my friend, behold thee beautiful; thine eyes doves' from behind to thy veil: thy hair as a herd of goats which lay down from mount Gilead.

2 Thy teeth as a herd of the shorn which came up from the washing; all of them bearing twins, and none barren among them.

3 As a scarlet thread thy lips, and thy speech becoming: as a piece of pomegranate, thy temples from behind thy veil.

4 As the tower of David thy neck, built for the weapons; a thousand shields hung upon it, all shields of the powerful.

5 Thy two breasts as two fawns, twins of the roe deer feeding among the lilies.

6 Till the day shall breathe, and the shadows fled away, I will go for myself to the mountain of myrrh, and to the hill of Lebanon.

7 All of thee beautiful, my friend, and no blemish in thee.

8 Thou shalt come with me from Lebanon, O bride, with me from Lebanon: thou shalt go round about from the head of faith, from the head of Shenir and Hermon, from the dwellings of lions, from the mountains of panthers.

9 Thou didst rob me of the heart, my sister, O bride; thou didst rob me of the heart with one of thine eyes, with one necklace of thy neck.

10 How beautiful were thy breasts, my sister, O bride! how good were thy breasts above wine, and the odor of thine ointments above all spices.

11 Thy lips will drop honey droppings, O bride: honey and milk under thy tongue, and the odor of thy garments as the odor of Lebanon.

13 Thy sendings forth a park of pomegranates, with most precious fruits, cypresses with spikenards,

14 Spikenard and saffron; the reed and cinnamon, with all the woods of Lebanon; myrrh and aloes, with all the heads of spices.

16 Awake, O north wind; and come, thou south, blow upon my garden; its spices shall flow out. My beloved shall come to his garden, and he shall eat his most precious fruits.

SONG OF SOLOMON CHAPTER 5

1 I Came to my garden, my sister, O spouse: I gathered my myrrh with my spices; I ate my droppings with my honey; I drank my wine with my milk: Eat, O friends; drink ye, and drink to the full, O beloved ones.

2 I slept and my heart waked: the voice of my beloved knocks at the door; Open to me, my sister, my friend, my dove, my perfect one: my head was filled with dew, my locks with the drops of the night

3 I put off my tunic, and how shall I put it on? I washed my feet; how shall I defile them?

4 My beloved sent his hand from the hole, and my bowels were disquieted for him.

5 I arose to open to my beloved, and my hands dropped myrrh, and my fingers, myrrh overflowing upon the hands of the bolt

6 I opened to my beloved, and my beloved turned about, he passed away: my soul went forth in his speaking: I sought and I found him not; I called him and he answered me not

7 They watching going round about in the city, found me; they struck me, they wounded me: they watching the wall took away my veil from me.

8 I adjured you, O daughters of Jerusalem, if ye shall find my beloved, what ye shall announce to him: I am pierced by love.

10 My beloved is white and ruddy, bearing the standard of ten thousand.

12 His eyes as doves upon channels of waters washed with milk, sitting upon fulness.

16 His palate, sweetness: he is all loveliness. This my beloved, and this my friend, O daughters of Jerusalem.

SONG OF SOLOMON CHAPTER 6

1 Where went thy beloved, O beautiful one among women? where turned away thy beloved, and we will seek him with thee.

2 My beloved went down to his garden, to the beds of spices, to feed in the gardens, and to gather lilies.

3 I to my beloved, and my beloved to me: he feeding among the lilies.

4 Thou art beautiful my friend, as delight; becoming as Jerusalem, a terror as those being furnished with banners.

5 Turn away thine eyes from before me; they enlarged me: thy hair as a herd of goats which lay down from Gilead.

6 Thy teeth as a herd of sheep which went up from the washing, all of them bearing twins, and none barren among them.

7 As a piece of pomegranate thy temples from behind thy veil.

8 They are sixty queens, and eighty concubines, and maidens no number.

9 She is one, my dove, my perfect one; she is one to her mother, she is the chosen to her bearing her. The daughters saw her and pronounced her happy; the queens and the concubines, and they will praise her.

10 Who this looking forth as the morning, beautiful as the moon, clear as the sun, a terror as those being furnished with banners?

11 I went down into the garden of nuts to look upon the greens of the valley, to see whether the vine was fruitful, whether the pomegranates blossomed.

12 I knew not my soul set me the chariots of my willing people.

13 Turn back, turn back, thou Shulamite; turn back, turn back, and we will look upon thee. What will ye see in the Shulamite? As the stringed instrument of the camps.

SONG OF SOLOMON CHAPTER 7

1 How beautiful were thy steps with shoes, O daughter of a noble! the circuits of thy thighs a necklace, the work of the hands of an artist.

2 Thy navel a bowl of roundness, it will not want mixed wine; thy belly a heap of wheat enclosed with lilies.

3 Thy two breasts as two fawns, twins of the roe-deer.

4 Thy neck as a tower of ivory; thine eyes pools in Heshbon, by the gate of the daughter of many: thy nose as the tower of Lebanon viewing the face of Damascus.

5 Thy head upon thee as Carmel, and the locks of thy head as purple; the King being bound in curls.

6 How beautiful and how pleasant thou wert, O love, in delights!

7 This thy height was like to a palm tree, and thy breasts to clusters.

8 I said, I will go up upon the palm tree, I will hold fast upon its branches: and now thy breasts shall be as clusters of the vine, and the odor of thy nose as apples.

9 And thy palate as good wine going to my beloved for uprightness, causing the lips of the sleeping to flow softly.

10 I to my beloved, and upon me his desire.

11 Come, my beloved, we will go forth to the field; we will lodge in the villages.

12 We will rise early to the vineyards; we will see if the vine was fruitful, the vine blossoms opened, the pomegranates blossomed: there will I give my beloved to thee.

13 The mandrakes gave an odor, and upon our entrances all precious things, new also old, my beloved, I laid up for thee.

SONG OF SOLOMON CHAPTER 8

1 Who will give thee as a brother to me, sucking the breasts of my mother? I shall find thee without, I shall kiss thee; also they shall not despise me.

Copyright © 2026 by Lord Henfield, Guildford Scientific Press

2 I will lead thee, I will bring thee to the house of my mother; thou wilt teach me: I will give thee to drink from spiced wine from the new wine of my pomegranate.

3 His left hand under my head, and his right shall embrace me.

4 I adjured you, O daughters of Jerusalem, why will ye awake, and why will ye rouse love till he shall desire?'

5 Who this coming up from the desert, leaning herself upon her beloved? Under the apple tree I aroused thee: there thy mother brought thee forth: there she bearing thee, brought forth .

6 Set me as a seal upon thy heart, as a seal upon thine arm: for love was strong as death; jealousy hard as hades: its flames, flames of fire, flames of Jehovah.

7 Many waters shall not be able to quench love, and rivers shall not overwhelm it: if a man shall give all the riches of his house for love, despising, they shall be despised for him.

8 A little sister to us, and no breasts to her: what shall we do for our sister in the day it shall be spoken for her?

9 If she be a wall, we will build upon her a fortress of silver: and if she is a door we will bind upon her a tablet of cedar.

10 I am a wall, and my breasts as towers: then was I in his eyes as finding peace.

11 A vineyard was to Solomon in the place of a multitude; he gave the vineyards to those watching; each shall bring in its fruit a thousand of silver.

12 My vineyard to me before me: a thousand to thee, O Solomon, and two hundred to those watching its fruit.

13 Thou sitting in the gardens, the companions attending to thy voice: cause thou me to hear.

14 Flee, my beloved, and be it likened to thee to the roe or to the fawn of the hinds upon the mountains of spices.

THE SCROLL OF RUTH

Hebrew title: Megilath Rut
Estimated Range of Dating: 5th–4th centuries B.C.

(The Book of Ruth (Hebrew: Megilath Rut, "the Scroll of Ruth", one of the Five Megillot) is included in the third division, or the Writings (Ketuvim), of the Hebrew Bible; in most Christian canons it is treated as a history book and placed between Judges and 1 Samuel. It is one of the shortest books in both the Jewish and Christian holy books, consisting of only four chapters. The name Ruth means compassion, pity, remorse, sorrow or grief. It is unknown who wrote the book. It is traditionally ascribed to the prophet Samuel, but Ruth's identity as a non-Israelite and the stress on the need for an inclusive attitude towards foreigners suggests an origin in the fifth century BC, when intermarriage had become controversial (as seen in Ezra 9:1 and Nehemiah 13:1). A substantial number of scholars therefore date it to the Persian period (5th–4th centuries BC). The genealogy that concludes the book is believed to be a post-exilic Priestly addition, as it adds nothing to the plot; nevertheless, it is carefully crafted and integrates the book into the history of Israel running from Genesis to Kings.

Contents and Structure
The book is structured in four chapters:
1. Prologue and Problem: Death and Emptiness (1:1–22)
A. Setting the scene (1:1–5)
B. Naomi returns home (1:6–18)
C. Arrival of Naomi and Ruth in Bethlehem (1:19–22)
2. Ruth Meets Boaz, Naomi's Relative, on the Harvest Field (2:1–23)
A. Ruth in the field of Boaz (2:1–17)
B. Ruth reports to Naomi (2:18–23)
3. Naomi Sends Ruth to Boaz on the Threshing Floor (3:1–18)
A. Naomi Reveals Her Plan (3:1–5)
B. Ruth at the threshing-floor of Boaz (3:6–15)
C. Ruth reports to Naomi (3:16–18)
4. Resolution and Epilogue: Life and Fullness (4:1–22)
A. Boaz with the men at the gate (4:1–12)
B. A son is born to Ruth (4:13–17)
Genealogical appendix (4:18–22)

The book tells of Ruth accepting the god of the Israelites as her god and the Israelite people as her own. In Ruth 1:16–17, Ruth tells Naomi, her Israelite mother-in-law, "Where you go I will go, and where you stay I will stay. Your people will be my people and your God my God. Where you die I will die, and there I will be buried. May the Lord deal with me, be it ever so severely, if even death separates you and me." The book is held in esteem by Jews who fall under the category of Jews-by-choice, as is evidenced by the considerable presence of Boaz in rabbinic literature. The Book of Ruth also functions liturgically, as it is read during the Jewish holiday of Shavuot ("Weeks").

The book can be read as a political parable relating to issues around the time of Ezra and Nehemiah (the 4th century BC). The realistic nature of the story is established from the start through the names of the participants: the husband and father is Elimelech, meaning "My God is King", and his wife is Naomi, "Pleasing", but after the deaths of her sons Mahlon, "Sickness", and Chilion, "Wasting", she asks to be called Mara, "Bitter". The reference to Moab raises questions, since in the rest of the biblical literature it is associated with hostility to Israel, sexual perversity, and idolatry, and Deuteronomy 23:3–6 excluded an Ammonite or a Moabite from "the congregation of the LORD; even to their tenth generation". Despite this, Ruth the Moabite married a Judahite and even after his death still regarded herself a member of his family; she then married another Judahite and bore him a son who became an ancestor of David. Contrary to the message of Ezra–Nehemiah, where marriages between Jewish men and non-Jewish women were broken up, Ruth teaches that foreigners who convert to Judaism can become good Jews, foreign wives can become exemplary followers of Jewish law, and there is no reason to exclude them or their offspring from the community.)

RUTH CHAPTER 1

1 And it will be in the days of the judging of the judges, and there will be a famine in the land. And a man from the house of bread of Judah will go to sojourn in the field of Moab, he and his wife and his two sons.

2 And the name of the man Elimelech, and the name of his wife, Naomi, and the name of his two sons, Mahlon and Chilion, Ephrathites from the house of bread of Judah. And they will come to the field of Moab and be there.

3 And Elimelech will die, the husband of Naomi; and she will be left, and her two sons.

4 And they will take to them wives from the Moabitesses; the name of the one, Orpah, and the name of the second, Ruth: and they will dwell there about ten years.

5 And Mahlon and Chilioh, also they two, will die; and the woman will be left of her two children and of her husband.

6 And she will arise and her daughters-in-law, and she will turn back from the field of Moab: for she heard in the field of Moab that Jehovah reviewed his people to give bread to them.

7 And she will go forth from the place where she was there, and her two daughters-in-law with her; and they will go in the way to turn back to the land of Judah.

8 And Naomi will say to her two daughters-in-law, Go, turn back each to the house of her mother: Jehovah will do mercy with you according as ye did with the dead, and with me.

9 Jehovah will give to you, and find ye rest, each in the house of her husband And she will kiss to them, and they will lift up their voice and weep.

10 And they will say to her, But with thee we will turn back to thy people.

11 And Naomi will say, Turn back, my daughters: wherefore will ye go with me? are yet to me sons in my bowels, and they were to you for husbands?

12 Turn back, my daughters, therefore; for I grew old from being for a husband. If I said, There is hope to me, also I was this night to a husband, and also I bare sons;

13 Will ye wait for them till they shall grow? Will remain shut up for them not to be for a husband? Nay, my daughters, for it is bitter to me greatly for you, that the hand of Jehovah will go forth against me.

14 And they will lift up their voice and weep yet. And Orpah will kiss to her mother-in law; and Ruth adhered to her.

15 And she will say, Behold, thy sister-in-law turned back to her people, and to her gods: turn thou back after thy sister-in-law.

16 And Ruth will say, Thou shalt not urge upon me to forsake thee, to turn back from after thee: for where thou shalt go, I will go; and where thou shalt lodge, I will lodge: thy people my people, and thy God my God:

17 Where thou shalt die, I will die, and there will I be buried: thus will Jehovah do to me, and thus will he add, for death shall separate between me and between thee.

18 And she will see that she strengthening herself to go with her, and she will cease to speak to her.

19 And they two will go till they came to the house of bread. And it will be as they came to the house of bread, and all the city will be moved at them, and they will say, Is this Naomi?

20 And she will say to them, Ye shall not call to me Naomi; call to me, Mara: for the Almighty made bitter to me greatly.

21 I went away full, and Jehovah turned me back empty; wherefore will ye call to me Naomi, and Jehovah humbled me, and the Almighty did evil to me?

22 And Naomi will turn back, and Ruth the Moabitess her daughter-in-law, with her, turned back from the field of Moab: and they came to the house of bread in the beginning of the harvest of barley.

RUTH CHAPTER 2

1 And to Naomi an acquaintance to her husband, a strong man of wealth, from the family of Elimelech; and his name Boaz.

2 And Ruth the Moabitess will say to Naomi, I will now go to the field and I will gather among the ears after; whom I shall find favor in his eyes. And she will say to her, Go, my daughter.

3 And she will go, and come and gather in the field after the reapers; and she will happen from chance upon a part of the field to Boaz, who was from the family of Elimelech.

4 And behold, Boaz came from the house of bread, and he will say to the reapers, Jehovah be with you. And they will say to him, Jehovah will bless thee.

5 And Boaz will say to his young man set over the reapers, To whom this maiden?

6 And the young man set over the reapers will answer and say, The Moabitess maiden; she turned back with Naomi from the field of Moab.

7 And she will say, I will gather now; and I collected among the sheaves after the reapers: and she will stand from that time of the morning, and even to this time of her sitting in the house a little

8 And Boaz will say to Ruth, Heardest thou not, my daughter? Thou shalt not go to gather in another field, and also thou shalt not pass away from this; and here thou. shalt adhere with my maidens:

9 Thine eyes upon the field which they shall reap, and thou wentest after them: did I not command the young men not to touch thee? And being thirsty and go thou to the vessels and drink from what the young men shall draw.

10 And she will fall upon her face and worship to the earth, and she will say to him, Wherefore did I find favor in thine eyes, and thou didst recognize me, and I a stranger?

11 And Boaz will answer and say to her, Announcing, it was announced to me all that thou didst with thy mother-in-law after the death of thy husband: and thou wilt leave thy father and thy mother, and the land of thy birth, and thou wilt come to a people thou knewest not yesterday the third day.

12 Jehovah will recompense thy work, and thy reward shall be complete from Jehovah God of Israel, because thou camest to trust under his wings.

13 And she will say, Shall I find favor in thine eyes, my lord? For thou didst comfort me, and that thou spakest to the heart of thy servant, and shall I not be as one of thy servants?

14 And Boaz will say to her, At the time of eating draw near hither and eat from the bread, and dip thy morsel in the vinegar. And she will sit by side of the reapers: and he will lay hold of the parched grain for her, and she will eat and be satisfied, and will leave.

15 And she will rise up to gather, and Boaz commanded his young men, saying, Also she shall gather between the sheaves, and ye shall not shame her:

16 And also draw ye out for her from the sheaves and leave, and she gathering; and ye shall not rebuke her.

17 And she will gather in the field till the evening, and she will beat out what she gathered, and it will be about an ephah of barley.

18 And she will lift up and come to the city: and her mother-in-law will see what she gathered: and she will bring forth and give to her what she left from her being filled.

19 And her mother-in-law will say to her, Where didst thou gather this day? and where didst thou work? he recognizing thee shall be blessed. And she will announce to her mother-in-law whom she worked with him, and she will say, The name of the man whom I worked with him this day, is Boaz.

20 And Naomi will say to her daughter-in-law, Blessed be he to Jehovah, who let not go his mercy with the living and with the dead. Naomi said to her, The man is near to us, he is blood relative.

21 And Ruth the Moabitess will say, Also that he said to me, With the young men which are to me thou shalt adhere till they finished all the harvest which is to me.

22 And Naomi will say to Ruth her daughter-in-law, Good, my daughter, that thou shalt go with his maidens, and they shall not light upon thee in another field.

23 And she will adhere to the maidens of Boaz, to gather even to the end of the harvest of barley and the harvest of wheat; and she will dwell with her mother-in-law.

RUTH CHAPTER 3

1 And Naomi her mother-in-law will say to her My daughter, shall I not seek rest for thee, that it shall be well to thee?

2 And now is not Boaz from our acquaintance of whom thou wert with his maidens? Behold him winnowing the threshing-floor of barley this night

3 And wash thou and anoint thyself, and put thy garments upon thee, and go down to the threshing-floor: thou shalt not make thyself known to the man till his finishing to eat and to drink.

4 And it will be in his lying down, and know thou the place where he shall lie down there, and go in and uncover from his feet, and lie down; and he will announce to thee what thou shalt do.

5 And she will say to her, All that thou shalt say to me, I will do.

6 And she will go down to the threshing-floor' and she will do according to all that her mother-in-law commanded her.

7 And Boaz will eat and drink, and his heart will be done good to; and he will go to lie down upon the end of the heap: and she will come secretly and she will uncover from his feet, and lie down.

8 And it will be in the middle of the night, and the man will be terrified: and he will turn and behold a woman lying from his feet

9 And he will say, Who art thou? And she will say, I am Ruth thy servant: and spread thy wing over thy servant, for thou a blood relation.

10 And he will say, Blessed thou to Jehovah, my daughter: thou didst make good thy mercy at the last more than the beginning, so that thou wentest not after the young men, if poor and if rich.

11 And now, my daughter, thou shalt not fear; all which thou shalt say, I will do to thee: for all the gate of my people will know that thou art a woman of power.

12 And now that truly if I a blood relation: and also there is a blood relation nearer than I.

13 Lodge this night, and it being in the morning, if he will redeem thee, good; he shall redeem: and if he desire not to redeem thee, and I redeemed thee, Jehovah lives: lie down till morning.

14 And she will lie down from his feet till Morning: and she will rise before a man shall recognize his neighbor. And he will say, It shall not be known that the woman came to the threshing-floor.

15 And he will say, Bring me the upper garment which is upon thee, and hold fast upon it. And she will hold fast upon it, and he will measure six of barley, and he will place upon her: and he will go to the city.

16 And she will come to her mother-in-law, and she will say, Who art thou, my daughter? And she will announce to her all that the man did to her.

17 And she will say, These six of barley he gave to me; for he said, Thou shalt not go empty to thy mother-in-law.

18 And she will say, Sit, my daughter, till thou shalt know how the word will fall: for the man will not rest till he finished the word this day.

RUTH CHAPTER 4

1 And Boaz went up to the gate and sat there: and behold, the blood relation whom Boaz spake of, passing by; and he will say, Turn aside, sit down here; thou such a one. And he will turn aside, and sit down.

2 And he will take ten men from the old men of the citv, and he will say, Sit ye down here. And they will sit down.

3 And he will say to the blood relative, The portion of the field which was to our brother Elimelech, Naomi turning back from the field of Moab, sells:

4 And I said, I will reveal to thine ear, saying, Buy before the inhabitants, and before the old men of my people. If thou wilt redeem, redeem: and if thou wilt not redeem, announce to me, and I shall know: for none besides thee to redeem; and I after thee; and he will say, I will redeem.

5 And Boaz will say, In the day of thy buying the field from the hand of Naomi, and from Ruth the Moabitess, the wife of the dead, thou boughtest it to raise up the name of the dead upon his inheritance.

6 And the near relative will say, I shall not be able to redeem for me, lest I shall destroy my inheritance: redeem to thyself; thou the near relative: for I shall not be able to redeem.

7 And this before in Israel upon redemption and upon exchange, to set up all the word; a man drew off his shoe and gave to his neighbor: and this the precept in Israel.

8 And the blood relative will say to Boaz, Buy for thee. And he will draw off his shoe.

9 And Boaz will say to the old men and all the people, Ye are witnesses this day that I bought all which was to Elimelech, and all which was to Chilion and Mahlon, from the hand of Naomi.

10 And also Ruth the Moabitess, the wife of Mahlon, I bought to me for a wife, to raise up the name of the dead upon his inheritance; and the name of the dead shall not be cut off from his brethren and from the gate of his place: ye are witnesses this day.

11 And all the people which are in the gate will say, and the old men, Witnesses. Jehovah will give the woman coming into thy house as Rachel and as Leah, which they two built up the house of Israel: and make thou power in Ephratah, and call a name in the house of bread.

12 And thy house shall be as the house of Pharez which Tamar bare to Judah, from the seed which Jehovah shall give to thee from this maiden.

13 And Boaz will take Ruth, and she will be to him for a wife: and he will come in to her, and Jehovah will give to her conception, and she will bring forth a son.

14 And the women will say to Naomi, Blessed be Jehovah who caused not to cease to thee a blood relation this day; and his name shall be called in Israel.

15 And being to thee for the turning back the soul, and to nourish thy gray hairs: for thy daughter-in-law who loved thee brought him forth; for she is good to thee above seven sons.

16 And Naomi will take the child and put him in her bosom, and she will be to him for nurse.

17 And the neighbors will call to him a name, saying, A son was born to Naomi; and they will call his name Obed: he the father of Jesse, the father of David.

18 And these the generations of Pharez: Pharez begat Hezron,

19 And Hezron begat Ram, and Ram begat Aminadab,

20 And Aminadab begat Nashon, and Nashon begat Salmon

21 And Salmon begat Boaz, and Boaz begat Obed,

22 And Obed begat Jesse, and Jesse begat David.

THE SCROLL OF LAMENTATIONS

Hebrew title: Megilath Eikhah
Author: Baruch ben Neriah (Jeremiah's Secretary)
Estimated Range of Dating: 6th to 5th centuries B.C.

(The Book of Lamentations (Hebrew: Eikhah, from its incipit meaning "how") is a collection of poetic laments for the destruction of Jerusalem in 586 BC. In the Hebrew Bible it appears in the Ketuvim ("Writings"), beside the Song of Songs, Book of Ruth, Ecclesiastes and the Book of Esther (the Megilot or "Five Scrolls"), although there is no set order; in the Christian Old Testament it follows the Book of Jeremiah, as the prophet Jeremiah is its traditional author. Jeremiah's authorship is no longer generally accepted, although it is generally accepted that the destruction of Jerusalem by Babylon in 586 BC forms the background to the poems. The book is partly a traditional "city lament" mourning the desertion of the city by God, its destruction, and the ultimate return of the divinity, and partly a funeral dirge in which the bereaved bewails and addresses the dead.

The tone is bleak: God does not speak, the degree of suffering is presented as overwhelming, and expectations of future redemption are minimal. None the less the author repeatedly makes clear that the city (and even the author himself) had profusely sinned against God, to which God had strongly responded. In doing so the author does not blame God but rather presents him as righteous, just and sometimes even as merciful. (See chapter 1,17-19 & 3,31-33)

Lamentations has traditionally been ascribed to Jeremiah, probably on the grounds of the reference in 2 Chronicles 35:25 to the prophet composing a lament on the death of King Josiah, but there is no reference to Josiah in the book and no reason to connect it to Jeremiah. The language fits an Exilic date (586–520 BC), and the poems probably originated from Judeans who remained in the land. Scholars are divided over whether they are the work of one or multiple authors. One clue pointing to multiple authors is that the gender and situation of the first-person witness changes – the narration is feminine in the first and second lamentation, and masculine in the third, while the fourth and fifth are eyewitness reports of Jerusalem's destruction; conversely, the similarities of style, vocabulary, and theological outlook, as well as the uniform historical setting, are arguments for one author. Jeremiah had his own scribe, his friend and companion Baruch ben Neriah who was an accomplished Author as we can see in the Book of Baruch. He certainly could write from the viewpoint of women. He probably authored the Book of Jeremia as well.

The book is traditionally recited on the fast day of Tisha B'Av ("Ninth of Av"), mourning the destruction of both the First Temple and the Second.)

LAMENTATIONS OF JEREMIA CHAPTER 1

1 How sat the city alone being many in people she was as a widow: being many among the nations, being a leader in the provinces, she became for tribute.

2 Weeping, she will weep in the night, and her tears upon her cheeks: no comfort to her from all loving her: all her friends dealt faithlessly with her, they were to her for enemies.

3 Judah was carried away captive from affliction, and from the greatness of her serving: she dwelt in the nations, she found no rest: all pursuing her overtook her between straitnesses.

4 The ways of Zion mourn from none coming to the appointment: all her gates being desolated: her priests groaning, her virgins grieved, and it is bitterness to her.

5 Her adversaries were for head, her enemies were secure; for Jehovah afflicted her for the multitude of her transgressions: her children went into captivity before the face of him pressing.

6 From the daughter of Zion all her decoration went forth: her chiefs were as rams; they found not feed, and they went without strength before him pursuing.

7 Jerusalem remembered the days of her affliction and her wanderings, all her delights which were from the days of old in the falling of her people into the hand of the enemy, and none helping for her: the adversaries saw her; they laughed at her calamities.

8 Jerusalem sinned a sin; for this she was for a removing: all honoring her despised her, for they saw her nakedness: also she sighed, and she will turn away behind.

9 Her uncleanness is in her train; she remembered not her latter state; and she will come down wonderfully: none comforting for her. See, O Jehovah, my affliction: for the enemy magnified.

10 The adversary spread out his hand upon all her delights, for she saw the nations came in to her holy place, which thou didst command they shall not come in to the convocation to thee.

11 All her people sighing, seeking bread; they gave from their delights for food to turn back the soul: see, O Jehovah, and regard; for I was despised.

12 Nothing to you, all ye passing by the way? Behold, and see if there is pain as my pain, which was done to me with which Jehovah afflicted in the day of the burning of his anger.

13 From height he sent fire into my bones, and it brought them down: he spread a net for my feet, he turned me away behind: he gave me desolation, being sad all the day.

14 The yoke of my transgressions was bound by his hand: they will be woven together, they came up upon my neck: he caused my strength to fail, Jehovah gave me into the hands; I shall not be able to rise up.

15 Jehovah contemned all my mighty ones in my midst: he called an appointment upon me to break my chosen ones: Jehovah trod the wine-press to the virgin, the daughter of Judah.

16 For these I weep; mine eye, mine eye will go down with water, for he comforting turning back my soul, removed far off from me: my sons were desolations, for the enemy prevailed.

17 Zion spread forth her hands, none comforting for her: Jehovah commanded for Jacob, his adversaries round about him: Jerusalem was for uncleanness within them.

18 Jehovah he is just: for I embittered his mouth: hear now, all ye peoples, and see my pain: my virgins and my chosen ones went into captivity.

19 I called to those loving me, they deceived me: my priests and my old men expired in the city, for they sought food for them, and they will turn back their souls.

20 See, O Jehovah; for straits to me: my bowels were in a ferment; my heart turned in my midst; for embittering, I embittered: without, the sword bereaved; in the house, as death.

21 Hear, ye, for I groan: none comforting for me: all mine enemies heard my evils: they rejoiced that thou didst: thou broughtest the day thou didst call, and they shall be like me.

22 All their evil shall come before thee; and do evil to them according as thou didst evil to me for all my transgressions: for many my groanings, and any heart being sad.

LAMENTATIONS OF JEREMIA CHAPTER 2

1 How will Jehovah in his anger cover the daughter of Zion! he cast down from the heavens to the earth the beauty of Israel, and he remembered not the footstool of his feet in the day of his anger.

2 Jehovah swallowed up, not pitying, all the seats of Jacob: he pulled down in his wrath the fortresses of the daughter of Judah; he caused to touch to the earth: he defiled the kingdom and her chiefs.

3 He cut off in the burning of anger all the horn of Israel: he turned back his right hand from the face of the enemy, and he will consume against Jacob as a fire of flame devouring round about

4 He bent his bow as an enemy: he set his right hand as an adversary, and be will slay all the delights of the eye in the tent of the daughter of Zion: he poured his wrath as fire.

5 Jehovah was as an enemy: he swallowed up Israel, he swallowed up all her fortresses: he destroyed his fortifications, and he will multiply in the daughter of Judah sorrow and sighing.

6 And he will tear away as a garden his dwelling: he destroyed his appointment: Jehovah caused to forget the appointment in Zion, and the Sabbath, and he will despise in the wrath of his anger the king and the priest.

7 Jehovah rejected his altar, he abhorred his holy place, he shut up in the hand of the enemy the walls of her castles; they gave a voice in the house of Jehovah, as the day of the appointment

8 Jehovah purposed to destroy the walls of the daughter of Zion: he stretched out a line, he turned not back his hand from swallowing down: and the entrenchment will mourn, and the wall; together they languished.

9 Her gates sank into the earth; he destroyed and broke her bars: her king and her chiefs among the nations: no law: also her prophets found not a vision from Jehovah.

10 They sat upon the earth; the old men of the daughter of Zion were silent; they brought up the dust upon their head: they girded on sackcloth: the virgins of Jerusalem brought down their head to the earth.

11 Mine eyes failed with tears, my bowels were in a ferment, my liver was poured out to the earth, upon the breaking of the daughter of my people; in the fainting of the child and suckling in the wide places of the city.

12 To their mothers will they say, Where the grain and wine? in their languishing as the wounded in the broad places of the city, in the pouring out of their soul into their mothers bosom.

13 What shall I testify for thee? What shall I liken to thee, O daughter of Jerusalem? What shall I compare to thee, and comfort thee, O virgin daughter of Zion? for great as the sea thy breaking: who shall heal for thee?

14 Thy prophets saw for thee vanity and a foolish thing, and they uncovered not upon thine iniquity to turn back thy captivity; and they will see for thee burdens of falsehood and seductions.

15 All passing by the way clapped their hands at thee; they hissed, and they will nod their head at the daughter of Jerusalem: This the city, they will say; the complete splendor of joy to all the earth.

16 All thine enemies opened wide their mouth upon thee: they hissed and they will gnash the teeth: they said, We swallowed down: surely this the day we longed for; we found; we saw.

17 Jehovah did what he purposed; he completed his word which he commanded in days of old: he pulled down and he pitied not: and be will gladden the enemy over thee; he lifted up the horn of thine adversaries.

18 Their heart cried to Jehovah, O wall of the daughter of Zion, cause tears to go down as a torrent day and night thou shalt give no remission to thyself; the daughter of thine eye shall not be silent

19 Arise, cry aloud in the night: at the head of the watches pour out thy heart as water before the face of Jehovah: lift up thy hands to him for the soul of thy young children fainting with hunger in the head of all the streets.

20 See, O Jehovah, and look to whom thou didst accomplish this Shall the women eat their fruit, the children borne upon the hands? shall the priest and the prophet be slain in the holy place of Jehovah?

21 The youth and old man lay down upon the earth of the streets; my virgins and my young men fell by the sword; thou didst slay in the day of thine anger; thou didst slay, thou didst not pity.

22 Thou wilt call as the day of appointment my sojourning from round about, and in the day of the anger of Jehovah there was no escaping and surviving: those I bore upon my hands and brought up, the enemy finished.

LAMENTATIONS OF JEREMIA CHAPTER 3

1 I The man seeing affliction by the rod of his wrath.

2 He led me and he brought darkness and not light

3 Surely he will turn back against me; he will turn his hand all the day.

4 He wasted away my flesh and my skin; he broke my bones.

5 He built against me, and he will surround with poison and distress.

6 He caused me to dwell in darknesses as the dead of old.

7 He walled about me and I shall not go forth: he loaded my brass.

8 Also when I shall exclaim and cry out, he stopped my prayer.

9 He walled up my ways with hewn stones, he made crooked my beaten paths.

10 He is to me a bear lying in wait, a lion in secret places.

11 He turned aside my ways and he will tear me in pieces: he set me a desolation.

12 He bent his bow, he will set me up as a mark for the arrow.

13 He brought the sons of his quiver into my reins.

14 I was a derision to all my people; their song all the day.

15 He filled me with bitternesses, he gave me wormwood to drink

16 He will break my teeth with gravel stones, he covered me with ashes.

17 Thou wilt cast of my soul from peace: I forgat good.

18 And saying, My glory perished, and my hope from Jehovah:

19 Remembering my affliction and my bitterness, the wormwood and the poison.

20 Remembering, my soul will remember, and will be bowed down upon me.

21 I will turn this back to my heart; for this I shall hope.

22 The mercies of Jehovah are that we were not consumed, for his compassions were not finished.

23 New for the mornings: great thy faithfulness.

24 Jehovah my portion, said my soul; for this I will hope toward him.

25 Good Jehovah to those waiting for him, to the soul that will seek him.

26 Good, and he shall wait and stand still for the salvation of Jehovah.

28 He will sit alone and be silent, for he laid upon him.

29 He will give his mouth in the dust, if perhaps there is hope.

30 He will give the cheek to him striking him: he will be filled with reproach.

31 For Jehovah will not cast of forever:

32 For if he afflicted, and he compassionated according to the multitude of his mercy.

33 For he afflicted not from his heart and grieved the sons of men,

34 To crush under his feet all the bound of the earth,

35 To turn aside the judgment of a man before the face of the Most High.

36 To pervert a man in his contention Jehovah saw not 37 Who this saying, And it shall be Jehovah commanding not?

38 From the mouth of the Most High shall not come forth evil and good.

39 Why shall a living man murmur? a man for his sin?

40 We will search out our ways, and examine and turn back even to Jehovah.

41 We will lift up our hearts upon the hands to God in the heavens.

42 We transgressed and resisted: thou forgavest not

43 Thou didst cover with anger, and thou wilt pursue us: thou didst slay, thou didst not pity.

45 Thou didst set us the offscouring and despising in the midst of peoples.

46 All our enemies opened their mouth against us.

47 Fear and a snare were to us, desolation and breaking

48 Mine eye will bring down streams of water for the breaking of the daughter of my people.

49 Mine eye flowed and it will not be silent, from no intermission,

51 Mine eye will glean for my soul for all the daughters of my city.

52 Hunting, they hunted me as a bird, mine enemies, gratuitously.

53 They cut off my life in the pit, and cast a stone upon me.

54 Waters were spread over my head; I said I was cut off.

55 I called thy name, O Jehovah, in the pit underneath.

56 Thou heardest my voice: thou wilt not hide thine ear at my breathing, at my cry.

57 Thou drewest near in the day I shall call thee: thou saidst, Thou shalt not fear.

58 Thou didst contend, O Jehovah, the contentions of my soul; thou didst redeem my life.

59 Thou sawest, O Jehovah, my bowing down: judge thou my judgment

62 The lips of those rising up, and their devices against me all the day.

64 Thou wilt turn back to them a retribution, O Jehovah, according to the work Of their hands.

65 Thou wilt give to them a covering of heart, thy curse to them.

66 Thou wilt pursue in thine anger, and thou wilt destroy them from under the heavens, O Jehovah.

LAMENTATIONS OF JEREMIA CHAPTER 4

1 How will the gold become dim the good gold will be changed the stones of the holy place shall be poured out in the head of all the streets.

2 The precious sons of Zion being lifted up with fine gold, how they were reckoned for earthen vessels, the work of the hands of the potter.

3 Also the dragons draw out the breast, they suckled their sucklings: the daughter of my people violent as the ostriches in the desert.

4 The tongue of the suckling adhered to his palate in thirst: the young children asked for bread, none breaking bread to them.

5 They eating for dainties were desolate in the streets: they trusting upon scarlet embraced dung hills.

6 For the iniquity of the daughter of my people will be great above the sin of Sodom being overthrown as in a moment, and no hands waited for her.

7 Her consecrated ones were pure above snow, they were white above milk, they were red of body above pearls, their figure sapphire:

8 Their form dark above blackness; they were not known in the streets: their skin adhered to their bones; it was dried up, it was as wood.

9 Those wounded by the sword were good above those wounded by famine: these will flow away, being thrust through from the produce of the field.

10 The hands of compassionate women boiled their children: they were for food to them in the breaking of the daughter of my people.

11 Jehovah finished his wrath; he poured out the burning of his anger, and he kindled a fire in Zion, and it will devour her foundations.

12 The kings of the earth believed not, and all those dwelling in the habitable globe, that the enemy will come in to the gates of Jerusalem.

13 From the sins of her prophets the iniquities of her priests shedding the blood of the just in her midst,

14 The blind were shaken in the streets, they were stained with blood, so that they shall not be able to touch upon their garments.

15 Remove the unclean one, call to them; remove, remove, ye shall not touch: for they were laid waste; they were shaken, say ye, among the nations: they shall not add to sojourn.

16 The face of Jehovah their portion; he will not add to look upon them: they accepted not the face of the priests, they compassionated not the old men.

17 Continuing, yet our eyes will fail, for our help in vain: in our watching we watched for a nation it will not save us.

18 They hunted our steps from going in our broad places: our end drew near, our days were completed; for our end came.

19 They pursuing us were swift above the eagle of the heavens: they burned after us upon the mountains, they laid wait for us in the desert.

20 The spirit of our nostrils, the Messiah of Jehovah was taken in their pits, of whom we said, Under his shadow we shall live among the nations.

21 Rejoice and be glad, O daughter of Edom, dwelling in the land of Uz; also upon thee shall the cup pass: thou shalt be drunken, and make thyself naked.

22 Thine iniquity was finished, O daughter of Zion; he will not add to carry thee into exile: reviewing thine iniquity, O daughter of Edom, he uncovered upon thy sins.

LAMENTATIONS OF JEREMIA CHAPTER 5

1 Remember, O Jehovah, what was to us: look and see our reproach.

2 Our inheritance was turned to strangers, our houses to foreigners.

3 We were orphans, no father; our mothers as widows.

4 We drank our water for silver; our wood will come for a price.

5 Upon our necks were we pursued: we labored and no rest to us.

6 We gave the hand to Egypt, to Assur, to be filled with bread.

7 Our fathers sinned, they are not; we bore their iniquities.

8 Servants ruled over us: none delivering from their hand.

9 With our souls we shall bring our bread from the face of the sword of the desert

10 Our skin was scorched as a furnace from the face of the violent heat of famine.

11 They humbled the women in Zion the virgins in the cities of Judah.

12 Chiefs were hung by their hand: the faces of old men were not honored.

13 They took away the chosen ones to grind, and the young men were weak in the wood.

15 The joy of our heart ceased; our dance was turned to mourning.

16 The crown of our head fell: wo! now to us, for we sinned.

17 For this our heart was languid; for this our eyes were darkened.

18 For mount Zion was laid waste, the foxes went upon it.

19 Thou, O Jehovah, shalt dwell forever; thy throne to generation and generation.

20 Wherefore wilt thou forget us forever? wilt thou forsake us to length of days?

21 Turn us back, O Jehovah, to thee, and we shall be turned; renew our days as of old.

22 But rejecting, thou didst reject us; thou wert angry against us even greatly.

THE SCROLL OF ECCLESIASTES

Hebrew title: Megilath Kohelet
Estimated Range of Dating: 400-200 B.C.

(Ecclesiastes (Hebrew: Kohelet) is one of 24 books of the Tanakh (Hebrew Bible), where it is classified as one of the Ketuvim (Writings). The book takes its name from the Greek ekklesiastes, a translation of the title by which the central figure refers to himself: Kohelet, meaning something like "one who convenes or addresses an assembly" or "one who preaches." Originally written c. 400–200 BC, it is also among the canonical Wisdom literature of the Old Testament in most denominations of Christianity.

According to rabbinic tradition, Ecclesiastes was written by Solomon in his old age (an alternative tradition that "Hezekiah and his colleagues wrote Isaiah, Proverbs, the Song of Songs and Ecclesiastes" probably means simply that the book was edited under Hezekiah), but critical scholars have long rejected the idea of a pre-exilic origin. The presence of Persian loan-words and Aramaisms points to a date no earlier than about 450 BC, while the latest possible date for its composition is 180 BC, when the Jewish writer Ben Sira quotes from it. The dispute as to whether Ecclesiastes belongs to the Persian or the Hellenistic periods (i.e., the earlier or later part of this period) revolves around the degree of Hellenization (influence of Greek culture and thought) present in the book. Scholars arguing for a Persian date (c. 450–330 BC) hold that there is a complete lack of Greek influence; those who argue for a Hellenistic date (c. 330–180 BC) argue that it shows internal evidence of Greek thought and social setting.

Contents and Structure:

- Title (1:1)
- Initial poem (1:2–11)
- I: Kohelet's investigation of life (1:12–6:9)
- II: Kohelet's conclusions (6:10–11:6)
- Introduction (6:10–12)
- A: Man cannot discover what is good for him to do (1–8:17)
- B: Man does not know what will come after him (9:1–11:6)
- Concluding poem (11:7–12:8)
- Epilogue (12:9–14)

Ecclesiastes has taken its literary form from the Middle Eastern tradition of the fictional autobiography, in which a character, often a king, relates his experiences and draws lessons from them, often self-critical: Kohelet likewise identifies himself as a king, speaks of his search for wisdom, relates his conclusions, and recognises his limitations. It belongs to the category of wisdom literature, the body of biblical writings which give advice on life, together with reflections on its problems and meanings—other examples include the Book of Job, Proverbs, and some of the Psalms.

Ecclesiastes is presented as biography of "Kohelet". Kohelet's story is framed by voice of the narrator, who refers to Kohelet in the third person, praises his wisdom, but reminds the reader that wisdom has its limitations and is not man's main concern. Kohelet reports what he planned, did, experienced and thought. His journey to knowledge is, in the end, incomplete. The reader is not only to hear Kohelet's wisdom, but to observe his journey towards understanding and acceptance of life's frustrations and uncertainties: the journey itself is important.)

ECCLESIASTES (PREACHER) CHAPTER 1

1 The words of the preacher, (Solomon) son of David, king in Jerusalem.

2 Vanity of vanities, said the preacher; vanity of vanities, all vanity.

3 What the profit to a man in all the labor he will labor under the sun?

4 A generation went away, and a generation came: and the earth stood forever.

5 The sun arose and the sun went down, and panted after its place which it arose there.

6 Going to the south and turning round about to the north, it turned round about; the wind turned round about, going, and the wind turned back upon its circuits.

7 All the torrents going into the sea, and the sea not full: to the place the torrents going, there they turn back to go.

8 All words becoming weary; man shall not be able to speak: the eye shall not be satisfied to see, and the ear shall not be filled from hearing.

9 What was, that shall be; and what was done, that shall be done: and not anything new under the sun.

10 Is there a word will be said, See, this is new? This was already to a long time which was before us.

11 No remembrance to former things; and also to the latter things that shall be; to them shall be no remembrance with them which shall be for the latter state.

12 I the preacher was king over Israel in Jerusalem.

13 And I gave my heart to seek and to search out in wisdom concerning all which was done under the heavens: this evil business God gave to the sons of man to be occupied in it

14 I saw all the works they did under the sun; and behold, all vanity and striving of the spirit

15 The crooked thing shall not be able to be made straight: and the deficiency shall not be able to be numberd

16 It spake with my heart, saying, Behold, I was magnified, and added wisdom over all that were before me at Jerusalem: and my heart saw much of wisdom and knowledge.

17 And I will give my heart to know wisdom, and the knowledge of praise and understanding: I knew this also it is the striving of the spirit

18 For in abundance of wisdom, abundance of trouble: and he adding knowledge will increase pain.

ECCLESIASTES (PREACHER) CHAPTER 2

1 I Said in my heart, Go now, I will prove thee with gladness, and look thou upon good: and behold, this also vanity.

2 To laughter I said, It is mad: and to gladness, What did this?

3 I examined in my heart to draw my flesh with wine, and my heart led in wisdom; and to lay hold upon folly till that I shall see what this good to the sons of man which they will do under the heavens the number of the days of their life.

4 I magnified my work; I builded to me houses; I planted to me vineyards:

5 I made to me gardens and pleasure grounds, and I planted in them a tree of all fruit

6 I made to me pools of waters to water from them the forest, causing trees to spring forth.

7 I obtained servants and maids, and sons of the house were to me; also obtaining cattle, and many sheep were to me more than all that were before me in Jerusalem.

8 I gathered to me also silver and gold, and the wealth of kings, and the provinces: I made to me men singing and women singing, and the delights of the sons of men, a wife and mistresses.

9 And I was magnified and increased more than all being before me in Jerusalem: also my wisdom stood to me.

10 And all that mine eyes asked I kept not back from them, and I withheld not my heart from all gladness; for my heart rejoiced from all my labor: and this was my portion from all my labor.

11 And I looked upon all my works my hands made, and upon the labor I labored to do, and behold, all vanity and striving of the spirit, and no profit under the sun.

12 And I turned to see wisdom, madness, and folly: for what the man that shall come after the king? with those things they did already.

13 And I saw there is profit to wisdom more than to folly, as the excellence of the light above darkness.

14 The wise, his eyes in his head; and the foolish one goes in darkness: and I knew, I also, that one event will meet with them all.

15 And I said in my heart, As the event of the foolish one, also I, it will meet me; and wherefore then was I more wise? And I spake in my heart, This is also vanity.

16 For no remembrance for the wise with the foolish one forever, since in the days coming, all being forgotten. And how will the wise die? with the foolish one.

17 And I hated life, for evil to me the work done under the sun: for all vanity and striving of the spirit

18 And I hated all my labor I laboring under the sun: leaving it to the man who shall come after me.

19 And who shall know whether he shall be wise or foolish? And he shall have dominion over all my labor which I labored, and was wise under the sun. Also this is vanity.

20 And I turned about to let my heart despair for all the labor I labored under the sun.

21 For there is man his labor in wisdom, and in knowledge and in success; and to man not laboring in it he shall give his portion. Also this is vanity and much evil.

22 For what was to man in all his labor, and in the striving of his heart, he labored under the sun?

23 For all his days pains, and vexation, his labor; also in the night his heart rested not Also this it is vanity.

24 Not good in man he shall eat and drink and cause his soul to see good in his labor. Also this I saw that it is from the hand of God.

26 For to a man good before his face, he gave wisdom and knowledge and gladness: and to him sinning, he gave labor, to gather and to heap up, to give to the good one before the face of God. Also this is vanity and the striving of the spirit.

ECCLESIASTES (PREACHER) CHAPTER 3

1 To all a season, and a time to every inclination under the heavens:

2 A time to be born, and a time to die; a time to plant, and a time to pluck up the planting

3 A time to kill, and a time to heal; a time to break down, and a time to build:

4 A time to weep, and a time to laugh; a time to mourn, and a time to dance:

5 A time to cast away stones, and a time to collect stones a time to embrace, and a time to be far from embracing:

6 A time to seek, and a time to lose; a time to watch, and a time to cast away

7 A time to rend, and a time to sew; a time to be silent, and a time to speak:

8 A time to love, and a time to hate; a time of war, and a time of peace:

9 What the excellence of him working in what he labored?

10 I saw the labor which God gave to the sons of man to be humbled in it

11 He made everything beautiful in his time: also he gave hidden time in their heart, so that man shall not find the work which God did from the beginning and even to the end.

12 I knew that no good is in them, but to rejoice and to do good in his life.

13 And also every man shall eat and drink, and see the good in all his labor; it is the gift of God.

14 I knew that all which God will do it shall be forever: to it not to be added, and from it not to be taken away: and God doing they shall be afraid from his face.

15 What was, it is already; and what to be, was already; and God will seek him being driven away.

16 And yet I saw under the sun the place of judgment, there the unjust one; and the place of the just one, there the unjust one.

17 I said in my heart, The just one and the unjust one, God will judge: for a time for every inclination and for every work there.

18 I said in my heart concerning the speeches of the sons of man, for God to separate them, and for them to see that they are cattle to themselves.

19 For the event of the sons of man, and the event of the cattle, one event to them: as this, so dies this; and the breath of one to all; and the preeminence of man not above the cattle: for all is vanity.

20 All go to one place; all were from dust, and all turned back to dust.

21 Who shall know the spirit of the sons of man? it ascending to above, and the spirit of cattle, it going downwards to the earth.

22 And I saw that no good more than that man shall rejoice in his works; for this is his portion: for who shall bring him to look upon what shall be after him?

ECCLESIASTES (PREACHER) CHAPTER 4

1 And I turned back, and I shall see all the oppressions which are doing under the sun: and behold, the tears of the oppressed, and none comforting to them; and from the hand of those oppressing them was power, and none comforting to them.

2 And I praise the dead already dead more than the living they yet living.

3 And good above them two which were not yet, which saw not the evil work which was done under the sun.

4 And I saw all the labor and all the success of the work, for this the jealousy of a man from his neighbor. Also this is vanity and striving of spirit.

5 The foolish one folded his hands together, and ate his flesh.

7 And I turned back, and I shall see vanity under the sun.

8 There is one, and not a second; also a son and brother not to him: and no end to all his labor; also his eye shall not be satisfied with riches: and for whom do I labor and diminish my soul from good? Also this is vanity, and it is an evil labor.

9 Two are good above one, because there is to them a good reward in their labor.

10 For if they shall fall, the one will raise up his companion: and wo to him, the one that shall fall, and not a second to raise him up.

11 Also if two shall lie down, and heat to them: and to the one it shall not be warm.

12 And if one shall become strong against him, two shall stand before him; and a three-fold thread shall not be quickly broken.

13 Good a poor and wise child above an old and foolish king, who knew not more to receive instruction.

14 For from the house of those turning away he came forth to reign; for also he being born in his kingdom became poor.

15 I saw all the living going under the sun, with the second child which shall stand in his stead.

16 No end to all the people, to all which were before them: also the last ones shall not rejoice in him. For also this is vanity and striving of the spirit

ECCLESIASTES (PREACHER) CHAPTER 5

1 Watch thy feet when thou shalt go to the house of God, and draw near to hear, rather than give the sacrifice of the foolish, for they not knowing the doing of evil.

2 Thou shalt not hasten with thy mouth, and thy heart shall not be quick to bring forth a word to the face of God: for God is in the heavens, and thou upon the earth: for this thy words shall be few.

3 For the dream came in the multitude of labor; and the voice of the foolish one in the multitude of words.

4 When thou shalt vow a vow to God, thou shalt not delay to repay it; for there is no desire in the foolish: repay what thou shalt vow.

5 Good that thou shalt not vow rather than thou shalt vow and not requite.

6 Thou shalt not give thy mouth to cause thy flesh to sin; and thou shalt not say to the face of the messenger that it is an error: wherefore shall God be angry at thy voice, and destroy the work of thy hands?

7 For in the multitude of dreams, and vanities, and many words: but fear thou God.

8 If thou shalt see the oppression of the poor one, and the spoiling of judgment and justice in a province, thou shalt not wonder at the inclination: for the high one above the high one is watching, and the high ones over them.

9 And the profit of the earth in all: it is the king being served to the field.

10 He loving silver shall not be satisfied with silver; and whoever loved not the increase with the multitude. Also this is vanity.

11 In the multitude of good they were multiplied eating it: and what the success to its possessors but seeing with his eyes?

12 The sleep of the servant is sweet, if little, or if much he shall eat: and the satiety to the rich not permitting to him to sleep.

13 There is an evil making sick I saw under the sun: riches watched to its owners for their evil.

14 And those riches shall perish by evil labor: and he begetting a son, and not anything in his hand.

15 According as he came forth from his mother's womb, naked he shall turn back to go as he came, and he shall not take away anything in his labor that shall go in his hand.

16 And also this an evil making sick, wholly as he came so shall he go: and what to him he shall labor for the wind?

17 Also all his days in darkness shall he eat, and much vexation and his sickness and his anger.

18 Behold, what I saw: good, which is beautiful to eat and to drink, and to see good in all his labor that he will labor under the sun the number of the days of his life, which God gave to him; for this his portion.

Copyright © 2026 by Lord Henfield, Guildford Scientific Press

19 Also every man which God gave to him wealth and riches, and permitted him to eat from it, and to lift up his portion, and to rejoice in his labor; this the gift of God himself.

20 For he shall not much remember the days of his life; for God humbles him in the gladness of his heart.

ECCLESIASTES (PREACHER) CHAPTER 6

1 There is evil which I saw under the sun, and it is much upon man:

2 A man which God will give to him wealth and riches and honor, and wanting not to his soul from all which he shall desire, and God will not permit him to eat from it, for a man, a stranger shall eat it. This is vanity and it is an evil disease.

3 If a man shall beget a hundred, and live many years, and a multitude shall be the days of his years, and his soul shall not be satisfied from good, and also there was no burial to him; I said, Good above him an abortion.

4 For in vanity he came, and in darkness he will go away, and his name shall be covered with darkness.

5 Also he saw not the sun, and he knew not rest to this above this.

6 And although he lived a thousand years twice, and he saw not good. Did not all go to one place?

7 All the labor of man for his mouth, and also the soul shall not be filled.

8 For what will remain to the wise one more than the foolish one? what to the poor that shall know to go before the living

9 Good the sight of the eyes above the going of the soul. Also this is vanity and striving of spirit

10 What was, its name was called already, and it was known that it is man: and he shall not be able to contend with the powerful above him.

11 For there is many words increasing vanity, what shall remain to man?

12 For who shall know what is for man in life, the number of the days of the life of his vanity, and he will make them as a shadow? for who shall announce to man what shall be after him under the sun?

ECCLESIASTES (PREACHER) CHAPTER 7

1 A good name is above good oil, and the day of death above the day of birth.

2 Good to go to the house of mourning rather than to go to the house of drinking, in that it is the end of every man; and he living shall give to his heart.

3 Good is grief above laughter: for in the illness of the face the heart shall be good.

4 The heart of the wise is in the house of mourning; and the heart of the foolish in the house of gladness.

5 Good to hear the reproof of the wise one, above a man hearing the song of the foolish:

6 For as the voice of thorns under the pot, so the laughter of the foolish one. Also this is vanity.

7 For oppression will make foolish the wise one; and a gift will destroy the heart.

8 Good the last of a word above its beginning: good slowness of spirit above pride of spirit

9 Thou shalt not be hastened in thy spirit to be angry, for anger shall rest in the bosom of fools.

10 Thou shalt not say, Why was it the former days were good above these? for thou didst not ask from wisdom concerning this

11 Wisdom is good with an inheritance: and a remainder to those seeing the sun.

12 For in the shadow, wisdom; in the shadow, silver: and the excellence of knowledge is wisdom shall preserve alive those possessing it

13 See the work of God: for who shall be able to make straight what he made it crooked?

14 In the day of good, be in good; and in the day of evil, see thou: also God made this over against this, to the end that man shall not find anything after him.

15 I saw all in the days of my vanity: there is a just one perishing in his justice, and there is an unjust one, being prolonged in his evil.

16 Thou shalt not be greatly just; and thou shalt not be exceedingly wise: wherefore wilt thou be made desolate?

17 Thou shalt not be greatly wicked, and thou shalt not be foolish: wherefore wilt thou die not in thy time?

18 Good that thou shalt hold fast upon this; also from this thou shalt not lead away thy hand: for he fearing God shall come forth with all of them.

19 Wisdom shall strengthen to the wise one more than ten having power which were in the city.

20 For not a just man in the earth, who shall do good and not sin.

21 Also to all the words that shall be spoken thou shalt not give thy heart, that thou shalt not hear thy servant cursing thee.

22 For also many times thy heart knew that thou didst also curse others.

23 All this I proved by wisdom: I said I will be wise, and it was removed far off from me.

24 What was far off, and the depth, deep, who shall find it?

25 I went round about, I and my heart., to know, and to examine, and to search out wisdom and understanding, and to know the injustice of folly, and the folly of wickedness:

26 And I find bitter above death the woman that her heart it is snares and nets, her hands are bonds: the good one before God shall escape from her, and he sinning shall be taken by her.

27 See, this I found, said the preacher: one to one to find understanding

28 Which yet my soul sought, and found not; one man from a thousand I found; and a woman in all these I found not

29 Only see, this I found, that God made man upright; and they sought out many purposes.

ECCLESIASTES (PREACHER) CHAPTER 8

1 Who as the wise one? and who will know the interpretation of the word? The wisdom of man shall enlighten his face, and the hard of face shall be hated.

2 I am to watch the king's mouth by reason of the oath of God.

3 Thou shalt not hasten going from his face: thou shalt not stand by the word of evil; for he shall do all that he will desire.

4 Wheresoever the word of a king, it is powerful: and who shall say to him, What wilt thou do?

5 He watching the command knew no evil word: and time and judgment the wise one will know.

6 To every inclination there is time and judgment; for man's evil is great upon him.

7 For he will not know what shall be: for as it shall be who shall announce to him?

8 No man having power in spirit to restrain the spirit: and no power in the day of death: and no sending forth in war; and injustice shall not deliver its possessors.

9 All this I saw, and giving my heart to every work which was done under the sun: a time which man had power overman for evil to him.

10 And so then I saw the unjust buried, and they came and they will go from the holy place, and they will be forgotten in the city where they did thus: also this is vanity.

11 Because a decree was not done quickly upon an evil work, for this the heart of the sons of man was filled in them to do evil.

12 Whoever sinned, doing evil a hundred, and it being prolonged to him, for also I know that it will be to those fearing God, who shall be afraid from his face.

13 And it shall not be good to the unjust one; he shall not lengthen the days as a shadow, for he feared not from before the face of God.

14 There is vanity which was done upon the earth; that there is the just which it comes upon them according to the work of the unjust: and there is the unjust, it comes upon them according to the work of the just. I said, Also this is vanity.

15 And I praised joy, because there is no good to man under the sun but to eat and to drink, and to rejoice: for this shall lodge with him in his labor the days of his life which God gave to him under the sun.

16 According as I gave my heart to know wisdom, and to see the labor that was done upon the earth: for also in the day and in the night he saw not sleep with his eyes.

17 And I saw all the work of God, that no man shall be able to find out the work that was done under the sun in whatsoever a man shall labor to seek out, and he shall not find: and also if the wise one shall say to know, he shall not be able to find.

ECCLESIASTES (PREACHER) CHAPTER 9

1 For all this I gave to my heart, and to examine all this, that the just and the wise and their works are in the hand of God: also love, also hatred, no man shall know of all before them.

2 All according to all: one event to the just one and to the unjust one; to the good one and to the clean one, and to the unclean one; to him sacrificing and to him not sacrificing: as the good one, so the sinning one; he swearing, as he who shall fear an oath.

3 This an evil in all being done under the sun, thus one event is to all: and also the heart of the sons of man being full of evil, and folly in their heart in their living, and after it to their deaths.

4 For whoever shall choose to all the living there is hope: for to a living dog it is good above a dead lion.

5 For the living know they shall die: and the dead know not any thing, and no more to them a reward; for their remembrance was forgotten.

6 Also their love, also their hatred, also their envy perished already; and no more portion to them forever in all which was done under the sun.

7 Go eat in joy thy bread, and drink thy wine in a good heart; for already God was satisfied with thy works.

8 In all time thy garments shall be white; and ointment shall not be wanting upon thy head.

9 See life with the wife which thou didst love all the days of the life of thy vanity which he gave to thee under the sun, all the days of thy vanity: for this thy portion in life, and in thy labor which thou laborest under the sun.

10 All which thy hand shall find to do, with thy strength, do thou; for no work and understanding and knowledge and wisdom, in hades where thou goest there.

11 I turned back, and saw under the sun that not to the fleet the race, and the war not to the strong, and also not to the wise, bread; and also not to the understanding ones, riches; and also not to the knowing, favor; for time and chance will light upon all of them.

12 For also man knew not his time: as the fishes being laid hold of in an evil net, and as the birds laid hold of in the snare, as they, the sons of men being snared for an evil time, as it will fall upon them suddenly.

13 Also this I saw, the wisdom under the sun, and it was great to me:

14 A little city, and men in it few; and a great king came against it, and surrounded it, and built against it great entrenchments:

15 And a poor wise man was found in it, and he delivered the city by his wisdom; and not a man remembered that poor man.

16 And I said, Wisdom is good above strength: and the wisdom of the poor one was despised, and his words not heard.

17 The words of the wise being heard in quiet more than the cry of him ruling among the foolish.

Copyright © 2026 by Lord Henfield, Guildford Scientific Press

18 Wisdom is good above the instruments of encounter: and one sinning will destroy much good.

ECCLESIASTES (PREACHER) CHAPTER 10

1 Flies of death will cause the oil of the perfume to stink, it will ferment: the preciousness of wisdom above the honor of the least folly.

2 The heart of the wise one to his right, and the heart of the foolish one to his left.

3 And also as the foolish one went in the way, his heart was wanting, and he said to all, It is folly.

4 If the spirit of him ruling shall go up against thee, thou shalt not leave thy place; for quietness will put down great sins.

5 There is an evil I saw under the sun as an error going forth from before him having power:

6 Folly was given to great heights, and the rich were set in lowness.

7 I saw servants upon horses, and chiefs going as servants upon the earth.

8 He digging a ditch shall fall into it; he breaking down a wall, a serpent shall bite him.

9 He removing stones; shall suffer pain by them; and he cleaving woods asunder shall be endangered by them.

10 If the iron became dull and he polished not the face, and he will strengthen the forces: and wisdom will make preeminence to prosper.

11 If a serpent will bite without magic; and no preëminence to the possessor of the tongue.

12 The words of the wise one's mouth, grace; and the lips of the foolish one shall swallow him down.

13 The beginning of the words of his mouth, folly: and the latter state of his mouth the folly of evil.

14 And the foolish one will multiply words: man shall not know what shall be; and what shall be after him, who shall announce to him?

15 The labor of the foolish will weary them, because he knew not to go to the city.

16 Wo! to thee, O land: thy king a youth, and thy chiefs will eat in the morning.

17 Happy thou, O land: thy king the son of nobles, and thy chiefs shall eat in time, in strength and not in drinking.

18 By sloth the frame work will pine away; and by the letting down of the hands, the house will drop.

19 For laughter they make bread, and wine will gladden the living: and silver will answer with all.

20 Thou shalt not curse the king in thy consciousness, and in thy bed-chamber thou shalt not curse the rich for the bird of the heavens will bring the voice, and the possessor of wings shall announce the word.

ECCLESIASTES (PREACHER) CHAPTER 11

1 Send forth thy bread upon the face of the waters, for in a multitude of days thou shalt find it

2 Thou shalt give a portion to seven, and also to eight; for thou shalt not know what shall be evil upon the earth.

3 If the clouds shall be filled with rain, they shall pour out upon the earth: and if the tree shall fall in the south or in the north, the place the tree shall fall, there it shall be.

4 He watching the wind shall not sow; and he looking in the clouds, shall not reap.

5 As thou wilt not know what the way of the spirit, as the bones in the womb of her being filled, so thou shalt not know the work of God who will make all.

6 In the morning sow thy seed, and at evening thou shalt not let thy hand rest: for thou shalt not know whether this shall be right, this or that, or if they two as one being good.

7 And the light is sweet, and good to the eyes to see the sun:

8 If man shall live many years, in them all shall he rejoice; and he shall remember the days of darkness, for they will be many. All coming is vanity.

9 Rejoice, O young man, in thy youth; and thy heart shall do thee good in the days of thy youth, and go in the ways of thy heart, and in the sight of thine eyes: and know thou, that for all these God will bring thee into judgment

10 And put away anger from thy heart, and cause evil to pass away from thy flesh: for childhood and youth are vanity.

ECCLESIASTES (PREACHER) CHAPTER 12

1 And remember him creating thee in the days of thy youth, till even when the days of evil shall not come, and the years draw near in which thou shalt say, Not to me delight in them;

2 Till when the sun shall not be darkened, and the light, and the moon, and the stars, and the clouds turned not back after the rain:

3 In the day those watching the house shall tremble, and the strong men bent themselves, and the grinders ceased for they were few, and they looking through the lattice were darkened,

4 And the doors were shut in the street, in the lowness of the voice of the grinding, and he shall rise up at the voice of the bird, and all the daughters of the song shall bow down;

5 Also from height they shall be afraid, and being dismayed in the way, and the almond tree shall be despised, and the locust shall become a burden, and the caperberry shall fail: for man shall go to his eternal house, and they mourning, went about in the street:

6 Till when the cord of silver shall be removed far off, and the bowl of gold be broken, and the bucket shall be broken at the fountain, and the wheel broken at the cistern.

7 And the dust shall turn back to the earth as it was, and the spirit shall turn back to God who gave it.

8 Vanity of vanities, said the preacher; all is vanity.

9 And besides, the preacher was wise; he yet taught the people knowledge; and he gave ear, and sought out, setting in order many parables.

10 The preacher sought to find words: of delight: and that written was straight, words of truth.

11 The words of the wise are as goads, and as nails planted of the masters of the gatherings; they were given from one shepherd.

12 And besides, from these, my son, beware: of making many books, no end; and much study wearies the flesh.

13 We will hear the end of all the word: Fear thou God, and watch his commands: for this is all man.

14 For God will bring every work into judgment, with every thing hidden, whether good, and whether evil.

THE SCROLL OF ESTHER

Hebrew title: Megilath Esther
Estimated Range of Dating: 4th century B.C.

*(The Scroll of Esther is a book in the third section (Ketuvim, "Writings") of the Jewish Tanakh (the Hebrew Bible) and in the Christian Old Testament. It is one of the five Scrolls (Megillot) in the Hebrew Bible. The Megillat Esther (Scroll of Esther) became the last of the 24 books of the Tanakh to be canonised by the Sages of the "Great Assembly" . According to the Talmud, it was a redaction by the Great Assembly of an original text by Mordecai. It is usually dated to the 4th century BC.

The book tells us the story of a Hebrew woman in Persia, born as Hadassah but known as Esther, who becomes Queen of Persia and prevents a genocide of her people. The story forms the core of the Jewish festival of Purim, during which it is read aloud twice: once in the evening and again the next morning. The books of Esther and Song of Songs are the only books in the Hebrew Bible that do not mention God.

[ The Great Assembly: According to Jewish tradition the Men of the Great Assembly or Anshei Knesset HaGedolah, also known as the Great Synagogue, or Synod, was an assembly of 120 scribes, sages, and prophets, in the period from the end of the Biblical prophets since the early Second Temple period (which started around 516 BC) to the early Hellenistic period (which began with Alexander's conquests of 333-332 BC). It comprised such prophets as Haggai, Zechariah, Malachi (who is Ezra), Daniel, Hananiah, Mishael, Azariah, Nehemiah ben Hachaliah, Mordechai and Zerubabel b. Shaaltiel, among others. Sometimes, the Great Assembly is simply designated as "Ezra and his court of law" (Beit Din). Among the developments in Judaism that are attributed to them are the fixing of the Jewish Biblical canon, including the Book of Ezekiel, Daniel, Esther, and the Twelve Minor Prophets; the introduction of the Feast of Purim; and the institution of the prayer known as the "Shemoneh 'Esreh" as well as the synagogal prayers, rituals, and benedictions.]

The biblical Book of Esther is set in the Persian capital of Susa (Shushan) in the third year of the reign of the Persian king Ahasuerus. Titus Flavius Josephus identifies Ahasuerus as either Xerxes I (Kheshayarsa I, reigned 465 to 424 BC) or Artaxerxes II (Arta-kheshayarsa II, reigned 404 to 358 BC). The name Ahasuerus is equivalent to Artaxerxes. On his accession, however, Artaxerxes II lost Egypt to pharaoh Amyrtaeus, after which it was no longer part of the Persian empire. Ahasuerus (Esther 1:1) as Artaxerxes III (358–338 BC) reconquered Egypt, and therefore may well be the king in whose time the story plays.

Copyright © 2026 by Lord Henfield, Guildford Scientific Press

Classical sources such as Josephus, the Jewish commentary Esther Rabbah and the Christian theologian Bar-Hebraeus, as well as the Greek Septuagint translation of Esther, instead identify Ahasuerus as either Artaxerxes I (reigned 465 to 424 BC) or Artaxerxes II (reigned 404 to 358 BC).

On his accession, however, Artaxerxes II lost Egypt to pharaoh Amyrtaeus, after which it was no longer part of the Persian empire. In his Historia Scholastica Petrus Comestor identified Ahasuerus (Esther 1:1) as Artaxerxes III (358–38 BC) who reconquered Egypt.

King Ahasuerus, ruler of the Persian Empire, holds a lavish 180-day banquet, initially for his court and dignitaries and afterwards a seven-day banquet for all inhabitants of the capital city, Shushan (Esther 1:1–9). On the seventh day of the latter banquet, Ahasuerus orders the queen, Vashti, to display her beauty before the guests by coming before them wearing her crown (1:10–11). She refuses, infuriating Ahasuerus, who on the advice of his counselors removes her from her position as an example to other women who might be emboldened to disobey their husbands (1:12–19). A decree follows that "every man should bear rule in his own house" (1:20–22).

Ahasuerus then makes arrangements to choose a new queen from a selection of beautiful young women from throughout the empire (2:1–4). Among these women is a Jewish orphan named Esther, who was raised by her cousin or uncle, Mordecai (2:5–7). She finds favour in the King's eyes, and is crowned his new queen, but does not reveal her Jewish heritage (2:8–20). Shortly afterwards, Mordecai discovers a plot by two courtiers, Bigthan and Teresh, to assassinate Ahasuerus. The conspirators are apprehended and hanged, and Mordecai's service to the King is recorded (2:21–23).

Ahasuerus appoints Haman as his viceroy (3:1). Mordecai, who sits at the palace gates, falls into Haman's disfavour, as he refuses to bow down to him (3:2–5). Haman discovers that Mordecai refused to bow on account of his Jewishness, and in revenge plots to kill not just Mordecai, but all the Jews in the empire (3:6). He obtains Ahasuerus' permission to execute this plan, against payment of ten thousand talents of silver, and casts lots ("purim") to choose the date on which to do this – the thirteenth of the month of Adar (3:7–12). A royal decree is issued throughout the kingdom to slay all Jews on that date. (3:13–15).

When Mordecai discovers the plan, he goes into mourning and implores Esther to intercede with the King (4:1–5). But she is afraid to present herself to the King unsummoned, an offense punishable by death (4:6–12). Instead, she directs Mordecai to have all Jews fast for three days for her, and vows to fast as well (4:15–16.). On the third day she goes to Ahasuerus, who stretches out his sceptre to her to indicate that she is not to be punished (5:1–2). She invites him to a feast in the company of Haman (5:3–5). During the feast, she asks them to attend a further feast the next evening (5:6–8). Meanwhile, Haman is again offended by Mordecai and, at his wife's suggestion, has a gallows built to hang him (5:9–14).

That night, Ahasuerus cannot sleep, and orders the court records be read to him (6:1). He is reminded that Mordecai interceded in the previous plot against his life, and discovers that Mordecai never received any recognition (6:2–3). Just then, Haman appears to request the King's permission to hang Mordecai, but before he can make this request, Ahasuerus asks Haman what should be done for the man that the King wishes to honor (6:4–6). Assuming that the King is referring to Haman himself, Haman suggests that the man be dressed in the King's royal robes, and crown and led around on the King's royal horse, while a herald calls: "See how the King honours a man he wishes to reward!" (6:7–9). To his surprise and horror, the King instructs Haman to do so to Mordecai (6:10–11).

Immediately after, Ahasuerus and Haman attend Esther's second banquet. The King promises to grant her any request, and she reveals that she is Jewish and that Haman is planning to exterminate her people, including her (1–6). Overcome by rage, Ahasuerus leaves the room; meanwhile Haman stays behind and begs Esther for his life, falling upon her in desperation (7). The King returns in at this very moment and thinks Haman is assaulting the queen; this makes him angrier and he orders Haman hanged on the very gallows that Haman had prepared for Mordecai (8–10).

Unable to annul a formal royal decree, the King instead adds one to it, permitting the Jews to assemble and destroy any and all of those seeking to kill them (8:1–14). On 13 Adar, Haman's ten sons and 500 other men are killed in Shushan (9:1–12). Upon hearing of this, Esther requests it be repeated the next day, whereupon 300 more men are killed (9:13–15). Over 75,000 enemies are slaughtered by the Jews, who are careful to take no plunder (9:16–17). Mordecai and Esther send letters throughout the provinces instituting an annual commemoration of the Jewish people's redemption, in a holiday called Purim (9:20–28). Ahasuerus remains very powerful and continues his reign, with Mordecai assuming a prominent position in his court (10:1–3).)

ESTHER CHAPTER 1

1 And it will be in the days of Ahasuerus, (this Ahasuerus reigned from India and even to Cush; seven and twenty and one hundred provinces:)

2 In those days, when king Ahasuerus (Emperor Artakhshasa I, Artaxerxes I, c. 465-425 BC) sat upon the throne of his kingdom, which was in Shushan (Susa) the fortress,

3 In the third year to his reign he made a drinking to all his chiefs and his servants; the power of Persia and Media, the nobles and chiefs of the provinces before him:

4 In his causing to see the riches of the glory of his kingdom, and the honor of his great splendor many days, eighty and one hundred days.

5 And in these days being completed the king made to all the people being found in Shushan the fortress, a drinking to the great and even to the small, seven days, in the enclosure of the garden of the king's house;

6 Splendid fine white linen, and cerulean purple, made fast with cords of byssus and purple, upon rings of silver and pillars of marble: couches of gold and silver upon a tesselated pavement of marble, and marble and pearl and spotted marble.

7 And giving drink in vessels of gold and vessels different from vessels, and wine of the kingdom, an abundance, according to the hand of the king.

8 Giving to drink according to the edict; none compelling, for thus the king appointed to all the multitude of his house to do according to the desire of man and man.

9 Also Vashti the queen made a drinking to the women of the house of the kingdom which was to king Ahasuerus.

10 In the seventh day, as the heart of the king being good with wine, he said to Mehuman, Biztha, Harbona, Bigtha, and Abagtha, Zethar, and Carcas, the seven eunuchs serving the face of king Ahasuerus,

11 To bring Vashti the queen before the king with the crown of the kingdom, to cause the people and the chiefs to see her beauty: for she was good of appearance.

12 And the queen Vashti will refuse to come in at the word of the king which was by the hand of the eunuchs: and the king will be angry greatly, and his wrath burnt in him.

13 And the king will say to the wise knowing the times, (for thus spake the king before all knowing the edict and judgment:

14 And there drew near to him Carshena, Shethar, Admatha, Tarshish, Meres, Marsena, Memucan, seven chiefs of Persia and Media, seeing the face of the king, sitting the first in the kingdom;)

15 According to the edict what to do against the queen Vashti, for that she did not the word of the king Ahasuerus by the hand of the eunuchs?

16 And Memucan will say before the king, Not against the king alone did Vashti the queen do evil, but against all the chiefs and against all the peoples that are in all the provinces of the king Ahasuerus.

17 For the word of the queen will go forth ball the women to cause their husbands to be despised in their eyes, in their saying, The king Ahasuerus said to bring in Vashti the queen before him, and she came not

18 And this day shall the chief ladies of Persia and Media say, which heard the word of the queen to all the chiefs of the king, and according to contempt and reproach.

19 If good to the king, the word of the kingdom shall go forth from before him, and it shall be written in the edict of the Persians and Medea, and it shall not pass away, that Vashti shall not come before the king Ahasuerus; and the king shall give her kingdom to her companion good above her.

20 And the decree of the king which he shall make being heard in all his kingdom, (for it is great,) and all the women shall give honor to their husbands, to the great and even to the small.

21 And the word will be good in the eyes of the king and the chiefs; and the king will do according to the word of Memucan.

22 And he will send letters to all the provinces of the king, to provinces and provinces, according to its writing, and to people and people, according to their tongue, for every man to be ruling in his house; and being spoken according to the tongue of his people.

ESTHER CHAPTER 2

1 After these words, as the wrath of the king Ahasuerus was quiet., he remembered Vashti, and what she did, and what was decided against her:

2 And the king's young men will say, those serving him, They shall seek for the king, maidens, virgins good of appearance:

3 And the king shall appoint overseers in all the provinces of his kingdom, and they shall gather together all the maidens, virgins, good of appearance, to Shushan the fortress, to the house of the women, to the hand of Hegai, the king's eunuch, watching the women; giving their purifications:

4 And the maiden who shall be good in the eyes of the king shall reign instead of Vashti. And the word will be good in the eyes of the king; and he will do so.

5 A man, a Jew, was in Shushan the fortress, and his name Mordecai, son of Jair, son of Shimei, son of Kish, a man, a Benjamite;

6 Who was carried captive from Jerusalem with the captivity which was carried into exile with Jeconiah, king of Judah, whom Nebuchadnezzar king of Babel carried into exile.

7 And he will be nourishing Hadassah (this is Esther) his uncle's daughter: for not to her, father and mother, and the maiden beautiful of form and good of aspect; and in the death of her father and her mother; Mordecai took her to him for a daughter.

8 And it will be in hearing the word of the king and his edict, and in the gathering together of the many maidens to Shushan the fortress, to the hand of Hegai, and Esther will be taken to the house of the king to the hand of Hegai watching the women.

9 And the maiden will be good in his eyes, and she will receive mercy before him; and he will hasten her purifications, and to give her portion to her, and to give to her seven chosen maidens from the house of the king: and he will change her and her maidens for good to the house of the women.

10 Esther announced not her people and her birth: for Mordecai commanded to her that she shall not announce.

11 And in every day and day, Mordecai going about before the enclosure of the house of the women, to know the peace of Esther, and what will be done with her.

12 And in the coming of the order of maiden and maiden to come in to the king Ahasuerus, from the end of there being to her, according to edict; of women twelve months (for so shall be completed the days of their purifications, six months with oil of myrrh, and six months with spices, and with the purifications of the women;)

13 And thus came the maiden to the king; all which she shall say shall be given to her, to come with her from the house of the women even to the, house of the king.

14 In the evening she came, and in the morning she turned back to the second house of the women, to the hand of Shaashgaz, the king's eunuch watching the concubines: she will no more come to the king except the king delighted in her, and she was called by name.

15 And in the coming of the turn of Esther the daughter of Abihail, uncle of Mordecai, which he took to him for a daughter, to go in to the king, she sought not a word except what Hegai the king's eunuch watching the women shall say. And Esther will be taking up favor in the eyes of all seeing her.

16 And Esther will be taken to the king Ahasuerus, to the house of his kingdom, in the tenth month, this the month Tebeth, in the seventh year to his kingdom.

17 And the king will love Esther above all the women, and she will receive favor and mercy before him above all the virgins; and he will set the crown of the kingdom upon her head, and he will cause her to reign instead of Vashti.

18 And the king will make a great drinking to all his chiefs and his servants; Esther's drinking; and he made rest to the provinces, and he will give a lifting up according to the hand of the king.

19 And in the gathering together the virgins the second time, and Mordecai sat in the gate of the king.

20 And Esther not announcing her kindred and her people, as Mordecai commanded to her: and Esther did the saying of Mordecai as when she was in bringing up with him.

21 In those days, and Mordecai sat in the gate of the king, Bigthan was angry, and Teresh, two eunuchs of the king watching the threshold; and they will seek to stretch forth the hand against the king Ahasuerus.

22 And the word will be known to Mordecai, and he will announce to Esther the queen; and Esther will tell to the king in the name of Mordecai.

23 And the word will be sought out and found, and they two will be hung upon a tree: and it will be written in the book of the words of the days before the king.

ESTHER CHAPTER 3

1 After these words the king Ahasuerus magnified Haman, son of Hammedatha the Agagite; and he will lift him up and set his seat above all the chiefs that were with him.

2 And all the king's servants which were in the king's gate were bowing and worshiping to Haman; for thus the king commanded for him. And Mordecai will not bow, and he will not worship.

3 And the king's servants that were in the king's gate will say to Mordecai, Wherefore dost thou pass by the king's Command?

4 And it will be in their saying to him day and day, and he will not hear to them, and they will announce to Haman to see whether the words of Mordecai will stand: for he announced to them that he was a Jew.

5 And Haman will see that Mordecai bowed not, and not worshiping to him, and Haman will be filled with wrath.

6 And it will be despised in his eyes to stretch forth the hand against Mordecai alone; for they announced to him the people of Mordecai: and Haman will seek to destroy all the Jews which are in all the kingdom of Ahasuerus, the people of Mordecai.

7 In the first month (this the month Nisan,) in the twelfth year to the king Ahasuerus, he cast Pur (this is the lot) before Haman from day to day, and from month to month, this the twelfth the month Adar.

8 And Haman will say to king Ahasuerus, There is one people scattered and dispersed between the peoples in all the provinces of thy kingdom; and their laws different from all people; they not doing the laws of the king: and it not being suitable to the king to suffer them.

9 If good to the king, it shall be written to destroy them: and I will weigh ten thousand talents of silver to the hands of those doing the work, to bring to the king's treasures.

10 And the king will remove the signet ring from his hand, and will give it to Haman the son of Hammedatha, the Agagite, to press the Jews.

11 And the king will say to Haman, The silver is given to thee, and the people, to do with them as is good in thine eyes.

12 And the king's scribes will be called in the first month, in the thirteenth day in it, and it will be written according to all that Haman commanded to the king's satraps and to the prefects, which were over province and province, and to the chiefs of people and people of province and province, according to its writing, and people and people according to their tongue; in the name of king Ahasuerus it was written, and sealed with the king's signet ring.

13 { And the letters were sent by the hand of the runners to all the king's provinces, to cut off, to kill and to destroy, all the Jews, from the youth and even to the old man, the little ones and women, in one day, in the thirteenth to the twelfth month, (this the month Adar) and their spoil for plunder.}

14 A copy of the writing to be given an edict in every province and province, being manifested to all peoples to be ready for that day.

15 And they running went forth, being impelled by the word of the king, and the edict was given in Shushan the fortress. And the king and Haman sat down to drink; and the city Shushan was disquieted.

ESTHER CHAPTER 4

1 And Mordecai knew all that was done, and Mordecai will rend his garments, and put on sackcloth and ashes, and he will go forth into the city, and he will cry out a great and bitter cry;

2 And he will come even before the king's gate: for none to come into the king's gate in putting on sackcloth.

3 And in every province and province the place where the word of the king and his edict coming, great mourning to the Jews, and fasting and weeping and wailing; sackcloth and ashes will be spread to many.

4 And Esther's maidens will go in, and her eunuchs, and they will announce to her: and the queen will be greatly grieved; and she will send garments to clothe Mordecai and to put away his sackcloth from off him: and he received not

5 And Esther will call to Hatach from the king's eunuchs, whom he caused to stand before her, and she will give him a charge to Mordecai, to know what this, and for what this

6 And Hatach went forth to Mordecai to the broad place of the city, which was before the king's gate.

7 And Mordecai will announce to him all which befell him, and the exposition of the silver which Haman said to weigh to the king's treasures for the Jews to destroy them.

8 And the copy of the writing of the edict which was given in Shushan to destroy them, he gave to him to cause Esther to see, and to announce to her, and to charge upon her to go in to the king to implore mercy, and to seek from before him for her people.

9 And Hatach will go in and announce to Esther the words of Mordecai.

10 And Esther will say to Hatach, and will give him a charge to Mordecai;

11 All the king's servants, and the people of the kings provinces, knowing that every man and woman who shall go in to the king to the inner enclosure who shall not be called, one edict of his to put to death only which the king shall stretch out to him the sceptre of gold, and he lived: and I was not called to go in to the king this thirty days.

12 And they will announce to Mordecai, Esther's words.

13 And Mordecai will tell to turn back to Esther, Thou wilt not imagine in thy soul to escape in the house of the king more than all the Jews.

14 For if being silent, thou shalt be silent in this time, breath and deliverance shall stand up to the Jews from another place; and thou and thy father's house shall be destroyed: and who shall know if for a time like this thou camest to the kingdom?

15 And Esther will tell to turn back to Mordecai:

16 Go collect together all the Jews being found in Shushan, and fast ye for me, and ye shall not eat and ye shall not drink three days, night and day also I and my maidens will fast thus and in this I will go in to the king which is not according to the edict; and according to that I perished, I perished.

17 And Mordecai will pass by, and will do according to all that Esther charged upon him.

ESTHER CHAPTER 5

1 {And it will be in the third day, Esther will put on dominion, and she will stand in the enclosure of the king's house, the interior before the king's house: and the king will sit upon the throne of his kingdom, in the house of the kingdom, before the door of the house.}

2 And it will be when the king saw Esther the queen standing in the enclosure, she received favor in his eyes: and the king will stretch out to Esther the sceptre of gold which is in his hand: and Esther will draw near and touch upon the head of the sceptre.

3 And the king will say to her, What to thee, Esther the queen? what thy seeking? even to the half of the kingdom and it shall be given to thee.

4 And Esther will say, If good to the king, will the king come, and Haman, this day, to the drinking which I made for him?

5 And the king will say, Hasten ye Haman to do the word of Esther. And the king will go in, and Haman, to the drinking which Esther made.

6 And the king will say to Esther at the drinking of wine, What thy asking? and it shall be given to thee: and what thy seeking? even to the half of the kingdom it shall be done.

7 And Esther will answer and say, My asking and my seeking:

8 If I found favor in the eyes of the king, and if good to the king to give my asking and to do my seeking, the king shall come and Haman to the drinking that I shall make for them, and to-morrow I will do as the king said.

9 And Haman went forth in that day being glad and good of heart: and when Haman saw Mordecai in the king's gate, and he rose not up and moved not himself for him, and Haman will be filled with wrath against Mordecai.

10 And Haman will contain himself, and will go in to his house; and he will send and cause his friends to come, and Zeresh his wife.

11 And Haman will recount to them the glory of his riches, and the multitude of his sons, and all how the king magnified him, and how he lifted him up over the chiefs and servants of the king.

12 And Haman will say also, Esther the queen caused none to come in with the king to the drinking which she made but me; and also to-morrow I am called to her with the king.

13 And all this was not an equivalent to me in all the time which I see Mordecai the Jew sitting in the king's gate.

14 And Zeresh his wife will say to him, and all his friends, Make ye a tree high fifty cubits, and in the morning say thou to the king, and they shall hang Mordecai upon it: and go thou in with the king to the drinking, being glad. And the word will be good before Haman; and he will make the tree.

ESTHER CHAPTER 6

1 In that night the king's sleep fled away, and he will say to bring in the book of memorials of the words of the days; and they will be read before the king.

2 And it will be found written that Mordecai announced concerning Bigthana and Teresh, the king's two eunuchs watching the threshold, who sought to stretch forth the hand upon the king Ahasuerus.

3 And the king will say, What honor was done and greatness to Mordecai for this? And the young men of the king serving him will say, Not a word was done with him.

4 And the king will say, Who is in the enclosure? And Haman came to the enclosure of the king's house the exterior, to say to the king to hang Mordecai upon the tree which he prepared for him.

5 And the king's young men will say to him, Behold, Haman standing in the enclosure. And the king will say, He shall come in.

6 And Haman will come in. And the king will say to him, What to be done for the man whom the king delighted in his honor? And Haman will say in his heart, To whom will the king delight to do honor more abundantly than me?

7 And Haman will say to the king, The man whom the king delighted in his honor,

8 They shall bring in the clothing of the kingdom which the king was clothed in, it and the horse which the king rode upon him, and the crown of the kingdom which was given upon his head:

9 And giving the clothing and the horse to the hand of a man of the chiefs of the king, the nobles; and clothe the man which the king delighted in his honor, and cause him to ride upon the horse in the broad place of the city, and tall before him, Thus shall it be done to the man whom the king delighted in his honor.

10 And the king will say to Haman, Hasten; take the clothing and the horse according as thou spakest, and do thus to Mordecai the Jew, sitting in the king's gate: not a word shall fall from all which thou spakest

11 And Haman will take the clothing and the horse, and he will clothe Mordecai, and cause him to ride in the broad place of the city, and he will call before him, Thus shall it be done to the man whom the king delighted in his honor.

12 And Mordecai will turn back to the king's gate. And Haman hastened to his house, and the head covered.

13 And Haman will recount to Zeresh his wife, and to all his friends, all which befell him. And his wise men and Zeresh his wife will say to him, If Mordecai be from the seed of the Jews which thou didst begin to fall before him, thou shalt not prevail against him; for falling, thou shalt fall before him.

14 They yet speaking with him, and the king's eunuchs drew near, and they will hasten to bring Haman to the drinking which Esther made.

ESTHER CHAPTER 7

1 And the king will go in and Haman to drink with Esther the queen.

2 And the king will say to Esther also in the second day at the drinking of wine, What thy asking, queen Esther? and it shall be given to thee: and what thy seeking? even to the half of the kingdom and it shall be done.

3 And Esther the queen will answer and say, If I found grace in thine eyes, O king, and if good to the king, my soul shall be given to me in my asking, and my people in my seeking

4 For we were sold, I and my people, to cut off, to kill and to destroy. And if for servants and for maids we were sold, I was silent, but the enemy made not even for the loss of the king.

5 And the king Ahasuerus will say, and he will say to Esther the queen, Who is he, and where is he, whom his heart filled him to do thus?

6 And Esther will say, The man, the adversary and enemy, this evil Haman., And Haman was terrified from before the king and the queen.

7 And the king rose up in his wrath from the drinking of wine, to the garden of the palace: and Haman stood up to seek out for his soul from Esther the queen; for he saw that evil was completed for him from the king.

8 And the king turned back from the garden of the palace to the house of the drinking of wine; and Haman fell upon the bed which Esther was upon And the king will say, Also is he to force the queen with me in the house? The word went forth from the king's mouth, and they covered Haman's face.

9 And Harbonah, one of the eunuchs, will say before the king, Also behold the tree which Haman made for Mordecai who spake good for the king, standing in Haman's house, high fifty cubits: And the king will say, Ye shall hang him upon it

10 And they will hang Haman upon the tree that he preps for Mordecai. And the wrath of the king subsided.

ESTHER CHAPTER 8

1 In that day the king Ahasuerus gave to Esther the queen, the house of Haman the Jews' enemy. And Mordecai came before the king; for Esther announced what he was to her.

2 And the king will remove his signet ring which he caused to pass from Haman, and he will give it to Mordecai. And Esther will set Mordecai over the house of Haman.

3 And Esther will add and she will speak before the king, and she will fall before his feet and weep, and make supplication to him to cause the evil of Haman the Agagite to pass away, and his purpose that he purposed against the Jews.

4 And the king will stretch out to Esther the scepter of gold: and Esther will rise and stand before the king,

5 And she will say, If good to the king, and if I found favor before him, and the word be right before the king, and I good in his eyes, it shall be written to turn back the writings, the purposes of Haman son of Hammedatha the Agagite, that he wrote to destroy the Jews that were in all the king's provinces:

6 For how shall I be able and I looked upon the evil which shall be found with my people? And how shall I be able and I looked upon the destruction of my kindred?

7 And the king Ahasuerus will say to Esther the queen, and to Mordecai the Jew, The house of Haman I gave to Esther, and they hung him upon the tree because he stretched forth his hand against the Jews.

8 And write ye for the Jews as is good in your eyes, in the king's name, and seal it with the king's signet ring: for the writing which was written in the king's name, and sealed with the king's signet ring, none to turn back.

9 And the king's scribes will be called in that time in the third month, (this the month Sivan) in the three and twentieth in it; and it will be written according to all that Mordecai commanded, to the Jews, and to the satraps, and the prefects, and the chiefs of the provinces which are from India and even to Cush, seven and twenty and a hundred provinces, province and province according to its writing, and people and people according to their tongue, and to the Jews according to their writing, and according to their tongue.

10 And he will write in the name of the king Ahasuerus, and seal with the king's signet ring; and he will send letters by the hand of runners on horses riding the courser, the mules, sons of mares:

11 Which the king gave to the Jews which were in every city and city to gather together, and to stand for their soul, to cut off, and to kill and to destroy all the power of the people and province pressing upon them, little ones and women, and their spoil for booty,

12 In one day in all the provinces of king Ahasuerus, in the thirteenth to the twelfth month, this the month Adar.

13 The copy of the writing to be given an edict in every province and province, revealed to all the peoples, and for the Jews to be ready for this day to avenge themselves of their enemies.

14 The runners riding the courser, the mules, went forth, being hastened and impelled by the word of the king. And the edict was given in Shushan the fortress.

15 And Mordecai went forth from before the king in clothing of the kingdom, cerulean purple, and white, and a great crown of gold, and a wide robe of byssus and purple: and the city Shushan shouted and was glad:

16 There was to the Jews light and gladness and joy and honor.

17 And in every province and province, and in every city and city, the place where the word of the king and his edict coming, gladness and joy to the Jews, a drinking and a good day. And many peoples of the land becoming Jews; for the fear of the Jews fell upon them.

ESTHER CHAPTER 9

1 And in the twelfth month (this the month Adar) in the thirteenth day in it, when the word of the king drew near, and his edict to do in the day that the enemies of the Jews expected to have power over them, (and it was turned that these Jews will have power over those hating them:)

2 The Jews were gathered together in their cities in all the provinces of the king Ahasuerus, to stretch forth the hand upon those seeking their evil: and a man stood not before them, for their fear fell upon all the peoples.

3 And all the chiefs of the provinces, and the satraps, and the prefects, and those doing the work that was for the king, were lifting up with the Jews; for the fear of Mordecai fell upon them:

4 For great was Mordecai in the house of the king, and his fame went into all the provinces: for the man Mordecai went and was magnified

5 And the Jews will strike against all their enemies with the blow of the sword, and killing and destruction; and they will do according to their desire upon those hating them.

6 And in Shushan the fortress the Jews slew and destroyed five hundred men.

7 Parshandatha and Dalphon, and Aspatha,

8 And Poratha, and Adalia, and Aridatha,

9 And Parmashta, and Arisai, and Aridai. and Vajezatha,

10 The ten sons of Haman son of Hammedatha, the Jews' enemy, they slew; and upon the prey they stretched not out their hand.

11 In that day came the number of those slain in Shushan the fortress before the king.

12 And the king will say to Esther the queen, In Shushan the fortress the Jews slew and destroyed five hundred men, and the ten sons of Haman: in the rest of the king's provinces what did they? and what thy asking? and it shall be given to thee: and what more thy seeking? and it shall be done.

13 And Esther will say, If good to the king, it shall be given also to-morrow to the Jews that are in Shusan to do according to the edict of the day, and they shall hang Haman's ten sons upon the tree.

14 And the king will say to do this. And the edict will be given in Shushan; and they hung the ten sons of Haman.

15 For the Jews that were in Shushan will gather together also in the fourteenth day to the month Adar, and they will kill in Shushan three hundred men; and upon the prey they sent not the hand.

16 And the rest of the Jews which were in the king's provinces gathered together and stood for their soul, and rested from their enemies, and slew among their enemies five and seventy thousand; and upon the prey they sent not their hand.

17 In the thirteenth day to the month Adar, and resting in the fourteenth in it, and making it a day of drinking and gladness.

18 And the Jews that were in Shushan were assembled in the thirteenth in it, and in the fourteenth in it; and resting in the fifteenth in it, and making it a day of drinking and gladness.

19 For this the Jews of the villages and in cities of the open country making the fourteenth day to the month Adar, gladness and drinking, and a good day, and sending portions a man to his neighbor.

20 And Mordecai will write these words, and send letters to all the Jews that were in all the king Ahasuerus's provinces, near and far off,

21 To set up to them to be doing the fourteenth day to the month Adar, and the fifteenth day in it, in every year and year,

22 As the days which the Jews rested in them from their enemies, and the month that was turned to them from grief to gladness, and from mourning to a good day, to make them days of drinking and gladness, and sending portions a man to his neighbor, and gifts to the needy.

23 And the Jews admitting what they began to do, and what Mordecai wrote to them.

24 For Haman son of Hammedatha the Amite, oppressing all the Jews, purposed against the Jews to destroy them, and he cast Pur (this the lot) to discomfit them and to destroy them;

25 And in her coming before the king, he said by letter he will turn back his purpose of evil that he purposed against the Jews upon his head: and they hung him and his sons upon the tree.

26 For this they called to these days Purim, for the name of Pur. For this upon all the words of this epistle, and What they saw upon this, and what came to them,

27 The Jews set up and admitted upon them, and upon their seed, and upon all joining themselves to them, and they shall not pass by to be doing these two days according to their writing, and according to their time in every year and year;

28 And these days being remembered and done in every generation and generation, family and family, province and province, city and city; and these days of the lots shall not pass by from the midst of the Jews, and their remembrance shall not be ended from their seed.

29 And Esther the queen, the daughter of Abihail, and Mordecai the Jew, will write with all power to set up the epistle of Purim, this second.

30 And he will send the letter to all the Jews, to the seventy and twenty and a hundred provinces of the kingdom of Ahasuerus, words of peace and truth,

31 To set up these days of Purim in their times, as Mordecai the Jew set up to them, and Esther the queen, and as they set up for their souls and for their seed, the words of fastings and their cry:

32 And the saying of Esther set up these words of Purim; and it was written in the book.

ESTHER CHAPTER 10

1 And the king Ahasuerus will set up a tribute upon the land, and the isles of the sea.

2 And all the work of his power and his strength, and the exposition of the greatness of Mordecai which the king magnified him, are they not written upon the book of the words of the days to the kings of Media and Persia?

3 For Mordecai the Jew was second to the king Ahasuerus, and great to the Jews, and acceptable to the multitude of his brethren, seeking good for his people, and speaking peace to all his seed.

THE BOOK OF DANIEL

Hebrew title: Sefer Daniyel
Estimated Range of Dating: 2nd century B.C.

(The Book of Daniel is a 2nd-century BC biblical apocalypse with an ostensible 6th century setting, combining a prophecy of history with an eschatology (a portrayal of end times) both cosmic in scope and political in focus. It gives "an account of the activities and visions of Daniel, a noble Jew exiled at Babylon", and its message is that just as the God of Israel saves Daniel from his enemies, so he would save all Israel in their present oppression. This messianic-apocalyptic message influenced the Jewish Messianic Movement, the New Testament as well as the Protestant Reformation.

The Hebrew Bible includes the Book of Daniel in the Ketuvim (writings), while Christian Bibles group the work with the Major Prophets. It divides into two parts, a set of six court tales in chapters 1–6, written mostly in Aramaic, and four apocalyptic visions in chapters 7–12, written mostly in Hebrew; the deuterocanon contains three additional sections, the Song of the Three Holy Children, Susanna, and Bel and the Dragon.

The Book of Daniel is divided between the court tales of chapters 1–6 and the apocalyptic visions of 7–12, and between the Hebrew of chapters 1 and 8–12 and the Aramaic of chapters 2–7. Basic structure:

PART I: Tales (chapters 1:1–6:29)

- 1: Introduction (1:1–21 – set in the Babylonian era, written in Hebrew)
- 2: Nebuchadnezzar's dream of four kingdoms (2:1–49 – Babylonian era; Aramaic)
- 3: The fiery furnace (3:1–30/3:1-23, 91-97 – Babylonian era; Aramaic)
- 4: Nebuchadnezzar's madness (3:31/98–4:34/4:1-37 – Babylonian era; Aramaic)
- 5: Belshazzar's feast (5:1–6:1 – Babylonian era; Aramaic)
- 6: Daniel in the lions' den (6:2–29 – Median era with mention of Persia; Aramaic)

PART II: Visions (chapters 1–12:13)

- The beasts from the sea (1–28 – Babylonian era: Aramaic)
- 8: The ram and the he-goat (8:1–27 – Babylonian era; Hebrew)
- 9: Interpretation of Jeremiah's prophecy of the seventy weeks (9:1–27 – Median era; Hebrew)
- 10: The angel's revelation: kings of the north and south (10:1–12:13 – Persian era, mention of Greek era; Hebrew)

The Book of Daniel is preserved in the 12-chapter Masoretic Text and in two longer Greek versions, the original Septuagint version, c. 100 BC, and the later Theodotion version from c. 2nd century AD.

[The Masoretic Text (MT) is the authoritative Hebrew Aramaic text of the 24 books of the Tanakh in Rabbinic Judaism. The Masoretic Text defines the Jewish canon and its precise letter-text, with its vocalisation and accentuation known as the masorah. It was primarily copied, edited and distributed by a group of Jews known as the Masoretes between the 7th and 10th centuries AD.]

Both Greek texts contain three additions to Daniel: The Prayer of Azariah and Song of the Three Holy Children; the story of Susannah and the Elders; and the story of Bel and the Dragon. Theodotion is much closer to the Masoretic Text and became so popular that it replaced the original Septuagint version in all but two manuscripts of the Septuagint itself. The Greek additions were apparently never part of the Hebrew text.

Eight copies of the Book of Daniel, all incomplete, have been found at Qumran, two in Cave 1, five in Cave 4, and one in Cave 6. Between them, they preserve text from eleven of Daniel's twelve chapters, and the twelfth is quoted in the Florilegium (a compilation scroll) 4Q174, showing that the book at Qumran did not lack this conclusion. All eight manuscripts were copied between 125 BC (4QDanc) and about 50 AD (4QDanb), showing that Daniel was being read at Qumran only about 40 years after its composition. All appear to preserve the 12-chapter Masoretic version rather than the longer Greek text.

The prophecies of Daniel are accurate down to the career of Antiochus IV Epiphanes, king of Syria and oppressor of the Jews, but not in its prediction of his death: the author seems to know about Antiochus' two campaigns in Egypt (169 and 167 BC), the desecration of the Temple (the "abomination of desolation"), and the fortification of the Akra (a fortress built inside Jerusalem), but he seems to know nothing about the reconstruction of the Temple or about the actual circumstances of Antiochus' death in late 164 BCE. Chapters 10–12 must therefore have been written between 167 and 164 BC. There is no evidence of a significant time lapse between those chapters and chapters 8 and 9, and chapter 7 may have been written just a few months earlier again.

Further evidence of the book's date is in the fact that Daniel is excluded from the Hebrew Bible's canon of the prophets, which was closed around 200 BC, and the Wisdom of Sirach, a work dating from around 180 BC, draws on almost every book of the Old Testament except Daniel, leading scholars to suppose that its author was unaware of it. Daniel is, however, quoted in a section of the Sibylline Oracles commonly dated to the middle of the 2nd century BC, and was popular at Qumran at much the same time, suggesting that it was known from the middle of that century.

The author/editor was probably an educated Jew, knowledgeable in Greek learning, and of high standing in his own community. It is possible that the name of Daniel was chosen for the hero of the book because of his reputation as a wise seer in Hebrew tradition.

Daniel is one of a large number of Jewish apocalypses, all of them pseudonymous. The stories of the first half are legendary in origin, and the visions of the second the product of anonymous authors in the Maccabean period (2nd century BC). Chapters 1–6 are in the voice of an anonymous narrator, except for chapter 4 which is in the form of a letter from king Nebuchadnezzar; the second half (chapters 7–12) is presented by Daniel himself, introduced by the anonymous narrator in chapters 7 and 10.

The visions of chapters 7–12 reflect the crisis which took place in Judea in 167–164 BC when Antiochus IV Epiphanes, the Greek king of the Seleucid Empire, threatened to destroy traditional Jewish worship in Jerusalem. When Antiochus came to the throne in 175 BC the Jews were largely pro-Seleucid. The High Priestly family was split by rivalry, and one member, Jason, offered the king a large sum to be made High Priest. Jason also asked—or more accurately, paid—to be allowed to make Jerusalem a polis, or Greek city. This meant, among other things, that city government would be in the hands of the citizens, which meant in turn that citizenship would be a valuable commodity, to be purchased from Jason. None of this threatened the Jewish religion, and the reforms were widely welcomed, especially among the Jerusalem aristocracy and the leading priests. Three years later Jason was deposed when another priest, Menelaus, offered Antiochus an even larger sum for the post of High Priest.

Antiochus invaded Egypt twice, in 169 BC with success, but on the second incursion, in late 168 BC, he was forced to withdraw by the Romans. Jason, hearing a rumour that Antiochus was dead, attacked Menelaus to take back the High Priesthood. Antiochus drove Jason out of Jerusalem, plundered the Temple, and introduced measures to pacify his Egyptian border by imposing complete Hellenisation: the Jewish Book of the Law was prohibited and on 15 December 167 BC an "abomination of desolation", probably a Greek altar, was introduced into the Temple. With the Jewish religion now clearly under threat a resistance movement sprang up, led by the Maccabee brothers, and over the next three years it won sufficient victories over Antiochus to take back and purify the Temple.

The crisis which the author of Daniel addresses is the defilement of the altar in Jerusalem in 167 BC (first introduced in chapter 8:11): the daily offering which used to take place twice a day, at morning and evening, stopped, and the phrase "evenings and mornings" recurs through the following chapters as a reminder of the missed sacrifices. But whereas the events leading up to the sacking of the Temple in 167 BC and the immediate aftermath are remarkably accurate, the predicted war between the Syrians and the Egyptians (11:40–43) never took place, and the prophecy that Antiochus would die in Palestine (11:44–45) was inaccurate (he died in Persia). The obvious conclusion is that the account must have been completed near the end of the reign of Antiochus but before his death in December 164 BC, or at least before news of it reached Jerusalem, and the consensus of modern scholarship is accordingly that the book dates to the period 167–163 BC.)

DANIEL CHAPTER 1

1 In the third year to the kingdom of Jehoiakim, king of Judah, came Nebuchadnezzar* (604-562 BC) king of Babel to Jerusalem, and he will press it. (* In 587 BC, he distroyed Jerusalem and led the Jewish elite into Babylonian exile.)

2 And Jehovah will give Jehoiakim king of Judah into his hand, and from the number of vessels of the house of God: and he will bring them to the land of Shinar the house of his god; and he brought the vessels into the treasure-house of his god.

3 And the king will say to Ashpenaz the leader of his eunuchs to bring from the sons of Israel and from the seed royal, and from the nobles;

4 Children whom not any blemish in them, and good of aspect, and understanding in all wisdom, and knowing knowledge, and understanding intelligence, and to whom power in them to stand in the king's temple, and to teach them the writing and tongue of the chaldees

5 And the king will allot to them the word of a day in its day from the king's dainties and from the wine of his drinking: and to nourish them three years, and from the end of three years they shall stand before the king.

6 And there will be among them from the sons of Judah, Daniel, Hansniah, Mishael, and Azariah

7 And the chief of the eunuchs will set names to them: to David, Belteshazzar; and to Hananiah, Shadrach; and to Mishael, Meshach; and to Azariah, Abed-Nego.

8 And Daniel will set up upon his heart that he will not be defiled with the dainties of the king, and with the wine of his drinking: and he will seek from the chief of the eunuchs that he shall not defile himself.

9 And God will give Daniel to mercy and compassion before the chiefs of the eunuchs.

10 And the chief of the eunuchs will say to Daniel, I fear my lord the king, who allotted your food and your drink: for wherefore shall he see your faces gloomy above the children as of your age? and make my head guilty to the King

11 And Daniel will say to Melzar, whom the chief of the eunuchs appointed over Daniel, Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah,

12 Prove now thy servants, ten days; and they shall give to us from seed herbs, and we will eat, and water, and we will drink.

13 And our aspects shall be seen before thee, and the aspect of the children eating the king's dainties: and according to what thou shalt see, do with thy servants.

14 And he wilt hear to them for this word, and he will try them ten days.

16 And Melzar will be taking away their dainties, and the wine of their drinking, and he gave to them seed herbs.

17 And these four children, God gave to them knowledge and understanding in all writing and wisdom: and Daniel understood in every vision and dreams.

18 And from the end of the days when the king said to bring them in, and the chief of the eunuchs will bring them in before Nebuchadnezzar.

19 And the king will speak with them: and there was not found from all of them as Daniel, Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah: and they will stand before the king.

20 And every word of the wisdom of understanding which the king sought from them, and he will find them ten hands over all the sacred scribes, the enchanters which were in all his kingdom.

21 And Daniel will be even to one year to Cyrus the king.

DANIEL CHAPTER 2

1 And in the second year to the kingdom of Nebuchadnezzar, Nebuchadnezzar dreamed dreams, and his spirit will be moved, and his sleep was broken upon him.

2 And the king will say to call to the sacred scribes, and to the enchanters, and to the sorcerers, and to the Chaldeans, to announce to the king his dreams. And they will come and stand before the king.

3 And the king will say to them, I dreamed a dream, and my spirit will be moved to know the dream.

4 And the Ohaldeans will speak to the king Syriac: O king, live forever: say to thy servants the dream, and we will show the interpretation.

5 The king answered and said to the Chaldeans, The word went out from me: if ye will not make known to me the dream and its interpretation, ye shall be made pieces, and your houses shall be set dung-hills.

6 And if ye shall show the dream and its interpretation, ye shall receive from before me a gift and present, and great honor: therefore shove me the dream and its interpretation.

7 They answered a second time, and said, The king will say to his servants the dream, and we will show its interpretation.

8 And the king answered and said, Certainly I know that ye buy the time, for which cause that ye saw that the word went out from me.

9 Enough if ye will not make known to me the dream, this one edict for you; and ye divided out the word of falsehood and this corruption to say before me, till that the time shall change: therefore say to me the dream and I shall know that ye will show me its interpretation.

10 The Chaldean (Babylonian) answered before the king, and said, There is not a man upon the dry land that shall be able to show the king's word: for which cause that every king, leader, and ruler, asked not a word like this to any sacred scribe, and enchanter, and Chaldean.

11 And the word the king asked will be made rare, and there is not another that will show it before the king except the gods that their dwelling is not with flesh.

12 For this cause the king was in dignant and greatly angry, and he spake to destroy to all the wise of Babel.

13 And the edict went forth and the wise men being killed; and they sought Daniel and his associates to be killed.

14 At that time Daniel turned back counsel and reason to Arioch, leader of the king's executioners, that went forth to kill to the wise of Babel:

15 He answered and said to Arioch the king's ruler, For what the severe edict from before the king? Then Arioch made known the word to Daniel.

16 And Daniel went up and sought from the king that he will give time for it, and to show to the king the interpretation.

17 Then Daniel departed to his house, and made known the word to Hananiah, Mishael and Azariah his companions:

18 And for seeking companions from before the God of the heavens concerning this secret: that Daniel and his companions shall not be destroyed with the rest of the wise of Babel.

19 Then to Daniel in a vision of the night was the secret uncovered. Then Daniel praised to the God of the heavens.

20 Daniel. answered and said, For this the name of God being praised from forever and even to forever: for wisdom and strength are to him:

21 And he changes the times and the seasons; removing kings and setting up kings; giving wisdom to the wise and knowledge to those knowing understanding.

22 He uncovered deep and hidden things: he knew what in darkness, and light lodged with him.

23 For thee, O God of my fathers, I praise and laud that thou gavest me wisdom and strength, and now didst make known to me what we sought from thee: for thou didst make known to us the king's word.

24 For this cause Daniel went up to Arioch whom the king allotted to destroy the wise of Babel: he went and said thus to him: For the wise of Babel thou shalt not destroy: bring me up before the king, and I will show the interpretation to the king.

25 Then with haste Arioch brought up for Daniel before the king, and said thus to him, That I found a man from the sons of the captivity of Judah that will make known to the king the interpretation.

26 The king answered and said to Daniel, his name Belteshazzar, Is it to thee to be able to make known to me the dream that I saw, and its interpretation?

27 Daniel answered before the king, and said, The secret that the, king asked, not the wise men, the enchanters, the sacred scribes, the diviners, shall be able to show to the king;

28 But there is a God in the heavens revealing secrets, and he made known to king Nebuchadnezzar what to be in the latter days. Thy dream, and the visions of thy head upon thy bed, it is thus:

29 Thou, O king, thy thoughts upon thy bed went up what to be after this: and he revealing secrets made known to thee what to be.

30 And I not for wisdom that is in me more than all living is this secret revealed to me, but for the reason that they shall make known the interpretation to the king, and thou shalt know the thoughts of thy heart.

31 Thou, O king, wert seeing, and behold, one great image. This image vast, and its brightness excellent; it stood before thee, and its aspect terrible.

32 This image, its head of good gold, the breasts and arms of silver, and the bowels and thighs of brass:

34 Thou wert seeing even till a stone was cut out not with hands, and striking against the image upon the feet of iron and burnt clay, and breaking them in pieces.

35 At that time were beaten small at once, the iron, the burnt clay, the brass, the silver and the gold, and they were as the chaff of the threshing-floor of summer; and the wind lifted them up and all place was not found for them: and the stone striking against the image was for a great rock, and filled all the earth.

36 This the dream, and we will tell its interpretation before the king.

37 Thou, O king, a king of kings: for the God of the heavens gave to thee a kingdom strong and powerful, and splendid.

38 And in all that the sons of men dwelt, the beasts of the open field and the birds of the heavens he gave into thine hand, and gave thee power over them all Thou this head of gold.

39 And after thee shall arise another kingdom lower than thee, and another third kingdom of brass, that shall have power over all the earth.

40 And the fourth kingdom shall be strong as iron, because that iron beats small, and makes thin all: and as iron breaks all these, it shall beat small and break.

41 And that thou sawest the feet and toes, part of burnt clay of the potter, and part of iron, the kingdom shall be divided; and from the firmness of iron to be in it, for which cause that thou sawest iron mingled with earthen-ware.

42 And the toes of the feet, part of iron, and part of burnt clay, from the end of the kingdom shall be strong, and part shall be cut asunder.

43 That thou sawest the iron mingled with the earthen-ware, mingling for themselves with the seed of men: and not cleaving to them this with this, so as iron not mingling with burnt clay.

44 And in their days that they are kings, the God of the heavens shall set up a kingdom that shall not be destroyed forever: and its kingdom shall be left to another people; it shall beat small and destroy all these kingdoms, and this shall stand forever.

45 Because that thou sawest that the stone being cut from the rock not with hands, and it beat small the iron, the brass, the burnt clay, the silver and the gold: the great God made known to the king what to be after this: and the dream certain, and its interpretation faithful.

46 At that time king Nebuchadnezzar fell upon his face and prostrated himself to Daniel, and said to pour out a gift and sweet odors to him.

47 And the king answered to Daniel, and said, Of a truth that your God he is God of gods, and Lord of kings, and revealing secrets, that thou wert able to reveal this secret

48 Then the king multiplied to Daniel, and gave to him many a great gift, and gave him power over all the province of Babel, and chief of the prefects over all the wise of Babel

49 And Daniel sought from the king, and he appointed out over the business of the province of Babel to Shadrach, Meshach and Abed-Nego: and Daniel in the gate of the king.

DANIEL CHAPTER 3

1 Nebuchadnezzar the king made an image of gold; its height sixty cubits, and its breadth six cubits: he set it up in the valley of Dura, in the province of Babel.

2 And Nebuchadnezzar the king sent to gather together to the satraps, the prefects, and the governors, the chief judges, the treasurers, those skilled in law, the lawyers, and all the rulers of the provinces, to the drinking to the dedication of the image that Nebuchadnezzar the king set up.

3 At that time there being gathered together the satraps, the prefects and the governors, the chief judges, the treasurers, those skilled in law, the lawyers and all the rulers of the provinces, to the dedication of the image that Nebuchadnezzar the king set up; and standing before the image that Nebuchadnezzar set up.

4 And a herald called with strength, To you they say, O peoples, nations, and tongues,

5 In the time ye shall hear the voice of the horn, the pipe, the harp, the lyre, the psaltery, the bagpipe, and all sorts of music, ye shall fall and prostrate. yourselves to the image of gold that Nebuchadnezzar the king set up.

6 And whoever shall not fall and prostrate himself in the same moment, he shall be cast into a furnace of flaming fire.

7 For this cause in that time that all peoples heard the voice of the horn, the pipe, the harp, the lyre, the psaltery, and all sorts of music, all peoples, nations, and tongues, fell prostrating themselves to the image of gold that Nebuchadnezzar the king set up.

8 For this cause, at that time men of the Chaldeans drew near and ate up the Jews piece-meal.

9 They answered and said to Nebuchadnezzar the king, O king, live forever.

10 Thou, O king, didst set an edict, that every man that shall hear the voice of the horn, the pipe, the harp, the lyre, the psaltery and the bagpipe, and all sorts of music, shall fall and prostrate himself to the image of gold:

11 And whoever shall not fall and prostrate himself shall be cast into the midst of a furnace of flaming fire.

12 There are men, Jews, that thou didst appoint over the business of the province of Babel, Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-Nego; these men set not an account to thee, O king: they served not to thy gods; and to the image of gold that thou didst set up they prostrated themselves not

13 At that time Nebuchadnezzar in anger and wrath, said to bring Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-Nego. Then they brought these men before the king.

14 Nebuchadnemr answered and said to them, Is it on purpose O Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed Nego, ye not serving to my gods, and to the image of gold that I set up, ye not prostrating yourselves?

15 Now if ye being prepared that in the time that ye shall hear the voice of the horn, the pipe, the harp, the lyre, the psaltery, and the bagpipe, and all sorts of music, ye shall fall and prostrate yourselves to the image that I made; and if ye shall not prostrate yourselves in the same moment, ye shall be cast into the midst of the furnace of flaming fire; and who that God that shall deliver you from my hands?

16 Shadrach, Meshach and Abed-Nego answered, and saying to the king, O Nebuchadnezzar, we need not to turn back to thee upon this word.

17 If it is, our God whom we served will be able to deliver us from the furnace of flaming fire, and from thy hand, O king, he will deliver us.

18 And if not, it shall be made known to thee, O king, that to thy gods we serve not, and to the image of gold that thou didst set up we will not prostrate ourselves:

19 In that time Nebuchadnezzar being filled with wrath, and the form of the visage was changed to him against Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-Nego: he answered and said to heat to the furnace one seven times above that it was seen to be heated.

20 To the strong, the strong of strength that were in his army, he said to bind to Shadrach, Mesbach, and Abed-Nego, to cast into the furnace of flaming fire.

21 Then these men were bound in their wide trowsers, their tunics, and their mantles, and their clothing, and were cast into the midst of the furnace of flaming fire.

22 For this cause, as the word of the king being severe, and the furnace exceedingly heated, these men that took up to Shadrach, Meshach, and AbedNego, the flame of fire killed them.

23 And these three men, Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-Nego, fell into the midst of the furnace of flaming fire, bound.

24 At that time Nebuchadnezzar the king was grieved, and rose up in haste; he answered and said to the counselors, Did we not cast three men into the midst of the fire, bound? They answering and saying to the king, True, O king.

25 He answered and said, Lo, I see four men loose going about in the midst of the fire, and there is no hurt in them: and the aspect of the fourth like to the Son of God.

26 At that time Nebuchadnezzar drew near to the door of the furnace of flaming fire; he answered and said, Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-Nego, ye servants of God most high, go forth, and come. Then came forth Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-Nego, from the midst of the fire.

27 And there being gathered together the satraps, the prefects, and governors, and the king's counselors, looking upon these men that upon their bodies the fire had no power, and a hair of their head was not singed, and their wide trowsers were not changed, and the smell of fire passed not upon them.

28 Nebuchadnezzar answered and said, Blessed be their God of Shadrach,,Meshach, and Abed-Nego, who sent his messenger and delivered for his servants that trusted upon him, and they changed the king's word, and gave their bodies that they will not serve and prostrate themselves to any god, except to their God.

29 And an edict being set from me, That every people, nation and tongue, that shall say an error against their God, of Shadrach, Meshach, and AbedNego, shall be made pieces, and his house shall be set a dung-hill, because that there is no other God that shall be able to deliver according to this.

30 Then the king caused to Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-Nego, to prosper in the province of Babel.

DANIEL CHAPTER 4

1 Nebuchadnezzar the king to all peoples, nations and tongues, that dwell in all the earth, your peace shall become great

2 The signs and wonders. that the most high God made with me, it was pleasant before me to show.

3 His signs, how many! and his wonders, how mighty! his kingdom, an eternal kingdom, and his dominion with generation and generation.

4 I Nebuchadnezzar, was secure in my house, and green in my temple:

5 I saw a dream, and it will terrify me; and the conceptions upon my bed and the visions of my head, will cause me to tremble.

6 And an edict being set from me to bring up before me to all the wise of Babel, that they shall make known to me the interpretation of the dream.

7 At that time the sacred scribes, the enchanters, the Chaldeans, and the diviners, coming in: and I told the dream before them: and its interpretation they making not known to me.

8 And even at last Daniel came up before me, whose name Belteshazzar, according to the name of my god, and the spirit of the holy gods in him: and before him I told the dream:

9 O Belteshazzar, leader of the sacred scribes, for I knew that the spirit of the holy gods is in thee, and my secret pressed not upon thee; the visions of my dream that I saw, and its interpretation, say thou.

10 And the visions of my head upon my bed; I was seeing, and lo, a tree in the midst of the earth, and its height great

11 And the tree increased and was strong, and its height will reach to the heavens, and its sight to the end of all the earth:

12 Its foliage beautiful, and its fruit great, and food for all in it: and the beasts of the open field will be shaded under it, the buds of the heavens will dwell in its boughs, and all flesh will be nourished from it

13 I was seeing in the visions of my head upon my bed, and lo, a watcher and holy one came down from the heavens;

14 He called with strength, and thus he said, Hew down the tree, and cut off its branches, shake off its foliage and scatter its fruit: the beasts shall flee from under it, and the birds from its branches.

15 But leave the stump of its roots in the earth, and with a band of iron and brass, in the tender grass of the open field; and in the dew of the heavens it shall be wet, and its portion with the beasts in the green herb of the earth.

16 Its heart shall be changed from man, and the heart of a beast shall be given to it; and seven times shall pass over him.

17 The word by the decree of the watchers, and the saying of the holy ones is the question: for the reason that the living shall know that the Most High rules in the kingdom of men, and to whom that he will, he will give it, and he will raise up over it the low of men.

18 This dream, I king Nebuchadnezzar saw. And thou Belteshazzar, tell the interpretation, because that all the wise of my kingdom not being able to make known to me the interpretation: and thou art able, for the spirit of the holy gods is in thee.

19 Then Daniel, his name Belteshazzar, was astonished for one moment, and his thoughts terrified him. The king answered and said, Belteshazzar, the dream and its interpretation shall not terrify thee. Belteshazzar answered and said, My lord, the dream to those hating thee, and its interpretation to thine enemies.

20 The tree that thou sawest that increased and was strong, and its height will reach to the heavens, and its sight to all the earth,

21 And its foliage beautiful, and its fruit great, and food for all in it; under it the beast of the open field will dwell, and in its branches the birds of the heavens will dwell:

22 It is thou, O king, who increased and wert strong: and thy greatness increased and reached to the heavens, and thy dominion to the end of the earth.

23 And that the king saw a watcher and a holy one came down from the heavens, and said, Hew down the tree and destroy it; but leave the stump of its roots in the earth, and with a band of iron and brass in the tender grass of the open field; and with the dew of the heavens it shall be wet, and with the beasts of the open field its portion, even till seven times shall pass over him;

24 This the interpretation, O king, and this the decree of the Most High, that came upon my lord the king:

25 And for thee driving from men, and with the beasts of the open field to be thy dwelling, and they shall feed to thee grass as oxen, and wetting to thee from the dew of the heavens, and seven times shall pass over thee till that thou shalt know that the Most High rules in the kingdom of men, and to whom that he will, he will give it

26 And that they said to leave the stump of the roots of the tree; thy kingdom being sure to thee, from when thou shalt know that the heavens rule.

27 Wherefore, O king, my counsel shall be pleasant to thee, and break off thy sins by justice, and thine iniquities in compassionating the poor; if it shall be a lengthening to thy peace.

28 All came upon Nebuchadnezzar the king.

29 At the end of twelve months in the temple of the kingdom of Babel, he was going about 30 The king answered and said, Is not this great Babel, that I built it for the house of the kingdom by the strength of my power, and for the honor of my majesty?

31 Yet the word in the king's mouth, a voice from the heavens fell to thee, being said, O Nebuchadnezzar the king, the kingdom passed away from thee:

32 And from men driving thee out, and with beasts of the open field thy dwelling: and they shall feed to thee the grass as oxen, and seven times shall pass over thee till that thou shalt know that the Most High rules in the kingdom of men, and to whom he will, he will give it

33 In the same moment the word was added upon Nebuchadnezzar: and he was driven out from men, and he shall eat the green herb as oxen, and from the dew of the heavens his body shall be wet till that his hair was increased as eagles, and his nails as birds'.

34 And at the end of the days, I Nebuchadnezzar lifted up mine eyes to the heavens, and my knowledge will turn back to me, and I praised to the Most High, and to him living forever, I praised and honored, whose dominion an eternal dominion, and his kingdom with generation and generation.

35 And all the generations of the earth being reckoned as nothing: and doing according to his station in the army of the heavens, and the generations of the earth: and there is none that shall strike upon his hand, and say to him, What didst thou?

36 In that time my knowledge will turn back to me: and for the honor of my kingdom, my splendor and my brightness will return to me; and my counselors and my nobles will seek to me: and I was established over my kingdom, and excellent greatness was added to me.

37 Now I Nebuchadnezzar, praise and exalt and honor to the king of the heavens, that all his works are truth, and his paths judgment: and that they going about in pride, he being able to bring low.

DANIEL CHAPTER 5

1 Belshazzar the king made great food for a thousand of his nobles, and before the thousand he drank wine.

2 Belshazzar said, in tasting the wine, to bring in for the vessels of gold and silver that Nebuchadnezzar his father brought forth from the temple that was in Jerusalem; and in them the king and his nobles, his wives and his concubines, will drink.

3 At that time they brought the vessels of gold that were brought forth from the temple of the house of God which was in Jerusalem; and in them they drank, the king and his nobles, his wives and his concubines.

4 They drank wine, and praised to the gods of gold and silver, brass, iron, wood and stone.

5 In the same moment went forth fingers of a man's hand and wrote before the candlestick upon the lime of the wall of the temple of the king: and the king saw the palm of the hand that wrote.

6 The king's brightnesses changing, and his thoughts will terrify him, and the knots of his loins breaking forth, and his knees knocked this upon that

7 The king called with strength to bring up the enchanters, the Chaldeans and the diviners. The king answered and said to the wise of Babel, Whatever man that shall read this writing, and will show to me its interpretation, shall be clothed with purple, and a necklace of gold upon his neck, and shall rule the third in the kingdom.

8 Then came in all the king's wise ones: and they were not able to read the writing, and to make known the interpretation to the king.

9 Then king Belshazzar being greatly terrified, and his brightnesses being changed upon him, and his nobles being perplexed.

10 The queen, on account of the king's words and his nobles', came in to the house of drinking: the queen answered and said, O king, live forever: thy thought shall not terrify thee, and thy brightnesses shall not be changed:

11 There is a man in thy kingdom that the spirit of the holy gods in him; and in the days of thy father, his light and his understanding and wisdom according to the wisdom of the gods was found in him; and king Nebuchadnezzar thy father, the king thy father, set him up leader of the sacred scribes, the enchanters, the Chaldeans, the diviners:

12 Because that an excellent spirit and knowledge, and his understanding interpreting dreams, and showing of enigmas, and solving knotty questions, was found in him, in Daniel whom the king set his name Belteshazzar: now Daniel shall be called, and he will show the interpretation.

13 At that time Daniel came in before the king. The king answered and said to Daniel, Is it thou, Daniel, which is from the sons of the captivity of Judah, whom the king my father brought from Judah?

14 I heard concerning thee that the spirit of the gods is in thee, and his light and his understanding and excellent wisdom was found in thee.

15 And now the wise ones, the enchanters, were brought in before me that they shall read this writing, and to make known to me its interpretation: and they were not able to show the interpretation of the word:

16 And I heard concerning thee, that thou wilt be able to interpret interpretations, and solve knotty questions: now if thou shalt be able to read the writing, and to make known to me its interpretation, thou shalt be clothed in purple, and a necklace of gold upon thy neck, and thou shalt rule the third in the kingdom.

17 At that time Daniel answered and said before the king, Thy gifts to be to thyself, and give thy presents to another; but I will read the writing to the king, and make known to him the interpretation.

18 Thou, O king, God most high gave a kingdom and greatness and honor and splendor to Nebuchadnezzar thy father:

19 And from the greatness that he gave to him, all peoples, nations and tongues, were trembling and fearing from before him: whom he was willing he killed; and whom he was willing, he was saving alive; and whom be was willing, he was setting up; and whom he willed he was humbling.

20 And when his heart was lifted up, and his spirit was strong for pride, he was brought down from the throne of his kingdom, and they took away his honor from him.

21 And he was driven from the sons of men, and his heart was made level with the beasts, and with wild asses his dwelling: they will feed him with the green herb as oxen, and from the dew of the heavens his body will be wet; till that he knew that God the Most High ruled in the kingdom of men, and to whom he will, he will set up over it.

22 And thou his son, O Belshazzar, didst not humble thy heart because that thou knewest all this;

23 And against the Lord of the heavens thou didst lift up thyself; and for the vessels of his house they brought before thee, and thou and thy nobles, and thy wives, and thy concubines, drinking wine in them; and to the gods of silver and gold, brass, iron, wood, and stone, who see not, and hear not, and know not, thou didst praise: and to the God whom thy breath in his hand, and all thy ways to him, thou didst not honor.

2 At that time from before him was sent the palm of the hand, and this writing written.

25 And this the writing that was written: MENE, MENE, TEKEL and PHARSIN.

26 This the interpretation of the word: Mene; God numbered thy kingdom and completed it.

27 Tekel; Thou shalt be weighed in the balances and be found wanting.

28 Pharsin; Thy kingdom was divided, and it shall be given to the Medes and to Persia.

29 At that time Belshazzar said, and they clothed Daniel with purple, and a necklace of gold upon his neck, and they cried out concerning him, for him to rule the third in the kingdom.

30 In that night Belshazzar king of the Chaldeans was killed.

31 And Darius the Median received the kingdom, as the son of two and sixty years.

DANIEL CHAPTER 6

1 It pleased before Darius and he set up over the kingdom a hundred and twenty satraps, whom to be over all the kingdom;

2 And over these three presidents; of whom Daniel was one: that to them the satraps giving to them account, and the king not for him detriment

3 Then this Daniel excelling above the presidents and satraps because that an excellent spirit was in him; and the king doing to set him up over all the kingdom.

4 Then the presidents and satraps were seeking to find a pretext against Daniel from the part of the kingdom; and they will not be able to find any pretext and corruption, because that he was faithful, and any error and corruption was not found upon him.

5 Then these men saying that, We shall not find against this Daniel any pretext except we shall find against him in the law of his God.

6 Then these presidents and satraps ran together with tumult to the king, and saying thus to him, O Darius the king, live thou forever.

7 All the presidents of the kingdom, the prefects and satraps, and counselors and governors, will counsel together to set up a statute of the kingdom, and to make strong an interdict that whoever shall seek a request from any God and man even to thirty days, except from thee, O king, he shall be cast into the den of lions.

8 Now, O king, wilt thou set up the interdict, and sign the writing, that not to be changed according to the law of Media and Persia, which shall not pass away.

9 For this cause, king Darius signed the writing and the interdict

10 And Daniel as soon as he knew that the writing was signed, went up into his house; and the windows being opened to him in his upper chambers before Jerusalem, three times in the day he kneeled upon his knees, and praying and praising before his God, for the cause that he did from before this

11 Then these men ran together with tumult and found Daniel seeking and making supplication before his God.

12 At that time they drew near, and saying before the king concerning the interdict of the king, Didst thou not sign an interdict that every man that shall seek from any God and man even for thirty days, except from thee, O King, shall be cast into the den of lions? The king answered and said, The word is certain, according to the law of Media and Persia, that shall not pass away.

13 At that time they answered, and saying before the king, That Daniel that is from the sons of the captivity of Judah set not up an account to thee, O king, and to the interdict that thou didst sign; and three times in the day he sought his requests.

14 Then the king as soon as he heard the word, was greatly displeased with himself, and upon Daniel he set the heart to set him free: and even to the going down of the sun he was exerting himself to deliver him.

15 At that time these men ran together with tumult to the king, and saying to the king, Know, O king, that the law to Media and Persia is, that every interdict and statute that the king shall set up is not to be changed.

16 At that time the king said, and they brought Daniel and cast into the den of the lions; the king answered and said to Daniel, Thy God whom thou servest to him continually, he will set thee free.

17 And one stone was brought and set upon the mouth of the den, and the king sealed it with his signet ring, and with the signet ring of his nobles, that the will shall not be changed upon Daniel.

18 Then the king departed to his temple and passed the night fasting: and he brought not his concubines before him, and his sleep fled from him.

19 At that time the king will rise in the dawn in the morning, and in haste he departed to the lion's den.

20 And in his drawing near to the den he cried to Daniel with a strong voice, the king answered and said to Daniel, O Daniel, servant of the living God, thy God whom thou servest to him continually, is he able to set thee free from the lion's den?

21 Then Daniel said to the king, O king, live forever.

22 My God sent his messenger and shut the mouth of the lions, and they hurt me not, for the cause that innocence was found to me; and also before thee, O king, I did no hurt.

23 At that time the king rejoiced greatly for him, and to Daniel he said to be taken up from the den. And Daniel was taken up from the den, and any hurt was not found upon him, for he trusted in his God.

24 And the king said, and they brought these men that ate up Daniel piece meal, and cast into the lion's den, them, their sons, and their wives; and they not down to the bottom of the den even till the lions had power over them, and they broke all their bones in pieces.

25 At that time Darius the king wrote all peoples, nations and tongues, that are dwelling in all the earth, Your peace shall be great.

26 From before me a decree was set forth that in every dominion of my kingdom to be trembling and fearing from before the God of Daniel: for he is the living God, and standing forever, and his kingdom that shall not be destroyed, and his dominion even to the end.

27 Setting free and delivering, and working signs and wonders in the heavens and upon the earth, that set free to Daniel from the hand of the lions.

28 And this Daniel was prospered in the kingdom of Darius, and in the kingdom of Cyrus the Persian.

DANIEL CHAPTER 7

1 In one year to Belshazzar the king of Babel, Daniel saw a dream and visions of his head upon his bed: at that time he wrote the dream, telling the head of the words.

2 Daniel answered and said, I was seeing in my vision by night, and lo, the four winds of the heavens rushing forth to the great sea.

3 And four great beasts went up from the sea, different this from this.

4 The first as a lion, and the wings of an eagle to it; I was seeing even till its wings were plucked, and it was lifted up from the earth, and upon its feet it was caused to stand as a man, and a man's heart was given to it.

5 And lo, another beast, a second being like to a bear; and it rose up to one side, and three ribs in its mouth between its teeth: and saying to it thus, Arise, eat much flesh.

6 After this I was seeing, and lo, another, as a panther, and to it four wings of a bird upon its back, and four heads to the beast; and dominion was given to it

7 After this I was seeing in the visions of the night, and lo, a fourth beast, fearful, and strong and powerful exceedingly; and great teeth of iron to it, eating and beating small, and treading down the remainder with its feet: and it being different from all the beasts that were before it; and ten horns to it.

8 I was considering upon the horns, and lo, another little horn went up among them, and three from the first horns were plucked up from before it: and lo, eyes as the eyes of a man in this horn, and a mouth speaking great things.

9 I was seeing even till thrones were cast down, and the Ancient of days sat, his garment white as snow, and the hair of his head as pure wool: his throne a flame of fire, his wheels a burning fire.

10 A river of fire flowed and went out from before him: thousands of thousands will wait upon him, and myriads of myriads will stand before him: the tribunal sat, and the books were opened.

11 I was seeing at that time from the voice of the great words that the horn was speaking: I was seeing even till that the beast was killed and its body destroyed, and it was given to the burning fire.

12 And the rest of the beasts they took away their power: and length in life was given to them for a season and time.

13 I was seeing in the visions of the night, and lo, with the clouds of the heavens as the Son of man he came, and turning even to the Ancient of days; and they brought him near before him.

14 And to him was given dominion, power and honor, and a kingdom; and all peoples and nations and tongues shall serve to him: his power an eternal power that shall not pass away, and his kingdom which shall not be destroyed.

15 I Daniel was grieved in the midst of the sheath, and the visions of my heart will terrify me.

16 I drew near to one of those standing by, and I sought from him the truth concerning all this: and he said to me, and he will cause me to know the interpretation of the words.

17 Those great beasts that they are four, four kings they shall rise up from the earth.

18 And the holy ones of the Most High shall take the kingdom and shall possess the kingdom even to forever, and even to forever of forever.

19 Then I willed to speak the truth concerning the fourth beast that was different from all of them, exceedingly fearful, its teeth of iron and its hoofs of brass; eating, beating small, and treading down the remainder with its feet;

20 And concerning the ten horns that were upon its head, and the other that went up, and three fell from before it; and this horn and eyes to it, and a mouth speaking great things, and its sight great above its companions.

21 I was seeing, and this horn made an encounter with the holy ones, and prevailed against them;

22 Even till that the Ancient of days came, and the judgment was given to the holy ones of the Most High; and the time extending and the holy ones possessed the kingdom.

23 Thus he said, The fourth beast shall be the fourth kingdom in the earth, that shall be different from all kingdoms, and shall eat up all the earth, and shall tread it down and beat it

24 And the ten horns from this kingdom, ten kings shall arise: and another shall rise after them; and he shall be different from the first, and he shall humble three kings.

25 And he shall speak words against the Most High, and he shall vex the holy ones of the Most High, and he will hope to change times and law: and they shall be given into his hand even to a time and times, and the dividing of time.

26 And the tribunal sat, and they shall take away his power to cut off and to destroy even to the end.

27 And the kingdom and the power, and the greatness of the kingdom under All the heavens was given to the people of the holy ones of the Most High his kingdom an eternal kingdom, and all powers shall serve to him, and shall hear.

28 Even to this the end of the word. I Daniel, my thoughts will greatly terrify me, and my brightness will be changed upon me: and I kept the word in my heart

DANIEL CHAPTER 8

1 In the third year to the kingdom of Belshazzar the king a vision was seen to me, I Daniel, after that being seen to me in the beginning.

2 And I shall see in a vision; and it will be in my seeing, and I in Shushan the fortress, in Elam the province; and I shall see in a vision, and I was by the stream of strength.

3 And I shall lift up mine eyes, and I shall see, and behold, one ram stood before the stream, and horns to him: and the horns high; and the one high above the second, and the high came up at the last.

4 And I saw the ram pushing the sea, and north and south; and all the beasts will not stand before him, and none delivering from his hand; and he did according to his will, and increased.

5 And I was considering, and behold, a he goat of the goats came from the west upon the face of all the earth, and not touching upon the earth: and the he goat a horn of vision between his eyes.

6 And ha will come even to the ram possessing the horns, which I saw standing before the stream, and he will run against him in the wrath of his power.

7 And I saw him coming near to the ram, and he will be exasperated against him, and he will strike the ram and break his two horns: and there will be no power in the ram to stand before him, and he will cast him to the earth, and will tread upon him: and there was none delivering for the ram out of his hand.

8 And the he goat of the goats increased even greatly: and in his being strong the great horn was broken; and there will come up the vision of four underneath it to the four winds of the heavens.

9 And from one of them came forth one horn of a little thing, and it will be great exceedingly to the south to the sunrisings, and to the glories.

10 And it will be great even to the army of the heavens; and it will cast to the earth from the army, and from the stars, and it will tread them down.

11 And even to the chief of the army was he magnified, and from him the continuance was lifted up, and the foundation of his holy place was cast down.

12 And an army will be given upon the continuance by transgression, and it will cast down truth to the earth; and it did and it succeeded.

13 And I shall hear one holy one speaking, and one holy one will say to a certain one, speaking, How long the vision of the continuance, and the transgression laying waste, to be? and the holy place and the army being trodden down?

14 And he will say to me, Even to evening morning, two thousand and three hundred; and the holy place was justified

15 And it will be in my seeing, I Daniel, the vision, and I shall seek its understanding, and behold, there stood before me as the sight of a man,

16 And I shall hear man's voice between Ulai, and he will call and say, Man of God, cause to this to understand the sight

17 And he will come near my standing: and in his coming I was afraid, and I shall fall upon my face; and he will say to me, Understand, O son of man: for at the time of the end, the vision.

18 And in his speaking with me I lay in a deep sleep upon my face upon the earth: and he will touch upon me and will cause me to stand upon my standing.

19 And he will say, Behold me making known to thee what shall be in the last part of the wrath: for at the appointment, the end.

20 The ram which thou sawest possessing horns, the kings of Media and Persia.

21 And the hairy he goat, the king of Grecia: and the great horn which is between his eyes, he the first king.

22 And that being broken, and four will stand up underneath it, four kingdoms from the nation shall stand up, and not in his power.

23 And in the latter state of their kingdom as those transgressing being completed, a king strong of face and understanding enigmas, shall stand up.

24 And strong his power, and not in his power: and he shall destroy wonderfully, and he prospered, and did, and he destroyed the strong ones and the holy people.

25 And by his intelligence and he caused deceit to prosper in his hand; and he shall magnify in his heart, and in security he shall destroy many: and against the Chief of chiefs he shall stand; and without hand shall he be broken.

26 And the sight of the evening and the morning which was said, it is truth: and shut thou up the vision; for, for many days.

27 And I Daniel was, and was sick days; and I shall rise and do the works of the king; and I shall be astonished at the sight, and none understanding.

DANIEL CHAPTER 9

1 In one year to Darius son of Ahasuerus, from the seed of Media who reigned over the kingdom of the Chaldeans.

Copyright © 2026 by Lord Henfield, Guildford Scientific Press

2 In one year to the kingdom, I Daniel understood by books the number of years which the word of Jehovah was to Jeremiah the prophet, to fill up for the desolations of Jerusalem seventy years.

3 And I will give my face to Jehovah God to seek prayer and supplications, with fasting and sackcloth and ashes:

4 And I will pray to Jehovah my God, and I will confess and say, Ah, Jehovah, the great and dreadful God, watching the covenant and the mercy to those loving him, and to those watching his commands:

5 We sinned, and we did iniquity, and were evil, and rebelled, and departing from thy commands and from thy judgments.

6 And we heard not to thy servants the prophets who spake in thy name to our kings and our chiefs and our fathers, and to all the people of the earth.

7 To thee, O Jehovah, justice, and to us shame of face, as this day to the men of Judah, and to those dwelling in Jerusalem, and to all Israel being near and being far off, in all the lands where thou didst thrust them there in their transgression which they transgressed against thee.

8 O Jehovah, to us shame of face, to our kings, to our chiefs, and to our fathers, that we sinned against thee.

9 To Jehovah our God compassion and forgivenesses, for we rebelled against him.

10 We heard not to the voice of Jehovah our God to go in his laws which he gave before us in the hand of his servants the prophets

11 And all Israel passed by thy Laws, and departing not to hear to thy voice; and the curse will be poured upon us, and the oath which was written in the law of Moses the servant of God, for we sinned against him.

12 And he will set up his words which he spake against us, and against our judges who judged us to bring against us a great evil: which was not done under all the heavens according to what was done in Jerusalem.

13 As that written in the law of Moses all this evil came upon us, and we supplicated not the face of Jehovah our God to turn back from our iniquities and to understand in thy truth.

14 And Jehovah will watch for evil, and will bring it upon us: for Jehovah our God is just upon all his works which he did: and we heard not to his voice.

15 And now, O Jehovah our God, who brought thy people out of the land of Egypt with a strong hand, and thou wilt make to thee a name as this day; we sinned, we did evil.

16 O Jehovah, according to all thy justice, now shall thine anger be turned back, and thy wrath from thy city Jerusalem, thy holy mountain: for our sins and for the iniquities of our fathers, Jerusalem and thy people for a reproach to all those round about us.

17 And now, O our God, hear to the prayer of thy servant, and his supplications, and cause thy face to shine upon thy desolated holy place, for sake of Jehovah.

18 Incline, O my God, thine ear, and hear; open thine eyes, and see our desolations, and the city which thy name was called upon it: for not for our justice do we cause our supplications to fall before thee, but for thy many compassions.

19 O Jehovah hear; O Jehovah forgive; O Jehovah, attend and do; thou wilt not delay for thy sake, O my God: for thy name was called upon thy city and upon thy people.

20 And I yet speaking and praying and confessing my sins, and the sins of my people Israel, and causing my supplication to fall before Jehovah my God for the holy mountain of my God;

21 And I yet speaking in prayer, and the man Gabriel, whom I saw in the vision in the beginning, being wearied with weariness, touched upon me about the time of the evening gift

22 And he will cause to understand, and will speak with me, and say, O Daniel, now came I forth to teach thee understanding.

23 In the beginning of thy supplications the word came forth, and I came to announce; for thou art desires: and understand thou in the word, and consider in the sight

24 Seventy seventy were divided upon thy people and upon thy holy city, to close the transgression, and to seal up sins, and to expiate iniquity, and to bring in eternal justice, and to seal up the vision and prophecy, and to anoint the holy of holies.

25 And thou shalt know and understand, from the going forth of the word to turn back and to build Jerusalem even to Messiah the leader, seventy weeks, and sixty and two weeks: and the street shall turn back and be built, and the ditch, in the trouble of the times.

26 And after sixty and two weeks, Messiah shall be cut off, and not for him: and the people of the leader coming shall destroy the city and the holy place; and its end with an overflowing, and even to the end of the war desolations were determined.

27 And he made strong the covenant to many one week: and half the week he shall cause the sacrifice and gift to cease, and upon the wing of abominations laying waste, even to the completion, and that determined shall be poured upon the desolation.

DANIEL CHAPTER 10

1 In the third year to Cyrus king of Persia the word was revealed to Daniel, whom his name was called Belteshazzar; and the word truth, and the warfare great: and he understood the word, and understanding to him in the sight

2 And in these days I Daniel was mourning three weeks of days.

3 Bread of desires I ate not, and flesh and wine came not into my mouth, and anointing, I did not anoint myself even to the filling up of three weeks of days.

4 And in the twenty and fourth day to the first month, and I was upon the hand of the great river, this is Hiddekel;

5 And I shall lift up mine eyes and see, and behold, one man being clothed with linen garments, and his loins being girded with gold of Uphaz:

6 And his body as topaz, and his face as the sight of lightning, and his eyes as flames of fire, and his arms and his feet as the eye of polished brass, and the voice of his words as the voice of a multitude.

7 And I saw, I Daniel alone, the sight: and the men that were with me saw not the sight, but a great trembling fell upon them, and they will flee in hiding themselves.

8 And I was left alone, and I shall see this great sight, and strength was not left in me: and my honor was turned upon me into destruction, and I retained not strength.

9 And I shall hear the voice of his words: and in my hearing the voice of his words, and I was lying in a deep sleep upon my face, and my face to the earth.

10 And behold, a hand touched upon me, and it will move me upon my knees, and the palms of my hands.

11 And he will say to me, O Daniel, a man of desires, understand thou in the words which I speak to thee, and stand upon thy standing: for now was I sent to thee. And in his speaking with me this word I stood trembling.

12 And he will say to me, Thou shalt not fear, Daniel: for from the first day that thou gavest thy heart to understand, and to humble thyself before thy God, thy words were heard, and I came for thy words.

13 And the chief of the kingdom of Persia stood against me twenty and one days: and behold, Michael, one of the first chiefs, came, to help me;: and I was left there near the kings of Persia.

14 And I came to cause thee to understand what shall happen to thy people in the last of the days: for yet the vision for days.

15 And in his speaking with me according to these words I gave my face to the earth, and I was dumb.

16 And behold, as the likeness of the sons of man touched upon my lips: and I shall open my mouth and speak and say to him standing before me, O my lord, by the sight my straights were turned upon me, and I retained not strength.

17 And how shall this servant of my lord be able to speak with this my lord and I, from this time no strength will stand in me, and breath was not left in me.

18 And there will add and will touch upon me as the sight of man, and he will strengthen me.

19 And he will say, Thou shalt not fear, O man of desires: peace to thee; be strong, and be strong. And in his speaking with me I was strengthened, and saying, My lord shall speak; for thou didst strengthen me.

20 And he will say, Knewest thou wherefore I came to thee? and now I will turn back to war with the chief of Persia: and I shall go forth, and behold, the chief of Grecia coming.

21 But I will announce to thee that recorded in the writing of truth: and not one strengthening himself with me upon these things but Michael your chief.

DANIEL CHAPTER 11

1 And I in the one year to Darius the Mede, standing to make firm and to strengthen for him.

2 And now I will announce the truth to thee. Behold, yet three kings standing up to Persia; and the fourth shall be rich of great riches above all: and in his becoming strong in his riches he shall rouse up all against the kingdoms of Grecia.

3 And a strong king stood up, and he ruled from much dominion, and he did according to his will.

4 And in his standing up his kingdom shall be broken, and shall be divided to the four winds of the heavens; and not to his latter state, and not according to his dominion which he ruled: for his kingdom shall be plucked up, and for others from besides these

5 And the king of the south shall be strong, and from his chiefs; and he shall be strong above him, and he ruled from much dominion.

6 And at the end of years they shall join themselves together, and the daughter of the king of the south shall come to the king of the north to make straightnesses: and she shall not retain the power of the arm, and he shall not stand, and his arm: and she shall be given up, and those bringing her, and he begetting her, and he strengthening her in the times.

7 And there stood up from the shoot of her roots as he, and he shall come to the strength, and he shall come into the fortress of the king of the north, and he did against them, and was strong:

8 And also their gods with their molten images, with the vessels of their desire of silver and gold he shall bring in captivity to Egypt; and he shall stand years above the king of the north.

9 And the king of the south came into his kingdom, and turned back, to his land.

10 And his sons shall gather themselves together, and they collected a multitude of many forces: and he coming, came and overflowed, and through: and he will turn back, and they shall gather themselves together even to his fortress.

11 And the king of the south shall be exasperated, and shall come forth and war with him, with the king of the north: and he caused a great multitude to stand, and the multitude was given into his hand.

12 And taking away the multitude his heart shall be lifted up; and he cast down myriads, and he shall not be strengthened.

13 And the king of the north turned back and caused a great multitude to stand above the former, and at the end of times, years, coming he shall come with great strength and with much property.

14 And in these times many shall stand up against the king of the south: and the sons of the violent of thy people shall be lifted up to cause the vision to stand; and they were weak.

15 And the king of the north shall come and shall pour out a mound, and take the city of fortifications: and the arms of the south shall not stand, and the people of his choices, and no strength to stand.

16 And he coming against him will do according to his will, and none standing before his face: and he shall stand in the land of glory, and it was finished in his hand.

17 And he shall set up his face to come with the power of all his kingdom, and the upright with him; and he did: and he will give to him the daughter of women, to corrupt her: and she shall not stand, and shall not be for him.

18 And he will turn back his face to the isles and take many: and a leader caused his reproach to cease to him; besides his reproach shall turn back to him.

19 And he shall tarn back his face to the fortress of his land: and he was weak and he fell, and he shall not be found.

20 And there stood up upon his place he causing a task-master to pass through the glory of his kingdom: and in some days he shall be broken, and not in anger and not in war.

21 And there stood up upon his place he being despised; and they gave not upon him the strength of the kingdom: and he came in tranquillity, and he took the kingdom by flatteries.

22 And with the arms of an overflowing they shall overflow from his face, and they shall be broken; and also the leader of the covenant.

23 And from being joined to him he shall do deceit: and he came up and was strong with a small nation.

24 And in security and in fatnesses of the province shall he come; and he did what his fathers did not, and the fathers of his fathers; the prey and spoil and property shall he scatter to them: and against the fortifications he shall reckon his purposes, and even to a time.

25 And his strength shall rouse up and his heart against the king of the south with great force; and the king of the south shall be stirred up to war with a great and strong force, even exceedingly; and he shall not stand, for they shall reckon purposes against him.

26 And they eating his dainties shall break him, and his force shall overflow: and many fell wounded.

27 And they two kings, their heart for doing evil, and at one table they will speak falsehood; and it shall not prosper: for yet the end at the appointment

28 And he shall turn back to his land with great property; and his heart against the holy covenant; and he did, and turned back to his land.

29 At the appointment he shall turn back, and come into the south; and it shall not be as the first, and as the last.

30 And the inhabitants of the desert, the Chittims came against him: and he was dejected, and he turned back, and was angry against the holy covenant: and he did, and turned back; and he shall understand for those forsaking the holy covenant

31 And seed from him shall stand up, and they profaned the holy place of strength, and they removed the Continuance, and they gave the abomination laying waste.

32 And those condemning the covenant shall pollute by smooth things: and the people knowing their God shall be strong and do.

33 And those understanding of the people shall cause to understand to many: and they were weak by the sword, and by flame, and by captivity, and by plunder, days.

34 And in their being weak they shall be helped with a little help: and many were joined to them by flatteries.

35 And from those understanding shall be weak to try upon them to separate, to become white even to the time of the end: for yet at the appointment

36 And the king did according to his will; and he shall exalt himself and magnify himself over every god; and against the God of gods he shall speak wonderful things,, and he prospered even till anger was finished: for that being determined was done.

37 And concerning the God of his fathers he shall not understand, and concerning the desire of women, and concerning every god he shall not understand; for he shall magnify himself over all.

38 And to the God of fortresses he shall do honor upon his place: and to a god which his fathers knew not he shall do honor with gold and with silver, and with precious stone, and with desires.

39 And he did to the strong fortifications with a strange god whom he recognized, he shall multiply honor: and he caused them to rule over many, and he will divide the land for a price.

40 And in the time of the end the king of the south shall wage war with him: and the king of the north shall rush on like a tempest against him, with chariot and with horsemen, and with many ships; and he came into the lands, and overflowed and passed through.

41 And he came into the land of glory, and many shall be weak: and these shall escape from his hand, Edom and Moab, and the first of the sons of Ammon.

42 And he shall send forth his hand upon the lands, and the land of Egypt shall not be for escaping.

43 And he ruled over the hidden things of gold and silver, and over all the desires of Egypt: and the Lybians and Cushites in his steps.

44 And reports from the sunrising and from the north shall terrify him: and he shall go forth in great wrath to destroy, and to exterminate many.

45 And he shall plant the tent of his palace between the seas to the mountain of glory of holiness: and he came even to his end, and none helping to him.

DANIEL CHAPTER 12

1 And in that time Michael the great chief shall stand up, he standing for the sons of thy people: and it was a time of straits that was not from there being a nation, even to that time: and in that time thy people shall escape, every one being found written in the book.

2 And many sleeping in the earth of dust shall awake, these to eternal life, and these to reproach and eternal abhorrence.

3 And those understanding shall shine as the brightness of the firmament; and those justifying many, as the stars forever and ever.

4 And thou, O Daniel, shut up the words, and seal the book, even to the time of the end: many shall run through and knowledge shall be multiplied.

5 And I Daniel saw, and behold, two others standing, one hence upon the lip of the river, and one thence upon the lip of the river.

6 And he will say to the man clothed with linen garments which was above to the waters of the river, Till when the end of the wonders?

7 And I shall hear the man clothed with linen garments, who was above to the waters of the river, and he will lift up his right hand and his left to the heavens, and swear by him living forever, that for an appointment of appointments and a half; in the scattering of the hand of the holy people being finished, all these shall be finished.

8 And I heard, and I shall not understand: and saying, O my lord, what the last of these things?

9 And he will say, Go, Daniel: for the words being shut up and sealed even to the time of the end.

10 And many shall be separated and become white, and be tried; and the unjust did evil: and all the unjust shall not understand; and the intelligent shall understand.

11 And from the time of removing the continuance, and to give the abomination laying waste, a thousand two hundred and ninety days.

12 Happy he waiting, and he shall reach to the thousand three hundred and thirty and five days.

13 And go thou to the end: and thou shalt rest and stand upon thy lot to the end of the days.

THE BOOK OF EZRA

(Ezra made the Torah the common law of the land.)
Author: Nehemia (as biographer)
Estimated Range of Dating: mid-5th century B.C.

(Ezra (fl. 480–440 BC) was an important Jewish author (sofer) and priest (kohen) in the early Second Temple period. In the Greek Septuagint, the name is rendered as Esdras, from which the Latin name Esdras comes. His name is just a shortened Aramaic form of the Hebrew name Azaryahu, meaning "Yahweh helps".

In the Hebrew Bible, or the Christian Old Testament, Ezra is an important figure in the books of Ezra and Nehemiah, which he is said to have written and edited, respectively. According to tradition, Ezra was also the author of the Books of Chronicles and the Book of Malachi.

Ezra was instrumental in restoring the Jewish scriptures and religion to the people after the return from the Babylonian Captivity. The canonical Book of Ezra and Book of Nehemiah are the oldest sources for the activity of Ezra, whereas many of the other books ascribed to Ezra (First Esdras, 3–6 Ezra) are later literary works dependent on the canonical books of Ezra and Nehemiah. The historical narrative in the combined book Ezra–Nehemiah has been largely confirmed by the 5th century Elephantine Papyri discovered in southern Egypt in 1904. (See: page 1369 The Elephantine Papyrus Find by Eduard Meyer, 1912.) Ezra wrote the Chronicles while his successor Nehemia finished the Chronicles and wrote the book known as Ezra-Nehemia.

According to the Hebrew Bible he was a descendant of Seraiah, the last High Priest to serve in Solomon's Temple, and a close relative of Joshua, the first High Priest of the Second Temple. He returned from Babylonian captivity and reintroduced the Torah in Jerusalem. According to 1 Esdras, a Greek translation of the Book of Ezra still in use in Eastern Orthodox Church, he was also a High Priest. Rabbinic tradition supports the positions that Ezra was an ordinary member of the priesthood, and that he actually served as a Kohen Gadol. Ezra was living in Babylon when in the seventh year of Artaxerxes I, the Achaemenid emperor (c. 457 BC), the emperor sent him to Jerusalem to teach the laws of God to any who did not know them. The Book of Ezra describes how he led a group of Judean exiles living in Babylon to their home city of Jerusalem where he is said to have enforced observance of the Torah.

The first-century Roman-Jewish historian Titus Flavius Josephus deals with Ezra in his Antiquities of the Jews. He uses the name Xerxes for Artaxerxes I reserving the name Artaxerxes for the later Artaxerxes II whom he identifies as the Ahasuerus of Esther, thus placing Ezra before the events of the book of Esther. Josephus' account of the deeds of Ezra derives entirely from 1 Esdras, which he cites as the 'Book of Ezra' in his numeration of the Hebrew bible. Contrariwise, Josephus does not appear to recognise Ezra-Nehemiah as a biblical book, does not quote from it, and relies entirely on other traditions in his account of the deeds of Nehemiah.

Traditionally Judaism credits Ezra with establishing the Great Assembly of scholars and prophets, the forerunner of the Sanhedrin, as the authority on matters of religious law.

A disciple of Baruch ben Neriah, Ezra favoured study of the Law over the reconstruction of the Temple and thus because of his studies, he did not join the first party returning to Jerusalem in the reign of Cyrus. According to another opinion, he did not join the first party so as not to compete, even involuntarily, with Joshua ben Jozadak for the office of High Priest of Israel.

Ezra was a priest and "a scribe skilled in the law." He represented the position of stricter Babylonian Jews who had been upset by reports of laxity in Judah and desired to see matters corrected. When Ezra arrived the situation in Judah was discouraging. Religious laxity was prevalent, the Law was widely disregarded, and public and private morality was at a low level. Moreover, intermarriage with foreigners posed the threat that the community would mingle with the pagan environment and lose its identity.

According to the Babylonian Talmud, Ezra the Scribe is said to have enacted ten standing laws and orders, which are as follows:

1. That the public come together to read from the sefer Torah on Shabbatot during the time of the afternoon oblation (Minchah), because of those travelling merchants who loiter in the closed shops in the street corners, and who may have missed the biblical lections that were read during the weekdays.

2. That the courts be opened throughout the Jewish townships on Mondays and Thursdays.

3. That women would not wait beyond Thursday to launder their clothes, because of the honour due to the Sabbath day.

4. That men would accustom themselves to eat [cooked] garlic on the eve of the Sabbath (believed to enhance love between a man and his wife).

5. That women would rise up early on Friday mornings to bake bread, so that a piece of bread would be available for the poor.

6. That Jewish women in every place be girded with a wide belt (waist band), whether from the front or from behind, out of modesty.

7. That Jewish women, during their menses, wash and comb their hair three days prior to their purification in a ritual bath.

8. That the traveling merchants make regular rounds into the Jewish villages and townships because of the honor due to the daughters of Israel (viz., so that jewelry can be purchased by the daughters of Israel).

9. That Jewish women and/or girls, as a precautionary measure, be accustomed to conversing with one another while one of their party goes out to relieve herself in the outhouse.

10. That men who may have suffered a seminal emission (especially after accompanying with their wives) be required to immerse (baptise) themselves in a mikveh (baptisterium) before being permitted to read from the scroll of the Law (Torah).

The order in which Ezra took the various measures attributed to him is uncertain. His actions come close to that what we call a coup d'etat. He took action against mixed marriages and succeeded in persuading the people to divorce their foreign wives voluntarily. His efforts reached their climax when the people engaged in solemn covenant before God to enter into no more mixed marriages, to refrain from work on the sabbath, to levy on themselves an annual tax for the support of the Temple, regularly to present their tithes and offerings, and otherwise to comply with the demands of the Law. It was the xenophobic attitude of Ezra and Nehemia that brought the Jews to total distruction by the Romans.

Nothing further is known of Ezra after his reforms. The 1st-century Roman-Jewish historian Titus Flavius Josephus states in his Antiquities that he died and was buried in Jerusalem. According to another tradition, he returned to Babylonia, where his supposed grave is a holy site.

The contents of Ezra–Nehemiah are structured in a theological rather than chronological order: "The Temple must come first, then the purifying of the community, then the building of the outer walls of the city, and so finally all could reach a grand climax in the reading of the law."

The Book of Ezra consists of ten chapters: chapters 1–6, covering the period from the Cyrus the Great to the dedication of the Second Temple, are told in the third person; chapters 7–10, dealing with the mission of Ezra, are told largely in the first person. The book contains several documents presented as historical inclusions, written in Aramaic while the surrounding text is in Hebrew (1:2–4, 4:8–16, 4:17–22, 5:7–17, 6:3–5, 6:6–12, 12–26)

Chapters 1–6:

1. Decree of Cyrus, first version: Cyrus, inspired by God, returns the Temple vessels to Sheshbazzar, "prince of Judah", and directs the Israelites to return to Jerusalem with him and rebuild the Temple.

2. 42,360 exiles, with men servants, women servants and "singing men and women", return from Babylon to Jerusalem and Judah under the leadership of Zerubbabel and Jeshua the High Priest.

3. Jeshua the High Priest and Zerubbabel build the altar and celebrate the Feast of Tabernacles. In the second year the foundations of the Temple are laid and the dedication takes place with great rejoicing.

4. Letter of the Samaritans to Artaxerxes, and reply of Artaxerxes: The "enemies of Judah and Benjamin" offer to help with the rebuilding, but are rebuffed; they then work to frustrate the builders "down to the reign of Darius." The officials of Samaria write to king Artaxerxes warning him that Jerusalem is being rebuilt, and the king orders the work to stop. "Thus the work on the house of God in Jerusalem came to a standstill until the second year of the reign of Darius king of Persia."

5. Tattenai's letter to Darius: Through the exhortations of the prophets Haggai and Zechariah, Zerubbabel and Joshua recommence the building of the Temple. Tattenai, satrap over both Judah and Samaria, writes to Darius warning him that Jerusalem is being rebuilt and advising that the archives be searched to discover the decree of Cyrus.
6. Decree of Cyrus, second version, and decree of Darius: Darius finds the decree, directs Tattenai not to disturb the Jews in their work, and exempts them from tribute and supplies everything necessary for the offerings. The Temple is finished in the month of Adar in the sixth year of Darius, and the Israelites assemble to celebrate its completion.

Chapters 7–10:
7. Letter of Artaxerxes to Ezra (Artaxerxes' rescript): King Artaxerxes is moved by God to commission Ezra "to inquire about Judah and Jerusalem with regard to the Law of your God" and to "appoint magistrates and judges to administer justice to all the people of Trans-Euphrates—all who know the laws of your God." Artaxerxes gives Ezra much gold and directs all Persian officials to aid him.
8. Ezra gathers a large body of returnees and much gold and silver and precious vessels for the Temple and camps by a canal outside Babylon. There he discovers he has no Levites, and so sends messengers to gather some. The exiles then return to Jerusalem, where they distribute the gold and silver and offer sacrifices to God.
9. Ezra is informed that some of the Jews already in Jerusalem have married non-Jewish women. Ezra is appalled at this proof of sin, and prays to God: "O God of Israel, you are righteous! We are left this day as a remnant. Here we are before you in our guilt, though because of it not one of us can stand in your presence."
10. Despite the opposition of some of their number, the Israelites assemble and send away their foreign wives and children.)

EZRA CHAPTER 1

1 In one year to Cyrus (Emperor Kurush II) the king of Persia (r. 559-530 BC), to complete the word of Jehovah from the month of Jeremiah, Jehovah roused up the spirit of Cyrus king of Persia, and he will cause a voice to pass through in all his kingdom, and also in writing, saying,

2 Thus said Cyrus king of Persia, All the kingdoms of the earth Jehovah gave to me, the God of the heavens; and he charged upon me to build for him a house in Jerusalem which is in Judah.

3 Who among you from all his people? His God shall be with him, and he shall go up to Jerusalem which is in Judah, and he shall build the house of Jehovah God of Israel, (he is the God) Which is in Jerusalem.

4 And every one being left in all the places where he sojourned there, the men of his place shall lift him up with silver and with gold, and with substance, and with cattle, with a voluntary gift to the house of God which is in Jerusalem.

5 And there will rise up the heads to the fathers to Judah and Benjamin, and the priests and the Levites to all God roused up his spirit, to go up to build the house of Jehovah which is in Jerusalem.

6 And all those round about them strengthened upon their hands with vessels of silver, with gold, with substance, and with cattle, and most precious things, besides all being willingly given.

7 And the king Cyrus brought forth the vessels of the house of Jehovah, which Nebuchadnezzar brought forth from Jerusalem; and he will give them into the house of his God.

8 And Cyrus king of Persia will bring them forth by the hand of Mithredath the treasurer, and he will number them to Sheshbazzar, prince to Judah.

9 And these their number: thirty basins of gold, a thousand basins of silver, nine and twenty slaughter knives,

10 Thirty goblets of gold, four hundred and ten goblets of silver, being different, a thousand other vessels.

11 All the vessels to the gold and to the silver, five thousand and four hundred. Sheshbazzar brought up all with the bringing up of the captivity from Babel to Jerusalem.

67 Their camels, four hundred thirty and five; the asses, six thousand seven hundred and twenty.
68 And from the heads of the fathers in their coming to the house of Jehovah which is in Jerusalem, gave willingly to the house of God to cause it to stand upon its foundation:
69 According to their power they gave to the treasure of the work of gold six myriads and a thousand darics, and of silver, five thousand portions, and of priests' tunics, a hundred.
70 And the priests dwelt, and the Levites, and from the people, and those singing, and those opening the gates, and the Nethinims, in their cities, and all Israel in their cities.

EZRA CHAPTER 3

1 And the seventh month will draw near, and the sons of Israel in the cities, and the people will gather together as one man to Jerusalem.
2 And Joshua the son of Josedek, and his brethren the priests, and Zerubbabel son of Shealtiel, and his brethren, and they will build the altar of the God of Israel, to bring up upon it burnt-offerings as written in the law of Moses the man of God.
3 And they will prepare the altar upon its foundations; for in the terror upon them from the people of the lands: and they will bring up burnt-offerings upon it to Jehovah, burnt-offerings for morning and for evening.

4 And they will do the festival of tents as written, and the burnt-offerings of a day in a day, in number according to judgment, the word of a day in its day.

5 And after this the burnt-offerings of continuance, and for the new moons, and for all the appointments of Jehovah being consecrated, and for all giving willingly a voluntary gift to Jehovah.

6 From one day to the seventh month they began to bring up the burnt-offerings to Jehovah. And the temple of Jehovah was not founded.

7 And they will give silver to those hewing, and to those graving, and food and drink and oil to the Zidonians, and the Tyrians, to bring cedar woods from Lebanon to the sea of Joppa according to the permit of Cyrus king of Persia to them.

8 And in the second year to their coming to the house of God at Jerusalem, in the second month, began Zerubbabel son of Shealtiel, and Joshua son of Josedek, and the remainder of their brethren the priests, and the Levites, and all those coming from the captivity to Jerusalem; and they will cause the Levites to stand up, from the son of twenty years and above, to superintend over the works of the house of Jehovah.

9 And Joshua will stand, his sons and his brethren, Kadmiel and his sons, the sons of Judah, as one, to superintend over the doing of the work in the house of God: the sons of Henadad their sons, and their brethren the Levites.

10 And those building will lay the foundation of the temple of Jehovah, and they will cause the priests to stand, being clothed, with trumpets, and the Levites sons of Asaph, with cymbals, to praise Jehovah according to the hands of David king of Israel.

11 And they will answer in praising and in confessing to Jehovah, for he is good, for his mercy forever upon Israel. And all the people shouted a great shout in praising to Jehovah, for the foundation of the house of Jehovah.

12 And many of the priests and the Levites and heads of the fathers, old men, who saw the first house in this house being founded before their eyes, weeping with a great voice; and many with a shout in gladness to the lifting up the voice.

13 And the people not recognizing the voice of the shout of gladness from the voice of the weeping of the people; for the people shouting a great shout, and the voice was heard even to far off

EZRA CHAPTER 4

1 And the adversaries of Judah and Benjamin will hear that the sons of the captivity were building the temple to Jehovah God of Israel;

2 And they will come near to Zerubbabel, and to the heads of the fathers, and they will say to them, We will build with you: for like you we will seek for your God: for we sacrifice not from the days of Esa-Haddon king of Assur bringing us up hither.

3 And to them Zerubbabel will say, and Joshua, and the rest of the heads of the fathers to Israel, Not to you and to us to build a house to our God; for we together will build to Jehovah God of Israel, as the king Cyrus king of Persia commanded us.

4 And the people of the land will be slackening the hands of the people of Judah, and terrifying them in building,

5 And counselors being hired against them to annul their counsel all the days of Cyrus king of Persia, and even to the kingdom of Darius king of Persia.

6 And in the kingdom of Ahasuerus, in the beginning of his kingdom, they wrote an accusation against the inhabitants of Judah and Jerusalem.

7 And in the days of Arthasatha, wrote Bishlam, Mithredath, Tabeel, and the rest of his colleagues, to Arthasatha, king of Persia; and the writing of the letter' being written in Syriac, and being interpreted in Syriac.

8 Rehum, lord of judgment, and Shimshai, the scribe, wrote one epistle against Jerusalem to Arthasatha the king, thus:

9 Then Rehum lord of judment, and Shimshai the scribe, and the rest of their colleagues, the Danites and the Apharsathchites, the Tarpelites, the Apharsites, the Archevites, the Babelites, the Susanchites, the Dehavites, the Elamites,

10 And the rest of the nations that the great and honored Asnapper carried into exile, and he caused them to dwell in the cities of Shomeron, and the rest beyond the river, and thus.

11 This the copy of the epistle that they sent to him to Arthasatha the king; thy servants the men beyond the river, and thus.

12 To be known to the king that the Jews who went up from with thee to us, came to Jerusalem, building the perverse and bad city, and they completed its wall, and they will repair its foundations.

13 Now to be known to the king that if this city shall be built and the walls be completed, tribute, excise, and toll, they will not give, and in the end it will endamage the kings.

14 Now for the cause that we were salted with the salt of the temple, and not being fit to us to see the king's nakedness, for this we sent and made known to the king;

15 That it shall be sought in the book of the records of thy fathers: and thou wilt find in the book of the records, and thou wilt know that this city a city perverse and endamaging kings and provinces, and working rebellion in the midst of it from days forever: for this, this city was laid waste.

16 We making known to the king that if this city shall be built, and its walls be completed, for this cause a portion beyond the river shall not be to thee.

17 And the king sent word to Rehum, lord of judgment, and to Shimshai the scribe, and the rest of their colleagues who dwelt in Shomeron, and the rest beyond the river, Peace and as now.

18 The epistle that ye sent to us being read distinctly before me.

19 And a decree being set from me, and they sought and found that this city from days forever lifting itself up against kings, and perverseness and rebellion being made in it

20 And strong kings were over Jerusalem, and ruling over all beyond the river: and tribute, excise, and, toll, being given to them.

21 Now set up a decree to cause these men to cease, and this city shall not be built till a decree shall be set up from me.

22 And be ye warned from doing wrong upon this: wherefore shall harm overtake to endamage the kings?

23 Then after the copy of the epistle of Arthasatha the king being read before Rehum, and Shimshai the scribe, and their colleagues, they went away to Jerusalem to the Jews, and caused them to cease by arm and strength.

24 At that time ceased the work of the house of God which is in Jerusalem. And it was ceasing even till two years to the kingdom of Darius king of Persia.

EZRA CHAPTER 5

1 And the prophets, Haggai the prophet, and Zechariah son of Iddo, prophesied to the Jews that were in Judah and in Jerusalem in the name of the God of Israel, to them.

2 At that time rose up Zerubbabel son of Shealtiel, and Joshua son of Josedek, and began to build the house of God that is in Jerusalem: and with them the prophets of God upholding to them.

3 In that time came to them Tatnai, prefect beyond the river, and ShetharBozni and their colleagues, and thus they said to them, Who set up to you a decree to build this house, and to complete this wall?

4 Then thus said we to them, What are they the names of the men that build this building?

5 And the eye of their God was upon the captivity of the Jews, and they caused them not to cease till the account went to Darius: and then they will return a letter concerning this.

6 The copy of the epistle that Tatnai, prefect beyond the river, sent, and Shethar-Bozni and his colleagues, the Apharsachites, that were beyond the river to Darius the king:

7 They sent an epistle to him, thus it was written in the midst of it: To Darius the king, all peace.

8 To be known to the king that we went to the Judah province, to the house of the great God; and it was building with stone of rolling, and wood being set up in the walls; and this work being diligently done, and prospering in their hands.

9 Then we asked these old men, thus we said to them, Who set to you a decree to build this house and to complete this wall?

10 And also we asked their names for them to make known to thee that we shall write the name of the men that were among their heads.

11 And thus they returned us word, saying, We are the servants of the God of the heavens and the earth, and build the house that was built of old these many years, and a great king to Israel built and completed.

12 Therefore after our fathers provoked to the God of the heavens to be angry, he gave them into the hand of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babel, the Chaldean, and he destroyed this house, and the people he carried away in exile to Babel.

13 But in one year to Cyrus the king of Babel, Cyrus the king set up a decree to build this house of God.

14 And also the vessels of the house of God of gold and of silver, that Nebuchadnezzar brought forth from the temple that is in Jerusalem, and brought them to the temple of Babel, Cyrus the king brought them forth from the temple of Babel, and they were given to Sheshbazzar his name that he set up prefect;

15 And he said to him, Lift up these vessels, go bring them into the temple that is in Jerusalem, and the house of God shall be built upon its place.

16 Then this Sheshbazzar came, he set the foundations of the house of God that is in Jerusalem: and from that time even till now, being built and not finished.

17 And now if good to the king he shall seek in the house of the king's treasure there that is in Babel, if it be that from Cyrus the king a decree was set up to build this house of God in Jerusalem, and the king will send the will to us concerning this.

EZRA CHAPTER 6

1 At that time Darius the king set up a decree, and they searched in the house of books, the treasures being deposited there in Babel.

2 And there was found in Achmetha in the fortress that in the Median province, one roll, and thus a record was written in its midst

3 In one year to Cyrus the king, Cyrus the king set a decree of the house of God in Jerusalem, The house shall be built, the place that they sacrificed sacrifices, and its foundations being erected; its height sixty cubits, and its breadth sixty cubits;

4 And three layers of stone of inagnitude: and a layer of new wood: and the outgoing shall be given from the king's house:

5 And also the vessels of the house of God of gold and of silver that Nebuchadnezzar brought forth from the temple that is in Jerusalem, and brought to Babel, shall be restored, and shall go to the temple that is in Jerusalem, to its place, and be taken into the house of God.

6 Now Tatnai prefect beyond the river, Shethar-Bozni, and their colleagues the Apharsachites that are beyond the river, be ye far off from thence:

7 Leave to the works of this house of God: the prefect of the Jews and the old men of the Jews, they shall build this house of God upon its place.

8 And from me a decree was set up for that which ye shall do with the old men of these Jews for building this house of God: and the king's riches, that of the tribute beyond the river, expenses shall be speedily given to these men, not to be made to cease.

9 And whatever being necessary, and the young of cattle and rams and lambs, for burnt-offerings to the God of the heavens, wheat, salt, wine, and oil, according to the saying of the priests that are in Jerusalem, to be given to them day by day, not resting:

10 That therefore bringing near sweet odors to the God of the heavens, praying for the life of the king and his sons.

11 And from me a decree was set up that every man that shall change this word, wood shall be pulled down from his house, and being raised up he shall be fastened upon it; and his house shall be made a dung-hill for this.

12 And God who shall cause his name to dwell there shall cast down every king and people that shall send forth his hand to change, to destroy this house of God that is in Jerusalem. I Darius set up a decree; it shall be done speedily.

13 Then Tatnai, prefect beyond the river Shethar-Boznai, and three colleagues, because of that Darius the king sent, thus they did speedily.

14 And the old men of the Jews built and prospered in the prophesy of Haggai the prophet, and Zechariah son of Iddo. And built and completed according to the decree of the God of Israel, and from the decree of Cyrus and Darius, and Arthasatha king of Persia.

15 And this house was finished even to the third day to the month Adar, which was the sixth year to the kingdom of Darius the king.

16 And the sons of Israel, the priests and the Levites and the rest of the sons of the exile, made the consecration of this house of God in gladness.

17 And they brought near to the consecration of this house of God a hundred oxen, two hundred rams, four hundred lambs; and he goats of the goats for sin, for all Israel twelve, for the number of the tribes of Israel.

18 And they set up the priests in their division, and the Levites in their classes, for the work of God which is in Jerusalem; according to the writing of the book of Moses.

19 And the sons of the exile will do the passover in the fourteenth to the first month.

20 For the priests and Levites were purified as one, all of them being purified; and they will slaughter the pass-over for all the sons of the exile, and for their brethren the priests, and for themselves.

21 And the sons of Israel will eat; those turning back from exile and every one being separated from the uncleanness of the nations of the earth to them, to seek for Jehovah the God of Israel;

22 And they will do the festival of the unleavened seven days in gladness: for Jehovah gladdened them, and turned the heart of the king of Assur to them, to strengthen their hands in the work of the house of God, the God of Israel

EZRA CHAPTER 7

1 And after these words in the kingdom of Arthasatha king of Persia, Ezra son of Seraiah, son of Azariah, son of Hilkiah,

2 Son of Shallum, son of Zadok, son of Ahitub,

3 Son of Amariah, son of Azariah, son of Meraioth,

4 Son of Zerahiah, son of Uzzi, son of Bukki,

5 Son of Abishua, son of Phinehas, son of Eleazar, son of Aaron the head priest:

6 This Ezra went up from Babel; and he a scribe skilled in the law of Moses which Jehovah God of Israel gave: and the king will give to him according to the hand of Jehovah upon him all his seeking.

7 And there will go up from the sons of Israel, and from the priests and the Levites, and those singing, and they watching the gates, and the Nethinims, to Jerusalem, in the seventh year to Arthasatha the king.

8 And he will come to Jerusalem in the fifth month, this the seventh year to the king.

9 For in one to the first month he laid the foundation of going up from Babel, and in one to the fifth month he came to Jerusalem, according to the good hand of his God upon him.

10 For Ezra prepared his heart to seek the law of Jehovah, and to do, and to teach in Israel the law and judgment.

11 And this the copy of the epistle which king Arthasatha gave to Ezra the priest, the scribe, the scribe of the words of the commands of Jehovah and of his laws upon Israel

12 Arthasatha, king of kings, To Ezra the priest, the scribe of the law of the God of the heavens, being perfected, and thus.

13 A decree was set from me that all being willing in my kingdom, from the people of Israel and his priests and Levites, to go to Jerusalem, shall go with thee.

14 For the cause that being sent from before the king and the seven counselors to seek concerning Judah and for Jerusalem, by the law of thy God that is in thy hand;

15 And to bring the silver and the gold that the king and his counselors gave willingly to the God of Israel, whom his dwelling in Jerusalem.

16 And all the silver and gold that thou shalt find in all the province of Babel, with the voluntary gifts of the people and the priests giving willingly to the house of their God that is in Jerusalem:

17 For this cause speedily shalt thou buy with this silver, oxen, rams, lambs, with their gifts and their libations, and thou shalt bring them near upon the altar of the house of your God that is in Jerusalem.

18 And whatever to thee and to thy brethren shall be good to do with the rest of the silver and gold; according to the will of your God ye shall do.

19 And the vessels that are given to thee for the service of the house of thy God, restore before the God of Jerusalem.

20 And the rest being necessary for the house of thy God, that shall fall to thee to give thou shalt give from the house of the king's treasure.

21 And from me, I Arthasatha the king, a decree was set up to all the treasurers that are beyond the river, that all which Ezra the priest, the scribe of the law of the God of the heavens, shall ask of you, shall be done speedily'

22 Even to a hundred talents of silver, and even to a hundred cors of wheat, and even to a hundred baths of wine, and even to a hundred baths of oil, and salt that was not written.

23 All that from the decree of the God of the heavens shall be done diligently for the house of the God of the heavens: for why to be wrath upon the kingdom of the king and his sons?

24 And making known to you that all the priests and Levites, the players, the porters, the Nethinims, and those serving this house of God, tribute, excise and toll, not being permitted to be lifted up upon them.

25 And thou Ezra, according to the wisdom of thy God that is in thy hand, appoint judges and tribunals to be judging for all the people that are beyond the river, to all knowing the laws of thy God; and those not knowing ye shall cause to know.

26 And all not to be doing the laws of thy God, and the laws of the king, judgment to be done speedily upon him, if whether to death or to rooting him out, or to impose fines and for bonds.

27 Praised be Jehovah the God of our fathers who gave according to this in the king's heart, to adorn the house of Jehovah which is in Jerusalem:

28 And extended mercy upon me before the king and his counselors, and to all the kings mighty chiefs. And I was strengthened according to the hand of Jehovah my God upon me, and I shall gather together from Israel the heads to go up with me.

EZRA CHAPTER 8

1 And these the heads of their fathers, and the register of them going up with me in the kingdom of Arthasatha from Babel

2 From the sons of Phinehas, Gershom: from the sons of Ithamar, Daniel: from the sons of David, Hattush.

3 From the sons of Shecaniah, from the sons of Parosh, Zechariah: and with him were enrolled to the males a hundred and fifty.

4 From the sons of Pahath-Moab: Elihoenai the son of Zerahiah, and with him two hundred males

5 From the sons of Sheoaniah: the son of Jahaziel, and with him three hundred males.

6 And from the sons of Adin: Ebed, son of Jonathan, and with him fifty males.

7 And from the sons of Elam: Jeshaiah the son of Athaliah, and with him seventy males.

8 And from the sons of Shephatiah: Zebadiah the son of Michael, and with him eighty males.

9 From the sons of Joab: Obadiah son of Jehiel, and with him two hundred and eighteen males.

10 And from the sons of Shelomith: son of Josiphiah, and with him a hundred and sixty males.

11 And from the sons of Bebai: Zechariah son of Bebai, and with him twenty and eight males.

12 And from the sons of Azgad; Johanan son of Hakkatan, and with him a hundred and ten males.

13 And from the last sons of Adonikam, and these their names, Eliphalet, Jeiel, and Shemaiah, and with them sixty males.

14 And from the sons of Bigvai: Uthi and Zabbud, and with them seventy males.

15 And I shall gather them together to the river going to Ahava, and there we shall encamp three days: and I shall look upon the people and upon the priests, and from the sons of Levi I found not these.

16 And I shall send for Eleazar, for Ariel, for Shemaiah and for Elnathan, and for Jarib, and for Elnathan, and for Nathan, and for Zechariah, and for Meshullam, the heads; and for Joiarib, and for Elnathan, they understanding.

17 And I shall bring them forth to Iddo the head, with the silver of the place, and I shall set words in their mouth to speak to Iddo, his brethren the Nethinims, with the silver of the place, to bring to us those serving to the house of our God.

18 And they will bring to us according to the good hand of our God upon us a man of understanding from the sons of Mahli, son of Levi, son of Israel; and Sherebiah, and his sons and his brethren, eighteen.

19 And Hashabiab, and with him Jeshaiah, from the sons of Merari, brethren and their sons, twenty

20 And from the Nethinims David gave, and the chiefs, for the service of the Levites, two hundred and twenty Nethinims: all of them were specified by names.

21 And I shall call a fast there, upon the river Ahava, to humble ourselves before our God, to seek from him a straight way for us and for our little ones, and for all our substance.

22 For I was ashamed to ask from the king strength and horsemen to help us from the enemy in the way: for we said to the king, saying, The hand of our God upon all seeking him for good; and his strength and his anger against all forsaking him.

23 And we will fast and seek of our God concerning this; and he will be entreated for us.

24 And I shall separate from the chiefs of the priests twelve to Sherebiah, Hashabiah, and with them ten from their brethren

25 And I shall weigh to them the silver and the gold, and the vessels of the oblation of the house of God, that the king and his counselors. and his chiefs and all Israel being found had lifted up

26 And I shall weigh to their hand the silver, six hundred and fifty talents, and vessels of silver to a hundred talents; gold, a hundred talents;

27 And twenty goblets of gold to a thousand darics: and different vessels of good shining brass, desirable as gold.

28 And saying to them, Ye are holy to Jehovah, and the vessels are holy; and the silver and the gold a voluntary gift to Jehovah the God of your fathers.

29 Watch and guard till ye shall weigh before the chiefs of the priests and the Levites, and the chiefs of the fathers to Israel in Jerusalem in the cells of the house of Jehovah.

30 And the priests and the Levites received the weight of the silver and the gold, and the vessels, to bring to Jerusalem to the house of God.

31 And we removed from the river Ahava in the twelfth to the first month, to go to Jerusalem: and the band of our God was upon us and he will deliver us from the hand of the enemy, and of him lying in wait upon the way.

32 And we shall come to Jerusalem, and shall dwell there three days.

33 And in the fourth day we shall weigh the silver and the gold and the vessels in the house of our God, by the hand of Meremoth son of Uriah the priest; and with him Eleazar son of Phinehas; and with them Jozabad son of Joshua, and Noadiah son of Levites;

34 In number, in weight to all: and all the weight shall be written in that time.

35 They coming from the captivity, the sons of the exile, brought near burnt-offerings to the God of Israel, twelve bullocks for all Israel, ninety and six rams, seventy and seven he lambs, the he goats of the sin, twelve: all the burnt-offering to Jehovah.

36 And they will give the king's laws to the king's satraps and prefects beyond the river: and they lifted up the people and the house of God.

EZRA CHAPTER 9

1 And in these things being finished, the chiefs came near to me, saying, The people of Israel and the priests and the Levites were not separated from the people of the lands according to their abominations, to the Canaanite, the Hittite, the Perizzite, the Jebusite, the Ammonite, the Moabite, the Egyptian and the imorite.

2 For they took from their daughters to themselves and to their sons: and the holy seed mingled themselves with the people of the lands: and the hand of the chiefs and the prophets was the first in this transgression.

3 And in my hearing this word I rent my garment and my robe, and I shall pluck off from the hair of my head and my beard, and I shall sit down, being astonished.

4 And to me all will assemble, trembling at the word of the God of Israel for the transgression of the exile; and I sat astonished till the sacrifice of the evening.

5 And at the sacrifice of the evening I rose up from my humbling; and in my rending my garment and my robe and I shall bend upon my knees and spread forth my hands to Jehovah my God.

6 And saying, My God, I was ashamed and disgraced to lift up my face, O my God, to thee: for our iniquities were multiplied over the head, and our guilt was magnified even to the heavens.

7 From the days of our fathers we are in a great trespass even to this day; and in our iniquities we were given, we, our kings, our priests, into the hand of the kings of the lands, to the sword, to captivity and to plunder, and to shame of face as this day.

8 And now for a little moment grace was from Jehovah our God to leave to us an escaping, and to give to us a nail in his holy place, for our God to enlighten our eyes and to give us a little preservation of our life in our servitude.

9 For we are servants; and in our servitude God forsook us not, and he extended to us mercy before the kings of Persia, to give to us the preservation of life to set up the house of our God, and to cause its desolations to stand, and to give to us a wall in Judah and in Jerusalem.

10 And now what shall we say, O our God, after this? for we forsook thy commands,

11 Which thou didst command by the hand of thy servants the prophets, saying, The land which ye are coming in to inherit it being a land of uncleanness in the uncleanness of the people of the lands in their abominations which filled it from mouth to mouth in their pollution.

12 And now ye shall not give your daughters to their sons, and ye shall not take their daughters to your sons, and ye shall not seek their peace and their good even forever, so that ye shall be strong and eat the good of the land, and cause to your sons to inherit even forever.

13 And after all coming upon us for our evil deeds, and in our great guilt, for thou our God didst withhold below our iniquities, and didst give to us an escaping according to this.

14 Shall we turn back to break thy commands and to contract marriage with the people of these abonminations? Wilt thou not be angry with us even to finishing, for not a remaining and escaping.

15 O Jehovah God of Israel, thou art just: for we remained an escaping as this day: behold us before thee in our guilts; for not to stand before thee for

EZRA CHAPTER 10

1 And as Ezra prayed, and as he confessed, weeping and casting himself down before the house of God, there were gathered to him from Israel a very great convocation of men and women and children: for the people wept a great weeping.

2 And Shecaniah son of Jehiel, from the sons of Elam, will answer and say to Ezra, We transgressed against our God, and we were dwelling with strange wives from the people of the land: and now there is hope to Israel concerning this.

3 And now we will cut out a covenant to our God to bring forth all the wives, and those being born of them upon the counsel of my lord, and of those trembling at the command of our God; and according to the law it shall be done.

4 Arise; for to thee the word, and we with thee: be strong and do.

5 And Ezra will rise and cause the chiefs to swear, the priests, the Levites, and all Israel, to do according to this word. And they will swear.

6 And Ezra will rise up from before the house of God, and will go the chamber of Johanan son of Eliashib: and he will go there, he ate not bread and drank not water: for he was mourning for the transgression of the exiles.

7 And they caused a voice to pass through Judah and Jerusalem to all the sons of the exile to gather, together at Jerusalem;

8 And every one who shall not come in three days according to the counsel of the chiefs and the old men, all his substance shall be devoted, and he shall be separated from the convocation of the exile.

9 And all the men of Judah and Benjamin will gather together at Jerusalem in three days. It was the ninth month, in the twentieth in the month, and all the people will sit in the broad place of the house of God, trembling for the word, and from the heavy showers.

10 And Ezra the priest will rise up and say to them, Ye transgressed, and ye will dwell with strange wives to add upon the guilt of Israel.

11 And now ye shall give praise to Jehovah the God of your fathers, and do acceptance: and separate from the people of the land and from the strange wives.

12 And all the convocation will answer and say, with a great voice, So to do according to thy words to us.

13 But the people many, and a time of heavy showers, and no power to stand without, and the work not for one day, and not for two: for we many transgressing in this word.

14 And our chiefs to all the convocation shall stand now, and all who in our cities dwelt with strange wives, shall come at the appointed times, and with them the old men of city and city, and its judges, until the turning back the burning of the anger of our God from us even for this word.

15 But Jonathan son of Asahel and Jahaziah, son of Tikvah, stood upon this: and Meshullam and Sabbethai the Levite helped them.

16 And thus the sons of the exile will do. And they will be separated, Ezra the priest, men, heads of the fathers, for the house of their fathers, and all of them by names, and they will it down in one day to the tenth month to seek out the word.

17 And they will finish with all the men dwelling with strange wives, even to one day to the first month.

18 And there will be found from the sons of the priest who dwelt with strange wives: from the sons of Joshua son of Josedek and his brethren: Maaseiah and Eleazar, and Jarib and Gedaliah.

19 And they will give their hand to bring forth their wives; and being guilty, a ram of the flock for their guilt.

20 And from the sons of Immer: Hanani and Zebadiah.

21 And from the sons of Harim: Maaseiah and Elijah and Shemaiah and Jehiel, and Uzziah.

22 And from the sons of Pashur: Elioenai, Maaseiah, Ishmael, Nathaniel, Jozabad, and Elasah.

23 And from the Levites: Jozabad, and Shimei, and Kelaiah (this is Kelita) Pethahiah, Judah and Eleazar.

24 And from those singing: Eliashib: and from the gates: Shallum and Telem and Uri

25 And from Israel: from the sons of Parosh: Ramiah and Jeziah, and Malchiah and Miamin and Eleazar and Malchiah and Benaiah.

26 And from the sons of Elam: Mattaniah, Zechariah, and Jehiel, and Abdi, and Jeremoth, and Eliah.

27 And from the sons of Zattu: Elioenai, Eliashib, Mattaniah, Jeremoth, and Zabad and Aziza.

28 And from the sons of Bebai: Jehohanan Hananiah, Zabbai, Athlai.

THE BOOK OF NEHEMIAH

or Second Book of Ezra or 2 Ezra
Author: Nehemia (as autobiographer)
Estimated Range of Dating: 5th - 4th centuries B.C.

(This book is also known as The Nehemiah Memoir or The Autobiography of Nehemia, names given by scholars to the book because it is written in the first person, and it is considered historically reliable (See Appendix C: The Elephantine Papyrus Find by Eduard Meyer, 1912. The Book of Nehemia is the second part of "Ezra-Nehemia" which was separated from the first part only by an empty line in the scroll. Nehemiah (Hebrew for "Yah comforts") was governor of Yehud Medinat (Persian Judaea) under Artaxerxes I of Persia (465–424 BC). Nehemiah wrote both parts of the Ezra-Nehemia work and he describes in his double-book the rebuilding of Jerusalem during the Second Temple period.

Nehemiah's narrative on the Rebuilding of Jerusalem: In the 20th year of Artaxerxes I (445 or 444 BC), Nehemiah was cup-bearer to the king. Learning that the remnant of Jews in Judah were in distress and that the walls of Jerusalem were broken down, he asked the king for permission to return and rebuild the city, around 20 years after Ezra's arrival in Jerusalem in 468 BC. Artaxerxes sent him to Judah as governor of the province with a mission to rebuild, letters explaining his support for the venture, and provision for timber from the king's forest. Once there, Nehemiah defied the opposition of Judah's enemies on all sides—Samaritans, Ammonites, Arabs and Philistines—and rebuilt the walls within 52 days, from the Sheep Gate in the North, the Hananeel Tower at the North West corner, the Fish Gate in the West, the Furnaces Tower at the Temple Mount's South West corner, the Dung Gate in the South, the East Gate and the gate beneath the Golden Gate in the East. He then took measures to repopulate the city and purify the Jewish community, enforcing the cancellation of debt, assisting Ezra in publicising the law of Moses, and enforcing the divorce of Jewish men from their non-Jewish wives.

After 12 years as governor, during which he ruled with justice and righteousness, he returned to the king in Susa. Appearing in the Queen's presence may indicate that he was a eunuch, and in the Septuagint, the Greek translation of the Hebrew Bible, he is described as such: eunochos (eunuch), rather than oinochoos (wine-cup-bearer). If so, the attempt by his enemy Shemaiah to trick him into entering the Temple is aimed at making him break Jewish law, rather than simply hide from assassins.

After some time in Susa he returned to Jerusalem, only to find that the people had fallen back into their evil ways. Non-Jews were permitted to conduct business inside Jerusalem on the Sabbath and to keep rooms in the Temple. Greatly angered, he purified the Temple and the priests and Levites and enforced the observance of the law of Moses.

The Second Book of Maccabees says Nehemiah is the one who brought the holy fire for the altar back from the diaspora to Jerusalem and founded a library of the Holy Scriptures just as Judas Maccabeus did. Here, Nehemiah's political role sets an example for the Hasmonean dynasty and becomes a role model for pious, national leadership in general. The scene of reading and explaining the Torah in Neh 8 became the model of synagogue worship. See 2 Maccabees 2:13.

Book of Sirach: Ben Sira's hymn in praise of the fathers mentions only Nehemiah (not Ezra) after Zerubbabel and Joshua and praises him for his building activities (Sir 49:15).

The Babylonian Talmud: One rabbinic text, or aggadah, identifies Nehemiah as Zerubbabel, with the latter being considered an epithet and indicating that he was born in Babylon. Another oral tradition, or mishnah, records that Nehemiah was blamed for seeming to boast (Neh. v. 19 & xiii. 31), and disparage his predecessors (Neh. v. 15). This tradition asserts that his book was appended to the Book of Ezra, as a consequence, rather than being a separate book in its own right, as it is in the Christian Old Testament. Another Talmudic text, or Baba Bathra, records that Nehemiah completed the Book of Chronicles, which was said to have been written by Ezra, however, Nehemiah was the real author but was forbidden to claim authorship because of his bad habit of disparaging others.

The historical narrative in the combined book Ezra–Nehemiah has been largely confirmed by the 5th century Elephantine Papyri discovered in southern Egypt in 1904. (See: page 1369 The Elephantine Papyrus find of Elephantine by Eduard Meyer, 1912.) The book is set in the 5th century BC. Judah is one of several provinces within a larger satrapy (a large administrative unit) within the Persian Empire of the Achaemenid Dynasty. The capital of the empire is at Susa (Elam, western Iran). The Book of Nehemiah, in the Hebrew Bible, largely takes the form of a first-person memoir concerning the rebuilding of the walls of Jerusalem after the Babylonian exile by Nehemiah, a Jew who is a high official at the Persian court, and the dedication of the city and its people to God's laws (the Torah, Pebtateuch).

Nehemiah is a cup-bearer to king (emperor) Artaxerxes I (Artakhshasa I, 465-424 BC) of Persia – an important official position. At his own request Nehemiah is sent to Jerusalem as governor of Yehud, the official Persian name for Judah (Judaea). He was provided with an escort and with documents that guaranteed the assistance of Judah's Persian officials. So about 444 BC Nehemiah journeyed to Jerusalem and aroused the people there to the necessity of repopulating the city and rebuilding its walls. Jerusalem had been conquered and destroyed by the Babylonians in 586 BC and Nehemiah finds it still in ruins.

The Temple at Jerusalem had been rebuilt, but the Jewish community there was dispirited and defenseless against its non-Jewish neighbours. His task is to rebuild the walls and to re-populate the city. He faces opposition from three powerful neighbours, the Samaritans, the Ammonites, and the Arabs, as well as the city of Ashdod, but in the space of 52 days the Jews under his direction succeed in rebuilding

Jerusalem's walls. He then purifies the Jewish community by enforcing its segregation from its neighbours and enforces the laws of Moses.

Since the 16th century it has generally been treated as a separate book within the Christian Bible. Before that date, it had been included in the Book of Ezra; but in Latin Christian bibles from the 13th century onwards, the Vulgate Book of Ezra was divided into two texts, called respectively the First and Second books of Ezra; a separation which became canonised with the first printed bibles in Hebrew and Latin. Mid 16th century Reformed Protestant bible translations produced in Geneva were the first to introduce the name 'Book of Nehemiah' for the text formerly called the 'Second Book of Ezra'.)

NEHEMIAH CHAPTER 1

1 The words of Nehemiah son of Hachaliah. And it will be in the month Chisleu, the twentieth year, and I was in Shushan the fortress;

2 And Hanani one of my brethren will come, he and men from Judah; and I shall ask them concerning the Jews of the escaping which were left from the captivity, and concerning Jerusalem.

3 And they will say to me, They being left which were left of the captivity there in the province, in great evil and in reproach: and the walls of Jerusalem being broken down, and its gates were burnt with fire.

4 And it will be in my hearing these words, I sat down, and I shall weep and mourn days; and I fasted and prayed before the God of the heavens,

5 And saying, Now O Jehovah, God of the heavens, the great and terrible God watching the covenant and mercy to those loving him, and to those watching his commands:

6 Will now thine ear be attentive and thine eye opened to hear to the prayer of thy servant which I pray before thee this day, day and night, for the sons of Israel thy servants, and confess for the sins of the sons of Israel which we sinned against thee? and and the house of my father sinned.

7 Being perverse, we were perverse against thee, and we watched not the commands and the laws and the judgments which thou didst command Moses thy servant

8 Remember now the word that thou didst command Moses thy servant, saying, Ye will transgress; I will scatter you among the nations:

9 And did ye turn back to me and watch my commands and do them; if there shall be a thrusting forth of you into the extremity of the heavens, from thence will I gather them and bring them to the place which I chose for my name to dwell there.

10 And these thy servants and thy people whom thou didst redeem in thy great power and by thy strong hand.

11 Now, O Lord, now will thine ear be attending to the prayer of thy servant, and to the prayer of thy servants, desiring to fear thy name? and prosper now to thy servant this day: and wilt thou give him for compassion before this man? And I was giving drink to the king.

NEHEMIAH CHAPTER 2

1 And it will be in the month Nisan, in the twentieth year to Arthasatha the king, wine before him: and I shall lift up the wine and give to the king. And I was not sad before him.

2 And the king will say to me, Wherefore thy face sad, and thou not being, sick? This nothing but sadness of heart. And I shall be very greatly afraid.

3 And saying to the king, O king, thou wilt live forever: wherefore shall not my face be sad when the city of the house of my father's sepulchres was laid waste, and its gates consumed with fire?

4 And the king will say to me, For what this thou seekest? And I shall pray to the God of the heavens.

5 And saying to the king, If good to the king, and if thy servant shall be good before thee, that thou wilt send me to Judah to the city of my fathers' sepulchres, and I will build it,

6 And the king will say to me (the consort will sit near him) How long shall be thy journey? and when wilt thou turn back? And it will be good before the king, and he will send me; and I shall give to him a time.

7 And saying to the king, If good to the king letters shall be given to me to the prefects beyond the river, that they shall cause me to pass over till I shall come to Judah.

8 And a letter to Asaph watching the pleasure-grounds to the king, who shall give to me woods to frame the gates of the fortress that is to the house, and for the walls of the city, and for the house which I shall come into it And the king will give to me according to the good hand of my God upon me.

9 And I shall come to the prefects beyond the river, and I shall give to them the letter of the king. And the king will send with me chiefs of strength and horsemen.

10 And Sanballat the Horonite will hear, and Tobiah the servant, the Ammonite, and it will be evil to them a great evil that a man came to seek good for the sons of Israel.

11 And I shall come to Jerusalem, and I shall be there three days.

12 And I shall rise in the night, I and a few men with me; and I announced not to man what my God gave into my heart to do at Jerusalem: and no beast with me but the beast that I rode upon it

13 And I shall go forth by the gate of the valley by night, and before the second fountain, and to the gate of the dung-hill, and I shall be watching the walls of Jerusalem that they being broken, and its gates were consumed with fire.

14 And I shall pass over to the gate of the fountain and pool of the king: and not a place for the beast under me to pass.

15 And I shall be going up by the torrent in the night, and I shall be watching the walls, and I shall turn back and come into the gate of the valley; and I shall turn back.

16 And the prefects knew not whither I went and what I was doing: and to the Jews and to the priests and to the nobles and to the prefects, and to the rest doing the work, even thus I announced not

17 And saying to them, Ye seeing the evil which we are in it, how Jerusalem lay waste, and her gates were burnt with fire: come ye, and we will build the walls of Jerusalem, and we shall be no more a reproach.

18 And I shall announce to them the hand of my God that it was good upon me; and also the king's words who said to me. And they will say, We will rise up and build. And they will strengthen their hands for good.

19 And Sanballat the Horonite will hear, and Tobiah the servant, the Ammonite, and Geshem the Arabian, and they will mock to us and despise us, and say, What this word that ye do? are ye bearing rule against the king?

20 And I shall turn back word to them, and say to them, The God of the heavens, he will prosper for us; and we his servants will rise up and build: and to you no portion and right and remembrance in Jerusalem.

NEHEMIAH CHAPTER 3

1 And Eliashib the great priest will rise up and his brethren the priests, and they will build the sheep gate; they consecrated it, and they will set up its doors, and even to the tower of Meah they consecrated, and even to the tower of Hananeel.

2 And upon his hand the men of Jericho built And upon his hand Zaccur son of Imri, built

3 And the gate of fishes the sons of Hassenaah built; they framed and they will set up its doors, its bolts and its bars.

4 And at their hand held fast Meremoth, son of Urijah, son of Koz. And upon their hand Meshullam son of Berechiah, son of Meshezabeel. And upon their hand held fast Zadok son of Baana.

5 And upon their hand held fast the Tekoites; and their nobles brought not their neck into the work of their Lord.

6 And the old gate held fast Jehoida son of Paseah, and Meshullam son of Besodeiah; they framed and set up its doors, its bolts and its bars.

7 And upon their band held fast Melatiah the Gibeonite, and Jadon the Meronothite, the men of Gibeon, and Mizpeh to the throne of the prefect beyond the river.

8 Upon his hand held fast Uzziel son of Harhaiah of the goldsmiths. And upon his hand held fast Hananiah son of the perfumers; and they will leave Jerusalem even to the broad wall.

9 And upon their hand held fast Raphia, son of Hur, chief of half the circuit of Jerusalem.

10 And upon their hand held fast Jedaiah son of Harumaph, and before his house, and upon his hand, held fast Hattush son of Hashabniah.

11 The second measure held fast Malchiah, son of Harim, and Hashub, son of Pahath-Moab, and the tower of the furnaces.

12 And upon his hand held fast Shallum son of Halohesh, chief of half the circuit of Jerusalem, he and his daughters.

13 And the gate of the valley held fast Hanun and the inhabitants of Zanoah; they built it, and they will set up its doors its bolts and its bars, and a thousand cubits in the wall even to the gate of the dung-hill.

14 And the gate of the dung-hill held fast Malchiah the son of Rechab, chief of the circuit of the house of the vineyard; he will build it, and set up its doors, its bolts and its bars.

15 And the gate of the fountain Shallum son of Colhozeh, ruler of the circuit of Mizpeh, held fast; he will build it and cover it, and set, it up, its doors, its bolts, and its bars, and the walls of the pool of Shiloh by the king's garden, and even to the steps going down from the city of David.

16 After him held fast Nehemiah son of Azbuk, chief of half the circuit of the house of the rock, even to the front of the sepulchres of David, and even to the pool being made, and even to the house of the strong ones.

17 After him held fast the Levites, Rehum, son of Bani. Upon his hand held fast Hashabiah chief of half the circuit of Keilah to his circuit

18 After him held fast their brethren, Bavai son of Henadad, chief of half the circuit of Keilah.

19 And upon his hand held fast Ezer son of Joshua, chief of Mizpeh, the second measure from before the going up of the weapons of the corner.

20 And after him Barach son of Zabbai, being ardent, held fast the second measure from the corner even to the entrance of the house of Eliashib the great priest

21 After him held fast Meremoth son of Urijah son of Koz the second measure from the entrance of the house of Eliashib to the end of the house of Eliashib.

22 And after him held fast the priests, the men of the circuit

23 After him held fast Benjamin and Hashub, before their house. After him held fast Azariah son of Maaseiah son of Ananiah, near his house.

24 After him held fast Binnui, son of Henadad the second measure, from the house of Azariah even to the corner, even to the turning.

25 Palal son of Uzai from before the corner, and from the tower coming forth from the king's house, the highest which was to the enclosure of the prison. After him Pedaiah son of Parosh.

26 And the Nethinims were dwelling in Ophel even to the front of the gate of waters to the sunrising, and the tower coming forth.

27 After him held fast the Tekoites the second measure, from before the great tower coming forth and even to the walls of Ophel.

32 And between the going up of the turning to the sheep gate, held fast the goldsmiths and the merchants.

NEHEMIAH CHAPTER 4

1 And it will be that when Sanballat heard that we are building the wall, and it will kindle to him, and he will be greatly angry, and he will mock against the Jews.

2 And he will say before his brethren and the strength of Shomeron, and he will say, What are the feeble Jews doing? will they leave to themselves? will they sacrifice? will they finish in a day? will they give life to the stones of the heaps of dust, and they being burnt?

3 And Tobiah the Ammonite near him, and he will say, Also that they are building, if a fox shall go up, and he brake their walls of stones.

4 Hear, O our God; for we were despised: and turn back their reproach upon their head, and wilt thou give them for plunder in the land of captivity?

5 And thou wilt not cover over their iniquity, and their sin shall not be wiped away before thee: for they provoked before the builders.

6 And we shall build the wall; and all the wall will be completed even to its half: and a heart will be to the people to work.

7 And it will be that when Sanballat heard, and Tobiah, and the Arabians and the Ammonites, and the Ashdodites, that healing ascended to the walls of Jerusalem, that the breaches began to be stopped, and it kindled to them greatly;

8 And they will conspire all of them together to come to war against Jerusalem, and to do damage to it

9 And we will pray to our God, and we shall set up a watch against them day and night, from before them.

10 And Judah will say, The strength of the bearer was weak, and the dust much; and we shall not be able to build upon the wall.

11 And our adversaries will say, They shall not know, and they shall not see, till that we shall come to their midst and kill them, and cause the work to cease.

12 And it will be that when the Jews dwelling near them came, and they will say to us ten times, From all places which ye shall turn back to us.

13 And I shall set from underneath to the place from behind to the wall upon the dry places, and I shall set the people to the families with their swords, their spears and their bows.

14 And I shall see, and I shall rise up and say to the nobles and to the prefects and to the rest of the people, Ye shall not be afraid from their face: remember Jehovah great and terrible; and war for yourselves, your sons and your daughters, your wives and your houses.

15 And it will be that when our enemies heard that it was known to us, and God will disperse their counsel, and we shall turn back all of us to the wall, each to his work.

16 And it will be from that day the half of my young men doing in the work, and half of them holding fast and the spears, the shields, and the bows, and the coats of mail; and the chiefs behind every house of Judah.

17 They building upon the wall, and they bearing in the burden, they loading with one of his hands doing in the work, and one holding fast the weapon.

18 And the builders, a man his sword being girded upon his loins, and building. And he striking upon the trumpet near me.

19 And saying to the nobles and to the prefects and to the rest of the people, The work much and broad, and we being scattered upon the wall, far off a man from his brother.

20 In the place which ye shall hear the voice of the trumpet there ye shall gather together to us; our God shall war for us.

21 And we doing in the work: and half of them holding fast upon the spears from the ascending of the dawn even till the coming forth of the stars.

22 Also in that time I said to the people, A man and his youth shall lodge in the midst of Jerusalem; and they were watching for us in the night, and work in the day.

23 And not I and my brethren and my young men, and the men of the watch which were after me, we not putting off our garments; a man his weapon for water.

NEHEMIAH CHAPTER 5

1 And a cry of the people and their wives will be great against their brethren the Jews.

2 And there is which saying, Our sons and our daughters, we being many: and we will take grain and we will eat and live.

3 And there are those saying, Our fields and our vineyards and our houses we pledge, and we will take grain in the famine.

4 And there are those saying, We borrowed silver for the king's tribute, our fields and our vineyards.

5 And now according to the flesh of our brethren, our flesh; as their sons, our sons: and behold, we subdue our sons and our daughters for servants, and there is from our daughters being subdued: and not to the strength of our hand and our fields and our vineyards to others.

6 And it will kindle to me greatly as I heard their cry and these words.

7 And my heart will take counsel to me, and I shall contend with the nobles and the prefects, and say to them, Ye impose a debt each upon his brother. And I shall give a great convocation against them.

8 And saying to them, We bought off our brethren the Jews, being sold to the nations; according to the sufficiency in us and also will ye sell your brethren? and were they sold to us? And they will be silent, and they found not a word.

9 And it will be said, Not good the word which ye do: will ye not go in the fear of our God from the reproach of the nations our enemies?

10 And also I, my brethren and my young men exacting upon them silver and grain: we will leave off now this debt

11 Turn back now to them according to this day, their fields, their vineyards, their olive trees, and their houses, and the hundredth of the silver and the grain, the new wine and the new oil which ye impose upon them.

12 And they will say, We will turn back, and we will not seek from them; thus will we do as thou sayest And I shall call the priests and shall cause them to swear to do according to this word.

13 Also I shook out my arm, and said, Thus God will shake out every man who will not raise up this word from his house and from his labor; so shall he be shaken out and emptied. And all the convocation will say, Amen, and praise Jehovah. And the people did according to this word.

14 Also from the day which it was commanded me to be their prefect in the land of Judah, from the twentieth year and even to the thirty and second year to Arthasatha the king, twelve years I and my brethren ate not the bread of the prefect

15 And the former prefects that were before me made heavy upon the people, and they will take from them in bread and wine, the last silver forty shekels; also their young men ruled over the people: and I did not thus from the face of the fear of God.

16 And also I held fast upon the work of this wall, and we bought not a field: and all my young men being gathered there for the work.

17 And the Jews and prefects a hundred and fifty men, and they coming to us from the nations that were round about us; to my table

18 And what was done for one day, one ox, six choice sheep; and birds were done for me, and within ten days with every wine for abundance: and with this, the bread of the prefect I sought not for the servitude was heavy upon this people

19 Remember to me, my God, for good, all that I did for this people

NEHEMIAH CHAPTER 6

1 And it will be as it was heard by Sanballat and Tobiah, and by Geshem the Arabian, and by the rest of our enemies, that I built the wall and a breach was not left in it; also even to this time I set not up the doors in the gates;

2 And Sanballat sent to me and Geshem, saying, Come, and we will pass over together in the villages in the valley of Ono. And they reckoned to do evil to me

3 And I shall send messengers to them, saying, I do a great work, and I shall not be able to come down: wherefore shall the work cease when I shall desist and come down to you?

4 And they will send to me according to this word four times; and I shall turn them back according to this word.

5 And Sanballat will send his young man to me according to this word the fifth time, and a letter opened in his hand;

6 Being written in it, It was heard in the nations, and Geshem said, Thou and the Jews are reckoning to rebel: for this thou buildest the wall, and thou to be to them for king according to these words.

7 And also thou didst set up prophets to call upon thee in Jerusalem, saying, A king in Judah: and now it will be heard by the king according to these words: and now come and we will counsel together.

8 And I shall send to him saying, It was not according to these words which thou sayest, for from thy heart thou feignest them.

9 For all of them causing us to be afraid, saying, their hands shall be slackened from the work, and it shall not be done. And now strengthen my hand.

10 And I came to the house of Shemaiah son of Delaiah, son of Mehetabeel, and he was shut up; and he will say, We will pass over to the house of God into the midst of the temple, and we will shut the doors of the temple: for they are coming to kill thee; and by night coming to kill thee.

11 And saying, Shall a man like me flee? and who as I that shall go into the temple and live? I will not go in.

12 And I shall know, and behold, not God sent him; for he spake the prophecy against me: and Tobiah and Sanballat hired him.

13 So that he was hired that I shall be afraid and do thus, and sin, and it was to them for an evil name, so that they shall reproach me.

14 Remember, O my God, to Tobiah and to Sanballat, according to these his works, and also to Noadiah the prophetess, and to the rest of the prophets who were causing me to fear.

15 And the wall will be completed in the twenty and fifth to Elul, to fifty and two days.

16 And it will be as all our enemies heard, and all the nations that were round about us saw, and they will fall greatly in their own eyes: and they knew that from God was done this work.

17 Also in these days the nobles of Judah were multiplying their letters going to Tobiah, and those to Tobiah came to them.

18 For many in Judah being married by oath to him for he was son-in-law to Shechaniah son of Arah; and Johanan his son took the daughter of Meshullam, son of Berechiah.

19 Also his good things were said before me, and my words were brought forth to him. Tobiah sent letters to cause me to fear.

NEHEMIAH CHAPTER 7

1 And it will be as the wall was built, and I shall set up the doors, and the gate-keepers, and those singing, and the Levites will be appointed.

2 And I shall command Hanani my brother, and Hananiah chief of the fortress, over Jerusalem, for he is as a man of truth, and fearing God above many.

3 And it will be said to them, The gates of Jerusalem shall not be opened till the sun being hot; and till they standing by shall shut the doors and fasten: and setting up watches of the inhabitants of Jerusalem, a man in his watch, and a man before his house.

4 And the city broad of hands, and great and the people few in its midst, and the houses not built.

5 And my God will give to my heart, and I shall gather together the nobles and the prefects and the people, to be 70 And from the sum of heads of the fathers they gave for the work. The Tirshatha gave to the treasure gold a thousand drachmas, fifty vases, thirty and five hundred priests' tunics.

71 And from the chiefs of the fathers they gave to the treasure of the work, gold, two myriads of drachmas, and silver, two thousand two hundred portions.

72 And what the rest of the people gave was gold, two myriads of drachmas, and silver, two thousand portions, and priests' tunics, sixty and seven.

73 And there dwelt the priests and the Levites and the gatekeepers, and those singing, and from the people and the Nethinims, and all Israel in their cities; and the seventh month will draw near, and the sons of Israel in their cities.

NEHEMIAH CHAPTER 8

1 And all the people will gather together as one man to the broad place that was before the gate of the waters; and they will say to Ezra the scribe to bring the book of the law of Moses which Jehovah commanded Israel.

2 And Ezra the priest will bring the law before the convocation, from man and even to woman, and all understanding to hear in one day to the seventh month.

3 And he will read in it before the broad place which is before the gate of the waters, from the light even to the half of the day, before the men and the women, and those understanding; and the ears of all the people will be to the book of the law.

4 And Ezra the scribe will stand upon a tower of wood which they made for the word; and near him will stand Mattathiah and Shema, and Anaiah, and Urijah, and Hilkiah, and Maaseiah, upon his right hand; and his left, Pedaiah, and Mishael, and Malchiah, and Hashum, and Hashbadana, Zechariah, Meshullam.

5 And Ezra will open the book before the eyes of all the people; for he was above all the people; and when he opened it all the people stood:

6 And Ezra will praise Jehovah the great God: and all the people will answer, Amen, Amen, in lifting up their hands: and they will bow down and worship to Jehovah, with faces to the earth.

7 And Joshua, and Bani, and Sherebiah, Jamin, Akkub, Shabbethai, Hodijah, Maaseiah, Kelita, Azariah, Jozabad, Hanan, Pelaiah, and the Levites, causing the people to understand to the law: and the people upon their standing.

8 And they will read in the book in the law of God accurately, and he set up the understanding, and they will cause to understand the reading.

9 And Nehemiah, (he the Tirshatha) will say, and Ezra the priest the scribe, and the Levites causing the people to understand, To all the people this day is holy to Jehovah your God; ye shall not mourn, and ye shall not weep. For all the people weeping in their hearing to the words of the law.

10 And he will say to them, Go ye; eat fatnesses, and drink sweetnesses, and send portions to him for whom nothing was prepared: for the day is holy to our Lord: and ye shall not grieve, for the joy of Jehovah this is your strength.

11 And the Levites silencing to all the people, saying, Silence; for the day is holy; and ye shall not grieve.

12 And all the people will go to eat and to drink, and to send portions, and to make great gladness, for they understood the words that were made known to them.

13 And in the second day were gathered together the heads of the fathers to all the people, the priests, the Levites, to Ezra the scribe, and to understand to the words of the law.

14 And they will find written in the law which Jehovah commanded by the hand of Moses, that the sons of Israel dwelt in booths in the festival in the seventh month.

15 And that they will cause to hear and will cause a voice to pass over in all their cities, and in Jerusalem, saying, Go ye forth to the mountain and bring leaves of olive, and leaves of the tree of oil, and leaves of myrtle, and leaves of palms, and leaves of the tree interwoven, to make booths according to the writing.

16 And the people will go forth, and will bring and make for themselves booths, each upon his roof, and in their enclosures, and in the enclosures of the house of God, and in the broad place of the gate of the waters and in the broad place of the gate of Ephraim.

17 And all the convocation of those turning back from the captivity will make booths, and they will dwell in booths; for from the days of Joshua son of Nun, the sons of Israel did not thus even to this day. And there will be great gladness exceedingly.

18 And he will read in the book of the law of God day by day, from the first day even to the last day. And they will do a festival seven days; and in the eighth day a restraint according to judgment

NEHEMIAH CHAPTER 9

1 And in the twenty and fourth day to this month, the sons of Israel were gathered together with fasting and with sackclothes, and earth upon them.

2 And the seed of Israel will be separated from all the sons of the stranger, and they will stand and confess over their sins, and the iniquities of their fathers.

3 And they will rise up upon their standing and read in the book of the law of Jehovah their God, the fourth of the day; and a fourth confessing and worshiping to Jehovah their God.

4 And there will rise up upon the ascent of the Levites, Joshua and the sons of Kadmiel, Shebaniah, Bani, Sherebiah, Bani, Chenani; and they will cry with a great voice to Jehovah their God.

5 And the Levites, Joshua and Kadmiel, Bani, Hashabniah, Sherebiah, Hodijah, Shebaniah, Pethahiah, will say, Rise up, praise Jehovah your God from forever even to forever: and they shall praise the name of thy glory, exalting over all blessing and praise.

6 Thou thyself, O Jehovah, thou alone, didst make the heavens, the heavens of heavens, with all their army, the earth and all that is upon it, the seas and all that is in them, and thou makest alive all of them: and the army of the heavens worshiping to thee.

7 Thou thyself Jehovah the God who chose in Abram, and thou broughtest him from Ur of the Chaldees, and didst set his name Abraham.

8 And thou didst find his heart faithful before thee, and thou didst cut out a covenant with him to give the land of the Canaanites, the Hittites, the Amorites, the Perezzites, the Jebusites, and the Girgashites, to give to his seed: and thou wilt set up thy words, for thou art just:

9 And thou wilt see the humbling of our fathers in Egypt, and thou heardest their cry upon the sea of sedge:

10 And thou wilt give signs and wonders upon Pharaoh, and upon all his servants, and upon all the people of his land: for thou knewest that they acted proudly against them. And thou wilt make to thee a name as this day.

11 And thou didst cleave asunder the sea before them, and they will pass over in the midst of the sea upon dry land; and those pursuing them thou didst cast into the depths as a stone into the strong waters.

12 And in a pillar of cloud thou didst guide them by day, and in a pillar of fire by night, to enlighten the way to them that they shall go in it

13 And upon mount Sinai thou camest down, and speaking with them from the heavens, and thou wilt give to them right judgments, and laws of truth, good laws and commands

14 and thou didst make known to them thy holy Sabbath, and commands, and ordinances, and law; thou didst charge to them by the hand of Moses thy servant:

15 And bread from the heavens thou gavest to them for their hunger, and water from the rock thou broughtest forth to them for their thirst; and thou wilt say to them to go in and to inherit the land which thou didst lift up thy hand to give to them.

16 And they and our fathers acted proudly, and they will harden their neck, and will not hear to thy commands,

17 And they will refuse to hear, and they will not remember thy wonders which thou didst with them; and they will harden their necks, and they will give a head to turn back to their servitude in their perverseness: and thou a God of forgivenesses, merciful and compassionate, slow to anger and great of mercy, and thou didst not forsake them.

18 Also when they made to them a molten calf, and they will say, This thy God which brought thee up from Egypt; and they will make great reproaches;

19 And thou in thy many compassions forsookest them not in the desert: not removing the pillar of cloud from above them in the day to guide them in the way; and the pillar of fire in the night, to enlighten to them, and the way that they shall go in it

20 And thy good spirit thou gavest to instruct them, and thy manna thou didst not withhold from their mouth, and water gavest thou to them for their thirst

21 And forty years thou didst nourish them in the desert; they wanted not; their garments fell not away, and their feet swelled not

22 And thou wilt give to them kingdoms and nations, and thou wilt divide them to the extremity: and they will inherit the land of Sihon, and the land of the king of Heshbon, and the land of Og, king of Bashan.

23 And their sons thou didst multiply as the stars of the heavens, and thou wilt bring them to the land which thou saidst to their fathers to come in to possess

24 And their sons will come in and possess the land, and thou wilt subdue before them the inhabitants of the land, the Canaanitas, and thou wilt give them into their hand, and all their kings, and the nations of the land, to do them according to their will.

25 And they will take inaccessible cities, and a fat land, and they will inherit houses full of all good, and wells hewed out, vineyards and olive trees, and the tree of food for abundance: and they will eat and be filled, and be fat, and will live delicately in thy great goodness.

26 And they will be perverse, and they will rebel against thee, and they will cast thy law behind their back, and they killed thy prophets who testified against them to turn them back to thee, and they will make great reproaches.

27 And thou wilt give them into the hand of their adversaries, and they will press upon them: and in the time of their straits they will cry to thee, and thou wilt hear from the heavens; and according to thy many compassion thou wilt give to them saviours, and they will save them from the hand of their adversaries.

28 And when rest to them they will turn back to do evil before thee: and thou wilt leave them in the hand of their enemies, and they will come down upon them: and they will turn back and cry to thee, and thou from the heavens wilt hear, and wilt deliver them according to thy compassion, many times.

29 And thou wilt testify against them to turn them back to thy law: and they acted proudly and heard not to thy commands, and in thy judgments they sinned in them; (which a man shall do and he lived in them) and they will give a shoulder turning aside, and they hardened their neck and heard not

30 And thou wilt protract over them many years, and thou wilt testify against them by thy spirit in the hand of thy prophets: and they gave not ear, and thou wilt give them into the hand of the people of the lands.

31 And in thy many compassions thou madest them not a finishing, and thou didst not forsake them; for thou a God merciful and compassionate.

32 And now our God, the great the mighty, and the terrible God, watching the covenant and the mercy, it shall not be little before thee all the distress which found us, to our kings, to our chiefs, to our priests, and to our prophets, and to our fathers, and to all thy people from the days of the kings of Assur even to this day.

33 And thou art just for all brought upon us; for thou didst the truth and we were evil:

34 And our kings, our chiefs, our priests and our fathers, they did not thy law, and they attended not to thy commands and thy testimonies which thou didst testify against them.

35 And they in their kingdom, and in thy great goodness which thou gavest to them, and in the broad and fat land which thou gavest before them, served not thee, and turned not back from their evil works.

36 Behold, we this day are servants, and the land which thou gavest to our fathers to eat its fruit and its goodness, behold, we are servants upon it:

37 And its produce being much for the kings whom thou gavest over us in our sins: and ruling over our bodies and upon our cattle according to their will, and we in great straits.

38 And for all this we cut out faithfulness, and write; and upon the sealing, our chiefs, our Levites, and our priests

NEHEMIAH CHAPTER 10

1 And upon the seelings, Nehemiah the Tirshatha, son of Hachaliah, and Zidkijah,

28 And the rest of the people, the priests, the Levites, the gate-keepers, those singing, the Nethinims, and all being separated from the people of the lands to the law of God, their wives, their sons, and their daughters, all knowing understanding;

29 Holding upon their brethren, their mighty ones, and coming into a curse, and into an oath, to go in the law of God which was given by the hand of Moses the servant of God, and to watch and to do all the command of Jehovah our Lord, and his judgments and his ordinances;

30 And that we will not give our daughters to the people of the land, and we will not take their daughters to our sons:

31 And the people of the land bringing wares and all grain in the day of the Sabbath to sell, we will not take from them in the Sabbath and in the holy day: and we will leave the seventh year, and the debt of every hand.

32 And we set up commands for us to give for us the third of the shekel in the year for the service of the house of our God.

33 For the bread of the arrangement and the gift of continuance, and for the burnt-offering of continuance of the Sabbaths, the new moons, for the appointments and for the holies, and for the sins, to expiate for Israel and all the work of the house of our God.

34 And we cast the lots for the oblation of the woods, of the priests, the Levites and the people, to bring to the house of our God, for the house of our fathers at the times appointed year by year, to burn upon the altar of Jehovah our God, as written in the law:

35 And to bring the first-fruits of our land, and the first-fruits of all fruit of the tree year by year, to the house of Jehovah:

36 And the first-born of our sons, and of our cattle, as written in the law; and the first-born of our herds and our flocks, to bring to the house of our God, to the priests serving in the house of our God,

37 And the first-fruits of our groats and our oblations, and the fruits of every tree, new wine and new oil we shall bring to the priests to the cells of the house of our God; and the tenth of our lands to the Levites, and these Levites giving tenths in all the cities of our work.

38 And the priest the son of Aaron being with the Levites in the tenth of the Levites: and the Levites shall bring up the tenth of the tenth to the house of our God to the cells to the house of the treasure.

39 For to the cells shall the sons of Israel and the sons of Levi bring the oblations of the grain, of the new wine and the new oil, and there the vessels of the holy place, and the priests serving, and the gate-keepers and those singing: and we will not forsake the house of our God.

NEHEMIAH CHAPTER 11

1 And the chiefs of the people dwelt in Jerusalem: and the rest of the people cast lots to bring one from ten to dwell in Jerusalem the holy city, and nine hands in the cities.

2 And the people will praise to all the men volunteering to dwell in Jerusalem.

3 And these the heads of the province that dwelt in Jerusalem: and in the cities of Judah they dwelt, each in his possession in their cities of Israel, the priests and the Levites, and the Nethinims, and the sons of Solomon's servants.

24 And the heads of the Levites: Hashabiah, Sherebiah, and Joshua son of Kadmiel, and their brethren over against them, to praise, to confess in the command of David the man of God watching over against watching.

26 These were in the days of Joiakim son of Joshua, son of Jozadak, and in the days of Nehemiah the prefect, and, of Ezra the priest, the scribe.

27 And in the consecration of the wall of Jerusalem they sought the Levites out of all their places, to bring them to Jerusalem to do the consecration and gladness, and with praises and with song of cymbals, lyres, and with harps.

28 And the sons of those singing will gather together, and from the circuit round about Jerusalem, and from the villages of Netophathi;

29 And from the house of Gilgal and from the fields of Geba and Azmaveth: for those singing built for themselves villages round about Jerusalem.

30 And the priests and the Levites will be purified, and they will purify the people and the gates and the wall

31 And I shall bring up the chiefs of Judah from above the wall, and I shall cause to stand two great choirs, and to go about to the right hand above to the wall to the gate of the dung-hill:

32 And Hoshaiah went after them, and half the chiefs of Judah,

33 And Azariah, Ezra, and Meshullam,

34 Judah and Benjamin, and Shemaiah and Jeremiah,

35 And from the sons of the priests with trumpets: Zechariah son of Jonathan, son of Shemaiah the son of Mattaniah, son of Michaiah, son of Zaccur, son of Asaph:

36 And his brethren, Shemaiah, and Azarael, Milalai, Gilalai, Maai, Nathaneel, and Judah, Hanani, with instruments of song of David the man of God, and Ezra the scribe before them.

37 And at the gate of the fountain, and before them, they went up upon the steps of the city of David in the going up to the wall from above to the house: of David, and even to the gate of waters of the sunrising.

38 And the second praised going about to the front, and I after it, and, half the people above to the wall, above to the tower of the furnaces and even to the broad wall;

39 And from above to the gate of Ephraim, and over the old gate, and over the gate of fishes, and the tower of Hananeel, and the tower of Meah, and even to the sheep gate: and, they stood in the gate of the prison.

40 And the two choirs will stand in the house of God, and I, and half of the prefects with me:

41 And the priests: Eliakim, Maaseiah, Miniamin, Michaiah, Elioenai, Zechariah, Hananiah, with trumpets;

42 And Maaseiah and Eleazar and Uzzi and Jehonathan and Malchijah and Elam and Ezer and those singing will cause to hear, and Jezrahiah, reviewing.

43 And they will sacrifice in that day great sacrifices, and they will rejoice, for God caused them to rejoice with great gladness: and also the women and the children, rejoiced, and the gladness of Jerusalem will be heard even to far off.

44 And in that day they will appoint men over the cells to the treasures for the oblations for the first-fruits and for the tenths to collect into them to the fields of the cities the portions of the law to the priests and to the Levites: for the gladness of Judah over the priests and over the Levites standing.

45 And they will watch the watches of their God, and the watches of the purification, and those singing, and the gate-keepers, according to the command of David, and of Solomon his son.

46 For in the days of, David and Asaph from of old the head of those singing, and the song of praise and confessions to God.

47 And all Israel in the days of Zerubbabel, and in the days of Nehemiah giving, portions, of the singers and the gate-keepers, the word of a day in its day: and consecrating to the Levites; and the Levites consecrating to the sons of Aaron.

NEHEMIAH CHAPTER 13

1 In that day was read in the book of Moses in the ears of the people; and it was found written in it that there shall not come in an Ammonite and a Moabite to the convocation of God, even to forever;

2 For they anticipated not the sons of Israel with bread and with water, and he will hire Balaam against him to curse him: and God will turn the curse to blessing.

3 And it will be in their hearing the law, and they will separate all the mixture from Israel.

4 And before this, Eliashib the priest being given over the cells of the house of our God, being near to Tobiah:

5 And he will make for him a great cell, and there before them were given the gifts, the frankincense and the vessels, and the tenth of the grain of the new wine and the new oil, (the command of the Levites, and those singing, and the gate-keepers,) and the oblations of the priests.

6 And in all this I was not in Jerusalem: for in the thirty and second year to Arthasatha king of Babel, I came to the king, and at the end of days I asked for myself from the king:

7 And I shall come to Jerusalem, and I shall understand upon the evil which Eliashib did for Tobiah to prepare for him a cell in the enclosures of the house of God.

8 And it will be greatly evil to me: and I shall cast forth all the vessels of the house of Tobiah without from the cell.

9 And saying, and they will purify the cells: and I shall turn back there the vessels of the house of God, with the gift and the frankincense.

10 And I shall know that the portions of the Levites were not given: and they will flee a man to his field, the Levites and those singing, doing the work

11 And I shall contend with the prefects, and say, Wherefore was the house of God forsaken? And I shall gather them together, and cause them to stand upon their standing.

12 And all Judah brought the tenth of the grain and the new wine and the new oil to the treasuries.

13 And I made treasurers over the treasuries, Shelemiah the priest, and Zadok the scribe, and Pedaiah from the Levites: and upon their hand Hanan son of Zaccur, son of Mattaniah: for they were reckoned faithful: and upon them to divide out to their brethren.

14 Remember to me, O my God, concerning this, and thou wilt not wipe out my kindness which I did in the house of my God, and in its watches.

15 In those days I saw in Judah those treading the wine-presses in the Sabbath, and bringing in the sheaves, and loading upon the asses; and also wine, grapes, and figs, and every burden, and bringing into Jerusalem in the day of the Sabbath: and I shall testify in the day of their selling provision.

16 And the Tyrians sat in it, bringing in fish and every selling, and selling in the Sabbath to the sons of Judah, and in Jerusalem.

17 And I shall contend with the nobles of Judah, and say to them, What this evil word that ye are doing, and profaning the day of the Sabbath?

18 Did not your fathers thus, and our God will bring all this evil upon us, and upon this city? and ye are adding burning upon Israel to profane the Sabbath.

19 And it will be as the gates of Jerusalem were darkened before the Sabbath, and saying, and the doors shall be shut, and saying that they shall not open them till after the Sabbath: and from my young men I caused to stand at the gates; a burden shall not be brought in in the day of the Sabbath.

20 And the merchants and those selling every selling will lodge from without to Jerusalem once and twice.

21 And I shall testify against them, and say to them, Wherefore are ye lodging before the wall? if ye shall do it a second time I will stretch forth the hand against you From that time they came not upon the Sabbath.

22 And saying to the Levites that they shall be purifying, and coming, watching the gates to consecrate the day of the Sabbath. Also this remember for me, O my God, and spare upon me according to the multitude of thy mercy.

23 Also in those days I saw Jews who caused to dwell women, Ashdodites, Ammonites, Moabites:

24 And their sons half speaking the Ashdod dialect, and they not knowing to speak the Judean dialect, and according to the tongue of people and people.

25 And I shall contend with them, and I shall curse them and I shall strike of them men, and I shall make them bald, and cause them to swear by God, If ye shall give your daughters to their sons, and if ye shall lift up from their daughters to your sons and to yourselves.

26 Did not Solomon king of Israel sin concerning these? and in many nations was there not a king like him, and he was loved by his God, and God will give him king over all Israel: also him did women strangers cause to sin.

27 And to you shall we hear to do all this great evil to transgress against our God to cause strange women to dwell.

28 And from the sons of Joiada, son of Eliashib the great priest, was son-in-law to Sanballat the Horonite: and I shall cause him to flee from me.

29 Remember to them, O my God, for the pollutions of the priesthood, and the covenant of the priesthood, and of the Levites.

30 And I cleansed them from every stranger, and I shall set up watches to the priests and to the Levites, a man in his work.

31 And for the bringing near the woods in the times appointed, and for the first-fruits. Remember to me, O my God for good.

THE FIRST BOOK OF CHRONICLES

or 1 Chronicles; Greek: Paralipomenon
Hebrew: Dibre Hayyamim (The Matters of the Days)
Author: Azaryahu, known as Ezra (Greek: Esdras)
(Nehemia might have edited some parts.)
Estimated Range of Dating: mid-5th century B.C.

(The Book of Chronicles (Hebrew: Dibre Hayyamim 'The Matters of the Days') is a Hebrew prose work constituting part of Jewish and Christian scripture. Chronicles is the final book of the Hebrew Bible, concluding the third section of Ketuvim, the last section of the Jewish Tanakh. It was divided into two books in the Septuagint, the Paralipomenon (Greek: lit. "things left on one side"). In Christian contexts it is therefore known as the Books of Chronicles, after the Latin name chronikon given to the text by the scholar Jerome. In the Christian Bible, the books (commonly referred to as 1 Chronicles and 2 Chronicles, or First Chronicles and Second Chronicles) generally follow the two Books of Kings, and precede Ezra–Nehemiah; thus they conclude the history-oriented books of the Old Testament.

Originally a single work, Chronicles was divided into two in the Greek Septuagint: 1 Chronicles is divided into 29 chapters and 2 Chronicles into 36 chapters. It contains a genealogy from a human being, Adam, and a narrative of the history of ancient Judah and Israel. The last events in Chronicles take place in the reign of Cyrus the Great, the Persian king who conquered Babylon in 539 BC; this sets the earliest possible date for the book.

Chronicles appears to be largely the work of a single individual. The writer was probably male, probably a Levite (temple priest), and probably from Jerusalem. He was well-read, a skilled editor, and a sophisticated theologian. His intention was to use Israel's past to convey religious messages to his peers, the literary and political elite of Jerusalem in the time of the Achaemenid (Persian) Empire. Jewish and Christian tradition identified this author as the 5th century BC figure Ezra, who gives his name to the Book of Ezra; Ezra is believed to be the author of Chronicles, the first part of Ezra–Nehemiah, and Malachi. Many scholars maintain support for Ezra's authorship, not only based on centuries of work by Jewish historians, but also due to the consistency of language and speech patterns between Chronicles and Ezra-Nehemiah.

One of the most striking, although inconclusive, features of Chronicles is that its closing sentence is repeated as the opening of Ezra–Nehemiah. These repeated verses are called "catch-lines." In antiquity, catch-lines were often placed at the end of a scroll to facilitate the reader's passing on to the correct second book-scroll after completing the first. This scribal device was employed in works that exceeded the scope of a single scroll and had to be continued on another scroll.

Scholars suggest it was probably composed between 450–250 BC, with the period 350–300 BC the most likely. This timeframe is achieved by estimates made based on genealogies appearing in the Greek Septuagint. This theory bases its premise on latest person mentioned in Chronicles, Anani. Anani is an eighth-generation descendant of King Jehoiachin according to the Masoretic Text. They roughly estimate Anani's birth to have been sometime between 425 and 400 BC using an additional five generations in the genealogy of Anani appearing in the Septuagint. Based on this, the theory has persuaded many supporters of the Septuagint's reading to place Anani's likely date of birth a century later than what has been largely accepted for two millennia.

Much of the content of Chronicles is a repetition of material from other books of the Bible, from Genesis to Kings, and so the usual scholarly view is that these books, or an early version of them, provided the author with the bulk of his material. The Chronicles narrative begins with Adam, Seth and Enosh, and the story is then carried forward, almost entirely through genealogical lists, down to the founding of the first Kingdom of Israel (in the "introductory chapters", 1 Chronicles 1–9). The bulk of the remainder of 1 Chronicles, after a brief account of Saul in chapter 10, is concerned with the reign of David (1 Chronicles 11–29). The next long section concerns David's son Solomon (2 Chronicles 1–9), and the final part is concerned with the Kingdom of Judah, with occasional references to the second kingdom of Israel (2 Chronicles 10–36). The final chapter covers briefly the reigns of the last four kings, until Judah is destroyed and the people taken into exile in Babylon. In the two final verses, identical to the opening verses of the Book of Ezra, the Persian king Cyrus the Great conquers the Neo-Babylonian Empire, and authorises the restoration of the Temple in Jerusalem and the return of the exiles.)

43 And they will strike the rest of the escaping to Amalek, and they will dwell there even to this day.

1 CHRONICLES CHAPTER 5

1 And the sons of Reuben the first-born of Israel, (for he the firstborn; and in his defiling his father's bed, the birth-right was given to the sons of Joseph the son of Israel; and not to be enrolled for the birthright

2 For Judah was strong over his brethren, and for a leader from him; and the birthright to Joseph:)

3 The sons of Reuben, the first-born of Israel, Hanoch, and Pallu, Hezron and Carmi.

4 The sons of Joel: Shemaiah his son, Gog his son, Shimei his son,

5 Micah his son) Reaiah his son, Baal his son,

6 Beerah his son, whom Tilgath-Pileser king of Assur carried into exile: he the prince to the Reubenites.

7 And his brethren according to their families, (in the enrolling to their generations) the chief Jeiel and Zechariah,

8 And Bela son of Azaz, son of She-ma son of Joel, he will dwell in Aroer, and even to Nebo, and Baal-Meon:

9 And to the sunrising he dwelt even to the coming from the desert from the river Phrath: for their cattle were multiplied in the land of Gilead.

10 And in the days of Saul they made war with the Hagarites, and they will fall by their hand: and they dwelt in their tents upon all the face from the sunrising to Gilead.

11 And the sons of Gad dwelt before them in the land of Bashan and Salcah:

12 Joel the head, and Shapham the second, and Jaanai and Shaphat in Bashan.

13 And their brethren to the house of their fathers, Michael and Meshullam, and Sheba, and Jorai, and Jachan, and Zia, and Eber; seven.

14 Those the sons of Abihail son of Huri, son of Jaroah, son of Gilead, son of Michael, son of Jeshishai, son of Jahdo, son of Buz;

15 Ahi son of Abdiel, son of Guni, the head to the house of their fathers.

16 And they dwelt in Gilead in Bashan, and in her daughters, and in all the areas of Sharon, upon their goings forth.

17 All these were enrolled in the days of Jotham king of Judah, and in the days of Jeroboam king of Israel

18 The sons of Reuben and the Gadites, and half the tribe of Manasseh from the sons of strength, men lifting up shield and sword, and bending the bow, and accustomed to war; forty and four thousand and seven hundred and sixty going forth to war.

19 And they will make war with the Hagarites, and Jetur and Nephish, and Nodab

20 And they will be helped against them, and the Hagarites will be given into their hand, and all with them: for they cried to God in the war, and he was entreated for them, for they trusted in him.

21 And they will take captive their cattle; their camels fifty thousand, and sheep two hundred and fifty thousand, and asses two thousand, and the soul of man, a hundred thousand.

22 For many fell down wounded, for the war was from God. And they dwelt in their stead even to the exile.

23 And the sons of half the tribe of Manasseh dwelt in the land: from Bashan even to Baal-Hermon and Senir and mount Hermon they multiplied.

24 And these the heads of the house of their fathers: and Epher and Ishi, and Eliel, and Azriel, and Jeremiah, and Hodaviah, and Jandiel; mighty men of strength, men of names, heads to the house of their fathers.

25 And they will transgress against the God of their fathers, and they will commit fornication after the gods of the peoples of the land, which God destroyed from before them.

26 And the God of Israel will rouse up the spirit of Pul, king of Assur and the spirit of Tilgath-Pileser, king of Assur; and he will carry them into exile to the Reubenites and to the Gadites, and to half the tribe of Manasseh; and he will bring them to Halah, and Habor, and Hara, and the river Gozan, even to this day.

1 CHRONICLES CHAPTER 10

1 And the rovers waged war with Israel; and the man Israel will flee from the face of the rovers, and they will fall wounded in mount Gilboa.

2 And the rovers will pursue after Saul, and after his sons; and the rovers will strike Jonathan and Abinadab and Malchishua, Saul's sons.

3 And the war will be heavy upon Saul, and they shooting with bows will find him, and he will be wounded from those shooting.

4 And Saul will say to him lifting up his utensils, Draw thy sword and thrust me through with it lest these uncircumcised shall come and shall mock against me. And he lifting up his utensils would not, for he feared greatly. And Saul will take the sword and fall upon it.

5 And he lifting up his utensils will see that Saul died, and he will also fall upon the sword and die.

6 And Saul will die, and his three sons, and all his house together died.

7 And all the men of Israel which are in the valley will see that they fled, and that Saul and his sons died, and they will forsake their cities and will flee: and the rovers will come and dwell in them.

8 And it will be from the morrow, and the rovers will come to strip the wounded, and they will find Saul and his sons fallen in mount Gilboa.

9 And they will strip him and lift up his head, and his weapons, and send into the land of the rovers round about, to announce the good news to their images and the people.

10 And they will set up his weapons in the house of their gods, and they fastened his skull in the house of Dagon.

11 And all Jabesh-Gilead will hear all that the rovers did to Saul,

12 And they will rise, every man of strength, and they will lift up the body of Saul and the bodies of his sons, and they will bring them to Jabesh, and they will bury their bones under an oak in Jabesh, and they will fast seven days.

13 And Saul will die in his transgression which he transgressed against Jehovah, against the word of Jehovah, which he watched not, and also for asking to a sorcerer to seek out;

14 And not seeking to Jehovah: and he will kill him, and turn the kingdom to David the son of Jesse.

1 CHRONICLES CHAPTER 11

1 And all Israel will gather together to David to Hebron, saying, Behold, we thy bone and thy flesh.

2 Also yesterday also the third day, also in Saul being king thou wert bringing forth and bringing in Israel: and Jehovah thy God will say to thee, Thou shalt feed my people Israel, and thou shalt be leader over my people Israel

3 And all the old men of Israel will come to the king to Hebron; and David will cut out to them a covenant in Hebron before Jehovah; and they will anoint David for king over Israel according to the word of Jehovah by the hand of Samuel.

4 And David will go, and all Israel to Jerusalem; this is Jebus; and there the Jebusites dwelling in the land.

5 And they dwelling in Jebus will say to David, Thou shalt not come in hither. And David will take the castle of Zion, this the city of David.

6 And David will say, Every one striking the Jebusites the first shall be for head and for chief. And Joab son of Zeruiah, will go up at first, and he will be for head.

7 And David dwelt in the castle; for this they called to it the city of David.

8 And he will build the city from round about from Millo, and even round about: and Joab will revive the remainder of the city.

9 And David will go, going and growing great: and Jehovah of armies with him.

10 And these the heads, strong ones, which were to David, strengthening themselves with him in his kingdom, with all Israel, to cause him to reign according to the word of Jehovah upon Israel.

11 And these the number of strong ones which were to David; Jashobeam, son of Hachmoni, head of the thirty; he lifted up his spear against three hundred wounding at one time.

12 And after him Eleazar, son of Dodo, the Ahohite, he among the three strong ones.

13 He was with David in Pasdammim, and the rovers were gathered together there to war, and there will be a portion of the field filled with barley; and the people fled from before the rovers.

14 And they will set themselves in the midst of the portion, and they will deliver it and will strike the rovers; and Jehovah will save a great salvation.

15 And the three from the thirty heads will go down upon the rock to David to the cave of Adullam; and the camp of the rovers encamped in the valley of Rephaim.

16 And David then in the castle, and a garrison of the rovers then in the house of bread.

17 And David will long, and say, Who will give me to drink from the water from the well of the house of bread, which is in the gate?

18 And the three will break forth into the camp of the rovers, and draw waters from the well of the house of bread which is in the gate, and they will lift up and bring to David: and David would not drink them, and he will pour them forth to Jehovah.

19 And he will say, Far be it to me from my God from doing this: shall I drink the blood of these men with their souls? for with their souls they brought them. And he would not drink them. These did the three strong ones.

20 And Abishai, brother of Joab, he was head of the three: and he lifted up his spear against three hundred; he wounded, and to a name among the three.

21 Of the three, above the two he was honored; and will be to them for chief: and even to the three he came not

22 Benaiah son of Jehoida, son of a man of power, great of deeds, from Kabzeel, he struck two lions of god of Moab: and he went down and struck the lion in the midst of the pit in the day of snow.

23 And he struck the man, the Egyptian, a man of measure, five by the cubit; and in the hand of the Egyptian a spear as the beam of those weaving; and he went down to him with a rod, and he will take by force the spear from the hand of the Egyptian, and he will kill him with his spear.

24 These did Benaiah son of Jehoida; and to him a name among the three strong ones.

25 From the thirty, behold, he was honored, and to three he came not: and David will set him over his audience.

26 And the strong ones of the forces, Asahel, brother of Joab, Elhanan son of Dodo from the house of bread,

27 Shammoth the Harorite, Helez the Pelonite,

28 Ira son of Ikkesh the Tekoite, Abiezer the Anathothite,

1 CHRONICLES CHAPTER 12

1 And And these coming to David to Ziklag, yet shut up from before Saul son of Kish: and they among the strong ones helping the war,
2 Bending the bows from the right hands and from the left with stones and with arrows, with the bow from Saul's brethren of Benjamin:
3 The head, Ahiezer and Joash, sons of Shimeah the Gibeathite; and Jeziel and Pelet, the sons of Azmaveth and Berachah; and Jehu the Anathothite,
4 And Ismaiah the Gibeonite, a strong one among the thirty, and over the thirty; and Jeremiah and Jahaziel and and Johanan and Josabad the Gederathite,
5 Eluzai and Jerimoth, and Bealiah, and Shemariah, Shephatiah the Haruphite,
6 Elkanah, and Jesiah, and Azareel, Joezer, and Jashobeam, the Korahites,
7 And Joelah, and Zebadiah, sons of Jeroham of Gedor.
8 And of the Gadites they separated to David to the castle from the desert strong ones of power, men of the army for war, setting in array the shield and spear, and the face of a lion their faces, and as roes upon the mountain to make haste;
9 Ezer the head, Obadiah the second, Eliab the third,
10 Mishmannah the fourth, Jeremiah the fifth,
11 Attai the sixth, Eliel the seventh,
12 Johanan the eighth, Elzabad the ninth,
13 Jeremiah the tenth, Machbanai the eleventh.
14 These from the sons of Gad, heads of the army: one to a hundred the small, and the great to a thousand.
15 These they who passed over Jordan in the first month, and it filling over all its banks; and they drove out all the valleys to the sunrising find to the west.
16 And there will come from the sons of Benjamin and Judah even to the fortress to David:
17 And David will go forth before them, and he will answer and say to them, If for peace ye came to me to help me, the heart will be together with you: and if to deceive me to mine enemy, in not being violence in my hand, the God of our fathers will see and decide
18 And the spirit clothed Amasai, head of the thirty: To thee David, and with thee, son of Jesse: peace, peace to thee, and peace to thy help; for thy God helped thee. And David will receive them and give them for heads of the troops.
19 And from Manasseh there fell to David in his going with the rovers against Saul to war; and he helped them not, for in counsel the princes of the rovers sent him away, saying, With our heads he will fall to his lord Saul.
20 In his going to Ziklag there fell to him from Manasseh, Adnah, and Jozabad, and Jediael, and Michael and Jozabad, Elihu, and Zilthai, the heads to the thousands which were to Manasseh.
21 And they helped with David against the troops: for strong ones of power all of them, and they will be chiefs in the army.
22 For at the time day by day they will come to David to he him, even a great camp as the camp of God.
23 And these the numbers of heads drawn out for the army, they came to David to Hebron to turn the kingdom of Saul to him according to the mouth of Jehovah.
24 The sons of Judah lifting up the shield and spear six thousand and eight hundred drawn out for the army.
25 From the sons of Simeon, strong ones of power for the army, seven thousand and one hundred.
26 From the sons of Levi four thousand and six hundred.
27 And Jehoida the leader to Aaron and with him three thousand seven hundred.
28 And Zadok a youth strong of power, and the house of his father twenty and two chiefs.
29 And from the sons of Benjamin the brethren of Saul, three thousand: and hitherto from many of them watching the watches of the house of Saul
30 From the sons of Ephraim twenty thousand and eight hundred strong ones of power, men of names to the house of their fathers.
31 And from half the tribe of Manasseh eighteen thousand who were distinguished by names, to come to make David king.
32 And from the sons of Issachar, those knowing the understanding to the times to know what Israel shall do; their heads two hundred; and all their brethren at their mouth.
33 From Zebulon coming forth to the army, setting the battle in array with all the utensils of war, fifty thousand to set in order, with not a heart and a heart.
34 And from Naphtali a thousand chiefs, and with them with shield and spear, thirty and seven thousand.
35 And from the Danites setting the battle in array, twenty and eight thousand and six hundred.
36 And from Asher those going forth to the army to set the battle in array, forty thousand.
37 And from beyond Jordan, from the Reubenites and the Gadites, and the half tribe of Manasseh, with all utensils of the army of the war, a hundred and twenty thousand.
38 All these men of war setting in order the arrangement with the whole heart, came to Hebron to make David king over all Israel: and also all the rest of Israel of one heart to make David king.
39 And they will be there with David three days, eating and drinking: for their brethren prepared for them.
40 And also those being near to them, even to Issachar, and Zebulon, and Naphtali, bringing bread upon asses and upon camels, and upon mules, and upon oxen; food of flour, round cakes, and dried grapes, and wine and oil, and oxen and sheep for multitude: for joy in Israel.

1 CHRONICLES CHAPTER 13

1 And David will counsel with the chiefs of the thousands and the hundreds, to every leader.

2 And David will say to all the convocation of Israel, If good to you, and from Jehovah our God, we will break forth, we will send to all our brethren being left in all the lands of Israel; and with them the priests and the Levites in the cities of their areas, and they shall gather together to us.

3 And we will turn about the ark of our God to us: for we sought it not in the days of Saul.

4 And all the convocation will say to do thus: for the word was straight in the eyes of all the people.

5 And David will convoke together all Israel from Sihor of Egypt and even to the going in of Hamath, to bring in the ark of God from the cities of the forests.

6 And David will go up, and all Israel, to Baalah, to the cities of the forests which were to Judah, to bring up from thence the ark of God Jehovah dwelling in the cherubims, which the name was called.

7 And they caused the ark of God to ride upon a new wagon from the house of Abinadab: and Uzza and his brethren conducting in the wagon.

8 And David and all Israel playing before God with all strength, and with songs and with harps, and with lyres, and with drums, and with cymbals, and with trumpets.

9 And they will come to the threshing-floor of Chidon, and Uzza will stretch forth his hand to hold firm the ark; for the oxen thrust it

10 And the anger of Jehovah will be kindled against Uzza, and he will strike him for that he stretched forth his hand upon the ark: and he will die their before God.

11 And it will kindle to David because Jehovah broke forth a breach upon Uzza: and he will call to this place, This the Breach of Uzza, even to this day.

12 And David will fear God in that day, saying, How shall I bring to me the ark of God?

13 And David removed not the ark of God from the city of David, and he will turn it away to the house of Obed-Edom the Gathite.

14 And the ark of God will dwell with the house of Obed-Edom in his house three months. And Jehovah will bless the house of Obed-Edom, and all which is to him.

1 CHRONICLES CHAPTER 14

1 And Hiram king of Tyre will send messengers to David, and trees of cedars and workmen of the wall and workmen of woods to build for him a house.

2 And David knew that Jehovah prepared him for king over Israel, for his kingdom was lifted up to above on account of his people Israel.

3 And David will take yet wives in Jerusalem: and David will yet beget sons and daughters.

4 And these the names of the children which were to him in Jerusalem; Shamus, and Shobab, Nathan and Solomon

5 And Ibhar, and Elishua, and Elphalet,

6 And Nogah and Nepheg, and Japhia,

7 And Elishama, and Beeliada, and Eliphalet

8 And the rovers will hear that David was anointed for king over all Israel, and all the rovers will come up to seek David. And David will hear and he will go forth before them.

9 And the rovers came and they will spread out in the valley of the shades.

10 And David will ask in God, saying, Shall I go up against the rovers? and gavest thou them into my hand? and Jehovah will say to him, Go up; and I gave them into thy hand.

11 And they will go up to the master of breaches, and David. will strike them there. And David will say, God broke forth upon mine enemies by my hand as the breaking forth of waters: for this they called the name of that place, The Master of the Breaches.

12 And they will leave their gods there, and David will say, and they will burn in fire.

13 And the rovers will yet add, and they will spread out in the valley.

14 And David will yet ask in God: and God will say to him, Thou shalt not go up after them; turn about from off them, and go to them from the front of the weepings.

15 And it will be in thy hearing a voice of the goings in the heads of the weepings, then thou shall go forth in war: for God will go forth before thee to strike the camp of the rovers.

16 And David will do as Jehovah commanded him: and they will strike the camp of the rovers from Gibeon even to Gaza.

17 And the name of David will go forth into all lands; and Jehovah gave his fear upon all the nations..

1 CHRONICLES CHAPTER 15

1 And he will make to himself houses in the city of David, and, he will prepare a place for the ark of God, and will spread for it a tent,.

2 Then David said, None to lift up the ark of God but the Levites: for in them God chose to lift up the ark of God, and to serve him even to forever.

3 And David will convoke all Israel together to Jerusalem, to lift up the ark of Jehovah to its place which he prepared for it.

4 And David will gather together the sons of Aaron and the Levites:

5 To the sons of Kohath: Uriel the chief and his brethren, a hundred and twenty:

6 To the sons of Merari: Asaiah the chief and his brethren, two hundred and twenty:

7 To the sons of Gershom: Joel the chief and his brethren, a hundred and thirty:

8 To the sons of Elizaphan: Shemaiah the chief and his brethren, two hundred:

9 To the sons of Hebron: Eliel the chief and his brethren, eighty:

10 To the sons of Uzziel: Aminadad the chief and his brethren, a hundred and twelve.

11 And David will call for Zadok and for Abiathar the priests, and for the Levites, for Uriel, Asaiah, and Joel, Shemaiah, and Eliel and Aminadab,

12 And he will say to them, Ye heads of the fathers to the Levites: ye shall purify yourselves, ye and your brethren, and bring ye up the ark of Jehovah the God of Israel to that I prepared for it.

13 For ye not from the first, Jehovah our God broke forth upon us, for we sought him not according to judgment

14 And the priests will purify themselves and the Levites to bring up the ark of Jehovah God of Israel

15 And the sons of the Levites will lift up the ark of God as Moses commanded, according to the word of Jehovah, upon the shoulders, with the rods upon them.

16 And David will say to the chiefs of the Levites to cause their brethren to stand singing with every instrument of song, lyres and harps, and cymbals, causing to hear to lift up with the voice for joy.

17 And the Levites wilt set up He-man son of Joel; and from his brethren, Asaph son of Berechiah; and from the sons of Merari their brethren, Ethan son of Kushaiah;

18 And with them their brethren being second, Zechariah the son, and Jahaziel and Shemiramoth and Jehiel, and Unni, Eliab, and Benaiah. and Maaseiah, and Mattithiah, and Elipheleh, and Mikneiah, and Obed-Edom, Jeiel, gate-keepers.

19 And those singing, Heman, Asaph and Ethan, with cymbals of brass to cause to hear;

20 And Zechariah, and Aziel, and Shemiramoth, and Jehiel, and Unni, and Eliab, and Maaseiah, and Benaiah, with lyres upon Alemoth;

21 And Mattithiah and Elipheleh, and Mikneiah, and Obed-Edom, and Jeiel, and Azaziah, with harps upon the Sheminith to shine.

22 And Chenaniah chief of the, in lifting up, admonished in the lifting up, for he discerning. Levites

23 And Berechiah and Elkanah gate-keepers to the ark

24 And Shebaniah and Jehoshaphat, and Nathaniel, and Amasai, and Zechariah, and Benaiah, and Eliezer the priests, trumpeting with trumpets before the ark of God: and Obed-Edom and Jehiah, gate-keepers to the ark.

25 And David will be, and the old men of Israel and the chiefs of thousands, going to bring up the ark of the covenant of Jehovah from the house of Obed-Edom with joy.

26 And it will be in God's helping the Levites lifting up the ark of the covenant of Jehovah, and they will sacrifice seven bullocks and seven rams.

27 And David being girded with an upper garment of byssus, and all the Levites lifting up the ark and those singing, and Chenaniah the chief of the lifting up of those singing: and upon David an ephod of linen.

28 And all Israel bringing up the ark of the covenant of Jehovah with a signal and with the voice of the horn, and with trumpets and with cymbals causing to hear, and with lyres and harps.

29 And the ark of the covenant of Jehovah will be coming even to the city of David, and Michel daughter of Saul, looking forth from a window, and she will see king David leaping and playing: and she will despise him in her heart.

1 CHRONICLES CHAPTER 16

1 And they will bring the ark of God and set it in the midst of the tent which David stretched out for it: and they will bring near burnt-offerings and peace before God.

2 And David will finish the bringing up of the burnt-offering and the peace, and he will bless the people in the name of Jehovah.

3 And he will divide to every man of Israel from man and even to woman, to each a round of bread, and a measure and cakes.

4 And he will give before the ark of Jehovah from the Levites serving, and for keeping in remembrance, and to confess and to praise to Jehovah God of Israel.

5 Asaph the head, and his second, Zechariah, Jeiel, and Shemiramoth, and Jehiel, and Mattithiah, and Eliab, and Benaiah, and Obed-Edom: and Jeiel with instruments of lyres and harps; and Asaph with trumpets causing to hear;

6 And Benaiah and Jahaziel the priests with trumpets continually before the ark of the covenant of God.

7 In that day thus David gave at the first to confess to Jehovah by the hand of Asaph and his brethren.

8 Confess ye to Jehovah, call upon his name, make known among the peoples his deeds.

9 Sing ye to him, play on the harp to him, speak upon all his wonders.

10 praise ye in his holy name: the heart of those seeking Jehovah shall rejoice.

12 Remember ye his wonders which he did, and his miracles, and the judgments of his mouth;

14 He Jehovah our God; in all the earth his judgments.

17 And he will cause it to stand to Jacob for a law, to Israel a covenant forever,

18 Saying, To thee I will give the land of Canaan, the cord of your inheritance;

19 In your being men of number, as few, and strangers in it.

20 And they will go about from nation to nation, and from kingdom to another people;
